Kilgore Sees 48,000 Margin For Waterfield May Reach 60,000 By Election Day, Manager Believes

GAIN IN 2nd, 6th

Louisville—Harry Lee Waterfield's majority over Earl C. Clements in Saturday's Democratic primary may reach 48,000 to 60,000 votes, Ben Kilgore, the former's state campaign chairman, declared here yesterday.

Kilgore said that reports received at headquarters here indicated Waterfield had made sharp inroads on Clements' strength in the Second and Sixth Congressional Districts last week.

"We've got active, strong organizations in practically every county in Kentucky," Kilgore said he had received word yesterday that betting in the primary election had dropped to even money, compared to odds in favor of Clements two weeks ago.

Kilgore predicted Waterfield was going to hold Clements' majority far below expectations of two weeks ago in the Second District, and stood an equal chance to carry five of Clements' home district counties.

A week ago, Kilgore said, "I gave the Sixth Congressional District to Clements by 10,000. Reports coming to me yesterday convince me that that figure was too high. We've made some strides in the Sixth, and Clements can't carry it by more than 5,000 to save his life."

Candidates for the gubernatorial nomination in both major political parties today launched the final week of the primary campaign.

Republican candidates John Fred Williams and Eldon S. Dummitt will wind up their campaigns in eastern Kentucky. Democratic candidates Earl C. Clements and Harry Lee Waterfield also have announced engagements as follows:

Clements—today at Sandy Hook, Maysville, Owingsville; Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, informal campaigning over the Second Congressional District; Wednesday, attending picnic at Fancy Farm in Graves county; Friday, Morganfield.

Waterfield—today at headquarters in Louisville, Paris and Lexington; Tuesday at Eminence, Carrollton and Covington; Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, motorcade through 26 cities and towns in First Congressional District with speeches scheduled at Fancy Farm and Benton Wednesday, at Cadiz Thursday and at Clinton, his home town, Friday.

Waterfield will be in Fulton Friday, August 1, before going to Clinton for the final address of his campaign at 8 o'clock that night. Other towns on his schedule for Friday are Cadiz, Hardin, Murray, Farmington, Mayfield, Wingo, Water Valley and Hickman.

Fulton Cadet at Ft. Monmouth

Wallace McCollum, UK, Taking Six-Week Course in Signal Corps School

Lexington, July 28—Wallace G. McCollum, son of Mrs. C. C. McCollum, Fulton, is among 22 University of Kentucky Army ROTC cadets who are currently taking a special six-week course at the Signal Corps summer school at Ft. Monmouth, N. J., in conjunction with their regular college courses.

The UK cadets, along with 84 students from 18 other universities and colleges throughout the nation, are training under the command of Col. Ralph Hospital, professor of military science and tactics at Cornell University.

As part of their training, the cadets have toured outstanding Army, Navy, and civilian communication centers in New York City. Among the centers in the city are the Army Signal Center, the Third Naval District Signal Center, the Federal Building switchboard, and the Long Lines Building of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company.

McCollum will receive a second lieutenant commission in the Signal Corps upon completion of his four-year academic courses at the university.

Durbin On Last Leg Of 10,000 Mile Campaign
Paul Durbin left Fulton today on the last leg of his 10,000 mile jaunt over the First Railroad District in quest of the Democratic nomination for railroad commissioner.

Throughout the campaign Durbin has practically lived in his peep and has attracted quite a bit of attention up and down the length of the district.

This morning, prior to mounting up for his last trip before the election Saturday, Durbin expressed himself as highly satisfied over the progress he has made in seeing the voters, and ventured to predict that he would win on August 2.

He again stressed the point that he is the only veteran in the race for railroad commissioner and called upon the people to support him on election day for that reason and the fact that he, being a lawyer, is well qualified to fill the office.

Weakley Co. Farm Bureau Meets July 25 Gov. Jim McCord Among Speakers At Junior College

OVER 2,000 THERE

The University of Tennessee Junior College at Martin was the site of the quarterly meeting of the Weakley county Farm Bureau on July 25. Over 2,000 members and guests enjoyed the day's program, met old friends again and heard Tennessee's Gov. Jim McCord discuss the state sales tax at length.

