Sunday Latest For '47 Pasture To Be OK'ed

County Farmers
To Receive Pay
For Soil-Saving

10,000 ACRES NEEDED

W. H. Harrison, chairman of the Fulton county Agricultural Conservation Committee, today reminded farmers that Aug. 31 is the last day for approval of pasture development practices in the 1947 Agricultural conservation program.

Establishment or improvement of permanent pasture is one of the 18 practices in the 1947 program. Prior approval of pasture development is required for credit in the program.

Permanent pasture provides a year-around cover for land and prevents excessive erosion, Mr. Harrison stated. At the same time the pasture provides forage needed for dairy cows and other livestock.

Mr. Harrison said that under the conservation program payments for pasture practices are based on the types of legume and grass seeds used. For approved practices, the following payment rates have been established for each pound of seeds used:

Kentucky bluegrass, 68 cents; orchard grass, 15 cents; redtop, 15 cents; timothy, 8 cents; Kentucky 31 fescue, 40 cents; red clover, 36 cents; alfalfa clover, 32 cents; alfalfa, 38 cents; sweetclover (scarified), 16 cents; sweetclover (unscarified), 12 cents; annual lespedeza, 8 cents; and ladino clover $1.20.

To qualify for payment, one acre and one legume from the group listed must be secured. Additional information may be obtained from the county Agricultural Conservation Association office.

According to Mr. Harrison, surveys have shown that Fulton county needs an additional 10,000 acres of permanent pasture.

'47 Corn Carnival Plans Discussed By U. C. Legion

Union City—Plans for a "bigger and better" celebration of the second annual American Legion Corn Carnival were started Friday night at a meeting of Legion committees with agricultural leaders of the county. The event will be held Oct. 16, 17, and 18.

Climaxing the three-day event will be the Queen's Ball, at which the winner of the beauty revue will be crowned. Officials said the list of prizes will be larger, and that more entries in all events are expected.

New Ag Building At U-T, Martin

Martin—Laboratory equipment to be used in the study of scientific farming is being installed in the new agricultural science building at the University of Tennessee Junior College at Martin. The building will be occupied by students and faculty in September.

The building will house laboratories for the study of physics, zoology, botany, dairying, horticulture and soils. There are two lecture rooms and nine offices for faculty members.

Will Be Graduated By U-T, Knoxville

Knoxville, Tenn.—Four students from Obion county and one from Weakley county are among the 288 candidates for degrees at the University of Tennessee's summer quarter commencement Aug. 28. They are:

Obion—Oliver Sylvester Baidge, Obion; James F. Lippard and Martha Carline Harris, Union City; Odie B. Stover Jr., Elbridge.

Weakley—Cayce Lafon Fenton, William Douglas Moore, William Leo Fritchett, Dresden; Kathryn Warren, William Butler, Martin.

Consul General at Batavia, Java, talks with President Soekarno (right) and Prime Minister Amir Sjarifoedden (left), of the Republic of Indonesia, shortly after his arrival in Jogjakarta, capital of the republic, to offer the good offices of the United States in mediating the warfare between the Dutch and his Indonesians. Dutch spokesman said that cease firing order was a sham and that Indonesians were active on many fronts in Java and Sumatra. U. S. has withdrawn from settlement attempts.

Bloodless Revolt In Ecuador Gives Army Chief Presidency

Quito, Ecuador.—(AP)—Dr. Jose Maria Velasco Ibarra was ousted as president today in a bloodless "single shot" revolution led by the Minister of Defense, Col. Carlos Manchengo, who assumed complete control of the government in the name of the country's armed forces.

An attempt by Velasco Ibarra to remove Manchengo as defense minister apparently led to the revolution, which caught most citizens of the capital by complete surprise.

Manchengo announced Velasco Ibarra's "resignation," and said the former president and his wife would be exiled to Colombia. It was from that country that 54-year-old Velasco Ibarra returned from exile in 1944 to assume the presidency after an attempt against the regime of Dr. Carlos Alberto Arroyo del Rio.

