Cox said the fair board is offering $400 for the best agricultural display, $400 for the best industrial, $400 for the best on natural resources and $800 for the best over-all county exhibit.

Greek Rebels Said Retreating To East; Nationalists Attack

Athens, July 17—(AP)—Military circles expressed belief today that survivors of the 2,500 guerrillas—who the government said, invaded Greece from Albania Sunday—had withdrawn successfully eastward toward the towering Mt. Grammos range near the frontier.
Only scattered minor clashes were reported in the Mt. Grammos area.
The rebels' retreat was noted yesterday when Greek army units attacked north of Ioannina, but failed to contact the main force. Military informants said they believed the insurgents were trying to reach their command post at Mt. Grammos, where national forces were harrying another group of 2,000. The larger party failed in an attempt to capture Ioannina, capital of Epirus.
Greek troops watched closely for developments along the Yugoslav and Albanian borders starting point for war in the Balkans.
The purported broadcast was said to have proclaimed that the guerrillas were "willing" to come to an agreement but that establishment of a free state was necessary. One of the aims of the "free state" was to "free" Greece from intervention, where aim is to turn Greece into the Balkans.

GREEK GUERRILLAS REPORTED TRAPPED—Black, oval area near Albanian frontier is where Greek guerrillas' main force was reported trapped by three Greek government columns (arrows). New large-scale guerrilla fighting was feared in the Florina area (upper right) facing Yugoslav border.

Temperatures Lower Than Normal Over State Last Week; Crops Good

Temperatures in Kentucky during the past week averaged three to seven degrees below the normal, but the weather was favorable for good growth of vegetation, according to the weekly report of the U. S. weather bureau.
Average temperature at Cairo, Ill., for the week was 78, with the high 95 and the low 64 degrees. Only .08 inch rain fell there. Paris, Tenn.'s weather bureau station reported 20 inch rain, a high temperature of 94, a low of 60 and an average of 76 degrees.
Considerable farm work was accomplished during the week, especially in the western portion, but work and crop conditions are still somewhat behind the seasonal average.
Some crops in lowland fields in the central and eastern sections have been damaged or destroyed by flooding.
The corn crop is doing well, and generally is well cultivated. Some southern and western fields have been "laid by." Harvesting of small grains is completed in most areas, and threshing is well advanced.
Planting of soy beans is finished and most fields are up and in good condition. Tobacco is generally fair to good, but varies greatly in size from very small to 12 to 15 leaves.
Pastures and forage crops are excellent. Gardens generally are fair to good. Peaches are mostly good in the western sections, and picking of early varieties has started.

Veteran Shot At Union City

Farm Foreman Charged With Felonious Assault
Union City—Jimmy Jones, 58, foreman on the J. C. McRee farm near Union City on the old Woodland Mill road, was released on $2,000 bond yesterday charged with felonious assault and battery on James Damron, aged about 28, Union City.
Jones admitted to Sheriff Robert Harrison that he had shot Damron twice in the Jones residence at about 4:30 Tuesday afternoon.
Jones told his attorneys that on a number of occasions he had ordered Damron to leave his residence, and that on Tuesday morning Damron came to his home and Jones ordered him to leave. It was understood that when Jones went to the house at 4:30 Tuesday afternoon after having been at work on the farm, he found Damron in the house. The shooting followed shortly thereafter.
One bullet from Jones' .32 caliber Smith and Wesson gun entered Damron's chest, penetrating the breast bone and lodging in the chest. The other entered and lodged in Damron's right hip.
Damron, a World War II veteran, was taken to the Union City clinic and later was sent to Kennedy General Hospital, Memphis. It was reported that his condition was quite serious upon arrival at Kennedy.

Waterfield Chairwoman, Vice-Chairman Named; Candidate Says Clements Fakes News Releases

Bill Browning, county chairman for Harry Lee Waterfield's campaign for the Democratic nomination for governor, today announced the appointment of Mrs. M. W. Haws as county chairwoman and of Billy Blackstone as the county vice-chairman for Mr. Waterfield.
Mr. Browning said that organizational meetings will be held in each precinct, and that precinct chairmen will be selected. Date and time of the precinct meetings will be announced later.
Waterfield's county campaign chairman from the First District and other campaign workers will meet at the National Hotel in Murray tonight. Mr. Browning, Mr. Blackstone and Elmer Murchison, who heads the Waterfield campaign in Hickman and the western half of Fulton county, will attend this meeting.
Yesterday Waterfield charged that his opponent, Earle C. Clements, issued false news releases. He asserted that a news handout was issued from Clements' Louisville headquarters Tuesday under a Smithland dateline quoting Clements as saying certain things "in a speech here today."
The words "in a speech here" were written into the story by the Courier-Journal, Louisville, after checking the story with Robert B. Hensley, assistant campaign chairman at Clements' headquarters. Hensley said Clements made a campaign speech at Smithland, making the statements he was quoted as making. Hensley said Clements did not speak in the other towns he visited Tuesday, except at Paducah, where he made a non-political speech.
At Smithland, Harry Bolser of the Courier-Journal's Paducah bureau was told yesterday that Clements did not make a speech there Tuesday.
Clements and his companions, sitting on the courthouse lawn at Smithland, discussed with some of the county officials and a group that gathered the progress of the campaign. Bolser was told.
County Judge E. F. Hughes said Clements did not make any criticism of Waterfield, according to Bolser. In the Clements headquarters handout, Clements was quoted as saying "this opponent (Waterfield) is guilty of pure political hypocrisy for his open advocacy of tremendous appropriations for all agencies of the state government without offering any tax plan to make the payment of such increased appropriations possible."
Waterfield, at Pikeville, said he challenged "my opponent and everybody in his headquarters to prove he spoke in Smithland. I tell you he did not speak there. I tell you that is the same kind of stuff his whole campaign is based upon. He is trying to fool the newspapers, the wire services and the people of this state on every other issue of this campaign in the same manner he is releasing false news reports about his speeches."
"My opponent is making as few speeches as he dares. He is afraid to face the people of the state with the issues of this campaign," he charged.
Waterfield said Clements "meets behind closed doors with some of his hand-picked politicians" and holds "a pow-wow because he's a pow-wow candidate."

