THE FAIR

Came To Close After Successful Meet.

Largest Agricultural Exhibits and Live Stock Show Ever Here.

The third meeting of the Calloway County Fair came to a successful close last Saturday evening after one of the best meetings in the history of the organization. Not a thing happened during the entire four days to mar the pleasure of the thousands who attended each meeting and hundreds of visitors from neighboring counties were here to swell the throngs. Upon every hand was heard expressions of pleasure and commendations of the management for the success of the undertaking.

The agricultural exhibits, under the management of D. B. Lassiter, was a splendid show of Calloway's products. Mr. Lassiter has had charge of the department each year, serving without pay, and he is justly proud of the success. The poultry and live stock exhibits were splendid showings of these industries of the county and attracted attention of every person attending. The races were contests of speed and endurance and were witnessed with pleasure by the large crowds. Only one thing occurred to detract from the success of this feature of the fair. W. J. Hills, one of the finest race horses of the state, died Thursday night and the general opinion prevails that the classy little animal was poisoned.

The premiums awarded were upon merit and were won by the very best in each class. We give following the premiums in agricultural exhibits and will print the live stock, floral hall and poultry winners in the next issue of the Ledger:

FISCAL COURT

Interurban to Be Exempted from Taxes Five Years.

The regular October term of the Calloway County Fiscal Court was convened here the first of the month with Judge Patterson on the bench and each of the members present. The court was in session several days and transacted a considerable amount of business. Only a small number of accounts were presented for payment and were allowed.

The annual election of a county physician and a keeper of the county farm attracted the attention of the court and Dr. B. B. Kays was re-elected physician and Dumas Scott re-elected keeper of the farm.

The county is very much interested in the construction of

VISITING SCHOOLS

State Organizer of School Improvement Leagues in Calloway.

Mrs. Charles P. Weaver, of Louisville, Ky., arrived in Murray last Monday at noon and spent several days here in the interest of the School Improvement League. She visited the Lynn Grove school Monday afternoon where she delivered an address to the patrons and pupils of the district and was heard with attention by a splendid audience. She was accompanied to Lynn Grove by Miss Grogan, superintendent of schools. Mrs. Chas. Bradley and others. Tuesday morning Mrs. Weaver went to Hazel to deliver a similar address before the schools of that city and where she met a royal welcome. She returned to Murray on the noon train and delivered an address at the Murray school building Tuesday afternoon to a large audience, and Tuesday night went to Outland school house, a few miles east of the city, where she was again enthusiastically welcomed.

The audience at Outland crowded the capacity of the large room of the new consolidated school building. An impromptu program was rendered by students of the school, directed by Prof. Jones. The league organized some several months ago held a called meeting with its president, Mr. Enos Lassiter, presiding. Mrs. Weaver was astounded at the progress being made by the league and was profuse in her compliments of the good work in progress and anticipated for the future. Her address was enthusiastically received by every one in attendance and the audience showed its keen appreciation of the work being done by the speaker.

Mrs. Weaver is the wife of former Mayor Weaver of the city of Louisville and is one of the state's most brilliant women. She was president of the Kentucky Federation of Woman's Clubs for two terms and has been allied with the school improvement leagues since their organization in this state. The object of her visits and lectures is the improvement of the physical condition of the school premises, the betterment of the school buildings, better sanitary conditions, pure water, etc., and the work in which she is engaged is worthy of the support of every school patron, and is this especially so throughout Calloway county. Mrs. Weaver returned to Louisville Wednesday morning.

A Growing School.

The September enrollment of the Bowling Green Business University exceeded that of last September by 50 per cent, but better still, the institution is called upon every month for a greater number of bookkeepers, stenographers, and operators than it can furnish. Now is a good time for young people to enter business life.

If the child starts in its sleep, grinds its teeth while sleeping, picks at the nose, has a bad breath, fickle appetite, pale complexion, and dark rings under the eyes; it has worms; and as long as they remain in the intestines, that child will be sickly. White's Cream Fermentine clears out the worms, strengthens the stomach and bowels and puts the little one on the road to health and cheerfulness. Price 25c per bottle. Sold by Dale & Stubblefield.

Agricultural School Here.

One of the most beneficial institutions that ever came to Calloway has been in progress here this week. An agricultural school conducted under the auspices of the state department has been in session here since Monday and hundreds of Calloway's best farmers have been in attendance and have profited by the splendid lectures and scientific demonstrations held. The school has been conducted at the high school building. It is to be regretted that every farmer in the county did not avail himself of the rare opportunity presented and attend the meetings. Progressive farming has demonstrated that is worth while, as evidenced by that enormous crop grown in this nation this year. The largest yield of any nation in the history of the world is the 1912 record of the American farmer and this crop was grown on fewer acres than ever before.

ENGLISH NAVY MUST EXCEL GERMAN

WINSTON CHURCHILL EXPLAINS ADMIRALTY PROGRAM.

FOUR BATTLESHIPS A YEAR IS FRUITING VERY POORLY

Effect of German Naval Law Would Be to Keep Four-fifths of Entire German Navy in Readiness for Instant War.

London.—Introducing a supplementary naval appropriation bill in the house of commons, Winston Churchill, first lord of the admiralty, declared the effect of the new German naval law would be to maintain nearly four-fifths of the kaiser's entire navy in permanent commission, ready for instant war.

"Such preparation," said Mr. Churchill, "is remarkable, and as far as I am aware, finds no example in the previous practice of modern naval powers."

The British shipbuilding program, Mr. Churchill then announced, provided for five battleships to be constructed next year and four battleships for each of the following four years.

Naught the ultimate scale of the German fleet, the first lord of the admiralty declared it would be "extremely formidable, and the only way to meet it, he said, is by cool, steady and methodical preparation over successive years."

Mr. Churchill pointed out that the increased fighting power of Germany involved reorganization of the British forces, that a necessary margin of safety might be maintained. He announced that he intended to raise the number of battleships in full commission from twenty-eight to thirty-three by 1914. From 1914 onward Great Britain will have five battleship squadrons, totaling forty-one ships, and four squadrons will be in full commission. Thus Great Britain will have thirty-three battleships, against Germany's twenty-nine. This might not be considered a very satisfactory proposition, Mr. Churchill said, but having regard to the character of the direct competition, this Great Britain will have found guilty of the murder of her five children, has made the following confession:

"I, Minnie McGee, confess to having administered one of matches containing sulphur and phosphorus to my children, and I give it to them in sugar and water. I was feeling bad at the time I did it."

Despite the efforts of three companions to pull him out, the section held him firm, and his head was drawn into the water, which still remained on the roof. In plain sight of them, looking up at them through the few inches of water, which covered his face, he was drowned.

YOUNG WOMAN BRUTALLY BEATEN

ESSIE CARTER, DAWSON, GA., AT POINT OF DEATH.

SEVERAL MEN IMPLICATED

Little Probability Victim Will Recover, and Three Men Said to Have Done Whipping. May Face Trial for Murder.

Macon, Ga.,—Four Carter, the young white girl who was whipped at Dawson, Ga., by a party of prominent men, headed by W. S. Dozier, clerk of the superior court, is at the point of death in a hospital here. The probability is that the men who whipped her eventually will be tried for murder, as the attending physicians say the case is almost hopeless. There is scarcely an inch of flesh from her neck down that is not cut and discolored, and she cannot bear the touch of either clothing or bandages.

Essie Carter was whipped because W. S. Dozier's 20-year-old son was infuriated with her and she refused to answer that she would never meet the young man again. Her story reads like the records of a Russian prison where the knout is used on women as well as on men.

