DEATH

Claims An Aged And Esteemed Lady.

MRS. S. L. RICHARDSON.

Venerable Mother of P. C. Richardson, Has Passed Away--Funeral Sunday Afternoon.

From Saturday's daily. Mrs. Sallie L. Richardson died at four o'clock yesterday afternoon at the home of her son, Mr. P. C. Richardson, on Ninth street. She was seventy-six years old. Funeral services will be held Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the late residence, conducted by Rev. Dr. W. L. Norris. The interment will be in Hope well cemetery.

The following sketch of the life of the venerable lady was furnished the New Era by one of her legion of friends: Mrs. Sallie L. Richardson was the only daughter of Irbis Smith, of North Carolina. She moved with her parents to middle Tennessee, near Spring Hill, about the year 1833, where she lived until her marriage to Oran A. Richardson, of Giles county, Tennessee. Mr. Richardson then went with her husband to Jackson, Miss., where they lived until 1850, and then removed to O'Brien, Miss., where Mr. Richardson died. His widow then moved with her children to Columbia, Tenn., where she lived until after the war.

Mrs. Richardson's two elder sons were in the Confederate army. Byrnes, the eldest, was killed at the battle of Perryville, and Prentiss the next oldest son, who is well and favorably known in Hopkinsville, fought through the terrible West Virginia and Tennessee campaigns. After peace was declared, Mrs. Richardson moved to Union City, in West Tennessee, where her youngest son, Irbis, died of consumption.

Mrs. Richardson's only daughter, Iasbella Perry, married Dr. Samuel Ringgold, an Episcopal minister, at Clarksville, Tenn. Mrs. Ringgold was with her mother during her last illness.

Mrs. Richardson has lived with her son, Prentiss, in Hopkinsville for a number of years, and was known throughout the community for her charity and most unselfish disposition. She had many friends here, for all who knew her loved her, and sympathized with her in her last extremely painful illness.

ORATORIO

Sung By The Treble Clef Club

A NOTABLE SUCCESS.

Sacred Music Heard By A Large And Delighted Audience Last Night.

From Saturday's daily. Hopkinsville has many things of which to be proud, and not the least of these is her musical club. The lack of musical talent here has frequently been deplored, but those who were fortunate enough to hear the magnificent recital given at the Baptist church realize the unfairness of such an opinion.

The first attempt at oratorio in Hopkinsville was made last night when the Treble Clef Club, under the direction of Mrs. Virgil Richards, before an immense audience filling the auditorium, sang Mendelssohn's Lobpreis or Hymn of Praise. The work of the club has been most careful and finished training, the very difficult music being sung with a perfect ease and harmony almost marvelous when the length of the hymn of the club's organization is considered.

The church was beautifully decorated with the colors of the club—purple, gold and white—signifying royalty, richness and purity.

The organ loft was manned with assistance lilies and plumosa and the emblem of the club, the sign of the Treble Clef, in gold and white, was hung conspicuously in front of the railing. A back ground of lilies was made for the singers who occupied the rostrum.

Beginning at 8:30 o'clock, Mrs. Virgil Richards presided in her ablest manner the beautiful organ symphony, ending in an adagio, which was taken up by the entire club in the chorus, "All men, all things sing to the Lord," with an additional accompaniment on the piano by Miss Route.

The remaining parts of the oratorio were sung as follows: "Praise thou the Lord," Miss Gorman and chorus.

"Sing ye Praise," Mr. Nick Thomas. "Alleluia that cried unto the Lord," Treble Clef club.

"I waited for the Lord," Mrs. T. L. Armistead and Miss Gorman.

"The Sorrows of Death," Mr. T. G. Littlehale.

"The Night is Departing," Treble Club.

"My Song Shall be Always Thy Mercy," Mr. Littlehale and Miss Gorman.

"Ye Nations, offer to the Lord," Treble Clef Club.

The voices of the soloists, Mrs. T. D. Armistead, Miss Gorman, Messrs. Littlehale and Thomas, were never heard to better advantage than in the thrilling sacred airs.

Those of the club who participated were Mesdames Hardwick, Anderson, Armistead, Harbour McGortney, Waller, Messrs. Gorman, Harrison, Pluck, Armistead, Dagg and Donelson, assisted by the following men: Messrs. Littlehale, Thomas, T. H. Long, P. L. Williamson, Sawyer, Lebel, Carter, Richards.

Private P. Wat Hardin, C. S. A.

To have received a wound upon the field of battle is an evidence of gallantry and devotion to duty; not to have been wounded is no evidence that the soldier was not as loyal as he who fell upon the field at the front. If wounds were the test of loyalty and the only badge of courage and honor, comparatively few of the survivors of the great civil strife would be worthy the surnames of their countrymen.

