CCHS Speech Team Places 3rd In Tourney

The Calloway County High Speech Team placed third at the annual Western Ky. University Invitational Tournament held Friday and Saturday at Bowling Green.

Thirty-one schools from Kentucky, Tennessee, Alabama and Ohio competed for honors. Centerville High from Ohio place first with St. Xavier in second place and Calloway placed Calloway's four debate teams had a combined total of 13 wins and seven losses in the tournament.

Individual honors were won by the following team members: Rick Cunningham placed 1st in storytelling, Chuck Williams placed 2nd in oratory, James Bibb placed 3rd in humorous, Jobeth Norwood and Jim Hudspeth were 5th in Duet Acting, Tammy Feltner placed 6th in Dramatic Interpretation, and Kim Kemp placed 6th in prose.

The Laker Speech Team will compete at Ballard Co. next Saturday before starting regional and state competiton.

Plans Underway For 'Little Miss' Pageant Here

Plans for the Kentucky Little Miss Pageant - 1977, sponsored by the Omicron Alpha Chapter of the Tau Phi Lambda Sorority of the Woodmen of the World in Murray, are now being made.

The pageant will be held May 22 on the Murray State University Campus. Interviews with the judges and rehearsals will be held on May 21.

The contestants must be at least five and no more than nine years of age as of June 25, 1977. Each will have to be a resident of the state of Kentucky

Each contestant will model a sportswear outfit and a party dress at the pageant and will be judged on natural charm, poise and personality.

The winner of the pageant will represent the State of Kentucky at the National Little Miss Pageant held in Roanoke, Virginia in June, 1977.

More information will be released as soon as plans for the pageant are finalized. Interested parents wishing to enter their child in the pageant should watch the paper for other news releases to be published in the near future.

natural gas were asked this morning to continue voluntary conservation of the use of the fuel at least until March 1, so that the Murray Natural Gas System could evaluate the city's position concerning a possible overrun of

The request came at a meeting called to explain the problem faced by the system to local business owners and other interested persons.

A voluntary energy conservation program, which included cutbacks in hours of operation by most local businesses, went into effect here Feb. 1. Many businesses returned to normal hours at the end of last week prompting a special city council meeting Friday

Gas system superintendent Tommy Marshall told the group that since the voluntary curtailment had been in effect, the system had cut usage by approximately 17 per cent when comparing the first 20 days of February with similar days prior to the cutback.

Marshall said that if gas consumption continued at the same rate, and weather remains favorable, the total amount of gas alloted for the winter entitlement period would be used up used up by that time, all gas used from then until March 31, the end of the winter entitlement period, would be subject to a $10 per mcf (thousand cubic feet) penalty, Marshall said.

Prior to the voluntary conservation program, system officials had predicted that the overrun for the winter period would amount to some 50.000 to 55,000 mcf. Marshall said that that figure had been scaled down to approximately 40,000 mcf based on figures for the first three weeks of February.

Murray Natural Gas has been granted permission from Texas Gas, the city's supplier, to carry any overrun into the seven-month summer entitlement period which begins April 1.

Marshall explained that the system had three alternatives in dealing with an overrun situation. The alternatives any penalty assessed by Texas Gas can be passed along to consumers; the overrun can be carried into the summer entitlement period with the hope of making up all or a portion of it

- the system can purchase gas, if any is available, in the intrastate market.

The Murray City Council approved a motion in its special session Friday that any penalties assessed on the system would be passed along to consumers. Marshall said today that it is doubtful available

Some merchants, including Russell Dowdy of Uncle Jeff's, said they believe it is possible for stores to maintain their regular hours and still conserve natural

Dowdy said that thermostats in his store are set on 55 degrees and that his gas heaters ran a total of six minutes during store hours Saturday and Sunday

It was also suggested that similar types of businesses should get together to determine what steps they could take as a group in the conservation effort.

It was pointed out that industrial customers have been curtailed throughout the winter. Marshall said that what the system hoped to do between now and March 31 is save enough gas to keep from completely shutting off industrial gas customers during the summer period. Marshall said that industrial consumers' gas meters are read on a daily basis and they are "strictly on allocation." He said that residential users were "priority one" gas users and that gas to homes would not be cut

Under normal winter conditions, Marshall said, the system's allocation of 459,000 mcf for the five-month winter period would have been ample. But the extreme cold of November, December and January, have created the

Reply Expected Soon To State Request For Disaster Aid Funds

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - Kentucky. disaster officials expect a reply soon to the state's request for federal aid for businessmen, farmers, homeowners and local governments hard hit by the severe winter.

Gov. Julian Carroll has reported damages and losses totaling $428 million and has requested that President Carter declare a disaster and make aid available through the Federal Disaster Assistance Administration

-FDAA survey teams made spot checks of the damages last week and returned to the agency's Atlanta office to continue reviewing the figures.

