Truman Vetoes Tax Cut Bill; GOP Probably Can't Muster Needed Two-Thirds Majority

President Says Measure Unsafe For Our Economy

"WRONG KIND, TIME"

Washington, June 16—(AP)—President Truman vetoed today the $4,000,000,000 tax reduction bill, virtually killing any possibility of a cut in income taxes this year.

The Republican-dominated Congress will vote on whether to pass the bill over the veto, but backers of the legislation conceded they saw no chance for success.

It requires a two-thirds vote to enact a law over the President's disapproval.

Leaders said that can be mustered in the House, which will vote tomorrow, but not in the Senate.

In a message to Congress, Mr. Truman said the bill "offers dubious, ill-apportioned, and risky benefits at the expense of a sound tax policy and is from the standpoint of government finances, unsafe."

"The President declared it offends 'the wrong kind of tax reduction, at the wrong time.' He added:

"Proposals for tax reduction must be examined in the light of sound and carefully related fiscal and economic policies. Unless they are consistent with the demands of such policies, they should not be approved."

It was the second time in history that a President has vetoed a tax bill—and the first time one providing a tax cut has been vetoed.

President Franklin D. Roosevelt vetoed a tax bill in 1944.

The bill President Truman vetoed provided for reductions ranging from 10 to 30 percent in individual taxes, beginning July 1.

He told the Congress members the time for tax reduction "will come when general inflationary pressures have ceased and the structure of prices is on a more stable basis than now prevails."

"How long will it take for this point to be reached is impossible to predict," Mr. Truman said. "Clearly, it has not been reached as yet. Tax reduction now would add to, rather than correct, maladjustments in the economic structure."

The President also cited this nation's "great responsibilities for international relief and rehabilitation that have an important bearing on our efforts to secure lasting peace."

Arguing against cutting taxes while the debt is high, the President asserted:

"A time of high employment, and high prices, wages, and profits, such as the present, calls for a surplus in government revenue over expenditures and the application of all or much of this surplus to the reduction of the public debt."

He continued: "Continuing public confidence in government finances depends upon such a policy. If the government does not reduce the public debt during most active and inflationary periods, there is little prospect of material reduction at any time, and the country would, as a result, be in poorer position to extend support to the economy should a subsequent deflationary period develop."

But beyond this general argument against any tax cut now, Mr. Truman specifically criticized the measure Congress sent him.

He said it reduces taxes "in the high income brackets to a grossly disproportionate extent" and declared a good bill "would give a greater proportion of relief to the low income group."

At the same time, he recommended that Congress study and plan for a "thoroughgoing revision of the tax system," considering not only exemptions but changes in excise tax laws, gift and estate taxes, corporation taxes and "the entire field of tax revenues."

"H. R. 1 (the tax reduction bill) fails to give relief where it is needed most," his message asserted. "Under H. R. 1, tax savings to the average family with an income of $2,500 would be less than $30, while taxes on an income of $50,000 would be reduced by nearly $5,000 and on an income of $100,000 by nearly $10,000."

C. Bondurant Dies June 15

Services Here Thursday For Fulton Navy Veteran; Had Been Ill Six Weeks

The many friends of Carl Edwin Bondurant were saddened by news that he died Sunday morning in St. Albans Naval Hospital, Long Island, N. Y., where he had been a patient for six weeks.

He rallied slightly once during his critical illness, but the family had been told by physicians to expect his death at any time. The body will be returned to Fulton early Wednesday, June 18, and will lie in state at the home of his mother, Mrs. Ed Bondurant, Highlands, until funeral services at 3:30 p. m. Thursday at the First Baptist church. Horneback Funeral Home will be in charge of arrangements.

