WILL COMPLETE MURRAY-BENTON-PADUCAH ROAD NOV. 5-6

Good Roads Enthusiasts Anxious to Finish Work Commenced Oct. 15 and 16

With hardly a single exception every man who labored Oct. 15th and 16th to build the Calloway section of the Murray-Benton-Paducah gravel road is anxious and willing to donate an additional two days for the completion of the road in this county.

Any undertaking half finished is a half failure, and the good roads enthusiasts who labored to build this road are only waiting opportunity to complete the work. Nov. 5th and 6th have been selected by the Calloway county Executive Committee as the dates for completing the work. Every man who donated labor and teams before is urged to be on hand Nov. 5th and 6th. The foremen selected before are urged to again assume charge of their respective divisions and make every endeavor to secure as much additional labor as possible. Hundreds who did not give anything before have expressed a willing to assist in finishing the road. The citizens of the lower sections of the road MUST come forward with as much assistance this time as possible. Come to the work early and come prepared to work. See that your harness and equipment is prepared to pull wagon or scraper either, and bring every gravel bed and scraper possible to be had.

Those who have subscribed money toward the road are notified to be ready to pay to the treasurer the amount when he calls for it within the next week. The treasurer is a business man and cannot make two or three trips to see you. A statement showing every dollar collected and how it was expended will be published as soon after the money is collected and used as possible. There will be no graft and every dollar spent MUST purchase a dollar's worth of labor.

Keep the dates, Nov. 5th and 6th, in mind. Come help finish the work.

A Marvelous Escape.

"My little boy had a marvelous escape," writes F. F. Eastman, of Prince Albert, Cape of Good Hope. "It occurred in the middle of the night. He got a very severe attack of cramp. As luck would have it I had a large bottle of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in the house. After following the directions for an hour and twenty minutes he was through all danger." Sold by Dale & Stubblefield.

Promise of Relief From San Jose Scale

For a number of years the destruction and threats of destruction by this imported pest have hung like a pall over the fruit growing and nursery business of this country, discouraging and thwarting, increasing expense and reducing profits until the very name of San Jose scale has become a sort of nightmare to the men who produce fruit for the market. In spite of all that has been done to prevent, this scale has spread steadily, and has now completely occupied about all of the best fruit growing territory of the United States. Fruit growers have never had to deal with a pest so day tight.

difficult to suppress and so generally and constantly destructive to all deciduous tree fruits since fruit growing became a business in America.

A beam of light is thrown on this somewhat gloomy situation by the appearance recently of small insect parasites that bid fair to check the injuries of San Jose scale and to render the work of keeping orchards and nurseries in good condition much less difficult. These parasites have been reared during the past summer in numbers in the Division of Entomology and Botany of the Kentucky Experiment Station at Lexington. This new friend is a mere yellow speck, hardly recognizable as an insect except by its movements, yet is a highly organized, four winged fly, belonging to the same group of insects as the honey bee. Its young, a small white grub, lives within the bodies of the scale insect, and numbers of the scales from trees about Lexington, Barbourville, Pineville and elsewhere in Eastern Kentucky, may be seen to have a round hole in the back through which the mature parasite has emerged. Trees recently thickly covered with scale and apparently doomed, have shown a decided relief from the injury this season as a result of the beneficent work of these small flies.

At the request of the Illinois State Entomologist a package of the parasites has just been sent to that state with a view to establishing the parasite there. Eventually it is hoped it can be made to occupy all of the region invaded by the scale. Several other enemies of the scale are under observation at the station, the grub of a small black lady beetle, having done on some trees as good work in reducing the scale as its minute associate. An effort will be made later to distribute these insects to sections of the state where they are not now present.

Chronic Dyspepsia.

The following unsolicited testimonial should certainly be sufficient to give hope and courage to persons afflicted with chronic dyspepsia: "I have been a chronic dyspeptic for years, and of all the medicine I have taken, Chamberlain's Tablets have done me more good than anything else," says W. G. Mattison, No. 7 Sherman St., Hornellsville, N. Y. For sale by Dale & Stubblefield.

PENSION PLAN

Kentuckian Proposes Giving $60,000,000 Cotton Tax Fund to Confederates.

Washington, Oct. 21.—Members of Congress have received letters from Gen. Bennett H. Young, of Louisville, Commander-in-chief of the United Confederate Veterans, proposing a means of disposing of the $60,000,000 collected by the Federal Government as a direct tax upon cotton following the Civil War. This tax the Supreme Court has declared illegal, and the fund is now in the treasury.

Gen. Young asks members of the House and Senate to appropriate this fund among the several Southern States for use in pensioning Confederate soldiers and their widows. He thinks this would be an equitable and generous way of returning to the people of the South money unlawfully taken from them by the Government.

The sum accrued from a levy upon individual cotton growers of the South and was regarded at the time as a matter of punishment as well as a means of forcing the South to pay a share of the cost of the war. The Supreme Court held the tax to be unconstitutional, but it was not suspended until $60,000,000 had accumulated from it.

Gen. Young points out in his letter that most of the original tax receipts given the cotton owners have been lost or destroyed, therefore it is impossible to return the money direct to its owners.

Wilcox—White.

An event of much local interest was the wedding of Miss Grace White and Mr. Herbert Wilcox, which took place at the famous "Chestnut tree" on the Tennessee side about 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Eld. Carroll Ray said the ceremony which united the contracting parties in the presence of only a few witnesses.

The bride is a daughter of John White, the mill man, and is a young lady of much charm. The groom is an employee of the N. C. & St. L. railroad as mail clerk, with a run from Paducah to Memphis. Both are very popular with a large circle of friends who wish them all the joys of life. —Hazel News.

G. W. Houston Passes Away.

He was one of the most widely known citizens of the county and a minister of the Christian church and was about 60 years of age. He is survived by many relatives and friends, Rev. Houston, of this city, being a brother. The burial took place Saturday in the Hicks grave yard.

FIRST SNOW

Earliest Fall of the "Beautiful" Reported in Calloway County for Many Years.

Winter made a bold attempt to begin its annual activities in Calloway county last Monday, considerably ahead of the regular calendar schedule. As the result of the premature obtrusion many people were caught unprepared and consequently keenly felt the effects of the sudden change.

Murray people were afforded the rare opportunity of seeing snow during the month of October. Not for many years has snow fallen during October, and those of superstitious inclinations were prone to predict that there would be sixty-five more snows before the winter season is over, basing their claims on the old superstition that there will be as many snows during the winter as there are days intervening between the time of the first snow until Christmas day.

A fine, drizzling rain, coupled with a chilly, wintry wind, made Sunday decidedly disagreeable. Rain, which started early in the morning, continued incessantly throughout the day and until late at night. The real change in the temperature came early Monday, and throughout the entire day the thermometers hovered a few degrees above the freezing point. A misty rain, which at times changed to snow, suggested the approach of winter.