They included about $296 million in lost sales, production declines, and physical damages to businesses and industries, and more than $108 million in feed costs, animal losses and other damages suffered by farmers. The FDAA will report to Carter.

"I don't know exactly how much of that process has been accomplished, but it should be fairly well advanced," said Robert McFerren, director of the state Division of Disaster and Emergency Services. McFerren said he talked with FDAA officials Friday "and they seemed noncommital" about when the decision would come.

"We're just standing by," he said. Kentucky officials asked for assistance in all 120 counties, and expressed confidence last week that at least some counties would qualify.

For farmers, a disaster declaration could mean low-interest loans to help replace livestock that perished and repair damage to water systems, farm roads and other facilities.

Farmers could also get grants to help them purchase and transport additional food needed because of the cold

Brent Mannina Named To Head Bike-A-Thon

Brent Manning has been named Murray Chairman of the Breath of Spring Bike-A-Thon to fight children's lung-damaging diseases, according to Jay Crouse, president of the Cystic Fibrosis Foundation. Manning will lead local volunteers in organizing a Bike-A-Thon in Murray to raise funds to support research and care programs for children affected by lung-damaging diseases like Cystic Fibrosis, severe asthma chronic bronchitis, and bronchiectasis.

The Bike-A-Thon campaign period will be held during the months of March and April.

Approximately one of every 1,500 babies is born with Cystic Fibrosis, which is still incurable. C-F is inherited when both parents carry the recessive gene for C-F. It is believed that one in twenty persons, or a total of ten million Americans, is a symptomless carrier of this gene. Prime Minister and Mrs. Pierre Elliott Trudeau arrive at the White House today to a 19-gun salute.

The President's foreign visitor highlighted a day of Carter meetings with his senior staff, the Cabinet and Vice President Walter Mondale. Garter. planned a state dinner for Trudeau at the White House tonight.

Although the President had said he would cut some of the customary pomp and circumstance for foreign dignitaries, he ordered up the Army Band for four ruffles and flourishes to greet Trudeau. Five military guard units were summoned for review.

As he had last week for his first foreign visitor, Mexican President Jose Lopez Portillo, Carter dispensed with ruffles, flourishes and "Hail to the Chief" for himself. There were only the, national anthem and the Canadian anthem

Carter Welcomes Trudeau

In the afternoon, Carter and Trudeau planned to discuss global matters, including the proposed London economic summit, East-West relations, curbing the spread of nuclear technology, arms sales and the laws of

On Tuesday, they planned talks on U.S.-Canadian issues, emphasizing mutual economic, environmental and energy concerns.

Carter eased one Carradian concern over the weekend. Administration sources said the President is asking Congress to cut off millions of dollars in fiscal 1978 funding for 18 water projects in 15 states. Canadians say one of the projects would harm them.

They say the Garrison Diversion Unit in North Dakota would cause dangerous levels of nitrogen, phosphorus and other pollutants to enter their country.

The sources said Carter deleted Garrison and 17 other projects from the 1978 budget until they are reviewed for economic necessity and environmental safety. Members of Congress in states where the projects are planned or underway are protesting the move.

In another budget development, one senior defense official said Saturday that the President plans to cut actual defense spending by $500 million in fiscal 1978, which begins in October. The official also said Carter plans future savings in defense spending of between $2.5 billion and $3 billion, including the $500 million, spread over the next several years. Carter will announce his revisions

Tuesday to the 1978 budget submitted by President Ford. Budget analysts say the Carter changes have a good chance of getting through Congress without any major alterations.

Carter is expected to propose a spending increase of $16 billion to $17 billion for fiscal 1978 above what Ford proposed in his $440 billion budget. Carter additions and deletions are expected to raise Ford's $47 billion deficit to between $55 billion and $60

DEAR ABBY: Here's the situation: Lori, a 31-year-old single woman was recently adopted by her lover, Charlie, a 35 year old man with two children and a wife who refuses to give him a divorce.

Charlie and Lori now live together and because they have the same last name, everyone assumes they are man and

Charlie says his lawyer advised him that this arrangement is better for him than marriage because if Lori and he split, she can't sue him for alimony. Also, since he's supporting Lori he can claim a nice tax deduction.

TODAY'S TOPIC: BUSINESS AND MORALITY

Secretary of the Treasury W. Michael Blumenthal recently wrote an article for the Advanced Management Journal that contained many interesting comments about business and morality. His comments are worthy of widespread public discussion.

Mr. Blumenthal has had ample opportunity to consider the proper role and behavior of business. Prior to joining the Carter administration, he served as head of the Bendix Cor-

Clearly, many Americans have serious questions about business and morality. A number of international companies have made pay-offs, broken tax laws, and engaged in other forms of illegal and improper behavior. Mr. Blumenthal rightly points out, however, that "neither more government control of business nor the breakup of big corporations will lead automatically to a higher standard of morality in business." Only the most naive person would say that government is immune from corruption.

