2500 SOLDIERS

Are in Encampment at Lexington.
—Army Experts Will School
State Troops.

Lexington, Ky., July 1.—The troops are arriving on every train for the National Guard encampment and before night there will be over 2,500 soldiers in the camp here. The regulars arrived yesterday. All are much pleased with the camp and site.

In addition to the three regiments of state militia several companies of regulars, together with army officers from the war department at Washington, who will pay special attention to the efficiency and personnel of the guard, will change the peaceful Blue Grass country into martial array.

With the Mexican peace plans still as embryonic as ever and with likely possibility that action at the front will again become imminent, more than mere passing interest will be given to this year's encampment. Bringing the various National Guards up to a high state of efficiency and preparedness a special concern of the war department since congress placed the state's militia reserve ready to be called out for foreign action at any moment. This year army experts in military tactics and strategy will school both officers and privates in the gentle arts of war.

The New Pistol Law

A man was convicted in Harrison county a few days ago under the new Kentucky law with regard to carrying concealed deadly weapons. The defendant was arrested for a breach of the peace and when searched by the officers a pair of brass knuckles was found on his person.

When the case came up for trial the defendant pleaded guilty to the charge of carrying concealed weapons. The court imposed a fine of $50, a jail sentence of twenty days and disfranchised the man for two years. In the event of the second conviction under the law passed by the last Legislature this defendant would have to serve a term in the penitentiary.

The new law is more drastic than the old. It may be more effective if the courts will enforce without fear or favor. Certainly no great progress was made under the former law in suppressing the practice of "pistol toting." Public sentiment is somewhat less lenient than it used to be toward persons who engage in this particular form of law violation, but the "pistol toting" habit is quite common and many men carry weapons who ought to know better. The fact that the penalty now en-

To The Tobacco Growers.

A policy insuring against damage, from hail, to growing tobacco can be procured in THE HOME, Capital $6,000,000. Surplus to Policy Holders over $17,000,000, for one acre, or any number of acres, at the following cost:

Where limit of value is $50 per acre, rate per acre.....$1.50
Where limit of value is $75 per acre, rate per acre.....$2.00
Where limit of value is $100 per acre, rate per acre.....$3.00
This policy is in force until the tobacco is cut and put in the barn.

braces disfranchisement and a jail sentence for the first offence and a penitentiary term for the second offence may cause a few of the "pistol toters" to lay down their arms and may induce others who cannot be good to be, at least, a little more cautious than they have been in the past.

If Kentuckians could be compelled by law or induced by other means to disarm themselves—to discontinue the needless and dangerous practice of carrying a "gun" while going about the ordinary affairs of life—there would be much less bloodshed in the State. Many a killing would be avoided but for the long-established custom of going "prepared for trouble." If the new law should be effective in lessening the evil to any material extent the entire Commonwealth will have cause to be thankful. —Courier-Journal.

Text Books Selected

Frankfort, Ky., June 27.—The state text book commission has adopted for the high schools, Prof. Hallee's American literature, McKenzie's history of literature, Andrew's American history, Pearson's beginners' latin and composition, Leiper's latin syntax, Ginn & Co's geometry, Lyons & Carnahan's algebra, Headley's physics, Allen & Acken's German, MacMillen's chemistry, domestic science and agriculture, and Hitchcock's rhetoric.

Frankfort, June 27.—Basing the estimate on 430,904 pupils, which was the total enrollment of the rural schools last year, text book men, acquainted with the percentage of the amount of the total contract represented by each text book adopted, are of the opinion that in the ensuing five years the total cost of text books in the common schools of the state will be reduced $200,000 from what it has been, as the result of the adoptions made by the state text book commission.

Paris District Conference

The annual conference of the Paris District Conference, M. E. church South, will be convened in this city at the Methodist church Tuesday night of next week, at which time the opening sermon will be preached. The conference will continue through Friday of the same week. This gathering will bring to Murray about 150 delegates and visitors, and Rev. Pickens is very anxious that all persons who will assist in the entertainment of the guests report the fact to him at the very earliest hour possible.

When baby suffers with eczema or some itching skin trouble use Dean's Ointment. A little of it goes a long way and it is safe for children. 50c a box at all stores.

PENALTIES

House Act Enables Confederates To Collect On Old War Claims.

Washington, July 1.—With an unusual demonstration the house unanimously passed a bill to repeal a section of the revised statutes which prohibits the payment of accounts, claims or other obligations against the United States in favor of anyone who encouraged or sustained or in any way favored the "rebellion."

The measure would open up claims of various kinds aggregating about $165,000, from West Point graduates who were afterwards officers in the Confederacy.

Representative Graham, of Illinois, told the house he had found stowed away on the judiciary calendar this bill to remove penalties from men who had fought in the south.

"The half century or more which has passed," said Mr. Graham, "has brought together the warring combatants of Gettysburg to weep and cheer in unison on that fateful field. Let's wipe from the statute books the offspring of the feelings which bitter strife engendered."

The measure was passed promptly without a dissenting vote, and, enthusiastic applause came from both sides of the chamber.

Cured of Indigestion.

Mrs. Sadie P. Clawson, Indiana, Pa., was bothered with indigestion. "My stomach pained me night and day," she writes. "I would feel bloated and have headache and belching after eating. I also suffered from constipation. My daughter had used Chamberlain's Tablets and they did her so much good that she gave me a few doses of them and insisted upon my trying them. They helped me as nothing else has done." For sale by all dealers.

Off for Annual Encampment.

Company L, National State Guards, about 45 strong, left Tuesday at 7 o'clock for Lexington, Ky., where they will be encampment for about ten days. Capt. McRee in command. Company L is one of the crack teams of the state and in the contests to be had during the encampment is expected to make a strong showing.

Declines to Meet Gen. Rosalie Jones.

Louisville, Ky., June 20.—Declined with thanks.

Such in substance is the reply made by Henry Watterson, veteran editor of the Louisville Courier-Journal, to the challenge issued by General Rosalie Jones that he debate with her, the question of woman suffrage from the courthouse steps at St. Louis. General Jones, in issuing her challenge, said Colonel Watterson belonged to the "age of knee breeches and fluffy laces." The editor in his reply refers to himself as "Foxy Grandpa," and to his challenger as General the Honorable Rosalie Jones, of the skyscraping foot marines. Mr. Watterson writes in part:

"Nay, nay, Rosalie, Dear Rosalie: Shall we not drop the unwomanly and unmeaning 'General' and call you pet names? You have the wrong pig by the ear. Let Foxy Grandpa press an ice upon you. Stick your pantaloons in your boots, little girl, and instead of facing that dreadful mob from the court house steps let us go and hunt buttercups. Your brains, Rosalie, if we may say it without offense, will run to your legs—naughty brains—for brains were made to think with and legs were made to walk with, and walking, not debating, has been, may it ever be, your long suit, sweetheart."

Has Your Child Worms?

Most children do. A Coated, Furred Tongue; Strong Breath; Stomach Pains; Circles under Eyes; Nervous, Fretful; Grinding of Teeth; Pale, Sallow Complexion; Tossing in Sleep; Peculiar Dreams—any one of these indicate Child has Worms. Get a box of Kickapoo Worm Killer at once. It kills the worms—the cause of your child's condition. Is laxative and aids Nature to expel the worms. Supplied in candy form. Easy for children to take. 25c, at your druggist.

Paducah Assignments

Two voluntary assignments were made in county court last night and this morning. One was made by members of the firm, Boulware-Allen Shoe company and another by W. C. Gray, saloonist.

The Boulware-Allen company in its deed filed last night estimates its assets at $10,000 and liabilities at $6,188.49. The company had been doing business since March 11 and was composed of J. Phillip Boulware and W. G. Allen.

Mr. Gray had been in the saloon business in Paducah for 20 years or more and conducted one of the oldest concerns in the city.—Paducah Sun.

Best Diarrhoea Remedy.

If you have ever used Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy you know that it is a success. Sam F. Ginn, Wheatley, Ala., writes, "I had measles and got caught out in the rain, and it settled in my stomach and bowels. I had an awful time and had it not been for Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy I could not possibly have lived but a few hours longer, but thanks to this remedy, I am now well and strong." For sale by all dealers.

Driest Month in Forty Years.

The month of June was the driest since 1970 at Blandville, Ky., according to the government records kept by E. W. Horr.

The total amount of rain for the month is .36 of an inch, which is a trifle over one-third of an inch. June, 1913, was the next driest month, only .54 of an inch of rain having fallen there. The month saw a record of 102 degrees for heat, the hottest weather since 1890. According to observer Horr vegetation in Ballard county had almost been destroyed by the long drouth.

MAKES PLEA

Congressman Barkley Asks President to Pardon Calloway Boy Who Deserted Army

Washington, July 1.—A pardon application that appealed strongly to the sympathy of President Wilson was presented to the chief executive by Representative Barkley, of Kentucky. Clemency was asked for Willie Broach, a youth of Murray, Ky., who has served six months of a twenty-one months' sentence in Leavenworth federal penitentiary for deserting from the army.

The circumstances under which he deserted make him appear in the light of a hero rather than an ordinary deserter. His sister's husband died, leaving her without resources, and with a large family of small children which she was unable to support. Learning of her plight he quit the army and went home to make a living for her. There was suspicion of moisture in the president's eyes as he said the case shall have his serious personal consideration.

Cut To Pieces By a Binder

Harrodsburg, Ky., June 23.—Robert Prewitt, a laboring man, who has a wife and ten children, residing near Nevada, in this county, met with an accident from which he died today.

He was driving a team of four horses to a self-binding wheat harvester for Win Williams and fell in front of the machine, which passed over him, cutting off one leg, severing an arm, which hung only by a strip of skin, and badly injuring his other leg and arm. He was brought to the hospital here, a distance of six miles.

Mrs. James Going Abroad.

Washington, June 30.—Senator James and Mrs. James will leave Washington tonight for New York. Mrs. James will sail on the steamship Aquitania tomorrow for a two months' trip abroad. She will visit Mrs. Post Wheeler at Rome during her stay in Europe. Senator James will return here tomorrow.

Drys Start Petitions

At a meeting held Wednesday night by the dry forces, it was definitely decided to have an election in Christian county on Sept. 21, to prohibit the sale of liquor in the county. The election will be called under the new county unit law, which requires 25 per cent of the voters in the county at large to call an election.

The petition also asks that druggists be prohibited from selling liquors. There are now 25 saloons in the county, 23 in Hopkinsville and 2 in Gracy, Hopkinsville Kentuckian.

Severe Attack of Colic Cured.

E. E. Cross, who travels in Virginia and other Southern states, was taken suddenly and severely ill with colic. At the first store he came to the merchant recommended Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy. Two doses of it cured him. No one should leave home on a journey without a bottle of this preparation. For sale by all dealers.

Kennedy's View of Conditions.