His mother and a brother, J. P. Bondurant, Long Island, will accompany the body to Fulton. Carl Edwin leaves another brother, Leon Bondurant, Houston, Texas; a sister, Mrs. John Becker, Washington, D. C.; three uncles, Herman Hardy, of Paducah, H. L. Hardy, Sr., of Fulton, and Herbert Hardy, of Union City; and an aunt, Mrs. Billy Milner, of St. Louis. His father preceded him in death. He was a veteran of three years' service in the Navy, receiving his discharge late in 1945. Before entering the service he was employed as an airplane mechanic by American Airlines, and he joined the airlines after returning to civilian life. He was reared in Fulton and was graduated from Fulton high school.

Leads Them To Safety As Forced Down C-47 Explodes At Ft. Knox

Fort Knox, Ky., June 16—(AP)—A staff sergeant received credit today for leading 21 persons to safety from a C-47 Army transport plane which crashed and burned on this military post's Godman Field.

Twenty of the 22 persons aboard, all military personnel, received only minor injuries in the crash which followed a takeoff yesterday, the public relations office here reported.

Staff Sgt. Curtis M. Green, a crew member, was the most seriously hurt. But he calmly led the passengers, including Maj. Gen. W. G. Wyman, an intelligence officer, through the escape hatch. Moments later the big plane burst into flames.

Green was hospitalized, suffering a dislocated hip and burns on the arms and neck. General Wyman and the other 17 passengers, members of his party, later left for Fort Riley, Kans., in another plane. The crash occurred as the general's party and the crew of four were enroute to Fort Riley from Bolling Field, Washington, D. C.

Rules Against Barring Henry

Wallace Can Speak From U. S.-Owned Stage, Federal Judge Decides

Washington, June 16—(AP)—Federal Justice James M. Proctor refused today to bar Henry A. Wallace from speaking at the government-owned Watergate amphitheater here tonight.

The judge rejected a petition from the American Anti-Communist Association, headed by Rep. O'Konski (R-Wis.), that he order Secretary of the Interior J. A. Krug to deny Wallace use of the Watergate.

Krug's department has jurisdiction over the Watergate, an outdoor theater in park lands near the Lincoln Memorial. "These matters do not fall within the judicial realm," Justice Proctor commented in dismissing the petition.

O'Konski left the court building with a declaration to reporters that he would take the matter up in Congress.

"I am going to tell the members of Congress that until our government takes a truly anti-Communist stand here at home, that we in Congress should refuse to appropriate any money to fight Communism abroad," he said.

Wallace, who is crusading against the Truman foreign policy, is expected to discuss his views on peace and perhaps also his position in the 1948 Presidential campaign.

13 Unidentified Plane Victims May Be Put In Common Grave

Leesburg, Va., June 16—(AP)—A common grave was a possibility today for 13 victims of the Friday the 13th air disaster as investigators pressed a four-way inquiry into the crash that killed 50 persons.

With 37 bodies identified, authorities said the prospect for singling out the others "seems remote."

Dr. William Frazer, Loudoun county coroner, last night telegraphed the families of persons known to have been aboard the Capital Airlines plane suggesting a mass burial for the unidentified.

The task of carrying the bodies of the 47 passengers and three crew members out of the treacherous wilderness in the Blue Ridge mountains near Keys Gap, W. Va., was completed yesterday under sunny skies after a day and night of drenching rain. They were laid in rows in a little chapel set up as an emergency morgue here.

One airline official said that while more than 100 searchers had collected all fragments they could find, no more than 48 bodies could be recognized as such.

The cause of the disaster remained a mystery.

In Washington, meanwhile, President Truman appointed a board of five government and private aviation specialists to recommend new safety measures. He picked Chairman James M. Landis of the Civil Aeronautics Board to head the panel.

The President said he is "deeply concerned about this subject" but did not mention specifically any of the three transport plane crashes which killed a total of 146 persons in 16 days.

Landis called the first meeting of the special air safety board in his Washington office Tuesday.

Two investigators on the scene of the crash near here reported the recovery of the plane's instrument panel.

One airline official said he was informed the altimeter registered 2,000 feet which would have given the plane "safe" clearance of the mountain ridge into which it smashed and burned on a Chicago-Washington flight.