Mr. Blumenthal also is correct in noting that "corporate morality is somewhat of a misnomer." As he explains, "Corporations are pieces of paper. What we really are talking about are the people who give life to a corporation- the individual men and women."

The real task, as Mr. Blumenthal indicates, is to promote standards of individual morality in our society. People who adhere to strict moral codes are needed in corporations. They are needed in government agencies. They are needed in every occupation and area of life. The moral difficulties in corporations today are part of the larger difficulty with deteriorating moral standards throughout our

While Mr. Blumenthal's remarks are generally sound, he succumbs to the contemporary notion that an individual deficiency can be solved by an organizational change. For example, he proposes that we "get together and organize a national board or council that will monitor the behavior of corporations, provide a forum for resolving issues of morality and write a code of ethics that will deal with some of the more vexing questions about corporate behavior.

One wonders: Where will business find the perfect individuals who are capable of monitoring the behavior of corporations and, in effect, sitting in judgment on them? The issues of morality insofar as corporations are concerned are very complex. Not everyone is in agreement on what is proper corporate behavior.

Mr. Blumenthal's former company, the Bendix Corporation, is completing a huge plant in the Soviet Union. Many businessmen believe it is immoral to assist the totalitarian government of Russia in finding a solution to its industrial problems, as this enables the regime in Moscow to augment its military capabilities and increase the threat against the free world. This situation points up the difficulty of developing an agreed-upon code of ethics for business.

Basically, what the country needs is a stronger sense of ethics on the part of its individual citizens, whether they are corporation executives or workers on a production line. Ethical decisions are made by individuals. Conscience applies to the individual, not a collective entity. If the moral life of the individual is strengthened, the overall quality of American life, including its public and private institutions, also will be strengthened.

We read this morning where interior decor has reached a new high with one of its latest trends which is proving to be a splendid boon to harried housewives and sloppy bachelors.

It's called the un-made bed look and it simply requires pretty sheets and pillow cases, matching or coordinated, with no spread, the article said. The bed is smoothed a bit but you're not supposed to overdo it, and the sheets are turned back, ready to pop into again.

Phyllis Diller once said she hadn't made up her bed that morning because she would have to do it all over again in a couple of weeks. Many who understand and practice her attitude will appreciate the interior fashion trend. We think it's nice to be chic and lazy,

President Carter has entered the battle against government paperwork. He is telling his Cabinet members to read every regulation that originates in their departments and to have each regulation signed by the person who wrote it,

Experience will tell whether Cabinet members can bear up under that kind of punishment, and whether any authors of infamous federal gobbledygook have the courage to identify themselves.

We confess some pessimism about anti-paperwork campaigns. The Federal Commission on Paperwork established in 1974 reported last year that it had managed to reduce the inventory of government forms by 12.5 per cent. But the remaining forms got longer and more complicated, and the commission admits that the net result is that citizens now spend more time filling out government forms that they

Agree Or Not Committee Leaves Questions Unanswered

By S. C. Van Curon

FRANKFORT - The special review committee handling the controversial James E. Pepper warehouse lease in Lexington closed its business last week without further enlightening the public.

They left several questions unanswered that are going to hang like a threatening cloud over the present state administration. You can bet your bottom dollar that it will be one of the big issues in the 1979 gubernatorial campaign, and the Republicans probably will use it for every ounce of advantage they can squeeze out of it.

The review committee recommended that Gov. Julian Carroll sign an executive order defining "emergency" situations wherein the state can lease property without advertising for bids.

They also recommended that the 1978 legislature pass laws governing state leasing of property.

The astonishing thing is that the review committee didn't recommend that some form of public reprimand be made on the officials involved in the secret deal that was made to pay the owners around $320,000 per year for just part of the property they had purchased just days before for just a small fraction over the rental figure.

These are the important questions unanswered for the public:

Why was the deal put together? How was it put together and who was involved? The review committee chose to adopt the Franklin County Grand Jury's report and to take some recommendations made by State Auditor George Atkins.

The lease was cancelled without any rent being paid. The committee also recommended that the state reimburse the University of Kentucky $17,132 spent in labor preparing the warehouse for use by the state.

Finance Commissioner Russell McClure said several weeks ago that the state got enough good timbers out of the old distillery warehouse to compensate for the cost. McClure had the timbers, stored on state property in Frankfort, appraised by a qualified The warehouse was to be used to store surplus commodities for the state Department of Agriculture, now stored at Winchester, and for a motor pool for the state to be operated by the University of Kentucky. The grand jury said the warehouse was not suitable for the state's purposes and found that no emergency existed. The emergency was the excuse used by the state for leasing the property from a firm headed by Lexington attorney Robert S. Miller and Frankfort businessman Rodney Ratliff. Miller has since sold his interest to Ratliff.