In writing of the crop conditions in Western Kentucky, W. B. Kennedy, the well known tobacco man, says in the Paducah Sun:

"The weather continues dry and very hot and the planting has not been increased any during the past week, hence the acreage I would say is about 60 per cent of an average crop. No doubt a good deal of the weaker plants have died and it is hard to tell about the present stand, but I am inclined to the belief that we have a very much better stand than farmers generally think. For where insects have cut the leaves or the top of the plant away the stump and roots of the plants are concealed below the surface and will grow when we have favorable weather. For this reason I believe a great part of what tobacco that has been planted is living and can produce a plant, but the outlook for the 1914 crop is getting more gloomy every day the unfavorable weather conditions exist. It now seems impossible to get out an average acreage as so many plants are ruined on the beds. In some cases they are evergreen, where they were in moist places and where the beds were in dry places they have dried up, and all the plants are dwarfed by reason of the drouth to such an extent that I don't think they would make a healthy heavy plant, but no doubt if a continued wet spell should set in, we would see the acreage materially increased and it is impossible to tell the outcome of a tobacco plant as long as it shows any life, as it has wonderful recuperative powers, but the season is getting very late, and with the poor plants to set the remainder of the crop I don't think it is possible to get a full acreage or to make good quality and the indications are very discouraging for the 1914 crop.

Headache and Nervousness Cured

"Chamberlain's Tablets are entitled to all the praise I can give them," writes Mrs. Richard Old, Spencerport, N. Y. They have cured me of headache and nervousness and restored me to my normal health. For sale by all dealers.

School Opening

The Outland school will begin on the first Monday in July. Each boy and girl in the district is urged to be present. Parents, it takes the help of all to make a school what it ought to be, your presence on the first morning; and co-operation throughout the term, will mean a great deal the life of the school, teachers: A. D. Butterworth and Miss Ruth Rains.

Change in Divisions

There will be a change made in the running of the trains on the divisions of the N. C. & St. L. R. R. tomorrow. The trains which leave here at 7:45 a. m. and 2:20 p. m. and which have been running through to Memphis will run through instead to Hickman, making transfers at Hollow Rock Junction. The trains in returning will start at Hickman instead of as theretofore. These changes are made to make less delay in transfers at Hollow Rock Junction. It is understood that the crews will go through just as now, but the trains as made up will run as indicated above. The through traveling public out of Nashville being heavier than out of Paducah seems to have occasioned the change. Since the line was opened Paducah has held the advantage which will be Nashville's from this on—a through coach to and from Memphis.—Paducah News-Democrat.

To feel strong, have good appetite and digestion, sleep soundly and enjoy life, use Burdock Blood Bitters, the family system tonic. Price $1.00.

AUSTRIAN HEIR AND WIFE ASSASSINATED

STUDENT SHOTS AFTER BOMB THROWN UNSUCCESSFULLY. CONSPIRATORS SEIZED.

VICTIM WARD OFF BOMB

Tragedy Enacted in Sarajevo, Capital of Bosnia—Bodies Will Lie in State at Palace Until Emperor's Wishes are Known.

Sarajevo.—Archduke Francis Ferdinand, heir to the Austro-Hungarian throne, and his morganatic wife, the duchess of Hohenberg, were assassinated while driving through the streets of Sarajevo, the Bosnian capital. A youthful Serbian student fired the shot which added another to the long list of tragedies that have darkened the reign of Emperor Francis Joseph.

The archduke and his wife were victims of the second attempt in the same day against their lives. First a bomb was thrown at the automobile in which they were driving to the town hall. Forewarned, however, of a possible attempt against his life, the archduke was watching and struck the missile aside with his arm. It fell under an automobile following, which carried members of the archduke's suite, wounding Count von Bos-Waldeck and Col. Merz.

On their return from the town hall, the archduke and the duchess were driving to the hospital, when Gavril Princip darted at the car and fired a volley at the occupants. His aim was true, and the archduke and his wife were mortally wounded. With them at the time was the governor of the city, who escaped injury. The bodies of his murdered companions collapsed across him and protected him from stray bullets.

The governor shouted to the chauffeur to rush to the palace. Physicians were in prompt attendance, but their services were useless, as the archduke and his wife were dead before the palace was reached.

Until the emperor's wishes are known, the bodies will lie in state at the palace here. They will doubtless be interred in the Hapsburg vaults in the Capuchin church at Vienna.

MILITANTS BOMBARD KING

King George's Hat Knocked Sideways and Queen's Parasol Littered with Suffragette Literature.

London.—Militant suffragettes bombarded King George and Queen Mary with leaflets at the entrance of Hyde Park. A bundle of the papers knocked the king's hat sideways and the queen's parasol caught another shower of pamphlets.

Two women were seized by the police and carried away struggling. The king and queen treated the incident with good-humored indifference, which they always exhibit when the objects of suffragette demonstrations. The king smilingly tossed one of the bundles of papers into the road way, and their drive continued.

JAP PRESS ANGRY AT U. S.

Some Insist Remedy Must Be Found for Insulting Situation—Nichi Is Violent.

Tokyo.—The Japanese press generally expresses indignation at the attitude of the United States in the California anti-alien land controversy, as outlined in the correspondence between the two governments, recently published. Several of the newspapers insist that a remedy must be found for the "insulting" situation. The Nichi Nichi is especially violent in its utterances. It condemns what it calls Japan's flattery of America by participating in the exposition at San Francisco and says that instead of doing this Japan should, in view of the United States government's inability to control the states, consider the wisdom of taking action against California in order to obtain satisfaction.

Would Probe Leak.

Washington.—How complete reports of the proceedings of the senate foreign relations committee, supposed to be secret, on the pending Nicaraguan and Colombian treaties got into the newspapers is about to be investigated.

Kills Young Bride.

Lowell, Mass.—W. J. Blaise, 32 years old, called at the police station and informed the officers he had killed his wife, a bride of four months. He was locked up on a charge of murder.

Want Baggage Rates Cut.

Columbus, Ohio.—Excess baggage rates to be reduced and made uniform in every state are to be sought by the United Commercial Travelers of America, according to the decision of the supreme court.

File Misadventure Petitions.

Jefferson City, Mo.—Petitions requesting the submission to Missouri voters next November of a constitutional amendment granting women the ballot was filed with the secretary of state.

RECIPROCITY IS JAPAN'S NEW PLAN

Senor Luis Cabrera, one of the Carranza junta in Washington, is considered one of the brainiest men connected with the constitutional cause. He was made a member of Carranza's provisional cabinet.

COLONEL DEFENDS PERKINS

Will Not Let Harvester Man Be Read Out of Party—Would Go Out With Him.

New York.—Theodore Roosevelt, who returned to America on the Imperator, vigorously defended Geo. W. Perkins, chairman of the progressive national executive committee, whose resignation as chairman was demanded recently by Amos Pinchot. Mr. Pinchot had declared Mr. Perkins' affiliation with certain big business interests made him unfit to hold his position.

"When they read Perkins out," said Col. Roosevelt, "they will have to read me out, too."

The colonel reiterated that he would not be a candidate for the governorship of New York this fall. He said his health was all right now and that he would speak at Pittsburgh June 30. "I shall not be able to speak in the open air or made continuous speaking trips," the colonel said. "However, I shall be able to deliver a certain number of speeches indoors."

"Mr. Perkins," declared the colonel in his reference to the national executive chairman, "has been, on the whole, the most useful member of the progressive party. He has striven in absolutely good faith for the principles of the party, both as regards corporations and business generally, and as regards the group of questions dealing with the welfare of the wage-earner and his economic and social advance. As for reading him out of the party, when that is done they will have to read me out, too."

FEAR MORE RIOTS AT BUTTE

Mayor Duncan Fears Miners' Factions May Make Reprisals—Will Not Ask For Troops.

Butte, Mont.—Butte was quiet after a night of rioting caused by internal strife in the Western Federation of Miners, which cost the life of one man, injuries to four others and a heavy property loss.

Mayor Duncan, however, would not commit himself as to turmoil being at an end. He fears reprisals between the factions, but said he would not ask for troops, as he believes the sheriff should make that request. The sheriff, however, has taken no action toward that end.

Citizens looked to Gov. Stewart at Helena for a solution of the trouble. Charles A. Meyer, president of the federation, and others who were driven from the miners' hall under fire, appealed to the governor at Helena for state control at Butte. The miners worked as usual, and so far the operating companies have not been brought into the controversy. It was officially announced the mine owners have taken no part in the factional fight.

Fifty Children Injured.

Atlanta, Ga.—Fifty children were injured here when a pavilion at a local amusement park collapsed during a picnic given for the inmates of the local Hebrew orphan's home. None of the injuries was fatal.

Tornado at Watertown.

Watertown, S. D.—A tornado tore a path through the city, four blocks wide and eighteen blocks long. No fatalities are reported, but scores were injured. The property damage is many thousands of dollars.

Gen. Whistler Dies.

Pennacola, Fla.—Gen. Garland N. Whistler, aged 66, U. S. A., retired, died suddenly at his summer home here from apoplexy or indigestion, before medical aid could reach him.

Baron Suicides.

Dundee, Scotland.—Horace Court, 55, representative peer for Scotland, cut his throat in a hotel here.

RECIPROCITY IS JAPAN'S NEW PLAN

RECIPROCITY IN LAND OWNERSHIP IS PLAN PROPOSED BY JAPAN TO U. S.

NEW TREATY IS ABANDONED

Secretary Bryan Says Japanese Note of June 10 Reopening Controversy and the American Reply Will Be Published.

Washington.—The protest of Japan against the California alien land law, brought conspicuously before the public again by publication of correspondence between the Washington and Tokyo governments, was discussed with interest here in official and diplomatic circles. Secretary Bryan said the Japanese note of June 10 last, which reopened the subject, would be made public with the American reply within a few days.

It is known that Japan, abandoning the idea of negotiating a new treaty to guarantee the property rights of its citizens, has asked for a reply to its note of August 26 last, in which the United States was pressed to stop the "obnoxious discriminations" resulting from the California legislation. "There is but one remedy," this note said, "and the imperial government is unable to escape the conclusion that the duty of applying that remedy devolves solely on the government of the United States."

One phase of the negotiations disclosed in the correspondence which attracted particular interest was said to suggest the possibility of an issue entirely new in the history of the United States. In italics in connection with the promise by the Japanese government to grant land ownership to Americans appeared the words "reserving for the future, however, the right of maintaining the condition of reciprocity with respect to the separate states."

This, it was pointed out, appeared to be a distinct reservation by the Japanese government of the right to retaliate directly on the Californians by singling them out among American citizens for exclusion from the right to possess real property in Japan.

MANY ARE KILLED BY QUAKE

Sumatra Earthquake Destroys Much Valuable Property—Big Steamer Missing—Buildings Collapse.

Batavia, Java.—Many were killed or injured in an earthquake which caused widespread damage in Southern Sumatra.

Many buildings collapsed at Benkoen, the capital, and telegraph and cable communication was interrupted. The British steamer Kintuck of the China Mutual Steam Navigation company, crowded with passengers, was reported ten hours overdue, and it was feared she had met with an accident in connection with the earthquake. A steamer has been sent from here to search for her.

Sumatra is the largest island of the Malay archipelago, except Borneo. It has a number of volcanoes, some active and some believed extinct. The population is estimated at 3,500,000, among whom are about 5,000 whites.

BRYAN'S REQUEST DENIED

House Refuses to Provide Him With a Special Secretary at a Salary of $4,500.

Washington.—Secretary Bryan was refused by the house a special assistant secretary at a salary of $4,500 a year to help out in the work of the secretary's immediate office. Speaker Clark put himself on record in opposition to the proposed new official. The speaker opposed a similar move made several years ago by F. C. Knox then secretary of state, who recommended the creation of the office of under-secretary of state.