But the four-engine craft plowed head-on into an outcropping of granite 100 feet below the summit and burst into flames.

The body of engineer John Black, the only other victim, was recovered Saturday.

Waterfield Promises To Side With People, Not "Privileged Few"

$20,000 Loan Made On Creek Project Today Contract Sent To Kentucky's Highway Dept.

COUNCIL MEETS

Only one signature—that of the Kentucky State Highway Department—is lacking now on the contract for the long-awaited Harris Fork Creek improvement project.

A group of 12 Fulton businessmen this morning jointly lent $20,000 to the city of Fulton to guarantee to the highway department that funds for the project will be available here at any time. The lenders will be repaid when city bonds are issued to finance the work.

The next step, after the highway department approves and signs the contract, will be the advertising for bids and the letting of the contract. The contract must be let before the bonds are issued.

The $20,000 had been subscribed in October 1946, and the loan was approved by the city council at a called meeting in the city hall this morning.

The Illinois Central railroad will contribute $5,000 toward the creek project, the Tennessee Highway Department will give $7,000, and the Kentucky Highway Department is expected to add $8,000. The city of South Fulton has agreed to make any necessary repairs or new construction in its sewers and water lines, and the city of Fulton will do the same on the Kentucky side.

Individual checks for the local loan will be held in escrow by the City National Bank, subject to order of the Fulton city council.

Car Overturns On Martin Hiway; No Serious Injury

Six from Fulton escaped with minor injuries late Saturday night when their automobile overturned about three miles south of Fulton on the Martin highway.

J. Mac Seates, driving Jack Moore's car, swerved to avoid hitting a dog, and lost control of the vehicle. It went off the road and overturned in the ditch.

Miss Betty Sue Houston spent the night in the Fulton Hospital, suffering from shock. Seates received a sprained arm. Others in the car were Felix Gossom, Miss Peggy Scott, Don Sensing and Jack Moore.

700 Ships Hit By NMU Strike

Maritime Unions Off Job Awaiting New Contracts; Walkout May Grow

New York, June 16—(AP)—Nearly 700 ships were tied up in United States ports today, NMU President Joseph Curran reported, in a work stoppage under a union "no contract, no work" policy.

The president of the NMU predicted that if union demands were not met by ship owners, 1,150 ships would be affected in a few days by the dispute in which four other CIO unions are involved.

Although Curran did not detail the ports and the number of ships in each, he said 500 of the nearly 700 ships were in east coast ports.

More than 2,000 ships would be affected, Curran claimed, if current negotiations between the union and tanker companies failed. Tankers are not affected by the present stoppage.

Although no pickets showed up at piers the work stoppage went into effect shortly after the expiration of contracts at midnight yesterday.

Opens Campaign For Ky. Governor In Home County

OUTLINES PLATFORM

A pledge to side with the people of Kentucky, instead of with special interests and the privileged few, was made by Harry Lee Waterfield in the opening address of his campaign for Democratic nomination for Governor at Murray Saturday.

Waterfield said his principal opponent, Rep. Earle C. Clements, already had committed himself to the opposite position in the primary race.

The candidate outlined his entire platform, placing emphasis on plans to expand cheap electric power facilities through TVA and REA.

A large delegation from Fulton and Hickman counties, in which Waterfield publishes newspapers and which he represents in the state legislature, joined Democrats from all over Kentucky at the Murray rally.

Adron Doran, assistant state chairman for Waterfield, presented representatives from each of the state's districts, who spoke briefly on the progress of Waterfield's campaign in their localities. They were, in numerical order, former State Senator O. C. Whitfield, Madisonville; Ray Stephenson, Louisville; Stokes Baird, Munfordville; Raymond L. Vincent, Williamstown; Philip P. Ardery, Frankfort; Claude Farley, Pikeville; R. G. Williams, Somerset.

Smith Broadbent, Jr., Trigg county, former state president of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation, introduced the principal speaker, Broadbent was introduced by Murray's Mayor George Hart, who welcomed the thousands of visitors to his city.