A panel of Lexington real estate men were hired by the state to establish a fair rental price for the Pepper property in question. They came up with a figure of about half what the state had agreed to pay in the lease. The state called an investigation when the "hurry-up" lease, without advertising for bids, was revealed by the Lexington Herald. Several Kentucky newspapers editorially called for a grand jury investigation and Franklin County Commonwealth Attorney Ray Corns had the same idea about the same time. The jury found no laws violated but decried the lack of laws governing such matters.

Peter Conn. now secretary of Human Resources, was then in the governor's office and had been assigned the task of developing the motor pool at Lexington to be operated by UK. He has not been linked with the lease.

McClure has not revealed anyone connected with the lease except Agriculture Commissioner Thomas Harris who had requested storage space in the Lexington area. He was assigned more than twice what he had ANSWER: Normally, Medicare will only cover a patient in a semi-private room (two to four beds). A person can have extra coverage for a private room if they need it specifically, for medical reasons. If you are asking for a private room just for the convenience' sake of having one, Medicare will not cover it. You would have to pay the difference.

ANSWER: This would depend entirely on the amount of your interest income. The cutoff point for a married couple filing a joint return when one person is over 65 and other is under 65 is $4,350. In other words, if your family's total income is less than $4,350 you would not have to file an income tax return with I. R. S. So, if your interest income is less than $150 for 1976, you do not have to file a tax return.

However, if federal income tax has been withheld from your salary checks and you have a refund coming to you, you must file a tax return (regardless of your income) to receive it.

Nine Of Top 20 Teams Upset In Weekend Play

By KEN RAPPOPORT AP Sports Writer

Road games in the Atlantic Coast Conference take a lot out of coaches. It's a good thing that North Carolina's Dean Smith has a Ford to give him a lift.

Phil Ford, one of the slickest, quickest guards in the country, helped accelerate North Carolina into a big halftime lead, then put a stop sign up on Virginia Sunday.

The result was a tenuous 66-64 college basketball victory for the 13th-ranked Tar Heels. "We did not tell our players to go to Ford especially," said Smith. "It's just a tendency for players to do that."

Ford scored 16 of his 21 points in the first half to stake the Tar Heels to a 36-24 advantage. Later, he drove the Cavaliers to distraction by operating Smith's famous "Four Corner" offense that aborted a Virginia rally.

Mike O'Koren also gave the North Carolina machine a push at the end, scoring 10 of the Tar Heels' last 13 points.

In another major game Sunday, Purdue defeated Indiana 86-78 in the Big Ten.

Sunday's regionallytelevised games followed a rash of upsets Saturday. In the worst day of the season collectively for nationallyranked teams, nine of The AP's Top 20 suffered upsets.

Elsewhere, top-ranked San Francisco beat Pepperdine 81-73; No. 2 Kentucky trimmed LSU 90-76; No. 5 Michigan turned back No. 12 Minnesota 89-70; No. 6 Nevada-Las Vegas whipped Portland State 112-96; No. 11 Arkansas stopped 68-66 and No. 20 Syracuse Bill Cartwright's 21 points. walloped St. John's 79-55.

Eugene Parker's 18 points paced a balanced attack that carried Purdue past Indiana. The Hoosiers, who have had several players walk off the team this year, were further troubled by the injury of center Kent Benson. The All-America player injured his back late in Sunday's game and may be lost to Indiana for the rest of the season.

Greg Ballard scored 28 points to lead Oregon's upset of UCLA. The decision had historical significance in the Pacific-8 Conference, marking the first time that Oregon had ever beaten UCLA twice in one season. It also marked the first time since 1962-63 that a Pac-8 foe had modified open class at the whipped UCLA twice in one

Hilltoppers Put Stop To Racers' Miracle Works

By MIKE BRANDON Ledger & Times Sports Editor

O. Henry, the master of irony, couldn't have written a better script himself if he'd been on hand Saturday night at the MSU Sports Arena when Western Kentucky shocked Murray State 82-81.

- Western and Murray literally hate each other. will always remember the game; it marked the 1,000th win in Hilltopper basketball history. Earlier in the Ohio Valley

Conference season, Murray struggled to an 89-87 win at Bowling Green in double overtime. "It's ironical," Racer coach Fred Overton said. "We should have lost that one up there and won this one here," Overton added. Western deserved to win

They simply outplayed the Racers, who never seemed like they were ready to play Sunday, the Boston Celtics until they were down 78-69 with just less than five minutes left in the game.

Then, with Randall going crazy under the offensive boards, Murray ran off, 10 consecutive points, Randall netting six of those, and the Racers led 79-78 with 69 seconds left on the clock.

Danny Jarrett, the 6-11 7:30. junior center of the Racers, was called for goaltending with 45 seconds left as 6-5 freshman Casev Cebula went inside and had his shot batted down. But though it was quite unpopular, the call was correct.

