Janie Noles Wins Top Honor As Junior Miss

Miss Janie Noles won the Fulton Junior Miss title and Miss Christina McKinney the South Fulton Junior Miss title in the 1966 Jaycee Junior Miss pageant held Saturday night.

The two young women will represent the Jaycees at state pageants of their respective states.

The top award of the night went to Miss Noles, who was selected by judges as the overall winner and was named Twin Cities Junior Miss. She received an additional trophy, plus a $100 scholarship.

Miss Letha Exum, 1966 Fulton Junior Miss, served as hostess for the pageant. She crowned the winners and presented the trophies, plus working out the choreography and physical fitness routines presented by the contestants.

This was the Jaycees' first formal pageant for the twin cities, although they have had representatives in the Kentucky pageant in Louisville the past two years. Previous Fulton Junior Misses were Marie Ruddle and Miss Exum.

Ray Williams served as master of ceremonies. John Reed was the organist.

Miss Noles is a Fulton High School senior and is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Noles of Fulton Route 4.

She is co-editor of the Fulton High annual, recipient of the Fulton High award, Miss Fulton High and was voted "best all-around" in the Senior Who's Who. She is president of the Explorettes, FTA officer, FHA officer, member of the Future Nurses, Quill and Scroll and National Honor Society.

From

Jo's

Notebook

I am pleased to know that some members of the Chamber of Commerce think it wise to "evaluate" the merits of the International Banana Festival. Nothing would be more helpful to the officers and board of directors of the Festival organization than for the Chamber to call a sort of "beef" session on the event, so that the officers of the Festival can benefit from the views of a wider range of citizens.

It would be grand, just wonderful, if people in all walks of life would join in the discussion, without fear of recrimination, and say just what they think are the good and bad points. As an out-going official of the Festival I can tell you with the greatest authority, that if the officers had the benefit of good, constructive criticism and new ideas for programming so that EVERYBODY could get the real meaning of the Festival, the job of serving as an official would be lessened ten-fold.

How about it Chamber of Commerce? It's program planning time... or cancellation time, whatever is the will of the people.

I don't pretend to know anything at all about high financing, but if I wanted to learn the first thing I would do would be to cancel my subscription to the metropolitan newspapers, weekly news magazines, break the tube on the TV set and throw away the radio.

Beats me how we can stop inflation fever by raising income taxes, while the President reduces Federal spending by $5.3 billion, then turns around and complains that Congress added $5.7 billions into our expenditures.

Even with these ball park figures it looks like Congress is going to spend $400,000,000.00 more than the President is going to save, even before he saves it.

I guess these financial egg-heads figure that if that pore weekly pay check dwindles a little more, the wage-earner will have less to spend, so he won't buy as much. As if he can buy all he needs right now.

Trapped, that's what we are, just plain trapped in a financial sink-hole.

If them wise guys in Washington spend more billions than they take in, how can a guy, with just a few bucks a week, keep his head above water, what with the cost of living the highest in the history of this country. I don't dig it. No wonder the war on poverty is having such a hard time winning the skirmish. The battlefield is getting too crowded.

With so much of the pay check going for taxes, and the government spending it faster than we pay them, a relief check will soon be bigger and better to get than sweating it out on a salary or running a small business.

Kentucky Safety Commissioner Glenn Lovern says that the high traffic death toll, "tragically points up" the need for bold, new safety programs. Isn't it possible that the growing highway slaughter points up the desperate need for some bold, searching crack-downs on the safety programs we now have?

When the mail doesn't bring some new announcement from a candidate for state office who doesn't promise "pie-in-the-sky" and "chicken-every-Sunday" I almost want to sit down and cry out.

Paducah Supporters Plan Ward Appreciation Event

Jack Rottgering, well-known Paducah realtor, Monday assumed the chairmanship of the Henry Ward Appreciation Dinner to be held at the JCC Civic Center on Park Avenue Dec. 8.

Henry Ward

Rottgering said ticket sales for the event are "brisk" and that tickets are on sale at all Paducah banks and branches, G&O Apothecary, Medical Arts Pharmacy, Albritton's Pharmacy and the Sun-Democrat.

Tickets are also being sold by members of the committee making arrangements for the dinner and by individuals.

The dinner is being sponsored by a group of Ward's friends, which includes members of all political parties and many people described as "completely non-political."

"The meeting is political," said a spokesman for the group, "in that we all want to see Henry Ward elected governor."

Ward, who was elected to the Kentucky House of Representatives in 1933 at the age of 23, has had a long career of public service, including a record six years as highway commissioner.

A native of New Hope in McCracken County, Ward lived at Lone Oak and Paducah as a boy.

He joined the Paducah-Sun newspaper as a reporter upon graduation from Augusta Tilghman High School in 1928.

He also served as Kentucky commissioner of conservation, and established the present park system which has become vital to the economy of Western Kentucky.

Ward also served as senator, legislative aide to Sen. Earle C. Clements, legislative representative of the National Real Estate Association and as a key official of the Louisville Chamber of Commerce.

CHANGE OF DATE!

The South Fulton PTA will meet at 7:30 p. m., Thursday, December 8, in the high school gym, instead of Thursday, December 1 as scheduled. A Christmas musical will be presented, under the direction of Mrs. Nelson Tripp.

Nancy Adams With The 'In' Crowd Of Entertainment

Nancy is really swinging out a tune at the Waldorf-Astoria to entertain the fashionable diners who came to hear the music of the incomparable Benny Goodman. That's Goodman blowing a mean tune on his clarinet.

Variety Magazine to the entertainer is what the drama critic is to Broadway.

Favorable mention by either is alpha and omega, the tops, the living end.

By the same token the name of Benny Goodman on the orchestra platform is what sterling means on silver... the finest!

When one applies both of these smiles to what Fulton's very own Nancy Adams is up to these days, it means this talented musician is "in," she's arrived, she's reached the plateau dreamed of, hoped for and worked for by thousands of others in the entertainment field.

Nancy has just completed a two weeks' engagement as the featured soloist with the Benny Goodman orchestra at the Waldorf Astoria Hotel in New York, a rather distinguished stopping place, that for a New York address is what the White House means to politicians.

And how did she do? Here's what Variety, the national magazine of the entertainment world said:

"Nancy Adams registers as a savvy band vocalist. She delivers with a relaxed, understated style which meshes nicely with the band. She's very effective on tunes like 'Walking Happy,' 'This Excited Feeling Called Love,' and 'I Can't Give You Anything But Love.'"

