Last Thursday afternoon Jo and my son left Fulton for New Orleans and a tour of about nine central and South American countries on behalf of the forthcoming International Banana Festival.

They drove to New Orleans, met Col. Mercer Lee Price there (he flew up from his Florida home to meet them) and were scheduled to arrive by air at their first stop—Mexico City—Sunday. Thence to Guatemala, Costa Rica, Panama, Nicaragua and on down.

We have always been firm believers in the old adage that "if you want to get results, you have to make calls," and that is what Jo is doing. It sounds like a pretty good vacation, but actually, for her, it will be an intensive business trip for the Festival. Allowing herself not more than two days in each country, she is seeking to find a suitable beauty queen in each to enter the forthcoming Princess Pageant.

She already has some "connections", to be sure, but she has a long way to go, even with the Price Foundation agreeing to pick up the tab.

And then in Guatemala, she hopefully will get to talk first-hand with government officials in an effort to gain a little financial help from them in getting the famous Marimba Band up here. And, I am sure, she will run into other interesting items that would make first-class attractions.

When she left here last Thursday she had already secured the co-operation of the State Department in notifying US Embassies in advance of her coming and her mission, plus the great help that Standard Fruit Company had volunteered to give her along the way.

The trio plan to be "on the road" about 10 days on their mission, and I am sure that everyone interested in making the Banana Festival grow in international stature will be awaiting news of the successes of this trip.

The only thing that puts this Festival on the map as something imaginative, exciting, unusual and important is its Latin flavor and interest, and as we build these things, we build a greater Festival for our communities. State, federal and private funds have come to it because of the international goodwill and interest it has fostered, and only for that reason.

True, we must have a lot of elements of a "County Fair" at the same time to satisfy everyone (and there's nothing wrong with that), but let us never lose sight of the "International" picture and its importance. They are number one.

Jo and Col. Price hope to assemble quite a number of Latin queens, have them all meet in Miami, give them a big round of publicity there enroute to the Festival, and hopefully arrange several stop-over points (with more publicity) enroute here. It is my understanding that the same sort of welcome is being planned for our Amigos in Miami, Orlando and other points enroute to the Festival. Hopefully, if the Marimba band makes it, they will also have some stop-over points enroute. I know that Miami, Orlando, Montgomery and Nashville are at least four places that are eagerly awaiting word; we have had correspondence and telephone calls from these, and others including Washington, in the past week!

Well, so much for that, for the time being. Here at the office we have talked about printing our whole paper by the "offset" method for the past six months, so this week, while I have it by myself, I am switching over just to see how it will work. If you read this on the day you normally get the paper, you'll know I made it.

Squirrel Season Opens August 12; Surveys Indicate Good Hunting

The opening volleys of Kentucky's fall hunt will be heard August 12 when squirrels become legal targets in the longest season for any species of wildlife.

This year hunters will have 122 days in which to hunt the elusive bushy-tail which the State Department of Fish and Wildlife reports has become more numerous in all sections of Kentucky the past few years.

The limits are six per day, with 12 in possession after two or more days of hunting. The possession limit does not mean a hunter may have a dozen squirrels in his possession while hunting. He may not have more than six, but he may transport a dozen legally.

After the opening date on August 12, the season will continue through September and October and then will be closed until November 21 when it reopens until December 30.

Each hunter must have a valid license, but youngsters under 16 can pass with a junior hunting license.

HIS BUDDY IS DEAD—Douglas Powell, 14, looks over his motorcycle on which he and Donald Taylor were struck while riding on the Fulton highway Saturday afternoon at 5:30. Young Taylor, 17, died in Obion County General Hospital Saturday night at 8:30 of massive head injuries. Douglas was wearing a crash helmet when the accident occurred but Donald was not.

Youth Dies, Another Hurt In Cycle-Auto Collision

(From the Union City Messenger)

A short trip on the Fulton highway to get gasoline for a motorcycle has resulted in the death of one rider, the second young cyclist killed this summer in Obion County.