Among the many who made the meeting so successful were R. L. McNatt, Weakley county president; the M. Pella Community Club, who prepared and helped serve a complete lunch of barbecue, slaw, drinks; the uniformed Boy Scouts who efficiently directed traffic and otherwise assisted; Mrs. Braden Fowler, Mrs. Horace Butler, Mrs. Carmel Rowlett and Mrs. Herbert Lee, who served on the decoration committee; Mrs. Jean Cioar, home agent; Miss Louise Odum, Mrs. Braden Fowler, chairman of county home and community group, who helped serve the food.

Registration was done under direction of Aaron Reed, young director of the Farm Bureau. Miss Dorothy Sue Bennett, office secretary, Miss Ann Lee, 4-H Club member and state winner in clothing projects, and Mr. Baker, a director.

Included among the visitors in addition to Gov. McCord were a relative, Mr. McEwing, J. E. McClanahan, Davidson county Farm Bureau president; a State Masonic Lodge leader and a farmer, and Coy Harris, former Martin resident who piloted the group to the meeting.

Cecil Stone, Ohio county Farm Bureau president, Mrs. W. B. McLeod, Fulton county home agent and Mrs. Grace Cavender, Fulton county nurse, were present.

After the invocation the group sang a song. Prof. Paul Meek, executive officer of U-T Junior College, welcomed the crowd, and Mr. McClanahan gave the response.

Max Osborne was warmly greeted as a director of the National Farm Bureau, a second place winner in public speaking at San Francisco in December, state winner in the same contest at Nashville in November, president of the Young Farmers and Homemakers of Tennessee, and a farmer in Weakley's sister county of Obion.

Gov. McCord in his address reviewed the benefits the state's aged and blind derive from the Tennessee sales tax. Following this, he commended the Farm Bureau as a force for human betterment, as a stimulant and mental polish and an agent which is constantly guarding the welfare and securing measures for advancement of rural people morally, physically and spiritually.

Preceding the noon meal, thanks were expressed for the food and fellowship of the day by Frank Dutcheon, of Martin.

Hughes' Employee Will Testify On How Boss Got His Contracts

Washington, July 28—(AP)—Chairman Brewster (R-Me) of the Senate War Investigating committee said today a globe-trotting employee of Howard Hughes, millionaire manufacturer, has agreed to tell what he knows about the award of $40,000,000 worth of wartime government plane contracts to Hughes.

Brewster told a reporter that the Hughes employee, John Meyer, notified the committee staff this morning he will testify before a subcommittee whenever it wishes to call him.

He had been scheduled to appear next Wednesday before a public inquiry opening today in Washington in July 1942, and gave to the newspaper statements that he could start production of a new cargo plane in 10 months.

"That was completely fantastic, but inasmuch as Mr. Kaiser had a very fine background we were designated to examine his plans as to how he was going to do this," Meigs said.

Ferguson, asked whether it was customary to lay out proposals for any new war equipment in the newspapers before they had been approved by some government agency.

"No, it was very unusual," Meigs declared. "We tried to keep every plan we had as secret as possible. There was criticism of him (Kaiser) at the time."

Before he conferred with Kaiser, Meigs said, the Army and Navy had examined his plans and "decided it was completely impossible of accomplishment."

In Los Angeles, Hughes today in an open letter accused Brewster of conducting a "publicity spree."

Dutch Claim Fresh Gains

Say They've Captured Important Coal and Oil Regions In East Sumatra

Batavia, Java, July 28 (AP)—Dutch military headquarters announced today sweeping new successes in eastern Sumatra, reporting the capture virtually intact of vital coal and oil regions more than 100 miles from the jumping off point of Dutch troops at Palembang.

The advances were announced as the Netherlands navy ordered the Java ports of Cheribon, Probolinggo and Banjapawant opened immediately to normal trade in an effort to get great stores of captured raw materials moving to world markets.

In two separate communications, the Dutch announced that they had captured the rich Sumatra oilfield town of Batoeradja, 80 miles southwest of Palembang, and the important Boekie Assam coal mines, 20 miles further to the southwest.

Batoeradja was seized intact without resistance, the announcement said, and asserted that the occupation of the Shell and Standard Vacuum oil holdings there was being consolidated. The attitude of the remaining oilfield personnel "seems favorable," the bulletin added.

Latin America Anxious to Trade With U. S., I. C. Official Finds

Latin Americans are wider awake than ever to their renewed postwar opportunities for trade with the United States. They want to arrange the exchange of all the products they possibly can, and they are especially eager to do business with mid-continent United States via the favorable rates and facilities of New Orleans and other Gulf Coast ports. But mostly they need to know more about what we have to offer in goods and services and what we are willing to accept and to buy. They need facts and figures, maps, diagrams and charts.