"I love Vaght Dozier," she said, "and he loved me. Because he would not give me up, though I urged him to do so to please his father, the latter and his friends whipped me almost to death. Dozier and his friends carried me off in an automobile to a grove near Dawson. When they got me there they stripped me to the skin and, while four men held me, Dozier lashed me with a buggy whip. A negro chauffeur held the lantern so that he could see to whip me."

When the man who did the flogging stopped to rest, saying as he did so that he was not satisfied, the woman's back was a mass of bruises and she was screaming with pain. Friends sent for Drs. Gardner and Crumley, and when they arrived they found her never dead, but almost choked from the flogging, which had been made from her dress when she was stripped for the flogging. She was sent to Macon for treatment.

GOOD AND BAD IN REFORM SCHOOL

WON DELINQUENTS FOUND ASSOCIATED WITH CRIMINALS.

Board of Prison Commissioners Orders Little Ones Sent Back to the Counties From Which They Came.

Frankfort.—Little children, who were not delinquents, and some of whom are no more than 8 years old, were found in the State Reform School at Lexington by the State Board of Prison Commissioners on their visit there. In the school these children are necessarily herded with other children, degenerates and criminally inclined. The children who are not delinquents have been sent there by county judges who found them charges on the county and wished to get rid of them.

The commissioners at once instructed Superintendent J. W. Milliken to make out a list of these children, and they will be sent back to the counties from which they came. The board found the school overcrowded, especially in the sleeping quarters, and steps were taken to relieve the congestion as much as possible until the new dormitory is completed this fall.

The board adopted a resolution prohibiting drinking of intoxicants by prison officials and employees while on duty and drunkenness on or off duty. They also put the ban on taking liquor into the prisons. They explained that this rule was announced in order that employees might know what to expect, dismissal being the penalty.

UP IN SMOKE.

Gambling Material Burned on Public Square.

Lexington.—Eight or nine wagon loads of gambling paraphernalia—expressed by the sheriff and his deputies in raids made on the gambling rooms in 1910, which the court recently ordered destroyed, were burned on the public square under the direction of the sheriff, and in the presence of a large crowd of spectators. The big pile of stuff, which made fuel for the bonfire, consisted of roulette wheels, dice, cards, and other gambling material, and included several barrels of cards and dice. The confiscated property was worth several thousand dollars.

Does Not Apply to Schools.

Frankfort.—Another hole has been found in the Kentucky anti-drinking cup law, passed by the last general assembly. In response to an inquiry from the Barren county board of education, Attorney General Garritt, in an opinion, held that the law does not apply to public schools in Kentucky. The reason assigned is similar to that in the opinion given the board of control in which it was held that the law does not apply to the state hospitals, because they are not "publicly frequented places" within the meaning of the statute. The law specifically designated certain places, such as hotels, boarding houses, railroad trains and stations and then includes generally all other "publicly frequented places."

Citizenship Refused.

Frankfort.—Because Acting Gov. McDermott regards the right of citizenship "an important one that ought to be highly esteemed and carefully guarded," he refused to restore citizenship to R. E. McGill, of Madison county, who killed his wife in 1907. McGill served seven years in the penitentiary and a out on parole.

Convicts' Bank Accounts.

Louisville.—Savings accounts for the benefit of the prisoners in the state penitentiaries will be started by the prison commissioners August 1. This will carry out the provisions of a legislative act that 20 per cent of the per capita earnings of the prisoners shall be deposited for the benefit of the prisoner or his family.

Oil in Allen County.

Scottsville.—Luther & Sauls, oil men, of La Crosse, Gas drilling at Petroleum, Ky., six miles south of here, struck oil at a depth of 150 feet. They have been pumping with a sand pump one barrel of pure amber oil each five minutes, or at the rate of 288 barrels a day without lowering the oil.

Dies in Church.

Frankfort.—While performing a service within the church of which she had been an active member since its organization years ago, Mrs. Anna Hubert dropped dead upon the pulpit.

Kentucky Postmasters.

Milwaukee.—Postmaster John A. Inglis, president of the League of Fourth Class Postmasters of Kentucky, has issued a call for the third annual convention of the league to meet in Louisville, September 3 and 4.

Farmer Missing.

Lawnsvorneburg.—William Montgomery, 62, a prominent farmer, is missing from his home in the southern part of this county, and it is feared that he was drowned during a cloudburst.

Died While Being Baptized.

Glasgow.—Miss Mayme Proffitt, a young woman of Glasgow, died while being baptized in a creek near here. She had just started into the water, when she fell dead. Heart disease brought on by the excitement of the moment is believed to have been the cause.

Bank Robbed.

Paducah.—The Bank of Gilbertsville, at Gilbertsville, was robbed while the cashier, Charles Jenkins, was at lunch, and about $600 in cash stolen.

SERIAL STORY

No Man's Land A ROMANCE

By Louis Joseph Vance Illustrations by Ray Walters

(Copyright, 1920, by Louis Joseph Vance.)

SYNOPSIS.

Garrett Coast, a young man of New York City, meets Douglas Blackstock, who invites him to a card party. He accepts, although he dislikes Blackstock, the reason being that both are in love with Katherine Thaxter. Coast fails to convince her that Blackstock is unworthy of her friendship. At the party Coast meets two named Dundas and Van Tui. There is a quarrel, and Blackstock shoots Van Tui dead. Coast struggles to wrest the weapon from him, thus the police discover that Coast is arrested for murder. He is convicted, but as he begins his sentence, Dundas names Blackstock as the murderer and kills himself. Coast becomes free, but Blackstock has married Katherine Thaxter and while sailing sees a man thrown from a distant boat. He rescues the fellow who is named Appleyard. They arrive at a lonely island, known as No Man's Land. Coast starts out to explore the place and comes upon some deserted buildings. He discovers a man dead. Upon going further and approaching a house he sees Katherine Thaxter, who explains that her husband under the name of Black, has bought the island. He is blind, a wireless operator and has a station there. Coast informs her that her husband murdered Van Tui. Coast sees Blackstock and some Chinamen burying a man. They fire at him.

Coast decided to make himself a present of whatever benefit might be held to inhere in the doubt. He gained the rear entrance in a bound, with another found himself charging down the embankment. In whose treacherous composition of loose sand and gravel he struggled momentarily and vainly for a footing. Then he fell and rolled ingloriously, accompanied by a cloud of dirt, rubbish and small stones. At the bottom of a descent of some thirty feet he picked himself up, unharmed but shaken, just as a second bullet ploughed up the sand two paces to one side.

There was no longer any question as to the identity of the target. Coast permitted himself a single, fleeting, upward glance, caught a cinematographic glimpse of the Chinaman—like some huge, ungainly bird in his loose, flapping garments, descending the bank—and turned and ran headlong.

Presently, some distance ahead, the shadowy proportions of the beached catboat took shape through the mist. For some reason Coast halted it with a sob of hope. Heaven alone knows what manner of hope the sight of it held out to his dazed perceptions. He had merely a bewildered notion that if only he could hold out until he reached the boat it would afford him some sort of shelter—or else that he might stumble across some nondescript weapon of defence—a broken oar—anything.

Somewhat he did manage to gain the little vessel, and, with his pursuer pounding on not fifteen feet in the rear, doubled like a rabbit round its stern. He had a fugitive impression, as he passed, of a curious something crouching there; but with no time for recognition, or indeed for thought, he shot on, of a sudden painfully alive to the fact that he had been mistaken, that there was no refuge for him there.

Then he pulled up on the sound of a heavy fall behind him—a dull crash followed by a short, stifled cry and a sharp crack as of two stones coming together.