With 31 seconds left in the game. Randall drove to the basket and hit the bucket and was fouled. However, the basket was not counted. Randall did hit the two free throws and that put Murray in front 81-80.

'We specifically wanted to get the ball inside to Terry,' Hilltopper coach Jim Richards said.

The Hilltoppers specifically did just that.

Terry scored with 16 seconds left and Western went up by a point. With a standing room crowd of 7,300 on their feet, the Sports Arena rocked into pandemonium when Randall was fouled with four seconds left. Western called a

Murray State Fourth In Conference Indoor Meet

Murray State recorded three first-place finishes and wound up a strong fourth in the OVC Indoor Track Championships held this weekend at Morehead.

Morehead won the team title with 601/3 points while Western Kentucky was second with 58. Other scores included Austin Peay 491/2, Murray State 34, Middle Tennessee 29, East Tennessee 1813, Eastern Kentucky 1612 and Tennessee

For Murray, the meet showed a lot of people the Racers will be a threat in years to come.

- Freshman Englishman, Pat Chimes won the 880-yard run with a 1:52.2 and by doing so, set a new OVC record, a new Murray State indoor record and qualified for the national championships.

- Freshman Englishman Dave Warren ran a 2:10.8 and won first place in the 1,000-yard run. He set an OVC record and a new Murray State record.

- Freshman Stan Simmons set a new school record with a 52-10 in the shot put, good enough for a fourth place.

 Freshman Tony Keener, a walk-on ran a 2:12.3 and took fourth in the 1,000-yard run. His time was a personal best. - Freshman Mitch Johnston recorded a 1:56.4 to take fifth

The two-mile relay team ran an 8:06.7 to win first place. Keener led off with a 1:53. Johnston recorded a 1:53.5,

Warren ran the third leg in 1:54.1 and Dennis Mabbitt ran a

Because of a mixup, Mabbit wound up running an extra 167-yard lap in the two-mile relay, thus his time of 1:56 was based on the actual distance of 880 yards but the time would have been lower had he kicked in the next-to-the last lap, which should have been the last lap.

If that sounds confusing, don't worry about it. The meet was poorly organized and in fact, two events Friday were run with the wrong number of laps.

However, it didn't make much difference in the two-mile relay because Murray won by 16 seconds.

Also in Saturday's final round of competition, Martyn Brewer recorded a 4:09.5 for fourth in the mile and in the twomile run, he finished fifth in 9:10.4. Brewer battled the flu all weekend

The only other place for Murray Saturday was in the milerelay where the Racers recorded a 3:24.9 for fifth Sylvester Onyekwe, Mabbitt, Norman Simms and Chimes all

Friday, Murray had three places.

The distance medley team finished second, Bill Bradford took fourth in the high jump with a 6-10, which tied a school record, and Brian Rutter ran a 14:49.8 and an extra lap in the

Vols Remain In Lead With Win At Alabama

By ED SHEARER

AP Sports Writer Coach Ray Mears saw it as only a 50 per cent solution to the immediate problems facing his 14th-ranked Tennessee Vols.

"We've got to do both things or we're not going to be in the driver's seat, or in contention," Mears said Saturday after the Vols virtually ended fourth-ranked Alabama's Southeastern Conference championship hopes with a 92-89 victory in a regionally televised basketball game.

The next concern for Mears tonight's road test at Mississippi State, an in-andout team capable of downing

Valavicius Quits

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (AP) For the fifth time this season, a player has left Indiana's defending national collegiate basketball cham-latest, 6-foot-5 sophomore forward Rich Valavicius, said his departure Saturday stemmed from lack of playing time.

A strong, aggressive player, Valavicius played in 19 games, started nine times and averaged 4.1 points. His playing time dwindled as Coach Bobby Knight worked two, and sometimes three freshmen, into the starting

The first to leave was Mark Haymore, who said he did not like the atmosphere at Indiana. Guard Bob Bender quit because of lack of playing time, and freshman Mike Miday complained of the way Knight treated him. Trent Smock, returning under a new, fifth-year eligiblity rule, said he was dismissed for questioning his role with the deadheat for the lead, Tennessee holding a slightedge with a 13-1 record compared with Kentucky's 12-1 conference standard. The Vols are 19-4 overall, Kentucky 20-2. Kentucky maintained the pace Saturday night by crushing Louisiana State 90-76, while other SEC action saw we were to win all five of our Florida down Auburn 79-68, Mississippi dump Vanderbilt 75-66 and Mississippi State blast Georgia 98-69. Both leaders are in Mississippi tonight, with Kentucky taking on Ole Miss while Tennessee attempts towhip Mississippi State. Other action tonight has Auburn at Jacksonville in a nonconference game, Vanderbilt at LSU and Georgia Alabama. Florida has an open date. "Since Kentucky has only lost one game, we're going to have to start winning some more just to keep up with them," said Mears.

