Ecuadorian Trip Is Tremendous Success

STAFF NOTE—The Banana Festival group touring Ecuador arrived in Miami on Tuesday night. The following article, written by Jo Westpheling, arrived in Fulton on press day. It is an account of their first days in Ecuador. Next week's News will give you a complete account, with more pictures, of the entire Ecuadorian visit.

by Jo Westpheling

Ecuador, April 14 — I am writing this to you on the second day of our almost unbelievable wonderful visit to Ecuador on a goodwill mission in connection with the Fourth Annual International Banana Festival.

The hospitality has been so grand; the private and official welcomes so cordial and sincere, that most of us feel that we have been here for a long, long time.

I scarcely know where to begin the story of this fantastically beautiful, exciting and friendly country. Perhaps it might be a good idea to try to convey to you our emotions (which might even sum up the entire tone of our visit thus far) as we looked out of our plane's window in the clear, quiet April night, down upon the lighted stillness of Cuba and Jamaica as our comfortable and delightfully luxurious Ecuadoriana plane sped on to Quito in the early morning hours.

It was barely sun-up when we landed briefly in Panama for refueling and the impressive experience of knowing that we were putting our feet on foreign soil and in a banana-producing country at that. Most of the group stayed awake during the night, mainly because of the excitement of the trip and the fact that it is hardly believable that so many people, with so many diversified interests, could join together in a common cause and yet be so completely compatible.

No loss of sleep, no fatigue, no discomfort of long travel in any way deterred the excitement and even solemnity of seeing the sun rise while air-born over the Pacific Ocean, and in a shorter while to approach the incomparable beauty of the Andes mountains, silhouetted in the mist of clouds. It was the most magnificent sight I had ever seen, or even hope to see.

In a telephone call from Miami today, Wednesday, Jo Westpheling reported that when the group arrived in Guayaquil on Monday the family of Jamie Plaza was on hand to greet them. Monday afternoon Jamie's brother returned with some of his friends to squire the young ladies in the Fulton group around beautiful and historic Guayaquil.

As we neared Quito, everybody tidied up a bit, even a lot, for Cecil Tarran and Alberto Martinez-Fons, our genial hosts on the trip, told us that we would be given an important and cordial reception at the airport in Quito. We all looked forward to the landing, but it was almost forgotten as all of us crammed near the plane's windows to saturate the beauty of the Ecuadorian landscape. On terra firma, it is breath-taking; from the air it is indescribable. The mountains appeared to have a cover of bluegrass patchwork carefully designed upon them. The small farms, so meticulously plotted, are clean and fresh and diligently cared for. On close scrutiny, we could see small, primitive dwellings dotting the country-side, where live those natives eking out a livelihood from the earth with their bare hands. That is a story, and a long one all in itself, but for now I must go on with our arrival and our activities up until now.

Ecuadoriana's efficient and superbly operated plane coasted on to the run-way in a perfect landing - smooth and comfortable, in spite of the tremendous excitement and anticipation aboard that should have caused some kind of vibrations.

When the plane's door opened, our beautiful Banana Princess Vicki Hurd was the first to appear in the doorway atop the steps and that's when the photographer's flash bulbs started popping. Vicki is a public relations expert's dream of what a beauty princess should be. She is charming, she is gracious, she is cooperative, she is extremely bright and personable. She is the kind of a gal who realizes that she is the star of a good show, and yet she is always standing off-stage waiting for instructions to have our Bananan Festival presented in the best light. We have been to several extremely official and high level affairs so far, where the press and radio representatives almost outnumbered the guests, but dear sweet Vicki always called before hand to check about the kind of dress she should wear, when and if to wear her tiara and her Festival Princess identification.

If we had been asked to choose a young lady to represent us to our most exemplary advantage, we could never have found a person who could so completely fill our wishes as does, and as has, Princess Vicki Hurd on this mission.

Needless to say, we are deeply indebted to Colonel Mercer Lee Price, of Price Foundations, for his generosity in inviting Princess Vicki to come with us on this trip. Mr. Price himself is the greatest booster and ambassador of good will our Festival and this country has ever seen. There is no way ever in this lifetime that we can properly and sufficiently say thanks to him.

The international good will program has been contagious among the members of our entourage. Cynthia Clark, first alternate to Miss Alaska in the Miss America pageant, is also a member of the group and also the guest of Mr. Price. She seems to be right where she is needed at all times, wanting to do her part to make our big and friendly neighbors in South America know that they have friends in North America.

Quito's airport was filled with dignitaries, adding their welcome to our party. Regrettably, Ambassador and Mrs. Wymberley Coer were called to Washington for a consultation with President Johnson, but Sam Lane and Dr. D. D. MacPherson, of the American Embassy, were on hand to greet us and to extend every assistance for our enjoyment and our happiness in Ecuador.

In addition to our own Embassy officials, President Yerovi's cabinet was well represented when the Ministers of Commerce, Industry, Agriculture, Tourism, etc., extended their hands to greet us. The newspapers have referred to our group as "very important people from America," and as time wears on and our visit is being so royally handled, we might just believe that the designation is true.

The importance of our visit was brought home to us in a forceful impact when we were informed on driving to the magnificent Hotel Quito that we would be received by President Yerovi at four o'clock on the day of our visit. I could hardly believe it. President Yerovi just took office several weeks ago, so you know how busy he must be; but, nevertheless, his calendar was cleared to extend his personal greetings to our group.

We were driven to the Presidential Palace in private automobiles furnished by the government. On arriving, we waited on the huge veranda of the palace, right in the heart of the teeming metropolis, for our appointment. Actually, it was a time to be gay and enthusiastic and most of the crowd surely was, but you could tell that a lot of were thinking, "I wish people back home could be with us . . . to share with us the significance of the strides we have made with our Bananan Festival . . . to be so recognized that the President of one of the most progressive countries in South America wants to say 'thank you' for what we are doing to cement understanding and

Jennifer Burcham Captures 1966 Title Of "Miss Kentucky"

Miss Jennifer Burcham—lovely 18-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbert Burcham of Hickman, Ky., was named "Miss Kentucky of 1966" Saturday night and was crowned by her predecessor Miss Julie Andrus of Mayfield, Ky.

The new "Miss Kentucky", a green eyed burnette, measurements 35-24-36, is a freshman at the University of Kentucky, with a major in French, plans to be a high school teacher, likes to play the piano and organ and to water ski. She is the reigning Kentucky Derby Queen and will crown her successor during the May event at Louisville.

As "Miss Kentucky", Jennifer will represent the Bluegrass State in the 1966 "Miss USA" Pageant to be held next month in Miami, Florida. The young lady who is crowned "Miss USA" in that event will then compete in the "Miss Universe" Pageant which is held immediately thereafter.

Other finalists were: First runner-up, Marilyn Charlton of Wingo; second runner up, Kathy Bowlin of Paducah; Third runner-up, Carol Rolfe of Murray; Fourth runner-up, Patsy Lax of Murray. The contestants selected Mary Lou Banks of Princeton "Miss Kentucky Cutie" on the basis of her winning personality which she displayed during the contest.

Contestants appeared in evening gowns, then in street clothes, and then in bathing suits. Each of the eighteen contestants were presented trophies denoting their participation in the contest.

The 1966 beauty pageant, which was staged as a preliminary to the "Miss USA" and "Miss Universe" beauty pageants at Miami was the fifth Lions Club-sponsored event, and was by far the best attended in its five year history.

Julie Andrus as "Miss Kentucky 1965" represented the state in the "Miss USA" pageant and placed third in the finals. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Andrus of Mayfield, and attends the University of Tennessee.

Kathy Bowland, the second runner-up, will be remembered by those who attended the Bananan Festival princess contest as the Kentucky entry who was selected to represent the state in the Miss United States contest, which was held at Norfolk, Va.

GREETINGS, MR. PRESIDENT! Mrs. Jo Westpheling brings a message of greetings and friendship to Quito President Clemente Yerovi Indaburu at the President's private office in the Palace, as four members gather around. After the cordial meeting with the President, four members were treated to a look around the beautiful palace rooms.

Tour members pose, with the city of Quito in the background. City actually winds in and around several valleys, completely surrounded by high mountains.

Amusement for the youngsters: With a drum-beating toy monkey, Paul Westpheling drew daunting crowds of youngsters wherever the group stopped on the downtown tour. Here is a typical scene.

