SAW BURGULAR IN HER ROOM.

Mrs. Bradshaw's Unpleasant Experience.

Judge Winfree Rabbed.

From Thursday's daily.

A burglar entered the residence of Judge W. P. Winfree early this morning and stole a purse containing $135.

He was frightened away before he had an opportunity to take anything else.

About two o'clock, Mrs. Juliet Bradshaw, who is a light sleeper, was awakened by a slight noise made by some one moving stealthily in her room.

She noticed that her lamp had been extinguished but by the dim fire light she saw the shadow of a man who was standing in front of a dresser, rummaging in the drawers.

Mrs. Bradshaw called loudly for Judge Winfree, and the burglar ran into an adjoining unoccupied room.

The members of the family instituted a search and found that the intruder had escaped through the window by which he had entered.

Owing to imperfect molding of the window in the unoccupied room, the burglar had found it easy to remove the lower sash, and he had taken the precaution to leave the window open.

It was discovered that the burglar had been in Judge Winfree's bedroom, and had thoroughly investigated the contents of Judge Winfree's coat and trousers.

He had pilfered the clothes in the room. Fortunately, he overlooked the vest, hanging at the head of the bed, which contained a gold watch.

Mrs. Winfree heard the burglar leave the room, but thought he was some member of the family.

NEW INDUSTRY

A Hopkinsville Youth is Raising Game Birds.

Master Clifford Walton has established a pheasant plantation, at the home of his uncle, Mr. Geo. O. Long, on South Virginia street.

He has recently received a coop of "English Ringneck Pheasants" and proposes to raise them for sale.

The English and Mongolian pheasants are being successfully propagated in this country and are most beautiful, hardy and prolific game birds.

Our Legislature would follow the example of other states and pass a law protecting them for about five years, Kentucky would soon be well stocked with pheasants, and the popular quail have a rival in the field of small game.

FRANKFORT MATTERS.

(SPECIAL TO NEW ERA.)

FRANKFORT, Ky., Jan. 18.—Mr. Haswell's resolution, introduced in the House, to discharge the Governor's cabinet committee, and asking for a new drawing of members to compose the committee, was referred today to the judiciary committee.

Ministers of nearly all of the Protestant and Catholic churches will meet this week to adopt resolutions deploring Thursday's bloodshed, the threatened political strife, and advancing the hope that trouble will be averted. The resolutions will be non-partisan.

Testimony showing the use of this ball in Eastern Kentucky counties was presented to the Cabinet Board yesterday. An election judge from Magoffin county testified that the ball was so small that it could be counted, and many of them were counted, without being counted. Similar testimony was introduced as to Knox, Martin, Johnson and Pike counties.

The Democrats in the Senate introduced today resolutions for investigating the financial condition of the State prisons during the Republican administration.

Congressman Bailey, of Texas, wired Col. Cohen today offering his legal services in his trouble.

An early spring is predicted. FRANKEL'S are receiving new spring goods daily.

MRS. GRIMSHAW DEAD.

The End Came Last Night at Bethel Female College.

From Thursday's daily.

Mrs. A. F. Grimshaw, of Deadwood, S. D., mother of Miss Myrtle Grimshaw, Musical Director of Bethel Female College, died last night at the college where she has been visiting her daughter.

Mrs. Grimshaw had been an invalid for many months and came to this city from Dakota to escape the dangers of the rigid Northwestern climate, intending to remain during the winter. Two weeks ago Mrs. Grimshaw had a second stroke of paralysis, since which time her condition had been critical. Her strength was greatly impaired by the attack, and all the resources of science were powerless to avert the end. When it became evident that she could not survive, her husband was notified and he arrived Monday. The body was embalmed and this morning, accompanied by the bereaved husband, left on the morning journey to the home in Dakota, where it will be consigned to its last resting place.

HERE'S GOOD NEWS.

Stamp Tax on Telegram Messages and Express Receipts May Be Repealed.

A special from Washington says: In view of the excess of revenue over expenditures and the probability that receipts will be larger next year than now, the Treasury will not need the money for current expenses, the attention of the Ways and Means Committee has been directed to the subject of repealing the law which imposes a tax on telegrams. The committee is not ready to repeal the stamp tax, but it may try to repeal the stamp tax on express receipts, which is a much more onerous tax.

MAGNIFICENT OPPORTUNITY

To Buy Clothes At Marvelously Low Prices—Moayon's Great Sale.

Moayon's great fire sale was inaugurated yesterday and all day long the store was crowded with delighted customers.

They found wonderful bargains there of all sorts.

Moayon's store keeps its word. When it said the entire stock would be closed out at half price, it was perfectly honest.

A great part of the goods is just as good as new, and if you want to get a good deal more than your money's worth, the opportunity is offered you.

Just think of it! You can buy a good suit of clothes for $2.50. You can get an elegant overcoat for $4.00. You can purchase a pair of shoes for 25 cents.

What do you think of that?

And all other goods are being sold at proportionately low prices.

Suppose Moayon does lose big money on the sale. It will be worth a hundred years from now, and the store will certainly make itself solid with every regular customer and add scores of new patrons.

A most cordial invitation is extended to the citizens of Hopkinsville and Christian county to take full benefit of this great sale.

From Thursday's daily.