Such are the preliminary impressions recorded in the first six weeks' diary of a traveling business man from the United States who is scheduled to spend the remaining half of the year in South America as a sort of ambassador-at-large for mid-continent American business. He is Robert H. Brown, general agent, export and import traffic, Illinois Central railroad. He left New Orleans June 3 and is now in Sao Paulo, Brazil, after having visited and conferred with representative business men in Cuba, the Dominican Republic, Venezuela, Trinidad and the Republics of Belém, Fortaleza, Recife and Rio de Janeiro in Brazil.

Brown's tour is the second Illinois Central fact-finding and fact-spreading enterprise of its sort in the last three years. He is acquainting Latin Americans with the productive capacity of manufacturers in the mid-continent area of the United States and stressing the advantages of doing business through New Orleans and other Gulf ports. He also is acquainting Latin Americans with the tremendous market available for the sale of their goods within the great mid-continent area for which New Orleans and other Southern ports are such natural Pan-American gateways.

Brown reports that, while some countries are licensing the exportation of certain commodities and are watching their dollar balances, there is ample dollar exchange available in most of the countries he has visited. He finds great need for capital goods, such as machinery and transportation equipment, but he is just as strongly emphasizing the importance of North American purchases from Latin Americans to help them maintain the needed dollar exchange.

From Caracas, Venezuela, for example, he reports: "There is plenty of dollar exchange here as the result of large oil exports from this country."

The major commodities imported by the United States from Latin America are coffee, sugar, tobacco, bananas, seeds, oils, minerals, waxes and other products which in the main do not compete with North American production.

No Extra Charge For Extra Water Used to "Lay" Dust

First Session Of 80th Congress Closes Shortly After Midnight; Solons Seek Cross-Root Views

Mrs. Truman Buried Today

Simple, Private Services Are Held At Her Home; Interment in Kansas City

Grandview, Mo., July 28—(AP)—Mrs. Martha Ellen Truman, daughter of a Missouri pioneer farmer and mother of the nation's President, will be buried this afternoon on a shaded knoll in Kansas City—the town where she was born 94 years ago.

The ceremony will be simple and private, as the mother and her devoted son, Harry S. Truman, had previously agreed. The funeral services beginning at 3 p. m. central standard time in Mrs. Truman's plainly furnished living room were for the family alone.

Only three or four cars will follow Mrs. Truman's cortege on its 17-mile trip to Forest Hill cemetery from the little cottage on dusty, unpaved Feland avenue in Grandview, near the Frisco Railroad tracks.

It was in Grandview the President spent 12 days away from the world's highest office in May because his mother had a sinking spell; there he was bound Saturday when word of her heart's failure overtook him in the presidential plane.

Forest Hill cemetery made ready grave 8 in block 43, lot 85. In the same lot rests John Anderson Truman, the President's father. The location is the top of a rolling hill, under maples, elms and oaks. John Truman was buried there November 4, 1914.

The Truman sorrow, though more than a family affair, was sheltered from the curious by Secret Service men, state and local police who blocked roads for two blocks around the frame house.

On the door of the cream-colored frame house was a funeral wreath of purple and white. Inside, at the foot of a simple, silvery casket, was a single great bush of red roses. In the open casket, where close friends said their goodbyes yesterday, lay Martha Truman in her favorite blue dress—a dress she bought last February to wear on a visit to Harry in the White House.

Top 1948 Issues Are Shaping Up; Many Leftovers

SENATE STAYS LATE

Washington, July 28—(AP)—Sign posts pointing toward teamwork with the White House on work with the Congress on domestic problems and hot 1948 election issues stand out along the rough road the 80th Congress traveled to its own half-way mark.

The first session crashed to a close in Sunday's early hours. Adjournment until January—unless President Truman or Republican leaders call an emergency session sooner—shot off a raucous, roaring political scrap in the Senate and a backslapping, rollicking song fest in the House.

Wary members now are beating a path back home to find out what the people think of this first "streamlined" Congress, this first Republican-controlled Congress in a decade and a half.

The grass roots reaction is important. Top issues already are shaping up for next year's electioneering for a President, all 435 House members and 32 of the 96 Senators. For instance, there are taxes and labor, the high cost of living and the high cost of government.

