27th Production of Campus Lights To Open 3-Night Run Tomorrow

Now that the smoke is beginning to clear after the surgeon general's report on smoking, a few students were asked about their smoking habits.

The survey showed that the report has had little effect on most of the students who were interviewed, although most of the students felt the report to be true.

Several persons "cut down" on smoking when the report came out, but this didn't seem to last very long. About one-half of the persons interviewed said that they, at one time or another, had tried to quit smoking, but 99 per cent of them were not successful.

Student replies to questions concerning smoking and health were varied.

Joan Williams, a freshman from Clinton, said the report has not prompted her to quit smoking, but she has reduced her smoking by 25 per cent.

A 22-year-old sophomore, George Durakis, from Melrose Park, Ill., has smoked for seven years. He said he has tried to quit smoking a couple of times and is going to quit for good sometime soon.

When Ann Stromecky, a sophomore from Calvert City, was asked about the report, she said she had expected it and felt it to be true. Miss Stromecky said she had not quit smoking, although she has tried to "slack off."

"I feel that more investigation is needed," was Judy Owens' reply. She is a freshman from Frankfort. She said she quit smoking for three weeks, but

Board Forms Department Of Languages

Creation of a department of modern languages was approved by the MSC Board of Regents at its monthly meeting Saturday.

The department will consist of German, French, Russian, and Spanish divisions. The languages and literature department, of which these divisions are now a part, will become the English department Sept. 1.

Mr. James A. Parr, who teaches languages at the University of Toledo, was appointed head of the new department by the board.

Mr. Parr holds B.A. and M.A. degrees from Ohio University and is scheduled to have completed a Ph.D. degree from the University of Pittsburgh by next fall.

Dr. Guy A. Battle, head of the languages and literature department, will be head of the English department.

Aladdin's Old Lamp Polished Diligently In Annual Musical

The 27th annual production of "Campus Lights" will open a three-night run tomorrow at 8 in the Auditorium.

The musical comedy is presented each year by Phi Mu Alpha, men's music fraternity, and Sigma Alpha Iota, women's music fraternity.

This year's plot centers around the age-old tale of Aladdin's lamp with humor and a variety of musical selections woven in.

Vicky Mattison, senior, Paducah, Sister and Calpurnia; Alan Henson, senior, Murray, Wazir; Gary Bell, freshman, Paducah, King and Caesar.

"All or Nothing" will be done by Jane Bledsoe, freshman, Dyersburg, Tenn., and "Cotton" Etheridge, senior, Paducah.

Also featured will be a dancing chorus, singing chorus, and a band.

Some of the songs for the show are: "Life Is Just a Bowl of Cherries," "It's a Good Day," "Making Whoopee," and "Get Me to the Church."

Annual Band Clinic Feb. 28 to Feature Jacoby, Trumpeter

Don Jacoby, trumpeter brass clinician, will be soloist in a concert to be given by the Symphonic Band and the Phi Mu Alpha Band Feb. 28 at 8 p. m. in the Auditorium. The concert will close an all-day band clinic.

The clinic is sponsored by the fine arts department and the Conn Instrument Co.

Selections Mr. Jacoby will play include: "Carnival Variations," Ode for Trumpet, and Dramatic Essay for Trumpet.

The clinic will include informal sessions, Symphonic Band rehearsal with Mr. Jacoby, a demonstration-practice session with students, followed by a stage-band workshop session with Mr. Jacoby and the Phi Mu Alpha Band.

Mr. Jacoby has been traveling with the trumpet since he was 7 years old. He made his professional debut at the age of 9 with the Spring Garden Band in York, Penn. His early training consisted of study of the classic disciplines of wood instruments.

He studied at the Ernest Williams School of Music in New York under Dr. Williams, internationally famed cornet soloist, composer, and teacher.

After graduation, Mr. Jacoby entered the popular-music field under leaders such as Van Alexander, Claude Thornhill, and Les Brown. He also played in service bands during World War II with musical men such as: Vladimir Horowitz, Nathan Milstein, Fritz Kreisler, and John Charles Thomas.

SO Netted No Money From Big-Name Show

Things often are not what they appear to be, and the overflow crowd at the Peter, Paul and Mary concert Feb. 7 certainly was not what one would assume — a large profit for the Student Organization. The Student Organization did not make a cent.