Waterfield's proposed program in various fields were headlined by these specific recommendations:

Education—A commonwealth fund of $34,500,000, in contrast to the present fund of $18,500,000.

Highways—A rural-road fund of $10,000,000 a year, five times greater than ever before.

Taxation—A 5 per cent levy on pari-mutuel betting, with a "drastic reduction" in the 50-cent rate on intangibles, and "greater exemptions" in the inheritance-tax laws.

Utilities—Appointment of a Public Service Commission "friendly and helpful" to the program of T.V.A. and R.E.A.

Public Research—Creation of a legislative-research commission whose first assignment shall be: "To seek out adequate revenue and to recommend readjustment to broaden the base of the State's tax structure."

Health—A full-time Health Department in every county in Kentucky; "improved administration and financial support" for the mental and tubercular hospitals; State aid for medical education, with expansion of schools for nursing; State co-operation with the Hill-Burton bill to expand hospital facilities, calling for one-third by the Federal Government, and one third by the community; expansion of hospitals and medical training for negroes.

Public Assistance—"Adequate appropriations."

Labor—Special study of the Workmen's Compensation Law, with the view of liberalizing benefits; special study of safety laws with the view of reducing occupational hazards, elimination of racial and religious discrimination in employment practices; bona fide labor representatives on commissions and advisory boards.

Conservation—Expansion of soil-conservation services; program to restore depleted forest areas; expansion of State parks needed to support greater tourist economy; creation of a commission to administer State parks, with operating personnel of policies.

Aeronautics—Co-operation by the State with local communities desiring to share in the seven-year airport-development program of the Federal Government, for which Kentucky's share is $6,000,000.

State Fair—Take it out of politics, with immediate application of the 1946 State Fair Reorganization Act.

Clear-Cut Issues

Kentucky Democrats who vote for Harry Lee Waterfield will not be buying a pig in a poke. He has a legislative record on many important issues which speaks for itself. Further, he has laid out the pattern of his campaign in his opening speech at Murray with unusual frankness. "I am not going to deal with you in generalities to do just that," he declares. "I am going to speak in plain terms."

He then proceeds to do just that. When he says, "I am for rural electrification expansion and cheap T.V.A. power," he makes it clear that we must have the cheap power to obtain the expansion. He pledges "the leadership to defeat the next Moss Bill," which will inevitably raise its head at the 1948 session in Frankfort. He further nails down his public power position by pledging the appointment of a Public Service Commission "friendly and helpful to the T.V.A. and R.E.A. program."

On education he is equally specific. Everybody advocates higher educational standards for Kentucky, but Waterfield tells exactly how he would seek to realize them. His pledge is "an appropriation of $34,500,000 a year to the common school fund for teacher's salaries." This is designed, he points out, to provide salaries equal to the national average for public school teachers.

Then came his clearly stated views on taxes. He advocates "a tax of not less than 5 percent" on part-mutuels, a levy that would come out of winning race track tickets only. He favors "a drastic reduction of the intangibles tax" and "greater exemptions in our inheritance tax laws."

Every candidate speaks feelingly on the subject of rural roads and "getting Kentucky farmers out of the mud." Mr. Waterfield gives body to his pledge of interest by naming a figure, a device most candidates shun. He advocates "a rural road appropriation of ten million dollars."

Public health receives equally candid treatment. "Kentucky must have one strong medical school," he declares, "capable of educating enough doctors for Kentucky's need." State aid is necessary. On hospital construction he makes a new and interesting proposal. The Hill-Burton Bill offers two and a half millions a year of Federal money for hospital building in Kentucky, providing the State or local communities will put up five millions a year. Few Kentucky communities could swing such matching funds on their own. The Clinton candidate offers to support an expenditure of two and a half millions a year by the State. A further Waterfield pledge is to "work toward the establishment of a full-time health department in every county of Kentucky."

