DANIEL BOONE ROCK—According to legend, Daniel Boone in 1769 used this great rock on the South Fork of the Kentucky River near Beattyville as a reference point to mark one boundary of timberlands which he surveyed for himself. A change in the river's course reportedly erased Boone's name and the date which he had carved on the rock. With its Boone legend, the rock is visited by thousands of tourists each year.

THE PARSON SPEAKS

But, before there can be a new year in our experience, there must be a new life in our souls. We cannot expect a different crop from the same old tree.

There is but one way the change of heart can come. There is a house yonder. For years people have shunned it. Its bleak inhospitable exterior has reflected to all who have passed by the utter selfishness of those who live within. Now a new coat of paint could be put on that house but it would be the same place still. What it needs is a new master. Some day the owner, whose unkindness and selfishness have made that house a by-word, passes out of it forever and a new owner comes. There is but one way we can have a new year. Let Jesus come into our hearts. Get a new master there. Let the radiance of his love shine out through you to all the world.

Moreover, the new year should bring with it the message of a new commandment. "A new commandment I give to you, that ye love one another." One joy Christmas always brings with it is the hidden goodness we see everywhere coming out. Men and women whom no one ever suspected of having a tender thought or a generous impulse, obedient to the call of their better natures, reveal depths of devotion and unselfishness which give us hope for humanity. We wish the inspiration might remain to bless and help us all through the year, and why may it not? The new commandment that the Lord gave us was not for one day, but for every day. It was to be the principle by which all life was to be guided.

Years ago a little Virginia coastal town had but one street. In the winter and spring it was always muddy. There were no street lights, but every evening at dusk, every family along the street lit a lamp and set it in the window where its rays would shine outside. As we face this new year, I know that if we would only permit more of the light that illumines us to fall on dark and lonely pathways of those who pass by it would glow with a brighter radiance in our own homes and hearts.

In the book of Revelations we read, "I will put a new song in their mouths." We think of a song as poetry set to music, but this is a later and narrower meaning of the term. "Song" as used in the Bible means the dominant note of one's life. For the new year we need a new song. Before Paul was converted, he had a dominant note or purpose in his life. It was to overthrow and destroy everything that had to do with the name of Jesus. But after the appearance of Jesus on Damascus road, there came a new song and a new purpose. The Lord said, "I have appeared unto thee for this purpose, to make thee a witness of the things which thou hast seen, and things in which I shall appear unto thee."

The new year brings us a message of a new name. John says God will give a new name of which no man knoweth except us who receive it. Yes, God has a new name for every man who is willing to sing a new song. Let him change our name that we may be able to sing a new song.

In Byron's "Prisoner of Chillon" he tells how for many long and weary years the illustrious Bonniard had been confined in the dark dungeon beneath the waters of Lake Geneva. One day a little bird came and, sitting on the window of his cell, sang a song to him. The song aroused new life in the despairing and brokenhearted prisoner of Chillon. So he dug footholds in the stone 'til he could climb to the window and look out on the mountains and life and freedom beyond him, and the vision never left him while he lived.

Thus God intended that the vision of Christ, which has come to us in the Nativity, should be to us a call for the new year that is before us. May it be to all a year filled with the richest blessings from him from whom cometh every good and perfect gift.

Rev. Maral B. Proctor.

Faith doesn't just stand there.

It does something.

If you think all's right with the world, read no further.

But if you're like most people, today's headlines are profoundly disturbing.

Narcotics. Alcoholism. Murder. Racial strife. Poverty. Cruelty. War. The "inhuman-ness" our society seems to be breeding.

Your Faith has something to say about every one of the moral and ethical problems facing us. More important, if you listen to what your Faith has to say, you're in a better position to help solve those problems.

But you find out for yourself. Worship this week in your church or synagogue.

Then take your Faith out in the world and put it to work.

"God's work must truly be our own."

Old Names, Like Old Friends Fall With Growth And Progress

Old institutional names, like old friends, comfortable old homes or old shoes that wear well, are pleasant fixtures in most of our lives that help give us a sense of continuity with the past, and a sense of balance in coping with the changes of the present.