Refuse Conley New Trial.

Atlanta, Ga.—James Conley, the negro factory sweeper, sentenced to serve one year in prison as an accessory after the fact to the murder of Mary Phagan, for which crime Leo M. Frank now is under sentence of death, was refused a new trial by Judge Ben H. Hill.

Fireman Is Killed.

Akron, Ohio.—Henry Luettelvelt, 23, married six weeks, a fireman, was killed and Fire Chief John Mertz badly injured at a fire here.

Sets Record.

Independence, Cal.—Silas Christofferson, aviator, in a biplane, flew over the peak of Mount Whitney, 14,938 feet high. He attained an altitude estimated at more than 16,000 feet, and established, it is contended, a new American altitude record.

Sarah Bernhardt Injured.

London, France.—Sarah Bernhardt was suffering from a severely twisted knee when she arrived here, and was carried in a chair from her apartment.

MISS HELEN HEYL

Miss Helen Heyl, daughter of Col. G. H. Heyl, U. S. A., and one of the prettiest girls in the army set at Washington, will become the bride of Lieut. Milo P. Fox of the engineers early in the fall. The engagement has just been announced.

$20,000,000 FIRE IN SALEM

Over 1,000 Buildings Are Burned and 10,000 People Made Homeless. Historic Places Spared.

Salem, Mass.—Nearly half of the "old witch city" of Salem, rich in its historic buildings and tradition, was devastated by a fire that caused an estimated loss of $20,000,000, destroyed 1,000 buildings, including a score of manufacturing establishments, and made 10,000 of the 45,000 residents homeless.

The fire originated in the Korn leather factory on the west side of the city and swept through the shoe and leather manufacturing district, ruining every building in a curving path two miles long and more than a half mile wide.

Burning embers, carried by a strong northwest wind, started fires in two other sections, the fashionable residential district adjacent to Lafayette street, and a manufacturing and tenement house district on the peninsula bounded by Palmer's cove, South river and the water front.

Late in the evening brands kindled a fourth fire in the plant of the Salem Oil company in Mason street. The oil tanks blew up with a terrific report, and showers of sparks fell threateningly on a part of the town that before had not been in imminent danger. This fire, however, was checked after it had destroyed the oil company's plant and thirteen houses.

When the flames were believed to be under control, all the historic and literary landmarks had escaped destruction. These included the Peabody Museum, old custom house, where Nathaniel Hawthorne did much of his literary work and "The House of Seven Gables" made famous by the novelist.

The fire was burning on Derby street, not far from the Peabody Museum, but it was thought the building and its valuable collection of curios would be saved.

"The House of Seven Gables" also was in the danger zone. Several buildings were dynamited. No fatalities had been reported, but in the confusion it was impossible to determine the casualties.

Some fifty injured persons were received at hospitals.

Thousands of homeless were camped on Salem Common, and the city was policed by militiamen.

The great destruction was due to poor water pressure. The burned buildings include the plants of a score of manufacturing companies, among them the big factory of the Naumkeag Cotton Mills, twice as many business places, St. Joseph's Roman Catholic church, recently erected at a cost of $250,000, the orphan asylum and more than 200 residences and tenement buildings. Among the residences were colonial houses which artists have declared to be the finest types of that architecture in the country.

Claffin Scores Bankrupt.

New York.—The biggest mercantile failure in the history of the United States was precipitated when receivers were appointed for H. B. Claffin Company of this city. The company, it is estimated, owes more than $30,000,000, which at the present time it is unable to pay. Its assets are said to be $44,000,000.

Washington.—President Wilson has approved the sentence of dismissal imposed on Maj. Benjamin M. Koehler of the coast artillery corps by a court martial.

Resume Activities.

London.—Activities of militant suffragettes, which have been in suspense since Premier Asquith agreed to receive a deputation of East End working women, were resumed in attacks on city pillar-boxes and an organized raid on West End theaters.

Miss Lockwood Hurt.

Washington.—Miss Belva A. Lockwood, 84, the only woman who ever ran for the presidency, fell in her office here and suffered a broken arm and shoulder.

FLEEING FEDERALS MAKE LAST STAND

GEN. PASQUAL OROZCO REPORTED DESPERATELY WOUNDED. FEDERALS TRAPPED.

ANGELES HEADS THE REBELS

Fight for Their Lives at Soledad—Advices from Zacatecas Say That Escape Is Impossible for Federals.

Torreon, Mexico.—Five thousand Federals under Gen. Pascual Orozco and Marcelo Carveo are fighting for their lives at Soledad, half way between Zacatecas and Aguas Calientes. The Federals constituting the regular troops of the Zacatecas garrison have been pursued by rebel cavalry every mile of the distance they have covered in their flight. A report received here from Zacatecas says the rebels succeeded in overtaking the fleeing Federals at the little town of Soledad, and that in the battle already 500 Federals and three rebels have been killed.

Among the wounded Federals is said to be Gen. Pascual Orozco, the Chihuahua miner, who won the Madero revolution by his successful attack on Juarez, and who is regarded by rebels now as the worst enemy of the revolution, because he forsok Madero during the seven days' fighting in Mexico City. Unofficial reports say Gen. Orozco is desperately wounded. Villa has said he would rather capture Orozco than any other Federal commander.

Gen. Felipe Angeles, Villa's chief of artillery and regarded as Villa's choice for provisional president, is pursuing the Federal from Zacatecas. Gen. Angeles reported to headquarters that his men were in close pursuit of the Federals. He asked that the supplies be sent to him near Soledad, and said a number of skirmishes had taken place between the retreating Federals and the pursuing rebel cavalry. Gen. Angeles' dispatch was sent before the Soledad fight had started, in the opinion of rebel officers here.

Advices from Zacatecas say Orozco and Carveo, with their commands, are so hemmed in at Soledad that escape from the rebels is impossible. Additional troops were sent tonight from Zacatecas to assist Gen. Angeles.

AWAIT CARRANZA'S REPLY

Zacatecas Victory Said to Have United Constitutionalists—Villa Is to Direct the Army.

Washington.—Agents of the Mexican Constitutionalists in Washington awaited final instructions from Gen. Venustiano Carranza regarding the invitation to participate in informal conferences with representatives of the United States and the Huerta government on plans to complete the pacification of Mexico.

Gen. Carranza telegraphed his representatives here as he left Saltillo that he would make definite his position on reaching Monterey.

From Monterey it was reported Gen. Carranza planned to proceed to Nuevo Laredo, where he would be in direct telegraphic communication with the Washington authorities. This was taken as an assurance that the invitation to participate in informal mediation over Mexico's internal affairs would be accepted.

Gen. Villa's victory at Zacatecas is deemed to have united all of the rough edges in the Constitutional ranks. Villa for military aggression; Carranza to direct diplomatic negotiations, was declared to be the alignment of the Constitutional forces agreed upon.

CARRANZA USES BIG STICK

Places Financial Agent at Piedras Negras Under Arrest—Charges Not Made Public.

Eagle Pass, Texas.—G. M. Seguin, constitutionalist financial agent at Piedras Negras, who recently was called to Saltillo by Gen. Carranza, has been placed in jail there, it was learned in Piedras Negras. The charges which, it was said, were being investigated, were not made public. Several other Piedras Negras officials have been removed from office and it was reported among constitutionalists there that there would be an entire change of civil officials. Constitutionalists at Piedras Negras deported twenty-five Mexicans alleged to be Huerta sympathizers. They were brought to the International bridge and ordered to leave Mexico.

Breach Is Widened.

Monterey, Mexico.—The breach between Carranza and Villa is growing deeper and more menacing every day, notwithstanding the protestations of loyalty and common interest issued by both sides for the newspapers of the United States.

To Protect Mines.

Washington.—An agreement has been reached between the United States and Great Britain to protect mining properties in Mexico, similar to that made to protect oil interests.

THE REBELS AT ZACATECAS

Report of Victory Is Received at Juarez. Rebel Loss Was 2,200—Two Generals Are Wounded.

El Paso, Texas.—Zacatecas, an important city of Central Mexico, fell into the hands of the constitutionalists, according to announcement by Gen. Villa's officials at Juarez. Two of Villa's generals were wounded. The constitutionalists were heavy losers, according to an official dispatch. No mention is made of the federal killed, but it was said many prisoners were captured, with much arms and ammunition.

It was believed Villa's lack of effective artillery ammunition had made it necessary to rush the federal positions with infantry, taking the city by a sudden attack, which, according to official reports, resulted in the capture of a large portion of the garrison and its munitions.

The border city of Juarez immediately plunged itself into a celebration. The telegram describing the victory was received by Col. Ornelas, the Juarez commander, and by Lázaro de la Garza, Villa's agent here. It was signed by Gen. Orestes Pereyra, commander at Torreon, and read:

"I have the honor to communicate to you that the important city of Zacatecas was captured by the forces of the division of the north. We took many prisoners and captured a large quantity of ammunition and arms. There were large losses on our side. Gen. Trinidad Rodriguez was seriously wounded and Gen. Maclovio Herrera was slightly wounded."

VILLA PURSUES FEDERALS

Rebel Who Killed Britisher Benton Is Mortally Wounded—Five Hundred Prisoners Are Taken.

Torreon, Mexico.—Panchito Villa started rebel troops in pursuit of the Federal army of Gen. Medina Barron, which he has driven from Zacatecas. The greater portion of the Federals had escaped from the city before the rebel troops forced their way into it, and only the wounded and the stragglers fell into Villa's hands. These were many, however, numbering, according to accounts, nearly 5,000.

The dead of the Federal garrison will were in the streets of the town, but rebel soldiers have been gathering them up. It was found necessary to burn many of the bodies and funeral pyres were burning in many places in the town. Villa's losses in the battle have not yet been determined. Unofficial estimates by army officers at Zacatecas placed the rebel losses at 2,000 in killed and wounded. It is known that fully 1,000 Federals were killed, their bodies lying in the trenches and streets, and that twice as many were wounded.

The fighting was at close range, Villa driving his men into the town under a withering fire of Federal guns and permitting the Federals no time for retreat. Ammunition and guns secured by the rebels will prove a great aid to Villa in pushing the campaign to the south.

Gen. Trinidad Rodriguez, who was desperately wounded, while landing his men in the attack, died from his wound, according to a dispatch received by E. A. Benavides, Sr., and Gen. Maclovio Herrera, also wounded, is reported dying. Herrera's father left El Paso to join his son at Zacatecas.

Col. Rodolfo Fierro, accused by rebels of the murder of William Benton, the British subject, for whose death Villa was blamed, is reported to have been mortally wounded.

Teribio Ortega is reported killed.

CARRANZA MAY TAKE PART

Representatives of Rebels in Washington Are Hopeful—Say That Carranza Will Accept Offer.

Washington.—Representatives of the Mexican Constitutionalists in Washington expressed confident hopes that Gen. Carranza would accept the invitation of the South American mediators to participate in informal conferences to compose the internal affairs of Mexico.