House Group To Probe Movie Union Racketeering
Washington, July 17—(AP)—Chairman Hartley (R-NJ) said today a House Labor subcommittee will start hearings August 4 in Los Angeles to determine whether there is "any labor racketeering in the moving picture industry."
The subcommittee, headed by Rep. Kearns (R-Pa.), has been investigating activities of James C. Petillo and the American Federation of Musicians.
Junkies planes. One, the Paris, was "badly damaged" and the other subsequently sank "and the last attempt to evacuate the wounded by hospital carrier from Dunkerque was brought to naught."
On June 3 and 4 the small boats joined the evacuation fleet in increasing numbers despite "continuous bombing attacks." Ramsay wrote that "the number of soldiers taken off the beaches by motor boats cannot be estimated. One 35-foot motor launch, however, ferried off 600 men to transports and carried 420 direct to England."
"On the final night, after the last two destroyers had left at 3:40 a. m., a number of power boats continued to work in Dunkerque harbor and only left when they came under small arms fire from German troops who had penetrated into Dunkerque at certain points," Ramsay said.
Ramsay was killed Jan. 2, 1945 when his plane crashed on a trip to Belgium.

British Admiralty Releases Epic Story of Dunkerque Evacuation

London, July 17—(AP)—The British Admiralty released today, seven years after the event, the full epic story of the British and French evacuation from the bombed, bloody beaches of Dunkerque between May 26 and June 4, 1940.
Even the matter-of-fact language of the dispatch from Admiral Sir Bertram Ramsay, who directed the operation, failed to hide the magnitude of the achievement.
Ramsay disclosed in his dispatch, written on June 13, 1940, that of the 176 British ships used in the operation 35 were sunk and 42 others damaged. Those ships, ranging from destroyers and hospital ships to tugboats and drifters, were supplemented by approximately 700 little boats which put out from British fishing points to rescue the battered troops.
Three hundred and thirty thousand of the British troops who had been driven out of Europe by the victorious Germans were brought back to Britain.
The admiralty, Ramsay wrote, had expected at the utmost to rescue 45,000.
The French navy, too, suffered heavy losses among the 196 ships which it flung into the task of evacuating French troops from the beaches. Nineteen of them were sunk and two others damaged, but they brought 20,525 French troops to Britain. In all, 123,005 French troops were transported across the channel in British and French ships.
Through "intensive" air attack, minelaying by plane, action by motor torpedo boats, coast artillery gunfire and submarine operations the Germans tried to block the evacuation. Ramsay reported. All their operations succeeded in part, but the air attacks were the worst, he said.
"Heavy air attack started on May 29," Ramsay wrote. "From then onwards the scale and vigor of the air attack increased and during June 1 all ships in Dunkerque, off the beaches or in the approach channels were subjected every two hours to an unprecedented scale of attack by aircraft in such numbers that the Royal Air Force were unable to deal with the situation."
A footnote reported the RAF destroyed 262 German planes over the beaches between May 25 and June 4.
The actual evacuation started on May 26 with the signal: "Please send every available craft to beaches east of Dunkerque." German armor, it was noted, was then operating to the south of the beaches.
"From the signals received it appeared the situation was desperate, that little could be lifted direct from the port of Dunkerque and that the maximum effort must be made from the beaches," Ramsay wrote.
On May 28 a "moderate surf" reduced the use of embarkation and "rendered the whole operation slow and difficult."
The immediate safety of the British expeditionary force left during the evening and early night of May 28, which caused all available resources to be immediately concentrated on the French coast, eased during the 29th," Ramsay reported. But he noted that the destroyer Wakeful, laden with troops, was torpedoed and all troops on board went down with the ship and that later the destroyer Grafton was torpedoed. Other destroyers were attacked by dive bombers.
At about 4 p. m. on May 29 a two-hour dive bombing attack on Dunkerque harbor forced the complete cessation of embarkations of troops, but the operation was resumed at dusk. That air attack, however, blocked the harbor, and all troops thereafter were loaded from the beaches, wading out into the surf.
On May 30 "matters proceeded smoothly throughout the day owing to the mist and there being a big smoke cloud over Dunkerque which prevented the enemy bombers attacking the ships in large numbers."
Throughout May 31 "the rate of evacuation was steadily increasing."
"Heavy" air attacks by more than 100 bombers started soon after dawn on June 1 "and it became evident that a very serious threat to daylight evacuation again was in being. The toll of casualties among the ships during the day was mounting, particularly among the destroyers."
On June 2 this signal came from the beaches: "Wounded situation acute and hospitals should enter during day. Geneva convention will be honorably observed, it is felt, and that the enemy will refrain from attacking."
So two hospital ships were started out and both, Ramsay reported, were attacked by

