Over 150 Young People Turn Out For Children's Theatre Tryouts

Over 150 young people from the Murray and Calloway County area turned out to audition for "Androcles and the Lion," the first production of a community theatre group that was formed here less than a month ago. Notes were sent home with students in grades three through twelve to publicize the auditions. "but I never expected anything like this," said Richard Valentine, director for the production. "A total of 91 young people tried out and many others were there who were interested in other areas of theatre."

Valentine said he didn't like to have to hurry through auditions but that with a group that size he had no choice. Every school in the city and county systems was represented.

The first major problem has been selecting a cast. "With only six roles to fill and all the people who tried out, I could have come up with a dozen different casts — all good," Valentine said, "but I finally narrowed it down."

The cast will include the following: Mark Austin, Androcles; Bryan Bartlett, Pantalone; Dana Morton, Isabella; Ross Bolen, Lelio; Mark Hussung, the Captain; and Jackie McKnight, the Lion.

The play is a freely adapted version of a classic legend and was chosen partly because of the small cast since no one knew just how much interest there would be. There are also plans to tour the show around the county and a small troupe travels better and lighter, a spokesman said.

The Calloway County Public Library was used for the try-outs on the invitation from librarian Margaret Trevathan. "The crowd we had Tuesday is a terrific indicator of just how much we need an ongoing program like this in the county," she said. Mrs. Trevathan is also executive director of the board to start the theatre group here.

Due to last Tuesday's response, the group will discuss plans for a larger production before the end of the school year, and, if enough interest is shown, plans for a summer theatre will also be implemented, a spokesman said.

Although many young people will be involved with "Androcles" working on the set, costumes, props and other essentials, not every child can possibly work with this production. "We don't want to lose anyone interested in creative dramatics," said Jo Curris, board member, "that's why we are already working on a series of theatre classes designed by Valentine to get our children ready for their next production."

The cast will meet on Monday, February 14 at 3:30 p. m. along with any others interested in helping with the play. Those who filled out the information sheet last Tuesday will be informed about future meetings through the mail.

Persons having further questions concerning this new organization are encouraged to call 753-2288 or any member of the community theatre group.

Flulike Illness Plaguing Some West Kentucky School Systems

By GEORGE W. HACKETT
Associated Press Writer

State health officials are studying specimens from western Kentucky to determine if influenza is the cause of high absenteeism in some schools. "We don't know whether it's the flu or something else," said Dr. Carlos Hernandez, director of the Division of Preventive Services in the state Health Department.

County School Board To Meet

Several items of routine business are on the agenda for the regular meeting of the Calloway County School Board which begins at 7 p.m. tonight in the board offices on College Farm Road.

The board will discuss the elementary basketball program and will hear a report from Supt. Jack Rose.

Rose is scheduled to report on the system's transportation, construction at the high school, the energy crisis, the school calendar and the practical arts program.

Hernandez said his agency was collecting "some specimens to run through the laboratory and, hopefully, isolate this thing and see what it is."

Two western Kentucky school systems have been closed for the rest of the week, and others are plagued with absenteeism because of an outbreak of flulike symptoms among pupils.

Supt. Richard Hopkins shut down McLean County schools Wednesday after learning that 139 of the 2,258 pupils had missed classes.

One McLean County physician reported that he had treated at least 300 cases, and said the illness carried the symptoms of Victoria influenza "or a virus simulating flu symptoms."

A similar closure order was issued by Supt. Bill Rideout when 1,080 youngsters, about 10 per cent of enrollment, were absent in Henderson County.

About 400 cases of the flu-like disease were reported in Graves County, but officials decided to keep schools open.

Mary Criswell of the Graves County Health Department said that "there definitely is some type of bug going around. It may be one particular virus

Panel Delivers 27 Indictments In Calloway Circuit Court Today

The Calloway Circuit Court Grand Jury reported today to Circuit Judge James Lassiter that it is concerned with the investigation of the fire that destroyed the Houston McDevitt Clinic.

The grand jury report indicated that the panel had before it a state police arson investigator who indicated that, in his opinion, the fire was intentionally set. However, he further indicated that very little investigation had occurred since the week following the fire.

He further admitted, according to the grand jury, that there is a lack of manpower in the arson section of the Kentucky State Police. "We found," the grand jury report says, "that the investigation, although it is continuing, is not as intense nor is it progressing at the rate it should be. Accordingly, we have taken the following actions:

— "We have appealed to Rep. Kenneth Imes for assistance in getting additional state police investigation.

— "We have collectively written a letter to Gov. Julian Carroll stating the importance of this investigation to our community and urging his help in getting adequate state police arson investigation.

— "We request that the May 1977 Grand Jury again consider this matter in an attempt to assure that the investigation is thoroughly conducted.

The Grand Jury also interviewed agents of the state police narcotics division and met briefly with an agent of the Federal Drug Enforcement Administration. In these interviews they were "made aware of the drug charges that have been filed in U.S. District Court against Dr. James Ray Ammons and Tosun Yourk; (these persons having been previously charged in Calloway County Court.)

After these interviews, we feel that this investigation is thorough and is continuing. This Grand Jury did not render any indictments pertaining to that investigation as it appears that any indictments that might be rendered at this stage of the investigation would duplicate those pending in Federal Court.

The Grand Jury also returned 27 criminal indictments today as it reported back to Circuit Judge James Lassiter.

Those made public included:

Don R. Miller, charged with second degree wanton endangerment. He pleaded guilty and was fined $250 today.

Edward L. Mason, Gary Dean James, and George Dijulio, one count of theft by unlawful taking, and two counts of third degree burglary. Trial date is set for June 2 for the three.

Cynthia Ramsey, two counts of theft by unlawful taking and three counts of third degree burglary.