Whether Gen. Carranza would accept the invitation, however, still remained an open question, despite the fact that some of his agents here had telegraphed him at Monterey for a definite answer. The message was sent after the arrival in Washington of Gen. Carranza's private secretary, Alfredo Breceda, who brought personal information from the Constitutional leader to his Washington agents, Rafael Zubaran and Luis Cabrera.

Mr. Lubaran said he believed Gen. Carranza would authorize participation of his representatives in the proposed conferences but that the military campaign against Gen. Huerta would proceed. Mr. Cabrera declared he would take place. Mr. Breceda said he was awaiting instructions.

Carranza Wants Time.

Washington.—Gen. Venustiano Carranza has replied to the invitation extended for participation by his agents in an informal conference with representatives of Gen. Huerta and the United States, asking that he be given time to consult with his generals.

Secret Negotiations.

Vera Cruz.—Secret peace negotiations between Gen. Carranza and President Huerta have been in progress in the capital, according to Antonio Magana, an American, who arrived from Mexico City.

SYNOPSIS.

John Vallant, a rich society favorite, suddenly discovers that the Vallant cooperation, which his father founded and which was the principal source of his wealth, has failed. He voluntarily turns over his private fortune to the receiver for the corporation. His entire remaining fortune consists of an old motor car, a white bull dog and Damory court, a neglected estate in Virginia. On the Damory court he meets Shirley Dandridge, an exuberant beauty, and she, in turn, meets the major, Vallant's father, and a man named Season were rivals for the hand of Mrs. Dandridge in her youth. Season and Vallant fought a duel on her account in which the former was killed. Vallant finds Damory court overgrown with weeds and creepers and decides to rehabilitate the place. Vallant saves Shirley from the bite of a snake, which bites him, knowing the deadliness of the bite. He nurses the poison from the wound and saves his life. Vallant learns for the first time that his father left Virginia on account of a duel in which Doctor Seaton and John Vallant were rivals for the hand of Mrs. Dandridge. Vallant and Shirley become good friends. Mrs. Dandridge faints when she meets Vallant for the first time. Vallant discovers that he has a fortune in old walnut trees. The yearly tournament, a survival of the fittest of the past times, is held at Damory court. At the last moment Vallant takes the place of one of the knights, who is sick, and enters the lists.

CHAPTER XXIII.—Continued.

The twelve horsemen were now sitting their respective mounts in a group at one end of the lists. Two mounted monitors had stationed themselves on either side of the rope barrier; a third stood behind the upright from whose horn was suspended the silver ring. The herald blew a blast, calling the title of the first of the knights. Instantly, with lance at rest, the latter galloped at full speed down the lists. There was a sharp snuff and clash, as he dashed on the ring flew the full length of its tether and swung back, whirling swiftly. It had been a close thrust, for the iron pike-point had smitten its rim. A cheer went up, under cover of which the rider leaped back outside the lists to his former position.

In an upper tier of the stand a spectator made a cup of his hands. "The Knight of the Golden Spur against the field," he called. "What odds?"

"Five to one, Spotteswood," a voice answered.

"Ten dollars," announced the first.

"Good." And both made memorandum on their cuffs.

A second time the trumpet sounded, and the Knight of Castlewood flashed indignantly down the roped aisle—a mis.

Again and again the clear note rang out and a mounted figure plunged by, and presently, in a burst of cheering, the herald proclaimed "The Knight of the Black Eagle—one!" and Chilly Leuk, in old-rose doublet and ink plume cantered back with a silver ring upon his pike.

No simple thing, approaching leisurely and at a trot, to send that tapering point straight to the tiny mark. But at headlong gallop, astride a blooded horse straining to take the bit, a deed requiring a nice eye, a perfect seat and an unwavering arm and hand! Those knights who leaped back with their pikes thus bracketed had spent long hours in practice and each rode as naturally as he breathed; yet more than once a horse shied in mid-course and at the too-eager thrust of the spur bolted through the ropes. Vallant made his first essay—and missed—with the blood singing in his ears. The ring flew from his pike, catching him a swinging blow on the temple in Where had John Vallant learned that trick of the loose wrist and inflexible thrust.

His rebound, and he scarcely felt it. As he cantered back he heard the major's bass pitting him against the field.

And then, suddenly, stand and field all vanished. He saw only the long level rope-lined lane with its twinkling mid-air point. An exhilaration caught him at the feel of the splendid horse's sleek beneath him—that sense of oneness with the creature he bestrode which the instinctive horseman knows.

He lifted his lance and hefted it, seeking the absolute balance, feeling its point as a fence with his rapier. When again the blood-red saffron streamed away the herald's cry, "Knight of the Crimson Rose—One!" set the field backslapping. From the next least also, Vallant returned with the gage upon his lance. Two had gone to the Champion of Castlewood and two to scattering riders. When Vallant wore his fourth the grand stand gave a shout of applause.

The trumpet again pealed its silvery proclamation. Judge Chalmers was on his feet. "Fifty to ten on the Crimson Rose," he cried. This time, however, there were no takers. He called again, but none heard him; the last tilts were too absorbing.

Where had John Vallant learned that trick of the loose wrist and inflexible thrust, but at the fencing club? Where that subconscious management of the rein, that nice gage of speed and distance, but on the polo field? The old sports stood him now in good stead. "Why, he has a seat like a centaur!" exclaimed the judge—praise indeed in a community where riding was a passion and horseflesh a fetish! "Oh, dear!" mourned Nancy Chalmers. "I've but six pairs of gloves on Quint Carter. Never mind; if it has to be anybody else, I'd rather it were Mr. Vallant. It's about time Damory Court got something after Rip-Van-Winkle for its thirty years. Besides, he's giving us the dance, and I love him for that! Quint still has a chance, though. If he takes the next two, and Mr. Vallant misses—"

Katharine looked at her with a little smile. "He won't miss," she said. She had seen that look on his face before and read it aright. John Vallant had striven in many contests, not only of skill but of strength and daring, before crowded grand stands. But never in all his life had he so desired to pluck the prize. His gait was tense on the lance as the yellow doublet and olive plume of Castlewood shot away for a last time—and failed. An instant later the Knight of the Crimson Rose flashed down the lists with the last ring on his pike.

And the tourney was won. In the shouting and hand-clapping Vallant took the rose from his hat-band and bound it with a shred of his sash to his lance-point. As he rode slowly toward the massed stand, the whole field was so still that he could hear the hoofs of the file of knights behind him. The people were on their feet.

The mounted herald blew his blast. "By the Majesty of St. Michael and George," he proclaimed, "I declare the Knight of the Crimson Rose the victor of this tourney, and do charge him now to choose his Queen of Beauty, that all may do her homage."

Shirley saw the horse coming down the line, its rider bareheaded now, and her heart began to race wildly. Beyond wanting him to take part, she had not thought. She looked about her, suddenly dismayed. People were smiling at her and clapping their hands. From the other end of the stand she saw Nancy Chalmers throwing her arms, and beside her a tall pale girl in champagne-color staring through a jeweled lorgnette.

She was conscious all at once that the flannelled rider was very close. . . . that his pike-point, with its big red blossom, was stretching up to her.

With the rose in her hand she turned to him, while the blurred thrush cheered itself hoarse, and the head struck up "You Great Big Beautiful Doll," with extraordinary rapture, to the tune of which the noise finally subsided to a battery of hilarious congratulations which left her flushed and a little breathless. Nancy Chalmers and Betty Page had burst upon her like petticoated whirlwinds and presently, when the crowd had lessened, the judge came to introduce his victor.

"Mr. Fargo and his daughter are our guests at Gladden Hall," he told her. "They are old friends of Vallant's, by the way; they knew him in New York."

"Katharine's lighting her incense now, I guess," observed Silas Fargo. "See there!" He pointed across the stand, where stood a willow-leaf figure, one hand beckoning to the concourse below, where Vallant stood, the center of a shifting group, round which the white building, mad with recovered liberty, tore in eccentric circles.

As they looked, she called softly, "John!"

Shirley saw him start and face about, then come quickly toward her, amusement and welcome in his eyes.

As Shirley turned away a little later with the major, that whispering voice seemed to sound in her ears—"John!"

There came her suddenly the thought that when he had chosen her his Queen of Beauty, he had not seen the other—had not known she was there.

A few moments before the day had been golden; she went home through a landscape that somehow seemed to have lost its brightest glow.

CHAPTER XXIV.

Katharine's decision. Katharine left the field of Runnymede with John Vallant in the dark-colored motor. She sat in the driver's seat beside him, while the bulldog cap, caressed, ecstatically barking, from side to side of the rear cushions. Her father had declined the honor, remarking that he considered a professional chauffeur a sufficient risk of his valuable life and that the Chalmers' grays were good enough for him—a decision which did not wholly displease Katharine.

The car was not the smart Panhard in which she had so often spun down the avenue or along the shell-roads of the north shore. It lacked those fin-de-siècle appurtenances which marked the ne plus ultra of its kind, but her observant eye recognized, but it ran staunch and true. The powerful hands that gripped the steering-wheel were brown with sun and wind, and the handsome face above it had a look of keenness and energy she had never surprised before. They passed many vehicles and there were few whose occupants did not greet him. In fact, as he presently remarked, it was a saving of energy to keep his hat off; and he tossed the Panama into the rear seat. On the rim of the village a group raised a cheer to which he nodded laughingly, and further on a little old lady on a timid vine-colored porch beside a church, waved a blackmitted hand to him with a sweet-old-time gesture. Katharine noted that he bowed to her with extra care.

"That's Miss Mattie Sue Mabry," he said, "the quaintest, dearest thing you ever saw. She taught my father his letters."

Where the Red Road stretched level before them, he threw the throttle open for a long rush through the thymy-scented air. The light, late afternoon breeze drew by them, green waves that smelled of fern and sassafras, opening out into more unlighted vistas overarched by the intense penumbra of the June sky.

John Vallant had never seemed to her so wholly good to see, with his waving hair ruffling in their slight and the western sun shining rosy on his face. Midway of this sport he looked at her to say: "Did you ever know a more beautiful countryside? See how the pink-and-yellow of those gains fade into the purple of the hills. Very few painters have ever captured a tint like that. It's like raspberries crushed in curdled milk."

"I've quite lost my heart to it all," she said, her voice joining with the speed of their course. "It's perfect pastoral . . . so different from our terrible city pace. . . . Of course it must be a trifle dull at times . . . seeing the same people all ways . . . and without the theater as the opera and the whirl about one—but . . . the kind of life one reads about . . . in the novels of the South, you know . . . I suppose one doesn't realize that it actually exists until one comes to a Southern place like this. And the negro servants! How odd it must be to have a white-haired old lady in a brass-buttoned swallow-tail for a butler! So picturesque! At Judge Chalmers' I have a feeling all the time that I'm walking through a stage rehearsal."

The car slackened speed as it slid by a white-washed cabin at whose entrance sat a dusky gray-bearded figure. Vallant pointed. "Do you see him?" he asked.

"I see a very ordinary old colored man sitting on the doorstep," Katharine replied.

"That's Mad Anthony, our local Mother Shipton. He's a prophet and soothsayer. Uncle Jefferson—that's my body-servant—insists that he foretold my coming to Damory Court. If we had more time you could have your fortune told."

"How thrilling!" she commented with half-humorous irony.