The terms of the folk singer's contract stipulated a guarantee of $3,500 or 100 per cent of the ticket receipts, whichever was greater. These terms offered the SO no chance for profit, but they were an assurance that several thousand dollars would not be lost.

The first contract submitted by Peter, Paul and Mary asked for a $5,000 guarantee or 80 per cent of the receipts.

In the past the largest audience for a SO activity such as this has been about 1,500. Even with an optimistic estimate of a crowd of 2, 000, under the first contract, the Student Organization would have lost money.

Support of a campus event is impossible to predict accurately, and the Student Council would not risk such a loss of the student body's money as was likely under the first contract. To lower the guarantee and risk of loss a higher percentage of receipts had to be agreed to.

There was no profit for the SO, but neither was there a loss. When a concert draws such a responsive crowd, possibly the largest ever to pack the Auditorium, it is apparent that the audience felt no loss. Moreover, those in the audience paid $2.25 each to be there, because they thought the show would be worth it, not to help the Student Organization make a profit.

State Budget Would Increase Enrollments, Teachers' Pay

The Kentucky house of representatives is scheduled to take action on Gov. "Ned" Breathitt's proposed $1.4 billion budget today.

The budget for the 1964-66 fiscal biennium would provide $60,981 more to all levels of public education in Kentucky than was appropriated for the preceding two years. This would be 64.8 per cent in 1964-65 and in 1965-66, 66.4 per cent of the general fund dollar to be spent for education.

The bulk of the increase in education funds would go to the Minimum Foundation Program, the University of Kentucky, the five state colleges, and teachers' retirement.

Murray State would be allotted $6,781,121, an increase of $2,074,146 over the preceding biennium.

According to Gov. Breathitt, the budget would enable the five state colleges, with a total enrollment of 17,000, to admit an additional 4,000 students during the fiscal period.

During the current period, enrollment increased 3,021, and it is expected to further increase 4,304 in the 1964-66 period.

The budget also provides for a campaign promise made by Mr. Breathitt — to raise teachers' salaries $300 the first year and $200 the second.

The budget calls for spending $111 million more than is being spent in the current period without request for increased taxes. The federal tax cut is expected to provide the extra $111 million. Increased consumption and investment, stimulated by the tax cut is hoped to bring a rise in state income.

See the College Girl and Boy; They Call Themselves Adults

See the girl. She is a pretty girl. See her checkered madras skirt. And cotton blouse. And Weejuns. And puffed out hair. She is a college girl. She goes to the university.

See the boy. He is a college man. See the tapered slacks. And Grant shirt with the loop. And cordovans. With no socks.

See them at a dance. Watch them twist and yell and wave paper cups in the air. It is hot and noisy. See them after the dance in the girls' parking lot. They are in his car with the loud muffler. They are on the front seat, and, no, on second thought don't see them in the parking lot.

Now it is 12:30. See the girl run from the car. She must get inside her dorm on time. She is a big girl.

See them in class. The boy is slumped in the chair. He is asleep. The girl is slumped in her chair. She is asleep too. The professor is very dull.

See them studying. It is 4:30 in the morning. They have a test today. See the little pills. They keep them awake. See the bottles under the boy's bed. They put him to sleep.

BOOK REVIEWS:

One Book Provokes Thought; The Other Sheer Pleasure

By Aloma Williams

Jessica Mitford attacks the $2 billion-a-year American funeral industry in her highly explosive and controversial book, "The American Way of Death." This hotly argued bestseller attacks the showy, extravagant American funeral practices.

An Englishwoman, Miss Mitford has done considerable research into the practices of the funeral industry and has come up with some startling facts and rather austere ideas.

From the time Jessica Mitford's book was published, it has been enveloped in a wave of rebuttal and controversy.

Officials of the funeral industry have defended the "high cost of dying" and deny that the American funeral has become a status symbol. They disagree with Miss Mitford that most funerals are vulgar, undignified, counterfeit, or irreligious.

Mr. Allan Dulles, former chief of the US Central Intelligence Agency, recently quipped, "It might be a good idea if the book were sent to Mr. Khrushchev. When he sees how expensive it is to bury us . . . he might sue for peace."