Dwayne Martin, uttering a forged prescription. His trial date was set for March 3.

Dale Jackson, one count of trafficking in cocaine and one count of trafficking in dilaudid. His trial was set for May 3.

Harvey Ellis, Jr., theft by unlawful taking. His trial date is set for May 23. (Ellis is reported to be of no relation to Harvey Ellis of Circarama Drive here).

Annie E. Duckett, two counts of second degree possession of a forged instrument. She pleaded not guilty, and the arraignment was continued to Tuesday.

James Leroy Hutson, first degree robbery, in connection with a robbery Nov. 10 at Kwik Pik Market. He pleaded not guilty, and trial was set for June 2.

Andrew Armstrong, theft by deception, two counts. He entered a plea of not guilty. The charge theft by deception is the new classification for cold checking.

Charles Lane, theft by unlawful taking, two counts, and one count of third degree burglary. He entered a plea of not guilty.

Eugene Duffy and Michael Skinner, three counts of third degree burglary.

Rickey Nance and Lee Beach, theft by unlawful taking, and Lee Beach, third degree burglary. Beach entered a guilty plea to both indictments and will return on Feb. 15 for sentencing.

Steve Barnett, intimidating a witness. His trial is set for May 23.

Mark Rogers, second degree forgery and third degree burglary. He entered a plea of not guilty to both counts.

Tommy Thurman, four counts of knowingly receiving stolen property. His trial is set for June 6.

Ray Underhill, two counts of theft by deception.

Michael E. Watts, making a forged prescription. He pleaded not guilty, and trial was set for May 23.

Jake Barnett, theft by deception. Jake Barnett and John Barnett, three counts of theft by deception.

Jerry Wofford, second degree arson. He pleaded not guilty and trial was set for March 3.

Connie Ramsey, four counts of theft by unlawful taking and three counts of third degree burglary. He pleaded not guilty to all counts and trial date will be set later.

Fiscal Court Hears Report On U. S. 641

The Calloway County Fiscal Court heard a report from the state highway department on the four-laning of 12th Street from Chestnut to Sycamore at its regular meeting this morning.

The court received the progress report, which had already been presented to the Murray City Council, and was asked for any recommendations on the project.

The court did recommend to the state officials present that a bike path be included on the west side of the street from Sycamore to Chestnut.

In other action at the meeting today, a routine transfer of funds from the salaries account to the supplies account was approved, and Graham Felner was reappointed to the Murray-Calloway County Hospital Board on recommendation from the Farm Bureau.

Squire Ralph Bogard was given the authority to sign for surplus property from the state and the court accepted for county maintenance a road in the Rolling Hills Subdivision.

Finally, the court voted to replace a scanner in the patrol car of State Trooper J. C. Barnett at a cost of around $200. The court had provided such a radio in Barnett's previous cruiser in order that he could communicate with the county sheriff's department. That cruiser was destroyed by fire while on loan to another part of the state, and the scanner was destroyed.

Buying Tobacco At Barns Could Hurt In Future, Officials Say

The practice of buyers of dark fired tobacco going to the barns to buy tobacco this year may threaten the economy in western Kentucky and Tennessee, according to tobacco officials.

The Dark Fired Tobacco Associations were formed about 1908 to help the tobacco growers in the area to get a better price for the tobacco. When the tobacco is sold through the barns and not taken through the loose leaf floors, the government price support might be lost if the practice continues.

This year with the scarcity of tobacco the farmers rushed to the barns to buy the crops with prices of $1.40 to $1.50 per pound reported. The growers who sold their tobacco crops through the local floors, Growers and Farris, reported they were happy with the prices received, however.

Holmes Ellis, manager of the Western Dark Fired Tobacco Association, said 435,084 pounds had been sold through Wednesday on the Murray and Mayfield markets with the average price being almost $1.35 per pound.

Figures from the Eastern Dark Fired Tobacco Association, William Porter, manager, show that 235,000 pounds were sold through markets in Hopkinsville, and at Clarksville and Springfield, Tenn., with an average of $1.43 being reported.

Ellis and Porter said if the situation of buying tobacco at the barns continues, it could have the following effects:

Sales at the barn could put warehousemen out of the dark fired business as many auction floors handle only the dark fired leaf.

Associations could be threatened as tobacco handlers if the practice continues, as it is through them that farmers benefit from the government price support program under which growers have a guaranteed market at a minimum price. Tobacco bought by the government goes into a pool for marketing at a proper time.

Officials said they did not believe that buyers will continue to sell their tobacco at the barn and bypass the warehouse floors long enough to destroy the associations. With the demand this year exceeding the supply, the buyers rushed to the barns in order to be able to fill their quotas.

The tobacco officials hope that with the high prices paid for the tobacco this year that more of the leaf will be grown in 1977 increasing the crop production.

Members of the associations are supposed to pay the co-ops a percentage of their gross (one half of 1 per cent in the east and 1 per cent in the west) even if they sell at the barn. But there is no system to ensure payments if the tobacco is sold at the barn.

Porter said that, although barn sales in the eastern district have been "fairly heavy" the last few years, they have not caused a financial burden on the association.

Ellis said that until this year barn sales had been negligible in the western district. Both managers said they had never envisioned a barn-buying situation such as the one that has occurred this year.

The western district also does a big grain-handling business at Murray. Porter's group used to handle grain but handles only tobacco now. Both associations handle dark air-cured tobacco, but the business, especially in the west, is not considered large compared to dark-fired. Neither handles burley.

The 20 Kentucky counties and about a dozen in Tennessee that are covered by the two associations produce most of the dark-fired tobacco grown in the nation.

Dark-fired tobacco is used for snuff, smoking tobacco and some heavy cigars. About half the crop is exported.

