GOING UP—Rapidly taking shape on the Murray State University campus is the new Waterfield Library Building. Formerly the Waterfield Student Union Building, the $3 million conversion project is expected to be completed by Sept. 1, 1978. It will include almost 100,000 square feet of space, more than 57,000 in the existing structure and 40,800 in the addition.

Local Bus System To Begin Running Again On Monday

The bus system operated by the Murray-Calloway County Senior Citizens will again be serving local people Monday according to an announcement made by Senior Citizens and bus system officials Friday afternoon.

The system, which officially began operating locally in mid-August of last year, was forced to halt operations due to lack of funds when a federal grant ran out June 30. The grant funds had been used primarily to pay administrative costs of the program, local officials said Friday.

The bus service is enabled to begin again due to three workers being provided through the local CETA program administered through the office of Calloway County Judge Robert O. Miller.

Nancy Myers will be serving as administrator of the program as well as handling dispatching and secretarial duties. Joe Canady and Cindy Craven will be the drivers of the two buses that will be operating in the system.

The system will be in operation from 6:30 a. m. to noon and from 1 p. m. to 5:30 p. m. daily. Officials did point out, however, that persons wanting a ride should call as far in advance as possible and that persons needing bus service between 6:30 a. m. and 8:30 a. m. would have to call the day before as the dispatcher will not be on duty until 8:30 a. m.

The buses will run on an "on-call" system only, the officials said. The bus system's phone number is 753-9725.

Fares on the bus system, within the city, are 50 cents per trip (one-way). Outside the city but within the county, fares are $1 for the first 10 miles; $2 for 10 to 15 miles; and $3 over 15 miles.

Senior citizens may receive a 50 per cent discount on rides by purchasing tickets in advance at the senior citizens office. "We want to thank the people of Murray and Calloway County for their patience," Ms. Myers said. "We hope to be able to provide as good a service now as before."

During the first 10½ months of the system's operation, prior to service being halted at the end of June, over 11,000 individuals had used the service.

When the system first began operations in August 1976, approximately 400 persons per month were riding the buses. Figures released in June revealed that 2,000 rides per month were being provided at that time.

The Senior Citizen's Advisory Board transportation committee is composed of Dick George, chairman; Jennie Gordon, Sue Outland, Paul Mansfield, Phil Deaver, Pam Garland, Hazel Locke, Lloyd Arnold, Madie Vaughn and Ann Kelly Bolin.

Return Of Warm Weather Means Grumpy Motorists Says Official

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The return of warmer weather this weekend will mean more grumpy motorists, possibly more accidents, and certainly more service calls for overheated cars, a state police official says.

Summer weekends bring out vacation travelers, and the heavy traffic and hot weather can make drivers irritable, Lt. Ernest Bivens, public affairs director for the Bureau of State Police, said Friday.

"Our weekends in the past month have just been terrible," Bivens said. "On three weekends this month (including the three-day July 4 holiday) we've had 34 people killed."

The high weekend traffic toll, he said,

"is a normal thing for summer, but I think the heat's been an escalating factor."

"It always affects our driving," he said, and also, "perhaps we might tend to try to cool ourselves off more with a little liquid refreshment."

An indication of that, he said, is that state police arrested 66 motorists last Saturday on a charge of driving while intoxicated and 51 last Sunday, compared with 17 on Monday. The figure one February Sunday was 29, he said.

The worst hot-weather traffic problems have occurred in northern Kentucky, where repairs to the Interstate 75 bridge across the Ohio River have frequently backed up miles of traffic in recent weeks, Bivens said.

"They've had everything from a carnival affair to fist fights up there," he said.

Some people get mad, he said. "They've even had people banging into each other with their automobiles intentionally, and some people have engaged in fistfights."

"But there are others who relax and enjoy it," he said. "One officer saw a lady who was hot and sweating profusely. Then a man jumped out of his car with a towel, ran over and mopped her off and went back and got in his car. In a traffic jam, you see all kinds of personalities."

Automobiles overheat in 90-degree weather, leaving unprepared motorists stranded, Bivens said.

In the 85-mile drive from Louisville to Walton in Boone County, one state trooper stopped to help six motorists whose cars had overheated one day this week, Bivens said.

Glenn Lewis, who works at Bob's Interstate 66 Service Station on Interstate 64 at Frankfort, said, "The hot weather has really caused a lot of them to overheat."

During the recent heat wave, he said, "a lot of them have pulled into the drive — about twice as many as normal."

Bivens said he stopped twice this week to help motorists with overheated cars, only to find they were prepared.

"They both carried water with them," he said. "All they had to do was let the car cool off and pour it in."

Bivens and Lewis said knowing what to do in traffic jams can help prevent overheating.

It ends July 29.

Teachers Attend Workshop On Gifted And Talented At MSU

Eighty teachers and school administrators from across Kentucky are at Murray State University this week attending workshops dealing with the teaching of gifted and talented students in the elementary and secondary schools.

The two workshops, sponsored by the Kentucky Department of Education, are being conducted concurrently, one for two weeks' duration and one for one week.

The two-week workshop, Gifted and Talented Teacher Training, will continue through July 29. The one-week program, a staff development workshop for gifted and talented education, ends today.

Participants include both teachers and representatives from school districts which either have programs for gifted children or are planning the implementation of such a program, according to Joe Clark, state coordinator for gifted and talented education in the Department of Education in Frankfort.

Twenty-five Kentucky school systems presently are involved in a federally-funded pilot project dealing with instructing gifted children. Teams from these systems, ranging from one to four members, recently attended a two-week-long training session in Louisville, "planning and developing their local programs."

Many of these same individuals are currently attending the workshops at Murray State receiving final training before establishing similar programs in their schools.

Among those attending the one-week workshop are three from Murray Independent, Kay Peebles, Brenda Maddox, and Peggy Brown.

The campus coordinators for the workshops are Dr. Bill Price and Dr. Doris Helge both faculty members in the College of Human Development and Learning at Murray State.

AT GIFTED WORKSHOP—Five of the 80 teachers and school administrators attending workshops at Murray State University dealing with the teaching of gifted and talented children take time during a break to check some points made with two of the workshop instructors, Joe Clark, left, coordinator of gifted and talented instruction with the Kentucky Department of Education, and Dr. Bill Price, a member of the College of Human Development and Learning faculty, second from the left. The participants shown are, from the left: Steve Schenck, Franklin County High School, Frankfort; Kay Peebles, Murray Middle School; Ruth Ann Henson, Clinton Central; John Pitts, principal of Clark Elementary School, Floyd County; and Arthur Marx, Thurston School, Daviess County.

Dear Abby

Teen Babysitter Disturbs Mother

By Abigail Van Buren

© 1977 by The Chicago Tribune-N.Y. News Synd. Inc.

DEAR ABBY: We are the parents of two boys, ages 6 and 7. A very sweet 14-year-old neighbor girl babysits for us. She's always been very reliable, and the boys adore her.

Several nights ago the 6-year-old told me that the sitter said they could stay up an hour past their bedtime if they took off their clothes and ran through the house naked. He said they refused and went to bed. The 7-year-old confirmed the story and added a few more disturbing details.

I know that kids sometimes make-up things, but after I explained the seriousness of their accusations, they assured me they were telling the truth.

It's hard to believe this girl would do something like this. But what do I do now? Should I talk to her mother? She's a nice woman and would probably be shocked and hurt, but she'd want to know if this were true.

Or should I talk to the girl? I can't have her babysit again thinking something might happen to my sons. I don't want to hurt anyone unnecessarily, but children must be protected.

PERPLEXED MOTHER

DEAR MOTHER: Talk to the girl, not in a judgmental or accusatory way, but as a concerned mother who doesn't want her sons involved in further nude games. You could also use this incident to impart some badly needed elementary sex education to a young girl who is naturally curious.

DEAR ABBY: What in your opinion is the most important ingredient in a successful party?

THE HOSTESS WITH THE MOSTEST

DEAR MOSTEST: People! It's not what you put on the table, it's what you put on the CHAIRS that makes a good party.

DEAR ABBY: I've been living with Larry for 14 months. We get along perfectly except when I bring up the subject of marriage. He says, "Maybe someday, but now now!"

When we decided to live together it was supposed to be a "trial" to see if we got along well enough to get married. I think we've passed the test, but apparently Larry still isn't sure. He doesn't even want to get officially engaged.

I am 19 and he is 25. I was married for two years, and I'm sure we could make a marriage work.

Should I drop the subject, or should Larry give me a date?

WANTS MARRIAGE

DEAR WANTS: If Larry doesn't give you a date, drop the subject AND also Larry.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "SOCIAL FLOP" IN LITTLE ROCK: Here's a helpful tip for the shy woman. One very wise man said: "A beautiful woman is the one I notice. A charming woman is the one who notices ME."

