Fulton Schools Open Sept. 8, Holland Says

Classes Crowded; Tuition Students Will Be Limited

3 FACULTY VACANCIES

All Fulton city schools will open the fall term at 1 p. m. Monday, Sept. 8, Supt. W. L. Holland announced today. A general faculty meeting for all city teachers will be held in the high school building at 9 o'clock that morning.

Seven members of last year's city schools staff have resigned, and three of the positions have not been filled. Needed are an assistant principal of Carr Institute and assistant high school coach, a high school English teacher and librarian, and a second grade teacher at Carr.

All classes in all schools are crowded, with the exception of the high school. Hence, the number of tuition students admitted will be very small. A priority system for tuition students gives first preference to Fulton county students, second to Hickman county students, third to residents of other Kentucky counties and fourth to Tennessee students.

Tuition students must have passed at least 75% of their work during the previous year and must be in good standing at their former school.

Coach J. B. Goranoff has scheduled the first football practice session for Monday, Aug. 18. This year's Bulldogs hope to use the new memorial stadium on West State Line for their home games. The Fulton Lions Club, stadium sponsors, believe the new lights can be installed and ready for use by the first week in September.

Parents who have children entering any Fulton school for the first time this year (elementary or high school) must make sure that these new students are properly vaccinated and inoculated. Information about the state Health Department requirements may be obtained from Miss Grace Cavender, county health nurse, at the Fulton city hall.

President Hopes For Successful Pan-American Unity Meeting

Washington, Aug. 13.—(AP)—President Truman sent the United States delegation off to the Pan American security meeting in Rio De Janeiro today with his best wishes for "a successful conference."

"I come to bid you gentlemen farewell, and wish you a happy and successful trip and a successful conference," Mr. Truman told the departing delegates at Washington National Airport.

"I am glad to have this delegation—as it has so many times in the past—working for peace in the world, particularly in the Western Hemisphere."

The United States delegation to the conference, opening in the Brazilian capital Friday, is headed by Secretary of State Marshall and includes Chairman Vandenberg (R-Mich.) of the Senate Foreign Relations committee and Warren R. Austin, U. S. delegate to the U. N. Security Council and former Republican Senator from Vermont.

After wishing the delegation good luck, President Truman said he hopes the Rio conference will set an example for the rest of the world.

Vandenberg commented: "I agree with that."

Secretary Marshall, replying to the President's brief, informal speech, said that he and his colleagues are flying south "in the interest of what is very important in the world of today—the solidarity of the Western Hemisphere nations."

Austin said the "unique thing about the Western Hemisphere is the development of unity out of disunity."

He called the forthcoming conference of foreign ministers the "second chapter in the Act of Chapultepec, with endless possibilities for world peace."

The Act of Chapultepec, drafted in Mexico in 1945, was a plan for integrating the solidarity of the Western Hemisphere through military and political cooperation.

Socialists Hit Snag On Steel Question

By Dewitt MacKenzie,
AP Foreign Affairs Analyst

The decision by Socialist Prime Minister Attlee and his cabinet to defer nationalization of Britain's great steel industry, possibly for the duration of the country's economic crisis, is a concession to orthodox means of recovery, which is to say "capitalistic."

The extent of that concession can be seen from the fact that nationalization of steel was one of the major items in the platform on which Socialism came to power in the general election two years ago. So important and controversial is the issue that Attlee took his decision before a private Labor (Socialist) party caucus, he received approval by a margin of only four votes—81 to 77—while it is said that more than 100 members abstained from voting.

This mixed attitude of the caucus makes it clear that the question of steel nationalization is far from settled, and that there is a sizable crack in Socialist solidarity. The left-wingers of the party are dead set against any compromise on nationalization, and recently have been attacking Attlee's program as inadequate and his leadership as uninspiring.

The picture of steel nationalization gives us a good view of the differences which have divided the Socialist party into left and right wings. The Socialist election platform called for a moderate experiment in Socialization. Only 20 per cent of basic industries were to be nationalized, leaving the rest to private enterprise—at least for the time being. Coal and steel were high on the list, but it soon became apparent that steel presented a complicated problem, being neither fish, fowl nor yet good red meat.