Production of tobacco in 1976 for sale this year was estimated by the U. S. Department of Agriculture at 35.9 million pounds. Ellis said he thought about 6 million pounds of that would be produced in the western area, which covers the eight-county region known as the Jackson Purchase.

Last year, the Murray-Mayfield markets sold 4.9 million pounds. The Hopkinsville and Tennessee markets sold about 17 million pounds, with the Hopkinsville share estimated at 7 million pounds.

Usually, the dark-fired sales season has ended, or is nearing an end, by this time. But delivery of the 10 to 20 per cent of the crop headed for the auction floors has been held up by the cold weather.

However, Ellis said he did not expect the Murray-Mayfield markets to sell more than a million pounds of the 1976 crop. According to Porter's estimates of tobacco sold at the barn, the eastern auction total may drop below 5 million pounds, with less than 2 million pounds of that being sold at Hopkinsville.

The associations date back to 1932, when the 1931 crop was handled. But two short-lived associations, Ewing Association, which served both districts, and the Shapiro Association, which served the western area, preceded them.

State Workers Try To Keep Warm As Offices Cooler

FRANKFORT, Ky. — The cold weather which has gripped the state for the last month has forced many changes in state government, including an adjustment of work hours and lowering of thermostats.

estimating the state's conservation efforts in the areas of work schedules and temperature control will mean a fuel savings of about 15 percent.

only one day, Clark pointed out. Gov. Carroll announced the new operating schedule for most state government offices. Most offices will be open from 8 a.m. until 6 p.m., Monday through Thursday, with one-half hour for lunch. Normal hours are 8 a.m. through 4:30 p.m., Monday through Friday, with one hour for lunch. The new schedule means employees will be working 38-hour weeks instead of 37 1/2-hour weeks.

A QUILT helps keep state employe Sarah Carney of Lawrenceburg warm as she goes about her work in the Personnel Department. Her coat on the back of the chair is on hand in case extra warmth is needed. State workers have begun dressing more warmly since office temperatures have been lowered to 65 degrees during most working hours. The reduction is part of the state's attempt to conserve heating fuel during the cold weather.

Exceptions to the four-day week are offices which provide emergency assistance to people affected by the cold weather.

Offices of the Unemployment Insurance Division of the Bureau of Social Insurance, Kentucky State Police, Bureau of Corrections, Division of Disaster Emergency Services and the Department of Energy remain on their regular five-day schedules; and employees in some of those agencies are working overtime to solve weather-related problems.

Besides a shift in hours designed to conserve fuel oil — state offices with alternative fuel systems have been taken off natural gas — thermostats are lowered to 65 degrees or lower from 8 a.m. until 4:30 p.m. At night and on the three days offices are not in use, thermostats are lowered to 50 degrees.

Temperature reductions also have been made at the state-owned Kentucky Fair and Exposition Center in Louisville, according to A. C. Chapman, deputy director of the center. Chapman said public spaces unoccupied by either the public or work crews are being kept at 40 degrees while public spaces occupied by work crews only are at 50 degrees. The temperature in center offices and publicly occupied spaces will not be more than 65 degrees, counting heat from all sources, such as body heat, Chapman said.

Other steps being taken to save heating fuel in state buildings include minimization of outside air intake for ventilation purposes, according to Gerald Robbins, another official in the Bureau for Facilities Management. He said air intake systems are being closed off when offices are unoccupied so the cold air will not have to be heated.

Robbins said such measures as drawing blinds and drapes when sunlight is not available are being encouraged in all state offices.

Nurse Count Nears Million

The figures that tell about this nation's health care system continue to grow, says the Health Insurance Institute. For example, current data show it comprises some 380,000 active and inactive doctors, 961,000 nurses, 7,000 hospitals, 3 million beds in hospitals or other inpatient facilities and 4.4 million workers in a variety of health-related occupations.

We Spent $118 Billion

The annual national health expenditures for this system, responsible for the well-being of every American, comes to more than $118 billion, over 8 percent of the Gross National Product, or an average of $547 for every American.

'Basic Four' Can Nourish You

Do you know what nutritionists consider a "balanced diet"? It's one accepted as the best to date for the average healthy individual, says the Health Insurance Institute. It is known as "the basic four"—milk and dairy products, meats, poultry, fish, eggs, legumes and nuts, vegetables and fruits, breads and cereals. Within this framework the average diet is often considered acceptable if formulated as follows: about 45 percent carbohydrates, 35 percent fat and about 15 percent protein.

HARD WATER VS. SKIN
NEW YORK (AP) — According to the British Medical Journal, hard water may cause hands to become dry and sore. It is the mineral content of the water, particularly calcium hardness compounds, that acts as irritant. Because more soap must be used with hard water to obtain a lather, this can be a further source of irritation. To counteract these effects, the Journal recommends installing a domestic water softening system which removes the troublesome calcium. A similar improvement can be achieved by the use of some packaged water softeners.

Discipline: Key To The Successful Life

Discipline and moral values are the keys to responsible citizenship, and former U. S. Commissioner of Education T. H. Bell fears that responsible citizenship is "withering in our land." Writing in the December issue of Rotarian Magazine, Bell suggests that the primary hope for a more disciplined society lies in a more disciplined system of education in our public schools and universities.

Illustration By John Faulkner in "The Rotarian" Magazine

Bell is not talking about punishment or restraint when he refers to discipline. "I mean commitment. I mean high standards and academic rigor. I mean sacrifice in the name of excellence," he says, expressing fear that we are drifting away from this kind of discipline in our schools, colleges and universities across the land.

"We must make new commitments to it (discipline) in education and in our life as citizens. Discipline makes us productive, affluent, strong, enlightened, and free. Take away discipline and we have decay, decline, anarchy and abandonment of truth.