Mrs. Rosa Coleman, widow of the late Wm. Coleman, a prominent citizen of South Christian, died at 1 o'clock this morning at her home near Heron.

Consumption caused her death. For several weeks she had been confined to her bed, sinking rapidly and the end was known by her family to be near.

She was known by her family to be near. The circumstances surrounding the death of the excellent lady, make the death doubly deplorable.

The body was brought to Trenton this morning and funeral services will be held this afternoon at the home of Mr. Anderson Garth, a son of Mr. Webb Garth, and step-son of the deceased.

SIGNS OF THE ZODIAC.

Some Facts Appropriate of the New Almanac For 1900.

An interesting feature of the familiar almanacs which have made their appearance for 1900 on the drug store counters is the mysterious signs of the zodiac, which had their origin, as have all things astronomical, along the banks of the Nile. The earliest people to make a serious study of the stars seem to have been the shepherds, who by reason of their long wanderings far from the haunts of man, were most likely to study the natural phenomena around them. They soon came to recognize the fact that certain stars constantly reappeared with certain seasons of the year. For instance, the brilliant rising of the bright star Sirius was found to coincide with the rising of the Nile, a season which to this day all Egyptian watchers for. But the most trustworthy watchers known to the shepherds were their own sheep dogs. Hence the dog, which was a symbol of watchfulness, was identified with this star and transplanted to the heavens. Similarly, the shearing season was always unheeded by a certain star, while the appearance in the East of another constellation, the Pleiades, heralded the time for sowing their crops.

Arguing upon the principle that what was a sign for the people should be equally a sign for the gods, the shepherds, who thus identified the history of the stars with that of their daily life, began to trace the history of their daily life stars. Hence it is that we have such curious signs as Taurus (the bull), Capricorn (the goat), Aries (the ram), Scorpio (the scorpion) and the like.

Timely information given Mr. George Long, of New Straville, Ohio, prevented a dreadful tragedy and saved two lives. He had tried many remedies and doctors but nothing grew worse, until urged to try Dr. King's New Discovery. One bottle wholly cured her, and she writes this marvelous medicine also cured Mr. Long of a severe attack of rheumatism. Each case is a positive proof of the marvelous merit of this grand remedy for curing all chest, throat and lung troubles. Only 50c and $1.00. Sold by L. L. Klein, O. K. Wyle's, R. J. Harwick, J. O. Cook and Anderson & Fowler, druggists. "Guns" used.

DEATH OF MRS. GARTH.

From Thursday's daily.

GETS ACROSS AT LAST.

Buller Leaves Tugela River Behind.

TERRIFIC BATTLE

With the Boers Is Looked For Immediately.

ENGLAND CHEERS UP.

(Cablegram to New Era.)

LONDON, Eng., Jan. 18.—It is officially stated today that Gen. Buller has crossed the Tugela river.

He is in full advance on the Boers. A terrific battle is imminent.

Gen. Buller completely surprised the Boers and captured the line beyond Potgieters Drift, fifteen miles west of Colenso, on last Wednesday.

He followed up the movement by shelling the Boer trenches.

Gen. Warren yesterday crossed the Tugela, six miles farther to the west, near Wagons Drift, with all arms in the face of a hot and heavy fire from Boer cannon and rifles.

He has effected a most satisfactory lodgment two miles farther on toward Sprenkshoek.

IDENTIFYING THE DEAD.

Preparations taken by British soldiers to identify the dead after the battle of the Tugela, are being carried out with the greatest care.

The names of the British killed and wounded after a battle are ascertained by means of the identification cards which all our soldiers carry sewed up in the left hand corner of their khaki tunics.

On the card are written the soldier's name, rank, regimental number, together with the name and address of his next of kin. The latter are added to that the authorities may know where to forward the effects of any soldier who gets killed.

After an engagement the roll is called as soon as the regiments get back to their camp. Every man who does not answer is "kicked off" as missing, and search is made for him on the spot. As the search parties come across the dead they are laid out on a table and the tunic at the left hand corner and take out the identification card.

The cards thus collected are carried back to camp and handed over to the clerks of the general command, who thereupon compile the casualty lists. After all the cards have been collected the roll is checked again and a note made of those men of whom no trace has been discovered. These are usually presumed to have been taken prisoners, but it does not always follow that the assumption is correct.

In the course of this time opposite the identification card every soldier carries a small pad of bandages, etc., for dressing a wound. This "band dressing" as it is called, is added to "Tommy's" equipment in order that he may be able to dress his own wounds or assist a comrade in the same.

General Lee's Headquarters.

A man in uniform, who is supposed to be General Lee, went one day to the store near his home in Petersburg, Va., which served as his post office. Everybody in the town was instantly eager to see him, and in a few moments the store was crowded. The general was talking with the proprietor about crops and other matters and appeared utterly unconscious of the fact that the gathering of the residents was due solely to his presence. Suddenly he realized that everybody was watching him and modestly said: "But I am keeping you from your many customers. Pardon me, and at once withdrew. Ladies' Home Journal.

Martin's Way.

Irishmen are inclined to word-perseverance; but, says a writer in The Nineteenth Century, the following description of slow speech which often degenerated into a stammer shows that occasionally they use the best words possible in explaining a thing:

"It's a square sort of way Martin talks," said Pat. "It's as if he took the words out of his mouth an' faked 'em before he gives 'em to you."
