Glenda Boone Memorial Scholarship Established At Murray State Univ.

A perpetual scholarship program in memory of Glenda Boone of Murray has been established to provide assistance for advanced undergraduate Kentucky students planning to become teachers to attend Murray State University.

To be named the Glenda Boone Memorial Scholarship, the award will be supported by a scholarship fund begun by the Sigma Department of the Murray Woman's Club with a gift of $2,500.

Members of that organization have also been involved in formulating scholarship guidelines, along with representatives of the Murray State Alumni Association, which is administering the scholarship program.

Mrs. Boone, who died in April of 1974 at the age of 41, was a 1957 graduate of Murray State and an officer and active member of the Murray Woman's Club. She was also a Sunday School teacher and choir member of the First Christian Church and a leader in the Sigma Department effort to establish a kindergarten program in Murray.

The Sigma Department donation, plus other contributions made to the scholarship fund by February 10, will be matched by an equal amount from the James L. Hurley Challenge Fund at Murray State University.

Interest derived from the base investment will provide scholarships of up to $500 for Kentucky junior and senior students preparing to teach. Preference will be given to students from the Jackson Purchase interested in teaching kindergarten or in the lower elementary grades.

Applicants must have a grade point average of at least 2.75. They will also be considered by the Alumni Association Scholarship Committee on the basis of sincerity of purpose, service to school and community, and recommendation of department chairman or adviser.

A student awarded the scholarship as a junior may reapply for the senior year. If yearly interest exceeds $500, the excess will accrue until additional scholarships of $200 to $500 can be awarded.

Temperatures Returning To Normal As New Winter Storm Heads For Kentucky

Temperatures in Kentucky are returning to normal, but hopes of a reprieve from winter's wrath were dashed today when the National Weather Service issued a winter storm watch for the state.

The forecast called for mostly clear skies today, with increasing cloudiness tonight in advance of an incoming system that developed over the Great Plains.

A combination of rain, freezing rain and snow was forecast for Sunday with temperatures in the 30s.

The extended forecast also included a chance of rain or snow on Monday, with highs through Wednesday generally in the 30s.

The winter storm watch was issued several hours after a preliminary NWS forecast calling for highs into the 40s in some areas with a chance of rain.

In Murray, Mayor John E. Scott has advised residents whose garbage has not been picked up recently to place their garbage containers on the curb and the refuse would be picked up.

"We've asked the sanitation department to continue making pickups," Scott told the Murray Common Council at a special meeting Friday, "and they're running nearly a day behind."

Scott said that because of the snow and ice the city administration has not asked the sanitation workers to go behind peoples' houses to pick up the trash.

"Until the weather breaks and the workers can get to it (garbage behind houses) we're asking everyone to put it (the containers) on the sidewalk or curb," Scott added.

The mayor said that in hardship cases, the workers would continue to pick up the trash from behind the house.

Scott praised the sanitation workers for their efforts during the past week and said that many had worked seven days straight since the cold weather began. He said that street department crews would be assisting in the pickup of garbage from the curbside.

Meanwhile, Alex McLeod, director of the Murray-Calloway County Transit Authority, said that due to the increase in number of calls for transportation, users should call well in advance of their need for transportation, as far ahead as the day before, McLeod said that the system must have at least one hour's notice before providing transportation.

Headstart classes will begin an hour later - at 9:30 a. m. - and dismiss at the regular time - 2 p. m. - in cooperation with the effort to conserve energy in Calloway County. The times will be in effect until Feb. 1 according to Sandra May, director.

Despite the forecast of more precipitation for snow-bound Kentucky, the moderating temperatures were expected to bring some relief to frustrated drivers, shivering pedestrians and the hard-pressed towing industry.

As temperatures climbed Friday, the number of calls decreased to the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services.

"People are more mobile," said on state official. "They're getting out and supplying themselves, and getting help from their local agencies."

Martin Pedigo, a spokesman for the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers at Louisville, said that the warming trend gave towboats the opportunity to navigate the Ohio River more freely.

On Friday, he said, 50 to 100 towboats each pushing an average of 10 barges were "moving sparsely and slowly" on the river between Pittsburgh, Pa. and Cairo, Ill.

"But there's still ice from bank to bank in many places on the river," Pedigo said. "As long as a few tows can get through, it's not completely solid."

However, he said, "there's no question (the thaw) will have a tremendous economic impact on the condition of the river."

"A lot of things aren't being delivered. Some of the fuels which are causing problems at power plants have caused layoffs," Pedigo said. "It probably will be some time before anybody will be able to say exactly how much this thing is going to cost. We're talking about an awful lot of things."

The 981-mile-long river, one of the top five navigable waterways in the world, is a major artery for transportation of such staples as coal and petroleum products, as well as salt for snow-covered highways and other chemicals.

A shortage of blood brought on by the cold weather, which deters donors from traveling to blood-bank headquarters, also appears to have eased.

Audubon Series To Continue On Tuesday, Feb. 1 At MSU

Karl Maslowski will present the world of "A Naturalist Afield" in the fourth in a series of five Audubon Wildlife films set for Tuesday, Feb. 1 at Murray State University.

The series, a study of nature using lectures and films by noted botanists and naturalists, is in its third year on the campus, made possible by the MSU Department of Biological Sciences and the National Audubon Society.

Each of these programs is open to the general public at no admission charge and begins at 7 p. m. in the Student Center Auditorium.

With Maslowski, viewers will travel throughout the seasons and watch the world of nature as it reveals its wonders.

Maslowski has produced films for many organizations including Walt Disney Studios, the National Wildlife Federation, MGM, the Ohio Division of Wildlife, and the Audubon Wildlife Film Lecture Series.

He has filmed subjects in North America and in the Caribbean, East and southern Africa, Finland, and above the Arctic Circle. Part of those travels were a result of a two and one-half year stint with the U. S. Army Air Corps.

Besides filming, he has written a weekly nature column for the Cincinnati Enquirer for over 30 years, worked with the Ohio Division of Conservation, and has lectured at the University of Cincinnati.

The final lecture in the Audubon Series is set for April 27 and entitled "The Bahamas - Top to Bottom," by Harry Pederson.

President Carter Pardons Vietnam Draft Dodgers

WASHINGTON (AP) — Vietnam-era draft evaders can stop worrying and come home, those working for clemency can quit, and the few in prison for breaking the draft law can go free. President Carter has pardoned them.

On his first full day in the White House, Carter fulfilled a campaign promise Friday by issuing a "full, complete and unconditional" pardon to all draft evaders who did not commit acts of violence.

His first order as President affected more than 10,000 evaders known to the Justice Department, and possibly thousands more who, unknown to the government, never registered for the draft.

Some groups claim from 250,000 to 1 million men failed to register and were not discovered during the Vietnam war period.

But Carter's order did not cover the approximately 100,000 men who deserted and either received less than honorable discharges or remain fugitives. The President ordered the Department of Defense to study the possibility of upgrading general discharges. But the White House said no further action is contemplated in the worst cases involving bad conduct or dishonorable discharges.

Carter's action stirred the wrath of veterans' groups and conservatives on Capitol Hill. Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., called it "the most disgraceful thing that a president has ever done."

Critics of the Vietnam war expressed joy mixed with concern that the President did not go far enough.

For Albert Finkley, 24, of Fairhope, Ala., the pardon meant release from the Texarkana, Tex., Federal Correctional Center, where he was sent 11 months ago for failing to report for the draft in 1972. Finkley told the warden he was flabbergasted that he was released so quickly.