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake
FOR MONDAY, JULY 25, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Stellar influences fairly generous. Study new situations carefully, and your native intelligence will help you make the most of each.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Some things may bother you more than usual. Don't fret. Rather, check and look more closely into pertinent matters — to find the cause, and be able to cope.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Let your instincts guide you now since your chances of attaining goals are excellent. Imagination and a little daring could pay off handsomely.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

Good lunar influences. Especially favored: real estate deals, home improvements, family concerns, romance and social activities.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

Unexpected interruptions may slow you down a bit, if you coordinate as you should, you will find the means to straighten everything out satisfactorily.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

Superiors should be receptive to your ideas now. Advance your best ones — but tactfully, of course. And DO avoid the offset.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Cut loose from undesirable situations. Try again — from scratch, if need be. Retracting can be a revivifying process in certain areas.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

What pleases one may not please another. You may have to juggle a bit to avoid contention and hassling. Some new offers worthy of note, however.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

Poise needed. Know what is expected of you and strive in your finest manner. An extraordinary stroke of proficiency at a telling moment could increase your prestige.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

Proceed with vigor now and get projects headed in the right direction. Consult with those who can give you a boost.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

This day's accent is on career achievement, improved relations with those in positions of authority. A great day for making room for yourself at the top.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

Consider new methods and techniques, but don't reach beyond your capacities — a temptation now. Utilize advantages wisely; keep working toward your highest goals.

YOU BORN TODAY

are endowed with many qualities with which to win first-rate success: a strong individuality, a genius for leadership and unusually fine gifts of organization and salesmanship.

Do try to curb a tendency toward overaggressiveness, however, or you could make many enemies as you follow your road to the top. Your versatility and gregariousness are outstanding and, though extremely progressive in your thinking, you have a fondness for the old; would make an excellent dealer in arts and antiques. Other fields in which you could excel: the stage, the law, politics, or in business, as a manager of large enterprises.

Birthdate of: David Belasco, playwright, theatrical producer; Henry Knox, 1st Sec'y of War, U.S.A.

Your Individual Horoscope

Frances Drake
FOR SUNDAY, JULY 24, 1977

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

ARIES

(Mar. 21 to Apr. 20)

Your intuition and self-reliance stimulated now. And both will be needed if you are to solve some possible "tricky" situations. Don't become anxious, however.

TAURUS

(Apr. 21 to May 21)

Stellar aspects indicate a day of successful moves and plans, but all will require know-how, diligence and painstaking care. Don't launch into uncharted seas.

GEMINI

(May 22 to June 21)

Mixed influences. Day calls for your stamina, stick-to-itiveness, good will and ability to help yourself and others out of undesirable situations.

CANCER

(June 22 to July 23)

No matter what changes are made in your routine, even in your environment, you can make quick adjustments, should get along well and even make notable improvements.

LEO

(July 24 to Aug. 23)

You can expect a pleasant day, with associates full of good will and congeniality. Day especially favors travel and meeting interesting people.

VIRGO

(Aug. 24 to Sept. 23)

You should find hobbies and creative endeavors absorbing and rewarding. And, like Leo, you may meet new people who prove highly stimulating.

LIBRA

(Sept. 24 to Oct. 23)

Your intuition and unusually good judgment will be a boon in the tight spots now. Give special care to family obligations.

SCORPIO

(Oct. 24 to Nov. 22)

You may have to make some concessions in a family matter, but the end results will be very worthwhile. Expect some good news in the p.m.

SAGITTARIUS

(Nov. 23 to Dec. 21)

False statements COULD mislead but, under day's capital influences, you should be able to discriminate well. Just be alert.

CAPRICORN

(Dec. 22 to Jan. 20)

A day for some reevaluation. Dress up an old idea, give an inert interest new life, investigate new avenues to progress. Projects close to your heart can be furthered notably with the right push.

AQUARIUS

(Jan. 21 to Feb. 19)

Some situations await your incisiveness and knack for managing people. You may have to do some persuading, but you are good at this.

PISCES

(Feb. 20 to Mar. 20)

You may find it difficult to get things done in the way you prefer. Also, you may run into unexpected snags. Take all in stride and avoid argument. Things will right themselves.

YOU BORN TODAY

are a Cancer-Leo cuspal (one born at the change of Signs) and, as such, are endowed with some of the finest traits of both. Your potentials for happiness and success are so numerous and varied that you should leave no stone unturned to develop your finest and have a truly rewarding life. Fields in which you could make the greatest success: literature, music, science, banking, medicine or the stage. Birthdate of: Alexandre Dumas, French author; Amelia M. Earhart, renowned American aviatrix.

Miss Tina Thompson Honored With Shower

Another delightful courtesy extended to Miss Tina Thompson, July 30th bride-elect of Terrie Lewis, was the bridal shower held on Wednesday, July 6, at seven p.m. at the North Branch of the Peoples Bank, Murray.

The hostesses for the bridal occasion were Mrs. Ricky Woodall, Mrs. Butch Thompson, Mrs. Kenneth Wilson, Mrs. C. W. Outland, Mrs. Jackie Burkeen, Mrs. J. B.

Burkean, and Mrs. Richard James.

For the bridal event the honoree chose to wear an ensemble of blue slacks with a flowered top. She opened her many lovely and useful gifts for the guests to view. She was assisted by Mrs. Michael Haley and Miss Renee Thompson.

Games were directed by Mrs. Woodall and Miss Thompson with the winners being Mrs. Jimmie Lewis, Mrs. Donald Cleaver, and Mrs. Joe Wilson.

The beautifully appointed refreshment table, decorated by Mrs. Butch Thompson, was covered with a blue cloth under white lace. Centering the table was a flower arrangement in a special ultramarine container flanked by blue candles in ultramarine holders.

Special guests at the event were the mothers of the bride couple, Mrs. Jimmie Lewis and Mrs. Bobby Joe Lee, the bride-elect's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Barnes Burkeen, and the groom-elect's maternal grandmother, Mrs. Hoy Thompson.

Sixty persons were present or sent gifts.

Let's Stay Well

Choosing A Nursing Home

By F.J.L. Blasingame, M.D.

Q: Mrs. O.L. has an elderly female relative who will shortly be in need of care in a nursing home and writes to inquire about the different classifications used to describe such homes.

A: Since the needs of persons entering and remaining in nursing homes vary a great deal, homes are designed and operated according to the amount of care needed by the residents.

Technical, more complicated care is available in skilled nursing homes. They are sometimes referred to as extended care facilities and are designed to continue less sophisticated attention such as might be needed during recovery from surgery or an acute illness following a stay in a general medical-surgical hospital. The patients are often ambulatory and need less physician observation and nursing but are not ready to be on their own at home.

The services are certified by a physician and carried out under his direction. This type of facility is also required to have a 24-hour, registered nurse to be in charge of the nursing services.

On the other end of the spectrum is the residential or domiciliary facility which is limited to a place to live. It ministers to those persons who desire or want some "assistance in independent living." The residents, usually old or chronically disabled, have no serious health problems but regard themselves as impaired and chronically infirm. Meals may be cooked in their rooms or provided one or more times daily in a dining room to assure adequate diet. No nursing services are provided except on an emergency basis.

In between the skilled and residential types is the intermediate care facility. Care is ordered by a physician who sees the patient occasionally or as needed, and the nursing is provided under the direction of a registered or licensed practical (or vocational) nurse.

Your relative or her family will likely confer with their physician and seek his advice and guidance about the kind of nursing facility that will best suit her needs.

GERMANY GUESTS

Sgt. and Mrs. Raymond L. Galmiche and daughters, Michelle, Sarah, and Amy, of Heidelberg, Germany, will arrive July 29 for a visit with her parents, CSM and Mrs. Harold Smith, and her sister and family, Mr. and Mrs. John Edward Elliott and son, Johnny DeCaul, all of Murray Route Five.

San Marcos University in Lima is one of the oldest universities in the western hemisphere. It was founded in 1551, 85 years before Harvard University.

Local Girl Crowned With Three Others Also Winning

Michelle Spann, the six year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Spann, was recently crowned Miss Majorette of the Cotton Carnival for 1977 in the Tiny Tot division.

The recent majorette contest was held at Germantown High School, Memphis, Tenn., in conjunction with the National Baton Twirling Association. The event is a feature of the annual Cotton Carnival at Memphis.

Michelle is a second year twirler and has won a total of thirty-six trophies. This is her second pageant win. She won six trophies in the open contest placing first in fancy strut, second in visitor's solo and basic strut, third in solo twirl, and fourth in beauty and duet twirl. Her duet partner is Lisa Cunningham of Murray. In the pageant Michelle placed second in beauty and twirl, and first in strut to win the crown of Cotton Carnival in the zero to six age division.

Four twirlers from the Sandy Coleman Twirling

Academy of Murray competed in the event. Approximately three hundred twirlers from eight states were on hand to compete.

Carol Spann, the thirteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe H. Spann, competed in the Memphis event. She won second runner-up in the pageant and in the 'open' pageant she placed second in best appearance, basic strut, and fancy strut, and third in open solo. She is a second year twirler at the academy and has won numerous awards this year.

Lisa Cunningham, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Steven Alexander of Murray, twirled in the contest placing fourth in duet with her duet partner, Michelle Spann. She is twelve years old and has been twirling for several years.

Nine year old Buffy Stokes won first runner-up to Miss Majorette of the Cotton Carnival. In the open contest she won first place trophies in beauty, fancy strut, and solo twirl.

Recently Buffy traveled to Kansas City, Kansas, with twirling friends where she competed in the Miss Majorette of Midway contest. She placed second runner-up in the pageant and won first place in beauty for the open contest.