The spow fell early Monday morning and during the day covered the ground to a depth of two or three inches. Several of Calloway's farmers sustained quite heavy losses. Many crops of tobacco were destroyed and late feed stuff seriously damaged.

Farmington.

While we were all in the land of slumber Sunday night, Mother Goose came down and spread her beautiful wings and left us a bed of her snowy white down. No doubt this was the first snow we younger people ever witnessed in October.

THE PARIS ROAD

Promoters of Endeavor to Gravel the Paris Road are Meeting With Encouragement.

Additional labor and teams are being donated toward the project to gravel the Paris road next Wednesday and Thursday, and the promoters of the scheme are daily meeting with additional encouragement. This endeavor should meet with the hearty approval of every lover of good roads and every citizen should lend substantial assistance to the enterprise.

Following is the list of the added labor subscribed on this road since the last issue of the Ledger:

The Ledger wants to suggest to those who have donated labor and teams toward this enterprise, and all similar undertakings, that it is very essential that you come prepared to work, and that you come early and that you work after you do come. Take your gravel frame for the wagon; your "pond slip"; your shovel; your pick; see that your team is prepared to either pull wagon or slip; don't go and expect someone to "rear you up" for work after you get there, and when you get there go to work and WORK. "Poking around" on the hill sides never built a road, and you are worth more at home than sitting around "bussing." Stay away from the work unless you intend to WORK.

Almo-Dexter Road.

The citizens of the Almo-Dexter section of the county are making endeavor to build and gravel a road from Almo to Dexter and Hardin, and have fixed the dates for 24th and 25th of this month. This is a greatly needed highway and every enterprising citizen of these sections of the county should be on hand promptly and make every endeavor to complete the work within the prescribed time. The Ledger would make the same suggestion to laborers on this road that it does to those who have expressed a willingness to assist in other similar undertakings. Get on the work early and "stay with it" till night. Work, don't play, and the road can be built. The Ledger is assured that work will be continued on this road until it is completed and made one of the best in the county.

Mexico City.—That the crisis in the relations between Mexico and the United States, which was almost reached Wednesday, is only temporarily delayed is the general feeling here among Mexicans and foreigners. When and how the next development will be reached is a question agitating all alike.

While the American charge, Nelson O'Sullivan, professes to expect that whatever to the Washington memorandum, and the foreign office says there will be none for the time being, it is still regarded as certain that the nature of the American government's notification regarding future recognition will depend on the part of the Mexican authorities.

VARDAMAN STANDS BY BILL

Predicts Passage by the Middle of November.

Washington.—Senator James K. Vardaman of Mississippi said it would be most unwise to jam a currency bill through the senate, but he would not shrink from it to remain in session and enact such legislation as soon as practicable. "Early in the session," said Senator Vardaman, "I thought it would be best to conclude our labors on the tariff, then take a recess until November and return here fresh and ready to work the currency. That was my own theory, and that was what I told the president. A different course, however, was pursued. The currency bill was introduced in the house and was passed and sent to the senate. The country is not only awaiting remedial legislation on the subject, but is insistently demanding it."

LITTLE HOPE TO RESCUE MEN FOLLOWING TERRIFIC EXPLOSION.

CARDIFF, WALES, IS SCENE

500 Are Rescued Soon After Heavy Inundations—Fire Hinders Rescuers. After Damp Also Feared at Universal Colliery.

Cardiff, Wales.—What is feared to be the greatest mine disaster in British history has plunged all of South Wales into mourning.

Out of nearly 1,000 men who went into the coal pits of the Universal Colliery at Senghnyd, Glamorganshire, Tuesday morning, 434 have not been accounted for, and hopes that they are still alive have been almost abandoned.

There was a terrific explosion soon after the men had gone to their work and immediately afterwards fire was discovered in the underground passages.

Four hundred and eighty-nine men were brought from the pits alive and up to midnight 12 dead bodies had been recovered. At midnight the announcement was made by the mine authorities that the fire was under control, but that it would not be safe to explore the depths of the pits.

The miners that have failed to come to the surface are supposed to have been entombed in the passages, which are utterly unapproachable, because nearly every passage of the pits. There is fully a mile of these underground passages and it will be days after the fire is finally extinguished before it will be possible to clear them. Only then will it be possible to determine where the entombed men lost their lives.

No sooner had the explosion shaken the mine than men began to pour from the mouth of the pits. Some were severely injured by falling rock and others were so frightened that they could make no account of what had happened.

SULZER VERDICT RETARDED

Indefinitely Long Delay Possible in Impeachment Trial.

Albany, N. Y.—The possibility of an indefinitely long delay in reaching a verdict as to the guilt or innocence of Gov. William Sulzer loomed up at his impeachment trial Tuesday. This was suggested when counsel for the impeachment asked that the court recommend to the assembly the bringing of a new article of impeachment in the event the testimony of Herman W. Peck, superintendent of public works, and Henry L. Morganthau, ambassador to Turkey, should be found not to be relevant to any charge contained in the present articles.

TRIAL OF PIPE LINE CASES

Supreme Court Takes the Case From Commerce Court.

The government contends that it has a right, as provided in this amendment, to require all oil-carrying pipe lines engaged in interstate commerce to act as common carriers. The commerce court held that it did not and declared the law unconstitutional.

NEW YORK HAS NEW GOVERNOR

IMPEACHMENT COURT REMOVES N. Y. EXECUTIVE 43 TO 12.

SULZER DENOUNCES TRIAL

Court Votes Unanimously Not to Bar Deposed Executive From Office. Gov. Glynn Promises to Eschew Partisan Politics.

Albany, N. Y.—William Sulzer, deposed governor of the state of New York at noon Friday, was removed from office by the high court of impeachment by a vote of 43 to 12, two members not voting.

Martin H. Glynn, lieutenant governor, was sworn in as his successor, the first in the history of the state to step into his high office in this manner.

The verdict of the court was that Sulzer was guilty of falsification, perjury and an attempt to suppress evidence against him. Of all other charges he was acquitted.

By a virtually unanimous vote, also, the impeachment tribunal decided that Sulzer should not be punished by his qualification to hold office of honor and trust in this state in the future. This would have been the extreme penalty under the law.

The ousted executive was served with a copy of the court's verdict at executive mansion—christened by himself "the people's house"—a few minutes before 6 o'clock Friday night.

"Good, I thank you," he said to the sergeant-at-arms of the senate, who delivered the document.

The incoming governor issued a statement in which he said his endeavor would be to give the people of the state an honest, peaceful, progressive and just conduct of public affairs.