The Justice Department said there were at least four others in jail for evading the draft. It is reviewing prison records to determine if there are more.

A department spokesman said those affected by the pardon included:

—8,700 who were convicted of draft violations or pleaded guilty.

—1,800 who are fugitives, including about 1,300 in Canada, 300 in other countries, and 200 whose whereabouts are unknown.

Carter's proclamation instructed the Justice Department to drop charges against 2,700 men under indictment on draft charges, including many of the fugitives.

The pardon applied to all draft offenses committed between Aug. 4, 1964 — the time of the Tonkin Gulf incident — and March 28, 1973, after the U.S. pullout and Hanoi's release of American POWs.

Carter's pardon means anyone who fled the country to avoid the draft can come home without fear of prosecution. Those who gave up their citizenship after fleeing can return, but only under alien status.

The Justice Department is working on a system to notify those known to be pardoned, the spokesman said.

In addition to excluding draft evaders who engaged in violence, Carter's pardon specifically left out any employees of the Selective Service System who violated the law by selling draft deferments or otherwise.

Carter's order said the pardon covers any draft evaders who were performing alternative service to qualify for former President Ford's limited clemency program. That means they can quit their jobs.

Ford's clemency program attracted only 21,237 of the 106,000 eligible persons, according to government figures. Some 93,000 of them were deserters who received less than honorable discharges.

The Pentagon says 4,500 deserters are still at large.

Ford, in one of his last acts as president, on Wednesday ruled out a blanket amnesty for deserters and draft evaders, but instructed the Pentagon to review and upgrade discharges other than honorable for wounded and decorated veterans.

Carter's pardon specifies that the government "forever give up its right to prosecute" the draft evaders.

Driver Testing To Resume Wednesday

Frances Shea, Calloway County Circuit Court Clerk, said that the driving tests for drivers' licenses will resume on Wednesday at 8:00 a. m. unless severe weather conditions occur.

The tests will be given Wednesday promptly at 8:00 a. m. and on Thursday promptly at 8:00 a. m. and 1:00 p. m., according to Mrs. Shea. The two days of tests are scheduled due to the examinations not being given for the past three weeks due to the condition of the streets.

Mrs. Shea said the written tests for the drivers' licenses will be given Wednesday promptly at 1:00 p. m. Even during the adverse weather conditions, the office has continued to give the written tests, Mrs. Shea added.

The clerk said if more snow or icy conditions occur, persons may call the office at 753-2714 or her home at 436-2402 to check the schedule for the road driving tests.

Hunter Defends the Right to Kill

By Abigail Van Buren
© 1976 by Chicago Tribune-H. V. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: May I say something in behalf of hunting? Hunters have been lied about, framed and given a bad name in recent years. I am an avid hunter, and I know that America's legal hunters are doing our wildlife a great favor. I am not referring to poachers or "sport" hunters, who kill the animal painfully, then leave it to die. Our wildlife herds need to be thinned. Leave a deer herd of 40 alone, and it will multiply until there is not enough food for all. Many deer will die slowly and horribly, rather than quickly from the clean shot of a skilled hunter. The same goes for animals that are not eaten. They need to be thinned, too. And by the way, Abby, what are these animals there for in the first place?

MONTANA HUNTER

DEAR MONTANA: Considering the way people are decimated—by wars, overpopulation and disease—might one ask what people are "there for in the first place?" Any ideas?

DEAR ABBY: I have a problem that is worrying me terribly because I am a very sensitive person.

My boyfriend whom I love very much has just told me why he has avoided kissing me lately. (I noticed that he had, but I didn't want to ask him why.)

He said he hated to hurt my feelings, then he blurted out that he thinks my tongue is too big, and it feels "rough" to the touch. I was crushed, but didn't respond. I just held myself together, then I cried my heart out after he left. Abby, is there any way to reduce the size of my tongue and make it smooth?

I am 25 and am dieting strenuously, hoping I will lose weight in my tongue, too. But what about the roughness? UNKISSED

DEAR UNKISSED: Your boyfriend's reason for avoiding your kisses sounds pretty weird to me. It would be easier by far to find another boyfriend than to alter the size and surface of your tongue. If I were you, I'd lose this kook.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 66-year-old man who has been singing professionally since age 7. (My father was a famous singer.)

Over the years I have sung and lectured in just about every type of church you can name. This exposure has given me a fairly good education as to what kind of people attend church but why they attend still puzzles me.

During the '60s, I visited over 300 churches. On my own I conducted a survey containing one question that could be answered voluntarily (and would be kept confidential): "Why do you attend church?"

The response was both revealing and surprising. More than 50 per cent wrote: "Because it's the thing to do." Less than 1 per cent mentioned anything about worshipping.

I am presently completing the second year of a three-year survey on the hospitality (or the lack of it) in churches.

To date, of the 195 churches I have visited, I was spoken to only once by someone other than an official "greeter"—and that was to ask me to please move my feet. Sincerely,

JOHN CHARLES THOMAS, JR., Ph.D.

DEAR DR. THOMAS: I find your survey discouraging, but fascinating.

When you complete your three-year survey on hospitality (or the lack of it) in churches, please send it to me, and I'll share it with my readers.

Hate to write letters? Send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212, for Abby's booklet "How to Write Letters for All Occasions." Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (24¢) envelope.

The Human Element-

it makes a difference in power bills

A lot of company? You cook more; you burn more lights; you use more hot water. You're using more electricity.

A new baby in the house? You're probably keeping your home warmer than before; you're using the washer and dryer more. You're using more electricity.

In short, more people in a house usually means more electricity used, and the individual habits of each person also make a difference. Opening and closing outside doors. Taking long showers or letting hot water flood down the drain while shaving. Forgetting to turn off lights and appliances.

All of this adds up. It's called the human element. And it does make a big difference in power bills.

A Salute To The Jaycees

We would like to pause during this week, National Jaycee Week, to offer a salute to the Murray-Calloway County Jaycees.

In recent months the local Jaycee chapter has been involved in numerous projects. They annually sponsor the Calloway County Fair in conjunction with the Fair Board. They assist in sponsoring the Special Winter Olympics held annually at Murray State University.

The Murray chapter has earned the ranking as the number one chapter in the region and the number four chapter in Kentucky Jaycees. The local chapter has grown in size from a membership of 53 to 82 during 1976-77.

The Outstanding Young Farmer of Kentucky this past year, Danny Cunningham, was sponsored by the Murray Jaycees and the Fair Queen, Kathie Branch, was second runnerup in state competition.

The local chapter also contributed a work day in which 23 members participated to the Kentucky Sheriff's Boys ranch.

The Murray Jaycees also sponsor a Halloween safety program, provides a scholarship, delivers food baskets to needy families at Christmastime; sponsors the Murray High School football banquet and annually recognizes outstanding residents of the local area.

Progress is people helping to build a new day — and the Jaycees are right in the forefront — serving the community, looking for better ways to aim for a better future and improve the quality of life — for each and every one of us.

Let's honor all of these young people for the fine job they're doing. We're truly fortunate to have them.

Short says close relationship needed between state-private sector

"We need to forge a good close working relationship between state government and the private sector in order to guide Kentucky's economic growth,"

Those are words used by Development Secretary William L. Short to describe the theme of a series of speeches on Kentucky's economic development he has delivered recently in Louisville, Lexington and Bowling Green.