"Disciplined education does not need to be a mindless, authoritarian system that drives more than it leads, punishes more than it persuades ... we can have a no-nonsense program that calls for mastery of reading, mathematics, spelling and other basics."

In all the lengthy four-page article Dr. Bell wrote, that was probably the most important thing he said. Too many students, far too many we are told, are getting from one grade level to another without mastering the basic necessities of learning to read and write. Many enter adult life without the ability to communicate.

B. E. Frye, Dean for the College of Literature, Science and the Arts at the University of Michigan, touched on this recently when he said that "one of the basic functions of our educational system should be to teach communication skills. Yet, if universal testimony by parents, educators and employers alike is any indication, we are failing seriously in this responsibility at all levels — from the elementary school through college. Even the highly selected and gifted high school graduates who enroll at Michigan too seldom come to us with proficiency in language skills, particularly writing, and many are so deficient in these skills as to face serious academic difficulty."

If "highly selected" students are showing up with language problems, think what must be happening to the average and below-average students. It is a problem that must be dealt with, not only by colleges and universities, but by school boards, parents, and educators in the elementary and secondary schools.

Are we paying more attention to sports and other extra-curricular activities than we are to the basics of reading, writing and arithmetic? Do America's school children get in more television watching time than they do school and home-study time? Is an apathetic public contributing to undisciplined education, thus contributing to decay, decline, anarchy and abandonment of truth, as Dr. Bell says? Are classrooms increasing in size so that teachers cannot effectively teach the average student, or the below-average?

The secret of success in life is discipline, a much-misused word which really means commitment to high standards and ideals and enrichment of our own lives as well as those with whom we associate. High standards, academic rigor, sacrifice in the name of excellence. These are the ingredients that will make today's students happy, mature and successful adults of tomorrow.

Garrott's Galley A Pizza Place Downtown? We Thought They Were Loco

By M. C. Garrott

When the Pagliai family from Des Moines, Ia., opened their pizzeria on Main Street just down from Peoples Bank, a lot of people, including me, thought some one had lost his mind. "That's no place for a pizza place!" we said. "Nobody comes downtown at night."

Old Man Pagliai knew what he was doing. A former Iowa coal miner, he holds to the philosophy that people will go almost anywhere for a good meal. He also has found that you can rent and operate from remodeled quarters in a downtown area a lot cheaper than you can with new facilities in a developing, "prime" area.

Although the Pagliai family no longer owns the place on Main Street, it has borne out the old man's philosophy. Charles (Chuck) Wynn has it now, and you need only to go in the place any night to see how right the old man was.

University students flock there in couples and in groups. The upstairs dining room literally jumps with high school youngsters after ball games, and a steady stream of mothers and daddies flows in to pick up pizzas for supper. All the while, Chuck's delivery man is racing around town delivering hot ones to the dorms, city hall, the fire stations and to homes.

On a week night, Chuck tells me, they'll cook up between 300 and 400 pizzas. On the weekend nights—Fridays, Saturdays and Sundays—this will exceed 700.

Chuck, who grew up in Sioux Falls, S. D., was no stranger to the Pagliai ways when he came to Murray in December of 1972. John Pagliai, one of the sons, had opened the place and was running it, "but I knew John wasn't going to stay in Murray," he laughed.

While a student at the University of Iowa, Chuck had worked in a Pagliai parlor to help pay his way through school. He even managed it for a while. Transferring to Northeast Missouri State University at Kirksville, where he eventually met his wife, the former Renee Ayers of Baldwin, Mo., near St. Louis, he also worked in and managed the one there.

After leaving college, Chuck tried a couple of other fields before finally finding himself amid all the doughs, tomatoes, cheese, meats and all the other delicious ingredients that go into pizzas.

First, he worked for 26 months with Household Finance Corporation at Kansas City being trained as an office manager. Then he went to Cape Girardeau, Mo., to handle car and truck accounts for Chrysler Credit Corporation. He had some accounts in Murray, and came here often.

"I really enjoyed the town and the people," he said the other evening as the place swarmed with fans honoring the Murray State basketball team, one of his special promotions. "I often thought about settling here, and maybe opening a Pagliai's here. When the one became available we grabbed it."

The "we" Chuck refers to is the partnership he has with his dad, Bob Wynn, the grey-haired fellow you see in there making and baking those pizzas. He really runs the place.

Chuck spends most of his time promoting the business and looking for new ground. Last June, they opened their second place in Murfreesboro, Tenn., where, I suppose, on occasions they also must honor the Blue Raiders of Middle Tennessee State University, one of Murray's biggest rivals.

He also is keeping the pavement hot between here and Martin, Tenn., checking the possibilities of opening another one down there.

"Pagliai's is not really a chain," he explained. "There are 23 of them throughout the midwest right now, but all are independently owned. There is no central Pagliai warehouse, from which we get supplies and ingredients like others of the quick food chains have. We buy everything we use from different independent suppliers all over just as long as we get top quality ingredients and service."

In addition to Chuck and his dad, there are 11 full-time employees at the Murray place. Also on the payroll are 26 part-time workers, with exception of one all of whom are university students.

Will Rogers once said that he had never met a man he didn't like. I'm kind of like that with pizzas. There must have been an Italian in my woodpile somewhere. Although the family and I occasionally head for Chuck's to split a pizza, we haven't even scratched the surface in trying all the different combinations.

An impossible task, Chuck laughed. There are hundreds of them.