Farm Bureau Consultant Does Straight Talking About The Reason For Increasing Costs Of Food

Clarence L. Miller, a marketing consultant for the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, minced no words about the increase in the cost of living, especially where the cost of food is concerned.

While housewives complain bitterly about the soaring prices of food products, Mr. Miller is just as vocal in his defense of the farmer and the reason for the increasing prices of foodstuffs.

If you are a grocery buyer, and if you are a farmer, you will get some valuable knowledge from Mr. Miller's statement. Here it is:

The cost of living index released in Washington recently received more than the usual press coverage accorded this monthly announcement.

The public has grown accustomed to the increases in the cost of living that have occurred with clocklike precision every month. This one was unusual, however, in that food prices rose for the first time, or at least for the first time was the principal cause of the rise in the cost of living. In this instance food accounted for three-fourths of the increase.

Why did food cost rise and just how much did it rise?

Beef, pork, milk and fresh vegetables were the particular commodities singled out as the guilty culprits. Every farmer realizes that these items are producing a fair return for the first time in almost a decade. Why? Because they are not in surplus supply.

The producers of these commodities can recall that last year and the year before they were producing cattle and hogs at a loss. Because of this, many, unwilling to work for nothing, simply liquidated their herds. As a result, enough people were forced out of business, because of the price squeeze, to reduce the supply of hogs and cattle to a point that if the consumer wants beef and pork, he will have to pay more for it.

The same situation applies to the dairyman.

As anyone familiar with farming well knows, the dairy industry is very demanding of time. The dairyman has to be on the job 365 days a year and cannot run in substitutes. A strict schedule must be observed, and the average youngster of today is not willing to subject himself to such an exacting and demanding profession. As a result, the number of dairymen is declining to such an extent that milk is no longer in surplus supply.

If the consumer wants more milk, he will have to pay for it, and if Mr. Johnson wants milk for his foreign aid program, he will have to pay for it, which is precisely what he announced he would do when he raised the support prices for dairy products. (At the same time, he was advising the housewife to quit buying dairy products because they were too high.)

Vegetables are higher simply because there are fewer of them. The late freeze took care of that. So if the consumer wants to eat vegetables, he bids for the available supply and the price goes up. No one seems to sympathize with these same producers who lost a big part of their production. The consumer seems to want to buy the remaining part that the producer salvaged at a cheap price.

One of our many friends in the U. S. D. A. assured the consumers that the "worst is over because prices of vegetables, pork and beef would be falling due to the increased supplies," but that he could not hold out the same hope for consumers of dairy products because that industry had become "stabilized."

The U. S. D. A., Department of Information, bore out his remarks when it published its announcement of the Index of Prices on April 1.

"The Index of Prices Received by Farmers declined one point to 271 percent of its 1910-1914 average during the month ending March 15, while the Index of Prices Paid by Farmers increased two points to 331 percent. As a result, the parity ratio declined one point to 82," the release stated.

This release tells the true story of the price situation. A dollar is a medium of exchange only. (It is getting smaller every year.) Its true measure is what it will buy. According to this release by the U. S. D. A., the farmer's purchasing power is becoming less. He is now receiving 82 percent of parity when in order to be on an equal level with the rest of the economy, he should be receiving 100 percent.

Sixty-Four Fulton, Hickman County Students To Benefit From UK's New Academic Program

It is heartening to read the news columns these days and witness the growing cooperation between Catholics and Protestants in many fields of spiritual and general human endeavor. Perhaps one of the most encouraging instances of this sort was the quick response of American leaders of both faiths to the starving millions in India. Representatives of the World Council of Churches and the Vatican, meeting in Geneva, issued a world-wide call urging the duo-faith response to India's tragic plight.

The Geneva action was immediately followed by a strong appeal to

U. S. Protestants and Catholics in a statement signed jointly by Bishop Edward Swannstrom, head of Catholic Relief Services, and Dr. David M. Stowe, a National Council of Churches overseas program leader which read: "Confronted with the magnitude of the disastrous famine in India and the enormity of the suffering and death being visited upon countless millions of India's people, we of the Christian churches are conscience bound in justice and charity to raise our collective voices in their behalf."

But what about the third great faith in the U. S., namely the Jews? The United Jewish Appeal joined in nation-wide telecasts urging Americans to respond to the Catholic-Protestant plea for aid to the people of India. The UJA annually joins in a concerted drive through the now familiar Religious Overseas Aid Program, which measured in its total outreach, constitutes the single biggest non-government program of relief and rehabilitation in the world.

Churches, peoples and faiths are moving toward a common purpose: to help in the spiritual and physical betterment of mankind. This is indeed a vivid flame of hope in the gloom of a world nearly torn asunder.

POET'S CORNER

WHEN YOU'RE AT BAT

To hear the umpire yell "strike two,"
Without one "ball" to count for you,
Is a handicap we readily admit.
But that's the time to hold your nerves,
And check the pitcher's speed and curves,
For it takes just one good swing to make a hit.

It's no disgrace to fan the air;
Sometimes success just wasn't there.
And most of us have missed a time or two,
So stand up there and face your fate.
Here comes one sailing o'er the plate;
It's just the chance that's "tailor-made" for you.

In life and baseball it's the same.
Sometimes it is a waiting game
And other times it calls for force and wit.
In either case just use your eye;
Don't mourn the chance that passed you by,
For it takes just one good swing to make a hit.

We in the library wish to thank all who have been so willing to help in plans for National Library Week. Announcements of the program for the week are appearing each day over the air and through the newspapers. Please keep on the lookout for what each day will bring in observance of the week. Below is a copy of an editorial written by S. Gilbert Wood, Kentucky Chairman of National Library Week.

Keep Growing - Read!

"The theme for National Library is 'Keep Growing - Read.' This is a good time for Kentuckians to visit their libraries, look at them critically, discover the treasures which exist there, and also note the many things which may be lacking.

Good Public Libraries in a modern Library System not only have a wide variety of good books; they have educational films; recordings of good music, literature and foreign languages, pamphlet files, the best magazines, framed reproductions of paintings, film slides and recorded tapes, all freely available for loan as readily as books.

The Elementary and Secondary Education Act is building stronger school libraries. The Higher Education Act will help college libraries. Under an improved Library Services and Construction Act, which has just been introduced in the House (HR 14050) and Senate (S 3076) some improvement in public libraries may be possible as well; if we take the trouble to back these bills.

Under these federal bills, and with more state and local support, Kentucky can begin to develop a modern library system, which is the most effective and most economical method of bringing the best and most up to date information to everyone.

Growing industries have an increasing need for access to the latest information. Therefore well organized, easily available knowledge of all types can be gold to a community at a time when over 1000 new book titles are pouring from the presses every day. Good library service can definitely help attract new industries to Kentucky.

Now that we are in the midst of an information explosion unheard of in the past, it is to our selfish interest to keep growing through reading.

How good is our library service? How often do we use it? How can we improve it? It is up to us to help find the answers."

Trail Of Tears Re-Scheduled

Due to a hold up . . . (cool weather held up the normal opening of about 70 percent of the dogwood) . . . the Fifth Annual Trail of Tears Dogwood Tour has been re-set for Sunday, April 24th, for a repeat performance.

With the Red Bud, Wild Plum, Flowering Crab and other shrubs at peak, the Trail of Tears State Park was alive with Sunday motorists last Sunday but the profuse display of dogwood in the park was not up to its usual splendor.

The Cape Girardeau Chamber - Junior Chamber tour booth was manned and visitors greeted with suggestions for the best and most colorful tour. Many motorists indicated that they would welcome a repeat performance on the 24th and view the dogwood at its best.

By popular request, those in charge of the event have agreed to again staff an information booth just off of U. S. 61 on Cape Rock Drive in Cape Girardeau for another beautiful day of touring for the Sunday motorist.

Tour maps, copies of the "Legend of the Dogwood", prizes of dogwood trees for cars stopping at the booth at pre-determined times, etc., will again be made available by the sponsors for Sunday, April 24th.

The 1-2 mile connecting drive in the Trail of Tears State Park has one of the heaviest concentrations of native dogwood in the Midwest.

IS IT MORALLY RIGHT TO TRADE WITH COMMUNIST COUNTRIES?

The issue of trade with Communist countries has been put before the Congress and the American people in the President's "State-of-the-Union" message, in which the Chief Executive asked for increased trade with the Eastern European Communists AND the Soviet Union. This issue is a Christian issue with profound moral and spiritual implications. To mention only two: What are the Communists' intentions? Have they laid aside their blueprint of world revolution and their war against God? Also, what about strategic war materials going to Viet-Nam where American men are fighting and dying? Quick profits on "East-West" trade would be very costly if, in the process, we betray our Christian Heritage as a nation.