On Saturday, July 16, Buffy won the Regional Miss Majorette of the South Pageant held in Jackson, Miss., which is a preliminary for the National Miss Majorette of America contest. Twirlers from six southern states competed for the title. Buffy won the event placing first in solo and strut and second in modeling. In the open contest she won Regional Strut champion of the South, first in beauty and second in solo.

The local girl, Buffy Stokes, left July 22 for the nationals for a week of competition and festivities at the Notre Dame campus to highlight her twirling year. She will be wearing the colorful banner for the south in the Miss Majorette of America contest. Enroute to the nationals, Buffy will compete in the Miss Smoky Mountain Pageant held at Gatlinburg, Tenn. Sandy Coleman, her mother and teacher, will be judging at both events and accompanying her on her trip.

Luncheon Will Be At Country Club

Feltner Home Scene Shower For Miss Curd

Miss Denise Curd, bride-elect of Steve Steele, was honored with another miscellaneous shower held on Monday, July 18, in the lovely home of Mrs. James Feltner.

The hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Feltner, Mrs. Harold Grogan, and Mrs. Robert Hendon.

Miss Tammy Feltner kept the guest register. She and Miss Patricia McKenzie served cake, mints, nuts, and punch.

Assisting the honoree in opening the gifts were Miss Belinda Suiter, who will be maid of honor, and Miss Karen Jackson, one of the bridesmaids, for the wedding.

The honoree, her mother, Mrs. Fred Curd, and the groom-elect's mother, Mrs.

attired in a brown and tan dress with a matching corsage. Mrs. T. W. Nesbitt, grandmother of the groom-elect, was unable to attend but was sent a corsage of white rose. The bride-elect's aunt, Mrs. Otto Erwin, wore a pink suit with a matching corsage. The couple opened their many lovely and useful gifts. Refreshments of cake, punch, nuts, and mints were served at the table overlaid with a white cloth with lace trim and centered with an arrangement of roses.

Miss Jane Anne Cook, sister of the bride-elect, and Miss Andrea Nesbitt, cousin of the groom-elect, kept the register at the white covered table centered with a rose arrangement.

Thirty-eight persons were present or sent gifts.

Fifty-five persons were present or sent gifts.

Open the Heat Trap

Your attic can trap heat that can build to 140 degrees unless it has an escape route. That's why you need attic ventilation — to let the hot air out and the fresh, cooler air in.

For adequate air exchange, you need at least one square foot of ventilation for every 150 square feet of ceiling area. Half should be in eave vents and half in gable, ridge, or roof vents.

Keep this trapped heat from radiating down into your living area and putting an extra burden on your air conditioner. Open the heat trap now.

Unemployment: How To Create Real Jobs

By H. C. Gordon
U. S. Industrial Council

In examining this country's unemployment problem, there are two mitigating factors that must be taken into account. First, we must consider the significant number of people (students, housewives, etc.) who are continually moving in and out of the labor market as they seek temporary work. Second, we must consider the significant number of unemployed teenagers who have been priced out of jobs by the federal minimum wage.

Only after these factors have been duly noted may we consider the plight of the genuinely unemployed: those full-time workers who are idle because there are no jobs available for them. This is the real unemployment problem, which has become the center of a national debate.

The prevailing view in Washington today is that government must respond to this problem by creating more jobs. Despite his professed faith in our free enterprise system, President Carter — who has recently proposed the revival of such antiquated New Deal measures as the Civilian Conservation Corps — seems to agree.

The minority view, on the other hand, holds that additional federal programs will prolong and exacerbate the problem instead of solving it. Critics of the big government approach point out that federal programs do not "solve" unemployment; they merely disguise it by recruiting the unemployed for artificial "make work" projects. At the same time, the cost of these projects results in either higher taxes or budget deficits, thus discouraging the investment and expansion that private business needs to create real jobs.

The free enterprise advocates say that it would make more sense to encourage business investment and expansion through reform of our tax laws. Such a move, they assert, would not only reduce unemployment but would also benefit the economy as a whole.

Congressman Jack Kemp of New York has been promoting legislation to this effect for the past several years. At the heart of his proposed bill is the elimination of double taxation on corporate profits. Presently, these profits are taxed twice — first as income to the corporation, and then as income to the stockholder when paid out in the form of dividends. Needless to say, this arrangement does not exactly encourage investors.

The Kemp bill would remove this obstacle by eliminating the tax on dividends. In addition, it would provide further tax credits for investment, and would allow corporations to write off the whole cost of federally-mandated pollution control and other non-productive equipment in one year.

There is a compelling logic to this proposal. After all, it makes more sense to give business a tax break to create real jobs, than for government to raise taxes or run a deficit to create artificial jobs. But wouldn't cutting taxes for business also cause a budget deficit?

Not at all, says Mr. Kemp. A similar tax cut was adopted under President Kennedy in 1962, and it more than paid for itself over the succeeding years. Between 1962 and 1967 there was an aggregate gain in federal revenues of $7 billion.

Although the freespending habits of our Washington politicians are deeply ingrained, the Kemp bill is slowly building momentum. Already, it has 80 co-sponsors from both parties, and it certainly deserves the full support of everyone concerned about the survival of our free enterprise system. Let's face it: if we continue to make government the employer of first resort, the day will not be long in coming when Uncle Sam is everybody's boss.

'Difficult' Reorganization Plan May Be The Easiest

WASHINGTON (AP) — When President Carter unveiled his first reorganization plan, he declared, "We are starting off with perhaps the most difficult one of all for me."

The plan, sent to Congress just a week ago, will revamp the Executive Office of the President and the White House staff, the latter a part of the larger EOP.

"It is difficult," Carter said, "because of the closeness of myself to the people involved."

No one in Washington would pretend that it is easy to reorganize any part of the federal bureaucracy. Even the official board of tea tasters emerged with a vocal constituency when the first proposal was made, at least two administrations ago, that it be abolished.

It is well, however, that Carter spoke of EOP reorganization as "perhaps" the most difficult in a series of such plans that are promised for the months and years ahead. The qualification took some of the edge off what otherwise would have been an excursion into the realm of obvious hyperbole.

For one thing, Carter's suggestion that proximity to the people being reorganized at EOP made the task more difficult is susceptible to skeptical examination. The plain fact is that no one with close and longstanding ties to the President is being reorganized out of a job, shorn of power or even faced with significant inconvenience.

As a matter of fact, even those who hold the 252 EOP jobs that are getting the ax need not fear for their livelihood. About a third of the jobs simply are being transferred to other parts of the bureaucracy and those who hold the rest will continue to draw federal paychecks. In numerical terms, eliminated jobs will be dispensed with through normal attrition: deaths, retirements and resignations.

The same situation will apply to promised cuts in the White House staff — only more so.

Carter, who once said he would cut the White House staff by 30 per cent, announced that reorganization will see the fulltime staff reduced to 351 from 485, seemingly an impressive reduction of 28 per cent.

"I think it carries out his (Carter's) commitment," said Bert Lance, director of the Office of Management and Budget.

A second glance reveals, however, that just over half of the cutback — 70 jobs out of 134 — represents a paper transaction. The 70 jobholders, who do administrative work, aren't even leaving the premises. They are being transferred from the White House staff to a new central administrative unit within the EOP.

With difficult and controversial reorganization plans yet to emerge from the Oval Office, Carter presumably wanted to get the lengthy and sure-to-be contentious process off to a flying start.

This is important, at least psychologically, because Congress has made it clear it wants to be heard during the reorganization process. Carter can propose but Congress can dispose, by disapproval of any plan by either the Senate or House within 60 days after it is unveiled.

By starting with the EOP, the President probably came as close as he could to guaranteeing an initial success.

First, Carter can argue, quite correctly, that he is making his own shop a model for others that still face the rigors of reorganization.

Second, Congress is least likely to challenge the President on the way he chooses to run his own office, just as he would shrink from trying to tell the Senate or House how to conduct their internal affairs.

In other words, what Carter described as "perhaps the most difficult" reorganization plan from a personal standpoint is, in a larger context, perhaps the easiest of all.

And the dozens of jobs being transferred from the EOP to other parts of government may well make Carter's task even more difficult when he gets around to reorganizing them — for a second time.

The Little Red School House

In the "days of old" as the storytellers say, children didn't go to school as they do today. In the first place, the school terms were fitted around the farming schedules, with the children allowed to go in the cold months and usually for a short term in the summer, in between planting time and harvest. In this part of Kentucky, there was no "little red schoolhouse." Most of the schools were either grey, of unpainted siding, or of an earlier vintage, built of logs. In many communities, the school and church shared the same building.

There were no grades or report cards in these little country schools, and few enough books. Usually the children would take what schoolbooks were available at home, and share them with the other students. The first few days of a new session were spent with the teacher attempting to discover just how far the various ones had gone with their alphabet, or multiplication tables, or spelling. Then she would do her best to extend this knowledge in the time allotted her.

The pupils would be called to the desk to recite individually or in small groups, while the rest studied or had recess outside. Parents were not kept informed of the progress being made by their offspring, certainly not by said offspring themselves — and the adults had little contact with the teacher except for the time span when he or she was boarding with them. If a teacher was asked how a particular scholar was doing, the standard answer was that the children were obedient, studious, and loving.

