"It's Alarming"

(By Jess G. Anderson
In The Mayfield Messenger)

The lack of interest in voting in this vicinity is becoming alarming.

Only a fraction of Graves County's normal voting strength has gone to the polls in the last three or four elections and it seems that the only election which draws a full quota of voters is the county election every four years in which a full city and county ticket is voted on, and the big number of home-folks in the race stir up enough interest to get the disinterested voters to the polling places.

In the most recent election, when Democrats and Republicans were voting for a gubernatorial candidate, a total of 5,691 Democrats voted and a total of 463 Republicans went to the polls. This represents a little more than one-third of the eligible Democratic voters and about one-fifth of the eligible Republican vote in the county.

Such situations, such lack of interest in the only means the average man has of "running the government," a task he is usually performing on the street corners and in the fields throughout the year, is an alarming trend. It could mean that in a few years of such carelessness in failing to exercise this privilege which men have died for every since the United States won its freedom, that a small minority group could control all the government. Thank goodness, we have not had any candidates recently who would take advantage of our lack-lustre voting, but we could have a vicious minority who would work behind the scenes and get the right voters to the polls while they let the disinterested ones stay at home. Then when the votes are counted, to the utter amazement of those who did not go to the polls, some off-brand candidate would have the most votes and control the government. The same thing has happened in many of the foreign countries. It could happen here if the voters still persist in staying away from the polls.

Registration books are now open at the county clerk's offices in the courthouse. All persons who have become 21 years of age since last registration or will be 21 on or before November 4, may now register.

All persons who desire to change their party affiliations may now change their affiliation. All persons who have moved from one precinct to another, may, ten days prior to the closing registration date, register for proper precinct.

All qualified voters who are not registered may now register. (Veterans of World War II). Registration books will be open until midnight, Friday, September 5.

Criticism, as it was first instituted by Aristotle, was meant as a standard of judging well.—Johnson.

Reds Distort U. S. Policy

(By Edward E. Bomar
AP Foreign News Analyst)

American motives in trying to help Europe back on her feet are being distorted in a propaganda campaign whose intensity is hard to realize in a land where a free press and fair play are traditional.

Reminders bob up in news dispatches quoting Moscow's Pravda and Izvestia on some current turn of events, but only from time to time. In the meanwhile the campaign is being pressed relentlessly, day and night, in two score or more languages.

Both inside and outside the Soviet sphere of influence people are being told insistently that the Marshall plan for helping Europe help herself is just a device to fasten the grip of American trade monopolies on the continent.

As for Greece and Turkey, Uncle Sam is said to be backing reactionaries to extend American imperialism. Britain is pictured as "deep in the plot." These at the moment are the main themes of Moscow and its satellites.

In an effort to keep tabs on what is being said about us abroad, the state department receives a constant flow of reports from diplomats and carefully monitors the outpourings of scores of foreign radio transmitters, giving particular attention to radio Moscow.

A summary of foreign broadcasts runs to 100 or more pages of solid type daily. This not only testifies to the magnitude of the job but suggests that if any gratitude remains for the $20,000,000,000 or so we already have poured into Europe it is not Moscow's fault.

Random excerpts from one day's report: Moscow in German to Europe—"The meaning of the Marshall plan is now perfectly clear: the United States wishes to solve the economic problems of western Europe in the interest of the U. S. monopolies. . . . under the camouflage of a European relief scheme they want to end the economic independence of the countries of Europe."

Moscow to Russia—"American monopolists are unceremoniously pushing aside their impoverished Anglo-French partners and are striving to conquer all vantage points in the economy of western Europe."

Moscow in Danish to Europe—"It is no longer any secret that the U. S. food exports to Europe constitute one of the main items of the American economic mass attack against the European nations. . . . Uncle Sam will take great care not to lend one farthing if it should cross the interests of the U. S. monopolists and exporters."

Moscow in Norwegian to Europe—"There is no doubt that the U. S. policy which aims at handing over industrial concerns in western Germany to their former owners is also stimulating fascist activity in other countries."

These were taken from broadcasts of August 20 but it might have been any other day or night.

Chinese Farmers Depend On Colors To Kill Insects

Shanghai—(P)—Chinese farmers are noted more for their practicality than for their aesthetic appreciation. Therefore UNRRA's chemists in the UNRRA pesticides manufacturing plant here, where UNRRA is training young Chinese to produce insect-killing sprays and dusts, were puzzled at requests that DDT dust, pyrethrum powder and other chemicals be tinted rose and azure and maize. But the reason was purely practical.