And there are enough legislative leftovers for the next session to concoct a sizeable bill of political controversies.

Held Over Bills
Held on the hook until next winter were such measures as universal military training, long-range housing, military cooperation with Latin America, a minimum wage boost for the lowest paid interstate workers and loyalty checks on government workers.

It was a political battle royal in the Senate that kept Congress on the job on a Sabbath for the first time since 1929.

Democrats had succeeded in blocking a Republican bid for a fullscale investigation into Attorney General Clark's handling of vote fraud charges in Kansas City.

Senator Brewster (R-Me) tried to get even by preventing approval of the nomination of Philip B. Perlman of Baltimore to be solicitor general, a top-rank spot under Clark.

Temper were raw and faces flushed after Senator Ferguson (R-Mich) complained that Democrats had filibustered against the vote fraud inquiry and Senator Connally (D-Tex) came back with an angry reply. Senator Vandenberg (R-Mich), as presiding officer, at one point ordered Connally to "take his seat."

Brewster finally gave up. The Senate confirmed Perlman 58 to 21 and adjourned at 3:49 a. m. (1:49 a. m. CST).

In the House, members had finished a final filing of Republican-Democratic bickering over economy around 9 p. m. Saturday.

Close Harmony
So, arms around shoulders, they gave way to close harmony—the of barbershop variety. They turned up on old favorites, like "Home Sweet Home." Shortly after midnight they voted to go there.

Back at the cross roads there are such ready-made political issues as:

1. Taxes. Congress voted twice to trim income taxes $4,000,000,000. President Truman vetoed both bills. The vetoes stuck. The bills died.

2. Labor. Congress passed a bill to make unions liable to punishment for many things never before penalized. Organized labor and the President denounced it. Congress made the bill a law over a veto.

3. Spending. Republicans and Democrats squabbled all through the session about trimming government expenses.

Mr. Truman asked last January for some $37,500,000,000 to run the government in the year that began July 1.

The House decided to slice $8,000,000,000 off the total. The Senate figured $4,500,000,000 would be enough of a slash. They never did get together and split the difference—even though they were supposed to under the 1946 reorganization law which supposedly streamlined Congress. Congress did make some big

AAF-40 Years of Progress

On August 1, 1947, the Army Air Forces will celebrate the 40th anniversary of its existence—40 years which have seen it grow from a handful of men to over 300,000, from a single, forty-mile-per-hour airplane which existed only on paper to today's jet and rocket propelled aircraft which approach the speed of sound.

In the early years of the Twentieth Century, the need for a separate division of the Army to handle aeronautics was becoming apparent. The Signal Corps had been conducting experiments with captive balloons for observation work. Lieutenant Frank P. Lahm and Major H. G. Hersey won the first Gordon Bennett International Balloon Race from Paris to Flying Dale, England. Little attention was paid, however, to heavier-than-air possibilities, since the general public gave little credence to the "ridiculous" claims of the Wright brothers that they had actually constructed a machine that would fly.

In 1907, the Wrights, in negotiations with the Army, offered to produce a machine, to fly two men 120 miles, in the operational rather than the experimental stage, for the sum of $100,000. This price would include instruction for an Army operator. Although the cost was higher than the Signal Corps cared to pay, there was definite Army interest in the project now.

On August 1, 1910, an office memorandum from the Chief Signal Officer established an aeronautical division of the Signal Corps, to handle "all matters pertaining to military ballooning, air machines and kindred subjects." Captain Charles DeF. Chandler, a Signal Corps officer who had been active in balloon work, was detailed to take charge of this new division. He was assigned two enlisted men—Corporal Edward Ward and Private first class Joseph E. Barrett. This was the humble beginning of the Army Air Forces.

In September, Captain Chandler and his detachment, now nine men, were ordered to Washington, D. C., to receive instruction in handling free balloons, under supervision of a civilian balloonist, Leo Stevens. Captain Chandler began a series of ascents in a coal gas balloon known as the Signal Corps No. 10. Later experiments were conducted in balloon radio reception and aerial photography.

Negotiations with the Wright Brothers had continued, but General Allen, chief signal officer, still was not enthused about the Wright plane. One of General Allen's chief objections was the "high speed" of the plane (30 miles per hour). He stated that the plane would be unsuitable for bombing, since it would fly too fast for accurate aiming.