Funeral services for Donald Clifton Taylor, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ben Taylor of the Jack Douglas Road, just off the Fulton highway, were conducted Monday afternoon at 4:30 in White-Ranson memorial chapel. Burial was in Obion County Memorial Gardens.

Young Taylor was fatally injured Saturday at 5:30 while riding behind Douglas Powell, 14, son of Mr. and Mrs. Allen Powell, also of the Jack Douglas Road. The accident occurred after the two youths had gone to get gasoline for the Suzuki 65 motorcycle and were on their way back home.

According to State Trooper W. C. Tate, the boys, who were traveling toward Fulton, were preparing to turn left off the Fulton highway onto the Jack Douglas road.

Young Powell stopped the machine to wait for an oncoming truck to clear and then, as he started to make the left turn, the cycle was struck at about the rear wheel on the left hand side by an auto, also headed toward Fulton.

Driver of the 1965 Chevrolet, Randall Gene Rodgers of Paducah, Ky., said when he saw the cycle, it was stopped on the right hand edge of the highway. He said as he pulled to the left to pass the machine, the boys made a left turn into the path of the auto.

Powell, who was wearing a crash helmet, suffered only minor cuts and bruises, but Taylor, who wore no helmet, suffered massive head injuries.

He died at Obion County General Hospital Saturday night at about 8:30.

Interested Area Residents Urged To Hear Address On Mental Health

Dale H. Farabee, M. D., State Commissioner of Mental Health, will speak at the Holiday Inn, Mayfield, Ky. on Monday evening, August 12, 1968. The Commissioner's subject will be the new and comprehensive revision of State laws concerning mental illness, mental retardation and alcohol problems. The new laws, effective September 1, 1968, are designed to eliminate outdated terminology and to create streamlined procedures for hospitalization, treatment and release of patients.

The 1968 legislation is based on recommendations of the American Bar Association and the American Psychiatric Association in their development of model laws to guide the states in enactment of modern mental health legislation. The Kentucky laws contain a major portion of this model code.

Nationally, there is a growing recognition of the civil rights of all persons - including patients in psychiatric hospitals and retardation facilities. The new Kentucky laws are highly cognizant of a patient's civil rights. In addition, there is considerable emphasis on the obtaining of immediate medical attention in emergencies rather than on the use of jails as a place of lodging for emotionally upset patients.

The visit and presentation by Commissioner Farabee is being sponsored by the Western Ky. Regional Mental Health and Mental Retardation Advisory Board. H. W. Ford, M. D., Chairman, emphasizes that all persons interested are invited to attend this meeting.

South Fulton, With $114,000 surplus, Praised For Good Management, Planning

The City of South Fulton was praised Monday night by its auditing firm as being in "extremely healthy financial condition" at the close of its fiscal year.

The audit and year-end balance sheet echoes a similar statement made at the close of last year's books by E. Jay Nichols of Memphis, public accountants, who inspect South Fulton's fiscal affairs.

South Fulton ended its fiscal year with a surplus of $114,000 in operating funds. Cash and invested funds as of June 30 amounted to $190,384.99 and the surplus in the Natural Gas fund is $113,696.55, the report showed.

Revenue has increased by $105,000 over the past five years, and the auditor said that $25,000 of this increase was due to the Obion County sales tax and increase in funds due to the special census report. The remaining $89,000 increase was credited by the auditor to "control by machine and management."

Nichols also commented on the fact that unpaid accounts 90 days and older totaled $610.43 this year as compared to $1716.00 in the 1967 audit.

The report stated that the Commission and new City manager have again increased the cash position of South Fulton by $18,602.86, compared to the previous year of $12,676.45. Also South Fulton has taken the important step forward and improved the position of the city in comparison to others by engineering-planned program concerning water and sewage and street and curbing improvement, all of which will attract industry, he said.

After going over the audit report with the Commission, Mr. Nichols closed the report by saying "South Fulton is now my prize, and I tell officials of other cities to come see how your system works." He told them that several officials of West Tennessee towns plan to visit here and see the new office procedures which are now in use at South Fulton.