When UNRRA first distributed bug poisons in China, it used American-made pesticides which had been tinted according to various state laws. The pink and blue poisons did their work—and the farmers were convinced it was the color that did it!

HOLLYWOOD

New York—I was sipping something tall and cool while sitting beside a pool at a Connecticut party a few days ago, and Ed McCullough, managing editor of the Stamford Advocate, was telling me of the days when Burgess Meredith—now known for a good many theatrical things, among which is his acquisition of Paulette Goddard as a wife—was running about the Connecticut countryside chasing after news for Ed's estimable publication.

"Burgess was quite a fellow," said Ed. "He covered nearby Darien for us for a while, and finally quit. The separation wasn't entirely unhappy for anyone concerned, considering an incident in which he was not entirely a reporting hero.

"Meredith went off one day to cover a story, which turned out to be rather a freakish suicide. The deceased had put together a Rube Goldberg contraption with levers and rope, a devilishly complex affair, and having constructed it, he sat down, pulled a string and was blown practically into Rhode Island.

"It was a little ghoulish, but it was news, and Buzz was on the spot in a hurry, gathered every detail of the suicide, including the dimensions of the rope, the pressure of the leverage, the type of gun, the gauge of the ammunition, every macabre incident which could be captured by his imaginatively inquisitive instincts. He brought back every detail except one—

"The dead man's name!"

Danny Kaye warmed over one of his oldest singing sketches for his latest movie, "The Secret Life of Walter Mitty." It first saw the footlight of day when Danny was the star of an elegant Borcht Circuit theatrical center, Camp Tamiment, high up in the Pecos.

When the sketch, entitled "Anatole of Paris," was being prepared for one of the dream passages in the filmization of the James Thurber story, the Goldwyn masterminds, with typical Hollywood extravagance, planned a huge set with moving stairs and revolving stages on which hundreds of beautiful young ladies would prance in the scene depicting the weird millinery convolutions of a riotous hat designer.

But Sylvia Fine, wife of Danny and the author of the sketch, finally talked the entire scene on a flat stage, with the camera moving along while Danny pranced and yowled through the dizzy vocal acrobatics of the song. This, for Hollywood, was almost too simple. At least, no one had thought of it until Sylvia insisted on the simplicity of scene which would not distract the attention of the movie fan from the wonderfully daffy words. Saved a few bob, too. Might even start a new trend.

Reichstag Ruins Will Be Removed

Berlin—(P)—The ruins of the Reichstag building, burned out by the Nazis in 1933 and struck by bombs during the war, finally are to be removed, according to plans adopted by the city planning commission. Its huge stone blocks are to be used in reconstruction work elsewhere.

The massive, roofless old Reichstag has stood like a dark haunt at the Brandenburg gate, just opposite the Tiergarten, these postwar years. For a time in 1945, just after the western powers joined in the occupation of Berlin, it was fenced in to keep the black-marketers out.

Many American soldiers once did a thriving business there selling watches to Russian soldiers and cigarettes and candy bars to the Germans.

May Take General To Be Water-Boy At Army-Irish Tilt

South Bend, Ind.—Failing in every other effort to get a ticket to the Notre Dame-Army football game here Nov. 8, 14-year-old Dennis Patrick Turney wrote to Coach Earl H. (Red) Blaik at West Point and offered his services as water boy.

Coach Blaik replied that he was sorry he couldn't give Dennis Patrick the job.

"As a matter of fact," Blaik added, "so great is the demand for tickets to the Army-Notre Dame game, and so many are the applications for odd jobs, it would not surprise me if the task of water boy would in the end assume sufficient importance to merit the rank of general."

Blais suggested that Coach Frank Leahy of Notre Dame ought to find a spot for a boy named Dennis Patrick.

Washington Letter

By Jane Eads

Washington—The Capitol is undergoing its annual overhauling, and as far as Capitol Architect David Lynn is concerned business goes on more than usual.

The biggest undertaking at present is the $12,500 paint job being done on the inside of the Capitol, which has a floor area of 14 acres. Only portions of the building which need it are being repainted, however. In addition, 16,878 square feet of skylights, 679 windows and the glass parts of some of the 554 doors are being cleaned.

The cast iron dome, completed in 1865, gets painted every four years. Next year is the year for its refurbishing.

With Congress away, the Senate and House chambers are closed, silent and empty. But a bee-hive of activity is the little cubby-hole of an office occupied by John Ankrum, clerk of the House, of Slaters Hall.