The Communist position on trade with the United States has been made clear and unmistakable. It is strictly a weapon of political warfare.

"It is necessary," said Lenin, "to bribe Capitalism with extra profit . . . and we will get the basic equipment with the aid of which we will strengthen ourselves and finally get up on our feet and then defeat it (Capitalism) economically." (December 21, 1920)

This position has never changed. The American Bar Association, in its special report on Communist tactics, strategy and objectives in December, 1958, made this comment on the Soviet plea for more trade with the United States.

"Foreign trade to a Communist country is a means of waging cold war. It is a means of obtaining from the outside world the strategic materials with which it can arm itself for world conquest. The goods we might sell to the Communist bloc can be used against us just as the Rolls-Royce jet engines sold to Russia were used to power the MIG-15's against us in Korea."

It is a serious matter when Vice President Humphrey last Sunday on "Meet The Press" stated that the majority of the American business community were supporting increased trade with the Soviets. This appraisal of the American business community reminds us of Lenin's famous aphorism that the American businessman would provide the rope for his own hanging. Commenting recently on the testimony before the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, one of the Senators made this statement:

"The whole structure and foundation of Communist power which today threatens the world, would have been impossible without the equipment and technical assistance, and direct aid the Kremlin has received from the West during the four and one-half decades since the Bolshevik Revolution."

Those who say that this trade with Communist countries is not being used against us are either misinformed or misleading. The grain and potatoes which were

Members and guests of the West Tennessee and West Kentucky Alumni Association of Freed-Hardeman College, Henderson, Tenn., enjoyed a banquet held at the American Legion Cabin in Fulton on April 12. Officials were elected by the alumni association as follows: Charles L. Houser, Fulton, re-elected president; Homer A. Daniel, Paducah, vice-president; J. E. Green, Martin, secretary. This was the first meeting to be held since the war and the group plans to hold an annual regional meeting every year.

Fulton's newest sub-division is the Country Club Court on East State Line. B. B. Henderson, owner, stated this week that he has some fine building lots to offer. There are about 50 lots in the court and the first lot was purchased by E. D. (Spud) Edwards.

Tid-Bits

of Kentucky Folklore

A BLUE MOON

Down Fidelity way, and, as I found out a long time later, around Mammoth Cave, people knew practically nothing about a blue moon as a measure of some long but indefinite time. Most people who read had seen the term, but they did not use it. So far as I can find out, blue moons were far more numerous to the north of us. In our latitude a coon's age is wide-spread, a sort of standard measurement. If you don't understand it, so what? Who understands a blue moon?

The longer I study folklore, the more I enjoy these efforts to indicate time or space or distance or age. If a representative of the folk should suddenly come up with exact dates and measurements, I would doubt his genuineness, no matter how many character witnesses he might produce.

How fur is a "fur piece"? How can you adjust a "little piece" with any of the tables of weights and measures in the arithmetic? And just where does a "little piece" start becoming a "right smart piece"? When does a boy become a "pretty good-sized boy"? Just how tall does he have to be? How much does he weigh? How old is he? What sort of shoes does he wear?

On several occasions, back at Fidelity and long since, I have made some long journeys that were supposed to be a "little ways." About 1905 my sister and I started out one Saturday morning to drive to Puryear, Tennessee, to spend the weekend with a cousin of ours. There were plenty of roads, in fact, too many of them. We had been told before we started that the distance was fifteen miles, a pretty good journey for Old Mag, our family nag, to take us. We must have gone eight of the miles before we found ourselves lost; there were just too many roads, and turning to the right or left did not get us there, or even partly there, as we thought. We stopped at a house and asked directions and got lots of them and also discovered that we were still ten or twelve miles from our goal. Four or five miles later, again bewildered, we asked again and found out that we still had ten miles to go. Fortunately, our last direction-finder knew his directions and his distances, and we finally came in sight of our cousin's house. Since we had no speedometers in those days, I will never know how many miles we added to the original fifteen. We somehow cut off a lot of miles on the way home, sometimes by flying blind and trusting to luck.

In 1913, when my new wife and I were going to visit her grandfather on our way to Bowling Green, we got off the train and were met by a hired hand with a buggy and a fast-stepping horse attached to it. He had led as he came to the train his own horse to ride back and direct us. It was pitch-dark as we alighted from the train and began our journey into the dark. My new father-in-law had told me the distance was some three miles, but he did not know that some of the road had been rerouted since his earlier days and that some of it was temporarily shut off for repairs. And so we journeyed through the darkness, with a shadowy form on horseback in front, now along fairly open country, and then through woods so deep that we had to trust the horse to bring us out. I always will believe that the crooked road wound some seven or eight miles before we finally found the ancestral house. Maybe by daylight it would have seemed much shorter, but a "fur piece" can become even "furrer" when there is no light.

Not too many years ago I started with a carload of people to the funeral of a friend of the family. Again there were too many roads, not one of them marked. "Turn left at the store" was the direction given me by one who knew. But which store?

Stores seemed to sprout up everywhere, and most of them had a road that turned just there. And we took everyone of them, in that county and the "nigh side" of the neighboring county and finally arrived after the funeral was over.

I have recently gone over the correct road again, for I know it now like a familiar path in the woods, but until it was marked with a number, I am afraid that I would be guilty of directing people to turn at the store and keep going. Who at Fidelity had ever heard of so many miles and tenths of miles anyway?

sent to Soviet Bloc nations in 1963 and 1964 were used for the manufacturing of synthetic ethyl alcohol, a key ingredient in rocket fuel propellants. The wheat which has been shipped to Soviet Russia has been reshipped to Cuba and is freeing money for strategic goods which otherwise the Communists would have used for the purchases of food. It is hypocrisy and highly misleading to contend otherwise in order to justify trade with the Communists.

The argument has been advanced that this will loosen the chains of Soviet control and bring greater freedom and hope to people in Communist countries. If this be true, it would be a powerful moral incentive to engage in trade. The truth is, however, it has not advanced freedom... it has strengthened the Soviet slave system on the people who were anti-Communist. Proof of this fact can be found in a study submitted recently to the Senate Internal Security Committee by a foreign news correspondent, Hal Lehrman, called, "Rebellion in Russia's Europe; Fact and Fiction." Our State Department has justified aid to Romania and Yugoslavia on the grounds that it nurtures independence from Moscow. The Lehrman study points out that the concept of "independent satellites" did not originate in the captive nations, but was part of the Soviet dogma announced by Khrushchev. Strange to say, the commissars who are guiding this co-called "independence" are the hard core Russian-orientated commissars from way back. The aid which we provided to Poland after 1956 has broken down their spirit of resistance to Communism, "because the United States seems to be on the Communist side, so why fight it?" In Yugoslavia, we have the same story. Our aid has helped Marshall Tito achieve prestige to destroy the patriotic feelings and the anti-Communist spirit of the Yugoslav people.

The crowning hypocrisy, however is this - up until recently, aid to Eastern Europe was justified in terms of making the satellites independent of Moscow. Now this year Moscow itself is included with the satellites for strategic trade. Apparently, now we are going to make the Soviets independent from the Chinese. This approaches the point of absurdity.

If anyone is in doubt about the moral issue in this Communist trade, all he would need to do would be to take a close look at the men and materials coming down the Ho Chi Minh trail to use against the American troops. What possible benefit can there be for freedom, for the American people, for the people in Communist countries when these imports of strategic goods from America serve only to strengthen the world Communist apparatus for further infiltration, intrigue and encirclement of the Western Hemisphere, as well as Viet-Nam?

The Texas Farm Bureau recently offered this solution on American trade and agricultural products:

"We strongly recommend that the Executive Branch of our Government enforce the law as passed by Congress that we shall not subsidize, export, sell, or make available any agricultural commodity to any nations other than friendly nations..."

We believe this is a correct position and the only justifiable position in the light of Soviet world policy. We should never forget a poem by Rudyard Kipling:

BEWARE THE PEACE OF THE BEAR
"When he shows as seeking quarter,
With paws like hands in prayer
That is the time of peril...
The time of the truce of the bear."
... Kipling (1898)

Introducing Our Churches - God's Agency For Spreading His Love

WATER VALLEY BAPTIST CHURCH WATER VALLEY, KY.

