Some History of the Democratic Convention of 1895.

[illegible]

The position in which the parties present themselves to the voters is a most important influencing factor in determining their choice. There are before you three candidates for Governor, each with a different record and different views. The paramount question before the party is whether to support the man who was elected at Chicago in 1896, and especially that part of it which declared that the tariff was the cause of our economic collapse of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1; that declared against the regulation of the commerce of the United States; that scorned the science and powers of the great inventions of the modern industrial nations. Back these questions are the more important ones of the present—international warfare waged upon and by the United States, the relations between the Republican and Democratic parties in this country, the relations between the national and the state parties, the support of their support to the Republican party in their opposition to our own government, the support of the party that some who still claim to be Democrats, especially in New York and New Jersey, are giving to the administration and scheming for their defeat in the coming year. The party is under the special plea of party harmony for party success. If party harmony is to be maintained, the abandonment of the principles and the abandonment of the people and the abandonment of the party must be done alone by our ability to elect one man to represent the party. We must maintain men to support no principle and to say no policy, then indeed has the great party been broken. The party has been broken by Jackson fallen from his high estate and no longer deserves the confidence of the people. The party has been broken by the party that has been broken by the party that should or should not upon such a plan as this exist. Its mission as the party of the people is to be the party of the friend and the enemy.

[illegible][illegible]

It is in the cities that the machine is born, thrives and fattens on the officialdom of the State. The machine is the primary object of the commercial class, or, better, of the bourgeoisie. As the bourgeoisie, or trust, is to stifle competition and destroy the individual, so the machine is to stifle the individual and destroy the primary object of the machine, the bourgeoisie. The machine is to stifle the voice of the people in the politics and destroy all individuality of the people.

That each city of any size in our State has its political machine there can be no doubt. The machine is spreading to the country and is being used for all it is worth, is known to all and is a pitiable portion of the State. It is a pitiable portion of the State because it is so reduced to such a small size that when one of her accomplished sons has some ambition to be honored in his people, he must take a long trip to the State capital, or somewhere else, drop his hat at the front door of some politician, bow, walk tremulously to the back door, and then, undying fealty to the boss of the machine and all its methods, beseech his gracious permission to be a candidate for office before his people.

DEFIES THE BOSS.

I stand here today to defy the boss and his machine. Let it be worked out all it is worth. I stand for the people. I stand with the people, and I stand against the people. The political trust which seems to have been formed, a trust through which the offices, the gifts and the money of the people, are to be parcelled out among adherents and favorites, is as bad as the boss.

But, however much Mr. Goebel may love a political machine, when he is the engineer, yet I know that deep in his heart he hates all other trusts like the Standard, that put up the price of oil, the lubricator of the machine. Has he not so declared from every stump in this State how he hates them all, and how if he should by some lucky throw of the machine's loaded dice become Governor he would massacre them all? And yet but a few short years ago when he was following along with the good and patriotic gold standard people, with Cleveland and Carlisle, he was also helping along and voting for the trusts.

GOEBEL FOR TRUSTS.

Turn to Senate Journal of 1889-90 and on page 59 you will find that Hon. W. Mc Cain introduced a bill entitled "An Act to Prevent the Establishment of Trusts and to Prevent the Right to Provide Punishments Therefor." The bill in full is on page 223, and was passed by the Senate and the House. The bill was not being called. So, page 224. Mr. Kemp made a motion (page 225), to reconsider the vote he had taken on the bill. On January 24, and on January 24, page 240, a vote was taken on this motion, a yes and a no vote called and Mr. Goebel voted yes. The bill was passed by a vote in favor of the pools, the trusts and cartapracies. The motion, to reconsider failed. The bill stood as passed. The bill was considered for consideration was amended by striking out most of the severe penalties, and so modified in terms and penalties, that the bill was passed. It was he could do for pools, trusts and conspiracies, he accepted the situation, and on May 2, page 147, for the bill was passed. The bill was voted for the modified bill.

It seems that the Senator in that time had heard something and changed his mind. He was not in a hurry to get it in its modified form. So earnestly and sincerely hope that while the rest of the world was in a hurry to get the same on the money question, they are in perfect accord and agree that the combination they are making will not have two men in the same race. In order to kill them the other voters against a bill in the Legislature. "me, too," in this case won't go. Stone claims the sole right to that advertisement. He has a patent on it and has filed and obtained his letters patent. It would be unjust, ungentlemanly, and a violation of the copyright laws, to deprive him of all the honor, fame and glory to which he is entitled. He gave a marvelous answer as the greatest, greatest, and most unique of all answers. He said, "I am not a member of the pages of history in this, the Nineteenth century." Now, the Nineteenth century is the immortal Washington as he stood beneath that little cloud of smoke. He was the first of his race, his papa's brow, with one eye whistling through the thin and worn seat of his little trousers, and with the courage, as he did, to say "I did it." You may be very, very sorry it now. So am I if it hurts, but I give up. Very few who have run in political life but who have something to reproach and much to regret. Now, I myself regret exceedingly to tell you and Mr. Stone did not read

CROP BULLETIN.