Bands, Marching Units Already Flocking In For Festival Parade

Parade time for the Sensational Sixth International Banana Festival has been set for 10:30 A. M. on Saturday, September 7, 1968 in the twin cities of Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton, Tennessee. More than 21 bands and marching units have already been assigned to the entourage.

"Bigger and better than ever" is the watchword of the parade committee which promises a sight brighter, brasher, and more beautiful than before. More floats, more bands, more of everything is the order of the day. An estimated crowd of 50,000 has viewed the parade each of the five previous years. That too, says the Committee, will be bigger and better than ever.

The International Banana Festival, which is going into its sixth consecutive year, tries to show the coincidence of interest existing between the small, mid-country community through which banana shipments are processed for distribution throughout the country and the Latin American countries where these bananas are grown. One of the areas of shared interest is the love of a parade with its sounds of the big brass band, and the sight of flags flying high, floats carrying beautiful girls, snappy drill teams doing intricate maneuvers.

The float committee has announced that Mr. Paul Stalls of Clarksville, Tennessee will build the floats for the 1968 parade. Mr. Stalls has supervised the building of floats in numerous parades including the ones held at Strawberry Festival time in Humboldt, Tennessee.

The residents and merchants of the twin cities of Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton, Tennessee are enthusiastically supporting the efforts of the committees to make this event of the Sensational Sixth International Banana Festival the "Parade of the Year", anywhere, any time.

Responses from marching bands to invitations sent early this year have been enthusiastic. Many new

Pollster Gallup Finds American Voters Ready For A Lot Of Reforms For Electing President

Dr. George Gallup has been interviewed by the editors of the magazine U. S. News & World Report, on his estimate of the 1968 national election. Gallup has been polling the public on every conceivable issue for a generation, and he believes his techniques of finding out exactly what people think are about as good as can be achieved.

In the interview Gallup was asked if he sees any evidence of what the American people really want to vote for—he had already listed the things they want to vote against.

"Yes," he said. "They would like to vote for a whole series of reforms in the electoral process.

"People are beginning to recognize that the machinery of government needs to be updated, especially the procedures for selecting and electing presidents. Our polls show the public favours a whole series of reforms that would change virtually every step and stage of the business of getting elected.

"The people would prefer," Gallup continued, "a nationwide primary to the present setup. For many years they have favored doing away with the Electoral College.

"They are for a shorter campaign, for more serious and shorter conventions. They would put an absolute top on campaign spending by any candidate or any party. They would give each candidate five or six half-hour broadcast periods to present his case—at which time everything else would be ruled off the air. They would move up the election time date so the victor would have more time to prepare for taking over the job."

His conclusion: "The American people, our polls show, have been in favor of all these reforms for many, many years. They are far, far ahead of the parties and the politicians."

Politicians, political scientists, polltakers and newsmen alike are in agreement that the American people are in a more confused, discontented—Dr. Gallup called it "volatile"—mood about the coming election than any other in modern times. Gallup has probably pointed out the reason. They have progressed so far beyond the men who run their governments, in their hope for a better life and a better America, that they feel no enthusiasm for the old parties and very little faith in the old politics.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Modest Witness

Scene: a court of law.

Situation: a man is on trial for making an obscene telephone call to a young woman.

Problem: must the young woman, when she takes the witness stand, repeat—word for word—what she was told on the telephone?

It can be embarrassing indeed. As one judge put it, she might have to say words "that any refined girl would blush to repeat to her most intimate friends."

Yet, the problem of modesty cannot be avoided if justice is to be done. In a case of criminal assault, the woman may be asked to describe what happened. In a case of accidental injury, a woman may be asked to reveal a part of her body not ordinarily exposed to public view.

Generally speaking, the law tries to respect a woman's modesty—not as a matter of gallantry but as a matter of encouraging women to take the witness stand in the first place.

They will "testify with less reluctance," a court noted, "if relieved from the inhibitions imposed by the presence of a curiosity impelled audience."

How can the modest witness be protected? The most common method is to clear the courtroom while she is giving the embarrassing testimony. Another method, in case of bodily injury, is to have a doctor testify to the details—if necessary, with the aid of photographs.