There are many more direct statements in the Murray speech, on park developments, the State Fair, proper division of tax funds with cities, and various other subjects of interest to voters. Mr. Waterfield addresses himself to "a primary of clear-cut issues." Here they are, for every Democratic voter to see, examine and decide upon.

Voters who do not favor the type of progressive administration Mr. Waterfield is determined to provide in Frankfort have fair warning to oppose him. The many others who believe Kentucky can only forge ahead under vigorous, untrammeled leadership have the opportunity to see that here is their man. —(The Courier-Journal) for broad principles of home rule in all State relations; "Cities must receive an equitable portion of revenue contributed by them into the State Treasury."

WATERFIELD PROMISES TO CHOOSE "PEOPLE"

Veterans' Affairs—"I shall harken to the request of the veterans as they are given to me through the veterans' organizations."

Alcohol Control—"Fair and equitable" local-option laws, with "strict regulation and enforcement of liquor-control laws now on the statute books."

Waterfield charged that Clements, despite his "me too" avowals of friendliness to more and cheaper public power, actually is "an enemy of T.V.A. and R.E.A." Clements voted with Senator Ray B. Moss, the Republican sponsor of anti-public power legislation in the 1942 and 1944 sessions of the State Senate, Waterfield charged, and then he added:

"The Kentucky Utilities Company is very active in opposing me in this race. The company has called in its employees and instructed them to oppose me. The company has its registered lobbyists out campaigning for my opponent and against me."

Scores Neglect of Office. "My opponent," Waterfield declared, "cannot tell the rural people and farmers of Kentucky to sleep, and even by the most clever propaganda methods, get them to believe he is a friend of rural electrification."

Waterfield scored Clements for neglecting his duties in Congress to make the race against him. In the first four months of this year, he charged, Clements drew $5,000, in addition to office help, and answered the quorum call only 11 times.

"When elected as your Governor," Waterfield promised, "I shall never vacate my office through resignation or abandonment so that I may run for some other office."

Waterfield deplored the 15-year tendency in Kentucky politics to label Democrats as "Chandler Democrats, Rhea Democrats, Talbott Democrats," and so on.

"People wearing these labels," he said, "were expected to vote and use their influence according to the dictation of the leader of their particular faction. This practice is not democracy at work. It is not democracy. I agree we need unity. Yes, we need harmony. To be certain, we seek an era of good feeling."

"But we must seek this unity for all Democrats, not merely the professional 'labeled' Democrats. We seek this harmony for all Democrats, not merely a combination of professional 'labeled' Democrats and the special interests."

Waterfield declared, "Clements No Personal Gain. If he is nominated, Waterfield added, it will be his purpose to Reds Softening Up?

By Francis W. Carpenter
AP Foreign News Analyst

After months of saying "no," Russians finally have a new and positive approach to the atomic problem.

It would not pay to become optimistic about it now. The deadlock on fundamentals still exists. But at least there is a turn in the Russian thinking which has big possibilities.

It is simply this. The Soviet Union admits it might be possible to reach agreement on atomic control on the basis of the United States and Russian plans. Those are the only two big proposals that have been put before the United Nations atomic energy commission since it first met a year ago Saturday.

Andrei A. Gromyko, Soviet deputy foreign minister, gave the first official hint that the Soviet Union saw any possibilities in the United States plan.

In a way, this might eventually be more important than the elaborate scheme for international control which Gromyko laid before the full atomic commission last Wednesday after a big advance build-up.

Experts who have looked twice at Gromyko's proposition of Wednesday realize that it changed exactly nothing in the broad, and fundamental disagreement over the veto and nation sovereignty on atomic matters. But they did see importance in the fact that Gromyko enlarged upon his original plan, put before the delegates on June 19, 1946.

After the public pronouncement, Gromyko went before the working committee of the commission in a closed session Thursday and ripped into the United States for saying that the Soviet and American plans must be considered separately.

He said such thinking was "absolutely wrong," that "we should not leave any method aside before we consider it fully exhausted."