On December 23, 1907, General Allen decided to permit the Army's first airplane to be decided by open bid, to be turned over to the Board of Ordnance and Fortification by Feb. 1, 1908. The announcement called for bids on construction of a heavier-than-air craft which could carry two persons weighing a total of 350 pounds, and which would have a range of 125 miles and a speed of 40 miles per hour. In addition, it must be able to remain aloft for one hour.

The Wright Brothers won the contract. However, although the contract called for delivery by August, 1908, the actual acceptance flights were not completed until July, 1909. Their plane fulfilled all specified conditions.

Such was the AAF of 40 years ago. The three men who organized the Aeronautical Division were the fore-runners of an organization which was eventually, in World War II, to number over 2,411,000. The Wright Brothers' plane, which, in 1907 was just a military prospect, gave way to the P-80s and P-84s of today. The AAF has come a long way in 40 years.

Absentee Congressman Is Poor Risk

Before the average voter pays much attention to the promises of a candidate for political office, he wants to see the candidate's record. He likes to compare past performances before he decides which way his vote will go. We think this is a logical and eminently fair method of selection.

A recent editorial in the Lexington Herald states: "Now, in comparison of records, it is the usual thing for those opposing Mr. Clements to offer a comparison of the record in the state General Assembly only. This is not fair either. The record of Mr. Clements in Congress is more recent. It dwarfs the record of either in the General Assembly."

The only similar positions the two men have ever held, however, were in the General Assembly. Clements as State Senator, and Waterfield as Speaker of the House. Mr. Waterfield has never served in the Congress at Washington.

This contention of the Herald's is a confession of weakness, an acknowledgment that Waterfield's record in the Assembly is far superior to that of his opponent. But for the sake of argument, conceding for a moment the position quoted from the Herald, let us look at Mr. Clements' record in Washington.

From April through June, Representative Clements was present and voting, out of 32 roll call votes, just EIGHT (8) times. No other Kentucky Congressman, Democrat or Repub-

Wedemeyer In China

By Dewitt MacKenzie,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

President Truman's new special envoy, Lt. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer, has got into action on his old stamping grounds in China to carry out a fact-finding mission which is calculated to provide Washington with material for an overhauling of its policy of assistance for this important but war-battered member of the Big Five.

Without waiting to hear from the general we know that he is finding this vast nation in far worse condition politically, economically and militarily than he ever has seen it before. Untold millions of its half-billion people are hungry unto death. Inflation is fantastic and the economy of the country is wrecked. The Nationalist government at Nanking is trying to ride a whirlwind.

The civil war is producing widespread and bloody fighting. Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek's fresh offensive to try to deliver a knock-out blow to the Red armies finds the Communists not only holding their own but on the initiative generally, with Manchuria and great reaches of Northern China largely in their hands. And Nanking says that the Chinese Reds are receiving aid from the Russians.

As one surveys this chaos, and the elements which are contributing to it, there would seem to be only one way out for Chiang Kai-Shek and his government, and it is this:

1. To fling enough military force against the Communist armies to cripple them and hold them down, and then,

2. To do a thorough job of house-cleaning in the Nanking government, and inaugurate sweeping reforms attractive enough to win back that portion of the Chinese population which has forsaken Nanking to chase Communist rainbows.

Of these two essentials, the first obviously presents an obstacle which may be unsurmountable. The financing of an all-out war by Chiang's armies against the Chinese Communists would run into countless billions of dollars, a sum which would stagger the imagination of the only nation in the world capable of producing it—the United States. Not only would there be the huge military expenditures, but meantime the economic machine of the country would have to be kept running full tilt.

Such an operation might easily last for years and the outcome would be problematical, for there are intangibles involved. The most important of these is whether Nanking has the right information in saying that Moscow is backing the Chinese Reds. If Russia is giving such assistance, the situation looks grim indeed.

There is a school which holds that the Chinese Communists aren't the same brand as the Russians—that the Celestials are just discontented agrarians. As a matter of fact General Chou En-Lai, one of the top Chinese Communists, told me in 1943 at Chungking that there was no connection between Moscow and Chinese Communism. However, there are many observers who think otherwise, and they don't overlook the facts that the late Dr. Sun Yat-Sen, father of the Chinese republic, called in several Russian Communists as advisers and that the formation of a Communist party resulted. It doesn't take much imagination to believe that Chinese Communism and Russian Communism aren't far apart.