President Asked $250,000,000 Now To Start Program

47 ACTION UNLIKELY
Washington, July 17—(AP)—Powerful opposition developed in Congress today to President Truman's request for $250,000,000 now to start a ten year, $6,000,000,000 flood control and river program.
As a result, backers of the plan privately gave up hope for action this year.
Chairman Thayer (R-NY) of the House Appropriations committee, which must act on the request, said "It is a scatterfire and poorly conceived plan."
"There is no possibility of legislation this year," added Chairman Dondero (R-Mich.) of the House Public Works committee, which has jurisdiction over river programs up to the point where the appropriations committee takes over.
One of the plan's supporters said "there's nothing we can do until next year, and it will be a fight even then."
In a special message to Congress yesterday, Mr. Truman said the recent floods in the Missouri and Mississippi valleys made it imperative that the lawmaking body act quickly.
He said he will send to Capitol Hill "promptly" a formal request for the $250,000,000 to start the work. That money would augment between $300,000,000 and $500,000,000 being considered by Senate-House conference committees trying to compromise differences in pending appropriation bills.
Fraud Investigation
In the Senate, a full investigation into charges of fraud in last fall's election of Senator Kilgore (D-W. Va.) was started by the rules committee. And Senator Ken (R-Mo.) insisted that the Senate itself pass on his resolution for a complete probe of what he called the Justice Department's failure to conduct a full investigation of alleged irregularities in the 1946 Kansas City primary.
Across the Capitol, Secretary of State Marshall was reported to have saved almost the entire $1,475,000,000 foreign aid program from the economy knife poised over it by the House Appropriations committee. Committee members said that as the result of a personal appeal by Marshall to Speaker Martin (R-Mass.) and other Republican leaders the group has agreed tentatively to:
1. Approve the full $400,000,000 asked by President Truman to carry out the Greek-Turkish aid program.
2. Grant "substantially all" of the $350,000,000 asked for relief in liberated nations.
3. Provide the Army with most of the $725,000,000 it has sought for relief and administrative work in occupied countries.
"Near Blow-Up"
Senator Sparkman (D-Ala.) said "we are more dangerously close to a blow-up of our economy than most people realize."
Sparkman, a member of the Congressional joint committee on the economic report, said he believes current inflationary pressures are so great that "every precaution must be exercised" to prevent a further price rise.
House Democratic Leader Rayburn said the Democratic party welcomes a Republican challenge to make the $4,000,000,000 tax reduction bill an issue in next year's presidential campaign. Said Rayburn: "The Democratic party is for the proper kind of tax reduction at the proper time. This bill gives a great many people too much and a great many more too little." His comment came after Chairman Knutson (R-Minn.) of the House Ways and Means committee said "The tax issue will be carried into the 1948 campaign. If submitted to the voters—there are 49,500,000 taxpayers—it would be very, very lively campaign issue." President Truman's second veto of the bill is due to reach the House tomorrow.

An Issue Of Rights

Many a Kentuckian must have blinked at the rare sight of Brent Spence and John M. Robison on the same side of a vote in the House of Representatives. The association was the more interesting in that the question involved was no routine business, but a point of principle. And to this newspaper's thinking, they were on the right side—together there, for once.

The point was that of protecting government employees against arbitrary dismissal on allegations of disloyalty under a formula which provides no appeal from a tribunal sitting as judge, jury and executioner. A concern for fundamental rights drew together these two, who are as far apart as the spectrum ranges in coloration of political ideas.

The bill, which was passed by a lop-sided vote in spite of such temperate appeals, takes the country as far toward denial of legal hearing as it has gone since the Alien and Sedition Acts of 1798. It sets up a loyalty review board which could order the dismissal of any employee deemed to be opposed to American institutions; in short, disloyal. In addition to overt acts or expressions of disloyalty for which a worker may be thrown out, it calls for his dismissal if he is a member of or even in "sympathetic association with" any group which the Attorney General may list as subversive.