A third possibility, when obscene language is involved, is to let the woman write the words down instead of speaking them out loud.

Unhappily, none of these methods is a perfect solution to the modesty problem. Clearing the courtroom raises questions of whether the accused person is getting the "public trial" guaranteed to him by the Constitution. Testimony by a doctor is useful in only a limited class of cases.

As for writing words down, that reduces the jury's ability to discern whether or not the witness is telling the truth.

Because of these conflicting considerations, the law has usually avoided laying down any hard-and-fast rules. Instead, the trial judge is given broad discretion. After all, he is in the best position to decide which procedure, under the particular circumstances, makes the most sense.

COFFEE CUP CHATTER

Controlling perspiration odor may be a real problem for some, especially when nervous and tense. For effective control of body odor, one must keep clean, remove the hair from under the arms, and use a perspiration check or deodorant. An anti-perspirant will check both perspiration and odor. A deodorant checks odor only. There are many types on the market, and one may have to try several kinds of checks before finding one that will control perspiration.

A good inexpensive check can be made as follows: Make a 20 percent solution by dissolving 5 teaspoons of aluminum chloride in 1/4 cup water. Dampen area under arms after bathing. Let dry before putting on clothing. Do not use within 24 hours after removing hair under the arms. This can be made stronger or weaker according to need.

Mrs. Catherine C. Thompson

If grease stains show up after wash-and-wear garments are washed, it means they weren't pretreated. Pretreat grease stains on wash-and-wear and permanent press garments with a liquid heavy-duty detergent. Rub the detergent into the dampened spot and soak a few minutes before washing. Garments made from the polyester fabric have an affinity for grease. Pretreat the neckline which will collect oils from the body. Remember that you need to wash these fabrics often.

Mrs. Barletta Wreather

A mulch works like a silent gardener helping to stabilize soil temperature, hold moisture, and prevent growth of weeds around trees, and shrubs, in flower beds, and vegetable gardens say USDA horticulture experts.

You may use an organic mulch such as straw, sawdust, tan bark, and pine bark, or an inorganic mulch such as gravel or black plastic film about 4 millimeters thick. Don't use clear plastics like freezer bags by themselves for the sun light penetrates and allows the weeds to germinate and grow.

Mrs. Maxine Griffin

Are condensed and evaporated milks the same type of product? No. Evaporated milk is prepared by removing about 60 percent of the water from fresh milk. When mixed with an equal volume of water, its nutritive value is about the same as the milk from which it was made. Sweetened condensed milk, which contains about 40 percent sugar, has about half the water removed.

Miss Patricia Everett

Solve your decorating problem with wallpaper. Pick colors that you like to live with and bear in mind that light colors make a room larger while dark colors shrink its size. An uninteresting room gains oomph with an unusual pattern. You can happily live with flamboyant patterns in dining areas and bathrooms which are used for short periods of time. Keep in mind the walls in adjoining rooms and plan colors and patterns that go together or you will make yourself dizzy. Scenic paper makes an area more spacious because the eye is drawn into the background. Papered panels edged with wood or ribbon molding may be just the trick to freshen up a room, and do consider a black and white pattern for extra snap.

Mrs. Juanita Amoret

It's easy to have a wardrobe of brightly-colored footwear by taking inexpensive sneakers. Follow the instructions on the package, but remember that no fabric will take color evenly unless absolutely clean. Scrub and rinse the sneakers thoroughly before applying dye. Even a brand new pair must be washed to remove the factory finish. Girls, this is an inexpensive way to perk up your old sneaker wardrobe.

Mrs. Dean Roper

Importance of Personality—There was a time when people thought personality was something you were born with. You either had it or you didn't. Modern psychology has taught us that all personality traits can be acquired or developed.

Studies have been made that indicate that personality is one of the most potent factors in predicting the success in life today.

Personality is founded on qualities of character, intelligence, personal appearance, manners, initiative, adaptability, decision, perseverance, health, tact, voice and expression.