In the institutional field, "old" names continue to fall by the wayside year after year, as today's business and population growth bring inevitable change.

And thus it will be with Southern Bell Telephone... an old fixture "name" in Kentucky and around Fulton for the past 41 years. Come next July 1st, Fulton will no longer be "Southern Bell" - it will be "South Central Bell".

Bell Telephone has been franchised to operate in Kentucky for over 50 years. In 1913 the Bell system took over the old Cumberland Telephone Company which formerly served Fulton and its area, but did not begin using the name "Southern Bell" until 1926, which means that we have been hanging our hat on that peg for the past 41 years.

But, says the Company, the hats have become so numerous and the load so heavy that they are going to divide the load and add another peg, calling it "South Central Bell" and we Kentuckians, Tennesseans and three other states will be using the new peg.

C. Hunter Green, vice president for Kentucky, said the new firm will take over the business and operations in areas of Alabama, Kentucky, Louisiana, Mississippi, and Tennessee now served by Southern Bell.

"The objective is the best possible service for our customers and most effective administration of the business toward that end," Mr. Green declared.

Mr. Green revealed that the effective date is scheduled to be July 1. The two companies will be about the same size in terms of telephones in service, assets, and other factors, he added, and each of the operations will be comparable in size to the entire nine-state company's operations in 1957, just 10 years ago.

Southern Bell's investment in the South is $44 billion and company now serves more than 10,800,000 telephones. Kentucky's operations represent a large portion of Southern Bell's operations and will be an even larger portion of the new company's. In Kentucky at present, the firm's investment is approximately $325,000,000 and telephones in service number about 775,000. Mr. Green revealed. There are more than 5,000 employees in the state.

The new company will be named South Central Bell Telephone Company and, as a separate subsidiary of the American Telephone and Telegraph Company, will be the 24th operating company. Headquarters will be established in Birmingham.

President Frank M. Malone of Southern Bell announced the pending change at company headquarters in Atlanta, following approval of the plans in New York by the board of directors of AT&T. The American company owns the stock of Southern Bell. The Southern Bell board on Monday approved its officers' plan subject to approval by AT&T.

Mr. Malone's announcement said the step is being taken "because of our conviction that we can serve the public best under a revised organizational structure designed to more effectively cope with the tremendous overall growth in the South."

"A company such as ours has a responsibility to the public and to itself to study its organizational structure from time to time, in order to make sure it is the most efficient that can be devised and serves most effectively."

"We have not only studied the internal aspects of our organizational structure but also the past, present and anticipated future growth of the South along with probable telephone demands. We are deeply conscious of the great expansion and development of the region up to the present, and we see nothing ahead over the long pull but continued heavy growth in our nine-state area and in each of the states separately."

"We are convinced that the time has come when the public interest in our fast-moving region requires this type of organization change."

"Division into two companies will enable top authority of each firm to be in much closer contact with the needs of our customers. This will result in the best possible administration and the best possible service, since each company, by concentrating on a smaller territory, will have greater capability to deal most effectively with local matters."

Mr. Malone pointed out that Bell System growth in telephones in the past 20 years has been approximately 195 percent and the growth of Southern Bell about 325 percent. Southern Bell is the largest company in the Bell System in terms of telephones in service.

The area now served by Southern Bell, including Kentucky, is among the fastest-growing in America, economy-wise and telephone wise. Thirty eight years ago Southern Bell reached 1,000,000 telephones in the nine states. Twenty years ago the number was up to 2 1/2 million. Ten years ago there were 5,800,000. The number has doubled in 11 years, and telephone officials predict heavy growth will continue. In fact, 1,000,000 telephones have been added in the last 18 months.

Mr. Malone said there will be no change in the "policy or the philosophy under which Southern Bell presently operates—that is to provide the very best service that we can at reasonable prices consistent with our costs of doing business. We are dedicated to providing reliable, growing and improving service and to being good citizens of the community. Not only is such a policy not changed—its implementation, the carrying forward of activities and efforts to always try to do better, is strengthened."