What the Socialists wanted (at least moderate Socialists) was merely nationalization of basic steel production. However, they promptly ran up against the proposition that nationalization on in numerous instances involved not only the making of steel but the finished product manufactured from the steel. For instance, the newly made metal was kept hot while it was processed into, say, bicycles.

The majority of the party wanted the bicycles and other like products left to private initiative. But try as they would, they have found no method of disassociating the production of the molten steel from that of the bicycle, or what will you. Furthermore, they have encountered fierce opposition from big business.

So rather than interfere with the smooth flow of production in the midst of an economic crisis, the government has deferred action regarding steel. The caucus was told that there was no intention of abandoning the promise to nationalize the industry, but that the cabinet should be free to choose a time which it considered opportune. Meantime "capitalism" is to carry on.

At the moment the Conservative element of the Socialist party is still in the saddle. However, it is obvious that the breach between the two wings might widen with the result that Prime Minister Attlee would find his position untenable and be forced to resign in favor of another Socialist.

Former Prime Minister Winston Churchill took cognizance of this possibility in addressing the House of Commons Monday night. Churchill demanded rejection of the so-called "economic crisis" bill which he declared conferred virtually dictatorial powers on a cabinet whose prime minister might be discarded at any moment.

U. S. Can Be Proud Of Progress In Japan

The United States' proposal that an eleven-nation preliminary peace conference meet in the near future to draft a treaty for Japan is in itself an indication of the success achieved by our occupation policy in the Far East. Many a vexing problem remains to be solved in Japan—but there we have come nearer than anywhere else to achieving what we set out to do in the beginning.

When the battleship Missouri entered Tokyo Bay to become the stage for the formal surrender, no one knew what lay ahead. The major Japanese cities had been ravaged by American air attack, with the atomic bomb dealing the final blow. The Japanese home armies were intact, and it was feared that groups of soldiers might carry on underground, guerrilla warfare against the American forces for years to come. It was thought further that a deep hatred might have been bred in the masses of the Japanese people toward America, and that this might make reconstruction and the eventual establishment of an acceptable Japanese government impossible. It was forecast in some quarters that full-scale occupation of the Japanese islands might have to be maintained for a generation or more.

The MacArthur policy in Japan would take volumes to describe in detail. Its basic principle has been education—coupled with a very firm kind of justice. The first step was the elimination of the Japanese militarists from positions of influence. The war criminals were sought out, tried, and punished. The enormous authority of the Emperor—which is a religious force difficult to understand in an Occidental country—was used to the utmost. The Japanese people were assured that the Americans were there to help them help themselves and that they had nothing to fear if they obeyed the rules. An extremely tight discipline was established over the American military forces, and it was demanded that they make themselves worthy examples of a democratic nation.

MacArthur has been criticized for many things, but no one can doubt his purposes, or his administrative ability. To inculcate even the simplest democratic principles in the Japanese mind has been a task of extraordinary difficulty. Japan has always been a feudal country. The bulk of the people have never had anything to say about its government. Until 1853, when the U. S. flotilla under Commodore Perry opened the door to trade, it had been almost completely secluded from Western influences. In late years, the militarists swamped the country with their sword-rattling propaganda, and did everything possible to sell the idea that Japan's destiny was domination of the world.

In the face of all this, the American occupation forces have achieved a remarkable degree of success. It would be ridiculous to assume that Japan is now completely prepared for self-government. She will have to be guided in one way or another for a long time to come. But a growing measure of democratic knowledge and feeling is being built up, and special stress has been placed on democratic education in the schools. Work is now being done to revitalize Japanese industry and trade, and the campaign against the black market—scourge of Japan as it is of all the defeated nations—has been intensified.

It is notable that MacArthur has had a free hand in Japan and, in that, he has had a tremendous advantage over the occupation chiefs in Europe. Russian influence has been generally confined to her section of Korea—and there, as usual, she has established an iron curtain. In the main islands Russia has had little to say to policy, and MacArthur has brooked no obstructionist tactics. There are communist elements among the Japanese people, but they seem to be very much in the minority. Japan, under American rule, has come a long way in two years, and this country has every reason for pride in that accomplishment.