This probably sounds fair enough. And the present Attorney General has shown a zeal for civil liberties. However, one recalls the smearings and the proscriptions of which the Committee on Un-American Activities has been guilty. One recalls all those indictments of individuals for innocent association with groups that have themselves been condemned without hearing. One recalls the discreditable action of another Congress in passing a law described by the Supreme Court as a bill of attainder in the Watson-Dobb-Lovett case. And one cannot but have his qualms about the new grant of authority without let or hindrance.

It was to balance this authority that a group which included the disparate Messrs. Spence and Robison voted to preserve the right of appeal to courts. The group voted, in vain. The defenders of the bill, who included five other Kentuckians, voted a doctrinaire "aye" is likely to sound strange to many "yes."

"What we want here is a summary procedure," said Representative Jennings of Tennessee. He and his allies argued that no constitutional right is damaged when an employee is fired. What they seemed to forget is that firing under the circumstances involves something more than the loss of a job, involving one of the gravest of accusations, turning mere suspicion or even mischievous gossip into blackest guilt, established without recourse.

For who is to say where interpretations of "subversive" or "sympathetic association" by an Attorney General or a loyalty board may lead us? And what is the condemned man or woman to do about the stigma by which he is blackened in a hooded inquisition?

We like to think that both Mr. Robison and Mr. Spence were mindful of their citizenship in a State which gave to history the Kentucky Resolutions in just such another circumstance. These came in protest against the Alien and Sedition Acts, and included this: "The principle and construction stop nothing (short) of despotism—since the discretion of those who administer the government, and not the Constitution, would be the measure of their power."

The parallel and the pertinence are not hard to see today.—Courier-Journal.

INDIA DANCER TO TOUR U. S.

Madras, India.—(AP)—Udaya Shanker, famous Indian classical dancer, is planning a three months' tour of the United States with his dance troupe hopeful that Hollywood will present them in a major color film.

Shanker said he would take with him a copy of his recently completed motion picture, "Kalpana" (Marathi for "imagination"), which satirizes prejudices and conventions of wealthy Indians.

This will be his second trip to the United States. He danced there in 1937 after a tour of Europe, returning to India where he organized an art and cultural center in Alimora, in the United Provinces.

"Organize Or Die"

By Dewitt MacKenzie,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The United States government has just issued its first official statement of policy covering Germany since the war, and takes the stand that a stable and productive Germany is necessary to make Europe orderly and prosperous.

This historic statement is in the form of a directive to the American occupation force in Germany. It instructs Lieut. Gen. Clay, American zone commander, to exert every effort to achieve economic unity with other zones, and says highest priority should be given to increased production of coal, food and export goods.

The greatest importance must be attached to this declaration in view of the increasing gravity of the European economic crisis. It is a situation which is going to be worse before it can start to get better. To use the graphic warning of French Premier Ramadier: "The hour has come for Europe to organize or die."

The United States directive takes on particular significance in view of the approaching Anglo-American conference in Washington to discuss methods for increasing the all-important coal production of the Ruhr upon which economic recovery not only of Germany but of Europe depends so heavily. That conference is likely to pivot on a showdown between the two countries over the British Socialist government's insistence on nationalization of the Ruhr coal mines. The United States has opposed this, and the other day proposed that nationalization be deferred for five years. Washington takes the view that nationalization is a question for the German people to decide.

Of course it's easy to understand why a Socialist government, which ranks nationalization as one of its cardinal tenets, should want to see it carried out in Germany and elsewhere. It will be surprising, however, if an ideological argument is allowed to stymie an agreement for German recovery. After all, while the British Socialist government believes it is on the right economic road at home, it still has to demonstrate it. We are dealing with a theory and not a demonstrated fact.

However, I judge that there's more to the British stand than that revolving about the Ruhr. Britain doesn't want to see the riches of the Ruhr revert to the control of the war-mongering Prussian junkers. What with its coal, and the vast Krupp armament works the Ruhr was the material mainspring of German aggression.

When it comes down to the question of the Prussian war-lords getting control of the Ruhr again, surely there can be small ground for dispute among the allies. One of the main objectives of the war was to put Prussianism out of business. Still, nationalization isn't the only method of handling this situation. International control might turn the trick, and it seems a fair guess that something along that line will come up for serious consideration at the Washington conference.

"Facts Of Life"

Makes 'Em Swoon

On London Screen

London, July 17.—(AP)—The facts of life were proving too strong for London movie goers today.

Six times the revived American film, "The Birth of a Baby," was shown at a west end theater, and six times members of the audience needed reviving themselves. They fainted—four persons at one performance, eight at another, six at a third.

"It's been like this ever since the film opened," said a perspiring usher. "Forty a day keel over sometimes. I don't know why—nothing in the film shocks me. I just have to keep carrying the swooners out."

Seven out of ten who fainted were men—many of them rugged types.

UC To Raise Fund For New Industry

Union City—Directors of the Senior and Junior Chambers of Commerce have made preliminary plans for organization of a non-profit holding company in which stock will be sold to provide a fund of around $50,000 to be used for the industrial development of the city and county.