Manchengo announced he would ask Jose Vicente Trujillo, chief of the Ecuadorian delegation to the hemispheric defense conference, to remain as foreign minister.

(At Petropolis, Brazil, Trujillo declared he was returning immediately to Ecuador, since "I no longer represent a government here." He added that news of the coup was "a complete surprise.")

Velasco Ibarra was taken into custody last night by a military group which went directly to the presidential palace.

The presidential guard fired one shot. Informed that the delegation of army officers wanted to call on the president, the guard offered no resistance.

The president was taken to an army barracks. There the group demanded his resignation. Velasco Ibarra insisted on seeing Manchengo, and he was received at the latter's barracks with "full honors."

At 3:30 a. m., Manchengo announced that Velasco Ibarra had resigned.

It was a repetition of history for Velasco Ibarra, who became president of Ecuador for the first time in 1934, only to be forced out of office by a military group 11 months later.

Manchengo said he would call together all political parties, without exception, to give them a chance to choose the best man possible to take over the ministerial portfolios in a new Government.

Paul Smiley Accidentally Shot, Killed

Was Cleaning His Small Bore Rifle
At Home Sunday

SERVICES TUESDAY

Paul Smiley, 33, was killed at about 8 o'clock Sunday morning when a .22 caliber rifle he was cleaning discharged. The bullet struck his neck, and he died almost instantly.

Mr. Smiley lived on the W. W. Batts farm, Route 3, Fulton. He was sitting on the back porch of his home there when the tragic accident occurred.

He had been at the Batts farm since January, 1947, and spent his entire life in and near Fulton.

Funeral services will be conducted at 11 o'clock tomorrow morning, Aug. 26, at the Mt. Moriah church, near Pulgaham in Hickman county, with Elder Charles Houser, Fulton Church of Christ minister, officiating. Burial will be in the church cemetery. Hornbeak Funeral Home is in charge.

Mr. Smiley leaves his wife, Mrs. Alma Jackson Smiley; a daughter, Bobbie Jean, 6; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Smiley, South Fulton; three brothers, Sanford and Malcolm of Fulton and Blue of Port Arthur, Texas; two sisters, Mrs. Arline Rydstedt of Port Arthur, Tex., and Mrs. Althea Brockwell of Union City.

Progress Made On Hemisphere Defense Treaty

Argentine Plea
To Outlaw Force
Is Compromised

SEEK QUICK VOTE

Petropolis, Brazil.—(AP)—Informed sources said a compromise agreement had been reached in committee on Argentina's controversial demand that the use of force be barred in settling conflicts within the Western Hemisphere.

Other sources said two-thirds of the defense treaty, on which the Inter-American Conference has been working for a week, had been agreed upon.

A compromise agreed upon "in principle" on Argentina's insistence that force not be used in the event of intra-hemispheric conflicts was reported to center on a Venezuelan formula providing:

1. Joint consultations before taking armed action against aggression within the hemisphere.

2. Immediate joint armed-defense measures to meet attacks from outside the hemisphere, with consultations later.

If virtual agreement has been reached along these lines, the last remaining major barrier to quick completion of a defense treaty would be Argentina's demand for unanimity before joint action is taken to meet aggression.

Brazilian foreign Minister Paul Fernandes, conference president, who has engineered several compromises which have taken the conference over its most formidable barriers, was understood to have prepared a "democratic answer" to the Argentine demand. Fernandes is known to be seeking a quick vote on this question, probably at the Tuesday meeting of the committee on voting procedure.

Argentine representatives have stated their delegation is "democratically inclined to go along with the majority" on this point.

Catholic School Planned Here

Students In Grades 1-8
Will Register at Church

Registration of students in grades one through eight who will attend St. Edward's Catholic school, first institution of its kind in the history of Fulton, will be held at the church Friday, Aug. 29, from 9 to 11 a. m. Announcement concerning registration of children of preschool age will be made later.