Meanwhile, Wildcat Coach Joe Hall said, "The season is long from being over as far as the conference championship is concerned.'

The Vols and Cats, will televised game at Knoxville and Georgia's Dave Reavis 17 championship.

Alabama, winner of the last three titles, saw its hopes fade severely. "I told the team after the game that realistically, there's no way we can think about winning the conference now," said Coach C. M. Newton of the Tide. "Even if remaining games, which would be tough enough, I can't visualize us winning the title.'

Tennessee broke an 81-81 deadlock when Alabama missed four straight free throws and went on to record their first victory in Tuscaloosa in five years. Kentucky had little trouble with ISU, controlling that game most of the way.

Among leading scorers in SEC action Saturday were Tennessee's Ernie Grunfeld 26, Mike Jackson 21 and Bernard King 20, Alabama's Reginald King 25 and Rickey Brown 24, Kentucky's Jack Givens 21, LSU's Greg Cook 18, Mississippi's Walter Actwood and Henry Jackson 14 each, Vandy's Tom Shultz 22, Florida's Bob Smyth 21 Auburn's Mike Mitchell 25, Mississippi State's Rickey collide in a regionally Brown 28 and Gary Hooker 24

"Making It To Pasture" With Cattle

Due to the very hard winter in Kentucky cattlemen are faced with a variety of problems in assuring that their livestock will "make it to pasture," say extension beef cattle specialists at the University of Kentucky.

The heavy snows and extreme cold have resulted in the need for cattlemen to provide more feed to maintain their herds until pasture is once again available.

More feed than usual must be provided to prevent downer cows next spring, says Russ BreDahl, UK beef cattle

Absher said the best method of extending the hay supply is by reducing the hay fed and supplementing with corn.

For example, dry cows that would normally require 16 to 18 pounds of hay per day could be fed five pounds of corn and the hay allocation reduced to seven to nine-pounds.

BreDahl emphasized that more feed is required when the chill factor drops below 20 deg. A 1,000-pound dry cow normally requires about 16 pounds of hay per day, but when the chill factor drops to zero, the hay requirement per day is 20 pounds. For each 10 degree drop in temperature below zero, the animal's energy requirements increase the equivalent of about two pounds of corn or three pounds

Neil Bradley, a UK beef cattle researcher, says that in and snow of this winter has extreme cases ear corn or shelled corn can substitute totally for hay. He said both dry cows and cows with calves have been wintered on corn alone at the University of Kentucky. About 10 pounds of corn is required for a dry cow and 12 to 15 pounds for a cow with calf

Cattlemen, however, were cautioned that cows should be fed what they need and not what they want - and should not be fed for more than one day at a time. The effects of cold weather are even more severe in young cattle than in cows, BreDahl Weaned calves being grown for replacement heifers

Extreme Weather Creates Problems In Dairy Management

The extreme cold weather created a lot of problems in dairy management, says Gordon Hess, UK dairy production extension specialist.

Probably the major problem has been in production losses, he said, noting that most of the production loss is due to reduced feed intake and water consumption.

'Cows will actually remain hungry rather than walk on frozen mud or manure areas," Hess said. To make the trip to the feeding area more enticing to the cows, he urged that "if at all possible, a smooth path from the resting shed to the eating area should be provided

Hess also advised the use of straw or other bedding materials along the route and in the feeding area in order to level off the sharp edges and encourage more feed consumption. He said some sort of windbreak is needed for the feeding area on very cold, windy days.

Ice water in unheated waterers will reduce water consumption, a factor that severely limits milk production, Hess said. "It takes about a gallon of water for each four to five pounds of milk production - and cows will not drink enough ice water to maintain over 50 pounds production," he pointed out. "If at all possible, some method of heating water supplies should be provided. If that is impossible, covering all the watering tank, except enough to provide access for drinking, will reduce freezing to a minimum.

Hess suggested the construction of a wooden frame around all sides of the watering trough or tank and over the top, the frame to be packed with straw or sawdust. He said fresh water should keep the water at an "acceptable" temperature. Some hay should be fed to be added twice a day to help

cows on a primarily corn silage forage feeding program if hay is available, he said, pointing out that the digestion of the highly fibrous hay produces heat for extra warmth. "Unless forage supply is limited," Hess said, "forage feeding should not be limited, for cows need about 25 per cent more forage to keep warm when the temperature falls below 20 degrees. If forage is limited, in the case of dry cows and younger antmals, it would be best to substitute grain for forage with ground ear corn or shelled corn being a good substitute for hay or silage in the case of a producing cow

For a producing cow, a minimum of a third of the daily dry matter ration should come from forage to avoid milk fat depression and digestive upsets," the dairy specialist said. "As an energy basis, five pounds of corn is approximately equal to about nine pounds of hay - so a good system to stretch hay supplies would be to substitute one feeding of hay each day with ground ear corn. But, remembering that corn is relatively low in protein compared to good hay, one pound of soybean meal or protein supplement should be fed with each five pounds of

He also urged dairy steamed bone meal and trace mineral salt are available "free choice" to the cows.