In any event, our Uncle Sam certainly will be faced with a mountainous decision if General Wedemeyer ultimately should report that the two conditions set forth above must be met if China is to be saved from Communism and put on her feet.

lcal, was present less than twenty times. On 32 roll call votes, Mr. Clements was present just 25 per cent of the time.

To get down to cases, on a bill to add funds for reclamation projects of the Interior Department, for which every other Democratic legislator from Kentucky voted, Mr. Clements had a "general pair." A "general pair" means that he paired with a colleague, neither voting, but he did not announce whether he was for or against the bill.

Mr. Clements also took "general pairs" on the following votes: the Rent Control Bill; aid to Greece and Turkey; attempt to kill the Republican wool tariff bill by recommitting; and the State Department Information Service Bill.

The "general pair" is a beautiful little device for fence-sitting congressmen who don't want the folks back home to know how they stand on controversial legislation.

In this three month period, Clements had no less than five "general pairs" listed against him. No other Democratic legislator from Kentucky had more than one.

The figures quoted here are from the Congressional Quarterly News Features.

We would like to have a governor who thinks enough of the people who elected him to serve them more than just twenty-five per cent of the time.

IT'S HARD TO BELIEVE, but here's the proof: seven-year-old Jimmy Cole, Jr., astounded the circus world this season when he demonstrated complete control over a five-ton elephant in the center ring of the great James M. Sports Roundup

By Hugh Fullerton, Jr.
New York, July 28.—(AP)—A lot of fighters have found there's no money in being light heavy-weight champion as long as there are beatable heavyweights around and in the case of Gus Gesnevich the most surprising thing is that it took him so long to make the discovery. . . a colorless, methodical ring worker for several years, Gus suddenly busted out as a knocker-outer after his discharge from the Coast Guard. . . here's the way Manager Joe Vella explains it: "The biggest purse Gus ever got before the war was about $8,000 for fighting Tami Mauriello. When he got $12,000 for flattening Joe Kahut, he thought it was all the money in the world. He said, 'If the fans want to see action, I'll gamble with anybody for that.' . . And then he went over to England and got $50,000—that's when he really turned killer."

MONDAY MATINEE
John Galbreath, the Columbus, Ohio, estate man who owns the Darby Dan stable and a piece of the Pittsburgh Pirates, may turn up any day now as owner of an Ohio newspaper. Wonder what he'll do in his spare time. Washington, D. C., which has done pretty well as a boxing center despite the lack of an adequate arena, now has the new sports center and armory which will seat 20,000 fans. It's bigger than Madison Square Garden and doesn't have a post to interfere with vision. . . In addition to a new car presented by fans after the basketball season, Coach Bruce Drake got a nice raise in pay from Oklahoma University.

CLEANING THE CUFF
Bobby Smith, the Charlottesville, Va., boy who made U. of Virginia fans sad by going to Virginia Tech instead of staying in his home town, may be a kicking specialist this fall. During spring drills he was kicking better than ever but couldn't run much on account of a bad knee. . . Cleveland's Dale Mitchell gives credit for his improved hitting, not to a big league coach but to Roy Deal, chief clerk for the Oklahoma Natural Gas Company. . . Branch McCracken, Indiana U basketball coach, is putting in a couple of weeks at a camp for 14 and 15 year old kids. . . there's nothing like getting an early start on prospects.

Chicks Split With Hoppers 11-3 and 5-14

Hoptown Series To Close Tonight

The Fulton Chicks snapped a five-game losing streak at the expense of the Hopkinsville Hoppers there Saturday night with an 11-3 victory, but fell to the Hoppers 14-5 yesterday.

However, the Fulton team still is in third place, six games behind the Oilers and a scant half-game ahead of Madisonville. Mayfield's Clothiers are three and one-half games out of first place.

The Chicks finish their series with Hopkinsville there tonight and come home for three games with Clarksville starting Tuesday night.

The weekend tilts at Hopkinsville were featured by 11 homers, five Saturday night and six yesterday.

With the score tied at 3 all going into the ninth inning the Chicks exploded with an eight-run rally in the last frame to put the game on ice. Eldridge held the Hoppers to four hits and Lis Rhodes, Peterson and Seawright helped him out by clouting four-baggers.