He looked back in time to see the short, starved figure of Appleyard straightening up from the body of the Chinaman, to see the little man's half-friendly, half-apologetic smile, and to hear him say in a tone of quiet reassurance: "All right, old top. He's down and three times out."

Incredulous and half exhausted, Coast staggered back to the boat.

The Chinaman lay like some monstrous effigy of man, inert, sprawling, with a sagging jaw, shut eyes and a ragged, bleeding wound in the middle of his forehead. A bit of driftwood—part of the water-blesched branch of a small tree—was twisted between his feet; a formidably jagged stone in Appleyard's hand eked out the story of his downfall.

"It wasn't anything," the little man explained with his timid, makeshift smile, noting Coast's expression. "I saw you coming—heard the shots to begin with—and made preparation accordingly. Lucky you chanced this way. Otherwise—"

He shrugged and cast away the stone that had served so famously. "We'd better be making tracks before the others come down on us," he suggested calmly.

"You—you've killed him?" Coast asked.

"Um—no, sorry to say. Appleyard moved to one side and picked up the revolver which had fallen from the Chinaman's hand. 'Unfortunately,' he stammered, 'Mebbe, he just stunned me momentarily. It'll turn out concession of the brain, but—he made a dubious mouth—I'm afraid not.' 'Those brutes are tough as pig-iron. Still, I think I'm some promise' entry in the David and Goliath class—what? . . . Come along now: no time to waste." He dropped the weapon into a pocket, and, seizing Coast's arm, began to trot him along the beach in the direction of the Echo's dory.

"You see," he commented severely, "what comes of going out alone. Next time I go calling, I want you to stay at home and keep out of mischief. Now you hear me!"

CHAPTER XI.

While his crew was whipping the dory's headwarp round a deck-cleat, Coast stood in the cockpit of the Echo, frowning thoughtfully at the blurred room of head-to-sternward whose shadow seemed to fall cold upon his soul with a sinister presage of suffering and disaster. For there was Katherine, there Blackstock, there mystery, terror, death; . . . and there he himself must be, for her sake.

Out of the horror and turmoil of the last half-hour he emerged with conviction and understanding. She must not be left alone in that place of nameless perils. Such doubts as he had previously entertained no longer found footing in his thoughts: it was settled now; he would stay.

In the emotional stress of his un-forgotten encounter with the woman temporarily he had forgotten the victim of the howling. But now, having his conclusions on what she had told him of the personnel of the island, he saw without doubt that the man could have been no other than that Mr. Power she had named as Blackstock's assistant. Power, was an Irish name; Coast had catalogued the man as of Irish extraction, at sight.

He explained that her husband under the name of Black, has bought the island. He is blind, a wireless operator and has a station there. Coast informs her that her husband murdered Van Tui. Coast sees Blackstock and some Chinamen burying a man. They fire at him.

ing ones, and I'll prove it. Listen you're cudgelling your—brrrr!—brains for an excuse to go back and establish yourself on No Man's Land—persons, grata to the inhabitants, temporarily at least. Aren't you?" Coast's jaw dropped. "How do you know that?" he breathed, thunder-struck.

"I'm the best little guesser you ever met," replied Appleyard, complacently. "Take it from me, I'm wise to a lot more than you ever dreamed. Furthermore, I'm for you. Now, with that entente clearly established, are you willing to put yourself in my hands and rest easy in my assurance that you'll win out, or do you prefer to blunder on in your infatuated, bull-headed way and take your chances?"

"But—who are you? What do you know?"

"I'm the man in the know in this case, all right. But that's not the point. I'll explain. The point is satisfaction. For the present, the questions is: Will you or won't you trust me?"

Coast made a helpless gesture. "Go on," he said.

"Good enough. Now," continued Appleyard, rising, "the first thing is to clear out of this. You get the anchor up and I'll start the machinery."

"But—"

"Tut, tut! Leave it to me! I'm the doctor, and I'm handing you the only possible prescription, based on an exhaustive diagnosis of the symptoms, et cetera. And you'd better hump yourself. As things stand, the little man paused to explain with a trace of impatience, seeing that Coast made no move and was on the point of interposing further objections, "we have the advantage of our friends ashore. We know who they are, but they don't know us. But if we stick round here

It's only a question of time before we're discovered. Whereas, if we fold our tent and silently beat it, we can return anon (not that 'anon') and they'll have less excuse for identifying us with the first rash intruder. Moreover, we shall have had time to study the situation in detail and plan our campaign accordingly. Now will you get that mudhoop up?"

He turned his back to Coast and prepared to uncover the motor, while his putative employer, mystified and talked into a condition of semi-hypnotic, silently rose and clambered forward.

By the time he had weighed in the light anchor and returned to the cockpit, the little engine was troubling busily and the Echo had begun to move. Appleyard at the wheel, im-perturbable, steering by the compass on the seat at his side. He nodded satisfaction as Coast began to coil the cable, still dazed and almost inclined to credit the preposterous situation to a waking dream.

"Good!" said the little man. "Now get below and change—you can't afford to catch your death, standing round in those dripping rags—and relieve me; that I may do the same. Furthermore, I'd be glad of a drop of grog. We'll talk later."

"Do you mind telling me where we're bound?" Coast inquired with mild sarcasm.

"Not at all. This course ought to take us clear of Devil's Bridge," returned the little man helpfully. Coast was in a more cheerful mood, now when he returned, the confidence and courage of his manner bearing witness to the restorative power of plenty of hot coffee and bacon and eggs.

A Good Business Man. Doctor—"Now, Mr. Macdonald, must take your temperature."

Macdonald (see herself)—"Ack, but you cannot. Everything is in the way of my—well!—everything!"

Modish Jabot. Graceful lace jabots give the finishing touch to the smartest tailored rig.

Dainty Designs for Simple Dress and Long, Ample Coat

Cotton Dress.—This is a good style for cottons, such as gingham, seprhy and foulards, as it would be easy to wash. Green cotton foulard sprigged with a darker shade is chosen for it.

The skirt is made with a panel down front, with the sides lying over it in wrapped seams. The bodice has also the panel front and is trimmed with a collar and strappings of plain material; for the yoke and under-sleeves muslin embroidery is used.

Materials required: 5½ yards cotton foulard 28 inches wide, ¾ yard plain, ¾ yard embroidery 18 inches wide.

Coat for Day or Evening Wear.—This coat might well be used for day or evening wear, as it is a style that would lend itself to all occasions. Our model is of natural colored Shantung and is high-waisted and plainly set to the bodice, which has slight fullness at waist. For the collar and cuffs striped black and white foulard is used.

Materials required: 5 yards Shantung 33 inches wide, ¾ yard foulard 40 inches wide.

EASY TO MAKE SMART TIES ORNAMENT FOR THE TABLE

Fashionable Jabots May Be Designed From Black and White Ribbons of Satin.

Smart ties can be made from black and white satin ribbon, four inches wide. A good looking jabot is made from a six-inch strip of three-inch ribbon in soft satin ribbon, which check or dot. Round the bottom edge with inch silk fringe and across the top put a satin butterfly bow in the same shade. This bow may have double loops or a mesh side without ends, or can have two loops and two ends, the latter pointed and finished with a small tassel.

For quite young girls the model is prettily made of plaid ribbon, with black fringe and a black bow. A stiff, rather formal, effect is had from a jabot of white satin two inches wide at the top and four and a half inches at the bottom, which is cut straight across at the end that reaches to the bust line. The upper part is made of stiffly over two straight, stiff loops on each side without ends, or an inch and a half from the bottom put a two inch band of flat lace in section, and above it three crocheted loops, one above the other. This jabot is especially attractive in vivid green satin, with ecru lace banding and small gilt buttons.