All honor to every hero who shed his blood for his convictions; we would not detract one jot from his just meed of praise who went down wounded and bleeding before his enemy's bullets and bayonets. Long may their names be honored and their fame be revered, and every drop of blood they shed "in living beauty bloom."

But there are thousands, yes, tens of thousands, who did their duty with no less fidelity and devotion, who displayed upon the field no less courage and daring than their companions who were struck down. Careless of danger, reckless of the consequences of exposure, they rushed into the breach and struck to avenge their comrades fallen.

There was not a more gallant soldier in the service of the South than Capt. W. J. Stone. Devoted to the cause and to his duty, he went bravely where duty led him and received the wound which rendered him a cripple for life.

But Capt. Stone, gallant as he was and loyal, is not entitled to a monopoly of that sentiment which among the comrades of the lost cause survives the storms and tragedies of those eventful years.

Capt. Stone and his followers have appealed to this sentiment on every occasion. None can consistently object to this. He has a record as a soldier that does him honor.

Gen. P. Wat Hardin was a private soldier in the Confederate army. He did not have the misfortune (or fortune?) to lose a limb or to receive a wound. But he fought with old "Pap Price" in Missouri, and those who know history, know that there was work aplenty where the Old Man led.

Many of Capt. Stone's followers are unable to understand why Gen. Hardin has never paraded his Confederate record. Some of them are unable to conceive of a sentiment which revolts against making such questions the issues in the canvass. Gen. Hardin's silence on the stump concerning his Confederate record is a little beyond their comprehension. They have even gone so far as to deny that he was in the Confederate army and several papers have stated that he was not.

Capt. C. D. Bell, of this county, who was a Confederate soldier, and who loves all that is associated with the Confederacy, wrote Gen. Hardin a letter, asking him whether or not he was in the Confederate army.

Here is an extract from Gen. Hardin's reply:

"I WANT TO SAY TO YOU NOW, AND IT IS NO SECRET—YOU CAN SAY IT TO ANYBODY THAT YOU DESIRE—THAT I WAS A CONFEDERATE SOLDIER AND SERVED WITH GEN. PRICE IN MISSOURI. WHILE I HAVE NEVER PARADED THIS FACT AT ALL, I HAVE NEVER SOUGHT TO CONCEAL IT.

"MY HEART, MY LOVE AND MY SYMPATHY HAVE ALWAYS BEEN FOR MY COMRADES WHO WORE THE GRAY."

WATTERSON'S SLAM.

Mr. Waterson says that it would be a hard task to again place the Democratic party in a position where it can hope to win a Presidential election, but if the task is entrusted to him he would undertake it. Here is about the way he would proceed in the undertaking: He would first paralyze the tongue of Wm. Jennings Bryan, then cut off both his legs and both arms, then destroy his sight and hearing and have him placed in solitary confinement. He would do the same thing to Jo Blackburn and Wm. Hardin, and then set about the task of reorganization by placing John G. Carlisle upon a gold standard, imperialistic platform, with Waterson as chief whipper-in. Such a ticket might carry New York City, and possibly Boston, but would not get the electoral vote of a single State in the Union.—Elizabethtown News.

WHY

A FARMER'S QUESTION

Able Answered By the Elizabethtown News--Will The Farmers Submit?

Glendal, Ky., May 30, 1899.—Editor News. Will you please tell me through your paper why the Democratic Convention is called at a time that the farmers are almost certain to be in harvest and why we are not to have precinct conventions so that the farmers would only have a few miles to go, but instead mass conventions in the county seat, requiring most of us to go many miles in order to take part? I must confess that I am at a loss to understand this and I think the farmers generally are.

Respectfully,
HIRAM OVERHALL.

The time and manner of selecting the delegates to a State Convention is fixed by the State Executive Committee. The majority of this committee is opposed to John Hardin for Governor. They knew that Hardin's strength throughout the State was among the farmers and they deliberately fixed the time of the county convention upon a date that they thought would strike harvest time in the hope that in this way when the farmers are busiest they would not turn out. If the farmers do not turn out on the 17th, then the anti-Hardin men on the State Executive Committee will have accomplished just what they wanted to do when they fixed the date so as to conflict with harvest. Gen. Hardin's friends were all opposed to the date fixed by the Committee because they wanted the time set to be at the time that would not conflict with the farmers' work. County Mass Conventions instead of precinct meetings were called over the protest of Gen. Hardin's friends for the same purpose, upon the idea that farmers who live in remote sections would not ride a long distance to the county seat to vote for Hardin.

WHEN THE TIME AND MANNER OF SELECTING THE DELEGATES WAS ANNOUNCED IT WAS DECLARED BY THE COURIER-JOURNAL AS A GOBBEL VICTORY AND IT WAS, IF IT ACCOMPLISHES ITS PURPOSE OF KEEPING THE MAJORITY OF THE FARMERS FROM THE MASS CONVENTIONS.