The outgoing executive issued a statement in which he denounced the tribunal which had removed him as "Murphy's high court of infamy."

"Murphy controlled the assembly and ordered the impeachment," he said. "He controlled most of the members of the court and dictated procedure and wrote the judgment. He was the judge and the jury; the prosecutor and the bailiff."

Sulzer declared his trial was a "political lynching as far as the Tammany hall part of the court was concerned." The confirmation of a legal political conspiracy to oust me from office.

"A horse thief in frontier days," he said, "would have received a square deal."

AIRMEN KILLED IN GERMANY

Latest Zeppelin Dirigible Explodes, and 28 Lose Lives.

Berlin.—The belief is strong in official circles that the explosion of the official Zeppelin L 11, which caused the huge dirigible to plunge 2,000 feet to the death, killing 28, everyone aboard, was not caused by an accident, but by a bomb dropped from an aeroplane. It is now known that two aeroplanes connected with the aero corps of a foreign army were cruising near the L 11 at the time the explosion occurred.

Kaiser Wilhelm telegraphed from Bonn offering a thorough investigation of the disaster.

CHAPTER I.

Certain Notable Details in Genesis.

One John Rawn is to be the hero of this pleasing tale; no ordinary hero, as you might learn did you make inquiry of himself.

John Rawn was born in Texas- and of Texas at the very spot where, had it been left to his own candid opinion, no John Rawn, no especial hero, ought ever to have been born. The village he honored by his birth- one of seven which now contend over that claim to fame- was the very home of democratic equality; and how could the home of democratic equality be called typical environment for the production of a man believing in the divine right of a very few?

Neither, had John Rawn been consulted in the matter, would he have endorsed the plans of fate in respect to his ancestry any more than he did the workings of the misguided stars in regard to his environment. By right he should have been the offspring of parents for long generations accustomed to rule, to command, to sway the destinies of others. Yet far from this was the truth in our hero's case.

It was rarely that over a smile enlivened the somewhat heavy features of young John Rawn, even in the earliest stages of his babyhood. Rarely did the mirth of any situation bring up his face an answering dawn of appreciation. He was a serious child, as all admitted even from the first. He grew to be a grave boy, a solemn youth.

Curious persons might have found certain explanations for these traits in the calling, the temper and training of the father of John Rawn. In that time and place, a minister of the gospel was a man of whom all stood in awe. He was not much glib, not much without, not much disapproved. His conclusions were announced for acceptance, not for argument.

It is not known, nor is it important, whence Mrs. Rawn came, or how she happened to marry her lord, John Rawn, Senior, the Methodist preacher in the little Texas town. They were married when they arrived at this place, and had been for some years. John was the first child granted to them as answer to his father's grumbling; the latter, very nobly and righteously, deploring what calamity the world must suffer did none come to perpetuate the race.

These necessary and essential preliminaries now all stand adjusted; and we are able finally to say that John Rawn at last and at last was born, silently, quietly, with small rebellion on the part of his mother. He lay there in his cradle, silent, a little red, a slight frown upon his face, a trace of gravity in his features as he viewed an introspective look within the confines of his couch, and for the first time discovered that wholly interesting, remarkable, indeed wonderful human being, himself.

Having assured himself that he was here, John Rawn sighed, turned over in his cradle, and presently fell asleep, well assured that, although he had selected Texas for this event, God after all was in his heaven, and that, in the circumstance, all in due time would be well with the world. Could any hero of his years have acted with a finer, a larger generosity?

In his younger school days there was a way about young Mr. Rawn. He did not need much care for plodding, yet he was aggrieved if not accorded rank among his fellow pupils.

Even in these early days his features were in large mold, even then his abundant hair fell across his brow. His eyes were blue and prominent, his nose distinct, his lower lip prominent, protruding and in times of great emotion semipendulous. Even thus early he seemed old, serious, foreboding.

March of this might have been remedied by kindly application of educational or parental rod, but young Mr. Rawn remained largely unchastened. His parents did not care to punish him; and his teacher did not dare to do so. Was he not the minister's son? If his mother had misgivings they were well concealed. She herself only shuddered in her soul when she heard the loud voice of the master of the house explain, in contemplation of his first born, "How much he is like me!" Yes, he was like. His mother knew how like.

At that time and in that part of the country, this little western village might have been called almost a little world of itself. Estimates of men and affairs were such only as might grow out of the soil. The great world beyond was a thing but vaguely sensed of any who dwelt here.

The family was its own world. In large part it tilted its own wheels and ran its own factories. Mrs. Rawn guided the candles which made the bedroom lights and those by which she sewed- though not that by which her husband read and wrote- in a little in the back yard at buttering time, when such came the parson's wife. She made her husband's long coats, built up there upon some prehistoric pattern. She made, mended and washed his shirts, hemmed his socks and lined his socks for him.

Using the outdoor ministerial cloth in turn, she made also, in due time, the garments of the son and heir, even building for him a cap, with ear-lap-lets, for winter use. Her own garments might have been seen by the most casual eye to have been the product of her own hands.

A certain interest attaches to a little event which nowhere else, save in some such village, would have been noted or could have been possible. The leading local merchant, in a burst of enterprise, had imported a couple of clusters of bananas from New Orleans, the first ever brought into the town. For a time none of the citizens purchased, and, indeed, it required the grudging gift of a banana or so to establish a local demand. Then- built on the assurance of a wife and much-traveled citizen who had once eaten a banana at Port Worth- the rumor of the bananas passed rapidly through the town. Swiftly it became an important thing to announce to a neighbor that one had eaten of this fruit.

At this time young Mr. Rawn was six years of age, and by reason of his years and his social position at least as much entitled to bananas as any of his like thereabout. Yet, he had none. The tragedy of this wrong his mother's soul. Was it to be thought that this, her son, should be denied any of the good things of life, that he should have less than equal enjoyment of life's privileges in the company of his fellows? The climax came when young Mr. Rawn himself approached his mother's knee, with wonder and surprise upon his face, inquiring why others had bananas, while he himself, the Lord's anointed, and son of the

Lord's anointed, and son of the

Leaned Again Toward Her, Insistent. Frowning, Imperious.

Lord's anointed, had none. It was at that time that his mother somewhat furtively stole away down the village street.

It was at about this same time, also, that there chanced to pass by, on the sidewalk in front of the parsonage, two boys younger than John Rawn himself. These he regarded intensely for he saw from a distance that each had some suspicious object in his hand. His own suspicions became certain. Here was visible proof that they, mere common persons, were owners of specimens of that fruit of excellence was rumored throughout the town. They ate, or were about to eat, while he did not. They had luxuries while he had none! They had not asked his permission well in your mind, oh, gentle reader. It is that of John Rawn and ourselves.