A double frill of black or emerald green satin ribbon set seven inches wide at the bottom, with the ends finished sharply and five inches from the top. There are double stripes, one eight inches long and the other six and one-half, and both are side-plaited into one over the other and one-half inch at the top. The plaits are held by three small green buttons on the back and gilt on green. On either side to the top is a bow effect, made by inch-wide frills of plaited point de esprit.

A dainty effect to wear with a close turnover collar is made from a stiff square bow of two loops and two ends of half-inch velvet ribbon, with a tiny garland of pink, yellow or lavender roses and green foliage twisted through the knot.

Cretonne Hats. Little poke and country bonnets have had a great success when made in fine silky straws which have a droli incongruity with their simplicity. They are trimmed with tiny flowers and berries. Anglaise. Some pretty hats of this variety are, however, made up in Valenciennes lace, while others, again, are covered with cretonne and flowered muslin. In short, there is in children's millinery the same range of choice as there is in our own.

White Satin Mannish Shirts. The new models most in demand for midsummer use are the satin mannish shirts, says the Dry Goods Economist. These are very smart, especially the styles with Robespierre collar and hazy-line crystal buttons down the center front. The long shirt sleeves are joined to an extended shoulder line. In many cases finished off with a small satin cording.

Embroidered Dots. Black or a color is introduced effectively in some very new white lingerie waists that are tucked all over in clusters and that have sailor collars and cuffs embroidered with dots, the dots the color of the crystal buttons. The waists are uncommonly smart.

New Leather Belts. Inch-wide patent leather belts in black, pink coral or light blue are cut over black white linings and piped with the white. The buckles are brass or leather covered.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

How Mrs. Reed of Peoria, Ill., Escaped The Surgeon's Knife.

Peoria, Ill.—"I wish to let every one know what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. For two years I suffered. The doctor said I had a tumor and the only remedy was the surgeon's knife. My mother bought me Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and today I am a well and healthy woman. For months I suffered from inflammation, and your Sanative Wash relieved me. I am glad to tell anyone what your medicines have done for me. You can use my testimonial in any way you wish, and I will be glad to answer letters."—Mrs. CHRISTINA REED, 105 Mount St., Peoria, Ill.

Mrs. Lynch Also Avoided Operation. Jessup, Pa.—"After the birth of my fourth child, I had severe organic inflammation. I would have severe terrible pains that it did not seem as though I could stand it. This kept up for three long months, until two doctors decided that an operation was needed. 'Then one of my friends recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking it for two months I was a well woman.'—Mrs. JOSEPH A. LYNCH, Jessup, Pa.

Women who suffer from female ills should try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, one of the most successful remedies the world has ever known, before submitting to a surgical operation.

The Middle-Aged Woman.

Of the many ways in which the middle-aged woman may vary the effect of her afternoon gowns none is simpler than the use of a collar and cuffs of white voile edged with scalloping and embroidery in a floral design. Another may be the frock set of white chiffon with border of black malines, and still another is the one of black net hemstitched with silver thread. Some of these collars are so long in front that they terminate only at the waist line, where they cross in surplice effect and are tucked away under the girdle. An excellent model of this sort is of light blue lawn embroidered with black dots, and a second is of white agate trimmed with tiny folds of broadcloth, alternating with eponge.

Excellent Plan.

"I see," said Mrs. De Jones, while Mrs. Van Tyle was calling, "that you have a Chinese chauffeur. Do you find him satisfactory?"

"He's perfectly fine," said Mrs. Van Tyle. "To begin with, his yellow complexion is such that at the end of a long, dusty ride he doesn't show any spots, and then when I am out in my limousine I have his pigtail stuck through a little hole in the plate-glass window and I use it as a sort of bell rope to tell him where to stop."—Harper's Weekly.

To Protect the Flowers.

Edelweiss and other characteristic Swiss flowers are said to be in danger of total extinction because of the craze of tourists for collecting them. Women tourists especially are always anxious to take away souvenirs in the way of a plant, and do not simply pull the flowers, but dig up the plant. It is proposed to introduce a law that will prevent the buying, selling or digging of edelweiss, fire lily, Siberian spring crocus, Alpine columbine, the Daphne, Alpine violet or other national flowers.

Let's Be Thankful for That. At any rate a woman's shoes haven't yet reached the point where they but ton up the back.

A Perfectly Digested Breakfast Makes Nerve Force for the Day.

Everything goes wrong if the breakfast lies in your stomach like a mud pie. What you eat does harm if you can't digest it—it turns to poison.

A bright lady teacher found this to be true, even of an ordinary light breakfast of eggs and toast. She says:

"Two years ago I contracted a very annoying form of indigestion. My stomach was in such condition that a simple breakfast of fruit, toast and egg gave me great distress."

"I was slow to believe that trouble could come from such a simple diet, but finally had to give it up, and found a great change upon a cup of hot Postum and Grape-Nuts with cream, for my morning meal. For more than a year I have held to this course and have not suffered except when indis-cussibly varying my diet."

"I have been a teacher for several years and find that my easily digested breakfast means a saving of nervous force for the entire day. My gain of ten pounds in weight also causes me to want to testify to the value of Grape-Nuts."

"Grape-Nuts holds first rank at our table."

THE MURRAY LEDGER,

O. J. JENNINGS, EDITOR.

Entered at the postoffice at Murray, Kentucky, for transmission through the mails as second class matter.

THURSDAY, OCTOBER 10, 1912.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

The Ledger is authorized to place before the voters of Calloway county its candidates for the various offices named below and subject to the action of the voters at the August, 1912, primary election.

For Assessor.

C. R. Lee, Murray, Ky.

Two Great Leaders in Nebraska.

That was a great demonstration the people of Lincoln, Neb., led by William Jennings Bryan, gave Woodrow Wilson when he visited that city Saturday.

When Governor Wilson arrived at that place he was cordially and enthusiastically greeted by the people of the commoner's home city, and Mr. Bryan was no less cordial and enthusiastic in his greeting than the rest of the people.

A monster parade followed Governor Wilson's arrival, for which both he and Mr. Bryan expressed the keenest pleasure and gratification.

That night a banquet was given at the commoner's home in honor of the democratic nominee, which was attended by thousands of admirers and followers of Wilson and Bryan.

Both Mr. Bryan and Governor Wilson said things at the banquet which the democrats of the nation wanted to hear them say. What was said by them emphasizes the fact that the cause of the people, which Bryan has fought so long and faithfully for has a worthy champion in Governor Wilson, and that the great Nebraskan and the great Jerseyman are now standing shoulder to shoulder for the emancipation of the American people.

Governor Wilson showed his appreciation of the service of Mr. Bryan has rendered the democratic party and the country, when he said:

"I want to express on this, the first opportunity I've had since getting into Lincoln, the very deep pleasure it gives me to find myself beside Mr. Bryan. We are free to serve the people of the United States, and in my opinion it was Mr. Bryan who set us free. I think no one can have followed the course of events in that extraordinary convention at Baltimore without sharing in that opinion."

Mr. Bryan, who had that day returned from a speaking tour through the west in behalf of the national democratic ticket, warmly commended the democratic nominee, saying:

"I'm proud of the leader we've chosen. I'm glad he has shown that scholarship need not be lonely. I'm glad he illustrates—as did Jefferson—that the educated man need not be separated in sympathy from the man less educated. In his presence and in yours, I want to express my deep gratitude to him for the masterly manner in which he has led our friends in this campaign."