Many times this was, unfortunately, not the case. One of the main reasons for the preponderance of male teachers in those days was the fact that some of the boys were big, strapping adolescents by the time they had gotten through a basic elementary education — many times they were bigger than their teachers. And the frontier bred a rough form of humor that a woman teacher would have difficulty handling, to say nothing of the problem of having to discipline a pupil who towered above you.

One student, a half-grown country giant, was discovered to have a pistol in his desk. When he was asked by the teacher the reason for this, he said that it was to keep the others studying and so they wouldn't throw spitballs. But the teacher made him take it home, when he discovered that it was loaded and ready for business. Another boy amused himself when things got dull by throwing paper-wrapped rifle "catterges" in the school's pot-belly stove, "just to hear them go pop." When his teacher finally found out who to place the blame on, she gave him a "whuppin'" having to stand on tiptoe to reach him with the stick.

There was no hot lunch program in those days. Dinner was brought from home, usually in a little handmade basket or in a lard pail. The standard menu was cornbread with a little fried side-meat, or baked sweetpotatoes. Sometimes the children would be fortunate enough to have fried pies or apples, or sometimes biscuit and sausage. At noon, they would gather outside in family units to share what they had brought, washed down with water dipped from the community bucket.

In many schools, Friday afternoon was reserved for recitation and games. Visitors would very often come, especially the young unmarried people of the community, and there would be memorized recitations, painfully memorized and just as painfully recited. There might be a spelling bee or a debate that day, with such topics as: "Which is most useful in the home, the broom or the dishrag?" This was the social highlight of the week for the young people.

Children who spent many hours in the field or working at chores in the house or barn looked forward to school as a time of relaxation and fun, with the fond hope of maybe learning something, too. They would get up at 4:30 so they could get their chores done before school, walk several miles (there were no school buses, either) in all kinds of weather, struggling hard for whatever education they could get. Then, when spring plowing began, or fall harvest, the students would quit school and go back to the fields, looking forward to the next term.

In the Manning Stewart papers, which I mentioned earlier, I found a large group of school pictures, pretty well covering all the small schools in Calloway County. These pictures ranged in time period from a couple about 1898 up till in the 1930's. Dr. Heim, in Special Collections, has agreed to put these pictures at the desk in the basement of the main library building at Murray State, so that anyone who would like to see them, or make copies on the Xerox machine can do so. The list of schools represented is too long to give here, but I believe almost every little country school in the county is represented. Go by and look at them.

Sensing The News

By Anthony Harrigan

A Brutal Proletariat

NEW YORK, N. Y. — The vulnerability of the nation's largest city was cruelly exposed earlier this month when the electric power failed. I was in mid-town Manhattan when the lights went out, and had an opportunity to observe the reaction of New Yorkers to the crisis.

In the mid-town areas and the law-abiding boroughs such as Staten Island, the people took the crisis in their stride. Traffic moved normally, despite the absence of stop lights. Extra reserves of politeness and consideration were discovered.

In Harlem, the South Bronx and parts of Brooklyn, however, looters ran wild. Hundreds of small merchants were ruined as their shops were ransacked. The undermanned police, operating under the most adverse conditions, limited their action to chasing looters. No looters were shot.

The power failure unleashed savagery in the streets. The Governor of New York could have prevented much of the destruction if he had mobilized the National Guard as soon as the extent of the power failure was known. One wonders why he refused to take this action. Have looters more political clout than owners of small stores?

Certainly, the looting makes clear that authorities in New York City can't or won't protect private property. Looters brazenly appear in front of the television camera to argue that a theft of a new kitchen range, sofa or case of vodka was a version of "distributive" justice. Perhaps the looters learned that from the liberal media and liberal educators.

The police and fire departments in New York City are asked to do impossible jobs, without adequate political support. The July 18 issue of New York Magazine indicated the dimensions of the problem, noting that fire companies are being overwhelmed by false alarms and blazes set by arsonists. Why is there so much arson? As New York explains, a welfare recipient may receive as much as $2,000 for relocating after his building is burned out.

The magazine quotes a fire marshal as saying:

"We had the woman who eight times torched her own apartments. And each time she got relocation money. The first time, she got $2,000. She took the dough and went to the Caribbean and bought some land. The second time she got $1,500 and went down there again. This went on and on."

Payments of this sort have created a vicious, subsidized proletariat with a stake in destruction. One can be sure that the looters who smashed store windows are regular recipients of relief checks. Those who were cut by the plate glass they smashed received free treatment at New York City's public hospitals.

No city can long survive such a criminal proletariat, a rabble devoid of all respect for law or sense of decency.

No country can afford to maintain a privileged class of parasites. Yet taxpayers across the land are providing funds for the types that looted and set fires in New York City July 13 and 14.

Tragically, the looters vote in New York and national elections, and the politicians are afraid of them. Witness Gov. Carey's refusal to call out the National Guard. This kind of unwillingness to protect life and property is a shame and disgrace.

Teen-Agers Know How To Succeed In Business

By JIM RUTH
Lancaster Sunday News
LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — A lot of teen-agers still pass time occasionally by playing Monopoly; buying property, acquiring houses and hotels and buying into utilities.

But for T. Winfield Hauck and Gregg A. Weaver, who have just graduated from Manheim Township High School, the "Game" is for real.

Hauck, 19, and Weaver, 18, are partners in a new but booming company, Amalgamated Rentals Co. Their holdings today number 13 rental properties to which they hold title, under mortgage, of course.

Hauck and Weaver insist they have only just begun their own private and serious version of Monopoly. Now they expect to channel their property acquisition in the direction of "large apartment houses."

From there the next move is, as any Monopoly buff might guess, to hotels, preferably in Atlantic City. And, one day, if all goes according to the plan which thus far has served them so well, Amalgamated Rentals will move into railroading, which Hauck sees as the future transportation hope of this country.

Hauck was the originating force behind this ambitious thrust. Ever since he was old enough to earn money doing odd jobs, he has managed his money sufficiently well to nurture a savings account.

"Then one day when I was about 16," he said, "I was riding down the street and I saw this stock brokerage and decided to look into buying stocks."

He made his first investment a $92 purchase. The stock purchases increased with young Hauck's purchasing power until about a year and a half later when the then 17-year-old decided there must be more action for his hard-earned cash.

"Stocks had paid off pretty good," he said, "but my goal was to someday own a resort hotel in Atlantic City so I thought why not go from stocks into real estate, to start with property, then houses and on up to hotels, just like in Monopoly."

He found willing and helpful realtors and friends in Enid and Bob Niquette of a local real estate firm.

"I was impressed right off with his interest," Niquette said. "I explained the investment return potentials and the pitfalls as well. By the time he was 17½, we had his first property under agreement. We settled on his 18th birthday so he could have the property entirely in his own name."

One major reason the Hauck master plan has proceeded so well is the businesslike influence brought into the venture by Hauck's partner. Hauck, who had already acquired and rented out other properties, admits the business at that point still had some rough edges despite professional guidance from lawyers and accountants. With Weaver's emergence as a partner the venture took on new organizational strength.

Separate bank accounts established as kettles for taxes, maintenance and other needs were consolidated. Detailed ledgers were initiated and checking accounts replaced complicated banking procedures.

Being so heavily mortgaged doesn't bother them. "It's smarter to borrow for a profit than to buy outright," Hauck said, citing tax advantages.

Of the properties they now hold, nine are at present operable and four in the process of rehabilitation. The latter four were purchased recently, three attached row houses from the Lancaster Redevelopment Authority for $500 each and one from a local bank for $400 in the same neighborhood, a marginal ghetto.

They now have a fulltime staff of five, each working in some renovation or maintenance specialty.

"We plan to start moving more into sales instead of rentals and to reinvest proceeds from sales in the acquisition of properties in higher market areas," Hauck said.

"We try to keep our properties in liveable condition and we've had to do a lot of work on some of them," he said. "The whole thing has meant a lot of work and sacrifice, especially social life, of which we have practically none."

As for the loss of social life, Hauck and Weaver, who now devote full time to their business, which is in the process of incorporation, rationalize that this aspect of their lives is merely being postponed, not forsaken.

"By the time we're 25, we hope to have made our fortune and then we can get married like everyone else," Hauck said without a trace of jest.

Tappan Announces Second Quarter Earnings

MANSFIELD, OHIO -

The Tappan Company (NYSE-TAP) announced record second quarter sales of $73.9 million, up 16.6 per cent over last year. First half sales of $141.7 million were up 13.7 per cent and also established a record sales level. Net earnings in the second quarter approximated the first quarter's results, but were down compared to last year. Second quarter and first half comparative results are shown below:

D. C. Blasius, President and Chief Executive Officer, stated, "We are obviously pleased by the substantial sales increase in both the first and second quarters. First half earnings, however, have been depressed by the effects of weather and gas shortages in the first quarter as well as costs associated with realignment of production, primarily among the Appliance Division's four manufacturing plants. The realignments were caused by settling the Murray, Kentucky strike earlier this year and the acquisition of a plant in Dalton, Georgia. As we anticipated in our first quarter report, the costs of altering production within the Appliance Division and Air Conditioning Division kept pressure on our earnings through the second quarter. The initial start-up and move costs from these production relocations have not affected 1977 earnings, since those costs were recorded in 1976. However, production inefficiencies and related costs after these moves were higher than we had anticipated, resulting in increased unfavorable manufacturing variances. As a result of recent improvements in productivity we believe these cost variances will be reduced substantially during the second half.