Business includes endless correspondence with members and with people throughout the country; the registering of lobbyists; the mailing of pay checks to the office personnel and other employees of congressmen; the publishing of reports on bills and voting records of congressmen, and the letting of contracts.

Contracts for laundry, ice and packing trunks have just been signed. The clerk of the House foots a monthly laundry bill of some $300 for hand towels and small items in the doctor's and first aid rooms.

While all material that stays put—the building itself—is under the care of Architect Lynn, the movable equipment, rugs, furnishings, typewriters, hat racks and so on, in both wings of the Capitol and Senate and House office buildings as well, are the concern of the clerk of the House and the secretary of the Senate.

Soap has to be ordered, rugs repaired, phone service installed and maintained, water coolers tested, stationery ordered. . . .

Regardless of whether Congress is in session, the office of the clerk is kept busy with the registration of lobbyists.

British To Share Data on Housing With Red Builders

London—(P)—Britain has offered to share with Russia the discoveries of her scientists since the war in methods to housing construction, to try to meet a common need for vast rebuilding.

The British trade mission to Moscow, which bargained for Soviet timber for this country's housing program, has also delivered a government invitation for a Soviet housing mission to visit British reconstruction areas.

There are some 1,114 reports on bills and resolutions for the House, 770 for the Senate.

Sports Roundup

(By Robert Moore)
(For Hugh Fullerton, Jr.)

Richmond, Va., (AP)—Note to the Sugar Bowl Committee: Keep an eye on North Carolina these next few weeks.

The Tar Heels will have 34 football lettermen back to play what many believe is the toughest schedule in the school's history in Georgia, Texas, Wake Forest, William and Mary, Florida, Tennessee, North Carolina State, Maryland, Duke and Virginia in that order.

Choo-Choo Charlie Justice, the Tar Heels' second team All-American halfback, will be around despite the talk he might take up with the pros.

Nine lettermen will be battling for end posts. Quiet-spoken Carolina Coach Carl Snavely, the tall Dutchman who guided the Tar Heels into the Sugar Bowl last campaign, says, "We are starting this season better organized and further advanced, of course, than was the case in 1945 and 1946."

Twin Bill-Football Style

Lexington, Va., will see plenty of football October 25. Both Washington and Lee and Virginia Military Institute will play their homecoming games on that date on W & L's Wilson Field. The Generals will battle Davidson at 11 a. m., and the Keydets take on the University of Virginia at 3 p. m.

Guard A-La-Mode

Bob Suffridge, Tennessee's All-American Guard of 1940, who coaches the North Carolina State Line, says "We'll have the best guards in the nation this season. We'll stack them up with anybody." Suffridge's praise are Bernie Watts, of Girard, Ohio, and Charlie Musser, of Frankfort, W. Va.

Matrimonial Note

Glenn Nelson, Lunenburg Cardinal first baseman who leads the batting parade in the Piedmont League, plans to be married tonight to Miss Alberta Burns, of Portsmouth, Ohio. The ceremony will take place at Lunenburg just before the Cardinals' exhibition game with the second Army team at home plate.

3 Thought Dead In Boat Collision Near Decaturville

Decaturville, Tenn., (AP)—Three persons were reported drowned when a motorboat collided with a motorboat in the Tennessee River near here last night.

The steamboat, the Iger, was reported pushing five barges when the collision occurred. The pilot said it was impossible to turn in time to avoid the collision.

Listed as dead were Irma Kennedy, 48, Parsons, Tenn.; Irene Eason, 32, Scotts Hill, Tenn.; and George Meadows, 30, Jackson, Tenn. The bodies of the three were recovered from the river and taken to the local hospital.

Rare Siamese Duo Probably Will Die

Dr. K. E. Krueger, the attending physician, had reported 12 hours after their birth at 8:10 a. m. E. S. T., yesterday that the twins were in "fine" condition. He added however that medical records indicated their chances of survival are "very, very small."

Chicks Drop

2-1 Contest

To Egyptians

Crucial Series

With Clothiers

While the rest of the league was marking time to the rain, the Chicks lost a costly game to the Egyptians at Cairo last night 2-1.

Engel turned in a magnificent pitching performance for the Chicks, allowing only five hits, but the Egyptians managed to push over one run in the first inning and another in the seventh to win.

Thiele, on the mound for Cairo, gave up seven hits, one of them a four-base blow by Dusty Rhodes, Chicks shortstop, in the fifth. Seawright connected for a two-bagger, but died on base as Rhodes' homerun was the only score for Fulton in the game.

Lis did the catching for the Chicks last night and Moore was on the receiving end for the Egyptians.