Mr. Bryan appeals to the democrats to do for Wilson twice as much as they did for Bryan, declaring that the triumph of the great Jerseyman as the leader of the democratic party would be the completion of a fight begun eighteen years ago for progressive principles.

The meeting of these two men augurs well for the democratic party. Their attitude toward each other, combined with the zeal each manifested, shows that they are working to a common end, and the Bryan followers and Wilson followers can logically and consistently join forces and vote together. ### Brooks Chapel.

Dry, dusty weather and warm for this time of year.

Tobacco is nearly all housed, its a very good grade and curing up nicely.

Several fat opossums have been caught, but few sweet potatoes to pen around him while baking.

Sorghum making is on. The cane is small, caused by the prolonged drouth.

Firing tobacco, cutting corn, and picking peas is about the order of the day.

Miss May Weatherford and Miss Myrtle Nannie are visiting Mr. Ivey Fulton's family near Kirksey.

Mr. Cary Terry won the blue ribbon for entering the finest span of mules at the fair in Murray last week.

Large numbers of our people attended the fair, were well pleased and report the exhibits greatly improved. The exhibits from the Lexington Farm School and experimental Station were fine. I far one saw my first blue grass and alfalfa.

I would be pleased to hear from some of the correspondents what they learned from the 50 acre farm under the Lexington tent in the fair grounds at Murray last week.

Rev. Boon Jeffrey is holding a big meeting at Independence this week.

T. A. Jones is putting in some new bridges on our new public road here.

The presidential campaign seems to me is the worst tangled mix up I ever read of. I am for Taft, but cannot tell who will be the next president.

Mr. Euria Gordon is getting along nicely with his school.

As news is scarce I will close by asking every one to read Proverbs, 6 chapter, 16, 17, 18 and 19 verses and be benefited.

$100 Reward. $100.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dread-disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages. That is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces, the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

HELPFUL HINTS ON HAIR

Scaly and Hair Troubles Generally Caused by Carelessness

Dandruff is a contagious disease caused by a microbe which also produces baldness. Never use a comb or brush belonging to some one else. No matter how clean the owner may be, these articles may be infected with microbes, which will infect your scalp. It is far easier to catch hair microbes that it is to get rid of them, and a single stroke of an infected comb or brush may well lead to baldness. Never try on anybody else's hat. Many a hat-band is a resting place for microbes.

If you happen to be troubled with dandruff, itching scalp, falling hair or baldness, we have a remedy which we believe will completely relieve these troubles. We are so sure of this that we offer it to you with the understanding that it will cost you nothing for the trial if it does not produce the results we claim. This remedy is called Rexall "93" Hair Tonic. We honestly believe it to be the most scientific remedy for scalp and hair troubles, and we know of nothing else that equals it for effectiveness, because of the results it has produced in thousands of cases.

Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is devised to banish dandruff, restore natural color when its loss has been brought about by disease, and make the hair naturally silky, soft and glossy. It does this because it stimulates the hair follicles, destroys the germ matter, and brings about a free, healthy circulation of blood, which nourishes the hair roots, causing them to tighten and grow new hair. We want everybody who has any trouble with hair or scalp to know that we think that Rexall "93" Hair Tonic is the best hair tonic and restorative in existence, and no one should scoff at or doubt this statement until they have put our claims to a fair test, with the understanding that they pay us nothing for the remedy if it does not give full and complete satisfaction in every particular. Two sizes, 50 cents and $1.00. Remember, you can obtain Rexall Orderlies in Murray only at our store—The Rexall Store, Dale & Stubblefield.

Turning Away Positions.

Last week two calls for bookkeepers, four or five for stenographers, eight or ten for commercial teachers, about the same number for combined bookkeepers, and more than twenty for telegraph operators were turned away by the Business University at Bowling Green, because that institution had exhausted its supply of young men and women who were qualified for places. Our own boys and girls had better take notice.

Notice to the Public.

Having secured the services of Mr. Z. B. Talley, who is an experienced funeral director and licensed embalmer, we now feel justified in offering to the public our services whenever any one should be in need of such. Our line of undertaking goods is complete and our funeral car is elaborate and of latest design. Murray Furniture & Undertaking Co.

Boren Held Without Bail.

Cadiz, Ky., Oct. 4. The examining trial of Garland Boren, white, and Steven Pinner, negro, charged with the murder of Murray McKinney in the southern part of the county, last week, was held here today.

The negro was dismissed while Boren was held without bail to answer to the January grand jury.

McKinney's body was found in a gully near his home, and circumstantial evidence pointed strongly to Boren as his slayer.

Strayed Mule. Black mare mule about 14 hands high, 10 year old, sheared with long tail. Strayed from Murray county court day. Will pay for any trouble if returned to me or notified of her whereabouts. Jessie Shelton, Almo, Rt. 1 or phone Cumb. 188-5.

Election Notice.

Barisunt to an order, which was issued by the Fiscal court of Calloway county, on the 19th day of Sept. 1911, I will hold an election at all the several precincts in the county, for the purpose set out in the order which is given below my signature hereon.

C. L. JORDAN, Sheriff Calloway county.

Commonwealth of Kentucky, Calloway Fiscal court. Presiding T. W. Patterson, Judge, together with Lee Clark, J. A. Ellison, W. J. Guerin, W. G. Hamlin, G. M. Potts, A. B. Perry and J. W. Wade magistrates.

Be it suggested by the Fiscal court of Calloway county, Ky., that a proposition of issuing forty thousand dollars in bonds be submitted to the voters of Calloway county, Ky., at the next November election which is November 5th 1912, for the purpose of erecting a court house on the old court house site in Murray Calloway county, Kentucky, said forty thousand dollars to be used to complete a building ready for use, and that said county issue bonds in denominations of five hundred dollars each, for said sum of forty thousand dollars, and that said bonds are to bear interest at a rate not to exceed 5 per cent per annum, and interest payable annually on the first day of October of each year, and bonds to be not more than twenty years, and it is ordered by the court that the Sheriff of Calloway county hold an election at all the several precincts in the county on November 5th, 1912, for the purpose of taking the vote of the legal voters of said county as to whether or not said appropriation shall be approved or rejected, and the Sheriff of said county is ordered to advertise said election and the above thereof in some newspaper of the county having the largest circulation at the time, if no paper be published in the county, then by printed hand bills posted up at three of the most public places in each precinct and at the county seat. On motion and second the above suggestion was placed before the house and the roll being called the vote stood as follows: Lee Clark, yes; J. A. Ellison, yes; W. J. Guerin, yes; W. G. Hamlin, yes; G. M. Potts, yes; A. B. Perry, yes; J. W. Wade, yes. The suggestion was unanimously carried and said suggestion stands approved as above set out.

POSITIVE PROOF

Should Convince the Greatest Skeptic in Murray.

Because it's the evidence of a Murray citizen.

Testimony easily investigated. The strongest endorsement of merit.

The best proof. Read it: W. H. McKeel, Murray, Ky., says: "A member of my family used Doan's Kidney Pills for some years and considers them the best remedy for kidney complaint. Before she began taking Doan's Kidney Pills she had pains across the small of her back and sides as well as other symptoms which kidney sufferers are subject to. Hearing Doan's Kidney Pills so highly recommended, she got a box and used them as directed. They did her a great deal of good and when she has had a return attack of kidney complaint she uses Doan's Kidney Pills and they never fail to help her. It gives me great pleasure to recommend Doan's Kidney Pills as they do all that is claimed for them."

In Memory.

Laverne, infant son of W. D. and Viola Allbritten, died on Sept. 12th, 1912, at the home of his grand-parents in Murray, Ky.