Rev. Leon Penick, Pastor

The Water Valley Baptist Church was organized in the year 1868. For almost a century it has stood for and earnestly "contended for the faith once delivered unto the saints".

The church now worships in a building located on highway 1283 just one block west of highway 45. The building was formerly located near the I. C. railroad tracks just north of where the Bank of Water Valley and the U. S. Post Office now stand.

The oldest living members of the church are two brothers, Vodie and Edd Rhodes and their sister, Mrs. Allie Morgan, all of Water Valley. Mrs. Morgan united with the church and was baptized in 1896. Though she and her brothers are well up in years, they all attend church services faithfully.

Sunday School and preaching services are conducted by the church each Sunday morning and preaching services are held each Sunday evening. Each Wednesday evening is given to prayer and Bible study. The church provides a place for every member of the family, regardless of age. The congregation is made up of people of all ages.

The Water Valley Church is known particularly for its soundness in Bible doctrine. It is also recognized for its good choral and congregational singing.

The present pastor, Reverend Leon Penick, is a native of Martin, Tennessee. He came to Water Valley the last of November 1965 from an eight year pastorate with the Fairview Baptist Church, Paris, Tennessee. However, a Kentucky pastorate is not new to Brother Penick. He served as pastor of the Cuba Baptist Church, also in Graves County, in 1955-56 and 57.

This pastor and church sincerely invite you to attend our services; worship and study with us, and to pray for us as we endeavor to lift up Him who said, "If I be lifted up I will draw all men to me".

Rollin Shaw, Fulton City Manager, inspects the final details of the new Memorial Fountain now being installed in the Fulton City Park. Dedication services are presently set for Sunday, April 24 at 2:30 p. m.

Honor Flight Honors Local Soldier

Two members of your news staff lunched with this impressive group of servicemen at the Derby on Friday. The honor flight from the Blytheville, Arkansas Air Force base had come to Fulton to perform military honors at the funeral of Tech. Sgt. Herbert Brady. Members of this group - two from each squadron on the base - are selected according to high standards of performance and grooming. Included in this group was a local representative, A3C Jimmie Henson, son of Mr. and Mrs. James Henson of near Mayfield.

Fountain To Be Dedicated Sunday

Plans for the dedication of the Memorial Fountain, now being installed in the Fulton City Park, were released to the News today. The simple service will be held in the City Park, Sunday afternoon, April 24 at 2:30 p. m., with Harold Henderson acting as Master of Ceremonies. Mayor Gilbert DeMyer will represent the City of Fulton, and Dr. Robert Peterson will represent the Fulton Lions Club.

This Fountain is being dedicated to the memory of Smith Atkins, a former Fulton business man, who was serving as Mayor at the time that the Lions Club purchased the land for the City Park from the Fulton City Board of Education.

The Fountain is centered on a raised terrace paved with concrete. There are three basins, each a little smaller than the one below and surmounted by a figurine. Although some shrubs have already been set out, the landscaping is not yet completed. The wreath and other flowers are a contribution by Fulton florists. The completed project is expected to add much to the beauty of our Park.

The Lions of Fulton extend a cordial invitation to all interested persons to attend this service of dedication on Sunday.

Carl Johnsons Plan 50th Anniversary Celebration

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Johnson, of Water Valley Route 1, will celebrate their golden wedding anniversary on Sunday, May 1. An open house will be held at their home during the afternoon between two and five o'clock. Friends and relatives are invited to attend.

The couple was married in Fulton on April 30, 1916, with Squire R. T. Milner performing the ceremony. Johnnie Willey of Fulton and Miss Clella Herron of Water Valley, now Mrs. George Neeley of Louisville, served as the wedding attendants.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson have lived in Hickman County most of their lives, having moved to the county in 1918 and to their present home in 1920.

Mrs. Johnson is the daughter of the late Robert D. and Elizabeth Bumpas Willis. Mr. Johnson, a retired farmer, is the son of the late James Alfred and Jimima Seay Johnson.

The Johnsons are the parents of a daughter, Mrs. Bobby Rhodes (Betty Jean) of Water Valley Route 1. They have two grandchildren, Melody and Barry Rhodes.

New Housing Projects Are Being Filled

The Public Housing Project of Fulton, Ky., was started in 1959 under the auspices of the Fulton City Council, who appointed a Housing Commission to negotiate with the Public Housing Administration for fifty low rent housing units in the City of Fulton. After a slow start, the project really got under way two years ago, and contracts were let in 1965 for the construction of fifty units in Fulton. These were built on three sites: Westwood, consisting of 25 units; Eastwood, consisting of 10 units; and Oak Heights with 15 units. The contract was awarded to McAdoo Builders Supply in January 1965 for fifty units at a cost of $528,750.00. The estimated cost of the project was approximately $657,000.00, but due to the low bid on the construction of the project the total cost has run slightly lower than the original estimate.

Actual construction was begun on March 1, 1965 and the final acceptance was made by the Fulton Housing Commission and the Public Housing Authority on January 13, 1966. Prior to that time applications were being accepted at the temporary office on Commercial Avenue, and a few days after January 13, the Fulton Housing Commission began the task of assigning the tenants to the project. Selection of the tenants was based on the housing score, the income of the applicant, the number in the family, and the need for housing.

According to Executive Director Richard Myatt, all the units have been filled at this time and most of the tenants have already moved in. Business men of Fulton have noted an increase in their business as a result of this project, and it has definitely added to the beauty of Fulton.

An Open House was held at the Project in February, with about 1,000 persons in attendance. Local merchants furnished three of the units: a one-bedroom, a two-bedroom and a three-bedroom unit, which were open for inspection. Graham Furniture Company furnished the one-bedroom unit, Wade Furniture Company furnished the two-bedroom unit and Bennett Electric Company furnished the three-bedroom unit.

The members of the present Fulton, Kentucky Housing Commission are: James Green, Chairman; Elinor Huddleston, Vice Chairman; Lorene Harding, Commissioner; Mayor Gilbert DeMyer, Commissioner; Lonnie Roper, Commissioner; Richard Myatt, Executive Director and Edna Belew, Secretary. Office of the Commission is located at 609 College Street, Fulton.

Speaking for the Commission, Director Myatt extended an invitation to all residents of the area to visit the sites to learn first hand the improvement that has been made in the City of Fulton.

ARRIVE IN QUITO: The 30 members of the Banana Festival Goodwill tour stepped off this 4-motored Ecuatoriana Airlines plane Wednesday morning, after a thrilling ride through picturesque valleys and snow-capped mountain peaks of Northern Ecuador. Much to the surprise and delight of everybody, temperature (at the Ecuador) was cool and pleasant, due to the high altitude.

ECUADORIAN TRIP —

good will between our hemispheres."

We were ushered into the office of President Yerovi by a cabinet member. President Yerovi's office is handsomely and elegantly furnished in the superb taste of the distinguished Latin-Americans. We formed a semi-circle around his desk and I was introduced as the president of the Festival by Cecil Taran, president of the Ecuadorian Tourist Commission.

Before I left Fulton I had written a warm and sincere speech that Jose Otano had translated for me into Spanish. I practice the speech with almost everybody who could help me with the pronunciations. Well, when I started making the speech and noticed that I was surrounded by learned Ecuadorians, whose Spanish is flawless, I skipped half of what I had written. In the speech, I apologized for my faulty Spanish, and this was the occasion for President Yerovi to reply to my talk by saying, "I accept your apology for your faulty Spanish, but I commend you for your courage... my English is poor, so poor that I won't even attempt to do what you have done." So he spoke to us in Spanish, with his remarks being translated as he finished a thought.

In substance, President Yerovi told us of his close ties with America. He said that he has a son in Texas and a son-in-law in Wyoming. He accepted our invitation to the Festival with enthusiasm and said that he will make every effort to attend, not only to pay his personal respects to our community for what we are doing, but because he wants to make it a "family get-together" as well.

President Yerovi went on to say that he hopes the United States government, especially the diplomatic corps, is appreciative of our efforts and that he shall be an ambassador of public relations for our Festival for years to come.

If you at home would care to contemplate the significance of our visit with any similar one in the United States, then consider going to the White House for an official recognition by President Johnson.

Following our visit at the Presidential Palace, which incidentally is too magnificent to describe, we walked along the streets of downtown Quito, where many of the working people were going home from their work and where the street vendors, the by-standers on the streets and the simply curious, extended their hands and their smiles in warm greetings.