Members of both organizations previously had voted unanimously in favor of establishing such a fund in the belief that if new industries are to be brought to the city and county some local expenditures probably will be necessary.

New York—A Great Place For Visitors

By Hal Boyle
New York, July 15.—(AP)—Every day from June to September hundreds of malnourished, staggered through New York delivering to innocent residents horrible letters that read roughly as follows: "Dear Pudge,

"Well, old brother in the bond of Delta Epsilon, get out the welcome mat. I done pretty well in the real estate biz this year for a country boy, and Mamie and I are coming to see how you and Annabelle are roughing it in the big city."

"Suppose by now you got a mortgage on the whole place—ha, ha! Hope you can put us up in that spare bedroom. We can only stay two weeks. Get out the kid's rag, kid. We're rainin'."

Fraternally,
Monk.

P. S. Get us all some good tickets to a couple of the hot musicals. I'll straighten it out with you when I come."

This precipitates the biggest crisis in the family since Pudge's cousin came for a three day visit two years ago that lasted seven weeks, until he got a job as a bartender.

Annabelle wants to know if any of Pudge's friends ever heard the Army and Navy gave the hotels back to the civilians some time ago. But she sends out the dresses and rug to be cleaned, and spends four days on her knees polishing the furniture. And Pudge forks over $52.80 for theater tickets.

Monk and Mamie breeze into town like a hurricane fifteen minutes late for Florida. "Let's go right on up to the Ostrich Club and let the celebrities have a gander at Mamie," says Monk.

"I just put on some lamb chops," protests Annabelle, "and I thought afterward we could sit around and you and Pudge could talk over old times."

"I ain't ready for old-home-week yet," says Monk. "Let's kick up our heels just like you New Yorkers do every night. Mamie and I won't get in the way, kid." So up they go to the Ostrich Club, and Pudge has to let go five dollars to the man with the rope at the door. Monk, four hours and ten drinks later, still doesn't want to go home. Pudge gets the tab, and gives up any idea of buying a summer suit. They roll on home in a cab, but Monk first insists he's gotta ride around Central Park by moonlight, and Pudge gets that bill, too.

For six days and nights Monk and Mamie do the town, and of course good ole Pudge and Annabelle have to stay with them. Monk says they just gotta split the checks, as that is only fair, but even so Pudge is considering bankruptcy as an easier way out.

But after a week Monk and Mamie begin auditing their own accounts and decide even the real estate biz hasn't been that good. So they decide to cut the visit short and Annabelle can bear Mamie's voice through the thin bedroom wall.

"I don't see why they live in a place like this—it's almost Bohemian. I can smell the car-pets in the hall."

And Annabelle whispers to Pudge: "That tomato-faced witch! She put $400 on my charge accounts for some new clothes, and I can't buy anything myself now until she gets around to paying us back—if she ever thinks of it."

"New York's a great place to visit, Pudge," says Monk, "but I sure wouldn't want to live here. How do you stand the pace?" And the train takes them away.

"If anybody ever says that to me again, I'll brain them with a fireplug," says Annabelle.

Detroit, July 16.—(AP)—General Motors Corp. will take a week off from manufacturing passenger cars, starting Monday, because of the steel industry's "disturbed conditions."

GM, which makes roughly half of the nation's automobiles, said its steel supplies were too short to permit full-time operations. It blamed the "coal-mining situation" of early July.

Ultimately 180,000 workers will be laid off from the corporation's assembly lines, a GM spokesman said. The corporation, which employs a total of 265,000 production workers recently reached a weekly output of 30,000 cars.

Britain Considers Drafting Its Non-Productive Workers

London, July 16.—(AP)—Britain's labor government was confronted today with a controversy-provoking proposal for a peacetime draft of so-called "non-productive" workers to fill the manpower gaps in industry which are slowing the nation's economic recovery.

The explosive suggestion was advanced by Arthur Deakin, general secretary of the powerful Transport and General Workers Union, in a speech directly counter to long-standing union opposition to labor conscription and piece work pay.

"There are thousands of people who ought to be put into productive industry and at once," Deakin declared after asserting that organized labor "must of necessity expect a limited measure of direction."

Many observers believed that Deakin's speech was merely a trial balloon released with the approval of a cautious government seeking the reaction of trade union members, on which its political strength is based.

The Daily Herald, labor party organ, reported that "the ministers concerned are watching closely the reaction of the trade unions" to Deakin's revolutionary proposals, and added:

"If there is an overwhelming demand from the trade unions for a limited policy of direction of labor, the government would consider taking such action."

The government as well as the unions heretofore has been opposed to peacetime conscription of workers, repeatedly taking public stands against it—the last only a month or two ago.

The country's economic plight, however, has been pictured by Deputy Prime Minister Herbert Morrison as likely to reach a crisis in the autumn, and the dire threat of hunger obviously may be activating a change in labor's attitude.

Griffenhagen Criticizes UK

Fact-Finders Say Sports Should Be Amateur Again

Frankfort, Ky., July 17.—(AP)—A group of fact-finders has found several things at fault with the University of Kentucky at Lexington.