That's not all; Goodman thinks she is a rare combination of talented singer and competent musician. She has been invited to appear with the all-time favorite orchestra leader at the Tropicana at Las Vegas, when Goodman opens there within the near future.

Nancy's mother, Lucille has just returned from a three weeks' visit.

Dame Fashion To Usher In Holiday Season At Fashion Show At Derby

Today (Thursday) is the day for the Fulton County Medical Auxiliary's seventh annual luncheon-style show at the Derby Restaurant.

This lovely affair has become the opening event of the Christmas season and also benefits the Auxiliary's scholarship fund. At the time of the first luncheon-style show, the scholarship loan was for $100 to one student, but in the seven years has grown to $200 per year to two students. At the present the Auxiliary has one girl at the University of Kentucky Nursing School and one girl in nurse's training at the Methodist Hospital in Memphis.

"Without the help of the merchants, florists, models and the ladies who attend, this could not have been possible; so all involved should feel pride in this worthy project," Mrs. Glynn Bushart chairman of the style show said today.

Merchants participating in this year's show and their models are: Clarice Shop - Miss Dee Fields, Mrs. Bill Fossett and Mrs. Max McDade; Dotty Shop - Miss Gail Bushart and Miss Darlene Roberts; Elizabeth's - Mrs. Charles W. Binford and Mrs. Hendon Wright; Grisham's Men's Wear - Ronnie Bennett and John Reed; K. CAGE OPENER!

Friday night, December 2, the Fulton City Bulldogs will open the basketball season, playing the Fulton County Pilots at Hickman. Two home games are scheduled for next week.

What Good Is The Banana Festival? New York Executive Tells Us

The old saying that a prophet is not without honor save in his own land can apply to communities as well as people. We have reference to the growing fame of our International Banana Festival in the highest echelons of government and diplomacy.

Yet, those of us, and that's most of us, who work our hearts out for the program each year, still find it necessary to listen to an individual or two who says: "What good does it do for Fulton?"

We toss this off with some sympathy for the questioner when we receive comments from people who commend us for our spirit and encourage us to greater goals.

There are hundreds, maybe thousands of people in this here United States who never ask that question... they are former Fultons who are proud of the international reputation their hometown is receiving around the far-flung corners of the globe. These folks are more informed about "the good of the Banana Festival," than many people who live here, because they have to answer more questions from more inquiring people.

Take for instance Marvin E. Holderness. Marvin is a vice-president of Doremus Advertising Agency in New York City. He is married to the former Lawson Yates, the daughter of the late Lawson Yates of Fulton and Mrs. Yates who now lives in Kingsport, Tenn., Vicki Hurd's home-town.

Besides being in a position to tell the story of the Festival to some mighty prestigious folks in New York through his advertising agency, Marvin is also president of the Tennessee Society of New York and herein lies the most interesting story I've heard in many a day.

It's almost unbelievably coincidental. Hear this: -Late this month, Miss Tennessee, Vicki Hurd, our immediate past princess of the Banana Festival is going to appear at the Tennessee Society of New York... in New York.

-She will be introduced by none other than Marvin Holderness, the club's president.

-Neither Vicki nor Marvin have ever met each other. But they both have some mighty, mighty close kindred spirits now, that's for sure! The common bond they share is that Marvin married a Fulton girl and Vicki has been "adopted" by Fulton as one of the loveliest ladies ever to wear a crown in anybody's country.

-And so Marvin wants to know all about the Banana Festival, Vicki Hurd, her reign as our Princess and her superb performance in Ecuador this Spring as "la Princesa del Festival del Banano."

There is no doubt that Marvin will startle the former Tennesseans living in New York with his introduction of Vicki and her role as the royal ruler of the 1966 Festival. Mrs. Yates has sent him enough information to write a book, but being in the public relations field I am sure that Marvin will pick up the real substance of the program that wraps up the entire intention of our program.

Here's what Marvin wrote to Mrs. Yates recently:

"Dear Mother Yates:

"We all enjoyed your letter and we so much appreciated your sending it, together with the newspaper clippings. The clippings provided much of the information I needed and if Mrs. Westpheling can find something else on the Ecuador trip, so much the better.

"I am continually impressed with the wonderful contribution Fulton is making to Latin-American friendship and was most interested in the proposed Latin-American Friendship Center and will want to hear of the progress on this project. That was a wonderful picture of Paul (Hornbeak) taken in connection with the donation of the two sewing machines.

"This is the kind of activity that can really mean something in building Latin-American friendship. The people up here are so used to depending on Washington to do everything that they hardly believe it when you tell them about it."

Savings Bond Chain Letter Is Illegal, Say Postal Authorities; What About Indecent Advertising?

If you found time to read our editorial page over the week-end we hope you followed our suggestion to write to our elected officials in Washington objecting to the use of the mails for the dissemination of obscene films and pornographic literature. Only by concerted action on behalf of interested citizens can we impress upon our national leaders the necessity for halting the sale and publication of such demoralizing filth.

In the editorial last week we commented upon the fact that the Postoffice Department exercises great control over many mailing privileges, such as lotteries, etc., but on its own admission it is "powerless" to halt the mailing of lurid literature.

The irony of it all is pointed out in the release we received this week from the United States Treasury Department. Compare the "evils" of the chain letter activity with the sales pitch of San Fair, a nudist magazine.

Here's the chain letter "evil," prohibited by postal law:

A special warning is being issued throughout Kentucky today to the general public concerning participation in "chain-letter activities involving the use of United States Savings Bonds."

John U. Courtney, State Director, U. S. Savings Bonds Division, Treasury Department, Louisville, issued the warning. He noted that any letter scheme which uses the mails is considered by the Post Office Department as a violation of the postal lottery and fraud laws.

Mr. Courtney continued that even if the list of participants is not circulated in the mails, this does not change the illegality of the operation since the mails are used in some phase of the scheme.

Lottery laws are considered violated because the question as to whether the chain will be broken is a matter of chance as is the possibility of winning anything. A Savings Bond purchased in connection with such a scheme becomes a share in the lottery and is nonmailable under the laws.

The Treasury Department believes that chain-letter schemes are essentially get-rich-quick endeavors and do a distinct disservice to the Savings Bonds Program. Rather than encouraging persons to make genuine investments, they create the illusion that participants are aiding their Government and themselves, while in reality they are violating the law.

Mr. Courtney concluded that all bank issuing agents in the State are advised to follow the official regulations they now have concerning "chain letter and lottery schemes."

(Ed's Note: Mr. Courtney, isn't the sale of photographs of naked individuals in all manner of indecent poses, something of a get-rich-scheme?)