Corn Planting Delayed in West Kentucky By Rain.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., May 25.—The western section and some parts of the central section complain of too much rain during the past week, in some localities seriously retarding work.

In the eastern section and the greater part of the central section the weather was very favorable for farm work. The latter part of the week was a little cool for the rapid growth of crops, but no serious damage resulted.

Winter wheat is not doing as well as was expected in the western and central sections. There is a general complaint that it is heading too low, and in some localities the Russian fly is doing considerable damage. In the eastern section the prospect for wheat is much better.

Corn planting is nearly completed in the eastern section, but has been delayed by rain in the western and some parts of the central section. Early planted corn is looking well, but in some localities has been injured by cut worms.

Tobacco plants are plentiful and are being set out as rapidly as ground can be prepared.

Oats, grass and clover are doing very well. Pastures are in fine condition. Irish potatoes are flourishing and sweet potatoes are being set out. Gardens are very fine and strawberries are ripe and plentiful. Apples are dropping badly.

The following are reports from outside the Southern section of the state: Christian—Wheat is heading low. Corn is heading well, but the ground is too wet. Some tobacco plants set, but few farmers have ground ready.

Hopkins—Too much rain for wheat and farm work. Some tobacco plants set.

Logan—Considerable tobacco set; some complaint of grasshoppers and cut worms. Crops of all kinds doing well, but need cultivation.

Wigg—The rains have delayed corn planting, now planted on bottom lands yet. Some farmers are setting tobacco before planting corn. Wheat still improving.

REVENUE RULINGS.

The following are some of the last rulings made by the internal revenue bureau of the treasury department:

It has come to the knowledge of the Internal Revenue Office that in some of the collecting districts throughout the country, deputy collectors consume a portion of their time in attention to private business; to the detriment of the public service and the interests of the government. Collectors are, therefore, advised that deputy collectors, except those who are employed as stamp deputies, must devote their entire time to the official for which they are employed, and that such internal revenue deputy collectors now in the employ of the government who are unable to comply with the instructions of this office in this respect should be at once separated from the service.

"Standing room only" was in demand at the opera house last night, the first evening of the engagement of the Earl of the Laugh King. Hart has succeeded in awakening general interest in hypnotism. The most staid and conservative citizens of Hopkinsville, who have never been known to interest themselves in such things, have witnessed the marvelous demonstration of Hart's powers with intense amusement and delight and in each instance conviction has succeeded skepticism.

In the presence of an audience that filled every seat in the house and every foot of space in the aisles last night, the man who slumbered peacefully under the influence of the engagement of the Earl of the Laugh King, Hart has succeeded in awakening general interest in hypnotism. The most staid and conservative citizens of Hopkinsville, who have never been known to interest themselves in such things, have witnessed the marvelous demonstration of Hart's powers with intense amusement and delight and in each instance conviction has succeeded skepticism.

JIM CAGANIS, PREACHER.

An amusing incident connected with J. Y. Caganis, formerly a popular Hopkinsville boy and now one of Ragons' road representatives, occurred at Cavalry Baptist church in Evansville Sunday. According to the Courier, it was announced in the religious notice that Rev. Caganis was to preach there Sunday at 11 a. m. At the close of the sermon a man not mentioned as attending the church, walked up to the minister, saying:

"I heard Mr. Caganis was to preach at this church to-day and, thinking it was Jim Caganis, I came around to hear."

"It was a mistake, sir. I am Jim Caganis' father, on a visit to see him and my grandchildren. It is true, I am told, that Jim Caganis does sometimes preach Hardshell sermons for the amusement of his friends; but this is a Missionary Baptist church, and they are not in the habit of inviting Hardshell preachers to occupy their pulpit."

Eliza Doxey filed suit yesterday against the Louisville and Nashville railroad company and the town of Central City. She claims to have fallen down a flight of steps erected from a street in Central City upon an embankment on which was the road of the L. & N., the steps being the only means of reaching defendant company's station. Elmo Rowland sues his wife, Georgia Rowland, for absolute divorce, charging her with faithlessness to her marriage vows and such conduct as to prove her a woman of unchaste character. He charges further that the defendant abandoned him.

THE LOUISVILLE MARKET.

The following report is furnished exclusively to the New Era by Glover & Durrett, Louisville Tobacco Warehouse: Sales on our market for the week just closed amount to 2880 hds. with receipts for the same period 224 hds. Sales on our market since January 1st amount to 77,968 hds. Sales of the crop of 1898 on our market to this date amount to 79,179 hds.

The demand for medium to good lugs continues active but has not resulted in advanced values. The trade has become more discriminating as to condition and many hds. are selling on account of sets or order decidedly lower than would otherwise be the case. The sales are now receiving more attention from the "Bible" representatives and they are bidding where the combination of good condition and quality appears.