In a report to Gov. Simeon Willis, Griffenhagen & Associates, independent Chicago firm of consultants in public administration and finance, declared:

1—"The University of Kentucky and other state universities, as soon as possible, should return intercollegiate athletics to its amateur standing.

2—"Principal coaches receive salaries considerably higher than salaries of professors.

3—"Athletics is, primarily, an entertainment rather than an educational enterprise, and should be entirely self-supporting.

4—"The governor's power to remove a trustee at his pleasure should be abolished.

5—"The board of trustees should be reduced from 15 to nine.

6—"There should be no overlapping of salary schedules under which some professional employees now get more than some others of higher ranks.

7—"The state should support no medical school, unless it is a part of the university.

8—"The state teacher retirement system should be extended to include the university.

The lengthy report is one of 12 prepared for the governor in the state's attempt to find out what's wrong with its educational system.

At Lexington last night, Athletic Director Bernie Shively of the University said he was "highly pleased with the report relating to athletics."

He said the report was gratifying because essentially it found the university to be using best judgment in its athletic program and uncovered no faults that would not apply in other schools taking part in intercollegiate competition.

U. S. Hopeful Reds Will Agree To Ban On Veto In Jap Treaty

Washington, July 17.—(AP)—Despite the widening split between Russia and the western allies in Europe, American officials voiced hope today that Moscow will agree to Japanese peace treaty talks free of any big power veto.

If the Kremlin rejects the United States proposal which it now has under consideration, this government will be faced with deciding whether to go ahead with a "separate" treaty with Japan—that is, one without Soviet participation.

Unlike her position in Germany, Russia has no occupation forces in Japan and controls no Japanese territory. Hence officials here contend such a separate peace with a functioning Japanese government could be made to work.

The American proposal for a veto-free conference of 11 nations to begin work on the Japanese treaty was announced yesterday. It is a radical departure from European peace-making procedures in two respects.

In the first place the conference would make decisions by a two thirds vote, with or without concurring votes of the big powers.

In the second place the treaty drafting would be done not alone by the great powers but by seven other nations as well, each with a primary interest in the Japanese settlement.

The countries which the United States proposed for participation are the Big Four of the Far East—America, Britain, China, and Russia—plus the Philippines, India, Australia, New Zealand, France, The Netherlands and Canada.

In the case of Europe Russia flatly opposed any such wide participation and insisted that those treaties be written by the European Big Four—America, Britain, Russia and France.

Eventually, the American plan contemplates a full dress general peace conference to be attended by all of the 48 nations which were—and technically still are—at war with Japan.

334 Disabled Vets Received Autos At Federal Expense

Louisville, Ky., July 17.—(AP)—The Veterans Administration announced here today that 334 disabled veterans of World War II had been supplied with automobiles at government expense through June 30.

The V. A. said the total cost was $530,427, placing the average cost per vehicle at $2,388. Most of the eligible veterans have obtained passenger automobiles, the report said, although a few have asked for trucks, jeeps, station wagons and tractors.

Most of the vehicles have been fitted with special attachments to enable the crippled veterans to operate them.

More, Cheaper Meat Predicted

American Meat Institute Says 15 Pct. Increase In Supply Expected In Fall

Washington, July 17.—(AP)—The American Meat Institute declared today—with reservations—that the nation faces the cheerful prospect of more meat at "moderately lower" prices this fall.

J. R. Eggert, the institute's associate director of marketing, said in a statement prepared for the joint Congressional committee on the economic report that his organization expects a 15 percent increase in meat supplies by autumn.

"It follows," Eggert said, "that moderately lower prices may be looked for at that time unless there are more wage increases and other developments which would further increase the public demand for meat."

He added that current meat prices, generally high, are simply the result of more people having more money and wanting more meat than ever before, at a time when supplies are seasonally low.

Eggert's statement was submitted to the committee on the last day of a series of hearings to find out what can be done about stabilizing prices and the economy generally.

The institute official cited these principal reasons for the rise in meat prices since January:

1. A seasonal, 10 to 15 percent decline in supplies.
2. An increase in weekly wages in industry "to an all-time high."
3. A record peak of 60,000,000 persons employed, an increase of about four percent since the start of the year.

Forget Politics, Is KEA Plea

McGuire Asks Session Not Later Than July 21

Louisville, Ky., July 17.—(AP)—President Herman H. McGuire of the Kentucky Education Association waited today for reaction to his proposal that Gov. Simeon Willis and legislators forget party politics and work together to appropriate additional funds for state education.

McGuire said in a radio talk over station WHAS last night that the K. E. A.'s board of directors, at a meeting July 14, unanimously agreed that an emergency appropriation of $10,800,000 constitutes minimum needs for the present school year. The board added, however, that appropriation of a substantial portion of that amount by a special session would help relieve present critical conditions.

The K. E. A. president called upon teachers, members of Parent-Teacher Associations and others to urge their representatives, senators and the governor to accept the K. E. A.'s proposal that a meeting of the general assembly be held not later than July 21st.