Classes will be conducted in the small building adjacent to the church on Eddings street, and the three Sisters who will teach will live in the rear of the building. The teachers are Sisters Isabella, Celeste and Vincent Marie, all from the convent at St. Catherine, Ky.

If possible, a kindergarten or nursery school will be conducted, and the school will be open to Protestant children also.

The school will be financed entirely by the church.

What Governor of South Carolina Said To Ladies

Columbia, S. C.—(AP)—South Carolina's bachelor Governor, J. Strom Thurmond, said today that "I'm against" longer skirts for women's dresses.

Asked why, Thurmond replied, "I think that should be obvious, don't you?"

Thurmond said he was not in favor of longer skirts for women's dresses.

Farm Meet Cancelled Outbreak of Anthrax, Stopped Disease, Halts Plans For Picnic and Shows

The 14th annual Fulton county Fair and picnic and the 4-H Club dairy and baby beef shows on scheduled to be held at the old fairgrounds here Aug. 27-29, have been postponed indefinitely due to an outbreak of anthrax, a deadly livestock disease in this county.

The farm gathering was called off by order of the State Department of Health, acting through Harry Barry, Fulton and Hickman counties sanitarian. Announcement of the postponement was made today by Charles Wright, president of the Fulton County Farm Bureau.

The bacterial disease has been prevalent in Southeast Missouri recently, and several cases have been reported in Fulton county in the past weekend. A calf owned by a Fulton county 4-H club boy died of the disease last night, Mr. Wright said.

If it is possible to hold the Farm Bureau 4-H Club event later this year, announcement of the new dates will be made by the county Farm Bureau.

James B. Roster, FBI special agent in Springfield, said the carnival worker, identified as John Francis Tammany, 36, below, had orally admitted killing Eugene Weaver during a drinking bout in Beaumont on October 9, 1946.

Light Airplane Crash Kills 3

New Albany, Ind., Trio
Die In Flaming BT-13
In Cornfield Near City

Louisville—Two men and a woman companion, flying in a surplus Army plane, crashed to their deaths in a cornfield near New Albany, their home town, yesterday afternoon.

Burned beyond immediate recognition, they were later identified by state police as: James E. Cooley, Jr., 24, pilot and owner of the plane.

Melvin Goss, 22, Miss Katherine Skipper, 23.

The plane, an Army-surplus BT-13, burst into flames just after it crashed at 3:20 p. m. three miles east of New Albany near the Payne-Koehler Road.

Persons living in the area rushed to the scene, but because of the intense heat were unable to enter the wreckage to rescue the three occupants. A unit of the New Albany fire department, after plowing through the cornfield, extinguished the flames 20 minutes after the crash.

Two of the bodies were in a jumbled heap. The third, apparently that of a woman, was in an upright position on the back seat, one hand clutching the side of the plane.

Aiding Britain May Hurt U. S. World Trade

Other Nations
May Be Short
Of U. S. Dollars

TAKING BIG CHANCE

Washington.—(AP)—The financial concessions granted the dollar-short British by the United States threaten to upset the administration's carefully laid plans for expanding world commerce on an unrestricted trade basis.

Government trade experts expressed the opinion that last week's agreement permitting the British to limit the exchange of their currency may delay indefinitely plans to persuade other countries to adopt more liberal trading principles.

The right of all nations to exchange foreign currencies into any kind of money they need is a key point in the American-sponsored trade program.

As a result of the British-American accord, the British need honor only part of the demands for dollars made on them by traders in other countries from whom the British buy.

This arrangement is only "temporary," but neither British nor American officials who reached the decision would venture a guess on how long it will take the British to return to free convertibility.

The United States has spoken up frequently during the past several years in favor of freer trading among other countries as a means of insuring prosperity.

These principles were embodied only last Friday in a draft charter for an international trade organization approved by 17 nations after three months of intensive negotiation in Geneva.