Locke Collects $7,394 Swing

South African Golfer's Winnings Total $20,537

Columbus, O., July 28.—(AP)—With $20,537.50 in his pocket after less than four months of playing over American courses, South African golf champion Bobby Locke headed today toward another playoff in the St. Paul, Minn., $10,000 open scheduled July 31-August 3.

The beknickered clouter from the Dark Continent fired a scintillating 274, a mere 14 under par, to win the second annual Columbus Open yesterday by five strokes over Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., and leaped right out front in the money-won list.

Ben Hogan, who has led the parade all season, wound up in a ninth place tie with 289, picking up $306 while Locke was getting $2,000, and the little fellow from Hershey, Pa., skidded to third in the cash list behind Demaret, who grabbed $1,400 for his 279 effort.

In playing 10 medal play tournaments, Locke has fired 2,777 shots in this country, and has collected $20,537.50—that figures out at $7.39 every time he has swung a club in competition, not counting what he's picked up on some lucrative exhibitions.

First Full Week Of Flue-Cured Leaf Sales Opens Today

Valdosta, Ga., July 28.—(AP)—Georgia and Florida flue-cured tobacco markets opened for the first full week of sales today.

During the first two days of the 1947 marketing season, the Department of Agriculture announced, tobacco growers sold 15,661,526 pounds of flue-cured leaf at an average of 43.92 cents a pound for total receipts of $6,878,661.

In spite of being an average of 1.45 cents a pound lower than the record opening of last year, it was the second highest week in the history of the Georgia-Florida belt.

While an occasional basket of tobacco brought $60 in the first two days of sale, the practical top was $54. Prices of a few baskets of nonresidue went as low as $2.

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

New York—The Big Street is a torrid thoroughfare these evenings and early mornings and the regulars who hang out in Lindy's, Reuben's, Shor's and the fancier saloons of the East Side have dwindled in numbers. The tourists have taken over the streets, although not in sufficient droves to keep the night club and theater managements happy.

Lack of customers hasn't for a change affected all owners in the same manner as before the war, when the custom was to pull in the sidewalks, close the kitchen and shut off the neon signs, give the chorus six or ten courses, and just sit tight until the cold weather brought paying quests back.

Some of the places are hedging but several of the big Broadway flash palaces are spending their money like champagne.

The huge hangar-like Carnival, where Olsen and Johnson just closed and Milton Berle ran up a fantastic record last year, is reaching out in every direction for comedians and performers.

The new show which Owner Nicky Blair has tossed together is very much like one of the good old vaudeville bills at the Palace Theatre. Blair's generous wallet has brought into one pigeons, including the biggest really beautiful show gal, or "Big Bruiser," on Broadway, Anne Mace. Topping the Carnival's summer entertainment salad are Lou Holtz, Bert Wheeler, show the usual covey of lovely Patsy Kelly, Barry Wood, Diosa Costello and others of lesser celebrity but of bright and youthful talents and vigor.

Bert Wheeler is his usual wonderful naive self. Patsy Kelly all but tears down the walls with her energetic onslaughts on Barry Wood, who combines his romantic bartoning with playing straight man for the uninhabited Patsy, and Diosa Costello provides the touch of Latin electricity without which no floor show these days is officially brightened. She is a young lady with a chassis containing all the movements and some added improvements on the one which made Gilda Gray the champ Shimmy Queen of her celebrated day.

Lou Walter's Latin Quarter has one of the funniest comedians in the world, Willie Howard, who manages to keep the gaudy and lavish premises rocking with guffaws despite the age of his material, and the rest of the big show includes all sorts of Parisian antics by a cast of Apache dancers, continental cronies and American young ladies of splendid face.

The Latin Quarter, incidentally, have been designed with a solicitous eye to the cooling comfort of the ladies of the chorus and facade. The costumes at or else the trend is back to semi-nudity. But the nudity is no more than you'll find on the Long Island beaches, although that standard is occasionally startling, come to think of it.

The most popular type of orchid, Cattleyas, are named for William Cattley, an Englishman botanist.

neighborhood" of $1,000,000,000. 4. Living costs. The lawmakers heard plenty and said plenty about high prices. They didn't do much about them except: Continue rent controls until next March 1, with permission for landlords to boost rents 15 per cent in exchange for leases running through all of 1948. Agree to an investigation. Because of that inquiry, and a wide assortment of others, dozens of Senators and Representatives won't be stay-at-homes long.