Miss Irma Hamilton

Choosing new furnishings for your home? Whether you are choosing one piece or many there are three simple guidelines to follow in making a wise selection.

1. Does the object fulfill the purpose you have planned for it?

2. Is it well made and is the material used appropriate?

3. Is it attractive? An attractive object should look like what it is and not like something else.

POET'S CORNER

WORTH WHILE

It is easy enough to be pleasant
When life flows by like a song,
But the man worth while is one who will smile
When everything goes dead wrong.
For the test of the heart is trouble,
And it always comes with the years,
And the smile that is worth the praises of earth
Is the smile that shines through tears.

It is easy enough to be prudent
When nothing tempts you to stray,
When without or within no voice of sin
Is luring your soul away;
But it's only a negative virtue
Until it is tried by fire,
And the life that is worth the honor on earth
Is the one that resists desire.

By the cynic, the sad, the fallen,
Who had no strength for the strife,
The world's highway is cumbered today;
They make up the sum of life.
But the virtue that conquers passion,
And the sorrow that hides in a smile,
It is these that are worth the homage on earth
For we find them but once in a while.

FULTON'S Library Corner

By Brenda Rowlett

THE PROVINCE AND PURPOSE of the Public Library is to provide for every person the education obtainable through reading. In BECOMING something rather than in HAVING something, in a inward condition of the mind and spirit, not in an outward set of circumstances.

Junior books: ZEELY, by Virginia Hamilton. To Greeder Perry, eleven years old and free for the first time to make her summer on the farm something special, Zeely is the embodiment of dreams. One day Greeder finds a remarkable photograph in a old magazine—a portrait of a Watutai queen who looks just like Zeely. Suddenly she decides that the regal Zeely must be a queen too, and, swept up in her fantasies, she tells all the children.

THE GHOST FRONT, by Frank Bonham. On December 16, 1944, Hitler's Army broke through the thin line of American defense provided by the 106th Division on the Ardennes Mountains. The Battle of the Bulge had begun. Suddenly, Tom and Andy found themselves part, not of a victorious army, but of an army whose lines had been broken, whose communications had been all but destroyed.

THE CONTENDER, by Robert Lipsyte. There were three flights of dark, rickety stairs up to Donatelli's Gym, a Harlem boxing club where champions had trained. Most of the boys, black and white, came up those stairs in the daytime and with friends. But Alfred Brooks, a seventeen-year-old high school drop-out, climbed them at night, alone and running scared.

GOOD-BYE TO THE JUNGLE, by John Rowe Townsend. "Good-bye to the Jungle!" sings Harold to the tune of "Tipperary," as the poor lot of furniture and household effects is loaded into the borrowed van. The Thompson family is leaving the Jungle, a tumble-down district of alleyways and dilapidated houses in a city of northern England.

WHERE TOMORROW, by Bob Young. On the day her junior year ended, Bunny Taylor made a crucial decision: School was not for her. At seventeen, she'd be better off getting a job than going back for another year of boredom and failure. The first job was fun, and Bunny loved the status and the money—until the day the axe fell and, bitter and depressed, she was without work and without direction.

VERONICA GANZ, by Marilyn Siehw. Veronica had a good idea who had been throwing her coat off the hook and putting tacks on her seat—the same kid who was tormenting her with those maddening jingles: Peter Wedemeyer. Peter had been asking for it. He was new in the class, and every new kid, sooner or later, had to be educated. If she didn't defend herself, who would? Not her younger brother and sister; certainly not her stepfather, or even Mama.

IVANOV SEVEN, by Elizabeth Janeway. Long, long ago, there lived a young man named Stepan Magalobishvili. This highly inquisitive lad spent his youth tending his mother's vineyards on the slopes of the beautiful Caucasus Mountains in Georgia—until the day a strange looking man marched up the road and led him away to the army of his Imperial Majesty, the Czar of all the Russias!

THE KIDNAPERS UPSTAIRS, by Eileen Rosenbaum. Because he was short, fat and lousy, Webster considered himself an unlikely candidate for an espionage agent. In addition to this, his idea of an exciting August was not spending it with his grandmother, a crusty lady who complained of strange midnight noises in the apartment above theirs.