There is a distinct possibility that American trade will fall off, they said, because other countries that formerly got dollars from Britain to buy in the United States will be short of funds.

Officials who asked not to be quoted by name indicated the American conferees realized they might set back American trade plans when they agreed to allow the British to suspend the dollar-conversion feature in the $3,750,000,000 loan. It was either a case of saying no and taking a chance that the British would go bankrupt with resulting world-wide economic chaos, or accepting in the interim a blueprint now being worked out.

Ample Quinine Supply Expected As Controls End

Surveys just completed show that ample supplies of quinine, used for malaria and in many commercial products, and quinine, heart medicine, are available now and should continue to be easily procurable with the end of American government controls.

The trade commissioner for the Netherlands Indies, in New York, reports that the situation in quinine sales has improved to the extent that quantities which can be made available to the U. S. have been increased by approximately 50 percent.

This means that quinine available to Americans can be increased to about 3,500,000 ounces by next April. Prominent importers of cinchona products, including quinine, confirm the Netherlands Indies government statement.

More College Students

Announcement by the University of Kentucky that it can accommodate more Kentucky students this fall follows similar statements by many of the smaller colleges, and reflects the growing interest in higher education in our state.

Principal reason for the greatly increased college and university enrollments, of course, is the return of thousands of veterans who are attending school under provisions of the GI Bill of Rights.

Dr. H. L. Donovan, president of the University of Kentucky, said here last year that he expects the university enrollment to level off at about 8,000 by 1950. Dr. Ralph Woods, president of Murray State College, thinks last year's enrollment of approximately 1,500 will be equalled or exceeded for several years.

This sign of the times is most encouraging, and counteracts much of the pessimism spread by the prophets of gloom as to the future of our nation. An informed citizenry can cope with any problems that come along, up to and including the use of atomic energy. Though degrees from colleges are desirable for those who strive for financial success, the higher purpose of college education, sometimes not realized until long after the diplomas are awarded, is to teach the students how to live happily, and to adapt themselves to their constantly-changing environment.

Small Town Celebrities

Many of the greatest men in our history came from small towns and few of the leaders in Congress represent cities. Dr. Norman Vincent Peale, pastor of New York's Marble Collegiate Church, pays high tribute to small towns as a source of healthy democratic spirits. "In the small town," he says, "men and women are men and women for what they are. The carpenter calls the banker by his first name. They probably went to school together."

The same limitations on human beings apply in small towns as in cities, but the individual in the small town has a better chance to express himself.

Smearing at "the small town man" or the country lawyer or editor is out of place. (From the Raleigh News and Observer.)

You do not get a man's most effective criticism until you provoke him. Severe truth is expressed with some bitterness.—H. D. Thoreau.

What is merciful censure? To make thy faults appear smaller? May-be to tell them? No, no! O'er them to raise thee on high.—Goethe.

"Backward Glances" At Fulton VA To Speed Pay to Students

By Ouida Jewell

It was a large crowd that gathered for a picnic dinner down at Uncle Ben Maddox's farm on a recent Sunday. To be exact there were about 51 in all—children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren each carrying a basket of good things to eat to spread on the tables under the shady trees in true southern fashion.

It was a big occasion, for Uncle Ben was 90 years old that day.

He is a likable old colored man who lives with his wife, Aunt Emma, on their 80 acre farm near Jordan. They are parents of 10 children, several of whom live in Fulton. One of their children is Cassey Maddox, Chambers of Taylor street, in South Fulton. Cassey is a school teacher in the Milton colored school and is a writer of some note.

Uncle Ben and Aunt Emma are a devoted old couple. Although he is feeble, his sight failing and his hearing is impaired, Uncle Ben is still interested in all that goes on. Last November when it was hog-killing-day down on the farm, Uncle Ben felt he just had to be present. It was a bitter cold day and other members of the family warned him he must go into the house for fear the cold would make him ill. Tearfully he said, "I won't go in, less 'Hon' goes, too" this is Uncle Ben's only name for Aunt Emma.