"We in the rarefied air of Frankfort need the input and talent of the private sector to meet our goals for future economic development in the Commonwealth," Short said.

"And to provide the needed input from the private sector, Governor Carroll has named 1,000 citizens from all parts of Kentucky to serve on five task forces," Short explained.

"These task forces are working in the five major areas of economic development — industrial, energy, agriculture and tourism. These Kentuckians are leaders in their fields and will be a great benefit to us in planning economic development.

"We are trying to look down the road in terms of economic growth. And federal government figures indicate that 20 to 25 per cent of new investments in the next 25 years will come from foreign sources.

"Kentucky already has taken a major step in developing international trade with the establishment of a commerce and tourism development office in Brussels, Belgium."

Short predicted that results of the international trade effort will be seen soon — especially from West Germany and Japan. He said a "sound, solid base for trade" was laid down during recent trips to Japan and Europe by state officials and business leaders headed by Governor Carroll.

In addition to industrial development, Short said, new programs are being developed in agriculture and tourism.

"Tom Harris as agriculture commissioner is working hard to develop foreign markets for our farm products," Short said. "And the establishment of the Brussels office also will give us a new potential to attract European tourists in Kentucky."

Vernon says state frontrunner with overseas tourist promotion

With the establishment of an overseas tourism promotion office, Kentucky now is the frontrunner in international tourism development, said James C. Vernon, Commissioner of Public Information.

About 25 other states maintain European commerce development offices, but Kentucky is the first state to establish an office aimed specifically at tourism development.

The overseas tourism office is part of the Department of Commerce's Brussels, Belgium, office set up recently to encourage European business and industry to consider doing business with Kentucky.

Lexington native Jamison Denny heads the tourism development office and John Novotny is in charge of commerce development.

"Denny and Novotny will compliment each other and should be a forceful team for Kentucky," Vernon said. "In the long run the dollar amount generated by commerce's efforts will far exceed tourism dollars, but that tourism dollar will be a steady, constant flow. Together the two programs should be a great boon to the state," Vernon added. In a 20-day period, Vernon said, Kentucky's initial European newspaper and magazine advertisements brought 465 requests for more information.

"An even stronger indication of interest in Kentucky is the obvious attention shown by the United States Travel Service, which approved a $15,000 initial advertising grant for Kentucky. And although we have not been officially notified of the dollar amount, the U. S. Travel Service has said we will receive the largest tourism advertising grant in the United States this year," Vernon said.

Vernon said European interest in Kentucky was stimulated by Governor Julian Carroll's recent trip to Europe with other state officials and Kentucky businessmen to open the Brussels office.

David King and Gil Mathis had a "fantastic hunt" last week just north of Turkey Bay on Kentucky Lake. Piling snow on their blind enabled them to call in ducks and geese within 10-15 feet of the blind. David called in 27 geese off the ice which came in and landed in single file among the goose decoys. Dave and Gil hunted the only open water which was near the shore. They went home with 2 geese and their limits of ducks.

Tall Tales For Fishermen And Other Fibbers

Rudy Kushion, Jr., of Long Beach, Calif. at long last reveals the true reason why lake trout disappeared from Lake Superior.

"I'm sure you'll remember reading during the 50's how the sea lamprey destroyed the Lake Superior trout. Well, that isn't quite true. To ease my conscience, I'll tell you what did happen."

"On my fishing trip to Lake Superior, I had to drive through the Great Plains of the Midwest. Here I saw and caught the biggest grasshopper anyone has ever seen. I had been told to expect some big trout and to use big bait."

"Well, on the first morning out, I started to bait up using this large grasshopper and he got away. The grasshopper landed in the lake and, before you knew it, fish were everywhere. But every time one of them snapped at the grasshopper, he just kicked them out of the lake. He cleaned the lake of fish."

"Needless to say, I didn't catch the grasshopper. But I did catch my limit of fish on the fly."

A French Canadian guide introduced "Honest Ed" Petrashek of Rock Falls, Ill. to the technique of "banana fishing" after Ed had no success using conventional methods. First the guide stopped at a roadside stand and purchased bananas. Then they proceeded to a Quebec lake.

"Soon," Ed tells us, "a large hatch of flies hatched out and started to fly over the lake. The fish began jumping two and three feet out of the water. I was to watch the fish, row over to the spot quickly, and the old-timer would shove a banana into the hole so the fish couldn't get back in the water."

The hatch lasted about 45 minutes and then the fish stopped jumping. So we rowed around and picked up all the stranded ones on top of the water. We lost several of the nicest ones due to the fact that the bananas were very small that year."

Tommy Grimes Stetson

Flat-brimmed Stetson

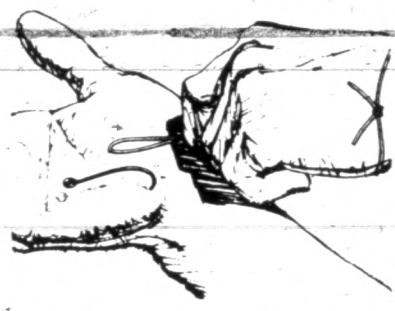

Born in 1830, John B. Stetson was the son of a master hat maker. He learned the craft at an early age, but found little room in his father's company to work; his older brothers were firmly established before him. With very delicate health and in need of a change in climate, and no job to hold him, he decided to go West. He found and joined a party headed for Pike's Peak. Although they traveled on foot and slept out in the open, the hardships of the trail seemed to improve his health as he went.

It was with this party that Stetson began his lifetime career. He often made a "hatter's" cloth from rabbit skin to make shelters against the weather. One day, while talking about outdoor clothes with his companions, he took some of this material and made himself a hat. Unknowingly, he captured the essence of the new and wild country around him, and began the ever-popular line of Stetson hats. It was big and high crowned with a wide brim to protect the wearer from sun, wind and rain. Unexpectedly a passing plainsman, who had wandered into camp, saw the practical hat, recognized its uniqueness and bought it for a $5 gold piece.

So at age 35, with $100 from placer-mining gold at Pike's Peak, he went back East to make a business of his new hat styles. His hats became the symbol of the West and today span the entire globe in popularity.

A cowboy could slap a lagging steer with it, water his horse from it, fan his campfire and make his pillow from it. Many models developed, and many a celebrity chose his own style—Buffalo Bill, Will Rogers and Annie Oakley wore them. James Arness (Matt of TV's Dodge City) wears one. The Texas Rangers and Canadian Mounted Police sported them. Today ranchers, oilmen and sportsmen each select their own style.—Laurent E. Beaucage, Lewiston, Maine.

Story and Photographs by Butch Groer

Approaching the Eggner's Ferry Bridge at dawn was an exhilarating experience. A golden sun lit up orange and red clouds as it peered through the icy-cold lake wind.