The Chicks, now one and one-half game out of fourth place, journey to Mayfield tonight to begin a three-game series with the second place Clothiers. The Mayfield club has a three game lead over the Chicks.

A clean sweep of the series by the local club, regardless of what happens to the other teams, would put them in a tie for fourth place. A big delegation of Chick fans is expected to accompany the team to Mayfield tonight to pull for a win.

After the series with the Clothiers, the Chicks return to Fulton for a final home series with Cairo, then move on to Union City to wind up the season with a double header with the Greyhounds on Labor Day.

Kentucky Still 44th In Income

Per Capita Average $738 To Kentuckians In 1946; Mississippi Is Lowest

Washington—Although Kentucky's per capita income last year was nearly 1½ times more than during 1940, the Bluegrass State remained in 44th rank.

Per capita income payments to individuals in Kentucky last year amounted to $778 compared with $308 during 1940, the Department of Commerce announced today. The national figure was $1,200—more than double the 1940 average of $576.

The four lower states with per capita incomes during 1946, were Alabama, $733; South Carolina, $729; Arkansas, $697; and Mississippi, $555.

During the seven years ended last January 1, Kentucky showed a 146 per cent gain in per capita income compared with an increase for the entire nation of 123 per cent.

Total income payments to individuals amounted in Kentucky last year to $2,163,000,000, compared with $1,957,000,000, in 1945 and $890,000,000 in 1940.

Kentucky was one of 20 states which showed a gain of 10 per cent or more in total income payments last year as compared with 1945, and the only state in the Southeast or Southwest which showed a higher percentage gain than Kentucky's 10 per cent during that period was North Carolina, with a 14 per cent increase. Iowa led with a 27 per cent gain.

South Can Solve

Racial and Labor Crises—Shannon

Knoxville, (AP)—The South has the opportunity to solve two of the foremost problems of the age, Dr. Jasper Berry Shannon, professor of political science at the University of Kentucky, declared today in the last of a series of lectures given at the University of Tennessee.

He names as the two problems the relationship of capital and labor and the race problem.

"These two major burdens of the South are also its opportunities," he said. "Therefore, it is up to us in the South to lead the world to a satisfactory solution."

Missing Link

Sought Again

California Scientist Has Gone To Transvaal To Explore Ancient Caves

Johannesburg, South Africa—(AP)—A hunt for the Missing Link has started with the arrival in South Africa of Dr. Charles L. Camp, leader of the University of California Africa Expedition.

"It is premature yet to say whether the remains found in the Sterkfontein caves in the Transvaal are ape or man, but they at least open the possibility of being on the trail of the missing link between ape and man," said Dr. Camp, who is director of the museum of paleontology at California University.

The expedition will split into three parts. One will work in South Africa, one in East Africa and one in Egypt. They plan to study man's family tree at the period of about 1,000,000 years ago in the Transvaal, at 20,000,000 years ago in Kenya and 30,000,000 years ago at the Fayum Depression, 70 miles southwest of Cairo.

This three-pronged attack says Dr. Camp, shows how strong is the impression among scientists that Africa and not Asia is the cradle of the human race.

France Blocks Russian Effort To Name Board To Study Indies Dispute

Lake Success, N. Y., (AP)—France today vetoed a Russian effort to set up an 11-nation commission to check on the Security Council's violated ceasefire order in the Dutch-Indonesian conflict.

The Council then took two alternative steps aimed at settling the dispute.

1. The Council tendered its good offices to both sides and stood ready, if asked, to assist in a settlement through a Council committee of three members acceptable to the disputants.

2. The delegates called on career consuls in Batavia to report directly to them on what has happened since the ceasefire order was issued here August 1.

Ex-Premier Sutan Sjahrir, representing the Indonesian Republic, said "certainly" the Republic would accept the offer of good offices.

Dutch Ambassador Eeelo N. van Kieffens said he would ask his Government for instructions.

Alexandre Parodi of France told newsmen he vetoed the Russian proposal because it was a question of "competence." The Council still has to settle the controversial point whether it has jurisdiction in the dispute.

It was the second French veto in United Nations history and the 20th veto in all. Russia has invoked the big power veto 18 times. The first French veto was June 26, 1946, in the Spanish case.

Moskeet and Rifle

Champs Crowned

Frankfort—Champion shots in moskeet and rifle were crowned at the state finals of the Junior Conservation Clubs meeting held in conjunction with the Franklin county Sportsmen's Show and Field Day near Frankfort Saturday and Sunday Aug. 23 and 24.

