It's Hard To Give Up An Empire

By David MacKenzie

AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

We are a people of the Middle East. So I was surprised to hear that the United Nations had advertised for the post of secretary general. I was even more surprised to hear that the UN had put out a list of candidates for the post. But I am not surprised that the UN has done so.

The UN has a long history of promoting peace and security around the world. It has been a leader in the fight against nuclear proliferation and has played a key role in preventing wars.

What is surprising is that the UN has not yet chosen a secretary general. The organization has been without a leader for over a year. It is a testament to the UN's dedication to peace that it has chosen to wait for the right person.

The UN needs a strong and capable leader to help it continue its work. I have every confidence that the UN will choose the right person to fill the position.