"While we are not pleased with earnings for the first half, we have now completed our seventh consecutive quarter of profit following seven loss quarters in 1974 and 1975. We are encouraged by:

— A continuing strong national economy and customer demand for our products - particularly our higher end merchandise.

— The Cabinet group's continued record sales and earnings performance.

— The significant decline in our Air Conditioning Division's loss from $1.9 million in the first half of 1976 to $2 million loss in 1977.

— Progress made in relocating Janitrol products to the Company's under-utilized air conditioning plant in Elyria, Ohio.

Reuschel Leads Cubs To Second Straight Win Over Braves Friday

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer
In prior years you could count Rick Reuschel's victory total on your fingers and some of your toes.

"He's got a terrific shot at 20 wins," said Cub Manager Herman Franks. "I don't know about 25, but I wouldn't put it past him. Maybe even 30." Without making much noise, the good right arm of the Cubs has already gained 13 victories, including a 1-0 beauty over the Atlanta Braves Friday. He had never won more than 14 in a season before.

Reuschel allowed but five hits and set up the game's only run with a single, while leading the National League East leaders to their second straight one-run decision over the Braves.

In other National League games, the Montreal Expos edged the Los Angeles Dodgers 2-1; the Pittsburgh Pirates tripped the Cincinnati Reds 8-7 in 12 innings; the Houston Astros turned back the St. Louis Cardinals 4-2; the San Francisco Giants defeated the Philadelphia Phillies 6-2 and the New York Mets beat the San Diego Padres 5-0.

Expos 2, Dodgers 1
Warren Cromartie and Del Unser belted home runs to back the four-hit pitching of Jackie Brown as Montreal edged Los Angeles for the Expos' fifth straight victory. The loss was the eighth in the last 11 games for the sluggish Dodgers, although they maintained their 9½-game lead over Cincinnati in the National League West.

Pirates 8, Reds 7
Bill Robinson, who had tripled home the tying run in the 10th inning, singled home the game-winner with two out in the 12th to lift Pittsburgh over Cincinnati. Dave Parker had socked his third double of the game in the 12th before Robinson's long single to left center brought him home with the winning run.

Astros 4, Cardinals 2
Bob Watson slammed his third straight hit—a two-run, two-out single in the top of the ninth inning—to lift Houston over St. Louis.

The hit by Watson came off reliever Clay Carroll, 4-2, who earlier bailed reliever Rawly Eastwick out of an eighth-inning jam which saw the Astros tie the game at 2-2.

Giants 6, Phillies 2
Tim Lincecum, making his first start since June 20, knocked in three runs with a pair of homers to power San Francisco over Philadelphia.

Foli, who was sidelined with three cracked ribs, belted a solo homer off loser Steve Carlton, 13-5, in the sixth inning to break a 1-1 tie and added a two-run blast off reliever Ron Reed in the seventh.

Mets 5, Padres 0
Left-hander, Jon Matlack scattered seven hits to pitch New York over San Diego. Matlack, improving his record to 5-12 with his fifth complete game of the year, struck out seven and walked two as the Mets won for the seventh time in the last 10 games.

Dupre Advances

SAPPHIRE VALLEY, N.C. (AP) — Top seeded Pat Dupre of San Diego advanced to the semifinals of the Sapphire Valley Open Tennis Tournament with a 6-4, 7-6 victory over Bill Lloyd of South Fallsburg, N.Y., Friday.

Fourth-seeded Ferdi Taygan of Framingham, Mass., defeated Bert Hoyt of Newberg, N.Y., 6-2, 7-5 in a quarter-final match. He meets Dupre Saturday.

Fifth-seeded Ashook Amritraj of India ousted Guillermo Oropez of Montclair, N.J., 6-3, 7-6, and 13th-seeded Jai DiLouie of Dallas upset No. 7 Mike Fishbach of Great Neck, N.Y., 6-3, 6-1 in other quarter-final action.

Trevino Rides Lucky Streak To Halfway Lead

By BOB GREEN
AP Golf Writer
OAKVILLE, Ont. (AP) — Lee Trevino is riding a lucky streak—and he doesn't like it. "I wish my luck would run out—and I'd start hitting good shots," Trevino grinned after he parlayed some good breaks and hot putting into a four-under-par 68 that staked him to a three-stroke lead Friday halfway through the $225,000 Canadian Open Golf Tournament.

"I can't keep on chipping and putting like this, so I've got to start hitting the ball better," he said, and grinned again. "But I'll tell you this. If I can get by with just 52 putts for the last two rounds (the number he required for the first 36 holes), I'm a winner no matter where I hit it. "Usually, I'm pretty good from tee to green, not so good around the greens. Now, my putting and chipping is saving me and I can't get the damn thing on the green. "I should have had another 72. The only reason I didn't is that I scrambled." He one-putted eight times and had one no-putt. He missed six greens and played those holes one-under-par. He holed a sand shot for birdie, skipped one off the surface of a pond safely on the bank and chipped close from an awkward lie in deep rough on what he called "an impossible shot."

When it was all over, he had a 135 total, nine-under-par, and a three-shot lead over Tom Kite and Jack Nicklaus, the man who designed the hilly, 7,090-yard Glen Abbey Golf Club course that is to be a permanent site for this national championship. Kite and Nicklaus each had a 70, Nicklaus in the afternoon when the swirling winds were at their trickiest. He had to hole a 15-foot eagle putt on his final hole to salvage his erratic round.

"Five bogeys, five birdies and an eagle. Need I say any more?" he asked. "The golf course played very difficult in the afternoon."

Some of the other afternoon scores supported his statement. Al Geiberger shot an 85, but that was one stroke better than Ben Crenshaw. Boun snipped the cut for the final two rounds. Bruce Lietzke, a two-time winner this year, had an 81. So did Roger Maltbie. Defending champion Jerry Pate shot 79 and Arnold Palmer 78.

Ray Floyd, 67-139, and George Cadle, 72-140, both played in the morning half of the field.

Trevino, who has won only once in two years, said he was "just trying to keep my hand in this year" while he's on the mend from back surgery, but admitted "if I start hitting the ball a little, I've got an excellent chance at winning."

"But I've got to start hitting the ball. I can't hope to keep on chipping and putting like this."

He holed the bunker shot for birdie on the 13th, saved par after watching his ball skip out of the water on the seventh, saved again with an incredible shot from the deep rough on the 14th, made duce after a nine iron shot to 3½ feet on the third, birdied the 10th from 10 feet, saved par from the same distance on the 17th and dropped a 20-footer for birdie on the final hole.

New Faces On LPGA Tour Are Outshining Veteran Golfers

By BRENT KALLESTAD
AP Sports Writer
CHASKA, Minn. (AP)—Two of the newer faces on the Ladies Professional Golf Association tour are outshining the veterans at the midway point of the women's U.S. Open Tournament.

Hollis Stacy, a four-year pro with just one tour victory, and 20-year-old Nancy Lopez, a raw rookie debuting at the Open on the 6,313-yard Hazeltine National Golf Club, are 1-2 after the first two round. Both are confident they can win the prestigious event. "I've never led before in a 72-hole tournament, but I like being out in front," said Miss Stacy, whose one-under 143 gives her a two-stroke advantage over Lopez going into today's nationally-televvised third round.

"The pressure is good for me—it makes me concentrate," continued the 23-year-old Georgian, who is 10th on this year's LPGA winnings list.

Stacy built a five-stroke cushion at the turn Friday, but staggered home with bogeys on three of the last four holes.

"It was just wild," she explained in a wispy southern accent. "I wasn't happy with the way I hit the ball, but I scrambled well."

Miss Lopez, who was convinced by her manager and parents to begin her pro career at the open, capitalized on her powerful game on the fairways to push into a challenging position.

The Roswell, N.M., tour rookie, who made a charge at the open title as an amateur two years ago, fired a 71 Friday for a two-round 145, one stroke ahead of defending champion JoAnne Carner.

"I guess I haven't realized yet that I'm playing golf for a living now," said Miss Lopez. "I haven't really gotten used to it yet, but I came here because some people convinced me I could win."

Mrs. Carner is alone at 146, followed by Australian Jan Stephenson at 147.

Pam Higgins, Pat Bradley, Debbie Austin, Amy Alcott and Cathy Mant are all at 149 while Kathy Whitworth, Jane Bialock and Peggy Conley are at 150. Miss Conley, also a rookie, has won just $2,697.52 in 15 tournaments this season.

Mrs. Mant, another relatively unknown tour performer, matched the tournament's top round with a 70 Friday to push into contention.

Suns Sign Four

PHOENIX (AP) — The Phoenix Suns of the National Basketball Association have announced the signing of one rookie and the release of three others.

A "make good" contract was signed Friday with 6-foot-2 guard Freeman Blade of Eastern Montana College, club officials said. Terms of the contract, which will take effect when Blade makes the team, were not disclosed.

He was signed as a free agent, after having played basketball last year with the Athletics in Action.

Released from summer league play were guard Harry Davis, a free agent from Morris Brown University; forward Jeff Randell, a free agent from San Francisco, and guard Billy McKinney of Northwestern University, the Suns' sixth-round draft pick.

Skalsky Wins

PACIFIC, Mo. (AP) — Harry Skalsky of Chapel Hill, N.C., needed a shoot-off to defeat Jim Poindexter of Los Angeles Friday in the U.S. International Clay Pigeon Championship.