In 1896 when delegates were to be chosen to the Lexington State Convention to send delegates to Chicago to nominate a candidate for President, the State Executive Committee was in the hands of the gold bugs with Hon. Charles Long as Chairman, and it did exactly what was done this time; called Mass Conventions instead of precinct meetings, knowing that the gold strength was principally in the towns and the silver strength was in the country, and in that way hoped to capture the convention for gold. Every false silver paper in the State denounced the plan and showed the purpose was to disfranchise the farmers. THE FARMERS GOT ON TO THE SCHEME WHEN AND DETERMINED THAT THEY WOULD RIDE TO TOWN NO MATTER HOW FAR IT WAS TO BALK THEIR LITTLE GAME, AND THEY DID IT. The same scheme is to be worked this year. Will the farmers allow themselves to be worked in this way?

FRENCH CONTRACT.

The French contract was justified on May 23. Messrs. G. Rousseau, of New York, represented on this market by Mr. S. Delinder, gets two thirds of the Dark contract and all of the Darky, while Messrs. Karsenty, Sons & Co., of Marseilles, France, represented by Mr. Alex. Harbille, gets one-third of the Dark contract. The contract calls for Kentucky Light, 6,000 hds.; Kentucky Heavy, 500 hds.; Kentucky Barley, 3,300 hds.; Virginia, 457 hds. It is said that Rousseau & Co. have made large purchases in the country with the anticipation of getting the contract, and therefore will not be very anxious bidders on the auction market, but is known the other firm, Karsenty, Sons & Co., have not made preparations for the contract, and will be good bidders on the grades to meet the requirements of the contract—Wood.

A FARMER'S QUESTION

Able Answered By the Elizabethtown News--Will The Farmers Submit?

Glendal, Ky., May 30, 1899.—Editor News. Will you please tell me through your paper why the Democratic Convention is called at a time that the farmers are almost certain to be in harvest and why we are not to have precinct conventions so that the farmers would only have a few miles to go, but instead mass conventions in the county seat, requiring most of us to go many miles in order to take part? I must confess that I am at a loss to understand this and I think the farmers generally are.

GRAND JURY CHARGED.

Term Will Be Uneventful And Void Of Public Interest—Many Divorce Suits.

From Monday's daily.

The June term of the Christian Circuit Court convened this morning at ten o'clock, his honor, Judge Thomas P. Cook, on the bench. Court was opened with prayer by Mr. G. W. Lacey, a member of the grand jury.

There was a large crowd in the Circuit Court room, many representative citizens from every section of the county being present. The grand jurors were seated in a semi-circle and heard the charge from the court which was unusually clear and lucid, covering all the crimes of the statutes take cognizance. At the conclusion of Judge Cook's charge the grand jurors retired to their chamber and organized for the inquisition.

The grand jury is composed of the following well known citizens:

B. E. Johnson, T. J. Powers, J. R. Hawkins, Cyrus Boyd, J. F. Essell, Jesse Denton, O. T. Yancy, J. G. Nance, Jas. Vaughan, O. W. Lacey, Wm. Payne, W. W. Bryant.

As has been stated previously the appearance docket for this term is made up very largely of divorce suits, nearly 50 per cent of the new file being actions for divorce.

With the exception of the commonwealth cases against Orlando Wadlington and Albert Haskins, the term will be void of public interest.

Court adjourned to 9 o'clock tomorrow morning after the grand jury was charged.

DASTARDLY

Attempt to Rob Two Ladies on the Street.

NEGRO'S BOLD BREAK.

Son of Judge Joe McCarrroll Bitten By a Mad Dog—Taken to Chicago.

From Monday's daily.

The most cowardly and brutal attempt at robbery ever perpetrated in this community occurred Saturday night about 8:30 on one of the most frequented thoroughfares of the city. The intended victims were two of the best known and most esteemed ladies of Hopkinsville, Mrs. Ike Hart and her daughter, Mrs. Max Lowenthal.

The ladies were returning from the business portion of the city where they had been making some purchases. On East Seventh street, near the Crescent Mills and the L. & N. Railroad, and close to their home, they were overtaken by a negro man who followed them from Main street.

He seized Mrs. Lowenthal's arm and attempted to wrest her purse from her hand. She clung to the purse and screamed loudly for help. Mrs. Hart attempted to assist her daughter and was rudely thrust by the ruffian back against the wall of the mill building. Both ladies called for help and the negro fled. Both ladies fainted. A crowd of indignant neighbors gathered, the police were summoned and every effort was made to discover the would-be robber, but without success.