All of us have commented so many times that the people here are friendly, more friendly than you can imagine... with everybody, store-keepers, maids, taxi drivers and just everybody smiling at us and quietly saying Buenos dias... the Ecuadorians have taken our hearts, and they have found an even more special place in ours than ever before.

One of the most impressive and perhaps sentimental occasions of our visit thus far was the walk into the hotel after our presidential visit to find ten of our Amigos, who were at the festival last year, waiting to greet us in the lobby. There were four girls and six boys in the group. The greeting was so warm and so sincere that everybody in the lobby, including the hotel personnel, paused to share the happy occasion with us. It is no exaggeration to say that there were tears of happiness in every eye in the hotel.

We have planned a party for our Amigos in the hotel Saturday afternoon. I will tell you the names of the Amigos who greeted us when I return.

The weather here is great. It seems to change to fit our moods. In the morning it is cool, 70 degrees or so, at mid-day it is like August and the evenings are simply heavenly, just right for a light wrap and light-weight clothing.

Monday night most of us chose our own diversion. Paul and Gid went to the Rotary Club to make up their attendance and there encountered Dr. Ballesteros (Patricia's father), who invited a few of us to a party Saturday night at the Golf and Tennis Club. It's a good thing we brought along some formal wear, for we have certainly had occasion to wear it.

Others went out to dinner at some of the unusual places. Some of us went to the Hotel Colon, a "must" restaurant in Quito, where German and Latin-American food is served along with American food. Later, a lot of us congregated at the Casino here at the Hotel Quito to hear some fine, oh, such fine Latin-American music.

This morning (Thursday) we set out in two busses to get a view of Quito and environs. The experience is just too fabulous to write here, because I do not have the time to do it justice. We didn't get back to the hotel until almost one o'clock, so I took time away from the group to write this travelogue to you.

Tonight we are going to a cocktail party at the residence of the American Embassy. It is a distinct honor to be invited to the residence, for we are told this is only done for visiting diplomats of the highest order. I am sure Ambassador and Mrs. Coerr requested this, since they had planned to do the honors themselves.

As thought it isn't enough that the entire city has opened its doors and its hearts to us, individuals have gone even beyond that. A huge basket of flowers was sent to my room with the compliments of the Ecuadorean government.

With the flowers a bell-boy brought a wire from Carl Oeder, of Standard Fruit Company's office in Guayaquil. The wire welcomed us to Ecuador, extended an offer of any assistance they could give us and then invited us to a party in Guayaquil Monday night, which should serve as a going-away party for us. Again I say it's simply unbelievable, the reception we are receiving here.

There is so much more to say, even for the short time we have been here, but I must close for now and get ready for the Embassy party. I want to look my best, so you know that takes a long time to work at.

We have certainly enjoyed hearing dear ol' Wick Smith's voice here, coming to us via short-wave radio. Colonel Andrews, of the U. S. Army mission, has been marvelous in his cooperation to get Wick in touch with us.

Tomorrow we leave for Santo Domingo to the Colorado Indian country. We have gotten a sneak preview of the way the agrarian natives live and I can hardly wait to go. We will spend the night in Santo Domingo and return to Quito after breakfast. It is a three hour drive to and from.

Saturday night the Minister of Agriculture of Ecuador and the Ecuadorean Tourist Commission have invited us to a party which will feature folkloric dances. I hope to "book" these people for the Festival, just as I have made arrangements with a group here in Quito to bring the most fantastic art exhibit in South America. It will be shown, side by side if space permits, with the Purchase Prize Collection of Ashland Oil Company and the Courier-Journal "Haynie-Harm" exhibit.

Native crafts, wood-work and other primitive creations of Latin-America will also be on exhibit at the Festival, which should have as many visitors, ten times over, as we've had in all the other years combined.

Sunday night Patricia Ballesteros and her wonderful parents are entertaining for us at their home. Louise Killebrew is a house-guest of the Ballesteros.

Part of the Fulton group left Miami by train Wednesday morning and will arrive in Quito Thursday morning on the City of Miami, scheduled to arrive at 9:48.

Monday morning we will start feeling pangs of sadness, for we will depart for Guayaquil, where we will visit the banana plantations, the new harbor, some ship-loading operations and the interesting sights of that historic mountain country. That night we will be the guests of Standard Fruit and Steamship Company for the party mentioned above.

Tuesday we will depart for Miami, for a stop in Quito to pick up Louise, if she doesn't decide to go to Guayaquil with us.

I am going downstairs now for a press conference... with the local communications media. If folks in Washington could only understand what we are trying to do, as the Ecuadorians are certainly showing us that they understand, I can say that this great hemisphere would soon be transformed.

Everybody on the trip sends their best regards to all their friends and to their families. We all miss all of you... but I'd just like to say in closing to those of you who "thought about taking the trip, but didn't" that you will never, ever realize what a splendid opportunity you missed for fun and excitement... and for international good will as well.

William Paxton Is Chairman Of Scout Dinner

William F. Paxton has accepted the chairmanship of the Four Rivers Council, Boy Scouts of America Together Dinner to be held at the Paducah Tilghman High School Cafeteria, 6:30 P. M., Thursday, April 21, 1966.

The Together Plan is one of the most vigorous efforts ever put forth by any youth movement to reach boys. It's a proven plan for organizing a number of Packs, Troops, and Explorer Posts at the same time. It starts with the Together Dinner and applies to units organization all the values of a concerted effort.

Mr. Paxton will preside at the dinner meeting which will feature a program full of enthusiasm and Scouting spirit. His efforts will provide every boy a chance to become a Scout by drawing more churches, schools, and civic clubs into Scouting as sponsors of units.

Letters have already been mailed to the heads of many churches, schools, and various other organizations who have expressed an interest in using the Scouting program in their institution. The Together Plan is now being used successfully throughout the country.

A large number of men have been recruited to serve as organizers. Each church, school, civic organization or business group will be assigned an organizer who will work with that institution until the Scout unit is organized.

All heads of the invited prospective sponsors along with three other members of their institution will be guests of the Four Rivers Council for a steak dinner served by the West Kentucky Vocational School at the dinner on April 21st.

Dr. Will I. Sessions, Pastor of the First Christian Church, Owensboro, Kentucky, will be the main speaker. He is one of the founders of the "God and Country" Church award for Protestant boys in Scouting. Dr. Sessions is an ardent Scout and a dynamic speaker.

After hearing Dr. Sessions' address, all prospective institutions will be given the opportunity to express their desire to sponsor one or more Scout units.

HAPPINESS IS A HEARTY BREAKFAST

Happiness is many things to many people, but everyone is happier when they start the day off right with a hearty breakfast. The United States Department of the Interior's Bureau of Commercial Fisheries has just released a unique recipe booklet entitled "Top O' The Mornin'" that features 21 bright new breakfast ideas with fish and shellfish. You can receive a copy of this attractive full-color booklet by sending 25c to the Superintendent of Documents, U. S. Government Printing Office, Washington, D. C. 20402.

Here's one hearty breakfast idea from the booklet that's fixed in a jiffy. Jiffy Fillets can be prepared using any available fresh or frozen fish fillets found at the supermarket seafood counter. The fillets are brushed with a zippy lemon juice and oil mixture, then sprinkled with paprika for brownness and broiled in the oven until tender.

When you set out a plate of these golden fish fillets for breakfast, the whole day will seem brighter. In fact you'll have to contain yourself or you'll be serving fish for every meal.

Jiffy Fillets

- 2 pounds rockfish fillets or other fish fillets, fresh or frozen
- 1/4 cup melted fat or oil
- 2 tablespoons lemon juice
- 1 teaspoon salt
- Dash white pepper
- Paprika

Thaw frozen fillets. Cut into serving-size portions. Combine fat, lemon juice, salt, and pepper. Place fish, skin side up, on a well-greased broiler pan and brush with fat. Sprinkle with paprika. Broil about 3 inches from source of heat for 4 to 5 minutes. Turn carefully and brush with remaining fat. Sprinkle with paprika. Broil 4 to 5 minutes longer or until fish flakes easily when tested with a fork. Serves 6.

GARDENING TIME... JUST AROUND THE CORNER

"Gardening time" ... words that sound of spring and city folk alike are delighted at the thought of fresh vegetables, whether they be in advertisements or just sidewalk talk. This is one type of gossip in which many people engage when the time comes to prepare the soil and make the rounds for garden seed, bulbs and the like. Most every lover of the soil wants a garden and this is the kind of planning that pays off in many ways. DOWN ON THE FARM, of course, the job of planning and making a top producing garden is very serious business. The successful garden contributes much to the economy of the farm as well as to beautify the surroundings.