Governor Willis already has offered to call the session on his terms but it was turned down by a majority of House Democrats.

Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.

New York, July 17.—The Cubs' Charley Grimm (definitely no jolly despite his occasional antics on the coaching lines) manages a chuckle when he thinks of what the National League pennant race will be about Sept. 15.

By that time it will be a heck of a race among four of five clubs," says Grimm. "We'll be in there, too—maybe not winning anything but in there swinging."

Listening to him, you get the idea that Charley relishes the idea of causing consternation among the pennant-seekers almost as much as he would like shooting for the championship himself. Grimm, incidentally, has a simple explanation for the Cubs' slump: "When we get some good pitching, we ain't getting no good hitting."

and, of course, vice versa.

Rocky Rocks Zale To Sleep In 6th Round

Almost Opposite Of New York Bout

By Charles Dunkley

Chicago, July 17.—(AP)—Rocky Graziano, tough, tousled-haired youngster from the streets of New York who looks just like he had sneaked out of an alley, reigned today as middleweight boxing champion of the world.

The 25-year-old Graziano, fighting to redeem himself from the stigma of suspension in New York state, battered the 33-year-old title-holder Tony Zale to pitiful helplessness in the Chicago Stadium last night.

Graziano, himself previously on a verge of a knockout, was declared the winner on a technical knockout 2 minutes 10 seconds after the start of the sixth round. The finish came at almost the exact stage the Zale had come from behind to knock out Graziano in their first engagement in New York last Sept. 27.

The savagely-fought battle, scheduled for 15 rounds, was witnessed by a sweltering, howling crowd of 18,547 which established an all-time indoor gate by paying $422,918.

Zale, champion since 1940, came to the end of his trail with tragic suddenness. Up to the end of the fifth round, two judges and Referee Johnny Behr had voted him leading on points by a safe margin for carrying the attack to the challenger. Zale had gashed a cut over Graziano's left eye. His right eye was rapidly closing and his nose was bleeding and cut.

In the third round Zale, who weighed 159 to 155½ for the challenger, had all but finished Graziano. Bleeding Rocky was badly hurt and staggering under Zale's punishing blows to the head and body. A short right to the chin floored Graziano but he was up before the count started.

In the fourth, Graziano drove a terrific right to Zale's body—a devastating punch that started Zale to his finish. Zale, however, courageously tried to carry the punishing power of his blows the battle to his opponent but was fading.

Zale started to wilt in the fifth. His tempo slowed. He lashed out with the pride of a falling champion, but failed to of the round he was visibly tired. Hurt Graziano and at the end of the sixth round the fight was over.

Zale still rushed to attack and pinned the challenger in Tony's own corner. As Zale moved in, Graziano countered with a blasting right to the jaw, thrown with all the power of his youth. Zale reeled backwards, his hands dropped to his side. Graziano knew that Zale was hurt and he opened up in a fury of blows, connecting solidly with a left hook and a right to the chin.

Zale's eyes glazed and he staggered back, groping blindly for support.

Once Zale stabbed with a left in a vain attempt to halt Graziano's charges. But Rocky wept in with another right to the jaw, and Zale, completely helpless, sagged under the top strand of the ropes. Referee Behr pulled Rocky away.

Gigantic Sunspot Seen At Louisville

Louisville, Ky., July 17.—(AP)—A gigantic sunspot was observable here today and scientists warned the public that disruption of radio and wire communications might result.

Charles Strull, educational director of the Louisville Astronomical Society, said the spot was one of the largest he ever had seen, measuring about 100,000 miles in diameter, or about one eighth of the way across the sun's face.

Actually it was a group of spots, Strull said, adding that he had counted six other smaller groups.

Oilers Win Over Chicks 10-5; Fulton Plays Miners Tonight

The Chicks lost to the Oilers last night at Owensboro 10-5, but remained in second place in the league standings as Mayfield was bowing to Hopkinsville 7-2.

It was the second win for the league leading Oilers over the Chicks in a three game series.

Whitely Lynch went the entire distance for the Chicks, pitching creditable ball, allowing 12 hits and striking out seven. His support was ragged, four errors being chalked up against the Chicks infield, with two for Rhodes and one each for Buck and Gray. Lynch gave three free passes to first base. The Chicks, however, were hitting the ball with Propst, Rhodes and Seawright.

Seawright hit .400 for the night with two each for four times at bat, one of Rhodes' blows was a two bagger, Hardcastle also connected for a double, and so did Buck, Lynch, Gray and Pechous each singled in the game. Seawright, whose batting average belies his effectiveness at the plate, batted in two runs in keeping with his practice of pushing the runners around once they got on base. Gray also batted in two runs. Rhodes knocked in the other run.

While a play by play account of the scoring and hitting is impossible since the game was played away, it appears that the Chicks were about to start a rally in the ninth when Browne pulled Schumacher, after one was out, and sent in Casey. This change in hurlers could have been caused by other reasons, but it is plain that the Chicks batsmen were getting to Schumacher in the eighth when they scored three times. If there were a rally brewing, it did not materialize, for Casey got out two without allowing a hit and nary a run crossed the plate.