He was an unusually bright and affectionate child, the special pet of the entire family including grand-parents, uncle and aunt. He had entwined himself so tenderly around the affections of the family and relatives that it was an exceedingly sore trial to give up the dear little one, but we have the assurance that little Laverne is secure in the embrace of God's tender love and mercy. The effect of this sad bereavement should be to bring the parents, as also all the relatives, into closer relations with God, that through the earnest service of Him they may be prepared to meet little Laverne where no more sad partings can ever come, and where death and sufferings will be felt and feared no more. ## IS 100 YEARS OLD Famous Dormitory at Harvard Was Built in 1812.

Money to Put the Mail Up Was Raised by a Lottery, Which Made a Profit of $29,000.

Cambridge, Mass.—Not only every Harvard man but every visitor who has crossed the classic yard of the old university will be interested in the fact that Holyworth hall, one of the dormitories facing on the elm-shaded quadrangle, celebrates its centenary this year. For a full hundred years it has been occupied by successive generations of students.

The history of Holyworth is interesting. Before it was built the college had faced out over Cambridge common, turning its back on what is now the yard. The three oldest buildings, Harvard (1672-82), the original Stoughton (1699) and Massachusetts hall (1720), formed three sides of a square open to the west. Later (1763) Hollis was built in line with Stoughton and with the help of Holden chapel, three sides of another square were thus formed, this one also opening to the west.

These western faces were the front of the building. Behind them in what is the present yard were wood houses, the brewhouse and other outbuildings. Stoughton was finally taken down in 1780 and a different plan of arrangement then became possible. Still the present Stoughton, built in 1803, was placed on a line with Hollis and it also faced the west.

In 1811, however, another dormitory being needed it was voted in the first place "that the corporation will proceed to erect a new college for the habitation of students on the site of old Stoughton hall," and Mr. Lowell and Louisa Baldwin were appointed a committee to make necessary contracts and superintend the erection of the building. If this plan had been carried out it would have effectively blocked the development of the present college yard.

Fortunately better counsels prevailed. On March 11, 1811, Mr. Baldwin presented a plan for the new college, and it was voted "that the committee be appointed to contract for the erection of the new college be requested to cause the same to be erected to the eastward of new Stoughton and extending its front southerly, nearly east and west, and that the same be built upon the principles of the plan exhibited by L. Baldwin, with single rooms in the front and two studies in the rear, and to form the north side of a quadrangle which, when completed, may be nearly equilateral.

The money with which to build the new hall was not derived from the Holyworth bequest received many years before, as might be inferred from the name, but came from the proceeds of a lottery which had been authorized by act of the legislature March 14, 1806. The treasurer's books show that the lottery produced about $29,000, of which sum $24,500 was spent on Holyworth hall. This was a not unusual way of raising money for public purposes and no ill opinion was attached to it at that time. Stoughton hall had been built in like manner by a lottery authorized in 1794.

In the corporation records it was specified that the rent of rooms in Holyworth should be $26 a year.

PAIR MUST MARRY AT SEA

Japanese Swain Can't Wed Woman in America—His Love Letters Yards Long.

Spokane—Love letters by the yard are the kind S. Kono, proprietor of a Japanese restaurant, receives regularly from his sweetheart of the flowery kingdom. He exhibited one with a considerable piece of the assurance that no one would read its sacred contents, as it is written in the Japanese language. Kono, with a bashful grin that extended from ear to ear, admitted that he was going to marry the little Japanese lass next September.

"We show something," he said, as he drew forth a crumpled mass of what looked like tissue paper from his inside coat pocket. Carefully smoothing it out, Kono displayed several sheets of Japanese silk paper delicately inscribed with the native characters on one side. Each sheet was about four feet long and the width of an ordinary writing paper. Kono explained that it was a letter from his bride-to-be, and gleefully pointed out his name and the girl's on the paper.

Kono, who has been in America twelve years, speaks English fluently. He explained that the girl was 23 years old, although she was just a little girl of 11 when he left her in Japan. Kono will bring his bride to Spokane when he completes with all the immigration requirements. Kono will not be allowed to bring the girl to this country until he marries her. To overcome legal obstacles he will meet her ship outside American waters and the ceremony will be performed on board ship. The marriage ceremony will have to be performed at least three nautical miles from shore.

Hermit Faces Old Murder Charge. Florence, Ala.—John Legg is in jail charged with a murder committed twelve years ago. A month after the crime Legg reached the Ozark mountains in Missouri, where he made his home in a cave, subsisting by trapping and shooting, and clothing himself with the skins of the slain animals. Confiding his story to a stranger resulted in his arrest.

draws, who was doing much work among the poor. From time to time she would tell Mr. Hinchman of her work. He became interested and offered to take some of the children. At times he had as many as five or six children under his roof.

"She sent them so fast that I thought there would be many for me to take care of," said the old man, "but I never turned one away, and adopted them all."

Of the 26, 20 were boys and 6 of them girls.

Two-thirds of them are now in business for themselves and the others are good citizens who are doing their part of the world's work, stated Mr. Hinchman.

North Adams, Mass.—When Edward D. Pomeroy was buried the other day in the little mountain town of Buckland in a coffin that he made with his own hands, a strange plea made by the old man to a doctor to save his life for two weeks came to light.

"Can't you keep me alive two weeks?" asked the ill man, anxiously.

"Why do you want to live just two weeks?" asked the doctor.

"Well, you see," he replied, "I have six hens sitting in that coffin and I'd rather not disturb them until they've hatched."

But Pomeroy died on a new bench were found for the hens.

THE KITCHEN CABINET

ANY one can carry his burden, however heavy, till daylight. Any one can do his work, however hard, for one day. Any one can live sweetly, patiently, lovingly, purely, till the sun goes down. And this is all that life ever really means.

ECONOMICAL LIVING.

It is a necessity for the majority of people to buy meat to learn to cook those cuts which are cheap, or cheaper than the choice cuts. As meat is one of our most expensive foods, wise buying will lessen the monthly bills.

Get a pound of meat cut from the rump of beef, cut the pieces in size for serving, roll in flour and brown in a frying pan with beef drippings or suet.

When well browned, add two table-spoonfuls of beef drippings and two table-spoonfuls of flour, mix well and add three cups of stock or water; let this boil. In a casserole put thin slices of a small carrot and onion, and pour over this the boiling mixture with a teaspoonful of salt and a few dashes of red pepper. Cover and place in a slow oven for an hour.

A medium flank steak if carefully cooked is tender, well flavored and palatable. Score the steak on both sides and sprinkle with a table-spoonful of lemon juice or vinegar, which softens the fiber; season with salt, pepper, a dash of nutmeg, cloves and a little chopped onion. Cover thickly with fine bread crumbs, roll up and fasten well with skewers. Sear over well in a hot frying pan, add a pint of stock or water and bake an hour and a half.

A dish which may be new to some is an old one to many of our friends across the water. Roast chicken. This is simply milk that has become thick, before it is very acid. If it has stood and acquired cream all the better. Serve as one does a custard, sprinkled with a little grated maple sugar or with brown sugar. It is a most useful dish for hot weather, good for all ages and especially good for those who have alimentary troubles.

Junket is another easily prepared food, which is both good and cheap. It is never economy to buy wilted vegetables or questionable fruit. The market makes them more costly than those which cost a few cents more.

GENERAL HINTS.

If the sweet peas, cucumber vines and rose bushes are infested with the green worm, which will eat and destroy the plants, use the following spray:

Melt a third of a bar of Ivory soap, add a teaspoonful of kerosene and eight quarts of water. Use this in the sprayer and spray everything that needs it. It is a universal killer.