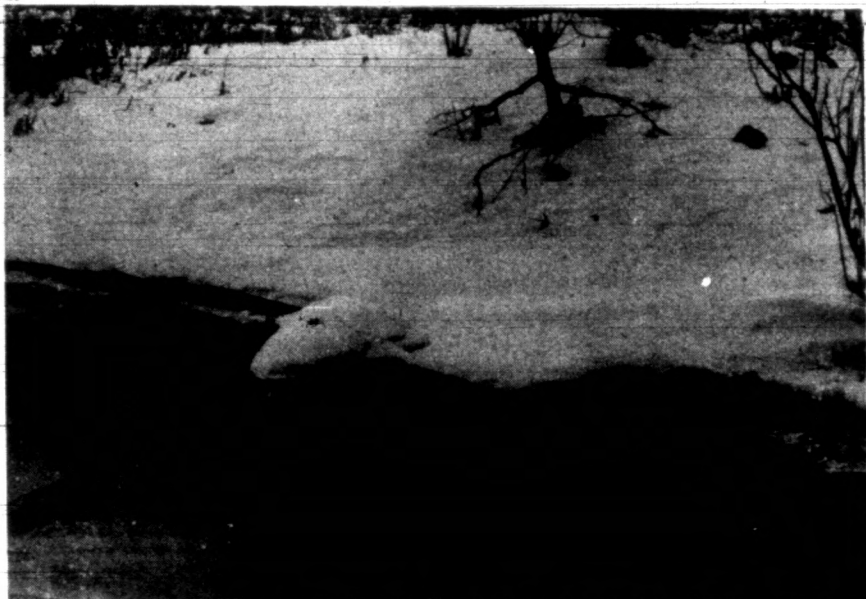

A variety of birds nests could easily be spotted in the winter scenery. Most had a roof of snow as did this one.

After checking the back-road conditions with TVA patrolman Louie Massey our journey continued south on Hwy. 453 (The Trace). The slow drive on the icy road gave us time to look into the woods and see the "hills and hollows" in a way not usually observed. The snow enhanced the contour of the land.

A Winter Day Hike At Land Between The Lakes

We found beauty in the sculptured ice and snow around this pool of water.

Not many people would have the opportunity or the inclination even, to get out and observe the wintery out-of-doors as did John Bramel and I last weekend. John had just returned from a scenic Red River Gorge venture with Dewey Yates and Ed Fenton. His mere mention of that trip stirred me and prompted our trip to Land Between The Lakes in the crunchy snow.

A day off from a normally hectic schedule turned out to be a truly relaxing experience despite a four mile hike in 3 degree weather. I was really thankful for the "warm" weather after hearing of the 5 degree below zero weather John's group had the night they camped during their backpack trip through the Gorge. I thought I understood him to say they stayed at a motel the next night.

Dressed in warm clothes and manned with our cameras and a spotting scope we took to the woods to breathe the brisk fresh air and to observe the winter beauty nature had to offer.

We had hopes of finding some bald eagles in the coves of Kentucky Lake but eventually decided that they went wherever else eagles go on cold wintery days.

There was very little wildlife activities other than the birds. We did jump up 3 whitetail deer.

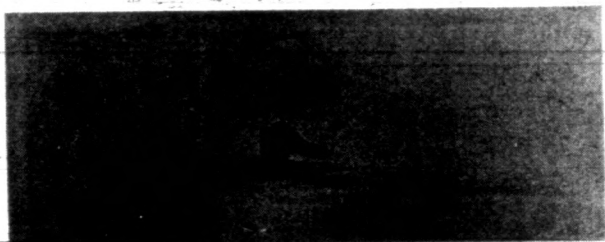

When we first reached the lake we felt a cutting wind that must have had a chill factor of 20 below zero. After snapping some photographs we turned back toward the direction of the truck and found a snow front moving in on us. Our trip back to the truck was a pleasant one in the light falling snow.

High winds and 12-15 feet high billows of fog jetted down Kentucky Lake making us fully aware of a wind chill near 20 below zero.

John and I made a special trip to see the buffalo herd near old Model, Tennessee at LBL. We were fortunate to find the herd close to the pen fence not far from a feeding station. Unlike cattle, these hearty buffalo are capable of foraging through the snow, but TVA supplements their diet with generous quantities of hay. Adorned with a thick and wooley, winter coat this 2000 pound herd bull was a magnificent sight on the 3 degree day.

Here is a duck decoy they couldn't get. It was left by the duck hunters who were "going to the house" as we reached the lake.

We didn't see many deer but their tracks were numerous. Foxes, squirrels, geese, rabbits and turkeys eluded our watchful eyes but we saw their tell-tale tracks in the snow.

An enormous, 15 inch male pileated woodpecker gave us a special photographic treat. After several previous attempts to capture this bird on film, a crisp winter-day-trip finally paid off. This white, black and red woodpecker is the very bird cartoonist Walter Lance modeled his "Woody Woodpecker" after. With a little imagination Woody's call is even similar to the pileated's.

A pair of swans seemed undaunted by our presence at the back end of Hematite Lake. Our tracks on the 1/2 mile foot-trail were only preceded by the footsteps of an apparent TVA worker who carried in a bucket of corn for the swans.

Lakers Go To 10-6, Defeat Fancy Farm

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

So you think the weather is strange? There was a basketball game played Friday night in the Murray State Sports Arena that would make the weather seem about as strange as a lecture on covered wagons.

Two games had already been played. The Calloway County girls' team had won an easy game over Fancy Farm and the Laker jayvees had routed the Gophers in the preliminary.

And since best things always seem to come last, things held true to form. Calloway County won the game over Fancy Farm 86-72.

But you'd have to take a long ride before you could find a crazier game anywhere.

At the end of the first quarter, Calloway was rolling along with a 25-11 lead and people were already beginning to feel sorry for Fancy Farm.

Late in the first half, Calloway led 48-27 and people were feeling even sorrier for Fancy Farm.

Then funny things begin to happen, only nobody from Calloway County was doing much laughing.

Fancy Farm began to whittle away at the lead like a bunch of people on the courthouse benches on Saturday morning.

And before anyone knew what had happened, the "laughter" was suddenly a 64-63 game early in the fourth period with the Lakers leading by the skin of their teeth, which were nearly knocked out because it was such a physical game.

"I never once thought we'd lose the game," Laker coach Robert Sloane said.

"I was worried, naturally, but our kids were mad and frustrated because they weren't able to put the game away."

Senior guard Tommy Futrell, who had sat out most of the third quarter because of foul trouble, threw in one of his patented bombs to make it 66-63. A free throw by Glen Olive upped the lead to five before Mike Wells' three-point play made it 70-63.

Fancy Farm pulled to within six at 72-66 but in the final minutes, the Lakers pushed the final margin on out.

"When we got to within one point, Steve Elliot missed two or three tips. Then when we were within six points, we tried to draw a charging foul on Futrell. We thought we had it but they called the foul on our player," Fancy Farm coach Joe Mikez said.

"Elliot missed three one-plus free throws in the game and he's our best free throw shooter."

"There's just no excuse for what we did in the first half. We broke the press in the second half and we should have broken it in the first half," Mikez added. The press literally destroyed the Gophers in the first half. They committed 18 turnovers. In the rest of the game, they made only six more.

Another thing that killed the Gophers was 6-3 Laker senior forward Mike Wells. Wells, who hurt the Gophers several times on the press, had 19 points at intermission and finished with a game-high 32.

"It was a big thrill for our kids to play at Murray State," Mikez said.

"Fancy Farm hasn't played at Murray State since 1959. That may have been part of the reason we were so dead in the first quarter," Mikez added.

One reason for the Fancy Farm comeback was the fact Futrell was in foul trouble in the third period as was Olive.

Futrell and Olive are the two mainstays on the press and for much of the second half, the Lakers did not press. Then in the final two minutes, junior forward Jimmy Lamb exited with five fouls.

When Futrell came back in, things began to change as the Lakers once again got the momentum going.

"Futrell is explosive. That's about all you can say about him. He gives everything he has," Mikez said.