With great gravity and dignity young Mr. Rawn stalked down the brick walk to the front gate of the parsonage yard. Calmly, with no word but with uplifted hand- nay, merely by his stately dignity- he barred the progress of these two. They paused, uncertain. Then he held out his hand, and, with a growl of command, demanded of these others that which they had regarded as their own. He took it as a matter of course that Caesar should have the things that were Caesar's; and they who give tribute to our Caesars now, gave it then.

Having possession of these bananas, which as yet remained unbroken of their owners, young Mr. Rawn showed them that, although these fruits were made no enigma to a person of his powers. As though he had done nothing else all his life, he broke open the tender skin and removed the soft interior contents. After this he handed back to each of his young friends the disrupted and now empty skins. Yet, with much kindness, he explained to both that at the bottom of each husk or envelope there still remained a portion of edible contents which, with care upon their part, might yet be rescued. They departed, wondering somewhat, but glad they had been shown how the thing was done, even as you and I mightily thank our great men for nothing us today.

Young Mr. Rawn, as six, turned now with much dignity back to the gallery from which he had with much stightly come. He seated himself calmly upon the chair and began to eat that which had been given him of late, that which had been brought to Caesar as a thing due to Caesar. He ate until at last, wearied with his labor, he fell asleep.

Note now our humble moral in this short and simple detail of our hero's early years. He was at this moment more nearly full of bananas than any other human being in all the village at that time. Yet he had attained the success at no price save that of the exercise of the resources of his mind. That is genius. Let us not smile at young Mr. Rawn.

His mother, stealing home by the back way with yet other bananas concealed in her apron, presently came upon him and discovered that, after all, her solitude had not been needful. Her son slept, his lower lip protruding, his features grave, his legs somewhat sprawled apart, his mid-body somewhat distended, his head slumped forward, his hands drooping at his side. In one hand, clutched so tightly as to have become a somewhat worthless pulp, his mother discovered the bulk of several bananas. In short, the full quota which had been assigned to two of his fellow-beings. It was genius!

His mother looked upon him as he slept- sprawled in his reptilian and made no attempt to remove the banana- and, indeed, it required the grudging gift of a banana or so to establish a local demand. Then- built on the assurance of a wife and much-traveled citizen who had once eaten a banana at Port Worth- the rumor of the bananas passed rapidly through the town. Young Mr. Rawn, as six, turned now with much dignity back to the gallery from which he had with much

He was a solemn man in his home, or at least for the most part silent. He ate all the breakfast there was on the table, when there was but enough for one, which later often was the case, for his wife had need to be frugal. At times he would purchase a solitary ticket to the theater and go alone. Yet he was generous, and always after his return home he would with fine feeling tell his wife what he had seen.

After the birth of Grace Rawn, their daughter, which occurred within the first year of their wedded life, Laura Rawn had something to interest her for the remainder of their days. Her horizon widened now immeasurably; indeed to the extent of giving her a world of her own wherein she could dwell apart quite comfortably; one in which her husband had no part. Simple and just in her way of thought, she accepted the truth that without married life, without her husband, this new world could not have been her own.

As to the child herself, she grew steadily and happily into young girlhood. In time into young womanhood, not given to much display, reserved of judgment as well as of speech, of times sullen in mood, yet without a step or so higher than her mother on the ladder of feminine charm. She had a clean, good family rearing, and a good grammar school education. At about the time her father came to be a man of middle age, Grace fell into her place in the clerical machine of the railway office where he worked; for very naturally, being an American girl of small means, she took up shorthand, and was licensed to do so.

The head of this family, as he attained additional solidity of figure, grew even heavier of brow; trod with even more statelyness about his appointed duties. At forty-seven years of age his salary was but one hundred and twenty-five dollars a month. That showed only the lack of wisdom of others, not unfitness in himself.

And yet all this time success was lying in ambush; as it sometimes does, ready to spring forth at the appointed hour.

It was this, focused suddenly and unexpectedly by the lens of accident into a burning point of certainty, which marked the air and attitude of John Rawn one evening on his return to his home at the conclusion of his day's work.

"Laura," said he, "Laura, it's come! I've got the idea. It's going to win. We're going to be rich. I've believed it all along, and I know it now! Laura, look at me- didn't I tell you so- didn't I know?"

For some time Mrs. Rawn said nothing in answer to her husband's declaration. She had known such things before.

But today there was something so sincere in his air as to take her beyond her own forced insincerity with herself.

"What is it, John?" she demanded. "You can't understand it," Laura; but listen. Give the people something they haven't had; get them so they have to have it. We can't go fast enough. But we're going faster. We'll go twice as fast.

"That's my business. That's my invention. That's how I'm going to get rich."

"Laura, I'm going to make it possible to gear up our national life, to double its present speed," he went on sagaciously.

She leaned back in her chair, sighing. "Do you think I could have a silk dress, John?" she said at length, her mind overleaping vast intermediate details.

"My God, woman!" she said, trying to rise to the pitch of such ambition, but succeeded only in remaining commonplace. "How did you come across it, John?" she asked after a moment.

"The truth is, I picked it up from a word or so I heard in a chance conversation- two young fellows from the engineering department were talking something over. That young chap named Halsey, just out of some college, full of fads, you know."

"I thought you said this was your own idea."

"It is my own. What is thrown away deliberately, and picked up- is genius. If I see the value of it, young Halsey didn't know. He's just a visionary."

"Halsey- Charles Halsey of the office? He's been here- I think Grace you are the person in the office where she works, is just across the hall from the Engineering-"

"Well, it's no difference. I'm going to take care of the affair myself."

"Of course- almost everybody likes chickens. I mean to say, do you like it better than anything else in the world? Do you like it so well that you would steal it if you couldn't obtain it honestly?"

"Boss, I like chicken so well that I couldn't get it no other way, I'd buy it!"- Cleveland Plain Dealer.

A Quaker Oath. Two small boys in a family of Friends, writes a contributor, had a disagreement, during which the older boy became very much incensed. Finally, no longer able to control himself, he took his brother by the shoulder and shook him, with the exclamation, "Oh, thee little you, thee!" Then as the enormity of his offense overcame him, he said, in a changed voice, "Don't tell mother I swore." Youth's Companion.

GERMAN WARSHIP SENT TO MEXICO

SEEMS TO INDICATE THAT POWERS DISPLEASED WITH HUERTA.

Strong Representations Made by the United States Concerning Safety of Lawmakers Whom Huerta Threw Into Prison.

Washington- Germany's decision to dispatch a warship to Mexican waters attracted wide attention in official circles here. No intimation had been received here of Germany's intention, and President Wilson was informed only by press dispatches of the action.

No formal comment was made on the incident, but it was apparent that the Washington government was not displeased. The sending of a German warship is in line with the policy of other European governments, which had vessels cruising off the Mexican coasts from time to time during critical moments of Mexico's internal strife.