He pointed to a great white house set in a grove of trees. "That is Beechwood," he told her. "The Beverly homestead. Young Beverly was the Knight of the Silver Cross. A fine old place, isn't it? It was burned by the Indians during the French and Indian War. My great-great-grandfather—" He broke off. "But then, those old things won't interest you."

"They interest you a great deal, don't they?" she asked.

"Yes," he admitted, "they do. You see, my ancestors are such new acquaintances, I find them absorbing. You know when I lived in New York."

"Last month."

He laughed a little—not quite the laugh she had known in the past. "Yes, but I can hardly believe it; I seem to have been here half a lifetime. To think that a month ago I was a double-dyed New Yorker."

"It's been a strange experience for you. When you come back to New York—"

He looked at her, oddly she thought. "Why should I go back?"

"Why? Because it's your natural habitat, isn't it?"

"That's the word," he said smiling. "It was my habitat. This is my home."

She was silent a moment in sheer surprise. She had thought of this Southern essay as a quickly passing incident, a colorful chapter whose page might any day be turned. But it was impossible to mistake his meaning. Clearly, he was deeply infatuated with this Arcadian experience and had no thought at present but to continue it indefinitely.

"They were passing the entrance of a cherry-bordered lane, and without taking his hands from the gear, he nodded toward the low broad-shouldered dwelling with its flowering arbors that showed in flashing glimpses of brown and red between the intervening trees. 'The palace of the queen!' he said—'Rosewood, by name.'"

She looked in some curiosity. Clearly, if not a refuge of genteel poverty, neither was it the abode of wealth; so, from her assured rampart of the Fargo millions Katharine reflected complacently. The girl was a local favorite, of course—he had been tactful as to that. It was fortunate, in a way, that he had not seen her, Katharine, in the grand stand until afterward. Feeling toward her as she believed he did, with his absurd directness, he would have been likely to drop the rose in her lap, never reflecting that, the tourney being a local function, the choice should not fall upon an outsider.

The slowing of the car brought her back to the present, and she looked up to see before them the great gate of Gladden Hall. She did not speak till they had quite stopped.

Then, as her hand lay in his for farewell, "You are right in your decision," she said softly. "This is your place. You are a Vallant of Virginia. I didn't realize it before, but I am beginning to see all it means to you."

Her voice held a lingering indefinable quality that was almost sadness, and for that one slender instant, she opened on him the unmarked batteries of her glorious gray eyes.

The tournament ball at Damory Court that night was more than an event. The old mansion was an irresistible magnet. The floor of its yellow parlor was known to be of delectable basswood. Its gardens were a legend. The whole place, moreover, was steeped in the very odor of old mystery and new romance. Small wonder that to this particular affair the elect—the major was the host, custodian of the rolls, his decisions being as the laws of the Medes and Persians—came gaily from the farthest county line, and the big houses of the neighborhood were crammed with over-night guests.

By half past nine o'clock the phantom of chaparrons decreed by old custom had begun to arrive, and the great iron gate at the front of the drive—erect and rustless now—saw an imposing procession of carriages. These passed up a slope as radiant with the fairy light of paper lanterns as a Japanese thoroughfare in festival season. The colored bulbs swung moon-like must have personality if he is to hold his business together, and that personality is a good thing to keep on top.

The man who subordinates his personality to his position is the man who lets his position run him and who is a jobholder before he is a man. A pitiful state, indeed, for anybody to find himself in. Being a man with a personality as well as an executive with a high degree of efficiency is an ideal which every business man might well hold before himself, inside of business hours or otherwise.—Milwaukee Journal.

To a foreigner, stage management in Japan would appear somewhat eccentric. When an actor is killed during the play a man in black rushes on stage and holds a large clock before the supposed corpse, who soon rises and runs off the stage.

The scenes are never shifted, but the whole stage revolves on wheels, while between the acts the children among the audience rush behind the curtain and play the drum beats for another act. The performance begins at 10 a. m. and the audience provision themselves for 34 hours, curling up on mats and smoking the whole time.

This man needs to know that his ability being efficient, he becomes more efficient as he becomes more efficient, just as a machine is more efficient the more machine-like it becomes. He needs to learn that the men at the head of a big consoli-

In his desire to become efficient and make every one about him the same he squeezes every bit of human feeling out of his relations with his subordinates and becomes a part of a working system, as dehumanized as his filing system or his adding machine or the typewriter which his stenographer manipulates. ## TARIFF WORKS WELL

Wisdom of Democratic Policy Is Being Proved.

Ample Revenue Provided for the Needs of the Country and a Burden Lifted From the Shoulders of Taxpayers.

The Republicans are disappointed in the new tariff bill. It is failing to bear out their predictions of evil. They began making such predictions in November, 1912, and actually grew to believe in them for a time. But the facts have proved too stubborn.

In a recent discussion in the house of representatives Congressman Rainey of Illinois showed that the new tariff measure is producing more revenue than its framers expected it to produce. In fact, the import duties collected up to June 1 were within $100,000 of reaching the mark that had been set to be reached by July 1. The Illinois congressman predicted that the excess over the amount expected would reach $2,000,000.

When the Underwood tariff law was framed the framers expected it to yield $870,000,000 by the 1st of July, 1914. The prediction has been made that the yield will really be nearer $900,000,000 than $870,000,000. The miscellaneous receipts, the internal revenues and other sources of government funds will yield the usual amount.

In 1913 the customs receipts amounted to $311,321,000. In 1912 the amount was $218,891,000. During the month of May the receipts averaged over three-quarters of a million dollars daily. It is easy to see that the difference between the receipts of 1913 and those of 1914 will hardly amount to more than the cost of one first-class dreadnaught.

Against this slight loss in revenue must be set the saving to the consumer following the reduction of the old Chinese wall duties of the Payne-Aldrich bill. Even the loss of the revenues is offset by the collection of the income and corporation taxes. On June 1 $10,567,221 of these taxes had been collected.

It is clear that if the nation is bankrupted it will not be because of the workings of the Underwood tariff bill. The close of the present fiscal year will easily demonstrate that fact.

Trade Dullness Universal.

The New York Sun is as hostile to the Underwood tariff as possible. It is alarmed over the large adverse balance of trade in seven months of the new customs law. But this adverse balance is due chiefly to the decrease of exports, and that cannot be explained by our tariff; it can only be due to dullness in trade abroad. And this is one of the many evidences that the dullness of trade in this country is not a local phenomenon, but is a part of a condition of trade that exists throughout more or less of the commercial world. In an effort to give the Underwood tariff the worst possible showing the Sun can only find an increase of $23,000,000 in imports in seven months. That amount of increase can have no effect upon domestic production. The woolen and worsted mills, which have had the greatest fear of the tariff, are the least affected by dullness in trade abroad. The steel business, which is the duldest and was the first to experience depression, has had no competition to speak of, and showed less concern than any other industry over tariff changes.

Have Republicans Reformed? Senator Borah in his speech to the Michigan Republicans invited them and the country at large to return to the Republican party, not for what has done in recent years, but for what he believes it ought to do in the course of political events, it should return to power.

He frankly admitted that the party had fallen into bad hands. By strong implication he admitted that it had been a party of the coldly selfish and that such leadership had brought it to deserved ruin. That was certainly the verdict of the people at the last election when they defeated its candidate for president in every state in the Union but two.

Colonel Will Be in the Field. One thing is made plain, both by Colonel Roosevelt and his most distinguished supporters, Perkins, Pinchot & Co., that the colonel intends to run for the presidency two years hence, and on the ticket of the dead Moose party.

Let Them "Critique." Some Democratic leaders seem to be alarmed over the way the Republicans are criticizing the administration. But how much more would they be alarmed if the enemy were praising it.

Good News for Bull Moose Party. It is interesting to learn that ex-Senator Flinn has so far recovered his health that he feels equal to the task of boring two tunnels under the East river, New York, at a cost of nearly $12,500,000. This will be good news to the Progressives, as it seems to indicate that the barrel may be again on tap as it was in 1912. To its recent disappearance may be attributed so little of the shrinking of the Bull Moose vote. Perhaps its reappearance might help a little.

JOHN H. SCOTT, of PADUCAH, KY., as a candidate for the democratic nomination for Congress from the first District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the democratic primary, August, 1914.

The Ledger is authorized to announce

A. W. BARKLEY, of Paducah, Ky., as a candidate for the democratic nomination for re-election for Congress from the first District of Kentucky, subject to the action of the democratic primary, August, 1914.

Lexington has established a "baby milk supply station." There never was a time when Cadiz did not have a dozen or two. —Cadiz Record.

Say, John, I attended the big Central University carnival ball in this city last week and saw so many tempting "baby-milk" stations that this mule liked to have run off. —Danville Messenger.

The Cadiz Record has two editors, apparently with a single thought. Not that the Ledger desires to be critical of either, but under the Bertillon system of measurements, Henry Lawrence stands four foot two and seven eighths, and just a little taller when lying down than standing up. John Lawrence, the younger, standing is exactly seven foot two and three eighths, and just a little thinner than a water blister either standing or laying. Henry is an old bachelor while John is his wife's husband. This may account for the very marked difference in their physical makeup, but we'll wager any reasonable sum that neither (both being from Cadiz) could spot a baby milk station if there was a sanitary nipple on the front door. Don't know that Danville mule but he should have been kicked off instead of run off. If you fellows want to learn something come over to Calloway, and we'll show you "baby milk supply stations" by the bread tray full.

The Record is delighted to observe that this hot weather or something else has infused some trace of spizerinkum into the system of that fellow Jennings at Murray, and a wonderful improvement is noticed in the editorial columns of the Ledger as a result. We think that a fellow who can write and will not write ought to be made to write, and we had about concluded that Jennings had been slumbering at the switch long enough. —Cadiz Record.

Don't know just exactly what "spizerinkum" is but suppose we are afflicted with it. We are confident that if it applies to ooze from the pores of the skin during this torrid weather we are poorly off. But just why a bird that can sing and wont sing should be made to sing during moulting season is beyond our comprehension. Just let this rain crow alone, please, during this dry time and we'll promise to put both jays of the Record to shame when a season arrives.

The Mayfield Messenger and other papers speak of the "bloodhound myth," and some papers have gone so far as to express the opinion that there is no authentic case on record where a bloodhound "tracked" a criminal. Yet a paper that gave endorsement to this idea contained the following special:

Stewart, Tenn., June 19. — (Special.) — Wednesday night thieves broke in the store of J. R. Jones at this place.

Bloodhounds were sent for and upon their arrival from Paris they immediately trailed Jeff Patterson, a well-known character here, to his home on Dancy Branch, a tributary of White Oak. A large quantity of stolen property was found in his home.

As a matter of fact the meanest sort of a cur or the smallest rat terrier can track a human being, especially a colored gemman, and it would be no trouble at all for a dog with his nose chopped off to follow the scent of the worthy president of the Kentucky Press Association, as said official practices what he preaches—that it is unhealthy and sinful to take a bath oftener than once a year.

If some of our dear ladies continue to put on a little more paint and take off a few more clothes it will not be long until they will be back to their native state.

One advantage in the present female styles, at least—a man can't claim that he was deceived. —Cadiz Record.