Futrell finished with 23 points for the Lakers and Lamb rounded out the twin figure scoring by adding 10.

For Fancy Farm, now 6-7 on the season, Steve Elliot fired in 25 points.

"We were too relaxed. Even though I tried to warn our kids about this before the game and at halftime, we were just too relaxed. Our kids had it fixed in their minds that it would be an easy game and I must admit, I was fooled too."

"After our win over Marshall County Tuesday, I knew we'd probably have a letdown. We were in practice Thursday and didn't even know then that we were going to be playing Fancy Farm. We really didn't have any time to prepare for them," Sloane added.

The win leaves the Lakers with a 10-6 season record.

Tonight, Calloway will get a rugged test as they visit Lowes, regarded as one of the top teams in the Region and of course, almost unbeatable on their own floor.

Iowa State Trying To Sell Football Stadium At A Bargain

AMES, Iowa (AP) — If you've always wanted to own a place where you could invite 36,000 of your friends to spend the afternoon, Iowa State University is selling just the item for you — its old football stadium.

You might be able to pick it up for as little as $1.

The catch is that picking it up is literally what you'll have to do — first dismantle the arena, then transport the parts, store them and reassemble them.

"It's like a jigsaw," said John Pace, ISU's director of space and scheduling. "We ran ads about six months ago in several national school journals and we had about 20 schools express some interest," he said.

"But their interest died fast," he added. "After they studied it, they found it would be cheaper to build a new stadium."

But that would have cost an estimated $200,000, and the school is trying to find a less expensive way to get rid of the stadium.

Right now it's being used only for storage and to house part of the music department.

"We can't just give it away," said Pace. "State law requires sealed bids on items worth $1,000 or more."

He said he hoped that if potential buyers knew they might be able to get the stadium for a dollar, a few might start bidding.

Foreman Favored To Beat Agasto Today

By ED SCHUYLER JR.
AP Sports Writer

PENSACOLA, Fla. (AP) — When I go to a town, I do it to take care of business," says George Foreman, who enjoys the solitude of his ranch in Marshall, Tex.

The former heavyweight champion was an overwhelming favorite to clean up his business in this Florida panhandle city in winning fashion today against Pedro Agasto in a bout scheduled for 10 rounds.

The fight at the 3,500-seat Pensacola Municipal Auditorium was televised live on ABC's Wide World of Sports beginning at 4:30 p.m. CST.

Foreman opened business here last Sunday as an ABC commentator for a nationally televised boxing show from the flight deck of the USS Lexington.

"I thought it was a good show," Foreman said. He believes the U. S. Boxing Championships Tournament, of which the shipboard fights were a part, will help the sport. He does not believe Muhammad Ali is the savior of boxing.

The fight against Agasto was part of Foreman's plan to keep active until he can land a rematch with Ali, to whom he lost the title Oct. 30, 1974. The 28-year-old Foreman, who has a 44-1 record with 41 knockouts, closed out 1976 by stopping Dino Dennis in four rounds Oct. 15 and has a fight scheduled against contender Jimmy Young March 17 at Landover, Md.

Foreman's purse Saturday was $250,000 while Agasto received $15,000 plus expenses — which was three times greater than any of his previous purses.

The 28-year-old Puerto Rican, 203 pounds, 23 lighter than Foreman, went into the fight with a 26-6-1 record but with only four bouts since 1973, of which two were decision losses and one was a draw.

Agasto's previous best-known opponent was former champion Floyd Patterson, who stopped the Oradell, N.J., resident in six rounds in 1972.

Hudson Scores 32 As Atlanta Wins

By The Associated Press

Lou Hudson simply refuses to act his age.

"Being around young people helps me physically," says the veteran guard of the Atlanta Hawks. "I'm 32 years old and I'm expected to do the things they do."

Hudson not only does as well as the younger players, he sometimes does better. Like Friday night, when he scored 39 points, leading the Hawks to a 121-101 National Basketball Association victory over the Milwaukee Bucks.

"We were up for this game," said Hudson, "and got off to a good start. Everybody got involved."

Fortunately for Atlanta, Hudson was one of them.

"Lou had a great shooting night," noted Hawks Coach Hubie Brown. "A lot of it came on the break..."

In other NBA games, the Boston Celtics beat the San Antonio Spurs 103-90; the Detroit Pistons stopped the Houston Rockets 109-86; the Washington Bullets beat the New York Nets 99-88; the Chicago Bulls smashed the Buffalo Braves 110-89; the Phoenix Suns defeated the Indiana Pacers 125-96; the Denver Nuggets defeated the Seattle SuperSonics 120-106, and the Los Angeles Lakers trimmed the New York Knicks 108-94.

"We didn't play a really strong game," said Milwaukee Coach Don Nelson. "We didn't shoot well enough. We got beat pretty bad on the boards."

The Hawks had 40 rebounds to 23 for the Bucks and outshot Milwaukee 61 per cent to 42.

Celtics 103, Spurs 90

Jo Jo White scored 28 points and John Havlicek 25 as Boston rallied in the second half and beat San Antonio. The Celtics led 76-73 at the start of the fourth quarter, but behind Havlicek and White, the Celtics gradually built their lead. Boston led 93-86, then ran off 10 straight points, including six by White, putting the game away.

Pistons 109, Rockets 86
Ignited by Kevin Porter's basket, Detroit broke loose with a 31-10 spurt in the first half and went on to clip Houston. Detroit never trailed after a basket by Porter broke a 28-28 tie with three minutes left in the first period, moving to a 59-38 halftime advantage.

Injury-Plagued Laker Girls Take 44-32 Win Over Gophers

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor
It's good to be playing humans again.

After running into a group of Marshall County girls who shot like precision machines Tuesday night, the Calloway County girls' basketball team ran into Fancy Farm Friday in the Murray Sports Arena. The result was a 44-32 victory which sent the season record for the Laker girls to 5-3.

"We stopped their outside shooting," Laker coach Marianne Davis said.

After the Marshall County game Tuesday, we learned a lesson," Davis added.

Not only did the Laker girls stop the Gophers from outside but Calloway also did a pretty good job in cutting off the middle too. As a result, it was more of a defensive game than it was an offensive contest.

Almost four minutes passed before Jeannie Harris of Fancy Farm hit a pair of free throws to put the first points of the game on the board.

Calloway came back with six consecutive points, four by guard Susie Imes, and led 6-2 before Fancy Farm scored the final four points of the quarter to knot the count at six apiece.

In the second period, there were ties at 8, 10, 12 and 14 before Critter McKenzie hit two free throws with 2:38 left in the half to put the Lakers on top 16-14.

Imes hit a field goal with 21 seconds remaining to make it a four-point lead then at the buzzer, Imes was fouled and hit two free throws after everyone else had left the court and Calloway held a 20-14 lead at intermission.

In the opening seconds of the third period, Critter McKenzie and Lisa Painter of the Gophers traded baskets and it was still a six-point lead for the Lakers.

But over the next seven minutes, Fancy Farm did not manage a basket.

By the time Mimi Winchester scored a layup with 55 seconds left in the period, the Laker girls were coasting along with a 28-17 lead.

Once in the final period, the Gophers whittled the lead down to eight points but that was as close as they could get for the rest of the evening.

Several times late in the game, Calloway led by as much as 12 points.

Perhaps the most impressive thing about the game was the way the Laker reserves performed in the final minutes. They ran the offense very well, played good defense and showed a lot of promise.