PAULINE, by Margaret Storey. "I don't want you to argue, Pauline. I want you to listen," summed up the trouble with Uncle Harry. No matter how unreasonable his ideas might be, he expected his children to agree politely and do as he said. But when he tried to select Pauline's friends for her too, he touched off a crisis that was enormously difficult for both of them.

THE YOUNG UNICORNS, by Madeleine L'engle. This is a novel of suspense set in New York City's Upper West Side near a great cathedral, where much of the action takes place. The large cast of characters includes the Austin family and Canon Tallis (already well known to L'engle fans), but the most important are Emily Gregory and Josiah (Dave) Davidson.

Hoodenpyle-Andrews Nuptials Are Solemnized At Methodist Church

Mr. and Mrs. Phillip Andrews

Miss Judith Hoodenpyle and Phillip L. Andrews exchanged nuptial vows in a beautiful double ring ceremony at three o'clock in the afternoon on July 28 in the First United Methodist Church. The Rev. George K. Comes, pastor of the church, officiated.

The bride is the only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Eugene Hoodenpyle and the groom's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Charles Andrews, all of Fulton.

An impressive atmosphere of reverence was created for the sacred ceremony by the beautifully decorated church. The choir loft was centered with a fan-shaped candelabra. Below the candelabra was a single arrangement of gladioli. On each side of the altar stood two majestic spiral candelabra and cherubim that held arrangements of fern balls. Many stands of three-branched candelabra were arranged in laurel, emerald and jade greenery at the altar rail. The cathedral tapers created a soft glow throughout the church.

The pews reserved for the immediate families and intimate friends were marked with satin bows of white, each centered with a large pale pink rose.

Following the ceremony, John Reed, organist, presented a program of nuptial music.

Following the setting of the bride's mother and the groom's mother, Vyrion Mitchell, tenor, sang "Whisper Thou Guest." His selection before the bride party approached the altar was "One Heart, One Heart" from the West Side Story. Lohengrin's Bridal Chorus by Wagner was used for the processional and "The Wedding March" by Mendelssohn for the recession.

The radiant bride, given in marriage by her father, wore an original gown of white slipper satin. Lace embroidered medallions formed the scalloped neckline. Seed pearls formed the centers of each medallion. The long chandelier lace sleeves ended in calla lily points over her hands with satin covered buttons on the sleeves and down the back of the dress. The softly gathered skirt extended into a scalloped chapel train. Each scallop had a medallion of lace centered with seed pearls. The scallops came to a point in center front. She wore a full length mantilla of imported illusion elaborately embroidered. Seed pearls centered the flowers which outlined the entire mantilla.

Her bridal bouquet was a cascade of Phalaenopsis orchids centered with a single Cattleya orchid. White satin streamers fell gracefully from the floral arrangement.

The bride chose as her maid of honor Miss Mary Grant DeMyer. Miss DeMyer wore a pale pink linen sheath. The long slim sleeveless dress had a bias turn-over collar with a tubular bow at the side of the neck and a scooped back. Pale pink slippers and short white gloves complemented the dress. Her headpiece was a small pill box and was fashioned of the material of the dress.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sally Hall, Miss Jane Warren and Mrs. Charles Wade Andrews. Junior bridesmaids were Miss Connie Andrews and Miss Lynn Andrews, young nieces of the bridegroom.

They wore identical dresses to the maid of honor. They all carried

Four Counties Team Together: Form New Mental Health Center

The northwest Tennessee Mental Health Center, a newly formed service for citizens of Obion, Dyer, Weakley, and Lake counties, will get underway August.

Obion County Judge Dan McKinnis said, "We hope to announce our staff within the next few weeks and begin operations immediately."

Funds for the center were allocated this month by the four county courts, and will be matched by the state. Obion County will bear the greatest share of the cost.

Obion County allocated 85 cents per person based on the 1960 census, with the other counties allocating 10 cent per capita.