The Clothes Bank Needs Help! Please Give It! At Christmastime This Is Expression Of Love

Our Fulton-Obion Counties Clothes Bank continues to serve the needs of persons who must depend on its help for the proper clothing of their families!

During the period from August 3 through October 15, a total of 356 children and 126 adults were served and 2973 articles of clothing were distributed.

Ladies of the community have made 166 children's garments during the past two months for distribution. Material for these garments has been cut out and assembled into kits. The garments are not difficult to make from the kits; and, in this way, attractive, new garments are provided for children at very little cost. Volunteers are still needed to make these garments. Kits may be secured at the Chamber of Commerce office.

Just think what an opportunity we have before us to put our Christian love into action—a few hours spent in making a little girl's dress, dropping off a box of used clothing at the Clothes Bank, sharing with someone else that which we will not use any more.

And, as a result of such small sacrifices, think how many men, women, and children have good clothing to wear which will not only keep them warm but will also enable them to have the joy and the dignity of feeling dressed up and presentable.

The distinguishing mark of the Christmas season is a feeling of love and goodwill. We all seek to express this lovely attitude to others through our words of greetings, our greeting cards, the gifts we give, the nice things we do for others.

Why not do something nice during this Christmas season for your less-fortunate neighbors of the area through your Clothes Bank? There are still about a dozen children's garments cut out and ready to be made for distribution. You could pick up one or more of these at the Chamber of Commerce office and make this a part of your work of love this Christmas! The Clothes Bank will always accept and put to immediate good use gifts of clothing or of money. The need is especially great at this time for children's clothing.

You may be interested to know that during the period from October 19 to November 19, 209 children and 81 adults were served by your Clothes Bank and were given 2,121 articles of clothing.

Every person in the area can share in some way in this continuing work of love and goodwill which benefits so many!

Stop Political, Not Consumer Spending

OCALA, FLA., STAR-BANNER: "An opinion survey reveals that most Americans favor a cut in federal spending rather than increased taxes as a means of controlling inflation. What this shows is that more people are becoming aware of the real cause of the rising inflation which is troubling our country today... Do the politicians want us to believe that giving them more money to spend will result in a lower cost of living—that is, a dollar with more purchasing power?"

POET'S CORNER

DESIGN FOR LIVING

I knelt at the knee of experience
And asked for the power to see
The fears and the pains and the heartaches
That some time might come to me.

I begged for the gift of foreseeing
The troubles that might lie in wait;
I pleaded a chance to avoid them
And thus thwart my predestined fate.

Experience, wise and all-knowing,
Refused to take heed of my plea,
Contending that men worth the living
Should live out their full destiny.

For life isn't all song and laughter,
There's grief, disappointment and pain;
We welcome the sunlight with gladness
Because of the clouds and the rain.

The sum and the substance of living
Means taking the fun with the strife;
It's making the best of the bargain,
And making the most of your life.

FULTON KENTUCKY

One of the greatest driving forces of the Hitler Regime in Germany in the late 30's and early 40's was the youth program. Today in Russia and all Communist countries there are organized strong youth programs. We have been reading just recently in the newspapers articles concerning the Red Guard in Communist China. History has shown us that these youths can be completely dominated with one idea, they can be completely controlled and their minds can be easily directed towards a particular goal.

These programs are designed to train youths in the ideologies of Communism or some other belief. These programs are mandatory and consequently you have 100 percent participation. Yet, we in the Free World are only reaching approximately one boy out of every four through the Boy Scout Program. This is the only program in the free world that devotes its full time towards teaching boys good citizenship training, belief in a God and respect for the other man. As one man so aptly put it, we are batting only .250 while the Communist are batting 1.000.

The program of President Johnson and the Congress has been called "The Great Society". This program is dedicated to an attempt to improve the living conditions of all of the citizens of our great land. We are building new highways, new schools and we are devoting monies and energies towards the attraction of new industry to our communities. Here in our own community we have spent monies for Public Housing to improve living conditions, we have begun an Urban Renewal Program, and we have plans for the construction of various Civic Centers and Community Centers, all for the betterment of our community.

Nowhere have I read in any newspaper article that your draft card burners were former Boy Scouts, nor do you find Boy Scouts in riots, nor do you find them the problem children in the schools, nor do you find them slandering and desecrating their country. Instead, you will find them in worship, be they Protestant, Catholic or Jew. You will find them participating in local activities and you will find them working towards a better community and a better civilization.

Yet, the goal for the Scout Program in Fulton and South Fulton is budgeted less than 50¢ per person. Therefore, I urge you to contribute generously of your money and of yourself in every possible way so that more of these boys and your neighbor's boys can have the good fortune of experiencing the training and fun provided by the Boy Scouts of America and through this program they will be better qualified as the future leaders of the City, County, State and Federal Governments, and so that they will be better qualified to win the Cold War.

The word biography means "life story." It is a true account of a person's life. An autobiography is a self-biography. It is a man's life story written by himself.

The able biographer presents all sides. In doing this he also reveals much about himself. A good biography is not a mere collection of facts, but is a work of art, in which the artist himself shows through. The biographer is seen in his subject's life story, just as a painter is seen in his painting or a composer in his music.

Some of the biographies and autobiographies are listed below:

THE ODDS AGAINST ME, by John Scarnie, an autobiography. The author has used his incredible gambling sense, his miraculously dexterous fingers (as a magician he vied with Houdini), his brilliant mathematical mind, his fascination with carnival and gambling life, to become America's number one authority on gambling and odds.

HIROHITO, by Leonard Mosley.

How could Hirohito, single-handedly, have ended World War II? Did he know that Pearl Harbor was going to be attacked? What facts show that he knew the war would be lost only months after it began? In this intimate biography of Hirohito, Emperor of Japan, the author answers these questions.

BILLY GRAHAM, by John Pollock. Pollock tells the Graham story from its simple beginnings in a frame farmhouse near Charlotte, North Carolina. As a boy, Billy was busier with farming and pranks, baseball and random reading than he was with formal studies. He grew tall fast; he "borrowed" his father's car to race it over country roads; fell in and out of love; and thought the devotional books his mother read to her family "all hogwash."

TCHAIKOVSKY, Lawrence and Elizabeth Hanson. In this new study, the authors bring into focus the man whose works are among the glories of music throughout the world. With their thorough knowledge of music and the Russian language, the Hansons have reinforced the advocacy of Tchaikovsky's compositions that they were created by a substantially vigorous and dynamic personality.