There have been many changes since he was a lad, for he was born into slavery near State Line, Ky., a little station on the N. C. and St. L. Railroad, six miles from Hickman. His father, Ned, was bought as a slave by Elijah Maddox, a prominent land-owner of that section. Elijah Maddox was grandfather of the late E. G. Maddox of 209 Cedar street.

Ned took the name of his white master, as was the antebellum custom.

Ben was too young to recall much about the Civil War, but he does remember seeing soldiers of both North and South marching by—great lines of them, perhaps one-half mile long. Northern soldiers were stationed at Union City, and they did much damage. They would take anything that they could get—horses, chickens, food. They also forced the men slaves to go with them, to be used in the army in some way. To prevent this, many owners hid their slaves.

William Maddox, father of E. G. Maddox, was in the army four years. Ben recalls that when his white master returned from the army, he brought back the sorrel horse, John, that he took with him. This horse had been trained to rear up when the command "Charge" was given, and Ben had great fun sliding and falling from John's back when the animal responded to the command.

As young Ben grew up he spent much of his time in the Maddox home as nurse for the Maddox children: E. G., John, Lee, father of Clarence Maddox, and Nina (Mrs. J. M. Linn of Murray). Uncle Ben still considers the family of Eliza Maddox his "white folks."

What Is Aggression?

By Sigrid Arne

(For Dewitt MacKenzie.)

At the Rio Conference of the American Republics an old international teaser has risen again: when do friendly nations go to each others' help?

Time and again nations have tried to define aggression so they would be agreed at what point to gang up and stop a war-maker. That seems simple enough to a layman. But the League of Nations spent months arguing the question and got nowhere. Russia's foreign commissar of the day, Maxim Litvinoff, pressed for an agreement that would send the member states out after anyone who:

1. Declared war on another state.
2. Invaded another nation.
3. Attached the territory, vessels or aircraft of another nation.
4. Set up a naval blockade.
5. Supported armed bands active in another country or refused to take steps at home to deny aid to such bands.

Litvinoff failed in the league, but under him in the 30's Russia put the provisions into treaties with Romania, Estonia, Latvia, Poland, Turkey, Iran and Afghanistan.

Some how think that, if the league had approved the Litvinoff plan, point 5 would have prevented World War II. It could have been invoked against Germany in Spain, Austria and Czechoslovakia.

And, ironically, with Litvinoff ill and in the discard, today's Russia probably would be adjudged that culprit under his formula.

The idea of defining aggression got a little flesh on its bones at the 1945 Chapultepec conference. There the American republics did promise to stop any nation whose troops crossed international borders in the Western hemisphere.

The idea came up at the San Francisco conference of the United Nations, but failed.

Now the republics gathered at Rio have been asked again to decide when aggression starts. Cuba's Guillermo Betl started it with a request for action against "economic aggression." That shot was fired at the United States, which, through a recent sugar act, permits the secretary of agriculture to limit U. S. purchase of sugar whenever a nation refuses American citizens fair treatment. That worries Cuba because her welfare rises and falls by large sales of sugar to the U. S.

But Betl's demand is a perfect example of the difficulty of defining aggression, which has become so varied and so fancy.

Observers here think the Americas have a better chance than usual to agree on some formula that will shorten the lag between the start of war and the rallying of the peaceful nations. If they succeed the warning sign will be hoisted higher against land-grabbers and government-wreckers.

Building Material Is Really Scarce

San Diego, Calif.—(P)—There's a mystery here—the county courthouse's cornerstone is lost.

Newspaper files show that on Aug. 12, 1871, there was a cornerstone laying ceremony with sealing in of the usual papers and charters.

But the San Diego Tribune-Sun now discloses that the stone has disappeared, possibly long since.

The best guess is that it was "soiled in" itself by one of the several jobs of remodeling and adding to the venerable structure.

New Zealand Boys At Nelson College Hogs About Jam

Wellington, New Zealand—(P)—Nelson College is spending $3,888 a year on jam for its 270 hungry boy boarders.