Then came this clincher from the Russian: "Both plans (American and Russian) must be considered simultaneously on their merits."

This caused the Americans some surprise. They had grown accustomed to Gromyko's hands-off attitude toward their plan, which had been written into the commission's first report by a majority of ten of the twelve members. They are waiting now to see which way the wind will blow next.

Dares Bad Luck

Chicago. (AP)—The Anti-Supernatural Society's regular meeting—Friday the 13th—was cancelled because, said president Nathaniel Leverone, too few members were in the city. Leverone, however, said he decided to preserve the society's reputation by taunting fate and left on a business trip.

"They said it's bad luck to start on Friday the 13th," he said, as he left at 9:13 p. m. in his auto, carrying license number 1313.

The society will next meet on Friday, Feb. 13, 1948.

afford leadership that will enable all Democrats to support the party in November.

If nominated and elected, Waterfield promised:

"I pledge you that my services will not be hindered by political considerations nor strangled by unbecoming ambition for personal advantage. I shall set my hand, my heart, and my honor to the task that lies ahead for greater advancement in governmental services. I shall covet only the approval that my record will deserve."

State Bar Group May Probe UMW "Illegal" Practice

Frankfort, Ky., June 16—(AP)—

The Kentucky State Bar Association might inquire whether advisory activities of the United Mine Workers of America constitute illegal practice of law in this state, Attorney General Eldon S. Dummitt said today.

The attorney general said he was "not in position to give a definite conclusion as to whether the action of the union amounts to practicing law."

He made the suggestion to Sherman Williams of Verda, Ky., who wrote that the union's District 17 had issued a circular to its members in Kentucky and Tennessee offering advice by its officials as to compensation claims for deaths and injuries while at work.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, June 16.—(AP)—Makings of an argument: Parke Carroll, Newark Bears' general manager, offers the opinion that third baseman Al Clark of his club is just about the best right-hander in baseball. When it comes to right-handers, says Parke, offhand you can name only Joe Dimaggio. Folks who have seen Clark will give you an argument about any other hitter and Carroll has figures to support his contention. As of last week, Al was hitting somewhere around .340 and had belted 10 doubles, two triples and 13 homers for 117 total bases, but he still is doing it in Newark.

How It Started

From The Thoroughbred Racing Association, Inc., comes the information that futurity races were created because Balie Peyton, Tennessee congressman, couldn't make up his mind. Peyton didn't know whether to breed his mare, Black Maria, to Lutzborough or Glencoe and in the course of discussions, someone offered to bet $5,000 that any future offspring of Lutzborough could outrun any future get of Glencoe. Eventually Peyton drew up conditions admitting any thoroughbred and her prospective foal for a fee of $1,000. The proposed race drew 30 nominations but only 15 fees were collected and four horses started. A Glencoe filly won the race.

Monday Matinee

Al Baggett, who used to bring the "tallest teams in the world" from West Texas State to play basketball in the east has taken on one of the tallest assignments as Brooklyn College coach. St. Louis reports says Charley Riley, featherweight contender, is largely responsible for the jump in boxing gates in that city. Ted Kleinhaus, 47-year-old former major leaguer and Syracuse baseball coach, received his college degree from Syracuse this spring. Ted quit college to sign up for each world war.

Dot's All, Brothers

Boston is looking for another basketball attraction like Notre Dame-NYU when Holy Cross and Rhode Island bump heads next winter. They figured it would sell out if the Garden held 50,000. Miami's Orange Bowl committee is putting on a big bowl party this month, featuring (of all things) movies of the 1947 Rose and Sugar Bowl games.

YESTERDAY'S STARS

Batting, Murrell Jones, Red Sox—after hitting a home run in his first game with the Red Sox since his acquisition from the White Sox yesterday, Jones hit a grand slam homer in the ninth inning of the second game to give his team a 7-3, 8-4 double victory. Pitching, Walter Masterson, Senators, followed his brilliant 16 scoreless innings against the White Sox last Sunday with a 1-0 shutout victory over the Tigers in the first game of a double header.