WINSTON CHURCHILL, by Violet Bonham Carter. This superb account of the public and private life of "the greatest Englishman" of our century makes a rare first-hand contribution to the history of an epoch and to the understanding of a man. Violet Bonham Carter was Churchill's close personal friend for nearly sixty years. Her book focuses on the formative and crucial years from 1906 to 1916 that shaped his political style as well as his philosophy; it contains a vast amount of new material that has never been previously published.

COWBOY AT THE MIKE, by Curt Gowdy. The "cowboy" of the title is a man who rode out of the wild west of Wyoming to become one of the great figures in the world of sports—Curt Gowdy, for fifteen years Boston Red Sox announcer and now doing "The Game of the Week," the All Star Game and the World Series for NBC television. His story is both a colorful description of broadcasting in the sports world and a history of personal bravery.

HAMMARSKJOLD, by Emery Kelen. Hammarskjold is an informative biography, an intelligent analysis, and a very human story of one of the great men of our time. "He was a man of affairs who walked about in a well-pressed suit, but secretly he sought the skeleton, the core. He applied himself to the strait gate and then narrow path along which no man travels unless he leaves his flesh outside."

THE THREE WORLDS OF CAPTAIN JOHN SMITH, by Philip L. Barbour. Captain Smith is known to most of us as a romantic figure who captured the affections of Pocahontas and was thus saved from being clubbed to death. Few Americans know that credit for the success of the first permanent English colony in America is due more to John Smith than to any other man.

JOHN PAUL JONES, by Samuel Eliot Morison. Jones was our foremost sea captain in the Revolution and the man who in many ways set the standard for Annapolis. He deserves a fair-minded, full-length biography. He lives again in this book, in the salty, authentic, revivifying prose of Samuel Eliot Morison.

Louie Nunn, Glasgow Republican Candidate For Governor In 1967

LOUIE B. NUNN

Louie B. Nunn of Glasgow, Kentucky, appeared in Frankfort today and filed his Notification and Declaration of intent to seek the Republican nomination for the office of Governor of Kentucky.

Nunn's Declaration was signed by Edwin G. Middleton, Louisville, Kentucky, attorney and Republican National Committeeman. The second required signature was that of Thomas D. Emberton of Edmonson, Kentucky, an attorney residing in the 5th Congressional District, who was Co-Campaign Chairman of Dr. Tim Lee Carter in his campaign for reelection to Congress.

In filing, Nunn said, "My organization is well under way throughout the State. I also have several individuals knowledgeable in public affairs and state government assisting me in developing a positive forward looking program—a program designed to move Kentucky off the bottom and place us among the more progressive states in the nation."

Nunn briefly stated his basic platform position on a few of the issues of state government. "We need to take a new look at our tax structure, with a view toward eliminating inequities that have developed. My opponent indicated last year when he appeared before the Special Session of the Kentucky Senate, that under certain conditions he might favor an increase in the sales tax. I want to go on record here and now that I would oppose any increase in the sales tax or any other taxes. More efficient operation of our government, which has grown fat and inefficient under twenty years of Democrat rule, plus the normal yearly increase in revenues, should provide adequate revenue for the programs our people are now developing. I will also urge our Congressional Delegation to support the effort that will be made in Washington next year, to enact legislation that will permit a return of a part of our income taxes to the States."

Regarding education, Nunn declared, "Perhaps the most important problem of all that needs attention is our public school system. A better educated people will result in more of the good life for our people, attract industry, improve our State in general. We need to put a check rein on government administrative rule making. Too many departments in state government are making rules and then acting as prosecutor, judge, and jury."

On Roads and Parks, Nunn said, "While we cannot deny that some progress has been made in road building and parks, there is room for improvement. We must step up our Rural Road Program, so our people can reach the main arteries. We still have too many farmers contending with mud roads in the winter and dust in the summer. I intend to do something about this. I also intend to give our County Fiscal Courts more voice in the Rural Road Program."

Pertaining to cities, Nunn continued, "I do not believe the Federal Government alone should be called upon to rescue our cities from their many problems they face today. Greater cooperation and aid with the problems of the cities will be a prime objective of my administration."

On Civil Rights, Nunn stated, "All citizens of this Commonwealth are entitled to the same rights, privileges, benefits and economic opportunities and no person is entitled to any less because of race, creed, or color."

"The economic growth of our State depends upon the good relationship of labor and management, without which neither can survive. My objective in the field of Labor-Management relationship will be a stable climate, conducive to new industry and the expansion of existing industries, with a fair and reasonable return for all."

Nunn declined to further discuss organization or candidates, or campaign strategy.

Nunn further stated, "The people are now ready for a change in Administrations in Frankfort. If, after the Republican Primary, the losing candidate will give the winner the same true-blue, loyal support that I have always given my Party, there is no question in my mind that we will win the Governorship next November."

Elderly Citizens Receive Special Security Benefits

First monthly checks were delivered this month to about 400 elderly Paducah area residents. The special benefits, payable to persons 72 or older who are not eligible for regular social security cash benefits, were made possible by an amendment to the social security law enacted earlier this year, Charles M. Whitaker, social security district manager, said today.

The special monthly payments amounting to $35 a month for a single person and $52.50 for a couple, are financed out of general Federal revenues, not out of social security tax contributions, Whitaker noted.

These payments are intended to provide a small continuing income to people who may have missed out on social security coverage because they were too old when social security started, or worked in occupations not covered by social security until recent years.

Persons 72 or older who are not eligible for a public retirement benefit from the Federal Government, or from a State or local government retirement system, can collect the monthly payments, Whitaker said.

Those who are receiving public retirement benefits that are less than the $35 a month for a single person, or $52.50 for a couple, may be paid the difference between their present public retirement benefits and the amount of the new special payments.

Those getting public assistance from a State welfare agency will be eligible for the new special benefits only for those months in which they do not receive a cash welfare payment.

"Most eligible people in the Paducah area were sent questionnaires from our office on the basis of their medicare application and did not have to make separate application for the special benefits," Whitaker said. "About 75 persons whose names we did not have in our files did come in and apply, however."

Whitaker also had a special message for those who may be approaching age 72. If you reach 72 before the beginning of 1967 you may collect these special payments without any social security credit, but you should come in and apply either in the three months before your birthday or the month of your birthday. The special payments are not retroactive and you will lose benefits for some months if you delay until after you become 72 to apply, Whitaker pointed out.

in New York with her famous daughter. "She is so busy with her television commercials, doing arrangements for such nationally known personalities as Kate Smith, et al, we only had one free day in all that time to just be together and visit and talk about our family and friends," she said.