Significance was attached to the action by official Washington, however, because it was accepted as indicating that European powers who previously had recognized the Huerta government, among which was Germany and Great Britain, now saw evidence of Huerta's inability to compose the situation.

Latest advices to Washington are to the effect that the British government is deeply concerned over its recognition of Huerta, and it is even declared reliably that King George and Queen Mary have taken a personal interest in the situation with a view to measures that would support the policy of the United States.

Strong representations went forth from the United States to the Mexican federal authorities, calling on Gen. Huerta to protect the lives of the imprisoned legislators. It was pointed out that this action was taken not because the United States has any desire to interfere in the internal affairs of the southern republic, but in the cause of humanity.

Washington- Representative Richmond Pearson Hobson of Alabama and his colleague, Majority Leader Underwood, engaged in a bitter debate on the floor of the house over the senatorial contest in their state in which they are rival candidates. The oratorical duel was precipitated by Mr. Hobson reiterating utterances he made last week in a speech at Wetumpka, Ala., intimating that Mr. Underwood was the tool of Wall Street and the liquor interests, and charging that he had gained Alabama's support in the last presidential campaign under false pretenses. In his reply Underwood roasted Hobson unmercifully.

MOTHER! LOOK AT CHILD'S TONGUE

If cross, feverish, constipated, give "California Syrup of Figs"

A laxative today saves a sick child tomorrow. Children simply will not take the time from play to empty their bowels, which become clogged up with waste, liver gets sluggish; stomach sour.

Look at the tongue, mother! If coated, or your child is listless, cross, feverish, breath bad, restless, doesn't eat heartily, full of cold or has sore throat or any other children's ailment, give a teaspoonful of "California Syrup of Figs," then don't worry, because it is perfectly harmless, and in a few hours all this constipation, poison, sour bile and fermenting waste will gently move out of the bowels, and you have a well, playful child again. A thorough "inside cleansing" is often all that is necessary. It should be the first treatment given in any sickness. Beware of counterfeit fig syrups. Ask at the store for a 50-cent bottle of "California Syrup of Figs," which has full directions for babies, children of all ages and for grown-ups plainly printed on the bottle. Adv.

SKIN TROUBLE, ITCHED BADLY

Glenns P. O. Va- "My baby's trouble began with an itching and then a little bump would come and she could not rest day or night. The trouble affected her whole body. The bumps festered and came to a head matter, kind of a yellow color. The sores itched so badly until it seemed to me she would scratch herself to pieces and then a sore would form and her clothing would stick to her body and pull off the little scab. In some places she would scratch and irritate the sores until they seemed to be large. She was affected about a year.

I wrote for a sample of Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I bathed her body in warm water and Cuticura Soap and then I applied the Cuticura Ointment, and they afforded relief after twice using. I bought some more Cuticura Soap and Ointment and in side of two weeks she was cured." (Signed) Mrs. J. R. Gregg, Nov. 21, 1912.

ROAD BUILDING IN CALLOWAY.

The fact that the undertaking by popular subscriptions of labor, teams and money to grade and gravel a public road from Murray to old Wadesboro was a pronounced success has caused the general public throughout Calloway county to take similar steps looking toward the improvement of numerous highways in different sections of the county. This is fruit of the seed sown in the original undertaking, and it is with a degree of personal pride that the Ledger notes these facts. The original project is not yet completed, but it is the intention of the committee in charge of the work to complete every mile of the ten miles of highway between Murray and Wadesboro before it is possible to engage in any other improvement of similar character. The Ledger is glad, however, to note that other citizens are going right along with the work of raising funds and labor to improve other roads, and any assistance that can be granted by this paper is at the command of the promoters of any highway in the county. Answering for the committee in charge of the original undertaking the Ledger can state, that while the duties involved are arduous, involving much time and worry, it is willing to do anything in its power and authority to begin another similar undertaking as quickly as the original one is completed. This committee does not believe it would be successful in its purpose to begin any task and fail to complete that task, and at the same time burden itself with added labor of like proportions.

The funds raised by taxation in Calloway county will not maintain our bridges and build our roads, and to enable us to have improved highways other means must be resorted to and the idea of building roads by private means as incorporated in the original idea of building the first road appeals to us as being the most feasible plan suggested at this time. Every citizen should encourage the idea, and not only lend encouragement but material assistance. Calloway needs better roads and the present plan should be followed out in every section.

Interest is being aroused in the coming city election and quite a great deal can be heard on the streets regarding the probable result of the election of a city judge. Three candidates are aspiring to the place, John Schneider, the democratic nominee of the August primary; Judge Simpson, independent; Judge Patterson, progressive. The candidates are aggressive and their friends are busy in their behalf.

A constitutional amendment is to be submitted to the voters of the state at the coming November election providing for the working of the state convicts upon the public highways. The only opposition the Ledger notices comes from the grafters who are exploiting the convicts for personal gain and a few tools in their hands. The Ledger hopes that every Calloway citizen will cast his vote for the amendment.

Any undertaking well begun is half finished. The Murray-Benton Paducah gravel road is to be finished November 5th and 6th.

It is hoped that Calloway citizens will never give up the fight for better highways until after every road is graded and graveled. The move for the material advancement of the county and its citizenship is deserving of the support of every progressive citizen.

After you go out and cast your vote next Tuesday week don't forget to get your pick and shovel ready to complete the Murray-Benton-Paducah gravel road. You owe it to the county to assist in the work upon these dates.

Calloway, Marshall and McCracken counties started a wave over the state for better roads that is sweeping everything before it like old fashioned rumps in a neighborhood.

Mrs. Pankhurst, of England, has come to America to teach us how to be successful anarchists.

TAX LAWS IN KY. CAUSES EVASION

Present Unsatisfactory Laws Responsible for Small Returns

Retard Development and Lower Standard of Integrity—Efforts To Secure a Better System of Taxation Has Been Persistent for Fifteen Years.

Frankfort, Ky.—(Special)—The efforts to secure a better system of taxation for Kentucky have been persistent for fifteen years but owing to the ironclad restrictions in the state constitution it is exceedingly difficult to secure any change.

Tax commissions have repeatedly been appointed by authority of the legislature and these commissions have unanimously condemned the general property tax which was adopted by the last constitutional convention and as the law is constitutional it has been impossible for the legislature alone to repeal it.

However, the last general assembly undertook to amend the constitution as provided by law and this amendment will have to be ratified by the people at the November election and if it fails to carry it cannot be voted on again for another five years.

The effect of the present law is to drive people and money from the state and to prevent other people and money from coming in and building up our industries.

This is how the general property tax is regarded by outsiders as indicated in a report of a commission appointed in another state and it applies in all respects to our present tax system.