"To the seller of funeral services, one gathers, the bereaved person is a bundle of guilt feelings, a snob, and a status-seeker," says Miss Mitford.

She attacks the tradition of sending flowers for funerals. Also falling under the leadenhammer of her verbal attack is the business of pre-need grave sites, vaults, markers, and other funeral preparations.

Contemplating an inscription for a pre-need grave marker, she suggested "To My Dearly Beloved Self," or just simply "Dear Me."

"The American Way of Death" is an explosively revealing book. Obviously American funerals have become too cluttered and expensive, too ornate and too much of a status symbol. She seems to think embalming worthless, funeral flowers needless, and would strip the funeral of all ritual and sentiment.

Although she says that funerals are status symbols, she condemns our less pretentious lawn-type cemeteries. She advocates a plain pine box, tucked away as quickly and quietly as possible!

Some of her book is very good, but much is a bit too harsh for status-seeking Americans.

Shirley Jackson in her latest literary effort has taken one cup of fear, two cups of hatred, a small portion of tenderness, and one-half cup of suspense to create "We Have Always Lived in the Castle," a novel that intrigued and delighted her fans.

Miss Jackson, the author of such stories as "The Lottery," leaves the reader in a spell of black magic from the beginning through the end of the book. Her primary failure is her inability to keep the suspense built up as she did in "The Lottery."

The story deals with the lives of two sisters, Mary Katherine and Constance Blackwood and their senile uncle, Julian Blackwood. These three huddled together for six years in psychotic solitude.

The story is told in the omniscient point of view by the 18-year-old Mary Katherine, who has lived quite contentedly behind the protection of the Blackwood property.

The reason for the Blackwoods' unwillingness to be a part of society has to do with the mysterious poisoning of their parents, aunt, and brother. Constance who had prepared the "last meal" was charged with murder. Because of the prominence of the Blackwood family and the manner in which they died, her trial attracted national attention.

Upon her acquittal she withdrew into a private world with her sister and uncle. This world was invaded and shattered with the arrival of their cousin Charles Blackwood.

His presence causes several events to happen that leave the reader on the edge of his chair. The tone of the story gently fades into an unusual ending which is typical of Miss Jackson's works.

The story is vividly told with a magnetism that urges one to read further. The Denver Post said of her book: "Some day Shirley Jackson may be charged with witchcraft and her books offered as evidence . . . another of Miss Jackson's superlative blendings of suspense, psychiatry, and sorcery."

Murray-Go-Round

A great deal has been said about campus traditions recently, about the personality of the MSC campus, and the things that constitute the total picture.

On the positive side, one of the most traditional campus features is the annual "Campus Lights," which is completely written, produced, and enacted by Murray students. It is a tremendous task, one which through the years has been carried out consistently with professional ability.

Good or bad, traditional presentations such as "Lights" draw many visitors to the campus. They show the public exactly the potential of the students we have as well as the quality of our departments.

I personally would like to compliment the cast and producers of "Lights," and on the basis of the rehearsals I have been watching predict one of the most successful years "Campus Lights" has had.

Folk music definitely is in its hey-day on the MSC campus now! The turn-out for the recent Peter, Paul and Mary concert makes it possible for the Student Organization to sponsor more quality entertainment.

Rumors are in the air that the Kingston Trio may be here next with the great privilege of bestowing their "intertwining voices" and picking, strumming, and balladeering to the "underwater campus of the South, deare olde Muddy State."

I dig folk music like Jack Linkletter digs "hootenanny," but seems like a little variety would be a relief at this point! Say Dave Brubeck, or Henry Mancini maybe?

Speaking of traditions, I hear the English department has been having quite a controversial discussion on changing the books which are to be required for freshman and sophomore reading.

But true to form, the campus "moralists" have won again, it seems. Wonder why people insist on reading so superficially that they fail to recognize sensitivity of observing and recording human nature, through a few "off-color" metaphors and "shocking" similes.

It seems sort of tragic to me, this superficial living and feeling, blind to everyone's ideas but your own. Anyone want to borrow my reading list?

Just a word to announce the demise of the "Murray-Go-Round" column as such. But don't be so optimistic as to think my slashing typewriter, searing glares and biting tongue will cease to be striking out here and there! The name Murray-Go-Round changed to protect the innocent! — W. Hook.