And if further evidence is needed to reveal the kind of company she is keeping in the excitement of New York's entertainment whirl, "Where," the magazine that tells what to do and where and when in New York, devoted it's front cover to Nancy singing with the Goodman orchestra. On the inside pages of the booklet Nancy was listed with Bob Crosby, Ella Fitzgerald, Peggy Lee, Jerry Vale and others, as the people to see and enjoy while in that fabulous city, where stardom in the entertainment field is harder to come by than a buggy whip in Detroit.

Nancy and her equally talented husband, Floyd Huddleston, a composer, song-writer, musical arranger and producer, are loving every busy minute they live in New York. When time permits they work together on all sorts of musical productions.

Pretty, 27-year-old Nancy, originally from Fulton, Ky., went to Murray State and Memphis State, got her first break as a winner of the Mid-South Fair Youth Talent Contest, sponsored by The Press-Scimitar and WREC. She won on the old Arthur Godfrey Talent Scouts show, was featured by Godfrey for several weeks on his morning radio show, came back to Memphis to return to school. She worked with Floyd making jingle commercials at Pepper Studios in Memphis and for two years was featured on WREC-TV's Good Morning From Memphis show. She sang with several dance-bands around Memphis.

We now hear her voice on 17 different commercials, on some of the biggest shows on the air, and RCA Victor put her under recording contract a few months ago.

Newport cigarettes just put her under exclusive three-year contract, cigarette commercials only, at a yearly figure which is confidential but astronomical, and hers is the voice you hear singing "Newport tastes better, tastes fresher, too . . ." They put her under contract to get her away from Winston's, which then re-did its singing commercial, but they ended up saying they were just going to keep on using the old one Nancy made for them. She does a Chevrolet commercial you hear on Bonanza, and she also does a Plymouth commercial, but its vocal effect without words, so that in the strange world of broadcast advertising sponsor conflict can't be claimed.

Nancy also draws pay from Balantine Ale and from Chanel No. 5 perfume. She is the voice of the Patty Duke theme song. Her commercials are heard on the Andy Williams Show and the Ed Sullivan Show.

Record Quickly Withdrawn

Her recording career with Victor is barely started. They released one record which was doing well in New York and L. A. Floyd said, but withdrew it hurriedly when the song was "covered" by several big names, because they didn't want her buried at the start.

Floyd manages the jingles part of her career, wrote several of the audition jingles and took her to the right places. Her career got a big boost when Dick Williams, Andy's brother and one of the best commercial jingle singers, heard a tape she made and submitted it to Les Paul, who had her record with him. Gerald Purcell, who discovered and now manages Al Hirt, along with Gale Garnett, Monique Van Vooren and Ethel Ennis, saw her with the Ray Charles Singers on a Perry Como show and became her personal manager. He also manages Floyd in the song-writing field.

Without mentioning a specific figure, a successful singer of commercial jingles in Nancy's present bracket is good for from $50,000 to $250,000, and she is not on the bottom.

Floyd's Success

Floyd is doing all right himself. He has two songs coming out on a new Gale Garnett release. He and Al Rinker wrote "The Name of the Game," which will be the title song of an album Perry Como records next month. Rinker, one of the old Rhythm Boys Trio (Bing Crosby and Harry Barris were the others), worked with Floyd then at Pepper.

He has written many songs with Cy Coleman, who wrote the music for "Wildcat," and they have one called "Sweet Talk" which Barbra Streisand, Peggy Lee and Tony Bennett are all doing in albums, and Doris Day's producer wants to talk to them when Floyd goes to Hollywood next month. He also has appointments to show new materials to Andy Williams, Dean Martin, Peggy Lee and Rosemary Clooney.

nati, Dayton, Baltimore, as well as Atlanta. He has served in Atlanta the last four and one-half years. He is a native of Weakley County, Tenn., and obtained his law degree at National Law University in Washington, D. C. He and his family live at 5790 Kayron Drive NE.

While the position is new in Atlanta, it is not new nationally. Atlanta had an internal security unit in the police department alone. Essentially what the city has done is to create an all-encompassing unit of this kind. The attempt, as officials have said, is to see that rumors of wrongdoing are proved out or exploded, so that they are not left to fester as rumors and undermine respect for the employees or officials concerned, or for the city government generally.

Mr. Henderson, in an interview, observed that his experience throughout his career as an FBI agent has involved "Getting the truth or falsity of an allegation." "I would hope and expect from my experience that I will be just as interested in proving the falsity of allegations as I am in proving the truth of these allegations," he said.

Alderman Richard Freeman, who was foremost among those advocating creation of the new post, described himself as "pleased" over Mr. Henderson's selection.

"I've talked to Mr. Henderson on several occasions," said Mr. Freeman. "He has a good background and I believe he has a good understanding of the nature of the job ahead of him."

SHEEP IMPORTANT TO AGRICULTURE INCOME

In Kentucky and Southern Illinois our sheep industry is at an all time low. In fact, in the United States as a whole we have found that sheep numbers are the lowest since 1875. We are importing more wool and lamb every season and find the price sheep men receive for their wool clip and lamb crop drop a little every year. With all the factors against the production of sheep, there is still a bright outlook for our woolly friends.

The sheep industry is well fitted for the grassland farmer who has a shortage of labor and surplus pasture. It is a proven fact that sheep will return more dollars income per dollar invested than any other form of livestock. Dairying will also give you a high income return, but there is more labor involved as well as investment.

Sheep will utilize more pasture and other roughage and less grain

Tichenor

Costello

Wurth

LeGrand

These are some of the exciting experiences awaiting four Kentucky young people who have been named delegates to the 45th annual National 4-H Club Congress in Chicago Nov. 27 to Dec. 1.

The delegates, all named by the Cooperative Extension Service, are: Troy Costello, 18, of Russellville; Steve Tichenor, 17, of Taylorsville; Bill LeGrand, 16, of Warsaw; and Jerry Wurth, 15, of Paducah.

Costello, winner of the tractor award, was named the top tractor driver in the state in 1965 and placed 10th in national competition. In his 1965 project he has assisted eight younger members in their tractor projects.

"The performance of our club in every county and district activity would not have been possible without Troy's outstanding leadership as club president," said Mrs. Ed Martin, club leader. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Costello, he will be the guest of Standard Oil Company (Kentucky).