"I was really proud of my freshman kids," Penny

Overbey, Mary Waggener, Kim Willie, Monty Wilson and Melissa Miller," said Coach Davis.

For the Lakers, Imes managed to fire in 12 points, many coming off the fast-break. Critter McKenzie added eight points, including three long set shots that hit nothing but net.

"I thought Marilyn McKenzie kept us in the game," Davis said.

She had 42 rebounds and she really had to work for every one of them.

Another key for the Laker girls was the performance of Winchester.

She did a fantastic job. She accepted the fact Kuse Ross wouldn't be able to play very much because of her injury and Mimi really helped to key our team.

Also, I thought Kim Willie did an outstanding job as did Stephanie Wyatt. Stephanie was hitting well from the field but then her ankle began to bother her and we had to save her.

"We looked a whole lot better overall. Our defense worked well and we hit the basket a little better than we did Tuesday against Marshall County.

"Our girls really wanted to play. They wanted to prove to everybody that they hadn't lost it," Davis added.

Besides Ross and Wyatt, the Lakers had another player hurt. Freshman forward Mina Todd, who has been tough on the boards all season for the Lakers, injured an ankle in practice and didn't even suit up for the game.

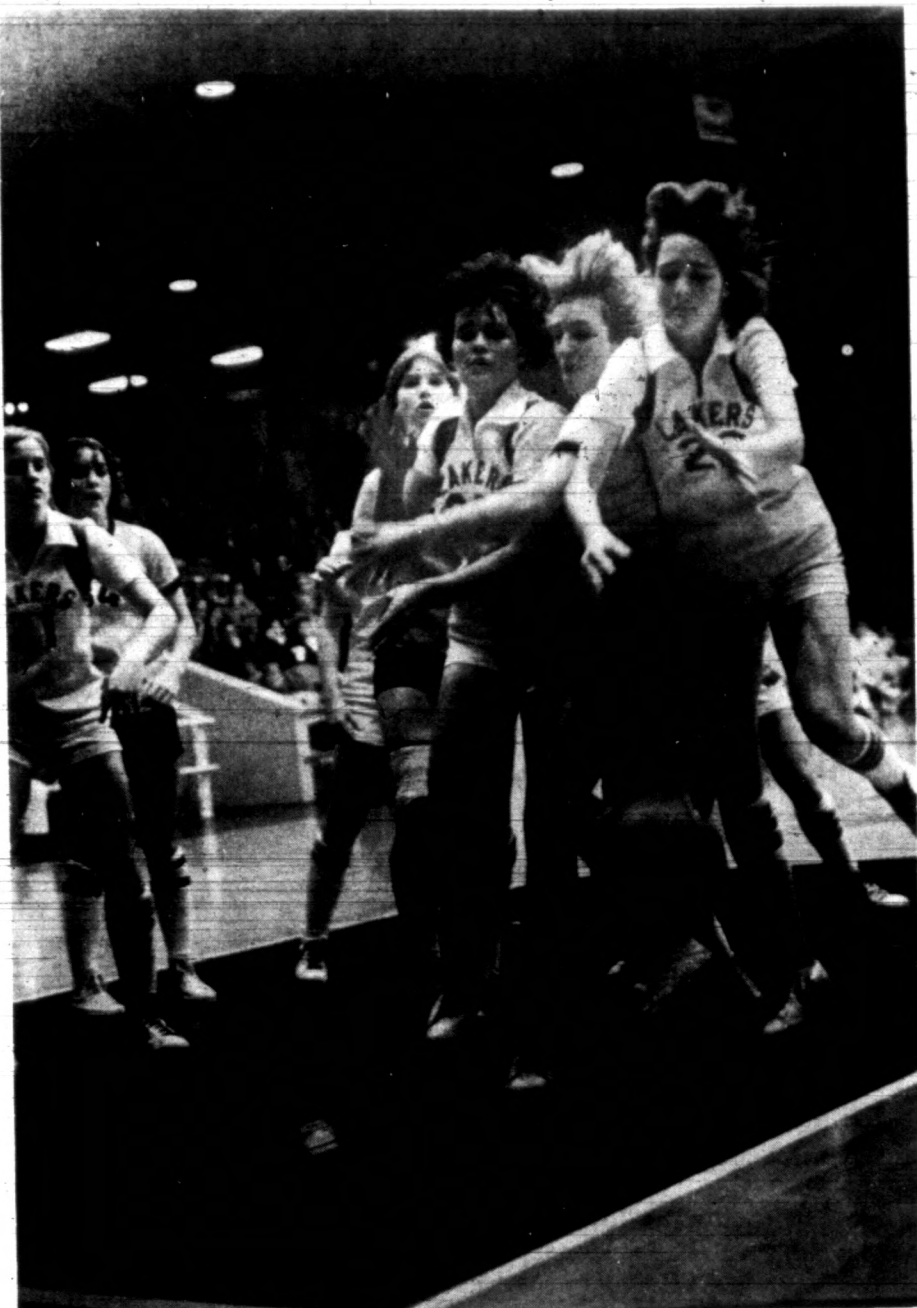

The going will get much tougher for the Lakers tonight as they go on the road to take on a very talented Lowes club. Next week, the Laker girls play at Trigg County Thursday.

Ford-Palmer Team May Miss Cut In Crosby's Clambake

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer

PEBBLE BEACH, Calif. (AP) — Gerald Ford, just like most newcomers on the Tour, faced the unhappy probability of missing the cut today while Victor Regalado took an uncertain lead into the third round of the Bing Crosby National Pro-Am golf tournament.

Ford, in his first full day as a former President, played as Arnold Palmer's 18-handicap amateur partner Thursday in the second round of this unique, confused and confusing event. "He played pretty well considering he hasn't had a golf club in his hand for three months," Palmer said.

The former president hit a number of shots into the vast, swarming, cheering crowd, and once asked "Did anybody get bruised?" He topped them and he shanked them. He shot somewhere in the upper 90's but wasn't required to putt out on every hole.

But still he helped Arnold three strokes in the pro-am section of this competition. They stand at 142, one under par and almost certain to miss the cut for the final round Sunday. The field of 168 pro-amateur teams will be trimmed to the low 30 for that last round. Ford and Palmer would have to shoot in the 50's to make it. They combined for a 69 in the better-ball competition, including the amateur's handicap, on the short, par-71 Shore course at the Monterey Peninsula Country Club in the second round.

It was that course, new to the three-course competition, and its par of 71 that threw the leadership of the individual section of the tournament into vast confusion.

On the surface, Regalado's 134 total was the lead and Victor, from Tijuana, Mexico, happily chortled "Lee Trevino's sick (bad back), so somebody has to be low Mexican."

But that's only on the surface.

Victor, a one-time winner in four years on the Tour, chipped in twice on his way to a 67 at Pebble Beach. His first round, however, was at the par 71 Shore course so he stands at nine under par.

Lee Elder, with a brilliant 66, and Tom Watson, with a 69, had scores of 135 after playing Pebble Beach and Cypress Point. That's also nine under par, since both Pebble and Cypress are very tough par 72s.

England's Tony Jacklin, a former U.S. and British Open champion fighting his way out of a deep, dismal slump, added to the confusion. He also was at 135—the same score as Elder and Watson—but was only eight under par, having played the same courses as Regalado.

Bill Rogers, with a 68, was alone at 136, followed by Australian veteran Bruce Devlin 68-137.