"Low Down" FROM THE CONGRESSIONAL RECORD

By JOE CRUMP

(A Column for Readers Who Haven't Time to Review the Congressional Record Daily)

CONGRESSMEN'S PAY RAISE DUE FEB. 16

REP. CHARLES W. WHALEN, Jr. (OHIO) "...As of January 17, the date of transmittal, the clock started running on the pay raise proposal (H. R. 115). Unless either House of Congress votes to reject the increase within 30 calendar days after the transmittal, the recommendation will automatically become law (February 16). By the time this statement appears in print in the Congressional Record, 10 per cent of the time will already have elapsed."

"There should be no misunderstanding — all that is required for the pay raise recommendation to go into effect is that we do nothing, that neither House of Congress takes any adverse action. And it appears as if this is precisely what will happen...

"Yes, I am a support of the proposed increase in salary for Congressmen, judges, and high-level administrators...However, I would like to have a vote on the pay raise. I believe we have an obligation to the American public to put ourselves on record on this matter...

"It strikes me as rather unseemly to have to vote, year after year, on a matter that is to my direct, personal, and immediate benefit or detriment...This is not an unsolvable problem. We must enact the Congressional Pay Raise Deferral Act...

"The Congressional Pay Raise Deferral Act would postpone any increase in congressional salaries until the start of the Congress following the one in which the increase is proposed and approved. With this simple change in the statutes we would no longer be acting to our own immediate advantage, but would instead be deciding the salaries of those who are elected to serve in the next Congress..."

"In this way, we can remove ourselves from the awkward conflict-of-interest situation in which we are now trapped and also would be giving our constituents a fair and timely opportunity to pass judgement on the wisdom or folly of whatever we decide regarding pay increases for congressmen...

"I think prompt action on the Congressional Pay Raise Deferral Act would be in the best interests of Congress and the nation... In the meantime, the bill remains open to new cosponsors. Any Member wishing to be listed as a cosponsor should contact me or my office."

CRUMP'S GRASS ROOTS COMMENT

It will be interesting to observe the names of the congressmen who will cosponsor the CONGRESSIONAL PAY RAISE DEFERRAL ACT.

The Editor's Notebook

By GENE McCUTCHEON Murray Ledger & Times Editor

The deadline for entering this newspaper's energy conservation essay contest, open to CCHS and MHS students in grades 9-12, is Monday, Feb. 14.

The prize for first place essay is $15, second place $10 and third place $5. The topic for the contest is "How Consumers Can Save Energy in the Home." Sharpen your pencils, students. Let's tell everyone how to save energy.

O+O
The "Pet Rock" craze is apparently on the way out according to reports from the West Coast.

But the man behind the runaway gift of Christmas Past has earned enough to make a dream come true: he has opened his own saloon.

The Pet Rocks, which originally sold for $4 each and were packed in a cardboard box containing a tongue-in-cheek instruction pamphlet for the "care and feeding" of the rocks, are now selling at half price, and not too briskly at that, reports a saleswoman at San Francisco's Emporium.

The rocks, which sold by the thousands during the Christmas season of 1975, grossed over $2 million for Gary Dahl, the originator of the idea. That means, using simple arithmetic, that 500,000 people are now the proud owners of a Pet Rock.

Why didn't we think of that?
O+O
The federal government, because of the self-serving bureaucratic assumption that bigger is better, spends about $10 billion a year for services that could be provided more efficiently and less expensively by private firms. Maintenance, cafeteria services, security and data processing are among the several occupational areas in which government competes with the commercial sector.

But a 20-year effort to have many functions performed under contract has been effectively stymied by government employe unions and powerful congressional chairmen. Contract negotiation is limited by "prevailing wage" requirements, which often wipe out the potential economies.

Now, however, cost-cutters in the Office of Management and Budget, have insisted that the fringe benefits enjoyed by federal workers be included in making cost comparisons.

The result is an approximate hike of 18 per cent in the comparative cost of government labor. Private contractors suddenly discovered they could compete on an equal footing.

A new effort on the part of bureaucrats to change the rules may lead to a confrontation with President Carter, who has declared his own zeal for cutting costs.

If he means it, the taxpaying public will benefit. O+O

An Atlanta secretary has added $2.50 a day to her income. Her attorney-boss orders a ham and cheese sandwich every day. She makes the sandwich at home and brings a container of milk along, too.

This has been going on for a year and the only comment her employer has made is, "The food at the coffee shop has sure improved."

Letter To The Editor

Supports Reapportionment

Dear Editor:

In 1973, former Mayor Holmes Ellis appointed a committee to study the question of City Council Reapportionment. Marshall P. Jones headed this group, and gave his report to Council on November 8, 1973. The main points of the presentation are given below:

- The present two-ward arrangement is not fair; based on the one person, one vote principle.
- The city should be divided into four wards, with three councilmen from each ward. This would give better representation to the different areas of the city.

3. The City Council did approve the four-ward plan in November, 1973.

Murray has grown since November, 1973, and the argument for four-wards is even more urgent. On behalf of the voters who petitioned City Council to implement the four-ward plan, I add my support.

Let's Stay Well

Crib Death

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Q: Mrs. J.D.'s niece lost her three-month-old baby boy due to crib death. The family is upset and saddened by the loss of an apparently healthy baby, and the mother is depressed and blames herself for the tragic outcome. Mrs. J.D. wants to know the cause of crib death.
A: Crib death, also known as sudden infant death syndrome (SIDS), often strikes babies who appear normal, resulting in about 10,000 deaths annually in the United States. It is more common among premature or small-weight infants. Respiratory infections often are associated with this.

The cause is unknown, but the best explanation is that the infants "forget" to breathe, a circumstance that occurs during otherwise normal sleep. An inherited tendency that results in failing to breathe normally may be involved.

Such deaths are shocking to the family, especially to the mother, because of their unexpectedness. The mother should not blame herself, since no signs or symptoms are helpful in telling which babies may die of SIDS.