In the rifle final the crown went to Jack Ford, Ferguson, Ninth District finalist, who ran up a score of 157 of a possible 200. Second in this shoot was Presley Kendall, Eighth District representative from Carlisle, whose score was 136.

Finals in the Junior Clubs casting contest will be held on Saturday, Sept. 13 at the State Fair. Representatives from each of the nine districts are expected to compete. These contests will be held according to age groups, those under 12 years and those over that age, giving each district two representatives.

BROADWAY

By JACK O'BRIAN

New York—A recent guest on the radio show, "We The People," insisted that a clause be included in his contract for an appearance on the program—that in case of a thunder storm he would not have to go on!

Seems the gentleman is an engineer at the Empire State Building and his job is to measure the force of lightning striking that edifice. His point-of-view in the event of a storm within twenty minutes of his scheduled air appearance, he would have to be at his post. P. S.—he didn't have to dash away and leave the program's producer to curse the weather. It was nice and clear and he went on, and kept everybody happy.

Cy Howard, one of Broadway's ranking wits, and I don't mean with "nit" for a prefix, has coined a new word, "de-joke-ity." Cy who produces, directs and helps write the very funny new air show, "My Friend Irma," finds that although his show is basically a comedy program, he must maintain a certain mood which precludes the use of comedy. Cy says, "de-joke-ity" is a matter how hefty a giggle may follow some jokes, they must be tossed drolly away if they do not keep Irma in character. He admits he has to put up a pretty stiff argument with himself each time he "de-joke-ifies" one of his scripts. Cy says there is nothing more dear to anyone's heart, not even the reactions of mother love, than a gagman's loyalty to a laugh.

Over on Arthur Godfrey's "Talent Scouts" program, a young Irish tenor from West New York, N. J., told Arthur after he walked off with top honors the other night that it was a double victory. Seems that when Joe Ford got out of the Army and insisted on chasing after a singing career, his wife, who preferred to face the harsher realities rather than the permanent frustrations of a stage or radio ambition which never realized itself, gave him a limit of two years in which to get going or quit. The agreement had only a little over a month to go, Joe told Arthur, and already, with offers arriving as a direct result of his radio showing, things were looking brighter for Joe. His wife even feels she might have been wrong all the time, and is willing to extend that two-year limit if it seems to be. From here, though, it seems that Joe has received the exact career propulsion he needed.

Frozen Happiness Note: Dr. Sidney Davidson was a rink-side patron at the New Yorker Hotel's ice show the other evening, and the doctor was the occasion one of the most satisfactory of his career. His professional and personal pride was an object of attractive interest twirling expertly on the ice, Jeanne Sook, who was a patient of Dr. Davidson's just two years ago.

Jeanne, now the lovely young star of the rink show, injured her leg to such an extent that the doctor was quite certain she'd never skate again. But the Doc and Jeanne managed a miracle—now on view on 34th Street!

Can you help settle a heat wave argument we're having? What happens when the humidity gets above 100 percent? "It rains," says the weary weather bureau.

Really Hot When Pigeons Step on People

(By Hal Boyle)

New York.—(P)—A heat wave is only a warm ripple in Manhattan until the public parks become so crowded the pigeons start stepping on the people.

Then you know it's really hot. If you were an egg under your armpit in Tucson, Ariz., or Dodge City, Kan., on a torrid day, it would probably end up hard-boiled by nightfall. Do the same thing in New York and the egg would merely become poached.

Try it in London—if you could find an egg—and it probably wouldn't hatch all summer long. Summer in England is usually the third Wednesday in July.

A thermometer is a pretty good index to the severity of a heat wave in most sections of America. Here it is not so good.

It is hardest on the kids. Some find a way to turn on fire hydrants and stretch out their pale, skinny arms in the cooling rush of water. Others mope listlessly on the sandstone stoops, too energy-drained even to play "stick ball" in the streets. My wife, Frances, says that Manhattan babies even have a different cry then, a fretful wail as if unseen fiends were beating them with small invisible whips.

The rest of the country is pretty well inclined to take a heat wave as an act of God, to be excused, accepted and endured. Here the hot days of summer always come as something of a resented surprise—exported on purpose by the Midwest to subject the big city to unnecessary fleshly trial.

But the humidity itself is acknowledged to be a native product. And that's what makes the heat really bad. When the humidity—the relative percentage of moisture in the air—gets above 90, someone is always calling the weather bureau to ask:

"Can you help settle a heat wave argument we're having? What happens when the humidity gets above 100 percent?"

"It rains," says the weary weather bureau.