Our friend, either Henry or John Lawrence, their eyes seem to be set in their heads very much alike, promised some few weeks ago to drop this infernal business of criticising the modern dress of the modern woman, and at the time the Ledger extended its happiest congratulations. It seems that the reformation was very short lived, and if John is the guilty editor we intend to send his wife a marked copy of the next issue of the Record and politely let her know what John has been seeing here of late.

Friday, while the 5-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. R. H. Watts was playing with some little playmates at his home, he in some manner got an iron band about two inches wide and one eighth inch thick fastened around his neck and despite the efforts of his parents and playmates were unable to get it off.

He was brought to town by his father, when after a good deal of trouble it was removed by a blacksmith. —Dover Courier.

That boy was in the fix of some peanut politicians we know—except that it would take dynamite to remove the collar from their necks.

Ed Crow, of the Dexter, Mo., Statesman, published last week quite a lengthy editorial under the caption of "Lust." We've about concluded since reading the entire article, to move to Dexter. This conditioned, however, upon Ed's leaving the place. Can't agree that even Dexter contains a sufficient number of play grounds and wading pools for both.

Hopkinsville is patting itself on the back because it refused to let the Redpath Chautauqua operate on Sunday. Still this is not conclusive evidence that Hoptown is the center of uplift and morality; they have everything else there on Sunday—including some twenty saloons, crap games galore and a fun store or two.

Owensboro has a lady named Mrs. Casebeer. Must be very attractive if her disposition is frigid. In fact the only necessary accoutrement we beg is a 24 inch buzz fan.

VICK'S Croup and Pneumonia SALVE

Agricultural Products.

Calloway county was named for Col. Richard Calloway and was formed in 1822. Adapted to livestock growing and fruit and vegetables. The great Calloway County Fair Association has given us farmers, this year, the chance prove ourselves by placing the premiums on agricultural products grown in Calloway county only. This is to give us a chance by ourselves.

Now we have the land and a set of the most energetic farmers that ever lived. All we need is to try, and if we will try, we can make the best display of farm products ever shown in the county, or as good as any other county in the state.

We believe this to be one of the best counties in the state. It is our home, the best place on earth.

Farmers are principal ones to make this display and let everyone help, not for the premiums only, but to help the county of Calloway be second to none. I am for the good of Old Calloway to go to work and show off our county in farm products and live stock.

Look what we have done in the last ten or twelve years. Livestock is worth 25 to 50 per cent more than was then. We have had but few, if any, registered animals in the county, and now we have six standard bred trotting stallions, fourteen saddle bred stallions, some registered mares and many other kinds of registered stock. Back then we had razor back hogs, hogs with wattles, scrubby sheep worth 50c to $1.00 per head, the best would weigh about 100 pounds; common cows worth $10 to $25. Now we have registered hogs easy to fatten at any age, no more razor back hogs that it took 18 months to two years to get them ready for market; the well bred sheep worth $10 to $25 per head, many of them weighing over 200 pounds each, clipping 10 to 16 pounds of wool; cows worth $25 to $100 each. It don't cost but a little more to raise a good animal than it does a sorry one.

We always have a buyer for the best, but the scrubby kind is hard to sell even at a discount. Why not still improve, we can if we will only try. Let every farmer try to improve his stock and especially the farm products

A TEXAS WONDER.

HERBINE cures all disorders produced by an enervated liver. It strengthens that organ, cleanses the bowels and puts the system in good healthy condition. Price 50c. Sold by Dale & Stubblefield.

An error occurred last week in the publication of Robert Swann's card. In making mention of a law recently passed by congress the salary of members of congress was fixed from $7,500 to $9,000 instead of from $1,500 to $9,000 as was printed. The Ledger is glad to make this correction.

Dr. B. P. Howard, of Owensboro, Ky., a brother of Mr. T. J. Howard, of this city, died last week after a lingering illness. He was about 78 years of age and had been a resident of Owensboro the past 20 years, going to that city from Clarksville, Tenn. He is survived by a wife and three children.

A MISTAKEN IDEA

There are some people who still resort to drugged pills or alcoholic syrups to overcome colds, nervousness or general debility, and who know that the pure, unadulterated nourishment in Scott's Emulsion is infinitely better, but refrain from taking it because they fear it may lead to excessive fatness. This is a mistaken idea, because Scott's Emulsion first strengthens the body before making flesh. Its blood-forming properties aid nature to throw off sickness by building health from its very source, and flesh is formed only by its continued use. Avoid alcoholic substitutes for SCOTT'S.

DAISY AND VIOLET SPRING A SURPRISE FINISH

Dad Wadell (who knew Booth—by night)—Bah! These circus followers around here! I can't read my Keats. As a Shakespearean authority and actor I am out of my element listening to lion tamers and sawdust actors.

Mai Malson (equestrienne)—Say, Dad, that's handin' it to us on a tent peg. Ain't a nice respectable circus person as good as an ol' ham that played in livery stables all over the world?

Daisy Purdue (the Purdue Sisters)—Dad's touchy on circus stuff. He was out with Robinson's show for a week but the animals couldn't get along with him. When he came into the "hippy" tent the elephants used to set up a boller. His disposition is too sour.

Dad Wadell—I'll admit the animals and I couldn't agree on several points. But the reason I resigned was because they wanted me to wear a gorilla skin and ride in a cage wagon in the street parade. One who played Hamlet at the command of the mayor of Oshkosh one time! Ye gawds!

Bud Haley (circus press agent)—Nothin' against you, Dad. I played a gorilla when I started. I played "Bugles, the Dog-Faced Demon," "Snappo, the Cannibal King" and several others. When I growled as Bug-Jug they used to carry out faintin' women. That's acting, ol' man.

Algy (late of the "Ails")—You bet it is, Buddy. Do you need any ticket takers this season? I'd like to—

The Great Otto (lion tamer)—Did

Mai is the feature of this show. She's on all the Likos, banners and show cards. She draws.

The Great Otto—She's too much. My big lion, Leo, ain't got his picture no place. She's everything. Clown, Leo, trapezera, nice little girls like Daisy and Violet, is nothing.

Mai Malson—Bud, try to get a few lines in about Otto's moth eaten lion. Daisy Purdue—She'd like to see a few words in about us. Our obituary.

Algy—I s'y, the picture of a sweet girl like Mai and 'er 'orse is a drawin' card. Eh, Bud?

The Great Otto—They don't like my Leo?

Algy—E's beastly unpopular.

Mai Malson—Girls, why don't you learn some new tricks? You're not too old just yet. I'll get Bud to stick your pictures in some of the smaller papers.

Daisy Purdue—Thank you! We'll see if we can't get something in about ourselves next week that will be interesting to you.

Bud Haley—I'd be glad to see it.

Algy—A press agent like you, Buddy, could put me on Broadway. Don't y' need a ticket taker?

Dad Wadell—I would like to travel with your aggregation, Mr. Haley, till the Shakespearean season opens again. I could play a refined wild man or a piglike bearded lady.

Bud Haley—I'll see Pop Murtell. I think I can place Algy at the side show door and fix you for the "Borneo King" part. In the meantime I'll push Mai's name.

Daisy Purdue—It will be a waste of time, sir.

"I'll Admit the Animals and I Couldn't Agree on Several Points. But the Reason I Resigned Was Because They Wanted Me to Wear a Gorilla Skin and Ride in a Cage Wagon in the Street Parade."

you see where my Leo, der big lion, got his name in der paper for ledding a child pat him on der nose? Dot's spot, publicity.

Bud Haley—Some of my stuff, Otto. Next week I'm going to pull another big spread for Mai Malson and her Arabian stallion, Prince. How about it, Mai?

Mai Malson—Oh, Bud, it's so kind of you. Going to put something in about my jump through the hoop of fire, or about my radium gown?

Algy—By jove, I'd like t' be with your show, jolly well, Buddy. I'd like the publicity.

Violet Purdue (the Purdue sisters)—You wouldn't get it, Algy. Haley is too busy getting in the photo of Mai Malson and the cab horse she rides. But! We'll see later—

Daisy Purdue—We'll see later!

Violet—It's a nice way to treat two girls who was born in the business. Can't get a line or a picture. Well, I'm quitting—

Algy—Nobody knows you're livin'—

Daisy Purdue—Haley can explain the reason. If he must give all his time to the publicity of his business, I'll have to see m' personal friend, Mr. Murtell.

The Great Otto—Who is dis Mr. Murtell? I see his name by all my pay checks.

Bud Haley—Old Pop Murtell is our financial backer. The old kink that was on the lot yesterday.

Algy—So Mai Malson and Bud are engaged, eh? I s'y, Bud, congratulations and the same for Mai.

Mai Malson—Since Bud announced y' I—T'll show you folks my ring. We're going to be married when we play Lima, where my folks live.

Daisy Purdue—Mistakes will happen. When a press agent for anyone but his fiancée he ought to quit. And so will—

Violet Purdue—Don't say too much, girlie.

Bud Haley—What's the matter? The papers won't print anything about a sister act. Get a novelty.

Dad Wadell—My "Lotta the Fourteenth" was a novelty. I—

Violet Purdue—Listen to Haley say "get a novelty!" Do you call bareback ridin' a novelty? Man, we can work in vaudeville if we have to.

The S. P. C. A. would stop her with the horse. He looks so pathetic out of that eye. He's got a take-me-out-and-shoot-me expression on him.

Bud Haley—If you're referin' to Mai Malson and Prince you'd better desist.

Bud Haley—Why?

Violet Purdue—Daisy became engaged to Pop Murtell yesterday. When they marry tomorrow she'll insist on some changes.

Daisy Purdue—And one of them will be the press agent—for Mai Malson.

Booking Agent (entering)—When does your circus train pull out? (Copyright, 1914, by W. C. Chapman. Dramatic Rights Reserved.)

HOME OF THE CORPORATION

Commune of Glarus, in Switzerland Has Established a Happy Hunting Ground.

High hidden in the mountains, one and one-half hours' train ride from Zurich, is the Swiss commune of Glarus, the Wall Street Journal states.

Glarus has a population of only 5,000, and most of these are hardy mountaineers, but French financiers have found in it the happy hunting grounds for corporations. When its fame spreads it bids fair to be to Europe what New Jersey was to America before the "Seven Sisters."

The village is already the headquarters of more than 60 corporations, operating in all parts of the world. The secret of Glarus is not hard to find. All the neighboring districts of Europe, in the pride of their size and the size of their wants, levy crushing taxes, but the little Swiss commune obtains a plentiful revenue for its modest needs by taxing the resident corporations annually only one-fifth to three-tenths of 1 per cent on their capital. Great is the glory of Glarus!

Ancient Language Revived.

The revival of the Provencal language has been paralleled by the revival of Czech, the native Slav tongue of Bohemia, in which John Huss, the reformer, wrote at the beginning of the fifteenth century, and which was forbidden and practically destroyed until a hundred years ago. Dobrovsky started a movement which has made it again the written and spoken language of a nation. The Yeats-Gregory-Douglas Hyde attempt to revive Gaelic in Ireland is a similar but not equally successful movement.

Of Course Not.

Bacon—Of every 200 persons who live to be forty years of age, 135 are married.

Egbert—That's no reason why they should not like stix.

CANDIDATES DRAW FOR PLACE

Names of Candidates For the Senatorial Nominations Were Not Drawn.

(Special Frankfort Correspondence.)