"The personal property tax is a farce. It falls inevitably upon the comparatively few who are caught. The burden it imposes upon production is out of all proportion to the revenue it produces."

Year after year state and local assessing boards have denounced it as impracticable in its workings and unjust in its results. These recommendations have for the most part passed unheeded or have led to ineffectual attempts to bolster up the law. It is time the situation was faced squarely, and the tax in its present form abolished.

"So far as the personal property tax attempts to reach intangible forms of wealth, its administration is so complicated as to have become a byword."

"Such a method of collecting revenue would be a serious menace to democratic institutions were it not so generally recognized as a howling farce."

"But it is not a farce to those who are fully assessed. These are chiefly the widows and orphans who are caught when their property is listed in the probate court, farmers, retail merchants and others, incorporated or unincorporated, with stocks of goods, and the small investors who are not skillful enough to make nontaxable investments."

The state referred to has changed its tax system and already the receipts from taxation have increased enormously and the peculiar effect of it has been to lower the taxes on lands and improvements by securing a greater revenue from personal property which had formerly produced little or no returns.

Kentucky must increase its revenues to keep up its schools and public institutions and it would be manifestly unfair to make the property at present paying taxes sustain this added burden, but under the present law there is no other recourse.

If the amendment carries and the legislature is empowered to classify property so as to bring under the assessor's scrutiny the vast amount of personal property now escaping taxation, the revenues can be increased and taxes on lands and houses diminished and what is more important than all else will be able to develop our resources, maintain our population and attract capital and people who will help to build up the state.

Ohio has recently changed its tax laws and has already been benefited and Tennessee is about to renounce the general property tax. Other states have either long since abolished it or are preparing to do so.

The present system in Kentucky was popular when the country was young and wealth largely confined to real estate which could not be hidden.

Wealth is now largely in personal securities which the assessor can not locate and in consequence this class of property escapes entirely.

Can we afford to neglect this great question and yet hope to compete with neighboring states which are less favored than ours naturally but have the advantage of cheap money and low taxes?

If the amendment fails to carry the next census will show that Kentucky has moved down another peg or so in its standing among the states and is at present paying taxes will insistently have to pay more on the property while others will escape by hiding their personal property from the assessors.

THE TRUTH about PAINT

The value of paint can only be measured by the length of satisfactory service it gives. A building painted with Keg Lead and Oil Hand-mixed Paint or ordinary ready-mixed paint never looks well, and the results from this class of paint are never satisfactory. In a short while your property will look as if it had not been painted for years. To use cheap paint is a waste of both paint and labor. Don't waste your money on unknown, untested brands.

Remember, painting is an investment, not an expense—therefore use the paint that stood the test of time—

ANNOUNCEMENT

The Ledger is authorized to announce S. P. SIMMONS as an independent candidate for re-election to the office of Police Judge of Murray. Election November, 1913.

"Where Were Giants in Those Days?"

This expression of the Holy Scriptures (Genesis 6:3) which to many scholars of the day has seemed rather far fetched and on the order of "fairy tales" or legends of the "Arabian Nights" is beginning to find confirmation as close investigations are made of the astonishing ruins of Egypt, that country of mysteries in the land of the "Dark Continent."

That "Truth is stranger than fiction" must be conceded by those who will read the following description furnished by the historian: "A few miles to the north of Dendera, the view opens upon a scene to which the world presents nothing parallel—an extensive plain, covered throughout its whole extent with the most amazing ruins. This is the site of Thebes—the city of the hundred gates, that mighty capital, the foundation of which is unknown in history, and belongs only to the dim ages of traditional poetry, whose report would have been deemed wholly fabulous, and not such mighty monuments proved that it fell short of the reality. This work of the first age of the world almost eclipses, as to grandeur, all that art and power have since produced. At first the observer sees only a confusion of portals, obelisks and columns, all of gigantic size, towering above the palm trees. Gradually he is able to distinguish, on the eastern Arabian side of the ruins, the palaces of Karnak and Luxor; on the western or Libyan side, the Memnonium, and the tombs cut in the mountains behind."

"Karnak surpasses in grandeur every other structure in Thebes and in the world. The French engineers on horseback were an hour and a half in performing its circuit. All who visit this scene describe the impression made by it as almost superior to that caused by any other earthly object. According to Denon, the whole French army, on coming in sight of it, stood still, struck as it were, with an electric shock. The scene, according to Jollois and Devilliers, appears to be rather the product of an imagination surrounding itself with images of fantastic grandeur, than anything belonging to real existence. Belzoni, in particular, declare that the most sublime idea which can be formed from the most magnificent specimens of our present architecture, would give a very inadequate picture of these ruins. It appeared to him that he was entering a city of giants."

Doubtless, these ruins are the remains of the palaces and temples erected by the antediluvians—the giant offspring of the fallen angels—the "sons of God" who took unto them wives of the daughters of men. (Verse 2) —The Wandering Jew.

Pushing Construction of Sewerage.

The work of excavating and laying mains for the sewerage system is progressing rapidly and the superintendent of construction expects to be able to complete the system before Christmas. It behooves the city authorities to give careful attention to the filling of the excavations that the condition of the streets be maintained in the very best manner possible. At the best the streets will be in a deplorable condition.

Negro Hanged for Assaulting Girl.

Litchfield, Ky., Oct. 2.—A mob of citizens visited the county jail here about 1 o'clock, overpowered the jailer, took Joe Richardson, a negro, from his cell, and hanged him to a tree in the public square. Richardson, who claimed to be from Nashville, was charged with assaulting Ree Goff, eleven years old, as she was on her way to school in the country near here Tuesday morning.

Death of Hannibal Workman.

The El Paso Herald gives the following account of the death of Hannibal Workman, son of Harvey Workman, formerly of this city. Many friends and relatives will learn of his death with genuine sorrow:

Hannibal Workman, age 19, who was well known in the business districts of the city, died Wednesday afternoon at his home in Highland Park. Until recently he sold Heralds on the postoffice corner each afternoon and on Thursdays delivered Saturday Evening Posts to his friends, the business men. Thursday Hannibal was missed by 100 more men downtown, who expected him and his cherry, pinched face as regularly as the fifth day of the week arrived.

It was a brave fight this little business man made against the inevitable. He called his wares cheerfully on the postoffice corner until disease affected his vocal cords, then he hired a husky longed Mexican boy to shout for him. He carried his great bundle of papers from office to office and store to store until his fast-ebbing strength could not support the strain. He hired another Mexican boy and continued to carry his route until he could no longer leave home.

