Graves Jailer May Be Without Home
If His Jail Is Sold Graves Jailer is at the center of a controversy over the possible sale of the county jail.

The jailer, who was employed by the county since 1939, has been living in the jailer's quarters for 13 years.

The controversy centers around a petition filed by the county commissioner to the state commissioner of public buildings seeking permission to sell the jail.

Wartime Steel Export Controls
To Be Effective Again On Oct. 1 Washington, Aug. 6 (UPI)—Steel export controls will go into full effect on Oct. 1, according to President Truman.

The President said the controls would apply to all steel exports, except those bound for the United Kingdom and its dependencies.

The controls were reinstated because of the situation in Europe and the need for additional steel for the military.

Brewster Testimony
"Is A Pack Of Lies."
Angrly Hughes Cries Brewster once offered a private plane, the Dixie, to President Roosevelt.

Hughes) would agree to a mergmerger with Pan American Air Lines.

Hughes' firm, Pan American, has been competing with Brewster's airline, American International Airlines.

Hughes was accused of paying off officials to get government contracts.

The hearing was thrown into chaos after Brewster refused to answer questions.

Hughes said he had not agreed to a merger.

Vote Valued Lightly

Less than half the registered Democrats showed up in Fulton county Tuesday afternoon to cast votes for their state government for the next four years; only 2,417 votes were cast. Over 6,000 Democrats' names are on the rolls, but only 408 were actually cast. It is true that the apathy was not as widespread as in the Fulton county Democratic primary, but it was still evident.

The same apathy was evident all over the state. The people simply did not want to go to the polls and vote on the candidates.