The Chicks return to Fairfield tonight to engage the Madisonville Miners in the first game of a three game series. Game is called for 8 o'clock.

Henrich Stars At The Plate

"The Chick" Is Hottest Batter In A. L. Lineups

By Joe Reichler
By The Associated Press

Tommy (The Chick) Henrich, who was not even listed as a regular at the start of the season, finally has emerged from the shadows to take his rightful place among the top flight stars of baseball today.

Eclipsed during most of his major league career by such famous teammates as Joe DiMaggio, Charley Keller and Spud Chandler, the clever right fielder of the New York Yankees actually has been the hottest batter in the American League during the past three weeks.

The Yankees, concurrent with Henrich's sizzling stickwork, have won their last 17 games for a new club mark, surpassing the old standard of 16 set in 1926. They need only two more wins to equal the League record of 19 established by the Chicago White Sox of 1905.

Henrich was slated to alternate at first base with the aging George McQuinn, according to early season plans of Manager Bucky Harris. Tommy soon convinced his boss that he belonged in the lineup every day with his fine clutch hitting and returned to his old right field post.

Tommy got a home run and single yesterday while driving in two runs as the Yankees defeated the Indians again 6-2 last night before a crowd of 46,988 home Cleveland rooters and increased the Yankees' first place lead over runner-up Detroit to 11 1-2 games.

 New York, July 17—(AP)—Speculated stocks managed to edge forward in today's market although many leaders were unable to overcome light selling.

Wall Street remained more or less bullish but boardroom customers generally exhibited considerable caution because of the thought that a sizable correction of the lengthy push had yet to be witnessed.

ANSWER: According to an agreement signed recently by U. S. Secretary of State Marshall and UN Secretary-General A.G. Federal, state and local laws of the United States will apply within the New York district which will be interference by U. S. authorities except by agreement of the UN Secretary-General. Under this two-way agreement, diplomatic privileges and immunities are to be granted to high-ranking officials of the UN, but on the other hand, the agreement guarantees that the area will not become a refuge for persons seeking to avoid arrest or legal process by U. S. state, or local authorities.

QUESTION: Is Russia participating in the UN Economic Commission for Europe, and for Asia and the Far East?

ANSWER: Yes, Russia's representatives are now at Geneva, where the UN Economic Commission is meeting, and are attending meetings of the committee of the whole of the UN Economic Commission for Asia and the Far East at Lake Success, New York.

QUESTION: Has the Arab segment of Palestine taken part in the UN inquiry?

ANSWER: No, because the Arab Higher Committee in Jerusalem has so far boycotted the hearings of the UN Special Committee on Palestine. It is hoped that they will attend hearings, however, before the Committee leaves Palestine.

BROADWAY
by JACK O'BRIAN

New York—Most publicized saloon in New York, Toots Shor's, is getting cinematic recognition from Toots' buddy of less successful days, Mark Hellinger, who is shooting several scenes in his new film "Baked City," outside the fancy premises.

Incidentally, Mark got the title of the movie from a book by Arthur Fellis, better known to newspaper editors and his photographic fans as "Weegee." His name comes from the fact that he is considered so lucky in being right on the scene as newsworthy picture stories that he has been good naturedly accused of driving a "car with one hand on a O.J. Board."

Weegee indeed seems to have some telepathic ability to be calmly driving within a shop hop of any given catastrophe, although his reputation for sensational photography naturally now has assumed ridiculously impossible proportions. But Weegee assuredly is a "character," as was quickly discernible to me when I first became a New York police reporter back in the thirties.

My first night at police headquarters downtown was an impressive event in my journalistic history. The place itself is colorful and full of suggestions of pent-up action, the spoke around which the city's thousands of cops revolve in their daily battle against crime. These days reporters covering the place have a modern, almost luxurious place in which to do their news digging, a nice little red brick building with a colonial doorway, a distant cry indeed from the dirty hole-in-the-wall tenement offices which used to suffice.

That first midnight as I reported for the "lobster trick," I was taken in hand by a fellow reporter who showed me around, introduced me to the older lads who were tough-looking gods in my youthful imagination. The last one I met that first night was Weegee.

Weegee lived in a single room in one of the tenements—still does, in fact—where he slept by day and kept his extra plates for the single Spread Graphic he used in that period of less spectacular success.

Having known a little of the Weegee legend from other reporters and photographers, I should have been prepared for our first meeting, but I wasn't.

Weegee sat on a box, an amiable, fat little man with a big fat cigar sticking out of his face, not unlike some of the unposed, starkly beautiful pictures he has shot in his nights of prowling the city. He sat there a full minute at least, until I began to squirm uneasily as he glared piercingly right into my eyes. Finally he took his cigar out of his face, cleared his throat impressively and asked in a tone of rhetoric which permitted no answer other than awed agreement:

"You know, of course, that I'm a recognized genius?"