Both finished three days of competition with 290 totals out of a possible 300. Skalsky, an Army reserve sergeant, won the title by knocking down 25 straight targets in an extra round, while Poindexter missed a pair.

Defending women's champion Audrey Grosch of Minneapolis successfully defended her title by posting a 274, 24 targets ahead of her nearest rival.

Defending junior champion Dudley Coleman of Ackery, Tex., also successfully defended his title with a 284, two points more than Eugene Leoni of Ambler, Pa.

Fifty-one golfers, including the LPGA's top 15 money winners this season and four amateurs, survived the cutoff at 157.

Beth Daniel of Charleston, S.C., and Catherine Reynolds of Springfield, Mo., are the low amateurs with scores of 153.

Rangers Knock Orioles Out Of First Place With 5-1 Victory

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
AP Sports Writer
Billy Hunter's job now is to see that the Baltimore Orioles—as well as every other American League team—lose when they play the Texas Rangers.

The Orioles' third-base coach from 1964—he was their shortstop in 1964—until he was named manager of the Rangers last month, Hunter returned to Baltimore Friday night and the Rangers not only beat the Orioles 5-1 but knocked them out of first place in the American League East.

Elsewhere, the Boston Red Sox moved past the Orioles by one-half game with a 3-0 victory over the Cleveland Indians, the Milwaukee Brewers downed the New York Yankees 6-3, the Kansas City Royals nipped the Detroit Tigers 5-4 in 12 innings, the Chicago White Sox pounded the Toronto Blue Jays 10-3, the California Angels defeated the Minnesota Twins 6-2 and the Oakland A's turned back the Seattle Mariners 5-3.

Red Sox 3, Indians 0
Rick Wise scattered seven hits for his second shutout of the season and Butch Hobson smacked a two-run double as Boston moved back ahead of the Orioles. The Red Sox tagged Al Fitzmorris for all their runs in the first inning on Rick Burleson's leadoff single, a two-out walk, Carlton Fisk's RBI single, another walk and Hobson's double.

Brewers 6, Yankees 3
Mike Caldwell fired a six-hitter and Steve Brye, Sal Bando and Von Joshua drove in two runs apiece as Milwaukee handed the slumping Yankees their ninth setback in the last 12 games. Brye, who took over after right fielder Sixto Lezcano was hit by a pitch in the first inning and suffered a broken bone in his left hand, drove in the first two Milwaukee runs with a pair of singles.

Royals 5, Tigers 4
Al Cowens' 12th-inning homer gave Kansas City (1) the victory and (2) an eight-game winning streak that tied the club record. Cowens connected off reliever John Hiller after the Royals blew two-run leads in the ninth and 10th innings.

Hal McRae, who doubled in the fourth, scored on a single by Pete LaCock, homered for the Royals in the sixth. LaCock and John Mayberry delivered RBI singles in the 10th. Detroit's Rusty Staub had four hits, including key blows in both rallies.

White Sox 10, Blue Jays 3
Lamar Johnson collected four hits, drove in five runs and scored twice and Eric Soderholm and Brian Downing added home runs as the White Sox remained two games in front of Kansas City in the AL West. Johnson broke the game open with a three-run homer in the eighth inning and added a run-scoring single in Chicago's four-run ninth.

Angels 6, Twins 2
Bobby Bonds drove in three runs with his 20th homer—the eighth time he's reached that mark—and a sacrifice fly and Ken Brett won his first game in eight tries with California, scattering eight hits, including homers by Lyman Bostock and Dan Ford.

A's 5, Mariners 3
Vida Blue scattered 10 hits in 8 1/2 innings, including home runs by Dan Meyer and Ruppert Jones. In posting his third consecutive victory, Blue had help from Manny Sanguillen, who drove in two runs with a pair of singles.

Jury Rules In Favor Of Noll

And Steelers In Slander Suit

By BILL MARTIN

Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) —

The failure of George Atkinson's $2 million slander suit either vindicated Pittsburgh Steelers Coach Chuck Noll or gave him the right to say anything he wants about anybody he wants, depending on which side you listen to.

A federal court jury determined Friday that Noll and the Steelers could not be held liable for comments in which Noll linked Atkinson, a defensive back for the Oakland Raiders, to a "criminal element" in pro football.

"The vindication of Chuck Noll and the Steelers is a very good thing for football," Steelers attorney James MacInnis said Friday. "It will put a stop to the kind of thing for which he criticized George Atkinson."

The two-man, four-woman jury deliberated four hours at the end of a nine-day U.S. District Court trial before returning a verdict in favor of the defendants.

Atkinson had filed suit seeking a million dollars each from the Steelers and Noll after Noll made the criminal element accusation and charged Atkinson had deliberately tried to maim receiver Lynn Swann.

Atkinson, who was not present when the verdict was read, was not available for comment. He had said earlier in the trial that he did not want to go to court, but would have settled for a retraction by Noll.

Contacted at the Steelers' training camp in Latrobe, Pa., Noll's only comment was "we're very happy." Swann said his reaction was one of "complete ecstasy."

The Steelers told newsmen following the verdict they harbored no ill will for Atkinson and did not think the trial would do anything to heighten the tense Steeler-Raider rivalry.

MacInnis said the key to the verdict may have been a failure by Atkinson's attorneys to provide clear and convincing evidence that Noll made the comments maliciously.

U.S. District Judge Sam Conti had ruled earlier that Atkinson was a public figure, requiring him to prove that Noll made his comments either knowing they were false or with "reckless disregard" for whether or not they were false.

Sports In Brief

By The Associated Press

FOOTBALL

MIAMI — Miami Dolphins defensive end Bill Stanfill filed a grievance against the National Football League team, objecting to a report by the team physician pronouncing the nine-year veteran physically fit to play this season.

Stanfill claims the opinion by Dr. Herbert Virgin differs with that of two University of Michigan physicians who Stanfill says told him he should no longer play.

Stanfill has been bothered by a neck ailment.

GENERAL

KANSAS CITY — The baseball program at California State College of Pennsylvania was placed on probation for one year for failure to participate in NAIA tournaments after promising to do so.

The NAIA also lifted a one-year period of probation on California Lutheran College after a successful appeal of the probation which was imposed in June.

The college had been charged with failing to enforce NAIA eligibility standards.

GOLF

STOCKHOLM — Spain's Severiano Ballesteros was struck by a bolt of lightning during the second round of the $80,000 Scandinavian Enterprise Open golf championships, but escaped without major injury.

When play was halted by the storm, Greg Norman of Australia was leading with a 138.

BOATING

NEWPORT, R.I. — Ted Hood twice steered his Independence to victory over the Enterprise in trials for the America's Cup.

DRAU, Austria — America's Jack Lyda and Muriel Gilman, the defending champions, captured the 1977 canoe and kayak world championships, winning the mixed kayak competition. They were clocked in 483.40 seconds. Two other Americans, Linda Aponte and Kim Kennedy finished second.

New Money For Nongame Wildlife

By John Madison

Interest in nongame wildlife is keener than ever — and so is the search for money to manage it.

Some advocates of nongame management would tap the money from hunting license sales and excise taxes on sporting arms and ammunition. But hunters point out that there's little enough money for game management as it is, and feel that new money should be found for nongame wildlife.

Among the possibilities:

1) the state legislature may allocate, from the general fund, an appropriation scaled to a percentage of the annual game and fish funds;

2) an annual appropriation from the general fund may be provided by a small per capita tax based on the number of residents within the state;

3) sales of special license plates, decals and wildlife stamps;

4) taxes on specific luxuries or on certain types of outdoor equipment.

The last may be one of the best — an excise tax similar to those on guns, ammunition and fishing tackle. Consumer goods subject to such a tax might include camera supplies, camping gear, backpacking equipment, binoculars, recreational vehicles, and even birdseed. The Wildlife Management Institute has estimated that such taxes could raise $40-million per year for nongame wildlife. There are, however, some snags.

The National Wildlife Federation recently commented:

"Some hiking groups have argued that a tax on their equipment should fund hiking trails as well as wildlife management. It is unclear to others whether binoculars, another suggested tax item, are used primarily for viewing wildlife or sporting events. Cameras may produce as many pictures of family and friends as of nongame species, some argue. Others note that taxes on birdseed and birding equipment might place an unintentional emphasis on urban wildlife programs."

Similar situations were met long ago by hunters and shooters, but were never allowed to stall game restoration programs.

For example, the Federal excise tax on sporting arms and ammunition applies to millions of rounds of ammo that are never fired at game, and many guns that are never used for hunting. The tax is levied on target rifles and handguns that may be unsuitable for any hunting, and on trap and skeet guns. Many nonhunting shooters are thus taxed "unfairly."

So are many hunters. As another example, an enormous amount of money is spent each year by people who hunt doves and little else. As much as 7 per cent of all shot shells fired in the United States may be used in dove hunting. This may add up to $2½-million in excise taxes each year, most of which is channeled into other types of game management. The dove hunter foots part of the bill for quail and wild turkeys.

The perfect tax has never been devised. There would be inequities in excise taxes on backpacking gear and binoculars just as there are on guns and ammunition. But such inequities are endurable — and of all the ways to fund wildlife management, earmarked excise taxes are among the most direct and effective.