The ladies were taken to their home near by and a physician called. They were both terribly frightened. Mrs. Hart was severely hurt by the villain's violence and is still suffering very much.

The police are on the lookout for all suspicious characters and the identity of the negro may yet be discovered.

BITTEN BY A MAD DOG.

Son Of Judge Joe McCarrroll—Goes To Chicago For Treatment.

From Monday's daily.

John McCarrroll, oldest son of Judge and Mrs. Joe McCarrroll, was bitten by a dog last week while playing with the animal on Judge McCarrroll's farm near the city. No apprehension was felt until another dog which had been bitten by the same animal suddenly developed unmistakable symptoms of rabies.

Judge McCarrroll then decided to take prompt steps and will leave this afternoon for Chicago with his little son who will be treated at an institution in that city according to the Pasteur system.

INTERESTING

Was Republican Executive Committee Meeting.

NO NOMINATION

For Representative—Mass Convention Called For June 24—A Lively Time.

From Monday's daily.

The Republican friends had a quiet little row and a delightfully interesting little misunderstanding all among themselves in the Circuit Court room Saturday morning.

The invitations were not general though the public wasn't excluded. Had such a pleasantly discordant time been anticipated, it is likely that a large number of our amusement loving people would have waived the trifling formality of an invitation and encouraged the factional leaders with their presence and their applause. It has gone forth from Republican National headquarters even from your Uncle Marcus Hanna himself—that the g o p is again ready for action. Heretofore it has seemed that the Democratic party has enjoyed a monopoly and effected a corner on factional strife and internecine strife. The Republicans propose to break up this monopoly. They have entered the field as competitors. The Kentucky contingent is particularly active. The Christian county quota is aggressive in this direction.

Now it happened that the Chairman of the Republican County Executive committee had issued a call for the committee to meet at the court house on Saturday morning June 23d, to fix the date and place for a county convention and to appoint delegates to the State Convention, and discuss the matter of nominating a candidate for the Legislature.

It happens further that among the ranks of the "truly loyal" there is a difference of sentiment as to the most available gubernatorial candidate. Judge Pratt has his friends; so has Gen. Taylor, and thereby is suspended the causal annex. When the committee met it was found that there were about ten vacancies. The Pratt men, who, it is said, favor Editor Jim Rogers, for the Legislature, quietly proceeded to fill those vacancies with gentlemen of their own way of thinking and the Taylor men contented that their purpose was to nominate Rogers and instruct a Pratt delegation to the State convention when the Taylor contingent discovered this alleged conspiracy they set about to defeat it and for a while there was a hot time in the Court House. Oratory was unworked and contentment was high. Judge Pratt, Judge Taylor, Messrs. Fowler, Poland and others spoke. The fight was precipitated by a motion to dissolve the meeting into a mass convention and proceed with the nomination of a candidate for the Legislature and the selection of delegates to the State Convention.

But they couldn't carry it through. A truce was patched up in the name of harmony, and a sort of compromise effected, the basis of which was an agreement to call a county mass convention to meet at the Court House on June 24 to nominate a candidate for the Legislature and instruct delegates to the State Convention.

"UNCLE JOHNNIE" DAVIS.

From Monday's daily.

Mr. John Davis, affectionately known to the people of North Christian as "Uncle Johnnie" Davis, died Sunday at six o'clock, p. m. at his home, 1 mile from Kelly, of his incident to extreme age. He was one of the most influential men in the North section of the county, and no man was held in higher esteem or more generally beloved. Before the L. & N. railroad was extended through this section, "Uncle Johnnie" made a comfortable fortune hauling coal from the Davis coal mines. He leaves a large family of children and grandchildren. He was eighty-four years old. Funeral services were held at six o'clock this afternoon, and the remains were interred in the family burying ground.

FARMERS

Should investigate the famous brands of JONES' FERTILIZERS before buying some of old qualities of Bone and Potash. It is unnecessary to speak of the value of bone, for it has been used from time immemorial on all sorts of crops. Of course, it is not active, like dissolved bone or superphosphates, but it has been taken out of the soil by animals, and it is one of Nature's ways of building up the soil by returning it.

Tobacco and Potato Grower.

This brand is just what its name indicates, a specific manure for tobacco. It is being used by most of the prominent growers in Ohio, Kentucky, Tennessee and western New York, and the universal testimony of the planters is that the mechanical condition is perfect, so that it can be evenly applied. It furnishes food for the plant from the starting of the crop to its maturity. That it stands the drought, it makes tobacco that cures easily and uniformly; no spotting. That tobacco made from this fertilizer is of improved quality, largely increased in yield, color and texture perfect, and always brings the top market price. I have been in the fertilizer business for a number of years and will take pleasure in waiting on or explaining the quality of this celebrated brand to you.