Jack Nicklaus faltered for 31 on his back nine and a 69 that left him in good shape at 138, only four strokes back.

The Energy Miser

HEAT PUMP

"...conserves energy like nothing else..."

The heat pump is a central heating and cooling system. It cools like any other central air-conditioning system, but it also is the most efficient heating system you can buy.

In order to understand why it is such an efficient heating system you must remember that there is some heat in even the coldest outside air. The heat pump, as its name implies, extracts this heat and pumps it into your home. During the heating season in the TVA area, one unit of electrical energy used to power the heat pump will provide approximately two units of energy in the form of heat. The heat pump itself doesn't really produce heat, but moves it from the outside to the inside of your home. During the summer it reverses the cycle and removes the heat from inside your home just like a conventional air conditioner.

Special Sessions Planned Here At Maranatha Christian Center

"Human existence -vs- The Transforming power of Jesus Christ in a Life," is one of the statements that Bob Summers will be discussing at the Maranatha Christian Center, January 24 and 25. Both sessions will begin at 7:30 p.m.

Summers graduated from Sam Houston State University and then began a special teaching project in the ghetto to help young people. This project in the ghetto called "Operation Wastebasket" was the subject of Summers' first book, "Me The Flunkie," now a forthcoming movie.

The speaker entered fulltime Christian service in 1969, and since that time has held seminars and spoken all across America. His other published works include "Jesus Christ University," "The Schools of Discipleship," "Outback with Jesus," "Young Lions of Judah," as well as many articles in major Christian journals.

Currently, Summers publishes his own back to basics, Christian journal, "New Earth," a magazine for young Christians.

A third phase of his ministry is Wildwood School - a short term, crash course, school of Bible and evangelism, that also offers basic vocational training to its students. The school is in a resort area of the Texas Hill Country.

For further information concerning the sessions with Summers persons may call 753-6666.

Let's Stay Well

Blood Pressure and Sexual Desire

By F.J.L. Blasinger, M.D.

Q: Mr. B.B., age 45, writes that, while he does not want to appear to be a braggart, he has regarded his sexual drive to be first rate. All was well until recently, when he was put on a medicine for high blood pressure. After a few weeks of treatment, his sex life "went to sleep." He says that he has no symptoms from his high blood pressure, and he would rather leave it alone than suffer these consequences.

A: Unfortunately, blood pressure elevation of the level you mention (155-160) is significant and can lead to complications -- even to premature death -- if not treated. Such complications included heart attack (coronary occlusion), heart failure, stroke or kidney failure. These cannot possibly be avoided or postponed if your blood pressure goes untreated.

Even though you are not having symptoms, the high blood pressure takes its toll. Your blood pressure elevation will persist without treatment and probably will grow worse.

tions reduce sexual desires. Since several medicines are effective against hypertension, it is likely that your physician can find one or more that you can take without significant damage to your libido. You should discuss your problem frankly with your physician so that he can adjust your medicine to enable you to have an adequate sex life and a blood pressure that is normal.

Infant Toilet Habits

Q: Mrs. D.P., who is a young and inexperienced mother, asks when her baby is likely to have good toilet habits established.

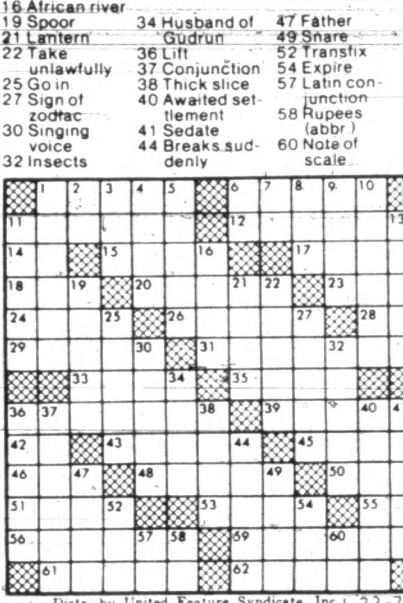

A: Bowel habits are often established by the end of 18 months. Sometimes good habits are attained a few months earlier, especially if training is started soon after the child is able to sit up.

Bladder habits come more slowly. Usually, daytime bladder functions are acquired by age 3. Night control may be later, especially if the child is a heavy sleeper.

Expect a slip-up from time to time. Variations on the above are common.

Advertising... a vote of confidence in business.

(or how to tell the leaders without a scorecard.)

Recently there has been a lot of talk about upturns, downturns, and sideturns in business and industry.

You ask a man these days how the "outlook" appears to him, and you're liable to get a diagonal reply. Not a straight up-and-down nod. Not even a negative, sideways shake of the head.

Mostly the diagonal approach. It doesn't mean yes, business is going up. It doesn't mean no, it isn't.

The answer you frequently get is we'll wait and see. Inflation and some of the other unrests, you know.

So the man and his company pull their horns in.

They wait for someone else to "take the lead," they say: No sense sticking our heads out until the situation "improves" itself.

In other words, sure we'll advertise -- or restore our budgets -- just as soon as we get more business.

Beautiful.

Everyone hangs around and waits for everything to happen automatically. Hold up. Cut back. Wait. The Prosperity Wagon is right around the corner. And it's going to come to me, old friend, me. Without me going out to get it.

Want to bet?

One thing about this economy of ours has never changed. A lack of confidence in our business system, manifested across business, only inspires more of the same. With the result that that wagon may be farther down the block than you think.

Business activity stimulates business.

Advertising helps you get sales.

Companies, agencies and media that advertise should be the ones you do business with, because we suspect you'd rather do business with confident people.

They take the time, trouble and money to inform you -- to help you know more -- about their products, their services and their markets. They care enough about you to go out of their way to tell you they want to do business with you.

We suspect that when the chips are down, this is how you can tell the real leaders.

They get our vote.

They also should get yours. If for no other reason than they are helping to build business for both of us.

And last, we want you to ask yourself this question... Do you know any merchant that is advertising more and doing less business???

Echoes From The Past

(A Column of historical and genealogical anecdotes, stories and family notes.)

Written By Judith A. Maupin

Lucy Jefferson Lewis

Although history is considered by many to be a dull and dry subject, when one becomes interested in why something happened a certain way, or becomes curious about other seemingly small points, one usually finds that there is a story involved. And this, really, is all that history is — a series of stories of the people who lived before us. Some of the stories, it's true, may not be as interesting as others, but when one goes beyond the memorization of dates and places, he will usually find all kinds of fascinating stories. After that, it's only a small step to becoming a true "history addict."

A few weeks ago, I ran a column about the formation of Reelfoot Lake, which was a result of the New Madrid earthquake of 1811. What I did not realize, at that time, was that it not only caused great physical changes, but that it also was interpreted by those who experienced it in many different ways. There were those who believed that God had chosen that day as "Doomsday," but in one particular instance, one man believed that it was the reaction of the Devil, who had received a new resident and who violently objected to this man being there.

This is one story which will be too long for one column, so this week I will lay the groundwork by writing about Lucy Jefferson Lewis. Most people are aware that Thomas Jefferson's sister lived and died not many miles from here, outside Smithland, at a place named Rocky Hill. Lucy, who had been born in Virginia in 1752, had married Dr. Charles L. Lewis, a Virginia doctor and cousin to Meriwether Lewis, the intrepid explorer. Evidently Dr. Lewis also had some of the spirit of adventure which characterized his cousin, because he and his family chose to forsake the relative comforts of colonial Virginia for the unknown wilds of the west. About 1808, he and his family loaded their most important belongings, which included the windows from their home in Virginia, into covered wagons and followed the trail west. To those who might feel that windows are an odd thing to take along, please remember the scarcity of glass in those days. Supposedly Lucy hoped to once again have a home she could be proud of, and in which would be installed her "Virginia windows."