Much advice is available on how to grow a garden and just when each variety is to be planted and each plant set in the ground. Some experienced gardeners need some of this information while many 'ole timers' know it by heart. It is just a part of their living.

Regardless of the experience you may have as a gardener, there is one well established fact that everyone must remember. That is—it is highly important to get started early as possible in order to have a successful garden throughout the year. This month and next are the most important. When started early, you are one step ahead of the insects and diseases, and too, weeds are much easier controlled in the early spring.

Suggested planting dates can be secured from your County Agricultural Extension Agent, from the dealer that handles seed, or from well established seed catalogues. Best success is always obtained when improved varieties are used.

There are many kinds of pesticides, insecticides, weed killers and the like, now on the market to assist you in making your garden more productive. Be sure to follow the instructions on the label of the product used, as to application and use of the food products after the material has been applied. You cannot be too careful in the use of dust or spray, because anything that will kill an insect on contact will be harmful to the body and especially children. Keep these supplies locked out of reach of children.

Remember, the best gardens are cultivated before the seeds are planted.

When the grass looks greener on the other side of the fence, it may be that they take better care of it.

CHEMICAL WEED CONTROL ON THE INCREASE IN OBION COUNTY

From all indications we will have a tremendous increase in the use of chemical herbicides to control grass and weeds in Obion County this year on corn, cotton and soybeans. The big increase will be in the use of preemergence herbicides since a large percentage of the corn had had 2,4-D applied as a postemergence spray in past years.

In every section of Obion County last week we observed farmers either installing on tractors, buying, or reworking preemergence herbicides that we will recommend this year include on corn - Atrazine, Simazine, Atrazine mixed with Lorox, Diuron, and 2,4-D.

The recommended preemergence for cotton include: CIPC, Diuron, DCPA, Monuron, Norea, Prometryne, and Trifluralin. The Soybean preemergence chemicals include: Amiben, DCPA, DNBP, Linuron, NPA plus CIPC, PCP, and Trifluralin. Some new preemergence chemicals that look promising and will be tried by Obion County farmers this year include: Ramrod on corn, and Cotoran and Ramrod on cotton.

Just to give an idea of how widely chemical weed control is used in Tennessee - last year 420,000 acres of cotton was preemerged with chemical herbicides in Tennessee.

PECAN TREE GRAFTING

A Pecan Tree Grafting School will be held in Obion County next week, Thursday, April 28, 10:00 a. m. on the M. T. Flippen Farm near Shawtown and Hornbeak.

Mr. John Clark, Horticulturist, from Jackson, will conduct the pecan grafting school. If you are interested in pecan trees and have from 1 to 100 pecan trees, why not make your plans to attend the pecan grafting demonstration. During the meeting every person present will have an opportunity to actually graft several pecan trees.

New Beef Sale, Show Planned In Louisville

Plans have been announced for a major new beef show and sale in Louisville next year.

Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture Wendell Butler said the new Louisville Steer and Carcass Show will be held March 6-9, 1967. It will replace the old Bourbon Beef Show, which was discontinued last year.

The show will be sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Agriculture, Bourbon Stockyards, Louisville meat-packing firms and the University of Kentucky extension service and division of agricultural education. Premiums offered will total nearly $10,000, Butler said.

Two important changes have been made in connection with the operation of the new show.

"It will be open to exhibitors from anywhere in the world as compared with restricted entries for the Bourbon Show," Butler said.

"And, cattle will be shown in age classes rather than in weight categories as was previously practiced."

He emphasized that this would put the accent on quality animals and will allow exhibitors outside of Kentucky to enter the competition. There will be both junior and open divisions in the competition.

Questions and Answers for Veterans Affairs

Q—My father died as a result of service-connected disabilities in World War II, making me eligible for schooling under the War Orphans Educational Assistance Act. May I pursue this education at the U. S. Military Academy?

A—No, not under the War Orphans Act. However, since your father's death resulted from a service-connected disability you can apply to the President for special appointment to the Academy. The Congress provided for Presidential appointment of additional cadets or midshipmen to the U. S. Military Academy, the U. S. Naval Academy, or the U. S. Air Force Academy from those sons of servicemen who were killed in, or died later as a result of disabilities incurred in service in World War I, World War II, and the Korean Conflict. Your selection will be in order of merit among other War Orphan applicants as established by a competitive mental examination and a physical examination.

Q—I am 29 years of age and have recently accepted a job in another city. Should my Selective Service local board be informed of this?

A—Yes. A registrant has a continuing obligation to keep his local board informed of all changes of address, changes in physical condition and change in family status.

Q—I am 18 1/2 years old and expect to graduate from high school in June. My question is, will I be drafted before graduation?

A—No. If you are satisfactorily pursuing a full time course of instruction in high school or a similar institution and have not attained your 20th birthday, you will be retained in Class I-S(H) which should not prevent your graduation.

Q—I have received an Order to Report for Induction. Can I join the National Guard?

A—No. A registrant who has received an Order to Report for Induction cannot enlist in the National Guard or any component of the reserve forces. This is a recent change and was based on a recommendation from the Defense Department.

CIRCUIT JUDGE Earl T. Osborne of Benton will run for election to the post of Judge of the Court of Appeals. In announcing for the race, Osborne blasted the recent decision of the Appellate Court which requires all property to be assessed at 100 per cent of its cash value.

Earl T. Osborne Announces For Appellate Judgeship Race

Circuit Judge Earl T. Osborne of Benton announced that he has filed his papers with the Secretary of State for the office of Judge of the Court of Appeals. Osborne said the recent decision of the Appellate Court requiring all property to be assessed at 100 per cent of its cash value was the chief factor in his determination to seek the post now held by Judge Brady M. Stewart of Paducah. Judge Stewart voted with the other members of the Court in favor of the full value assessment. Osborne criticized this decision saying the Court illegally usurped the legislative powers and that the decision had seriously injured the entire tax structure of the state and destroyed the people's confidence in the Court.

Judge Osborne is Circuit Judge of the 42nd Judicial District which includes Marshall, Calloway and Livingston Counties. He was first elected in 1957 and was, at the time, one of the youngest Circuit Judges ever elected in the history of the State. He was a pilot with the 9th Air Force in World War II where he served in the European Theater of Operations, participating in nine major battles and was decorated twice with the Air Medal and once with the Presidential Citation. He is married to Helen Cooper of Ballard County. They have four children. The oldest, Bill, is an electrical engineering student at the University of Kentucky.

Don't Talk Back To Traffic Cop, Chances 2 To 1 You'll Pay Fine

The odds are about two to one that a person arrested or cited by Kentucky State Police on a traffic violation charge will be convicted.

The 1966 annual report of the Kentucky Department of Public Safety showed 65 per cent of motorists arrested or cited to court by State Police during the period from January to June 1965 were convicted.

Of 45,669 persons against whom charges were preferred, 28,711 were convicted. Other records just completed, but not in time for inclusion in the report, showed the 65 per cent held true for all of 1965 with 58,129 convictions out of 97,339 charges.

In 1964, the annual report showed 61,946 convictions in 100,486 cases, for a 67 per cent conviction rate. That year, 12,338 cases were dismissed, 18,118 filed away, 8,023 found to be outside the judges' jurisdictions, with 61 miscellaneous dispositions.

In the first six months of 1965 there were 6,515 dismissals, 8,127 cases filed away, 4,227 outside judges' jurisdictions and 29 other dispositions.

The records for all judges handling State Police traffic charges were published for the first time in the new annual report although they have been available and released in other form in the past.

They were incorporated in the report, the department said, "in the hope that it will make Kentuckians more aware of, and more interested in, the work done" by the judges in such cases.

The report reviewed activities of the department's six divisions—Accident Control, Administrative Services, Boating, Driver Licensing, Fire Prevention and State Police—and the Governor's Coordinating Committee for Traffic Safety. The committee was formed to lead the campaign against the loss of lives and destruction in highway accidents.

Such accidents killed 918 persons in 1965, compared with 911 in 1964 and 765 in 1960.

The report noted there were 1,430,299 motor vehicles registered in Kentucky in 1964, up 19 per cent from 1960; 58,836 reported accidents, up 45 per cent; 454 State Police personnel, one more than in 1960, and 1,330,000 licensed drivers, up 12 per cent in the four years.