College Heritage Shown By Names of Buildings

"Clark, Wilson, Woods . . ." These are a few of the names of buildings which are mentioned many times each day on the MSC campus.

Despite the frequent use of these familiar names, few students are aware of the important contributions of the men for whom the buildings were named.

Three residence halls have been named in honor of former presidents of the college.

Wells Hall, girls' dormitory, was named for Dr. Rainey T. Wells, second president of the college. Dr. Wells, who also served as state tax commissioner, was greatly responsible for the law which created MSC and Morehead State College, Morehead.

Richmond Hall, men's dormitory, was named for Dr. James H. Richmond, third president of Murray State. Woods Hall, residence hall for women, was named for Dr. Ralph H. Woods, MSC's fourth and present president.

In order to recognize the services of Dr. John Wesley Carr, Murray State's first president, the John Wesley Carr Health Building was named in his honor.

The Doyle Fine Arts Building was named in honor of Mr. Price "Pop" Doyle who established the music department. Fine Arts was one of the first buildings in the state to be constructed on borrowed funds in the form of bonds.

Around 1930 Mr. Doyle portrayed Herr Popelmeister, a German band director, in a play. Because of his part in the play, both

After Working for 27 Years Jeffrey Disappoints Students

What is probably the most regularly visited place on campus? Most students would agree that it is the College Post Office.

Virtually every college student eagerly awaits the daily mail deliveries with the fervant "hope I get a letter today!" And it is not unusual to see an excited mass of humanity milling in front of the mail boxes while the mail is being processed.

It's extremely disappointing to confront an empty mail box. And the greatest thrill of all is receiving a package, be it large or small.

Mr. Glin Jeffrey, the college postmaster, is a familiar face to all Murray students. He is efficient and concerned that good care is taken of every letter because "it means a lot to the students."

Mr. Jeffrey has been with college station for 27 years. Before that he taught school. In 1962 he got his 25-year service plaque.

The post office was in the Library basement until four years ago when it was moved into the new Waterfield Student Union Building. Already, says Mr. Jeffrey, the post office is too small to handle the mail easily.

There are 1,284 post-office boxes in the SUB. The girls in Wells and Woods Halls receive their mail in the dorms.

The greatest problem is that so many students leave the college without giving forwarding addresses. There is as much work in the summer as in the fall because of this, Mr. Jeffrey said.

College station performs all the duties of a regular post office, which it is. All forms of corres-orders, C.O.D.'s, and registered pendence — packages, money letters — are handled here.

Each day there are about three bags of first-class mail in the morning, three bags of papers, and several bags of parcel-post packages.

The mail is sorted into sections for easier dispersal and the mail to Woods and Wells Halls is sorted out to be sent to the dorms.

Mail bearing the correct address, box number included, is put up first. Any mail addressed only to college station or with the wrong box number is put aside until the rest is distributed.

The college post office is run very efficiently, and Mr. Jeffrey might well be voted the most popular man on campus as he distributes those "precious" letters!

ARF!

Benjamin Franklin (or The Louisville Slugger, as he is better known as) said, "A penny saved is a penny earned," and we, the college population of America, have taken to heart this sage advice. We spend prudently; we budget diligently. Yet, despite our wise precautions, we are always running short. Why? Because there is one item of expense that we consistently underestimate—the cost of travelling home for weekends.

Let us take the typical case of Basil Metabolism, a sophomore at UCLA majoring in avocados. Basil, a resident of Bangor, Maine, loved to go home each weekend to play with his faithful dog, Spot. What joy, what wretched smiles, when Basil and Spot were re-united! Basil would leap into his dogcart, and Spot, a genuine Alaskan husky, would pull Basil all over Bangor, Maine—Basil calling cheery halloos to the townfolk, Spot wagging his curly tail.

But the cost, alas, of travelling from UCLA to Bangor, Maine, ran to $400 a week, and Basil's father, alas, earned only a meagre salary as a meter-reader for the Bangor water department. So, alas, after six months Basil's father told Basil he could raise no more money; he had already sold everything he owned, including the flashlight he used to read meters.

Basil returned to California to ponder his dilemma. One solution occurred to him—to ship Spot to UCLA and keep him in his room—but Basil had to abandon the notion because of his roommate, G. Fred Sigafos, who was, alas, allergic to dog hair.