"Another problem in cold weather is chopped teat ends," Hess continued. "If the temperature or wind chill factor is below 20 degrees, teat ends should be dipped and dried before cows are turned out after milking." He warned that if teat ends have already been frost-bitten or chopped, about the only remedy is to remove the scabs that form on the teat ends before milking and use an udder salve formulated especially for the condition - and to dip the teat as usual. Hess also warned against the use of teat dilators, except as a last resort, "as it is nearly impossible to keep them sanitary enough to prevent mastitis.' He also noted that limited access to feed and water could deplete body stores of heifers and that in such instances the heifers should be fed more than usual when the weather moderates. "The thin heifer producers to make sure can be brought back to dicalcium phosphate or_adequate condition more efficiently if it is done as quickly as possible after the weather warms up," Hess

Corn Production Tips

By Ted Howard County Extension Agent For Agriculture

1. Land Selection: Use your best land for continuous corn production. By using the notillage method of planting corn, soil tilth is better maintained and land can be cropped more intensively. A rotation of corn-corn-small grains-red clover hay can be maintained by no-tillage of those steeper sloped soils.

2. Proper Fertilization: To properly fertilize for top corn production, you must TEST YOUR SOIL. Apply lime and fertilizer according to the soil test recommendations. Nitrogen fertilization should be based on previous crop, soil drainage and tillage system. Moderately-and poorlydrained soils require from 50 to 100 pounds more nitrogen per acre than well-drained soils. Apply the nitrogen at planting time on well-drained soils but nitrogen application may be delayed from 4 to 6 weeks after planting on less than well-drained soils. For more specific nitrogen rates, refer to AGR-1, 1977 Lime and Fertilizer Recommendations. For continuous corn silage fields, or for corn following small grain silage, increase potash rates by 60 lb.-A.

3. Hybrid Selection: Plant most of your acreage with fullseason hybrids. Grow more than one hybrid on your farm Planting 20-30 per cent of your acreage in earlier maturing hybrids will reduce your risk to weather and disease and spread your harvest load. When selecting a hybrid. consider such factors as: (1) Maturing, (2) Standability. (3) Insect and Disease Resistance, (4) Type of Hybrid, (5) Markets Available and (6) Yielding Potential. Information on many of these factors is available in the 1977 Kentucky Hybrid Corn Performance Progress Report available in your county extension office. If Johnsongrass is a problem in your cornfields, select one of the outstanding virus resistant hybrids now available.

4. Proper Planting Date: Too early or too late planting may reduce your corn yields. For highest yields, corn should be planted after April 15 and before May 15 but wait until the soil temperature is above 50 deg. F and getting warmer. No-tillage planting of corn should be delayed at least week later than conventionally planted corn in the same area. If planting after June 1, use an early maturing orn hybrid for grain 5. Proper Plant Population: Recent research data has indicated that slightly higher plant populations are profitable, for no-tillage planting over conventional planting rates. Top yields of grain with the highest net returns are obtained with planting rates as follows: Conventional - 18-22,000 seedscre. Silage - 22-26 000 seeds-acre. These planting rates should give final stands for 16-22,000 plants per acre. Corn planted at higher than recommended populations often results in barren plants, more stalk rot, increased lodging and lower grain quality 6. Proper Row Width and Planting Depth: There has been no research data in Kentucky, and elsewhere, that has shown any increase in corn yields for rows narrower than 36-40 inches. The average row width for corn producers in Ky. is 36.1 inches. It is much more important to get the proper plant population than to use narrower rows. Corn seed should be planted from 1 to 3 inches deep. For good emergence and uniform stands, corn should not be planted over 2 inches deep except in sandy, dry soils.

Good Weed Control: Use of the proper herbicides and proper application of these herbicides is a must for top corn production. For notillage corn production, the use of a contact and residual herbicide with 40 or more gallons of water per acre is essential to obtain best weed acre; No-Tillage-20-26,000 control. Consult AGR-6, Chemical Control of Weeds in Farm Crops in Kentucky 1977, for specific information and recommendations regarding weed control

And when I got off the me live a long life and to enjoy treadmill, I mounted a bicycle—a stationary bicycle ergometer in scientific University of Louiville jargen— and pumped the pedals until I was literally blue in the face, panting with yet 30 years old, and I play exhaustion and sweating profusely. All the while, I had a snorkle that looks like the hose of a vacuum cleaner stuffed in my mouth. To make it even more difficult to breathe, a clamp was placed over my nostrils.