The police force's total authorized strength now is about 405. Governor Edward T. Breathitt's budget, passed by the 1966 Legislature, provides for 50 additional State troopers during each of the next two fiscal years, starting July 1.

Relaxation... Hunting, Fishing... Feels The Bite Of Tax Increases

A one-dollar increase in the price of resident fishing and hunting licenses were among license fees increased at a recent meeting of the Kentucky Fish and Wildlife Resources Commission. The increases are effective next year.

Resident fishing and hunting licenses will go up from $3.25 to $4.25 each, but for the first time Kentuckians may buy a combined hunting and fishing license for $7.50 annually.

The price of annual non-resident fishing licenses was increased $2, from $5.50 to $7.50 and the non-resident hunting license was raised from $15.50 to $25.50.

The commission also announced these license fee increases:

A junior hunting license, available only to residents under 16, will go up from $1.25 to $2.25. The 10-day non-resident fishing license was extended to 15 consecutive days and the price raised from $2.25 to $3.25.

A falconry permit for residents at a cost of $2 was created by the commission.

The need for increased revenue

"to take care of constantly mounting costs of the department (Fish and Wildlife Resources)" was cited by the commission as the reason for the fee increases.

Part of the extra revenue will be used to raise salaries of department employees, especially those of conservation officer Fish and Wildlife Resources Commissioner Minor Clark said.

No immediate estimate was available as to how much additional revenue the license fee increases would bring in.

Clyde Hubbard, Louisville, president of the League of Kentucky Sportsmen, indicated the organization would endorse the increase. He noted that 16 other states charge more for hunting and fishing licenses than Kentucky.

The commission also requested fishing licensing reciprocity agreement between Tennessee at Kentucky on the use of Barkley Lake to conform with the present law on Kentucky Lake.

The Division of Weights and Measures now has its limestone testing facilities in operation. This new laboratory enables the Division to test and evaluate agricultural limestone and have the results much more rapid than in the past.

Before the lab was installed, tests for the Department of Agriculture were conducted by the Department of Highways. Since the Highway Department had a full schedule of its own tests, results of limestone tests were often delayed. This meant, of course, that many times we did not get results of limestone tests soon enough to be of the most help to farmers and quarry operators.

With the new facilities, results of tests can be provided in about 24 hours.

When a sample is taken at a quarry, it is given to the laboratory for two specific tests. First, the lime is checked to see if it meets the State requirements on grinding. Under present regulations, 90 percent of the stone must pass through a 10-mesh sieve, and 35 percent must pass through a

AIRCRAFT TESTS STALL

Weather Delays Flights Of Radical British Jet

FT. CAMPBELL, Ky., April 16.—Bad weather last week caused a slowdown in tests by the Army, Navy and Air Force of a new British jet that takes off and lands vertically.

Six of the aircraft, designated the XV-6A, have been at Ft. Campbell two weeks awaiting tests.

Only two of the planes were airworthy late in the week and two others near assembly, another being assembled and the sixth still in the crate.

Engine Will Have 15,000 Cars' Power

PARIS—Being built in France are the world's first two steam turbine engines that will attain a power of 800 megawatts on a single shaft. Electricite de France has ordered the first of them for its new Porcheville power plant in Seine-et-Oise. The unit will be 1,089 feet long, weigh 1,250 tons and transmit power equal to that of 15,000 automobiles.

THE BEST THINGS IN LIFE AREN'T FREE

Any parent can testify to that. A family's needs grow as it grows. Even the bare necessities get more numerous and more expensive. What if every purchase had to be paid for in cash, in full, before your family could start using it? Today most people use charge accounts for budgeting and for convenience. Good credit is important to you and easy to enjoy. Just see that you pay as agreed—promptly when due, in correct amounts—and your local credit bureau records will reflect your integrity. Furthermore, if you should move to any city across the nation, you would want credit there. No problem: your good credit history is quickly available to the local credit bureau through its professional affiliation with the Associated Credit Bureaus of America, Inc.

Seventy-five companies which announced new plants in Kentucky last year were honored on April 11, at an Industry Appreciation Luncheon at the Sheraton Hotel in Louisville. Company officials were awarded certificates of appreciation from the State and the Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. One firm honored was the Graphite Products Division, The Carborundum Company. Shown here from left to right are Governor Edward T. Breathitt, Richard Markel, Vice President and John M. Lewis, Executive Vice President, Kentucky Chamber of Commerce. The luncheon marked the beginning of Industry Appreciation Week April 11-16, as proclaimed by Governor Breathitt.

Cooper Calls For Stable Viet Nam Government

MOREHEAD, Ky. —Sen. John Sherman Cooper, R-Ky., warned today that America's effort to save South Viet Nam from communism could be to no avail if a stable government isn't established in Saigon.

Cooper told of his concern about the deepening political crisis in South Viet Nam in a speech prepared for delivery at Morehead State College's Foreign Relations Day program.

"The stability of the government in Saigon is another vital point" in the Viet Nam struggle, Cooper said.

"Our tremendous military and aid effort may mean nothing if a stable government that really reflects the hopes of the people is not established," he said.

The Republican stated again his belief that the U.S. must continue its efforts "to end the war by negotiation."

Cooper said the U.S. can encourage an atmosphere for negotiations by confining the area of its military operations. He added this also would "lessen the possibility of the Viet Nam war being extended and leading to a larger war, and possibly World War III."

Everett will attend a public reception from 3 to 5 at the Greystone Hotel. The reception is being given by Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Looney, long-time friends of Everett.

This will be Everett's first official visit to Henry County since it was transferred to his Eighth District last year by the state Legislature.

Snapper Nabbed To Open Season

WARREN, Pa., April 16. —The trout season opened at 5 a.m. Saturday and a few minutes later patrolman Richard White received a telephone call from a man asking to help him fish out his false teeth which had fallen through a sidewalk grating.

White said when he got to the scene a fisherman who had been passing by already had hooked the man's teeth on his line.

"What kind of bait did you use?" White asked the fisherman jokingly.

"Didn't use any bait," was the reply, "but they sure were biting."

Artist's rendering of 115-acre Six Flags Over Texas located midway between Dallas and Fort Worth. The $14,000,000 historical theme amusement park, now the most popular single tourist attraction in the State of Texas, features more than 75 rides, attractions and shows. An estimated 1.8 million people from all over the United States will visit Six Flags during the 1966 season.

Aerial view of portion of U.S.A. Section of Six Flags Over Texas. In foreground are the peppy one-cylinder, seven and one-half horsepower gasoline driven sports cars that guests drive themselves along a quarter mile freeway. Traveling 50 feet over the top of the park are the Astrolift cars along a 2,100-foot cable from the U.S.A. Section to the Texas Section.

Frequent shoot-outs between lawmen and outlaws take place around the Texas Section at Six Flags Over Texas. Here a crowd gathers in front of Judge Roy Bean's Jersey Lilly Courthouse as sheriff's deputies invoke Judge Bean's "Law West of the Pecos" on renegade fast draw gun-fighters.

• Combat Support Training is the new name for Common Specialist Training—the technical schooling for 10 Military Occupational Specialties such as clerk typist, light vehicle driver, cook, and radio operator—according to the U.S. Continental Army Command. The new title more accurately describes the group of job specialties and is appropriate to the importance of those technical skills, CONARC officials said.

• All 34,600 men requested by the Department of Defense in the May draft call will be assigned to the Army; the Navy, Air Force, and Marine Corps have not placed requests with the Selective Service System. The May call reflects current D-D plans for expanding the military to meet needs in Vietnam.

• The U.S. Army Infantry Board at Fort Benning, Ga., has completed several modifications of the M-60 machine gun, making it lighter, less complex, and quicker to set-up, while sacrificing none of its accuracy and durability. The weapon's sling and carrying handle have been redesigned, the latter being fastened directly to the barrel for faster barrel replacement, and the bipod legs have been permanently attached to the gun. The modified model has already been field tested successfully.

A light shower of water is part of the climax of the Flume ride at Six Flags Over Texas. Passengers aboard hollowed out logs race along a curving watery course followed by a 45-degree descent down a 44-foot slope for a splashing finish.

Ten gallon hats or 1,000 gallon sombreros. Six Flags Over Texas has them both. Passengers ride around the brim of El Sombrero topay-turvy style in the Mexican Section of the Park.