"DEAD" BOY TO CELEBRATE BIRTHDAY—Jerome Randall of Wethersfield, Conn., who "died" July 17 and was restored to life by a quick acting surgeon, celebrates his eighth birthday in a wheelchair in a Hartford, Conn., hospital with ice cream and a birthday cake. While surgeons were sewing up a foot wound the anesthetist reported the boy's pulse had vanished. Dr. R. Starr Lampson quickly made an incision in the chest and manipulated the heart by hand. Twenty-seven minutes later the boy's heart began to beat of its own volition.

FULGHAM NEWS

It so happened that two of our revivals are scheduled at the same time. Rev. Harry Williams of Barlow will be guest preacher at Mt. Pleasant Methodist, which begins Sunday, August 17, and Rev. C. W. Lawseries of services at Bethel Baptist Monday night, August 18. Both are forceful speakers, but good preachers need co-operation in the pulpit carries conviction to those in the pews, but sinners at home do not hear the sermons. It takes prayers and the personal work to reach them.

Both churches and their pastors, Rev. Stephen Cobb at Bethel, and Rev. A. B. Rogers at Mt. Pleasant are calling you to come to the place of your choice and convenience. The place isn't so important. The worship is what counts. Be there at the beginning and continue to attend.

The Chapel meeting closed Sunday with good interest, several re-dedications and five church additions; Jim Beard, Mrs. Jim Beard, Mrs. Robert McClure, Bobby Whitlock and Joe Tarver. ### Sports Roundup

By Skipper Patrick
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

Kansas City, Aug. 13.—(AP)—Co-owners Tom Baird and T. Y. Wilkinson of the Kansas City Monarchs declare the major leagues have only scratched the surface of outstanding talent in the negro American and National baseball circuits.

The Kansas City promoters broke in three of the four negroes now in the majors—Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson and Willard Brown and Henry Thompson of the St. Louis Browns. The Baird-Wilkinson team, now in its twenty-seventh season, predicts that with better training and coaching the negro leagues would fairly blossom with major league stars.

LeRoy (Bathel) Paige, still the most cherished asset of the Monarchs, Kansas City's entry in the negro American league, has been invited by the National Baseball Congress to throw out the first ball, make the first pitch, or do just about anything he would like on the night of Aug. 20 when the first All-Dixie negro team makes its start in the Congress' thirteenth semi-pro tournament at Wichita, Kas. Paige had been invited by President Ray Dumont to appear on opening night Friday, but Ole Bathel has a conflicting league date. Paige's 60 strikeouts in five games for the Monarchs, N. D. team in 1935 in the first national tourney, is still a record for the Dumont extravaganza.

NON-COMMISSIONED COMMISSIONER

Reeves Peters is serving his ninth year as secretary-treasurer of the National Association of Football Commissioners—but actually he's not a commissioner, of the same status as other members of the association. The capable Kansas Cityan, a prep school coach for 26 years and a former football-basketball referee, is commissioner of officials for the Big Six conference, but his duties are limited to assigning officials for Big Six athletic contests. He undertakes no administrative duties, does no rule interpreting or any of the other jobs most conference commissioners handle.

For Right To Show Horses At Ky. Fair

Louisville, Ky., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Suit will be filed in an attempt to force the 1947 Kentucky state fair horse show to accept entries of Miss Jean McLean, Virginia horsewoman, her father, George T. McLean, announced yesterday.

McLean's attorneys said the suit probably will be filed tomorrow in circuit court. The lawyers said McLean will seek a court order to require admission of Miss McLean's horses. One of them is Oakhill Chief, 1946 grand champion at the fair here.

The committee recently rejected Miss McLean's entries after it said the horses would be barred because of the "past behavior" of her father.

With the resumption of operations the 1947 Agricultural Conservation program again will offer Fulton county farmers assistance in using phosphate and potash on all soil-conserving legume and grasses. W. H. Harrison, chairman of the county Agricultural Conservation Committee, said today.

Farmers are finding it more difficult to obtain these fertilizers this year because of increased demand, but the county committee will assist in every way possible in carrying out conservation plans, he said. With limited supplies of phosphate available for 1947, many farmers who have used phosphate to earn their soil-building allowances in past years may find it desirable to earn more of their allowances this year by spreading lime, growing winter cover crops, or building terraces for control of erosion.