Tichenor, the son of Mr. and Mrs. L. A. Tichenor, won the safety award sponsored by General Motors. His prize-winning safety demonstrations were "Buckle Up for Safety" and "Safety on the Farm, in the Home, and on the Highway." Applying his safety knowledge on his father's 288-acre farm, Tichenor installed fire extinguishers in all buildings and attached slow moving vehicle emblems on all their farm equipment traveling on highways.

Excellence in gardening won the horticultural award for LeGrand, who begins planting his tomato crop indoors in May to insure a good yield.

In addition to maintaining an outstanding garden, LeGrand also extended the irrigation system on his father's 200-acre farm to include his planting areas. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. William LeGrand and will enjoy his stay in Chicago as a guest of Allis-Chalmers.

Wurth, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Dennis Wurth, won the community beautification award sponsored by The Sears Roebuck Foundation. He led a group of 4-H'ers in maintaining the grounds of their church and school. They also assumed the duties of mowing grass at a community cemetery.

DAIRY HERD IMPROVEMENT ASSOCIATION

For the second straight year, W. N. Hammond's dairy herd was the top milk-herd in the Obion-Weakley County Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Mr. Hammond was the only member of the association to receive the coveted Blue Award, which was awarded this year to only 19 herds out of 440 herds on test in Tennessee for averaging over 500 pounds of butterfat per cow in his herd. This year, milking an average of 26.7 cows per day, the Hammond herd averaged per cow for the year 13,680 pounds of milk and 502 pounds of butterfat. The average for the Weakley-Obion County Association was 9,930 pounds of milk and 410 pounds of fat.

It is always enjoyable to visit the Hammond dairy farm and observe the wonderful care he gives his dairy cows. If you visit his farm, Mr. Hammond is going to show you "Jan", who in the last 291 days has milked 15,300 pounds of milk; "Ada", that in the last 347 days has milked 14,850 pounds of milk, and "Bobby", a young cow that milked 18,670 pounds. It's a good thing that we have milking machines, because if we had to milk that kind of cows by hand we never would get through milking.

Other Obion County members of the Association that received awards for their herds during the annual meeting last week include Mack Burrow and Fred Grasfeder. Mr. Burrow was re-elected president of the Obion-Weakley Dairy Herd Improvement Association. Jimmy McMinn of South Fulton is employed full time as DHIA supervisor for the association and visits each herd one day a month, weighing milk produced by each cow and testing butterfat per cent for each cow. The association now has 19 members and has just completed its most successful year.

The Parson Speaks

ASPECTS OF TRUE SAINTHOOD

"Then they that feared the Lord spake often one to another." Malachi 3:16

The life of God is good, as it is manifested upon the earth. "Then they that feared the Lord," is first loyal.

There is a profound reverence, a filial, not slavish fear. Not fearing the anger of God, but fearing to offend Him; not forsaking sin because God hates it. Such fear of God will engender love, inspire faith, produce holiness, secure obedience. It is Social.

"They spake often to one another." This is true piety, a cheerful and sympathetic thing; it does not destroy our social instincts, but intensifies and ennobles them. The natural tendency of the fear of the Lord in the heart is to link men together in bonds of brotherhood, to hush discord of society, and to lead us to bear each other's burdens, and so fulfill the law of Christ. These believers spake often to one another—not of each other's failings—not for scandal or strife, but about the work of the Lord, and to each other's edification. It was also secret.

There is the inner as well as outer, the subjective as well as the objective life; "they thought on his name." They were not all talk; they were not hypocrites—"talkatives"; they had heart religion. As a man thinketh in his heart, so is he; and as he thinks, he loves and lives. Our life must be this sort to please God, for He looketh at the heart. Our affections must be fixed on things above.

Those that fear Him, are known in heaven. "And the Lord hearkened and heard it, and a book of remembrance was written before Him." God recognizes those who fear Him, though they may be little and unknown, they are loved and prized by God. It is recorded there. God blots out the sins of His people from His book, but He keeps a book of remembrance for the virtues of His saints.

Those that fear Him will be consummated in the last great day. They will be crowned with the highest possible honour. We shall be owned as friends, and children, and companions of God for ever. Jewels are as we know the highest glory of the monarchs "the crown jewels."

So God speaks of His believing servants as His jewels. Are we among the collection of the Crown Jewels of The Greatest of all Kings?

FOUR FAITHS!

Adam's Peak in Ceylon is sacred to four world faiths. Buddhists believe a five-foot depression at the rocky summit is the footprint of Buddha; Hindus claim it for their god Siva; local Christians for St. Thomas; Moslems for Adam.

Letters of Interest

November 26, 1966

Dear People of Fulton:

I received your most appreciated letter, explaining to me what you are doing for us in Viet Nam. I think this is really a wonderful and heart-warming idea for you people of Fulton to be so thoughtful.

Most people do not realize just how much mail means to a soldier in Viet Nam. Mail-call is the greatest and actually the only thing that we have to look forward to each day. The only thing more important to us is the thought of being able to come home some day.

I would just like to say that I thank each and every one of you from the bottom of my heart for thinking so much of us men in Viet Nam. May the good Lord bless each of you. Merry Christmas to you all.

I am enclosing a picture of myself. I am standing guard on the bunker line. It is one of our duties while we are not out in the field on operations.

Sincerely yours,
Jerry L. Bucher

A message of importance to all people at The Rebellious Age.

There comes a time in your life when it seems absolutely right to rebel against old ideas. Against all the things that seem to be stacked up against your generation.

Unfortunately, religious faith is one of the things that may get discarded right about now.

But should it be?

Your Faith echoes the very feelings you probably have right now. About injustice. Inhumanity. Poverty. Cruelty. Prejudice. Hate.

That's why your Faith is the very thing you should be working with.

It can strengthen you. It can make things happen. In yourself, and in all the world around. But only if you let it. And only if you put it to work.

President John F. Kennedy said: "God's work must truly be our own." What do you say?

loud. Whenever I read the announcements I can hardly wait to go out and vote for the guy, but then another one comes that promises an even rosier Utopia. I think I can live happily until April 3, (last date for filing) because the guy who makes his announcement then will surely promise everything and more than all the others have promised . . . and he's going to be my man. Just think, there'll be no more taxes, no more crime, lower assessments, bigger and better schools, a highway to every door, free, cushioned benches in the park.

And these are just State election promises. Wait until 1968 when them Republicans try to oust them sitting Democrats . . . there'll be a rocking-feller in every home. And that ain't bad!

And aren't you getting a little amused at all these candidates who are coming out as "independents," playing like as how they don't belong to any of the Democratic or Republican "fractions," as the precinct-packer says.