A Famous Cholera Cure.—Mix together a fourth of a teaspoonful of soda, the same of ginger, fifteen drops of peppermint; add to a glass of hot water. Take a glass of this every three hours.

A Splendid Lotion for Tan.—When preparing cottage cheese, save the whey, and in this cook a good-sized cucumber, peeling and all; cut it in slices before cooking, let stand until cool, strain and add a table-spoonful of alcohol and a teaspoonful of benzoin. Two drops of oil of rose. There should be a cupful of the whey and cucumber juice.

A fine shampoo for dark hair is the well-beaten yolk of an egg. Rub well into the scalp and rinse with several waters. The rinsing of the hair is the important point to have well done. Add a few drops of any desired perfume to the rinsing water and a delicate odor will remain in the hair. The hair will be a week, white hair should be rinsed in water quite well blue with bluing.

When buying grape fruit, oranges, lemons, or in fact any large fruit, weigh them in the hands, as the heavier ones are most profitable, are more full of juice.

Carry some sheets of asbestos paper with you when camping; they may be rolled into cone shaped dishes, set point down into the camp fire and will hold any vegetables to be baked without being troubled with ashes.

Keeping the feet from the floor of the car when riding on the steam cars will relieve car sickness. Support them on a cushion or bag. The vibration of the car causes the illness.

A folding coat hanger is a great convenience to use when traveling. The paper bag which the porter gives you to cover your coat may be used to cover a coat, at least the upper part of it. Slip the bag at the bottom and put the hook of the hanger through that.

Why They Want. As the Sunday school teacher entered her classroom, she saw leaving in great haste a little girl and her still-smaller brother.

"Why, Mary, you aren't going away," she exclaimed in surprise. "Please, Miss Anne, we've got to go," was the distressed reply. "Jimmy 'th thwallowed hith collection."—Lippincott's.

Obviously Unnecessary. "Look here, Nelly," said Slowway, indignantly, to his tailor, "you haven't put any pockets in these trousers." "No, Mr. Slowway," said the tailor, with a sigh; "I judged from your account that you never had anything to put in them."

TEXT WAS NEW TO HEARERS

German's Struggle With the English Language Praised, but Some-what Mirth Provoking.

Prince Henry of Reuss, who speaks superb English, laughed good-naturedly at a dinner in New York, over the account of certain officers of the German fleet.

"One of our chaplains," said the prince, "had the hardihood to preach in English at one of our Lutheran chapels the other day. He astonished his congregation by saying, as he rose, that he would choose for his text the words:

"And he tore his shirt." "A quite audible snicker went round. The chaplain noticed it, flushed, and repeated the text in a louder voice: "And he tore his shirt."

"The snicker became a laugh, and the pastor rose anew and said: "Our good brother is quoting, of course, the familiar words: "And the door is shut."

Voice of Conscience. A western Kentucky negro was in jail awaiting trial for stealing a calf. His wife called to see him. On her way out the jailer, whose name was Grady, halted her.

"Mandy," he inquired, "have you got a lawyer for Jim?" "No, sah," said his wife. "Ef Jim was guilty I'd git him a lawyer right away; but he tells me he ain't guilty, and so, of course, I ain't aintin' to hire none."

"Mr. Grady," came a voice from the cells above, "you tell dat nigger wome an down thar to git a lawyer—and git a dam' good one, too!"—Saturday Evening Post.

Pittsburg Chivalry. "What's going on here?" demanded a man as he came upon two little boys battling in a vacant lot on the south side. The lad who was on top was rubbing weeds over the face of the under one.

"Stop it," said the man, grabbing the victor by the neck and pulling him away. "What in the world are you trying to do to his face with those weeds?"

"Do? Why, he swore in front of some girls, and I rubbed some smart weed in his eyes to become a great man like Abraham Lincoln."—Pittsburg Sun.

PATHOS IN CHILDS' BRAVERY

Fortitude Shown by Little Sufferer in Hospital Touched Lady Henry Somerset.

Lady Henry Somerset, whose labors in behalf of the children of the London slums are constant and earnest, tells this affecting story of the way in which her interest in these little ones was aroused.

"I was moved in that direction by the rare patience and imagination of one little boy. His example convinced me that patience was one of the qualities I needed most, and in seeking it I grew into that work."

"I was in a hospital on visiting day, while the doctors were changing a plaster cast which held the crippled boy's limb. The operation was exceedingly painful, I was told. To my surprise, the little sufferer neither stirred nor winced, but made a curious humming sound with his mouth. After the doctors left I said to him: "How could you possibly stand it?"

"That's nothing," he answered. "Why, I just made believe that a toe was stinging me. And I kept humming because I was afraid I'd forget about it being a bee if I didn't."—Youth's Companion.

MAKE START

Prudent Man Begins With Savings Bank

By JOHN M. OSKISON

FOR the average man, as the Business Almanac points out, all investment starts with the savings bank. A few men make money suddenly or inherit a considerable amount and become sudden investors. The rule is that a man must be a saver of money for a considerable time before he becomes a buyer of securities. So the first and most vital question is, "What shall I do with my small savings?"

There are more than forty forms of co-operative, mutual benefit, savings and other similar associations in the United States. They are organized to take care of savings in any amount from the smallest to the greatest sums. Many of them are excellently managed, honest in intent and are worthy of encouragement. Some are properly looked upon with suspicion.

Most generally used, of course, are the savings banks. They have been tried by fire. Speaking generally, they are the most secure financial institutions we have. Our states have wisely regulated their operations—most of them have. Massachusetts, Connecticut and New York have done best. Ohio has a good law. Less protection for the savings bank depositor is offered in the south and west than is judged wise to furnish in the east. Here are some of the prohibitions the New York law puts upon its savings institutions:

They cannot loan money on notes, drafts, bills of exchange or any personal securities whatever.

They cannot buy stocks.

They cannot buy bonds or other forms of security issued by any industrial, manufacturing or street railway company.

They cannot buy or loan money on farm lands nor on mortgages outside of New York state.

They cannot buy bonds which are not, at least in part, first mortgages on the property bonded.

They cannot buy real estate, bonds or mortgages until after a committee of the bank's trustees makes a thorough examination of the property on which the bonds or mortgages are to be placed.

All of these restrictions are salutary. They indicate some of the safeguards a prudent man ought to throw around his savings and also the tests he ought to make of his investment selections.

Possible for Man to Live Without Salt

By R. N. BUNN, M. D., Chicago

Upon the authority of a Chicago physician it was recently asserted that to deprive the human race of salt for even a few months would have a disastrous effect upon the health of the people. This, I believe, has always been the teaching of our textbooks, and I am not prepared to dispute its truth, in so far as civilized man is concerned.

There are, however, upon this earth many animals, wild or domestic, which get little or no salt and yet are healthy. True, they have a craving for it, as is shown by the fact that when given the opportunity they devour it in astonishing quantities, and hunters have long taken advantage of the fact that wild animals will return to the salt lick. But when there is no such spot known to them they live their whole lives without it.

Of the use of salt for seasoning and preserving their food the North American Indians knew absolutely nothing, yet all authorities agree they were a particularly healthy people, until they were afflicted by the white man's vices and the white man's diseases.

It is true there are some accounts to the effect that their medicine men had noted the action of animals above referred to and administered salt to their patients, and they may thus have benefited individual cases. But as a race they were a meat-eating people, without salt, and yet a healthy people.

Furthermore, white men who went among them and lived as they lived scarcely missed the salt after they became used to its absence.