A full time medical staff of a psychiatrist, psychologist, psychiatric social worker, and a stenographer will spend one day each week in Union City, Dyersburg, Dresden, and Tiptonville. Services will be available to anyone and fees will be based on the patient's ability to pay. Headquarters will be in Union City.

Judge McKinnis said, "We felt that mental health services were not available to average citizens in this area and were greatly needed. Miss Violet Crook, a retired health nurse of Obion County has been instrumental in getting this program underway."

"At the state level, Dr. Nat. Winston, state commissioner of mental health, and Dr. James Druff of Western State Hospital have advised us. The state will benefit through this health center of cutting down on the number of admissions and readmissions to Western State Hospital. School children will be among those eligible for counseling by the psychologist."

The center will be supervised by a board of directors appointed by the four county courts.

Gibson County declined to join the project. Judge McKinnis said, "If Gibson County had joined with us, they could have had services in their county one day a week. As it is, only their out-patients from Western State can participate."

The only other project of this type in Tennessee is a part time service in Jackson.

Everett Speaker At Dedication

Rep. Robert A. Everett of Union City will be the principal speaker at 10 a. m. Thursday at the dedication of a $953,571 training building at the Memphis Naval Air Station at Millington.

The Naval Air Technical Command will use the building for applied aviation machinist's mate training.

The building will be named for Ralph E. Manning, an aviation machinist's mate who died while fighting a fire that heavily damaged the aircraft carrier Forrestal last year. The mother of Manning, Mrs. Helen Rosen of Atlanta, Ga., will be present for the dedication ceremony.

Five Prep Athletes, JC Distance Man Sign Track Grants

Five prep track men and a junior college graduate have signed track grants with Murray State, Coach Bill Cornell has announced.

The five are sprinter Randy Smith, Montego Bay, Jamaica; hurdler Fred Olsen, Wayne, N.J.; a 4 middle-distance men Al Hicks, Trenton, N.J., and Gregg Fullarton, Elliot Lake, Canada, Gary Leighton, Binghamton, N.Y., and John Glodo, Murphysboro, Ill.

Smith has best times of 9.5 in the 100-yard dash, 21.3 in the 220, and 48.3 in the 440. He is a graduate of North Western Academy, Montego Bay.

Hicks won the 880 in the Philadelphia Meet of Champions in 1:52.4, the sixth-best half mile time by a prep runner in the country this year. He was New Jersey indoor champion in the quarter mile with 48.7, and has a best mile time of 4:17. His coach at Trenton Central High School was Murray alumnus Howard "Zip" Lindner.

Olsen has best times of 14.3 in the high hurdles and 19 flat in the lows. He is a graduate of Wayne Hills High School.

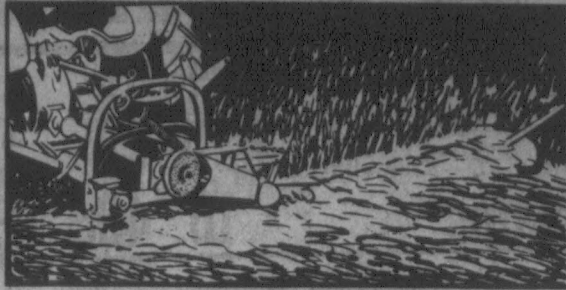

Fullarton's best times have been 1:54 in the halfmile, 4:24 in the mile, and 14:30 in the 3-mile. He is a graduate of Elliot Lake Secondary School.

Leighton, a graduate of Broome Technical Community College, won both the mile and two-mile in the New York State Track and Field Federation Meet this year. His best times are 4:23.3 in the mile and 9:29 in the two-mile.

Coach Cornell said the recruits would bolster the Murray team in the middle-distance and distance runs where it was weakest last season, and that Smith looked to be a suitable replacement for dashman Jim Freeman, who was four times champion of the Ohio Valley Conference.

How goes it in Kentucky for George Wallace?

To hear the devout followers of the former Alabama governor tell it, he is likely to sweep the presidential race in this state.