The hose was attached to a machine - a "gasometer" that measures how much oxygen is taken in and how much is breathed out. It was all registered on sophisticated equipment that blinked and counted and changed colors.

The purpose was to make me exert myself-to make my heart beat faster than normal. The electrodes are attached an electrocardiogram machine-used to detect abnormal heartbeats. All during the experiment, Stamford watched the machine to make sure I didn't fall over dead with a heart attack. When the ordeal was finally over, the two scientists fed the data into a computer.

I didn't like the verdict at Twenty-nine-years-old, foot-2, 177 pounds, I figured that at worst, the verdict would be "average." I was dead wrong.

"You're in the shape of a man 40 to 49 years old," said Stamford. "You're 12 pounds overfat," Weltman said.

My prescription was to walk 30 minutes, at least, every day, at a pace of four miles an hour. That's not running. It's walking briskly. No pills, no crash diet, I wasn't even told to stop smoking, although they did say that puffing cigarettes is harmful.

"To get in shape, I've got to do it myself. I've got to discipline myself, force myself, right?" I asked, knowing the answer all along. Right, they said. Self' discipline is another attribute most Americans lack.

"But I play racquet ball, once a week for two hours," I protested.

That's not enough, said Stamford. To be fit, he said, you've got to eat right, and exercise every day, or at least four or five times a week.

In my case, I can lose one pound of body fat every two weeks if I take a brisk, 30minute walk every day. But then to stay in shape I'll have to keep it up.

'We're not selling a product that's very palatable," Stamford said. "We're living in a soft society. We wouldn't have any trouble if sex and eating chocolate cake were Exercise won't necessarily add years to your life, the two but it'll improve the quality of your existence.

By the time most people reach the age of 18, 'intellectual prowess is more important than physical prowess," Stamford said.

"People achieve status by making a lot of money. Having a good strong body loses its importance," he said. "That's beginning change to gradually.

In Europe, it's a different story, especially in Scandanavian countries, said Weltman, a New York native. There, well-lighted jogging trails have been set up and it's common to see people running or walking, day or night. On weekends, families take hikes together instead of settling down with beer and sandwiches to watch television.

Most people don't undergo stress tests because they're done in only a few places and they're expensive.

So to keep your heart in shape, your body needs to be trimmed of excess fat, and exercise is essential.

That means oxygen must be delivered to the muscles. And enough oxygen can be delivered only if you're in good shape.

"If oxygen is not available working muscles, the muscles will fatigue quickly and be forced to rest," says the sheet on which the two scientiests fill in data collected during tests. "To ensure an adequate supply of oxygen to working muscles, an individual must perform rigorous exercise several days per week. The type of exercise must be rhythmic in nature and involve most of the large "People in this country, like muscles of the body (jogging, you, think of what they do, like swimming, running, cycling). This type of activity places a stress on the body's oxygen delivery system and forces it to greater stress. Through although people delude time the body will supply oxygen more easily during work and thus more work may be performed."

'Improvement of the cardiovascular system is essential to the maintenance of health," the sheet says. "Heart disease is quickly approaching epidemic proportions in this country." Stop and go activities such as tennis, racquetball,, basketball and football do little to enhance the efficiency of the cardiovascular system the scientists said. In addition to lack of exercise, obesity leads to US 3-4 260-280 lbs heart disease. Body fat in men US 1-2 270-350 lbs. should not exceed 16 per cent US 1-3 300-450 lbs and for women, 20 per cent.

Stamford explained that the ability of muscles to perform is related directly to the doesn't mean your heart is in amount of oxygen the blood delivers to them. And the amount of oxygen delivered depends on how well the heart, lungs and circulatory system function.

> Stamford and Weltman say their primary goal is to educate the public - to get across the point that most people are in bad shape.

> The two have tested University of Louisville basketball and football players and have prescribed exercise programs for them.

> Stamford and Weltman say exercise physiologists are needed not only in science but in industry and other areas as well. They've launched programs to help police and civil service employes shape

"When people envision themselves as active, you say, 'you're in terrible shape' and they don't believe you," Stamford said. "We are most successful with people who come to us and say, 'I'm a slob. I need help."

Washington's birthday always reminds us of the cherry tree story. Whether the legend is fact or fiction is unimportant. The legend symbolizes a principal; to tell the truth - whatever the consequences.

Ironically, the cherry tree incident has a peculiar twist. The incident was authored by a commercially minded minister and book peddler named Mason Weems. When he wrote Washington's biography, "The Life and Memorable Actions of George Washington" (now in its 80th plus edition!), Weems penned it neither for patriotism or posterity. People were the same in his day as they are today. Weems knew when he wrote the book that he could make money from it because of Washington's popularity.

His money making motive is as unimportant as the fact or fiction of the legend itself. When he described the incident, he recorded a principle that helped our heritage. The heritage helps and encourages us to tell the truth - come what may. . .