At a meeting of the college's council of governors, it was revealed boys were eating jam at the rate of 6 1/2 lb. each a month, while boarders in the girls' college ate only 3 lb. each month.

The governors rated the jam expenditure heavy, but no action was taken to cut the boys' consumption.

Sports Roundup

(By Jack Hawkins)

Seattle.—(AP)—The genial, gentleman from Georgia who has his heart set on going back to the majors some day in a manager's toga, has whipped a bad knee, a bump on the noggin, and a last place complex to make the Seattle Rainiers a factor in the 1947 Pacific Coast League scramble.

Jo-Jo White was a ball of fire in Detroit for seven seasons and he hasn't cooled a bit. He still runs those bases like a be-stung mule, lams the first pitch behind the runner in the clutch, fights nervously in right field, and a last place complex to make the Seattle Rainiers a factor in the 1947 Pacific Coast League scramble.

White came back to Seattle late last year as head man in several seasons in baseball's swashbuckling, during which he got in a miffed of railroad mileage commencing between the Coast League and the Majors. He found the club hopelessly in the cellar, mentally as well as statistically.

Just as Jo-Jo got the Rainiers off to a fair start this year his knee ballooned uncontrollably and for a couple of months it was a chore for him to hobble out to home plate and hand the umpires his lineup. In spite of it he played at times and used himself as a pinch-hitter—and for a time he was the league's top clubhouse.

Doctors wanted to operate but Jo-Jo said no—he couldn't spare the time. Any number of medics and trainers worked on the knee and one day the swelling was gone and the smiling Georgian doesn't know who should get the credit.

So he was booming along setting the hitting and fielding pace for the team and one day a thrown ball cracked him on the back of the head and knocked him colder than an umpire's heart. He's had a gradually disappearing twitch in his left eye ever since and the batting average has sagged.

"I stand up there at the plate worryin' over the next twitch instead of the next pitch," laughs Jo-Jo.

"But I'm superstitious. The team seems to do better when I'm playing. I'll stay out there and play as long as I figger I can do the team some good. Rem (that's Mrs. White, who wouldn't miss a game for a mink coat) says I won't quit until I'm shovelled out, but I think I'll know when I get to the end of the line."

That will be a sorry day for the fans. There isn't a more popular man in the circuit than Jo-Jo White. The "old college try" is still in good repute with the Georgian and his players ride their luck hard keeping up with the boss.

After more than a year of cellar dwelling the team climbed to the awful height of fourth place for a tie and has been kicking around in fifth spot for most of August. White and his elderly athletes are shooting for a first division place but the fans bolt into the stands like the team was only a couple of percentage points out of the top spot. Forty-seven thousand piled into Sick's Stadium last week to watch the team play last place Sacramento and attendance to date has been 455,000.

The knee is back to normal, the eye is quiet, his twitshin, the team is coming along and all's well with the Joyner (Jo-Jo) Whites.

Free Football Film Tonight

To Be Shown in New Gym At 8 p. m. By Cap Maddox

There will be a free showing of the instructive football film, "Football By The Code," tonight at 8 o'clock in the new gym, according to Cap Maddox, well known Kentucky sports official. This is the same film that Cap will use in conducting his clinic for football over the state during the next few weeks.

Previews of the film indicate that it is a "must" with all football officials and very helpful to players who wish to learn the rules of the game. In addition it is of general interest to grid fans, giving them a more intelligent background with which to follow a game on the field.

After the film Cap will hold open forum for all present who wish to discuss the points brought out. The film itself will last only 30 minutes and those who do not wish to remain afterwards are free to go.

All local officials and members of the high football squad are especially invited to attend, and the invitation is extended to all football fans.

Ten percent of the people of here are more than 65 years old compared with seven percent in the United States.