Frankfort, Ky.—Assessments of the total capital of the four big railroads, which now have suits pending in the United States court here to restrain the collection of part of their franchise taxes for 1912 and 1913, were completed by the state board of valuation and assessment. These assessments are practically the same as for 1913. The Louisville & Nashville was assessed at $72,000,000, instead of $74,829,007 as last year; the Chesapeake & Ohio at $28,968,605, no raise; the Cincinnati, New Orleans & Texas Pacific, $17,000,000, no raise; and the Illinois Central, $27,500,000, a raise of $4,000,000. The roads have 30 days in which to appear before the board to protest. The Louisville Gas and Electric Co. was assessed at $10,000,000 tentatively. The Cumberland Telephone Co. was assessed at $5,000,000; the American Telephone Co. at $500,000, and the Kentucky Traction and Terminal Co. at $128,000.

Enrollment of Schools.

Based on the estimate on 430,904 pupils, the total enrollment of the rural schools, the common schools of the state, was 430,904. The language and arithmetic series were changed and the price reduced from $1.65 to 95 cents; and the arithmetic series was changed and the price reduced from 95 cents to 90 cents.

Over 200 Years Old.

The railroads as we know them today probably originated with the tramways of over two hundred years ago, and in the term tramways it is generally understood to mean street railways where vehicles, which are propelled by animal or mechanical power, are supported on tracks laid on public highways, and without interfering with the ordinary vehicular traffic.

Records show that the earliest form of railroad in which iron rails was used was in the year 1762, the rail being a flat piece of iron spiked to a longitudinal stringer. This soon proved too weak as the loads increased, the track buckling and becoming rough and uneven.

First Examination.

The first examination for chauffeurs will be held in Bowling Green July 6, composed of T. F. Byars, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles; W. R. Rice, of Louisville, and W. R. Myers, of Columbia. The date fixes the dates for the examinations: Paducah, the first Monday in September; Louisville, the first Monday in December; Lexington, the first Monday in February; Mayville, the first Monday in April; Covington, the first Monday in May; Bowling Green, the first Monday in July.

Licensing of Chauffeurs.

As a result of the opinion handed to Automobile Commissioner Byers by Attorney-General Cassell, the state will collect in revenues several thousands of dollars in licenses from chauffeurs. Garnett held that any employee or servant of the owner of an automobile whose duty or part duty it was to operate an automobile is a chauffeur within the meaning of the act of 1914, and must have a license.

Chauffeurs Seek Licenses.

Applications for temporary licenses, pending the regular examinations, have been received by the Board of Examination from 262 chauffeurs. W. R. Rice, of Louisville, chairman of the board, said the examinations will be more practical than technical, and particular attention will be paid to the characters and past records of applicants for chauffeur's licenses.

Marriage Has No Parallel.

A marriage that probably has no parallel in the history of the state took place when a westerner, Alexander Webb, of the western section of Hart County, took his second wife. He is past 96 years of age. Mr. Webb retains his faculties as well as men usually do at the age of 95 or 76. He has been plowing side by side with other laborers all the summer and has dumped this for the past 80 years. Recently a tobacco season came to this section and the old man set tobacco. He has been living with his sons.

Receive Certificates.

Secretary of State Creel sent certificates of nomination to the following candidates for congress who did not have opposition in the state primary: Democrats—A. B. House, Burlington, Sixth district; Harvey Helm, Staunton, Eighth district; F. T. Halcher, Pikeville, Tenth district; N. B. Sewell, London, Eleventh district. Progressives—Mad E. Hanberry, Cadiz, First district; N. B. Chambers, Owensboro, Second district; Newton Belcher, Greenville, Third district; W. C. Jones, Elizabethtown, Fourth district; Emmett Orr, Covington, Sixth district; Lucien Beckner, Winchester, Seventh district; Allen V. Cole, Marysville, Ninth district; H. S. Hoskins, Pikeville, Tenth district. Republicans—Edwin Farley, Paducah, First district; Alvin H. Clark, Hopkinsville, Second district; J. Frank Taylor, Glasgow, Third district; Roy Wilhoit, Louisville, Fifth district; J. P. Spillman, Harrodsburg, Eighth district; John Langley, Paintsville, Tenth district. For United States senator—Geo. Nichols, Anchorage, Progressive. For appellate judge in the Third district—James Denton, Somerset, Republican.

Injunction Granted.

Without expressing an opinion as to the constitutionality of the law governing the salaries of prison guards, Judge Stout, of the Franklin circuit court, granted a temporary injunction to Guard E. C. Page, of the Frankfort Reformatory, restraining the Board of Prison Commissioners "from requiring him to work more than six days in any one week and further restraining them from molesting him in the occupancy of his position as guard and from discharging him, therefrom. The case will be taken immediately before one of the judges of the Court of Appeals in Chambers on motion of the Prison Commissioners to dissolve the injunction. This is a test case. The guards are paid $75 the month, and compelled to work seven days the week, a pro rata reduction being made in their pay when they miss a day. They petitioned to be given one day off a week, contending that the $75 the month was six working days each week.

Draw For Place.

Candidates for congressional nominations, where there is more than one candidate in a district, and Democratic candidates for the nomination for the court of appeals in the Third district, drew for the order in which their names will go on the August primary ballot in the office of Secretary of State C. F. Creel. A few candidates, who had friends in the Capitol, were represented by them as on-lookers. Assistant Attorney General M. M. Logan read the names of the candidates on slips of paper. The names were put by districts in a hat held by Secretary of State Creel. Assistant Secretary of State C. H. Vansant drew the slips out, and the order in which they came out was recorded on a list of candidates by J. L. Dunstall. The names of candidates for the senatorial nominations were not drawn, as the law provides that they shall alternate by districts.

Platform and Officers.

The State Tax League, of which H. M. Prosser is president and Howard G. Skiles is secretary, has just issued a statement over their signature with regard to its platform in which is pointed out the inadequacy of the present tax laws of Kentucky. It calls attention to the fact that the State Board of Equalization has increased the assessment of property in Kentucky $18,000,000 over last year, nearly all of which, it says, has been added to real estate. It admits as true, the theory, that the present tax laws are sufficient if rigidly enforced as claimed by the State Board of Equalization, but declares that every attempt at stricter enforcement will result in repression.

Assumed His Duties.

Dr. S. F. Musselman, recently elected state veterinarian by the state live stock sanitary board, has assumed his duties with headquarters in the department of agriculture. He went to Henderson to confer with Dr. McNally of the U. S. department of Agriculture, who is beginning the test to eradicate hog cholera from Henderson county.

Different Badges.

Automobile demonstrators will have different kinds of badges from chauffeurs. The distinction between demonstrators and chauffeurs was discussed at length when the board of examiners met for the first time. Commissioner Thomas Byars, W. R. Rice, of Louisville, and W. R. Myers, of Columbia, compose the board.

Stores Will Close.

A petition was circulated among the retail merchants of Frankfort for the purpose of getting the stores to close at 5 o'clock in the afternoon in order that clerks and other employees might have plenty of time to attend the Chautauqua.

Officers Designated.

The following regular army officers, all infantry men, have been designated by the War Department as inspectors of the Kentucky National Guard, in its camp next month at Blue Grass Park, assigned in order for the first, second and third battalions of each regiment: Capt. W. P. Scriven, and Lieut. Fay W. Breckson and Russell James, First Regiment; Sheldon W. Anding, Ben F. McClelland and A. Elliott Brown, Second; Dean Archer, Allen W. Guilan and James A. Martin, Third.

Boon to Mankind.

Ignatius Tootle, the renowned authority on floral life, who lives near the quiet village of Yankee Springs, is at the present time trying to out-burbank Burbank, the wit, by growing a rectangular watermelon. Mr. Tootle has noticed for years that old-fashioned consumers have had much trouble trying to carry watermelons from the store, inasmuch as they (the watermelons) are of awkward shape and quite slippery, and after a watermelon has fallen and has hit the cement sidewalk its usefulness may be said to be over. Mr. Tootle's watermelon will be long and will have square corners, one of which corners will fit into the bent elbow when the melon is carried on the inside of the arm. Mr. Tootle expects to have his new melon growing and on the market by 1917, if nothing happens.—Boston Globe.

GIVES CREDIT TO GORGAS

"America will get all the credit perhaps for completing the Panama canal, but in giving praise where it is due, the work of the French engineers and those engaged in the early digging of the canal ought not to be overlooked," remarked Henri Borgia of Paris, an engineer, recently. "The French overlooked the most important requisite in the Panama canal zone—that of proper sanitation. Had our engineers been supported in their work by a Colonel Gorgas, the American nation might not have had the opportunity to buy the canal."

"I think it only justice that some tribute be paid the French for their share in this great project. It is true they failed, but not through lack of funds, as is proved by the beautiful palace, the magnificent gardens, and the record of sumptuous living of the officials. Neither was failure due to the untelligence of the French peasantry to contribute to their brawn, evidence of which is seen in the overfilled graves."

"The success of the American was not wholly due to his greater knowledge of engineering nor to his improved machinery; neither was it due to his ability to get into his hands large amounts of money, but to the victory over the humble mosquito. The strength of the French was the French neglected to appreciate. This, then, was the cause of their ignominious defeat in the work."

"The Panama canal is one of the greatest engineering undertakings in the history of the world. There can be no question of that."

BRIGADIER GENERAL SHARPE'S BIG JOB

More armies have been destroyed by starvation than by battles. The duke of Wellington once said that he did not consider himself much of a general, but that he prided himself on being a first-class commissary officer. "Many can lead troops," he remarked; "I can feed them."

The big job of feeding Uncle Sam's fighting men is in the hands of Brig. Gen. Henry G. Sharpe, commissary general of the United States army.

In war there is unavoidable waste of food supplies, and for this reason it is necessary to furnish much more than is actually eaten. American soldiers in the field waste quite as much as they eat. The waste of our troops in the Philippines fed half of Aguinaldo's insurgents in a way that surpassed their wildest dreams of luxury.

The quantity of stores required for one day's subsistence of half a million men in the field is: Hard bread, 500,000 pounds; bacon, 262,500 pounds; sugar, 100,000 pounds; desiccated vegetables (potatoes and onions), 37,500 pounds; coffee (roasted and ground), 40,000 pounds; beans, 75,000 pounds; tomatoes, 50,000; jam, 37,500 pounds; vinegar, 5,000 gallons; salt, 20,000 pounds; pepper, 1,250 pounds. These supplies have a total net weight of about 1,300,000 pounds, and to transport them requires 50 freight cars of 40,000 pounds capacity, or 214 army wagons.

ALFONSO'S PRIVATE BARBER

An undersecretary of the Spanish legation told at a dinner party a little story about the king of Spain, according to the Rehoboth Sunday Herald. "King Alfonso," he began, "is fond of taking motor trips incognito. He motored recently through a wild region of Castile. He put up with his modest entourage at a more than modest inn. 'I am sure,' he said, laughing, 'that they won't know me here!'"

"Well, they did not know him there. They treated him like an ordinary traveler. So much so, in fact, that when he went to shave the next morning he found there was no mirror in his room. So he went down into the inn yard in his shirt sleeves and there a chambermaid brought him a broken piece of mirror, which he set up beside the well and proceeded to lather cheeks and chin."