Stop Cruelty to Poor Working Girls

By MARIE J. MOREHAM, Boston

The other day it was suggested again that instead of going into factories women and girls should turn more generally to housework. The suggestion is all right, but there is a big field for improvement in the life of the average woman who does housework for others, and the leading American women could do lots of good for their sex by introducing a better plan for the poor girls who do the housework.

At the present time and for as long as I can recollect girls have had to work from 6:00 a. m. to 8:00 or 9:00 p. m., without time to eat properly or to take care of their bodies. I know positively that many girls are nervous wrecks after doing this kind of work for some time.

They have Sunday evenings and Thursday afternoon to themselves, but most of them are too tired to enjoy their few hours.

In no other country are the girls forced to work so fast or to do so much in so short a time as here.

Stop this cruelty and the girls will not go to the factories or be willing to marry lazy men, drunkards and gamblers.

Teachers Must Be Taught Their Business

By DR. WILLIAM OSWALD, Director of Schools, Leipzig, Germany

Pedagogy is the most neglected of all sciences. Before there are good pupils there must be good teachers. If a school system turns out inefficient, stupid graduates and that same system is responsible for the turning out of the teachers—how can the latter be anything except stupid and inefficient? The pedagogues teach the pupils—but who teaches the pedagogues? It is all a vicious circle.

The teaching faculty is a distinct faculty. A man may know all there is to know about chemistry, say, and yet not be able to impart a definite knowledge of the elementary principles of chemistry to a class. The school of the future must aim at conferring on the pupil the maximum of happiness. In happiness only is there real growth.

The educational system proceeds now upon the old medical theory that the more unpleasant a medicine tastes the better it works.

NOT ALWAYS SO.

Gladys—So you've broken with him.

Virginia—Yes. He was entirely too hard to please.

Gladys—Gracious, how he must have changed since he proposed to you!

Too Eager.

Fred Poyner, a Chicago dentist, was recently at a banquet given by the Dental association.

He said: "On one side is the right of things and on the other is wrong; sometimes the difference between the two is slight. As the following story shows: A gypsy upon release from jail met a friend. 'What were you in for?' asked the friend.

"I found a horse," the gypsy replied.

"Found a horse? Nonsense! They would never put you in jail for finding a horse."

"Well, but you see I found him before the owner lost him."

Meeting Emergencies.

Senator Dixon was condemning a piece of political deception.

"The thing was as flagrant," he said, "as the railway case."

"Two men, one of them very short, were passing through a station toward the train gates, when the bigger one was heard to say:

"I've took a half ticket for ye, George. Yer so little, ye'll pass, all right."

"But," protested George, "how about my beard?" And he twiddled his chin beard nervously.

"Oh," rejoined the other, "tell 'em it's a mole."

The Giveaway.

"Jane," said her father, "how does it happen that I find four good cigars on the mantelpiece this morning? Did Henry leave them for me?"

"No," he took them out of his vest pocket to avoid breaking them last night, and I guess he forgot all about them afterwards."

HOW TO TREAT PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

For pimples and blackheads the following is a most effective and economical treatment: Gently smear the affected parts with Cuticura Ointment, on the end of the finger, but do not rub.

Wash off the Cuticura Ointment in five minutes with Cuticura Soap and hot water and continue bathing for some minutes. This treatment is best on rising and retiring.

At other times use Cuticura Soap freely for the toilet and bath, to assist in preventing inflammation, irritation and clogging of the pores, the common cause of pimples, blackheads, redness and roughness, yellow, oily, mothy and other unwholesome conditions of the skin.

Cuticura Soap and Ointment sold throughout the world. Sample of each free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address post-card "Cuticura, Dept. L, Boston."

Generous.

Tom—Well, what did you do?

Jack—I gave her the benefit of the doubt.

Goodness does not more certainly make men happy than happiness makes them good.—Lander.

Misinterpreted.

William Shaw, the secretary of the famous Christian Endeavor society, said in a witty after-dinner address in Boston:

"There is a little Black Bay girl who is much interested in her auntie's Christian Endeavor work. The little girl was writing a letter to her brother at Yale one day, and in the midst of the epistle she looked up and said:

"Auntie, how do you spell devil?"

"Devil," cried her aunt, with a shocked smile. "Why, child, don't you know you mustn't use such a word as devil?"

"But, auntie," protested the little girl, "I want to tell brother about your Christian and devil meetings!"

Can't Afford To.

Save the Babies.

INFANT MORTALITY is something frightful. We can hardly realize that of all the children born in civilized countries, twenty-two per cent, or nearly one-quarter, die before they reach one year; thirty-seven per cent, or more than one-third, before they are five, and one-half before they are fifteen!

We do not hesitate to say that a timely use of Castoria would save a majority of these precious lives. Neither do we hesitate to say that many of these infantile deaths are occasioned by the use of narcotic preparations. Drops, tinctures and soothing syrups sold for children's complaints contain more or less opium, or morphine. They are, in considerable quantities, deadly poisons. In any quantity they stupefy, retard circulation and lead to congestions, sickness, death. Castoria operates exactly the reverse, but you must see that it bears the signature of Chas. H. Fletcher. Castoria causes the blood to circulate properly, opens the pores of the skin and allays fever.

Letters from Prominent Physicians addressed to Chas. H. Fletcher.

Dr. A. F. Peeler, of St. Louis, Mo., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in many cases and have always found it an efficient and speedy remedy."

Dr. Frederick D. Rogers, of Chicago, Ill., says: "I have found Fletcher's Castoria very useful in the treatment of children's complaints."

Dr. William C. Bloomer, of Cleveland, Ohio, says: "In my practice I am glad to recommend your Castoria, knowing it is perfectly harmless and always satisfactory."

Dr. E. Down, of Philadelphia, Pa., says: "I have prescribed your Castoria in my practice for many years with great satisfaction to myself and benefit to my patients."

Dr. Edward Parrish, of Brooklyn, N. Y., says: "I have used your Castoria in my own household with good results, and have advised several patients to use it for its mild laxative effect and freedom from harm."

Dr. J. B. Elliott, of New York City, says: "Having during the past six years prescribed your Castoria for infantile stomach disorders, I most heartily commend its use. The formula contains nothing deleterious to the most delicate of children."

Dr. C. G. Sprague, of Omaha, Neb., says: "Your Castoria is an ideal medicine for children, and I frequently prescribe it. While I do not advocate the indiscriminate use of proprietary medicines, yet Castoria is an exception for conditions which arise in the care of children."

Dr. J. A. Parker, of Kansas City, Mo., says: "Your Castoria holds the esteem of the medical profession in a manner held by no other proprietary preparation. It is a sure and reliable medicine for infants and children. In fact, it is the universal household remedy for infantile ailments."

Dr. I. F. Merrill, of Augusta, Me., says: "Castoria is one of the very finest and most remarkable remedies for infants and children. In my opinion your Castoria has saved thousands from an early grave. I can furnish hundreds of testimonials from this locality as to its efficiency and merits."

cost of production. But these governments will not forget that if by wheeling farmers away from the tobacco associations they finally can break up this one legitimate restraint of sales, will reap a fortune when the bottom drops out of the market, and the same old 1903 methods will be practiced again.

Now that the Planters' Protective association is appealing to farmers to pledge their crops for sale through it, the tobacco planters should keep these facts in mind. If the associations go by the board they may confidently expect a year more of good prices, and then even greater chaos than existed nine years ago. The banks are perfectly willing to carry the farmers who need money on their tobacco, and it is worth the waiting to get ten cents all the time, rather than eleven cents this year and "three, two and nothing" next year, with a probable repetition of the harrowing scenes of the Night Rider days. —News-Democrat.