It's an insult to the voters and down-right silly. Anybody who attempts to make a state-wide race knows that it's impossible to do it without some "fractional" support and money.

'Cept I don't know about this fellow David Trapp from Lexington, who has announced for governor on the Democratic ticket. The powers that be would make a grave error to underestimate this young candidate. From what I understand he is rich and he has no tired, patched up, complacent political machine behind him. He's not pretending he's going to run a poor boy's race. He says he's allotted a million dollars for his campaign and has hired that super-duper California public relations organization to run the show. Rumor has it that they've never lost a race . . .

If the very dignified, warm and friendly invitation he sent us to his campaign opening is any indication of what's to come in his campaign . . . it's like I said . . . the powers that be had better start "thinking new" like mad.

Burley Tobacco Farmers Start Reaping Rewards On Monday

LEXINGTON — A year's work in a backbreaking industry begins its end Monday as burley tobacco farmers in eight states line up at the warehouse cash registers to reap their rewards.

An estimated 546 million pounds of one of America's cigarettes' main ingredients will sell for something more than a third of a billion dollars before it's over early in 1967.

In Kentucky where burley tobacco makes up about a third of all farm income and, in many cases, all of it, about 371 million pounds will sell for more than $250 million.

Experts predict the crop will be of top quality, but warehousemen questioned in a spot check weren't able to make the prediction a certainty because of slow deliveries before the start of sales.

Farmers were allowed to begin shipping their leaf to market Nov. 18 — ten days before sales start, but weather conditions haven't been ideal for preparation of the tobacco.

Several warehouses in this largest of burley sales centers reported deliveries far slower than last year. What leaf had been brought in, however, was top quality, they said.

With a government support averaging $60.60 per hundred pounds, growers were guaranteed of about $330 million for their burley even if tobacco companies didn't buy an ounce.

The government, which took 7.2 per cent of last year's crop — or 42.2 million pounds — for failing to bring support prices, set its 1966 supports at $76 per hundredweight for best quality down to $24 for the poorest.

The average is $1.10 higher than last year.

If sales averages are about the same as last year — and they may be higher — the crop should bring about $366 million in the eight state belt.

Both total poundage and gross price in Kentucky and the belt will be lower than last year, reflecting a 15 per cent cut in burley acreage this year that came after farmers rejected an acreage-poundage control system.

Kentucky, containing more of the belt's larger farms, took the brunt of the acreage cut because it was not levied against farmers with tiny tobacco plots.

Kentucky, which grows more than two-thirds of America's burley, lost about 29 million pounds while Tennessee, Virginia, West Virginia, North Carolina, Indiana, Ohio and Missouri lost about 10 million pounds together.

The lightning quick sales — at about six huge stacks a minute — continue through Dec. 20, then resume after the holidays on Jan. 4 until the entire crop is sold.

Last year, about 75 per cent of the burley was sold before Christmas.

Today's Natural Look Points Up Complexion Care

Every woman wants the natural look to complement today's zany, pop art fashions as well as the most elegant designer creations.

And while cosmetics can contribute to achieving the natural look, its true basis lies in a naturally beautiful complexion. Your complexion should be clear and it should have a natural, healthy glow.

According to Health Products, Inc., for a clear, flawless complexion, your skin must be scrupulously clean. The tiny facial pores must be free of imbedded dirt, grime, flecks of old makeup, excess oils and other matter that clogs pores and causes blemishes.

To be glowingly radiant, your skin must be adequately nourished. This can only be done by increasing the circulation and bringing the blood supply to the facial tissues.

The new Saunda Facial Sauna, world's first beauty appliance, is a revolutionary approach to skin care offering the three keys to a perfect complexion—cleanliness, nourishment and circulation.

The Saunda Facial Sauna is based on the legendary Sauna bath whose benefits have long been enjoyed by the Finns and Scandinavians, people renowned for their attractive complexions.

The gold, crystal and ivory colored Saunda appliance is designed for dressing table use; however, it is so lightweight it may be used anywhere or taken on trips. On being plugged into an electrical outlet and with the addition of a few ounces of tap water, it produces billows of warm, gentle mist.

As one holds the head at the hood of the appliance, one feels the warm Saunda vapor penetrating each individual pore of the face. The Saunda mist induces a natural flow of perspiration to deep cleanse the skin. At the same time, the warm, controlled heat of 118 degrees F. stimulates the circulation to the facial tissues, nourishing the skin from within and developing a healthy inner glow for the face.

The next step in the Saunda facial is the use of four beauty preparations especially formulated for the ultimate in skin care. They are a facial scrub to draw out any impurities not removed by perspiration, a skin freshener, a moisturizer to restore the proper balance of moisture to the skin, and an emollient cream provided especially for dry skins.

The new Saunda Facial Sauna appliance is nationally available at cosmetic counters and appliance sections in fine department and drug stores for $29.50. It is UL-Approved with a one year warranty. A free, introductory package of the four Saunda facial preparations is included with the purchase of each appliance.

SILVER A LA MODE

There's much hullabaloo these days about The Mod Look and Carnaby Street, but it's not just the swinging teens who are concerned with keeping in step. That's why the Toni Company reminds women who have gray hair (and like it that way) that they, too, can be in vogue—with Silver Curl, a home permanent that keeps natural gray hair softly curled, bright and shining.

Waterfield Playing The 'Waiting Game'

By DON WALKER
 Democrat Staff Writer
 CLINTON, Ky., — Lt. Gov. Harry Lee Waterfield, home for the Thanksgiving holiday weekend, is doing a lot of thinking about running for governor—perhaps in 1967, perhaps in 1971.

He is taking the long view and playing the waiting game to the hilt. Waterfield, 55, is carefully testing the political climate and won't be pushed into any hasty decisions.

He has been in politics most of his life and isn't about to be counted out. But he won't be counted in a political race either, until he's good and ready.

How long can one wait until making his candidacy known in the 1967 Democratic primary?

"Until April 3,"—the filing deadline, he replied. "That would give you two months to run and that's long enough. If you started running before that the newspapers would have you elected or defeated before the election," Waterfield said.

"You can say my hat brim is still in the ring," he added. What about the effort underfoot to "draft" Waterfield into the race?

The lieutenant governor said "I appreciate the effort." But he takes a practical view of such things and says office seeking just doesn't work that way.

"You make up your mind to run and start gathering up support"—not the other way around, he said. But you don't make up your mind until you "use the best measuring device available" to test your strength, especially if you are a seasoned veteran of political contests.