Chicks Take Miners 12-5, 4-3; Open Series At Clarksville

A fighting Fulton Chicks team ran roughshod over the Madisonville Miners 12-5 here Saturday night, and enabled Manager Fred Biggs to take a tight pitchers' duel with Buhl, Miner hurler, Sunday afternoon by a 4-3 count.

The two wins gave the Chicks full revenge for a three-game series they dropped at Madisonville. Fulton still is in seventh place with .425 standing. However, the Chicks are at Clarksville today to open a three-game series with the cellar team, and if their victory streak continues they should up the league ladder at least one place this week.

Saturday night the Miners jumped in the second inning on a walk, a single, a double and an error. The Chicks also opened their offensive in the second as Ray Pechous homered and Pete Peterson came home after slugging out a double.

There was no more scoring until the Chicks' big sixth inning that produced eight runs and brought 13 Chicks batters to the plate. Hitting for Fulton in the sixth were Peterson, two singles; Seawright, Engel and Pechous, singles; and Buck and Propst, doubles. Fulton added one more run in the seventh and eighth for good measure. The last two Miner tallies were made in the ninth on a couple of singles after Engel had walked Harrington and Propst.

Engel allowed only seven hits in pitching winning ball for Fulton. The Chicks collected 14 hits off King and Shandor.

Sunday afternoon Fulton made one run in each of the first four innings, while the Miners got two in the seventh and one in the ninth. The Madisonville attack never got up enough steam to break through the Fulton defense, although Manager Biggs failed to register any strikeouts, his Chicks committed five errors and the Miners had 10 men left on base during the game.

Tommy Buck, first man up for Fulton, hit a single, went to second on a wild pitch, and scored on Pechous' double. Dusty Rhodes got on first in the second on a fielder's choice, stole his way to second, and was brought in by Hal Seawright, who singled and was left on base. Dutch Gray came home with run No. 3 for Fulton. The Chicks second-baseman walked, advanced on Propst's sacrifice, and scored when Pechous singled to left field.

Rhodes was knocked home in the fourth by Hal Seawright after he had singled.

There were only three extra hits in Sunday's game—doubles by Pechous, Zubik and Proulx. Pete Peterson was held hitless for this second time in a home game this season. Hal Seawright had three for three.

OUT OF EVERY 100 VOLUNTEERS WHO APPLY

20.24%	fail to pass the mental tests
11.36%	fail to pass the physical tests
6.42%	fail for moral or sub-standard administrative reasons
TOTALS
38.02%	fail to pass
61.98%	are accepted

(Based on figures for January, 1947, when 35,478 men enlisted and 1702 extended their enlistments.)

Would it surprise you to know that only about 60 out of every 100 volunteers for the new Regular Army can measure up to today's requirements for a soldier?

Only the top 60% of American youth—mentally, morally and physically—can pass the rigid tests.

There are reasons for this which your Army wants you to know:

- The men we send overseas must represent you to millions of people who are struggling towards democracy. They must be typical of our best.
- The truly modern Army requires a far higher type of soldier than ever before. The wide use of scientific material and the broad program of research necessitate a superior man. Your Army must lead the world in the caliber of its men if it is to provide adequate defense in the atomic age.

These are reasons why Army enlistment standards today are higher than ever before—why your new Regular Army, although comparatively small in size—is performing its world-wide duties well.

In Japan, for example, ours is the smallest occupation force per capita in world history—yet there is no record of greater achievement in such a short space of time.

If you can measure up to these standards, you will find enlistment in the new Regular Army a good career. You will live and work with friends whom you will value always. You will have opportunity for travel and high adventure, and a chance to qualify for Officer Candidate Schools and Technical Schools. Above all, you will have the deep satisfaction of doing an important job for your country.

Ask at any U. S. Army Recruiting Station about the many opportunities open to men who volunteer for three years.