Q: Ms. P.O.B. asks what harm, if any, can come from eating raw beef.
A: Under rare conditions, raw beef may be contaminated with beef tapeworm, Taenia saginata, which can lodge in the human intestine. Cooking removes this danger. If the meat has been inspected and stamped, it is very probably free of such parasites. If they are present, cooking kills them.
Handling may contaminate beef with bacteria that can cause vomiting and diarrhea. Meat that is to be consumed raw should be bought from a reliable source and preferably cut and packaged in your presence. If possible, grind the meat at home, but be sure that your hands and utensils are clean.
The meat should be eaten shortly after preparation to prevent bacterial growth. If the meat is not to be used promptly, it should be refrigerated.
Remember that raw meat usually contains more fat. Cooking, especially to the well-done stage, removes much of the fat and reduces the number of calories.

Semester Honor Law Student Pushing For Legalization Of Marijuana

Roll At East Is Released

The honor roll for first semester at East Calloway Elementary School has been released by the principal, Bob Allen, as follows:

Sixth grade — Nancy Miller, Tina Housden, Lisa Maddox, Hope Morgan, Janna Williams, Denna Waldrup, Skip Weber, Debbie Walker, Karen Roach, Rich Wagoner, and Vincent Alton.

Seventh grade — Paul Futrell, Randy Dawson, Christi Hale, Ellen King, Terry Manker, Dewayne Hill, Joey Zinkovich, Ladona Overbey, and Jay Young.

Special Education — Royce Harris, Lisa Webb, Jimmy Estep, Karla Allbritten, and Tim Philpott.

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) — Decriminalization of marijuana grown for personal use is "nowhere near the answer," says a Lexington law student who wants the weed grown as a Kentucky cash crop.

As a means to that end, Gatewood Galbreath has formed two corporations to push for total legalization of marijuana.

Galbreath and one of his partners, John Willard, said Wednesday they intend to announce details within a few weeks of a plan for marijuana cultivation under a form of "state monopoly."

Earlier this week, Dr. Robert L. DuPont, director of the National Institute on Drug Abuse, suggested that growing marijuana for personal use shouldn't be labeled a crime.

He noted that private use of marijuana has been decriminalized in some states and added that "personal cultivation can be considered the functional equivalent of private use."

Galbreath and his friends think both use and cultivation of marijuana should not only be decriminalized, but should be made as legal as sipping alcohol or puffing on cigarettes.

Galbreath said some public health and police officials have said marijuana isn't harmful and isn't "criminal under any health, safety or welfare standards."

He contends there is a $5 billion annual market for the weed and most of that is paid to finance smuggling operations from South America and Mexico.

"Our farmers could do a better job growing it here," he said, noting that Kentucky once was a prime producer of hemp, the same plant as marijuana, for rope.

"That was before it was made illegal," he said.

"The only thing our present laws do is arrest our citizens for a harmless act and preclude our farmers from claiming their fair share of an already existing market," Galbreath said.

"The market is there; we're not talking about creating it, but it's completely unregulated at this point and only under state monopoly would it be regulated," he said.

Galbreath is against turning marijuana, even if its use and growth were legal, over to private industry for two reasons.

Seek Help For Fear of Sex

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 38-year-old woman, and I'm still a virgin. The furthest I've ever gone with a man is letting him kiss me goodnight.

Don't get me wrong. It's not that I wouldn't like to go further, but I am too afraid of sex to let myself.

I am an attractive woman with a slim body. I've been on many dates that I know could have led to the bedroom, but I always broke it up before it got that far.

I am not really afraid of MEN; it's sex I'm afraid of.

Right now I am going with a very gentle and attractive man about my age. We are casually dating, but I know he will want it to lead to sex and maybe marriage. What do I tell him? He will think I'm crazy. I'm not even sure that if I got married I would feel different about sex. Then what would happen?

I don't want to lose him because he's the first man I've ever cared for this much. If I need a psychiatrist, I couldn't afford one because I'm supporting my widowed mother who's an invalid. Help me.

"38 AND HOLDING"

DEAR "38": You need to find out why you have been fighting your normal feelings. Please seek professional counseling. And don't delay. If you can't afford a private therapist, call your local Mental Health Association or Family Service. They charge only what you can afford to pay.

DEAR ABBY: A cousin of mine was killed while she was riding on the back of a motorcycle with a guy, so my parents made me promise I would never get on a motorcycle without their permission.

Well, last summer I broke my promise. Someone saw me and this guy on a motorcycle, so my parents heard about it. I know I should have told them the truth, but when they asked me, I denied it, and they found out I lied. Now they have lost all trust in me, and I'm being treated like a 3 year old.

Abby, if they would only give me another chance, I would never break a promise or lie to them again. All I need is a chance to prove to them that I have learned my lesson and have grown up a lot since last summer. How can I get them to trust me?

DIANNE

DEAR DIANNE: If you're trying to live something down, don't keep bringing it up. Don't whine, nag or beg another chance. That's juvenile. Keep your lip zipped and take your punishment like an adult. You'll be trusted again when your mature behavior becomes apparent.

DEAR ABBY: What should you say to someone who you know has just had plastic surgery for cosmetic reasons? If you say, "It's a big improvement," they might be insulted because that means they didn't look so hot before.

If you say, "You look much younger," they could take offense because you're implying they looked "old" before.

If you don't say anything, it could be worse because they've spent a lot of money and gone to a lot of trouble hoping for a noticeable change, and if nobody notices, it would all be for nothing.

Isn't some kind of reaction in order when the bandages come off, the black and blue marks have faded and all the swelling has gone down? But what?