SOLDIERS NEED more than guts and guns to fight a war. They fill their tents and "hooches" with tape recorders, cameras, and battery-operated electric shavers—luxury items that help to make combat life in this tropical land a little more comfortable. To supply these morale-boosters and a long list of other important commodities like soda, fruit juice, and candy bars, the Army operates Post Exchanges wherever troops are located. At Cu Chi, for example, the 25th Infantry Division's 2d Brigade was still battling the VC—trying to secure enough ground to establish a base camp—when First Lt. John T. Tunison arrived and set up a PX for the 4,000-man unit. There are no tile floors and attractive displays, but Tunison's store has more than $50-thousand worth of merchandise, replenished weekly by heavily-guarded truck convoys. Billowing clouds of dust make it impossible to stock some perishable or delicate items, but they're still available through a mail service. (ANF)

Rich Gold Vein Discovered
On Church Property
AUBURN, Calif., April 16.—
— St. Paul's Lutheran Church has an unusual problem:

What to do about a vein of gold ore discovered on church land in this Mother Lode country that produced millions of dollars worth a century ago. A bulldozer uncovered the vein only a few yards from busy Interstate 80 while cutting a road to the church's new building site.

Leaders will meet Sunday to discuss their find . . . which was assayed at an exceptionally high $572.95 a ton. "We were astounded," reported the pastor, Rev. Charles Rauschek.

The Commanding General of U.S. Army, Vietnam, is now authorized by DA to appoint enlisted men to the rank of second lieutenant in the Army Reserve with a concurrent call to active duty when, under combat conditions, they demonstrate "a potential for commissioned service." The new appointments, authorized in a change to AR 135-100, will be made against DA quotas. Unlike the requirements for a "battlefield appointment" to the Regular Army, the new policy requires appointees to have served at least six months with USAR-V, meet educational and physical standards, and be recommended by a board of officers. Fashion's Motto: Think Young

In fashion, the young look is in... and so is the young designer.

Typical of up-and-coming young designers in California are Sharon Moore and Marilyn Schulster. Both are only 22 and pretty enough to be mistaken for models. They teamed up as designers for a senior class project at UCLA's School of Apparel Design and have been working together ever since. Now planning their fourth collection, they design under the appropriate label of "Like Young." Their styles live up to the label... they're youthful.

looking yet sophisticated enough to be worn by any fashion-wise woman.

Fabrics play an important role in the creation of each of their designs. The girls often work directly with fabric mills to get the distinctive colors they want. Cotton is a special favorite because it takes dye so well and because, as Marilyn says, "It has the natural quality we like so much." The two follow their designs from patterns to finished garments to make sure their original concept is preserved.

CHECKS WITH FLAIR — The young look in fashion is captured in this two-piece sleeveless suit of cotton houndstooth checks. It's one of the designs created by Sharon Moore and Marilyn Schulster under the "Like Young" label.

COMMERCIAL FOOD PROCESSING

At a recent meeting of the American Public Health Association, an executive of one of the largest commercial food processors and distributors pointed out some of the advantages of the modern methods of food preparation and distribution, aside from the obvious convenience of being able to buy almost any food anywhere at any time. Many of our older people can remember when fresh foods out of season were not only more expensive, but often simply unobtainable.

Food Readily Available

The ready availability of a variety of foods not only reduces housework. It also improves nutrition. In 1903 the average family consumption of canned goods was 3 cans per year. A great many consumed none, except what they preserved at home. By 1963, the average had risen to 683 cans per family. This is exclusive of frozen foods, unknown in 1903, and now being in excess of 8.5 billion pounds a year. Other types of processing, such as drying, salting and curing, and smoking are not included, either.

Food is safe

The safety of this vast supply is safeguarded from its origin to the ultimate consumer. Milk, for example, is supervised from farm to table, cooled, pasteurized, and protected from contamination by automatic handling in spotless dairies. Meat is inspected by federal and local inspectors, and graded for quality. Cooked foods such as soups, meats, spaghetti and vegetables, are prepared under conditions of scrupulous cleanliness of premises, equipment, and personnel.

Raw materials, such as vegetables, are controlled at the farm by supervision dealing with proper use of fertilizers and pesticides, with soil analysis, and specified time for harvesting to get the most nutritive value. They are sorted, washed and prepared by experts, who can do a better job than the most careful housewife can.

Highly Supervised

Food processors shipping in interstate commerce are subject to supervision by the U.S. Department of Agriculture, the Food and Drug Administration, and the Public Health Service, and to state, county and city authorities in many instances. Government standards of cleanliness, safety and nutritive value are exceeded by industry performance.

And says, this food executive, if the can you buy shows six meatballs, you may get seven, but you can be sure you won't get only five.

Useful Baby Gifts

If there are new babies at your friends' or relatives' houses, the mothers could use diaper pins, bottles, nipples, powder, lotion, Kleenex junior size tissues, teething rings and rattles. Put all the items in a box and they're a useful and inexpensive gift for a baby shower.

Just for fun, fold the wrapping paper like a diaper, glue the folds down, and pin them together with two diaper pins.

Teen-Scene Cutouts Encourage Neatness

Closet and drawer brighteners are pretty and practical additions to a feminine bedroom. They can help young girls learn to organize storage space and clothes as well.

A huge flower made of Marvalon adhesive covering on the inside of a closet door, with a hook at the tip of each petal, may encourage fashion-conscious daughters to hang up their clothes. Shapes of slips, hose, and lingerie on the bottom of dresser drawers will help organize smaller items.

Boxes for jewelry, cosmetics and hair rollers — covered with Marvalon and decorated with cut-outs of necklaces and bracelets, bottles, jars and rollers — are attractive dresser-top accessories.

Try the same idea for boys, using baseballs and pennants in their school colors as backdrops for hooks on the closet and shapes of socks and underwear in dresser drawers.

This "subliminal advertising" for neatness can work wonders, without the need for a nagging word.

FOR THE FOOT—An Australian soldier in Vietnam monitors his radio set while examining punjis brought to him by an interpreter serving with his unit. The Viet Cong use the punji stake extensively around jungle strongholds, placing them in high grass, under water, or under soft mud. To protect soldiers' feet from the punji stakes, the Army has developed and issued a special jungle boot with a light metal mesh insole.

LANCE Testing To Determine Final Design

REDSTONE ARSENAL, Ala. (ANF)—Ground testing of the Army's newest battlefield missile — the LANCE—is underway at the Army Missile Command facilities here. Along with actual firing data, the test results will be used to determine the final design of the missile.

The engine and propulsion systems of the LANCE are being subjected to static firing and a series of "torque" tests to check their ability to withstand extreme conditions of climate. In the latter testing, the Army will use environmental chambers that simulate the heat of the tropics and the cold of the Arctic; special shock and vibration tables; sand and dust chambers; and a water bath.

The LANCE artillery missile system can fire nuclear and conventional warheads over a greater range with greater accuracy than the HONEST JOHN which it will replace. It is a highly mobile weapon that can be easily air-transported and air-dropped.

Ling-Temco-Vought's Michigan Aerospace Division is prime contractor for the missile.

State Police Add "Fugitive" To List

FRANKFORT — Kentucky State Police have named Oakley Thomas Cisney, Greenville, Ky., who escaped from Kentucky State Reformatory at LaGrange four years ago, to their "Top Five Fugitive" list.

Cisney escaped from the Reformatory in May, 1962 after serving "one-and-a-half years of a 21-year sentence for voluntary manslaughter.

Oakley Thomas Cisney
State Police describe Cisney as 5 ft. 10 in. tall and weighing 180 pounds. He has brown hair, brown eyes and has a small scar on the left corner of his lower lip. Cisney, 51 years old, has worked as a farmer.

He replaces Dempsey Merida on the Top Five list. Merida, wanted in Lexington for armed robbery, was recently captured in Texas. He was the fifth fugitive apprehended since the program started last July.

Other fugitives on the Top Five are:

- * Dale Phillip Cornwell, wanted by the U. S. Secret Service at Louisville for counterfeiting U. S. currency.
- * Inmon English, Louisville, who escaped from Eddyville Penitentiary in 1958.
- * David Daniel Bennett, Bowling Green, who escaped from a farm detail at Kentucky State Reformatory in 1962.
- * Conrad Combs, Perry County, wanted for shooting and wounding with intent to kill and unlawful flight.

Ground Tests Prove Spacecraft Reactor
SANTA SUSANA, Calif.—The Atomic Energy Commission has successfully ground-tested a nuclear reactor system for generating electric power. The system, designed for use in space vehicles, has operated a full year without manual adjustments.