SOCIAL SECURITY

Six out of every ten disabled workers wait too long before they apply for benefits, according to Charles Whitaker, Paducah Social Security District Manager.

Some delay application because they mistakenly believe they cannot sign up until after the "waiting period," Whitaker said; and others postpone applying until employer sick-pay or insurance benefits are is becoming a rare commodity in this day and time. But Kathryn is that kind of a friend.

As if this isn't enough to outline the anatomy of a friendship, we share the many interests of our families. Kathryn's three girls and our two children have literally grown up together. Watching them make their own futures through the years has been an all-consuming joy and satisfaction for all of us.

To Carlos and Kathryn I wish the best that life can give them. I shall miss them terribly; and I am grateful to them forever.

The "waiting period," he continued, is the first six full calendar months after the disability beginning date. No payments can be made for these six months; but the application can be, and should be, filed as early in the waiting period as possible.

The time required for making a determination on disability claims varies according to the nature of the illness or injury and the availability of medical evidence. Whitaker stated. In some cases a special examination must be arranged which usually delays the decision.

"Applications that are promptly filed can usually be completed during the waiting period so that the first checks to the disabled worker will arrive when due," Whitaker said.

The Paducah district Social Security office at 112 South Tenth Street is open from 8:45 a. m. to 7:00 p. m. on Thursdays; and from 8:45 a. m. to 5:00 p. m. on other week-days (except on national holidays). Regular visits by Social Security representatives are made to Mayfield, Murray, Fulton, Clinton, Hickman, Benton, and Marion. Appointments will be arranged upon request.

March of Dimes Reports Rare Case: A Twin Is Spared Her Sister's Fate

Screaming sirens pierced the quiet of a cold winter night three-years ago, waking the Schmidt household and sending Joanne, older of the five-month-old twins, into a screaming session of her own.

But Carol Anne, "the little one," slept through all the noise.

"It was then that we really knew," recalls Mrs. John L. Schmidt of Long Island City, N. Y. "My husband and I had always suspected, but never really admitted to ourselves, that 'the little one' couldn't hear."

The blonde, blue-eyed Schmidt twins were born a minute apart on Columbus Day, 1964, but the difference between them is much more than a mere 60 seconds.

Their mother was stricken with German measles (rubella) early in pregnancy—so early that at the time she did not even know she was pregnant. The rubella virus caused Mrs. Schmidt only temporary discomfort and apparently left Joanne unaffected.

But for the other developing twin, Carol Anne, the result was tragic. She has suffered from near-total hearing loss since birth. Moreover, she has a heart defect and her general physical development has been slower than that of her sister.

What happened to the Schmidt twins is rare, if not unique.

"I have seen some cases where both twins were affected," the physician-in-charge of the March of Dimes-financed Rubella Birth Defects Evaluation Project at New York University Medical Center said in a recent interview, "but this is the first case I have seen in which one twin has been spared."

The physician is Dr. Louis Z. Cooper, assistant professor of pediatrics at the university, who has examined the Schmidt twins and hundreds of other congenital rubella victims as part of the March of Dimes project.

The day a woman gives birth is, to say the least, filled with emotion and expectation. On that October day in 1964, the emotional stress on Eleanor Schmidt was particularly intense.

THESE TWINS are a medical mystery. Joanne Schmidt, right was born healthy, but Carol Anne was born with physical defects caused by German measles (rubella). With them is Dr. Louis Z. Cooper at March of Dimes Rubella Birth Defects Center.

"We had no idea of what to expect. The doctors told us what rubella could do if contracted early in pregnancy. After the girls were born, we were just grateful it wasn't more serious," Mrs. Schmidt said.

She recalled that at birth Joanne was two pounds heavier and two inches longer than Carol Anne. Now the older twin is 12 pounds heavier than her sister.

"The little one," who wears a hearing aid in each ear, has been enrolled for half her young life in an auditory training program. She also attends speech therapy class and sees several specialists regularly.

To help Carol Anne for school, Mrs. Schmidt keeps a special album of photographs from newspapers and magazines. She helped her daughter develop a vocabulary of 150 words from photos of houses, cars, boats, etc.