Then another idea came to Basil—a stroke of genius, you might call it. He would buy a Mexican hairless chihuahua! Thus he would have a dog to pull him around, and G. Fred's allergy would be undisturbed.

The results, alas, were not all Basil had hoped. The chihuahua, alas, was unable to pull Basil in the dogcart, no matter how energetically he beat the animal.

Defeated again, Basil sat down with G. Fred, his roommate, to smoke a Marlboro Cigarette and seek a new answer to the problem. Together they smoked and thought and—Eureka!—an answer quickly appeared. (I do not suggest, mark you, that Marlboro Cigarettes are an aid to cerebration. All I say about Marlboros is that they taste good and are made of fine tobaccos and pure white filters and come in soft pack or Flip Top box.)

Well, sir, Basil and G. Fred got a great idea. Actually, the idea was G. Fred's, who happened to be majoring in genetics. Why not, said G. Fred, cross-breed the chihuahua with a Great Dane and thus produce an animal sturdy enough to pull a dogcart?

It was, alas, another plan doomed to failure. The cross-breeding was done, but the result (this is very difficult to explain) was a raccoon.

But there is, I am pleased to report, a happy ending to this heart-rending tale. It seems that Basil's mother (this is also very difficult to explain) is a glamorous blond aged 19 years. One day she was spotted by a talent scout in Bangor, Maine, and was signed to a fabulous movie contract, and the entire family moved to California and bought Bel Air, and today one of the most endearing sights to be seen on the entire Pacific Coast is Spot pulling Basil down Sunset Boulevard—Basil cheering and Spot wagging. Basil's mother is also happy, making glamorous movies all day long, and Basil's father is likewise content, sitting at home and reading the water meter.

Baby Racers Lose 'Sweetheart' Title To Ky. Wesleyan

The Baby Racers came within eight points of capturing their first tournament Friday night in the annual "Sweetheart Tournament" in Henderson, only to lose in the closing minutes of play to Kentucky Wesleyan, 86-78.

The Baby Racers moved into the final round by trouncing Oakland City College of Indiana Thursday, 93-72.

In Friday's championship game the Baby Racers led throughout most of the first half by as many as 10 points.

With 4:41 left in the game and the score knotted at 68-68 the Racers fell prey to the Wesleyan fast-breaking onslaught. Wesleyan's Howie Cordell netted eight quick points while the Racer offense stalled to a halt.

The Panther freshmen were able to gain an eight-point edge which they never relinquished.

Showing in Mason-Dixon Games Very Disappointing—Furgerson

Murray State suffered a number of disappointing defeats in the fourth annual Mason-Dixon indoor games in Louisville Saturday.

The best Murray could finish was third in the mile and two-mile relays, both of which were won by Kentucky State College.

"We had a very disappointing night which we felt was due to lack of conditioning," said Coach Bill Furgerson. "We saw that the other schools are ahead of us at this time, but we feel confident that with more work we will be back on top."

Possibly the best Racer performance of the night was the fifth place won by high jumper Augie Schiller; he cleared 6-4. The event was won by U. S. Olympic champion John Thomas. Schiller competed against some of the nation's finest jumpers in this event.

Spinter Bob Doty finished fourth to world champion Bob Hayes in the 70-yard dash. Covering the distance in 6.9 seconds, Hayes equalled the world indoor record.

Freshman Jim Yost won the first heat of the Kentuckiana Mile while running the best time of his career at 4:23.3 placing him fifth in the event. Ed Scullion, also a freshman, finished fifth in his heat of the mile.

Ray Wilson, middle distance runner, finished fourth in the 600-yard dash.

Bob Boling failed to qualify in the shot put.

Sigma Chi, Track Team Score Victories in Monday Cage Play

Only two games were played in the intramural cage leagues Monday: Sigma Chi defeated the P.R.'s, 70-30, and the Track Team won over Apt. 5, 56-40.

Seven teams registered victories Saturday.

In the Catfish League Tri-Sigma No. 1 and SAACS registered victories to remain undefeated and tied for first place.

MSC Storms to Top By Belting Maroons

Two weeks ago there was an apparent calm in the OVC title scene — but stormy winds blew last weekend. And now it's touch-and-go!