He tried treatments with renewed hope. His faith was absolute and he was the only one who did not realize that he could not grow better. Last week he failed for the first time to cover his beat or send his helper. This week, when the boys were calling "Herald-Saturday Evening Post" on the postoffice corner, busy business men were tenderly carrying the frail little body to its long rest. The gall bearers, were all business and professional men. They were paying a sincere tribute to a boy who was a man.

Hannibal was the son of Harvey Workman, a letter carrier at the postoffice. He died at his home on Aurora street in Highland Park Wednesday afternoon. He had lived here for five years and had become a part of the business life of the city. His friends were merchants, bankers, doctors, lawyers, and newspaper men. The newsboys never encroached on his beat, and they helped him out when he was "stuck" with too many papers, knowing that he would do the same for them. Hannibal was only 19, but he received the perfect tribute from commercial El Paso, for he was sincerely missed.

Letter From H. W. Grogan.

Merkel, Tex., 10-6-'13.

Editor Ledger:

As I promised to write to write to many of my friends and relatives I thought I would write through the Ledger. We left Murray at 3:30 p. m. on Thursday, Nov. 28th, we landed at Detroit, Tex. Nov. 27th, 6:20 p. m. and stayed there until Monday 10:00 a. m. I met many of my old friends and had many glad hand shakes. Found them all well and doing well, except they were having to much rain to pick cotton. They have a fine cotton crop if they can save it, it is worth from 13 to 18 cents per lb. Their corn is light, it is worth 90 cents per bushel.

We left Detroit Monday 10:00 a. m. and landed at Merkel Tuesday morning 4:00 a. m. They are having lots of rain out here, it has rained every day since I got here except two. The rain and wind has damaged cotton pretty badly. The crops here are very short on account of dry weather.

I stood the trip fine and am improving some, I think perhaps the change will help me. Would be proud to receive letters from all who desire to write. Hoping to see you all again some day. My best regards to all. H. W. Grogan.

Roosevelt May Run Again.

Senator William P. Jackson, of Maryland, is authority for the statement that Colonel Roosevelt may be the regular republican nominee for president in 1916. Senator Jackson, who was a prominent Taft man, says the candidacy of the colonel, has been a subject of discussion among regular republican leaders. It is believed that Roosevelt will be willing to make concessions in order to secure the nomination.

I will be at Murray fourth Monday to buy some good fat mare mules, 14 1/2 to 15 1/2 hands high and 4 to 8 years old. Will also buy some 12 to 13 hands high, 4 to 8 years old. Geo. C. Clark.

How Famous Hymn Was Written.

An Tennessee nurse was sitting one day at her bedside, sharing to a degree the general anxiety about the patient, who said to him suddenly: "You have written a great many poems, sir, but I have never heard anybody say that there is a hymn among them all. I wish, sir, you would write a hymn which you would lay on your sickbed. It might help and comfort many a poor sufferer." The next morning, when the nurse had taken her quiet place at the bedside, the poet handed her a scrap of paper, saying: "Here is the hymn you wished me to write."

She took it from his hands with expressions of grateful thanks. It proved to be "Crowning the Bar," the poem that was sung in Westminster Abbey at Tennessee's funeral, and which has touched so many hearts.

SAGE TEA AND SULPHUR DARKENS YOUR GRAY HAIR

Look Years Younger! Try Grandma's Recipe of Sage and Sulphur and Nobody Will Know.

Almost everyone knows that Sage Tea and Sulphur, properly compounded, brings back the natural color and lustre to the hair when faded, streaked or gray; also ends dandruff, itching scalp and stops to get this mixture.

Nowadays we simply ask at any drug store for "Witch's Sage and Sulphur Hair Remedy." You will get a large bottle for about 50 cents. Every body uses this old, famous recipe, because no one can possibly tell that you darkened your hair, as it does it so naturally and evenly. You dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, and after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully dark, thick and glossy and you look years younger.

Obeying Her Doctor. Dibs—Wonder why Richleigh when he puts up at a hotel always takes a single room?

Dibs—His doctor told him he must avoid sultry.

The Reason. "Pop, why do secret society candidates have to ride the goat?"

That's the way they have to butt in.

Great Times. "September is the finest time of year."

"You bet; oysters and watermelon both on the bill of fare."

Every time a girl goes away from home she has a perfectly lovely time.

SLUMS OF EDINBURG

Canyon-Like Streets in the Poorer Quarters.

City is Not Without Beauty—Princess Street Said to Be Most Impressive of Any Thoroughfare in Europe.

Edinburgh—Edinburgh has slums that look and smell the thing they are. There is something not only forbidding, but almost threatening in the canyon-like streets of the poorer quarters, with their huge, grim, tenement-like walls of uncompromising stone and rising high above the sunless streets. One meets on the Old North bridge, which spans the gulf between two high portions of the town, pale-faced women huddled in their shawls, and hearing in their faces the marks of poverty, hard usage and vice. One sees also on that historic bridge, however, many a lovely girl's face, many a daughter of the people such as inspired some of Burns' finest love songs. The land is manifestly full of native vigor, and the commonfolk show the discipline of the struggle that they and their ancestors have long waged with a thin soil, a difficult topography and a climate somewhat inimical to sunlight and warmth.

Edinburgh still deserves its ancient name of Auld Reekie, and between its boldly magnificent topography, its self-generated smoke, its stormy skies, and its frowning and monumental architecture, it has a sort of grandeur hard to match in other and gay cities. Holyrood is surely a plain enough royal residence, but where in any other town is there so nobly and almost insolently dominant a pile as Edinburgh castle. It gives the final touch of something like domesticity to that aloof and highest mass of gloomy architecture to see at night the gleam of lights through a few of its long, slatted windows. Nothing can be finer than the sudden holes of after-sunset brightness that appear in the stormy skies of Edinburgh on summer evenings. These aspects of the sky suggest nothing less majestic than a Miltonic war of the heavenly hosts.

It has been said that Princes street of Edinburgh is the most impressive in Europe, and if any such assertion is to be accepted it owes its truth not so much to the highway itself and its buildings and monuments as to the amazing topography of Edinburgh, some of whose noblest features lend a sort of aerial dignity and splendor to the street. The marvelous view of the castle and its slopes would alone give Princes street the highest distinction, and the castle and its steep constitution only one of several noble eminences within view. The broad gardens, too, are rich and lovely, and there are fine old historic structures along the highway, while the Scott Memorial really does not look like a church engulfed by an earthquake with its steeply still above ground. As a matter of fact the monument, with that amiable and studious seated statue of Sir Walter Scott within, is a dignified and beautiful thing, even though it has to vie with the austere and awful steep crowned with the vast and wandering pile of Edinburgh castle.

HEARSE BREAKS IN DESERT

While Driver Went on Companion Keeps Off Animals With Fire—Until Conveyance Is Repaired.