"Joanne has been a big help, too," Mrs. Schmidt points out. "The little one" follows her in everything, eating, walking. Of course, she's not as well coordinated as Joanne. You can see that from her knees. They are forever scraped from falls."

Step-by-step the Schmidt family overcomes each new difficulty. They are not alone. The twins were born during one of the most severe rubella epidemics in the history of this country. In New York City alone, there were an estimated 200,000 cases in 1964.

Experimental vaccines to prevent rubella are now being tested, and authorities have expressed hope that an effective vaccine will be available within the next few years.

University To Expand Journalism Offerings

MURRAY, Ky. — President Ralph H. Woods has announced Murray State University will expand its journalism offerings next semester.

Under the new plans, undergraduate students may "major" in journalism and graduate students may receive the master's degree in the area. In the past, only a "minor" has been offered. A master's degree in communications has been available, but only in the speech area.

Dr. L. J. Horton, who returned from Ohio University in September to be director of journalism at Murray State, expects to inaugurate a summer internship plan for journalism students. Selected students will work as salaried staffers 10 or more weeks with newspapers during the summer.

They will enroll the following semester in a seminar class where they will prepare "case studies" of their summer's experience. Academic credit will be given for the class, but not for the summer's work.

Dr. Ray Moffield, assistant to the president and chairman of the communications department at Murray State, will be a part of the teaching staff for journalism next semester. An alumnus of Murray State, Dr. Moffield has the Ph.D. from Southern Illinois University.

Other members of the journalism faculty include Prof. Louis H. Edmondson, and part-time instructors Joe Tom Erwin and Wayne Norton. Edmondson is the faculty adviser of The Murray State News, campus newspaper. Courses will be added to the journalism curriculum in such areas as public relations, law of the press, magazine article writing, advertising, research, and radio-TV news.

Inspection Of All Bridges In State Major Undertaking

By WILLIAM BRADFORD FRANKFORT, Ky.
With 6,500 state-maintained bridges in Kentucky, the recent order to re-inspect each structure constitutes a major undertaking by the state Highway Department.
Gov. Louie B. Nunn ordered the new inspection campaign last week after a bridge at Pleasant Point, W. Va., plunged into the Ohio River, claiming at least 35 lives.
Actually the order will result in the second inspection within a year for each span, since the Highway Department for more than a decade has been inspecting each of its bridges annually. Special inspections also are required immediately after a major flood.

Except for the 17 bridges spanning the Ohio River, maintenance engineers and bridge repair crews assigned to each of the department's 12 district offices carry out the inspections for their areas.
T. J. Hopgood, head of the department's Maintenance Division, said the department tries to keep at least one man in each district office who is especially trained in bridge inspection.
Reports from these inspections are beginning to come in, he said, adding that so far all have been routine. He estimated the job would be completed within two months.

Bridge engineers from the department's central office here inspect those spans across the Ohio River for which Kentucky has sole or major responsibility. Where the responsibility is shared equally between Kentucky and another state, joint teams do the job annually.
Highway Commissioner William Hazelrigg noted that Kentucky probably has more bridges than any other state since its 14,000 miles of navigable water exceed that of any other state except Alaska.
In addition to the 6,500 state bridges, there are 6,000 vehicular spans maintained locally.
Hopgood estimated that "maybe one out of every 100" normal inspections result in repair work that is nonroutine "but still not necessarily major."

Routine annual inspections include a complete check of the superstructure, bridge floor, hand rails and substructure (piers and abutments). The channel itself also is checked to make sure there is not driftwood lodged against the piers. Weight limitations on sub-standard bridges should be posted but many such signs have been removed illegally, Hazelrigg noted. Part of the current campaign will be to make sure all necessary signs are in place.

Convicts Get Raise

CALCUTTA, India — Convicts undergoing imprisonment in eastern India's West Bengal State will soon earn more money. The United Front government, which came to power here after defeating the Congress Party, has decided to increase the present wage of 37 paise (about six U.S. cents) per day.

Parker Opens Animal Clinic