As a result of the Racers' 93-87 victory over Eastern Saturday night and Western's conquest of East Tennessee, the Racers are now tied for the league lead.

Sharing the No. 1 conference spot at 6-3 are the Buccaneers of East Tennessee.

The scrambling of the standings continued as Tennessee Tech, defending champions of the conference, took over third place with a 6-4 record after defeating Morehead Saturday night, 105-98.

The Maroons of Eastern (4-4) and Morehead (5-5) are tied for fourth place.

The Racers never trailed Saturday night, although frequent miscues and erratic shooting could have hurt them before time ran out on the pressing Maroons.

Behind the shooting of Jim Jennings and the fast-breaking of guards Al Varnas, Scott Schlosser, and reserve Bennie Goheen, Murray built a three-point half-time advantage into a 20-point lead with 6:34 remaining in the game.

Eastern called time out and returned to action with the installation of a half-court press that apparently bothered the Racers.

Three minutes later the lead

ALL ALONE . . . Guard Bennie Goheen goes in for a lay-up after stealing the ball in Murray's 93-87 triumph over visiting Eastern. Goheen was credited Saturday night with seven steals and nine points in a reserve role.

had been sliced to eight points, as the Maroons, capitalizing on Murray's ball-handling and shooting, scored on clips and dominated the backboards.

A driving lay-up by Varnas built the count to 10 again before soph Stu Johnson broke the backs of the Maroons with a crucial three-point play that enlarged the lead to 13 points with 2:19 left.

Eastern outscored Murray 10-1 for the remainder of the game, the only Racer point a free throw by Goheen with 14 seconds left.

Johnson connected on a jumper for a 2-0 lead and continued to hit, scoring seven of the first 10 points for Murray, as Eastern fell behind by four with only minutes gone in the opening period.

The Racers built the lead to seven points but saw it vanish as the score was knotted at 23-23 with 7:59 left before intermission.

Murray jumped to a six-point spread, but Eastern cut it back to two on baskets by Eddie Bodkin and Lee Lemos.

Schlosser's two driving lay-ups and jumper and hook by Jennings spearheaded the Racers to their 43-40 lead at the half.

Jennings led Murray with 28 points and 16 rebounds.

Johnson finished the night with 18, Varnas had 17, and Schlosser 15.

Lemos led the Eastern attack with 19 points, while Bodkin scored 18.

BIG GUN . . . Jim Jennings goes high to score two of his 28 points against Eastern. He captured game scoring honors while also pulling down 16 rebounds.

Racers to Battle Governors Tonight In First of Three Title-full Contests

Winners of their last four league games and five of their last six contests, the Racers will try to remain atop the league standings as three foes set their sights on the surging Murray team this week.

Austin Peay will be in the Sports Arena tonight for a game scheduled for 8 before road games with Western Saturday night and East Tennessee Monday night close out a busy week for the newest leader of the conference.

The Racers moved into a tie for the league lead with a 6-3 record following Saturday's victory over Eastern while East Tennessee was dropping a decision to Western.

The Governors of Austin Peay, making their first appearance to Murray since joining the OVC this year, will bring with them a 4-6 league record.

Two weeks ago the Racers defeated the Austin Peay team at Clarksville, 98-82. A win tonight would move Murray into first place alone for at least three days, as East Tennessee will not play until Saturday.

Saturday should be one of the toughest tests for the Murray quintet as the Hilltoppers seem to be thriving on the top contenders in the league.

Western defeated Morehead three weeks ago after the Eagles had broken into the OVC lead with a 3-0 record.

Although the Hilltoppers are out of the OVC title picture, resting in last place with a 3-6 mark, a clash between the two schools means an awful lot to Western, as it does to Murray.

Darel Carrier has been almost unstoppable, scoring 101 points in his last three games to spearhead two Western victories.

Carrier will be aided by sophomore Bane Sarrett. The 6-6 forward scored only eight points against Murray in the Sports Arena Jan. 18, but has averaged 22 points a game in the last two Western outings.

Monday's game against East Tennessee looms as possibly "the one for all the marbles."

The Buccaneers defeated the Racers earlier in the year in double-overtime, 62-61. Since then the Racers have gone undefeated in the league.

Murray will have two games left after meeting East Tennessee, one at home and one away; the Buccaneers will play two at home, with their final game of the year at Eastern.