LOST FOR WORDS

DEAR LOST: Just say, "You look great!" That will cover everything.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

McGuire Fires Up His Club, Freeman Williams Scores 71

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

When Al McGuire starts screaming at his team, shutting the door on sports writers and recriminating himself, you know something's up. Actually, it's the Marquette Warriors. Psychologically, the Marquette coach has no peer. McGuire knows how to get a basketball team higher than a dunk shot — and that's apparently what he did Wednesday night to inspire Marquette to an 81-71 victory over Loyola of Chicago. The ninth-ranked Warriors, mindful of a post-season bid to the NCAA playoffs, blew a 12-point lead in the first half and this inspired a fierce confrontation with McGuire at intermission. "I thought at halftime we were in serious trouble," McGuire said. "We had to do it at the start of the second half, which we did. But I told them the second half might be the most important 20 minutes of the whole season, because if you blow it you'll never forgive yourselves."

Translated, that meant McGuire thought that a fourth loss would greatly injure the Warriors' chances for an NCAA bid. Obviously dead serious about a national championship in his last year as coach, McGuire refused to allow newsmen to interview his players after the game. He said the policy would continue for a week so that the players can concentrate on their goal of a tournament bid. Elsewhere in college basketball, sixth-ranked Louisville routed Southwestern Louisiana 103-82, 12th-ranked Cincinnati defeated Eastern Kentucky 78-60, 14th-ranked North Carolina walloped Maryland 97-70, 16th-ranked Providence turned back DePaul 84-73 and 19th-ranked Detroit beat St. Bonaventure 78-62. Butch Lee and Bo Ellis each scored 22 points for Marquette. The Warriors held a slim 36-33 lead at the half, but pulled away after intermission behind their top scorers. A 10-point flurry gave Marquette a 50-37 lead and later it was 68-51 with 5:55 left. Louisville tied a school record by winning its 15th straight game. Rick Wilson and Darrell Griffith each scored 18 points for the Cardinals, who twice led by 3, points in the second half. Brian Williams scored 15 points, Bob Miller 13 and Steve Collier 12 in a balanced Cincinnati attack that led the Bearcats over Eastern Kentucky. Cincinnati held a 40-26 halftime edge and led by as many as 29 points in the second period. Walter Davis produced 25 points and 12 rebounds to lead North Carolina past Maryland. The Tar Heels led the entire game and at one juncture held a 29-point advantage. Bob Cooper scored 24 points and collected 10 rebounds, leading Providence over DePaul. Terry Tyler amassed 21 points to lead the University of Detroit past St. Bonaventure. In another game, Freeman Williams, the nation's leading scorer, poured in 71 points to lead Portland State past Southern Oregon 142-85. Williams' figure is the third highest in Division I history, surpassed only by Frank Selvy's 100-point outing for Furman against Newberry in 1954 and Bill Milkvy's 73 against Wilkes for Temple in 1951.

Team Banned

MILAN, Italy (AP) — The Ascoli team of the Italian Second Division has been banned by the Italian soccer judge from playing at home for five championship rounds following riots last Sunday after a match against Cagliari. The game had ended in a 1-1 tie. Thousands of fans, angered by what they described as poor refereeing against their team, prevented the referee and the Cagliari players from leaving the dressing rooms for more than nine hours. The referee, later said he had feared for his life as the fans stormed the dressing rooms with rocks and bottles. He and the Cagliari team managed to leave only early Monday morning.

Oral Roberts Uses Talent And Breaks To Record 80-66 Win

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor
At Oral Roberts University, they have this saying: "Praise the Lord and pass it to Roberts." The Roberts is 6-6 All-American Anthony Roberts, not Oral himself.

At Murray State University Wednesday night, there was a different saying on the Oral Roberts bench: "Praise the Lord for the officials and pass it to Roberts."

It's a shame that Oral, the minister, wasn't there. Maybe he could have conducted a healing service before the game and helped do something for those with poor eyesight, mainly the officials.

How, might you ask, does officiating have anything to do with an 80-66 loss, which is how much Oral Roberts University won by.

— On five occasions in the game, Oral Roberts went in to score when they had obviously committed walking violations. That's 10 points.

— In addition, there were some of the silliest fouls you've ever seen in your life. As you might guess, they were on Murray.

— If you did not go to the game and don't believe what you read, then ask a friend who went to the game. They'll believe what they read a lot more than believe what they saw.

On the outside, Fred Overton was cool, calm and collected over the loss. On the inside, well, he may have a few holes in the wall of his office building this morning. "First of all," Overton said, "we lost to a very good basketball team. They have great jumpers but there were a lot of other factors in the game."

"With about two minutes left when we were down 75-64, we missed on three successive traps down the floor. That could have made it 75-70. I won't comment on the officiating. I won't look for an excuse, though on a night like this, it would be very easy to do it. We got down by nine or 10 points in the first half and stuck in our offense and showed patience and executed well. Maybe we will learn something from this game. Besides, this wasn't the important one. But we did show we can have patience and that's what we'll have to have in our next two road games," Overton said.

Oral Roberts was one fine club, yes. But to say they are 14 points better than Murray just isn't true. As a matter of fact, to say they are even better than Murray might not be true.

Oral Roberts played top-rated San Francisco in the Bay City and lost by 10. But they outscored the Dons by 10 from the field. At North Carolina, they led until they went into the four-corner and got passed in the final minute on floor errors.

And, yes, they did lose in Tulsa, 80-74 to Austin Peay. However, Anthony Roberts did not play that game because he was sick.

Roberts played in Murray. Darned right he played. He fired in 17 of 27 from the field and finished with 34 points. But he wasn't the only brilliant player on the floor. The Racers' Mike Muff was right behind, finishing with 31 points and nine rebounds in an awesome performance viewed by pro scouts from the Los Angeles Lakers and from the Philadelphia 76ers. The scouts were there to look at Roberts. But they'll probably be making a few more visits to Murray in the future, to recruit players for the pros, not officials.