For example, Herman Combs, a hotel and garage operator at Whitesburg, predicts no fewer than 70 per cent of the votes in November for him.

Professionals from both major parties regard such an estimate as poppycock, but they are a long way from dismissing Wallace as just a political nuisance.

During last weekend's state Democratic convention, a number of party regulars predicted freely though privately that Wallace might carry 15 to 20 per cent—and maybe more—of Kentucky's presidential vote.

No one has emerged yet with a poll, certainly not a reliable version, and the situation is fluid and tricky to analyze.

But conventional politicians are mildly disturbed. Two of the distressing factors on their minds:

—An undetermined number of Wallace backers are working in disguise for the Democrats and Republicans. Will they ever surface under their true colors? If so, when?

—If fragmentary reports from the field can be believed, Wallace support has cropped up not only in Western Kentucky, where it was expected, but in the Cincinnati suburbs of Northern Kentucky and the mountains of Eastern Kentucky.

Adding to the elusiveness of the problem is the lack of publicized leadership for Wallace.

Since he got his name on Kentucky's ballot last March under the American Independent Party label, little or nothing has been heard about his organization or strategy.

Nobody with statewide status has stepped forth on Wallace's behalf or to claim control of his election efforts.

Is there a well-organized underground movement for Wallace? Or is his mobilization a fractionalized, localized, hit-and-miss affair?

The Wallace structure presumably rests largely on racial discontent although the candidate himself disclaims the racist designation.

Yet, Wallace enthusiasts like Combs emphasize there is no lota of racial issue in southeastern Kentucky, which has almost no Negroes.

Combs said the issues are states rights, patriotism, individual initiative, law and order and a disciplined educational system.

He said Wallace organizations are beginning to form at Louisville, Lexington, Paducah and Covington.

"We're in the process of getting ready," he said. "Our organization is from the ground roots, pure old Americanism."

TENDER, LOVING CARE

While visiting on the Morning Star Hog Farm recently, Mr. Charlie Gibson told me that to do any good with hogs some Tender, Loving Care had to be given to the hogs. A lot of work goes into a successful hog operation and if you'll visit the Gibson Farm you'll always find someone looking after the hog operation. The farrowing house and finishing floors will always be clean and as the saying goes Tender Loving Care means more pigs.

The Morning Star Hog Farm consists of 80 sows and the litter size is around nine (9). They try to sell each year around 1,000 Market Hogs. Also they have 77 Angus Cows and 58 steers on feed. You will observe 230 acres of good looking corn on this farm but they try never to sell any corn because they want to market the corn through the hogs and cattle. The Gibson Brothers have Hampshire Hogs and in addition to Market Hogs sell Hampshire Breeding Stock.

VALUE OF CLOVER IN A DAIRY PASTURE

Milking cows react in a very sensitive manner to the quality of pasture made available to them. High quality pastures seem to have a stimulating effect on milk production. One of the best stimulating plants that we have is Ladino clover.

In one experiment in a neighboring state where persistency of milk production was used as the standard of comparison it was found that cows on Orchard grass-Ladino had a two-year average persistency of 95.8 percent compared to those cows on Fescue-Ladino at 87.5 percent. Cows grazing a Bluegrass-Ladino mixture showed a persistency of 87.0 percent while those on

Mrs. Hulman Westbrook

The revival at Good Springs closed Friday night. Rev. E. H. Denman, who had been engaged to hold the revival, was prevented by illness developing late in the week. But thanks to the pastor, Rev. ## Hickman Court Appeals Order On Its Libraries

The Hickman county fiscal court has decided to appeal a recent decision of a special circuit court judge's ruling ordering it to amend an earlier order dissolving the Hickman county library district.

Judge R. L. Myre Sr. of Paducah had also ordered the fiscal court to continue to levy a tax of three and one-half cents on each one hundred dollars worth of property assessed for taxation in the county for support of the library.

Judge Myre's finding was that at the time a dissolution petition was presented to the fiscal court the library board had outstanding and unsatisfied contractual obligations, and the petition could not be accepted and was without legal effect.

The matter is now to be decided by the state court of appeals.