Wildlife Services, noted that the hunt was very popular and rewarding for all parties involved.

Each of the youths who participated had successfully completed a hunter safety course prior to hunting. "In so doing," Mechler said, "they learned not only how to be a safe hunter, but also about modern wildlife management and the role of the sportsman in conserving natural resources."

"These young hunters represent a new corps of sportsmen who understand how important it is to be a safe and thoughtful hunter, why game laws are needed and enforced, and how wildlife populations are managed," Mechler said.

Applications for the fall quota hunts may be obtained at any of the three information stations in Land Between The Lakes and at Center Station in the Environmental Education Center.

All applications must be postmarked no later than midnight on August 10, 1977 (and received no later than August 15), or delivered in person to the wildlife office at Golden Pond, KY, by 4:30 p.m., August 10, 1977. No applications will be taken by telephone.

Additional information on the hunts can be obtained by contacting the RESOURCE MANAGEMENT SECTION, TVA, Land Between The Lakes, P. O. Box HA-77, Golden Pond, KY 42231.

Deadline For Land Between The Lakes Deer Hunt Applications Is August 10

GOLDEN POND, KY. — August 10 is the deadline for returning all deer gun hunt applications for the 1977 season at Land Between The Lakes, TVA's 170,000-acre recreation and outdoor demonstration area in western Kentucky and Tennessee.

Even though fallow deer hunting will be prohibited this year, the white-tailed deer harvest is expected to equal or exceed last year's harvest of 1,250.

Overall, small game hunting should be good this year. Squirrel hunting should be excellent because the tremendous acorn crop of 1976 provided for greater survival through the winter and stronger animals going into the mating season.

Much of the credit for improving game populations at Land Between The Lakes lies with a comprehensive multiple land use management program which allows for optimum use of the area for hunting as well as non-consumptive wildlife uses and recreation.

John L. Mechler, supervisor of Wildlife Management, explains that decisions on resource management at Land Between The Lakes are made after careful study to determine how an area can most effectively be used.

According to Mechler, the key to multiple-use management lies in cooperation among departments and an "awareness of what everyone else is doing. Communications with other sections makes proper resource management possible," he said.

"All forest management activities are geared toward wildlife species development in both game and non-game animals," Mechler said. Timber stand improvement, the deadening or removal of trees having no potential wildlife, recreation or timber value, and selective timber harvesting are methods used to help provide a variety of habitats beneficial to wildlife.

Agricultural land is farmed in Land Between The Lakes by private farmers on a share-cropping basis, leaving 20 to 25 per cent of the crop for wildlife food and cover. Wildlife food plots are also planted along many powerline rights of way.

Campgrounds and other public use areas set aside for recreation and environmental education are carefully managed to maintain a natural environment for the enjoyment of users and the propagation of wildlife. Frequent inspection of these areas is made to evaluate user impact on resources and prescribe corrective measures.

The multiple land use management program at Land Between The Lakes demonstrates and helps visitors "develop an understanding of the importance of conserving and maintaining a quality environment."

Examples of these management practices are interpreted along the 8-mile Resource Motor Trail and the Trail of These Hills, but can be seen in practically every section of the TVA demonstration area.

Redd Hollow Informal Use Area To Close For Renovation And Construction

Redd Hollow Informal Use Area, located south of Turkey Bay in TVA's Land Between The Lakes, will close except for boat launching on July 20, 1977, and remain closed through September for extensive renovation of the 15 present sites and construction of 25 new campsites.

Campers who normally utilize the area will find complementary facilities south of Redd Hollow at Rushing Creek Campground, Ginger Bay Informal Use Area, and Ginger Ridge Back-Country Camp, or north of the area at Turkey Bay or Fenton Informal Use Areas.

The following rates are applicable at the family campgrounds for the summer season: Hillman Ferry Campground, located about three miles south of Barkley Canal on the Kentucky-Lake shoreline in the northern portion of the area, and Piney Campground, located near U.S. Highway 79 in the southern portion, $3 per night; and Rushing Creek Campground, straddling the Kentucky-Tennessee line midway in Land Between The Lakes, $2 per night. There is an additional 50 cents charge for electrical hookup in each of the family campgrounds. There is no charge for camping in any of the informal use areas.

For further information contact TVA, Land Between The Lakes, Golden Pond, KY. 42231, telephone (502) 924-5602.

Annual Fall Fishing Derby Set For August 15

The 19th annual Fall Fishing

Derby, the oldest continuous fishing contest of its kind, will begin August 15 and continue through October. The free contest, open to registered guests at participating motels, campgrounds, and houseboats rentals in Marshall County, will offer cash and merchandise prizes on a weekly basis in addition to grand cash awards for the season's largest fish in each of the six categories.

For additional information write, Fall Fishing Derby, Dept. W, Box 342, Benton, KY. 42025.

Homecoming Between The Rivers

The sixth annual "Between the Rivers Homecoming" has been set for Sunday, August 14, 1977, at the old Fenton Airstrip just east of the Eggnor's Ferry Bridge on U.S. Highway 68. All persons who lived in the area now known as Land Between The Lakes and their guests are invited to attend the celebration. A basket lunch will be served at 12:00 noon. Bring your own lunch.

For additional information contact TVA, Land Between The Lakes, Golden Pond, KY. 42231, telephone (502) 924-5602.

What's Happening In Land Between The Lakes

The following activities are scheduled for the next week at Land Between The Lakes, TVA's public outdoor recreation area in western Kentucky and Tennessee: Seniority Salute, July 25, a day for senior citizens, bring a dish for potluck lunch, meet at Hematite Lake near Center Station, 10 a.m.; advance registration required, call (502) 924-5509; Ghosts of the Past, July 26, gather around

Special Youth Hunt Set For Saturday November 5

GOLDEN POND, KY. — Land Between The Lakes, the Tennessee Valley Authority's 170,000-acre demonstration area in western Kentucky and Tennessee, will hold the second Youth Hunt for white-tailed deer Saturday, November 5. Fallow deer hunting will be prohibited for both gun and bow hunters.

Only youths who will be at least 10 years of age, but who have not reached 16 years of age on the day of the hunt, will be allowed to apply for the regular quota hunt.

Each youngster must have all state required licenses and tags, a Land Between The Lakes computer card permit, and a hunter safety certificate from a state-sponsored or approved course; these must be presented when checking in for the hunt.

Each youth must be accompanied while hunting by an adult who is at least 18 years of age. The accompanying adult will not be allowed to apply for or hunt during the Youth Hunt.

Each adult accompanying a youth in Kentucky is required by state law to have a valid Kentucky hunting license and deer permit. The adult will be allowed to apply for the regular quota hunt.

The Youth Hunt held in 1976 at Land Between The Lakes attracted 560 young hunters — about 6 per cent of the total number of hunters. John L. Mechler, supervisor of

Hunter Safety Class

The Kentucky Department of Fish and Wildlife will be holding hunter safety classes August 4, 5, and 6. The classes will start at 7 p.m. Thursday and Friday nights and Saturday morning. A target range will be established for the final day. The classes will be conducted in the Murray-Calloway County Park at the picnic shelter near the old courthouse.

The classes will be free for Juniors who plan on participating in the Youth Hunt at Land Between The Lakes this fall. Certification will be a requirement in order to hunt. Area hunters should take advantage of this opportunity.

Registration for the classes should be made prior to August 1 by contacting The Murray-Calloway County Parks office at 753-7640.

all about fishing rods

cane-glass poles

The so-called "bank pole" is the simplest kind of fishing rod. Most are made of heavy Calcutta cane, some of metal, and others of fiberglass.

One-piece poles are stocked by many tackle shops, along with two- and three-piece poles, and those that telescope. Some bank poles are mounted with tip tops; or tips and guides, and some have small cork handles built in, along with simplified reels fitted with monofilament line. Any of these still fishing rods will do a job, and will be worth whatever the fisherman pays for one.

The best pole is the more sophisticated model - a telescoping fiberglass rod, with a built-in reel and line. The glass poles are light resilient, cannot warp or bend, and are long-lasting.

Bank poles come in various lengths. Children do best with short poles, 8 to 12 feet, while adults can handle longer ones, 16 to 20 feet.

bait casting rods

The bait casting rod is used with a revolving spool reel, usually one having a level-wind mechanism that spools the line evenly onto the reel. A long, light, whippy bait casting rod is best for fishing with light line and light lures; a shorter, fairly stiff, "heavy-action" rod best handles heavy line and lures.

Bait casting rods and reels provide great casting accuracy, allow very good "feel" in working lures, and are excellent in fighting hooked fish.

Many tackle companies make bait casting rods expressly designed for fishing with plastic worms. Such rods are fairly stout, with actions ranging from "medium" to "medium heavy," and popular lengths are 5½ or 6 feet.

A light bait casting outfit would consist of a fast, free-spool type reels on a 6 or 6½ foot, light-tip action rod, and best line would be 6 to 10 lb. test. A medium outfit, for use with lures around five-eighths ounce, would include a rod 5½ or 6 feet, of either "medium" or "medium heavy" action. Matching line would test 12 to 18 lbs. A heavy outfit, for lures up to 2 ounces, would be a stiff, "heavy" action bait casting rod of 5 or 5½ feet and line testing 15 to 25 lbs.