The Racers got off to a slow start in the game, falling behind 16-5 at one point. But with a roaring crowd and some sparkling play off the bench by John Randall and Skeeter Wilson, the Racers began to come back. With 4:30 left in the half, Wilson hit a three-point play and the Titans led only 32-28. The Racers, trailing 39-36 with a minute left, went into the four corner. And with only three seconds left, Muff popped in a 15-footer and it was a one-point Oral Roberts lead at intermission. Muff hit the first bucket of the second half to put the Racers up for the first time in the game. Murray's last lead came at the 16:12 mark when Muff scored from under on an offensive rebound to put the Racers ahead 46-45. With 10:54 left in the game, Oral Roberts held a 57-54 lead. And over the next 5:38, the Titans outscored the Racers 16-6 to put the game on ice. The Racers closed to within nine with 56 seconds left at 75-66 but Oral Roberts scored three points on a technical foul and then Roberts capped the scoring with a slam-dunk with six seconds left, accounting for the final 14-point margin. The Racers shot only 29 of 79 in the game and had just a .367 pace from the floor while ORU hit on 35 of 62 for a .564 mark. The Racers held a 45-39 lead in the rebounding department, which includes "team" rebounds.

Besides Muff, Grover Woolard hit for 12 to account for the only other double digit Murray scoring. Overton played junior guard Glenn Jackson, a former Murray High star, for about 10 minutes of the game. Jackson, who did not take any shots from the floor, had an outstanding floor game and moved the ball around well on offense. "He had been working real hard in practice and has had a great attitude," Overton said of Jackson.

Mercer Ends Skid By Thumping Tech
COOKEVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — Mercer University snapped a seven-game college basketball losing streak Wednesday night by defeating slumping Tennessee Tech 82-65.

Stewart Reese scored 20 points to pace Mercer, which collected only its fourth victory in 19 games. Tech, which never led, suffered its third straight defeat and its ninth loss in the team's last 10 starts in falling to a 7-14 season record. Mercer led by 10 points, 32-22, with 2:22 left in the first half before Tech narrowed the gap to 40-36 at intermission. Tech registered the first bucket in the second half, but was then outscored 10-2 in the next three minutes. The host squad was plagued by turnovers, committing 15 of its total 29 in the second half. Jerry Thurston added 17 points and grabbed a game-high 13 rebounds for Mercer. Bobby Porter scored 18 points and pulled down 10 rebounds to lead Tech, while teammate John Tatum added 11 points. Mercer outgunned Tennessee Tech from the floor, connecting on 52.3 per cent of its attempts to Tech's 39.7 per cent.

This is the kind of game where I really wanted to check him out and see if he would be able to crack the first eight or nine. We always need guards. I was also really impressed with the play of Wilson and Randall. I was very happy with the way they jumped."

Both Randall and Wilson had six rebounds and were impressive. Murray falls to 15-6 overall while ORU is 17-5 and will play at North Texas State Saturday. The Racers, 7-2 in the OVC, will resume league action Saturday at East Tennessee.

Bubbles Hawkins Gets 44 As Nets Win, Jabbar Chases Fan

By BARRY WILNER
AP Sports Writer

Bubbles Hawkins exploded on the basketball court and Kareem Abdul-Jabbar nearly exploded off it.

Hawkins, whom the New York Nets signed as a free agent just two months ago, put on a one-man show Wednesday night, scoring a career-high 44 points to lead the Nets past New Orleans 93-89 in overtime in the National Basketball Association.

Abdul-Jabbar went into the Buffalo stands to "discuss things" with a heckler after leading Los Angeles back into first place in the Pacific Division with a 105-90 verdict over the Braves.

"I still don't think I've arrived yet," Hawkins said after hitting for eight of the Nets' 14 overtime points in New York's comeback victory. "But it sure is nice to show people I can play."

One Braves fan's heckling finally got to Abdul-Jabbar. With 39 seconds remaining in the game, Abdul-Jabbar, who scored 32 points, went into the stands to confront the kibitzer.

"The guy gave me a lot of derogatory remarks," Abdul-Jabbar said. "I asked him if he wanted to take it up personally. He didn't want to."

In a real shootout, the Spurs won only their seventh game on the road in 27 starts while handing Detroit its fifth home loss against 20 wins.

Detroit hit on 57 per cent of its shots, scored a team-record 43 points in the second quarter but, according to Coach Herb Brown, "we didn't play any defense."

San Antonio shot 56 per cent and had four players score more than 20 points, led by Larry Kenon's 29. Bob Lanier had 30 for Detroit.

Pacers 110, Knicks 109
Dave Robisch grabbed an offensive rebound and scored with two seconds left to cap Indiana's comeback. It was the first time the Pacers led since early in the game when they were on top 11-10.

Billy Knight scored 28 points, and John Williamson hit for 26 in his first game as a Pacer. Bob McAdoo scored 36 for the Knicks. 76ers 107, Bucks 104

Lloyd Free scored 22 points to lead Philadelphia past slumping Milwaukee, which lost its fifth game in the last six and 13th out of 16.

Rockets 108, Bulls 103
The Rockets moved to within one-half game of first place Washington in the Central Division as Calvin Murphy scored 28 points.

Hawks 99, SuperSonics 98
Seattle collapsed in the final half-minute and allowed the Hawks to steal the game.

The Sonics' Dennis Johnson, who led his team with 19 points, missed three straight free throws with 30 seconds remaining and Seattle ahead 98-95. After Atlanta's Len Robinson sank a pair five seconds later, the Hawks stole Slick Watts' pass. John Drew fired in a short jump shot with 15 seconds left for the victory.