"The girl stood chatting with him. Finally she said in an odd voice: 'You are not just an ordinary traveler, are you?'"

"Why do you ask me that?" laughed the king. "I don't know," said the maid. "But there's something about you—perhaps you belong to the royal court at Madrid?"

"Yes, I do," he answered.

"Perhaps you work for his majesty himself?"

"Yes, I do."

"And what do you do for him?" asked the pretty chambermaid.

"Oh, lots of things," the king replied. "I'm shaving him just now."

LOVE WINS KAISER'S SON

German nobility, society and officialdom, are astonished at the announcement that Prince Oscar of Prussia, fifth son of Kaiser Wilhelm, is to marry Countess Ina Marie, daughter of Count Basawitz of Mecklenburg. It is the first instance on record where a man of the reigning branch of the Hohenzollerns has been organically engaged to wed. While the young countess is a woman of rank, she is not of royal blood.

It is assumed that the emperor, who consented to the engagement, will confer a higher rank in the nobility on the young countess. The emperor's consent is said to have been granted owing to the lack of an available German princess and to his aversion to a foreign marriage for his son. The countess met the prince while she was a lady in waiting to Empress Augusta, Victoria.

By flatly announcing his intention to marry the girl of his choice, regardless of Hohenzollern precedent and family tradition, Prince Oscar won the instant admiration of the German public.

REAL LIFE IN THE COUNTRY

Fact is shown by Man's Eagerness to Escape From Congestion of the Crowded City.

Why is it that railway magnates, presidents of banks and heads of great enterprises who must perforce do business in cities, almost all try to have homes on farms in the country, where they develop skills, plant crops and breed animals? It is because there is wearisome monotony in piled up brick and stone. There is confusion in crowded streets and clanging trolley cars and hot smoky railways. These things men have made and they are useful, but they are not life, much as the farm boy may imagine them to be.

Life is in the open country. Life is in the growing grass, the waving fields of wheat, the springing of corn. Life is in the trees and birds. Life is in the developing animals of the farm.

Any man who works with the land, who feeds a field and watches the result, gains a real fundamental knowledge of the underlying foundation on which rests all of civilization. It makes him a sober man, a thoughtful man, a reverent man, and if he experiments wisely a hopeful optimist. Life is where things are born and live and grow. On the farm is real life.—Breeder's Gazette.

Searching Criticism. Five-year-old Herbert, scion of a bookish family, had learned to read so early and so readily that his first glimpses of storyland were growing hazy in his memory. One day he confided to his mother, "Ruthie showed me her new book today, and it's the queerest thing you ever saw! Why, it just says, 'Is it a dog? It is a dog. ### ITCHING, BURNING ERUPTION

Thomasville, Ala.—"I suffered with eczema on my hands and feet two or three years. About eleven years ago I became troubled with an itching, burning eruption which came on my hands and feet in little water blisters and in about a day or two when I would let the water out or wash it out, using my hands, then the places would fester and itch to beat the band. I could not do any work that was rough on my hands at all. It caused me great suffering and inconvenience."

"I tried everything that I knew of or was told and never was really relieved until I began using Cuticura Soap and Ointment. I would wash the parts in water with the Cuticura Soap and then when I dried them I would apply the Cuticura Ointment on the surface in the daytime, and at night I would get a soft piece of cloth and apply the Cuticura Ointment on my hands and let it stay that way all night. A perfect cure was effected. No one will ever know how glad I was to get my hands and feet cured." (Signed) Geo. C. Crook, Nov. 25, 1912. Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address postcard "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."—Adv.

Growing Old. "Is your father growing old gracefully?" "No, he positively refuses to learn the maxims."

PARADISE FOR THE BIRDS

Providence Seems to Have Provided Temperate Zone for the Feathered Friends of Man.

Up in the far country where the timber falls, the calendar is respected. There is no summer before the official day set for it. The ground is held fast by frost until June is well started. There are surges of snow, wild, bitter winds, a sky that has no mercy. And then, suddenly, the wind shifts and comes out of the south. It is summer then with a leap.

The interest of the temperate zone in the northland is that it is there that have gone a great many of the migrating birds which paid us a few days' visit and passed on. For all its inhospitability to man, that country in summer is a paradise for birds. Its marshes are safe refuges from two and four-footed enemies. There is exhaustive material for nests. And out of the pools come myriads of insects, food that does not fail until the time for the southward bird movement arrives.

Some man has said that there is no God north of latitude 59. He did not inquire as to what the birds might have thought of that.—Toledo Blade.

The Way of Progress.

The dog barking at a passing automobile is generally supposed to be as telling a symbol of futile objection to the march of progress as could well be imagined. In almost the same category, however, belongs the strike of the stevedores in New Orleans against the introduction of the electric truck to transport freight between vessels and warehouses. The wonder is that this improvement has been so long delayed instead of only now appearing—and then as a source of a new labor difficulty. One cannot have much sympathy for opposition in this particular instance. The motor vehicle in all of its forms has come to stay, and the rest of the world has been rather rapidly adjusting itself to the new condition.—Engineering Record.

A Stage Career. "Who is the principal character in this musical comedy?" "Little Bo-Peep who lost her sheep. According to the newspapers, she also lost a breach of promise suit."

A wealthy dame who weighs 200 pounds is "portly." An ordinary woman who weighs 200 is just plain fat.

WOMEN CAN HARDLY BELIEVE

How Mrs. Hurley Was Restored to Health by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Eldon, Mo.—"I was troubled with displacement, inflammation and female weakness. For ten years I could not get on my feet long at a time and I could not walk two blocks without enduring cutting and drawing pains down my right side which increased every month. I have been at that time purple in the face and would walk the floor. I could not lie down or sit still sometimes for a day and a night at a time. I was nervous, and had very little appetite, no ambition, melancholy, and often felt as though I had not a friend in the world. After I had tried most every female remedy without success, my mother-in-law advised me to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I did so and gained in strength every day. I have now no trouble in any way and highly praise your medicine. 'It advertises itself.'—Mrs. S. T. HURLEY, Eldon, Missouri.

Remember, the remedy which did this was Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. For sale everywhere.

It has helped thousands of women who have been troubled with displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, periodic pains, backaches, that bearing down feeling, indigestion, and nervous prostration; after all other means have failed. Why don't you try it? Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co., Lynn, Mass.

Candidate for Congress.

Robert Swann, candidate for Congress, First Congressional District of Kentucky, Democratic primary, August 1st, 1914.

Platform: 1. Democracy, Justice and Temperance.

A Roosevelt Congress passed a grab act, making their pay $7,500 to $9,000 a year, often serving only three months.
When the Democrats were voting a change Mr. Barkley voted to keep the Big Grab. I am the only candidate for the repeal of this grab.

3. Mr. Scott voted Supt.
Hamlett an increase of $6,000,
dodging the constitution.

4. Transportation of school children by state or county will double taxes. Localities which want it should pay for it. Mr.
Barkley sends from his big press road speeches to farmers and transportation bulletins to teachers.

Attorneys Coleman and Erwin attended court in Paducah Tuesday.

THOROUGH WORK

How Murray Citizens Can Find Freedom From Kidney Troubles.

If you suffer from backache
From urinary disorders—
Any curable disease of the kidneys,

Use a tested kidney remedy.
Doan's Kidney Pills have been tested by thousands.

Grateful people testify.
Can you ask more convincing proof of merit?

Mrs. Sarah Dublin, 508 Willow St., Mayfield, Ky., says: "I had sharp twinges across my loins, making it hard for me to work. Seeing Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended, I got a box and they quickly cured me. I have taken this remedy on several occasions since and have always been benefited.
Price 50c. at all dealers. Don't simply ask for a kidney remedy—get Doan's Kidney Pills—the same that Mrs. Dublin had."

What Are You Going

To Do About It, Voters?

It is now time that the people who are opposed to the election of Mr. Barkley to Congress get together.

You take his record as County Judge, and County Attorney of McCracken county; his manner in which he secured his election to Congress; his vote against the County Unit Plank in the last State Convention; his affiliations with the whiskey interests; the undisputed fact that he promised appointments for support in his election and then swore he did not; the fact that he has allowed a standing offer of fifty dollars to run October 1, 1913, to July 1, 1914, for him to file an affidavit with the County Clerk of Calloway county, that he had not in any way promised nor allowed any one to make promises for him, to expire by limitation, ought to be all the reason that any thinking man would want to vote against him.

Now friends, in the district at least three-fifths of the people are against Mr. Barkley, and plenty of them to defeat him easily, if you get together. I have the better element of the people supporting me all over the district. If the opposition will get together for me we can win. Mr. Scott's record on the whiskey question and his record in the last legislature certainly does not commend him to the people. He is as dumb as an oyster on the whiskey question, when it comes to talking, but I have heard his appetite was very good. Mr. Barkley's friends are saying that Senator James is responsible for the unpopular
Post office appointments in this District. I have written Mr.
James a letter calling his attention to this and have requested an immediate answer, which I will publish. And if I do not get an answer in a few days I will publish the letter I wrote

Senator James on this question.
I earnestly ask the people to look well into this matter. I will keep you advised as to the facts, and will appreciate your support and influence.

Very truly yours,
JOHN W. WILLIAMS,
Candidate for Congress.

City Dog Tax.

Persons owning dogs within the city are required to pay a tag of $1 a year as provided by city ordinance, and all persons owning dogs are hereby notified to call on the city clerk and secure a tag at once. Unless this ordinance is complied with dogs found running at large will be impounded and then killed.

Seven of America's Best Doctors Endorse Dodson's Liver Tone to Take Place of Calomel

Dangerous calomel's place is now taken by Dodson's Liver Tone safely and reliably, according to seven of the most noted and highest priced physicians in the United States, after careful analysis. These physicians always charge huge fees and in this consultation were paid for their best skill. Dodson's Liver Tone is a palatable vegetable-liquid, with easy and natural action, and is sold and guaranteed by Dale & Stubblefield, who will refund purchase price (50c) instantly without question if it does not prove satisfactory in every way.

There is not only no danger in taking this reliable remedy, but it causes no gripe, no pain and the after-effects are pleasant instead of disagreeable, as with calomel. Dodson's Liver Tone interferes in no way with your regular duties, habits and diet.
Instead, it actually builds and strengthens you so that you feel happier, brighter, better and healthier.

Another Good Man Passes Away

Rev. J. V. King, late of Lynn Grove, formerly of Wingo, Ky., after several weeks illness died at the home of his son, Robert King, where he was living, and where he had received all the tender care and attention possible for a devoted son to administer.

Brother King was well known to the church people of Mayfield Presbytery, as he was a Minister in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church, and has been so laboring and preaching in this Church for 57 years. He was 87 years old, having given his entire manhood days for the cause of Christ. Brother King will be much missed by all who knew him. He leaves several children to mourn his departure, but his church and many friends realize that our loss is his gain. He was poor in this life but we have the evidences that he is rich in the Blessed Master's Inheritance, whence He has promised to the faithful, who has labored in His Vineyard as Brother King has done. His labors will stand as a Christian monument throughout the circles of his past life, only to shed the sweet influences that always follow so noble a Christian life.—A friend.

Wells School will be convened Monday, July 6, with Mrs.
Maude Hayes as teacher. All pupils and patrons are requested to be present on the opening day.