Chicks Blanked By Clothiers, Then Take Two From Egyptians

The Chicks lost a half game over the weekend in the bitter fight down to the line being waged by Mayfield, Hopkinsville, Madisonville and Fulton to gain three places in the Kitty playoff to be held early next month. They defeated the Egyptians at Cairo last night, taking both ends of a double header 10-5 and 6-3, but lost Saturday night's all important game to Mayfield 9-3.

With only nine games remaining on the Chick schedule they still have an even chance of being in the playoff. They return to Cairo tonight for the final game there this year, journey to Mayfield the 26th, 27th and 28th, return home with Cairo the 29th, 30th and 31st, then finish the season at Union City on Labor Day, Sept. 1, with a double header.

From here it looks as if the series with the Clothiers at Mayfield is the one that tells the tale.

Saturday night Held pitched five-hit ball in leading his mates to a shutout victory.

In the top of the first, Rzendzian got on through a fielder's choice. Williams singled, and Mainzer scored the run with another single. Then in the second Bollinger reached first on a single. Held sacrificed him down to second, Palco was out second to first, and Bergdoll knocked in the run with a one-base blow. Bergdoll tripled in the ninth to score Palco, who singled just before him.

The Chicks didn't threaten seriously all night until the ninth inning, when Seawright tripled with two men away. Pechous fanned and the game

Huge New Ship Capable Of Carrying 16 Tons At 300 MPH, Wright Claims

Columbus, Ohio.—(AP)—Military and commercial air-line officials today witnessed preview demonstrations of a post-war sky truck, capable of carrying 16 tons of freight at 300 miles an hour, at the Columbus plant of Curtiss-Wright Corporation.

A full-scale wood mock-up of an air freight designed to carry larger air cargoes than any airplane yet introduced, including the 31,000-pound 155-mm. "Long Tom" field gun, was shown as being capable of carrying any commercial cargo that would fit into a boxcar.

The entire tail section is hinged and may be raised by a hydraulic system, permitting a 7 1/2-ton truck to be driven aboard. A single unit 48 feet long, 9 feet wide, and 7 feet high, weighing 32,000 pounds, can be accommodated.

Engineers have determined the direct operating costs at approximately 4 cents a mile, meaning overnight delivery of one ton of freight from New York to San Francisco for $112.

Fabulous Rube Waddell Spent His Last Days At Hickman, Ky., After Hectic Life In Majors

(From Itchy's Report in Louisville Courier-Journal)

Have you heard the story of the greatest of great pitchers, who once quit pitching in the middle of a game to go fishing? Who taught pet geese to jump rope to land a vaudeville contract? And who spent his last days at Hickman, Ky., fighting a flood caused by a broken Reel-foot levee?

The life story of the fabulous Rube Waddell is one of many entertaining chapters in a book coming off the press this week—Baseball, an historical narrative by Robert Smith (Simon and Schuster, New York, $3.50).

Rube began his professional baseball life with Louisville in the old National League. It wasn't long before signing with Louisville that he was moving on down in semi-pro ball in Pennsylvania. He had fanned opponents, Smith reports, when a friend drove a buggy a long said the field and said, "Let's go fishing." Rube climbed right in and rode away.

He celebrated his first pro contract so robustly that he lasted only two games. He became so famous on other fields, however, that our manager Fred Clark, felt called on to buy him back. He won seven of nine games for us just before Louisville lopped off the National League, Barney Dreyfuss took Rube and most of his other players to Pittsburgh.

Rube was listed to pitch against Brooklyn early the next spring, Smith recalls. "But he wandered out of the park just as the game was to begin, and was discovered playing marbles under the stands with several small boys. Fred Clark had to come after him; but he was worth his trouble. Rube pitched a shutout for Pittsburgh."

Rube picked up his drinking then, and wandered off to pastures where the pressure was less. After some time he landed with Connie Mack's Athletics, and under the kindly Mr. McGillicuddy he rose to his heights during seven successful seasons.

