Argentine Loses By 16-1 Vote
On Plan To Require Unanimous Decision To Fight Aggression

Two-Thirds Rule Proposal Ok'd At Brazil Parley

URUGUAY ALSO LOSES

As a result of the Argentine opposition, the Brazilian plan to require a two-thirds vote from all American nations for action against armed aggression against an American country was defeated today by a vote of 16 to 1. The plan was proposed by Brazil and supported by the United States, Canada, Mexico, and several Latin American countries.

The committee on voting procedures met today to consider the Brazilian proposal. The United States delegation was represented by Ambassador Robert E. McCloskey, who stated that the United States supported the two-thirds rule because it provided a strong deterrent to the use of force by any single nation.

However, the Argentine delegation, led by Foreign Minister Carlos Saavedra, opposed the proposal, arguing that a two-thirds vote could be too difficult to achieve in practice and could lead to gridlock in the Organization of American States.

The committee eventually adopted the proposal by a vote of 16 to 1, with the United States, Canada, Mexico, and several other countries voting in favor.

"It's Alarmingly"
(An Announcement)
By Joe C. Anderson
For the Daily Leader

The lack of interest in voting today is becoming alarming. Only a fraction of the people who have the privilege of voting are using it, and if this continues it means that the future will be that of a future where a full city and county, and a full state, will be going to the polls. This represents a little more than 20% of the voting population, since the United States won its freedom, that a mere 20% of the voting population is going to the polls. This is not the fault of the Democratic or Republican party. The same thing has been happening in staying away from the polls.

In the recent elections, when Democratic and Republican were voting for a gubernatorial candidate, a Senate or House candidate, they went to the polls. But when it came to the local level, they let the Democratic and Republican candidate win. This is not the fault of the Democratic or Republican party. The same thing has been happening in staying away from the polls.

In addition, detailed statements have been made about the move away from the polls. The lack of interest in voting today is becoming alarming.