Fund Data Sought On County Hiways For 12-Yr. Period

Frankfort, Ky.—The problem of rural county highways in Kentucky will be stressed in the survey now being conducted only after definite information is established as to the amount of money available for the purpose, J. Stephen Watkins, commissioner of the Department of Highways, told a highway user group meeting here today. The survey, under the direction of the Public Administration Service of Chicago, will be reviewed by the roads committees of 10 organizations interested in the improvement of Kentucky highways.

"The report should outline a 12-year program with definite recommendations as to the amount of money needed and the amount available after all other necessary highway expenses are covered," Watkins said. "Each of the roads committees will be asked to contribute data, review its own section and study the report as a whole before it is presented as the ultimate program. It must be completed by Oct. 6. It will be mailed to all interested candidates in order that a well-rounded outline will be ready for the legislative council, the members of the legislature themselves and the various candidates."

Loss Of British Buyers Affects Flue-Cured Market

Atlanta, Ga., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Withdrawal of Great Britain as a heavy purchaser of American cigarette-type tobacco has depressed the market for flue-cured leaf, but tobacco sources report the U. S. government support-program has prevented any sharp break in prices.

Britain's Imperial Tobacco Company, usually a heavy buyer of high grade cigarette leaf, declines to disclose its total purchases, but observers for the United States Department of Agriculture report British agents buying "little" on flue-cured markets.

Auction sales opened July 24 in the Georgia-Florida belt, and Aug. 7 in the North-South Carolina belt. They open Aug. 25 in the eastern (North Carolina) area, and Sept. 16 in the middle North Carolina belt. Later the leaf will go on sale in the old belt (Virginia and North Carolina) on Sept. 23, and auctions of Virginia dark fire-cured leaf begin Dec. 8.

Used houses account for three-fourths of the annual residential sales in the United States.

Bates Termed Sane, Insane

Tompkinsville Vet Facing Double Murder Charge To Be Tried In Monroe Court

Tompkinsville, Ky., Aug. 13.—(AP)—Whether Robert J. Bates will be brought to trial on charges of slaying his parents depended today, County Attorney Abe Carter said, on the outcome of the 25-year-old war veteran's lunacy hearing.

Testimony that differed on Bates' mental condition went into the record after the hearing started in Monroe circuit court yesterday. Bates formerly resided in Louisville, Ky., where his estranged wife, Mrs. Vernella Bates, and their three-year-old daughter live.

Eighteen defense witnesses remained to be heard, while the commonwealth said it had 10 more witnesses to call.

A 12-man Monroe county jury was chosen to hear the case. Special Judge C. C. Duncan, a Monticello attorney, presided, upon appointment by the court of appeals.

Duncan was named after Monroe Circuit Judge James C. Carter, Jr., disqualified himself. Judge Carter had overruled a defense request for the lunacy hearing when Bates was arraigned on murder indictments in connection with the rifle slaying of his parents, Dr. J. C. Bates and Mrs. Ethel Bates, both chiropractors, here June 22. Judge Gus Thomas of the state's highest tribunal later overruled the lower court on petition of the defense and ordered the lunacy hearing.

Dr. David Stewart of the Louisville General Hospital staff said Bates showed symptoms warranting a recommendation that he be sent to a hospital for "psychiatric examination." But Dr. Raymond Evans, Louisville physician, testified Bates was sane when attended by the physician last January. He expressed belief Bates was suffering from acute alcoholism.

Today's Games
Fulton at Madisonville.
Owensboro at Union City.
Mayfield at Clarksville.
Hopkinsville at Cairo.

YOU can help

The regulations which forbid the sale of alcoholic beverages to minors are important.

Kentucky's Alcoholic Beverage Industry is wholeheartedly in favor of such regulations.

Nobody wants a return to the unwholesome conditions of Prohibition days.

During Prohibition nobody asked:

"How old are you?"

Then, the only question was:

"Do you have enough money?"

We can best protect our young people by preserving our present Legal Control set up. Violations of control regulations should be reported to authorities.

Legal Control is a law-abiding system. Let's keep it that way.