Salt Lake City.—The motor hearse containing the body of Michael Moran of San Diego, which is being taken overland from San Diego to Salt Lake, stalled in Skull Valley, 30 miles west of here. William A. Peck of Los Angeles, who is driving the hearse, said he was compelled to leave the machine where it stalled. The rough roads broke the springs and tore the tires. The body was left in the care of F. H. Hambley of San Diego, who is accompanying it. Hambley pitched camp beside the hearse, and kept the desert animals away at night with a huge camp fire.

MRS. MANGES ESCAPES OPERATION

How She Was Saved From Surgeon's Knife by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mogadore, Ohio.—"The first two years I was married I suffered so much from female troubles and bearing down pains that I could not stand on my feet long enough to do any work. The doctor said I would have to undergo an operation. My husband wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound first. I took three bottles and it made me well and strong and I avoided a dreadful operation. I now have two fine healthy children, and I cannot say too much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." Mrs. M. MANGES, R. F. D. 10, Mogadore, Ohio.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, irregularities, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

His Threat. "Man overboard!" shouted an excited passenger on an Atlantic liner, as he hastily left his place at the dinner table and scrambled up the companion way.

An frightened crowd of ladies and gentlemen followed him. He was wildly expostulating with the captain on deck when they surrounded him with eager inquiries.

"Where is he? Who is he?" they demanded, and the originator of the scare laid his hand on his breast and said, with melodramatic air:—"Here he is! I am the man overboard."

I have been compelled to sit four days at the same table with three men who can't talk about anything but golf. I want my place changed, or I'll get out and walk."

Oil From Trees. The Chinese wood-oil tree is the subject of a circular by David L. S. Child, recently published by the U. S. bureau of plant industry, the purpose of the publication being to advocate an extensive cultivation of the tree in this country, where it has been grown in a small way since 1806.

The importance of this recommendation is shown by the fact that five million gallons of wood oil (also known as tung oil), made from the seeds of this plant, was imported from China last year, and the product is said to have had a revolutionary effect on the varnish industry of the United States.

Good Scheme. "I think I'll promote a banana plantation."

"Why that in particular?"

"It won't cost much to get a banana every day to show for a sample, and on days when stock sells slow I can eat the sample."

Bronchitis troubles weak the system. Pneumonia sometimes follows. Dean's Mentholated Cough Drops prevent trouble.

His Trade. "Jones is a man of fact. He always manages to put affairs on an easy footing."

"He ought to do so. He makes slip-pers."

FOR MALARIA, CHILLS, FEVER, Colds and La Grippe take Elkar Babek. I have used Elkar Babek for four years for Malaria, and found it all that is claimed for it. Without it I would be obliged to change my residence as I can not take quinine in any of its forms. Elkar Babek 50 cents, all druggists or by Parcel Post prepaid from Kiocewski & Co., Washington, D. C.

Not There. "Dearie, the doctor says I need some change."

"Well, you needn't go looking through my pockets for it."

His Economy. "Why did that old miser kill himself?"

"I suppose he hated to go on spending more breath."

It is better for a girl to be given in marriage than it is for a man to be sold.

And a woman is known by the acquaintance she cuts.

AROSE TO THE EMERGENCY

How Engineer Proved Worthy of His Position When the Occasion Came to Try Him.

The engineer of a Chicago suburban train showed the other day that a cool and experienced head is equal to almost any emergency. A side rod had broken on, and with every revolution of the wheels, was demolishing the cab and the mechanism by which the engine is operated. He was able to shut off the power, but the airbrake control had been destroyed, and the train went dashing on. Having done all that mortal could do with the apparatus that was left intact, he left the cab, climbed over the coal in the tender and swung down on the platform of the first car. There, reaching for the air cord, he brought the train to a stop in a few hundred feet. If he had whistled for brakes the train crew might not have responded in as little time as it took him to do the thing himself.

To Clean Light Woolen. Make a mixture of cornmeal, a handful of borax, and half a cake of mangelina. Mix this dry, and scrub the goods with it. To clean wool shawls, sweaters, etc., sprinkle the mixture over the garment, place inside a sheet folded several times, and beat lightly. It is surprising how much the borax assists in the cleaning process.

Mr. Scudder's Grievance. "I tell you," said the scowling Socialist, "that wealth is not distributed equitably."

"I quite agree with you," replied Mr. Scudder. "I have only about two hundred and fifty thousand myself, while I know a dozen men who have more than a million apiece."

Economy. "I didn't tell all I know," she said. "I believe in economizing time."

"But why begrudge a minute or two?" he asked.

"Worth More Than it Costs"

Lots of farmers declare their telephone service is worth more than it costs. J. W. Harris, a well-known farmer living near Choccolocco, Ala., writes:

"I had occasion to call our doctor not two hours after my telephone was connected with your exchange. My mother, who is very old, fell down the door steps and broke her arm, and I called the doctor. He was at my house before I could have gone to his residence, as he has an automobile.

"We would not be without our telephone for more than it costs and appreciate the assistance you rendered us."

Our free booklet tells how you may have telephone service on your farm at small cost. Write for it today. A postal will do.

Consumption Takes 350 People Every Day

In the United States and the surprising truth is that most cases are preventable with timely, intelligent treatment.

These appalling facts should warn us that after sickness, colds, overwork or any other drains upon strength, Scott's Emulsion should be promptly and regularly used because tubercular germs thrive only in a weakened system.

The tested and proven value of Scott's Emulsion is recognized by the greatest specialists because its medical nourishment assimilates quickly to build healthy tissue; aids in the development of active, life-sustaining blood corpuscles; strengthens the lungs and builds physical force without reaction. Scott's Emulsion is used in tuberculosis camps because of its rare body-building, blood-making properties and because it contains no alcohol or habit-forming drug. Be sure to insist on Scott's.

Women Win in Votes Contest.

Frankfort, Ky., Oct. 17.—Holding that Section 155 of the Constitution "was evidently intended to take all school elections out of the provisions of the article on suffrage and elections and put these elections in a class by themselves," the Court of Appeals today decided that women possess the right, under the Suffrage act of 1912, to vote for County Superintendent, and overruled a motion to dissolve the mandatory injunction granted to Mrs. Wallace M. Bartlett by the Anderson Circuit Court, requiring County Clerk J. H. Crook to provide separate ballots for women in the county school election.

Avoid Sedative Cough Medicines

If you wish to contribute directly to the occurrence of capillary bronchitis and pneumonia use cough medicines that contain codeine, morphine, heroin and other sedatives when you have a cough or cold. An expectorant like Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is what is needed. That cleans out the clogging beds or breeding places for the germs of pneumonia and other germ diseases. That is why pneumonia never results from a cold when Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is used. It has a world wide reputation for its cures. It contains no morphine or other sedative.