Ferrules or "joints" alter the normal action of a single-piece rod shaft, so where pieces the better; also, the more ferrules, the more a rod weighs. However, the bait casting rod that breaks down into at least two pieces is readily portable.

A good bait casting rod has a reliable means of locking the reel to the reel seat. The bait casting reel should readily fit into the rod's reel seat, and it should be possible to quickly, easily, and solidly lock the reel into place on the rod handle.

Four Wheeling

By Hamp Brooks

Our subject today concerns two things primarily; both of which are things that continue to plague four wheelers down thru the ages. Getting stuck has been refined, modified, elevated into the utmost furthest degree of perfection by the four wheeler. There is no halfway to this matter. He uses little sense. At that maybe he uses all that he has. There is no such thing as getting slightly stuck for a four wheeler. Its like being pregnant. Slightly is not a relevant word.

Our other subject by way of introduction pertains to a certain Irish gentleman by the name of Murphy. This esteemed old character was one of the early fourwheelers, certainly in fiction if not exactly in fact. Murphys claim to fame rests alongside Newton, chicken little, and possibly Einstein. Murphy was the one who observed the famous law that is forever engraved horribly on the fourwheelers mind. "Anything that can break... will."

The fourwheeler is a descendant of Daniel Boone. His object is to leave the common, the everyday, the easy, and to venture forth into the wilderness for a time. The success of the venture is measured by the fact he intends to return. Laying aside minor things such as death from natural causes, getting lost, or perhaps finding out that Columbus was wrong (the world is square) and driving over the edge, there are two things that are likely to stop a four wheeler from his goal. Number one is getting stuck; number two is Murphy's law. Consider. The proper way is to be suspicious of any obstacle that looks impossible. Walk ahead on foot. Test it. Is it possible for the vehicle to succeed? Lay a chunk or rock at the precise place where it is needed. Let the air down in the tires. Check for what your options are if you don't make it. Above all don't panic. If nobody is looking you might even consider a slight detour. Lighten the vehicle by making the rest of the folks get out and stand where they can give you an eyeball on what's going on. Use all the previous store of knowledge acquired in driving your rig to carefully balance the speed and traction to their terrain. Right?

Here's what really happens. You see the mudhole, the hill, or whatever. Reason gives way to blind faith. You proceed like a kamikaze pilot who received the twenty-ninth order of the black belt and swallowed seventeen pounds of opium for breakfast. Your wife is white faced, the bathroom suntan suddenly gone, her mind frantically groping at the words she uttered in that long ago ceremony to see if the contract covers this kind of situation. It has long been my private opinion that the marriage ceremony for four wheelers should include the words for "better or worse...even fourwheelers." Presto you are stuck!

Now you are supposed to get out, calmly survey the situation, possibly take a highlift and get some solid material under at least some of the wheels. Above all don't panic.

You force the shift lever into reverse, grinding six pounds of gears, and fry the clutch when you release it with the accelerator pressed flat on the floor. After doing this procedure for some eleven times you have moved forward four inches, backward five inches, and Downward thirty-six inches. Daniel Boone would be proud of you. While the Indians are scalping you, he can proceed onward. Now you do get out. You couldn't afford a winch. You left the jack at home. You can still let the air out of the tires but this doesn't seem to be advisable because none of them is within six inches of the ground. They are all sitting in pools of instant and mud syrup. You decide to call for help on the CB radio. It sounds like chicken little after the acorn hit.

You remember the one time in the last nine years when you almost gave up and then poured everything you could into the machine and it came out on its own. (You likewise seem to overlook the one hundred and seventy-nine times that this failed.) Back you go into the drivers seat. The fine perfume of burned clutch, scorched rubber, oil, gasoline, metallic fragments, steam from the radiator rises above the scene.

Murphy arrives. Kerplunk. Congratulations friend. You shall reap a bountiful harvest. Fortunately it is less than a days walk to help. It is less than thirty one days to the repair bill.

It is less than one hundred days until your wife will condescend to speak to you again. Your pride is now soft but it will recover.

Learning is a slow process. H A P P Y F O U R WHEELING.

Good Sam Club

Holds Campout

Another weekend of camping was enjoyed by the members of the Twin Laker Good Sam Club of Murray at the Paris Landing KOA Kampground, Route One, Springfield, Tn., during the weekend of July 15, 16, and 17.

The group held a potluck supper on Saturday night with Ned and Beth Wilson as the wagonmasters.

Swimming, golfing, walking, etc., were features of the weekend.

Ned Wilson, president, presided at the business meeting held Saturday following the potluck supper. Beth Wilson, secretary-treasurer, gave her reports.

Guests for the weekend were Hugh and LaRue Wallace. Members attending were John and Joan Bowker, B. C. and Orpha Grogan, Jimmy, Marilyn, Gina, and Cheryl Herndon, C. W., Dot, and Evon Jones, Ned and Beth Wilson, and Charlie, Gayle, Angel, and Melissa Adams.

Fishing Line

By Jerry Maupin

The hot weather is still with us and it looks like we may suffer another week or two. Fishing hasn't been that bad though. Several nice stringers of Sauger and White Bass were taken last week by various methods. The Black Bass were less active but some lunkers were caught on artificial worms along drop-offs and submerged brush piles close to the rocky banks.

Judy and I combined a weekend of cemetery hunting and scouting for "holding" Black Bass on Lake Barkley. We found several fish and they were mighty picky about what they wanted to hit. We would catch one on a worm and then have to go to a crank bait to get another from the same type structure. The largest weighed 7 pounds even and came from a dropoff fifteen feet deep.

Most of the White Bass I saw were taken by trolling the deep points in Little River and the Sauger were caught in Ky. Lake, also by trolling, but on the main river channel.

Both lakes are very clear now because it has been several days since it rained and the wind has been calm. This should put the fish into the deeper water or shady areas except when feeding. A buzz type surface lure worked in the backs of the shallow coves does get some results in the early morning and late evening. Most of the Bass are one to two pounds but once in a while you can find a much larger bass in this shallow water chasing minnows.

The Bluegill have moved into deeper water to escape the heat as well as the blinding sunlight. Right now crickets are the best live bait to use if fished three to five feet deep in submerged treetops and along rocky banks.

I still like to use an ultralight rod with the one-sixteenth oz. black roostertail spinner. We should have another hatch of willow flies soon since the weather is so muggy. If you can find a place where they are gathering close to the waters edge be sure and fish it for bluegill anyway. Many times Black Bass and Stripes are also feeding on the Willow flies but you don't notice them like you would a Bluegill.

I fished the Donelson Creek area Thursday until noon, with three gentlemen from Belleville, Ill. They came down to try and raise a few Barkley "Hawks" they had heard so much about. Two of the guys had their chance but couldn't get the hook set. I think the bass were hitting short because each time the worms were torn apart right at the curve of the hook.

We found a good school of minnows on the main lake but there were no game fish feeding on them. One of the men said that fishing conditions were much the same all over the country. He recently fished in four different states and only had fair success in Arkansas.

It seems that the severe winter we had has affected every lake north of the Mason Dixon line. The threadfin shad population is almost zero. I read a good article in The Happy Hunting Ground Magazine that explained a lot about the loss of this important fish throughout the state of Ky. and I believe that efforts are being made to reestablish the threadfin as quickly as possible since much of Kentucky's tourist trade depends on good fishing waters.

Take a youngster fishing this week and enjoy it. Happy Fishing.

A Record Turnover Of Wildlife Chiefs

One of the interesting items emerging from the recent North American Wildlife and Natural Resources Conference was the fact that 17 state wildlife agency directors left their jobs in 1976.

The record turnover of state conservation directors included:

Mr. Dr. O. Earle Frye, replaced by Robert Brantley; Ill. John McGuire, replaced by Dr. David Kenney; Kan. Richard Wettersten, replaced by Jerry Conley; Md. Ralph Bitely, replaced by Bernard Halla; Mass. Colton Bridges, replaced by Matthew Connolly; Minn. Milo Casey, replaced by David Vesall; Miss. Avery Wood, replaced by Joe Stone; Mont. Wesley Woodgerd, replaced by Robert Wambach; Neb. Willard Barbee, replaced by Eugene Mahoney; N. C. Clyde Patton, replaced by Robert Hazel; Okla. I. H. Standerfer, replaced by George Wint, Ore. John McKean, replaced by Dr. John Donaldson; S. D. John Popowski, replaced by Jack Merwin; Utah John Phelps, replaced by Donald Smith; Wash. Carl Crouse, replaced by Ralph Larson, W. Va. Ira Latimer, replaced by David Callaghan; Wyo. James B.

White, replaced by Earl M. Thomas.

Some directors retired because of age or health; some quit to take better jobs. Some had been directors for many years; others had hardly begun. Some left under political fire, refusing to compromise their professional standards. Of the new directors, some are political appointees with little conservation mileage. Others are old pros of deep experience.

In most cases, however, this turnover indicates that state conservation directors have short official lives. Small wonder that many highly qualified professionals are reluctant to accept directors' appointments - for it too often means premature death for their careers.

The strongest and most stable conservation agencies usually have directors of long tenure. For example, in Illinois, where unbridled politics have weakened conservation programs, there have been seven conservation directors in eight years. In contrast, neighboring Missouri's world-famous conservation department has had only three directors in the past 40 years.