Waterfield said he believed the so called "draft" attempt was intended more to "impress

WATERFIELD

(A. B. 'Happy' Chandler) in a negative way than to lure Waterfield into the race.

Some 24 leading area supporters of a Chandler-Waterfield 1963 primary ticket reportedly gathered at Ken-Bar Inn Friday night to illustrate they favor Waterfield rather than Chandler as a gubernatorial candidate this time.

A petition is being offered to signatures in behalf of Waterfield among persons who have traditionally supported Chandler of both Chandler and Waterfield.

Waterfield said he believed that the best inference of the petition would be to show Chandler "how many of his former supporters want him to run."

He added that, "I haven't found anybody who wants Chandler to run. There are some who would vote for him if that was the choice offered."

As a matter of fact, Waterfield said, "Nobody is clamoring for me or Henry Ward or anybody else. It just doesn't work that way."

Ward, former highway commissioner, and Chandler, former governor and senator, are among the seven announced Democratic candidates for governor.

In the light of the analysis some observers are putting on the 1967 election, Waterfield said he believes he might be wise to defer seeking the governorship for four more years.

Some theorize, he said, that if Ward, with state administration support, wins the primary, Chandler will bolt and support the Republican nominee. Some say that many administration backers, on the other hand, would bolt to the GOP if Chandler were nominated.

"Chandler is well known for bolting," he pointed out. Such an analysis leads some to believe it will be a Republican year, Waterfield concluded.

Yet, "Some honestly think another candidate (such as Waterfield) might get enough votes from both sides to win in the primary. I'm trying to find that out."

And, if the 1967 race is too muddled and too uncertain, there is always 1971.

"If Democrats go to killing themselves off, 1971 might be a good year," Waterfield observed.

Doctor in the Kitchen

by W. W. Bauer, M.D.
 Consultant, National Dairy Council

BUILDING BLOCKS IN THE KITCHEN

Jimmy is playing with his building blocks in a corner of the kitchen, where his mother has put him to keep him out from under foot while she prepares dinner.

Jimmy's blocks are not acting right at all. Everything he builds falls down, and at last he shoves the whole mess aside and complains, "Mommy, I just can't build anything!"

"You have a book of pictures, darling," she says, "to show you how. Why don't you build something out of the book?"

"Aw, gee," he answers, "I want to do it my own way."

"That boy!" she murmurs under her breath. "Always trying to do things the hard way!"

At that point the doctor, if he were in the kitchen, might say, "Just like his mother..." to which she would respond indignantly, "What do you mean by that?"

Mother, Too, Has Problems

Here's what I mean. Mother, like Jimmy, is working all the time with building blocks—chemical blocks, which make up the important protein substances contained in the foods we eat, which are necessary for the growth and repair of living tissue. The chemical name for them is amino acids. They are part of a large group of similar substances with fundamentally similar composition.

The living substance of the animal body cell contains about seven to 10 percent protein. This protein is peculiar to each species, but it varies in different cells according to their function.

All protein is made up of a combination of constituent substances; these are the amino acids. The body is able to make only some of these; the rest must come from food. The best supplies come from meat, milk, cheese, eggs and fish; additional supplies come from cereals, nuts, fruits and vegetables, especially the legume (bean) family.

If the human body does not get an adequate supply of these building blocks, it cannot build and maintain its structure any more than Jimmy can build houses with his blocks if he doesn't know how, or if he insists on doing it his own way, regardless of directions from those who do know how.

Recommended Allowance

The recommended protein allowance per day, from the four food groups but principally from the meat and dairy groups, is stated on the basis of an adult male, moderately active, and weighing about 154 pounds. He should have 70 grams or about two and one-half ounces of protein per day. Adult women require about 80 percent of the recommended male quota; children require much more proportionately, to provide for growth. Activity does not ordinarily influence the protein requirement, since protein is not an energy food unless fats and carbohydrates in the diet are deficient.

So the doctor in the kitchen suggests that mother apply to herself the good advice she gave her boy—follow the suggestions of those who know, rather than learn by herself, the hard way.

FISHING IS GOOD—ANYTIME—In Kentucky the fishing season is always open, and Joe Polston, Jamestown, who took this string of mixed bass from Lake Cumberland during November will testify to the quality of wintertime catches. The State Parks Department says good catches are made at all Kentucky reservoirs during the late fall and winter months. All state park boat docks remain open year-round to accommodate travelers.

WHAT'S GOING ON

Kentucky tobacco markets are open and farmers are moving their crops to the warehouses. Many farmers are still stripping. Tom Reed, Division of Markets tobacco specialist, has some advice on how farmers can better strip and handle their crops.

Reed points out that farmers can gain a better price by proper grading of their tobacco. They should make as many grades as necessary, being sure not to mix trash and solid leaves. Thin bodied tobacco should be separated from heavy bodied tobacco, and hands should be tied in a uniform size. Pressing will help to keep the leaves straight.

Before a crop is loaded, Reed says it is important that it be stick graded. This will make the unloading faster and the crop will go on the baskets in a more uniform manner. If the crop is stick graded at the barn, it will lessen shattering to a minimum as the sticks will not be handled so many times.

Reed also suggests that farmers be careful not to handle or bulk tobacco near foreign odors such as gasoline, manure or strong chemicals. Tobacco will often pick up such odors which will destroy its flavor. Tobacco should not be handled when there is a small amount of moisture in the stems, nor should it be bulked in large quantities when the stalks are frozen.

These are some suggestions for handling tobacco. While some of the points may seem minor, they will still add to the quality of tobacco a farmer has to place before the buyers.

As I reported several days ago, gross receipts for Kentucky farmers during the first eight months of 1966 exceeded the amount realized from farm sales during the same period last year by some 20.8 percent. Between January and August, Kentucky farmers sold $395.2 million worth of crops, livestock and livestock products. In 1965, farmers grossed $327.1 million from farm sales during this same period.

According to figures prepared by the Kentucky Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, farm sales through August of this year included $272.2 million from livestock products and $123.1 million from the sale of crops. Most of the increase over 1965 came from the sale of livestock products-- an increase of $45 million. Income from crops during the first eight months of this year was $23.1 million more than for the same period in 1965. Most of the increase can be attributed to better prices. At the same time, farmers have realized a greater production.

Approved Federal Spending Near Mark

WASHINGTON — In its 1965 session Congress approved $119.3 billion in federal spending, a sum exceeded only by the $147 billion voted in 1942, the first full year of World War II. Only $2.4 billion was cut from President Johnson's requests, the smallest reduction since 1960 when appropriations totaled $83.8 billion after $211 million was cut.