"He became famous for his trick of calling in the infielders," reports Smith. "Of course he did this only in exhibition games, for the rules of the American League forbade fielders to walk off before the inning was over, even if Waddell said they might. One day against Detroit, however, he had the outfielders squat on their hunkers just behind the base line while he showed the crowd that he just couldn't be hit when he didn't want to be."

The Athletics, who had started in last place that first year, won the pennant because of Rube's pitching. Working only half the season he won 23 games and lost only seven.

But he wandered off more than once. "He signed with fire departments so he could ride the fire engines," he said. "He missed a ball game once when he was offered a chance to lead

McDaniel is Winner In Caddy Play; Trevathan Second

Harry Wayne McDaniel is the new Caddy King of the Links at the Fulton Country Club. In the finals of the Caddy Tournament played this morning he defeated the runner-up, Charles Trevathan, 3 up.

Charles was five down at the end of the first round, but rallied to give Harry Wayne a hot time before going down. Harry Wayne carded a 46-52 for a 98, and Charles shot a 52-49 for a 101.

Charles, who is 12 years old, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Sam Trevathan, of E. State Line, and Harry Wayne is the son of Mr. and Mrs. McDaniel, also of E. State Line. Harry Wayne is 13.

9,100 Bushels Set Aside For Ky. Lunchrooms

Fourteen carloads of vitamin-rich green beans—9,100 bushels—have been set aside for Kentucky school lunchroom and institutional menus this fall and winter, Russell H. James, of the U. S. Department of Agriculture's production and marketing administration, announced today.

James, area supervisor of PMA's food distribution programs branch in Atlanta, said the beans were acquired by USDA through its price support operations in Kentucky, Tennessee, and Virginia. Donated to the Kentucky outlets, most of them will be canned for later use.

This and other food contributions by the federal government to the school lunch program are in addition to federal fund assistance, matched by the state. Food contributions include both fresh vegetables and canned fruits and vegetables, as well as other commodities purchased with funds provided by the National School Lunch Act.

The school lunch program is administered by the state Department of Education under a long term agreement with the U. S. Department of Agriculture.

Australia Sends U. S. More Wool

Sydney—Australia exported 3,261,332 bales of greasy and scoured wool valued at $305,516,000 in the nine months ended March 31, according to an Australian Government statistical report.

The exports compared with 1,937,907 bales valued at $154,194,000 in the corresponding three-quarters a year ago.

The government report said United States was Australia's best greasy wool customer buying 848,957 bales valued at $82,524,000.

Exports of greasy wool to Britain in the nine months were reported to have declined from 623,868 bales in the 1945-46 nine months to 424,646, but consignments to Belgium increased from 102,845 bales to 436,623.

KENTUCKY BUILDS

For Your Future Welfare . . . Here's How—

During the last 12 years, while Kentucky Utilities Company was bringing the cost of electricity down and down to where you now get twice as much for your money, it was also bringing additional benefits to Kentucky.

of K. U.'s income was poured into the economic structure of our state and nation.

Into Kentucky—for its homes and schools, its roads and bridges, its playgrounds, parks and civic functions—we paid:

$25,294,322 in salaries and wages to employees—and they in turn spent much of it locally.	not counting payroll or regular maintenance.	for Kentucky miners and railway employees.
$14,216,021 to our owners: Preferred stockholders, 5,731 of whom live in Kentucky, got $11,253,882; Common stock holders got $2,962,139.	$20,457,092 in local, state, and federal taxes.	During that same period, we have saved the people of Kentucky $15,648,887 by permanent reductions in electric rates. This figure would be even higher if the tremendous increase in the use of electricity during these years was included.
$15,986,095 for new construction in Kentucky—	$1,341,720 in retirement funds and insurance—voluntary contributions to employee welfare.	In addition, we used 2,979,320 tons of Kentucky coal—hundreds of thousands of man days of work

We believe these figures will show that our company is one of the state's important industrial assets. Not only our industry, but all tax-paying, business-managed, job-providing industries deserve fair play and encouragement from all the people.