They evidently traveled by covered wagon through the Cumberland Gap until they reached a tributary of the Ohio River, at which point the some 30 slaves which the Lewises had brought along built three large rafts. They then loaded the rafts with their belongings and themselves and proceeded down the Ohio River. Passing Cave-in-Rock was a real challenge in those days, because it was the hideout of notorious river pirates, who robbed and killed many would-be settlers. However, Dr. Lewis, having been forewarned of this, managed to slip his three rafts through in the darkness while the pirates were busy "mugging" another group of hardy souls.

The Lewises stopped at a place along the Ohio where the land looked fertile and where they could see a high hill, almost high enough to qualify as a mountain, possibly reminding Lucy of her Virginia hills. It was there that they decided to build their home, above the quarry from which the rock was cut to build the house foundation. Next week, we will go into the rest of the Lewis family history, and how it was tied in with the New Madrid earthquake.

The worship leader will be Mrs. Bailey Gore with the candle lighters being Amy and Debbie Roos. Greeters will be Mr. and Mrs. Robert Hopkins and Miss Rozella Henry. Elders serving will be Bailey Gore and Auburn Wells. Deacons will be Henry Fulton, B. D. Hall, John Hall, Coleman McKeel, Dan McKeel, Robert Puttoff, and Steve Shaw.

Carter Celebrating Presidency With Series Of Parties Today

WASHINGTON (AP) — Jimmy Carter is celebrating his new presidency with a party for the military who Carter's critics say will find it harder to mobilize the nation because he pardoned draft dodgers.

Army, Air Force and Navy brass were invited to one of a string of receptions at the White House today. The others were for Congress and the diplomatic corps.

After an hour and a half set aside for a meeting of the National Security Council to discuss Vice President Walter F. Mondale's upcoming trip around the world, Carter planned more festivities.

The full and unconditional pardon for draft evaders not involved in violent acts was the major action of Carter's first full day in office, which otherwise was given over to continuing inaugural activities.

Carter's pardon was hailed by critics of the Vietnam war and draft evaders and their families, but drew fire from conservatives in Congress and such groups as the Veterans of Foreign Wars.

T. Cooper Holt, executive director of the VFW's Washington office, said, "President Carter will have to accept the responsibility of arming our military in case of another confrontation with a foreign power."

In other matters, the new President announced:

—That his top energy official, James R. Schlesinger, met with natural gas pipeline officials who proposed allocating gas among the firms and selling it at unregulated prices for six months.

—That the Secret Service would continue to protect former Vice President Nelson A. Rockefeller and former Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger for 30 days, and former President Ford's daughter, Susan, for 60 days.

—That Greg Schneiders, cleared last week of illegally receiving unemployment pay while he was a restaurant consultant, will be White House projects adviser at a still-undetermined salary.

—That Hugh Carter Jr., son of the President's first cousin, will be special assistant for administration at a salary of $42,000 a year.

Carter's pardon means draft dodgers in the United States can stop worrying about prosecution and those in exile can return home with impunity.

It also means those earning clemency in public service jobs can quit.

And it frees at least five men from federal prison who were convicted of draft law violations.

The pardon did not cover deserters.

CAVERNS UPSTAGED

STANTON, Mo. (AP) — The multimillion-year-old formations are not the scene most photographed by tourists visiting Meramec Caverns here.

Upstaging the formations is a lifelike statue of Jesse James, the notorious outlaw, who used the hideout in the cave during the 1870s.

"Tourists enjoy having their pictures taken in front of Jesse," says Bob Hudson, cave manager.

But White House Press Secretary Jody Powell said Carter ordered the Pentagon to review their cases immediately. What changes the review might bring was not immediately clear. Carter told reporters who asked him what he might do about deserters: "They'll be handled, as I said during the campaign, on a case-by-case basis."

Powell also said Carter ordered "an expanded and accelerated review" of less-than-honorable discharges to determine whether they should be upgraded.

Applicants for review have complained about a backlog that makes them wait for months while they have trouble getting jobs because of the stigma of such discharges.

The Justice Department said it knew of at least 10,000 draft evaders affected by the pardon. But Powell said there are "no good estimates" of how many draft evaders might be affected by the pardon, but that they are probably "well up to the hundreds of thousands."

That would include those who failed to register but haven't come to official attention.

Former President Ford's clemency program attracted only 21,237 of the 106,000 considered eligible. The 106,000 included 93,000 deserters, most of whom were given less-than-honorable discharges.

Carter pledged during his campaign for the Democratic presidential nomination to pardon draft evaders during his first week in office.

The pardon covers those who ducked the draft between Aug. 4, 1964, and March 28, 1973 — commonly accepted as the Vietnam era.

While some groups said Carter's pardon does not go far enough, most of the criticism was from members of Congress and veterans groups who said it would make future military mobilization more difficult.

The VFW's Holt said, "This is probably one of the saddest days in the history of our country, even surpassing the Watergate days."

Sen. Barry Goldwater called Carter's action "the most disgraceful thing that a president has ever done."

Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., called it a "slap in the face" of GIs killed or wounded in Vietnam.

But Sen. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., praised Carter for taking a "major, impressive and compassionate step towards healing the wounds of Vietnam."

Even as the furor was mounting, Carter told reporters who asked whether he expected much criticism for the pardon: "No...I don't think there'll be any criticism of it much."

He spoke with the reporters after hugging, kissing and shaking hands with 5,000 persons who attended four receptions.

It fell short of the mob-scene that Andrew Jackson's inauguration occasioned at the White House, but there was no living memory of when so many persons had come to see a president at one time.

Carter's wife, Rosalynn, followed the example of Nathalie Gray from Panama City, Fla., and shucked her shoes to relieve her aching feet.

The visitors ranged from plain folks who helped Carter win to Cabinet members, Alabama Gov. George Wallace and such notables as heavyweight boxing champion Muhammad Ali, actress Shirley Maclaine, AFL-CIO President George Meany, and rock singer Greg Allman and his wife, Cher.

Most typical, though, was 7-year-old Laura Flynt, who joined her mom and dad at a reception for Georgians, including the Peanut Brigade of volunteers who helped Carter in the first seven primaries.

Around her neck she wore a green peanut with a painted grin. Carter hoisted her up.

"I have a peanut and it's you," she said.

The President inspected the peanut. So did the First Lady.

"It's not just a peanut," Laura insisted. "It's Jimmy Carter. I call him Smiley."

Emergency Calls

Decline Rapidly

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — Arctic cold has given way to more normal winter weather and icebound Kentuckians have begun emerging to forage for fuel and other needed supplies, state officials say.

The number calling on the state for emergency assistance declined rapidly as the week drew to a close and the mercury rose above zero.

"People are getting out," Robert McFerren, Disaster and Emergency Services director, said Friday.

McFerren's office has been on call around the clock since last weekend, when frigid cold gripped the state after more than a week of unusually heavy snow.

At first there were hundreds of calls from Kentuckians unable to cook food or heat their homes because of power and gas failures or because they were out of fuel oil or propane.
