BALLARD—

time director since the Bandana resident does not possess the necessary academic requirements to hold the position.

(Mr. Arnett has a master's degree in education administration and says he has some credit on his doctorate. He was a high school principal for twenty years; an FHA supervisor for seven years and for the past six years he has been employed as sales manager for a school picture firm. He is married and has one son, Dr. David Arnett of Pasadena, California who has been on a lecture series this fall at Columbia, Rice and other large universities.)

While it was strongly emphasized during the proceedings that followed Mr. Arnett's selection as the interim director that it was "temporary," or that he would serve "until we can find a qualified man," Judge Eli Padgett, chairman of the four-county (Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle and Ballard) council stated that Mr. Arnett was not serving in a probationary capacity for the full time position that pays approximately $11,000.00 a year.

It was clearly apparent during the meeting that Mr. Arnett was not the choice of the rank and file workers, or the volunteer workers who are here from outside the area. When Michael D. Lappin, an $8,000 a year coordinator of the Community Action Program, and in applicant for the area director's job, addressed the gathering following Arnett's selection, he was given an enthusiastic round of applause by his fellow associates.

Lappin, in his mid-twenties, as is Shapiro, asked his fellow volunteers and staff members for full cooperation in the sixty days that Arnett will serve as interim area director, but made it clear that his "efforts would be in a strongly competitive exercise" and he said "when the sixty days are over we'll see who is the best man to hold the job."

This reporter, seeking to learn from Judge Padgett if the next sixty days would be a time for division in the ranks and choosing sides between Lappin and Arnett, he Judge's negative answer was concurred in by one or two individuals sitting at the table around Judge Padgett.

This reporter asked Lappin the direct question asked of the Judge, and Lappin replied: "I will cooperate, but I also want to prove my qualifications to be the area director."

Arnett's "lack of youth" was defended by some of the board members. Kaler Austin, an energetic leader of Clinton said that he wanted to defend the status of age by adding that "experience makes up for many vitalities that youth possesses."

Judge Padgett, a long-time judge of the Hickman County Fiscal Court, sensing an undercurrent of possible rebellion at the selection of Mr. Arnett as interim director, merged as the "star" of the show, the opinion of this reporter. Whether by design, or accident, or in character with his personality, he managed to project some amount of levity into the meeting when it appeared that subdued controversy would erupt into open rebellion.

At one time the judge found it necessary to defend his efforts in the establishment of the program, setting forth the countless hours and unreimbursed expenses he has given to making the four-county council a model of efficiency and accomplishment.

And that it has been. In recounting the goals achieved, and the plans for the future, an almost unbelievable program of development was revealed.

Child care centers, low-cost loans otherwise "financial risks," job training programs, Head Start programs, home repair activity, summer camps for the underprivileged, community recreation centers, adult education programs, are only a few.

In other action of a local nature Richard Myatt was reinstated to the board and Ro Gardner, Mayor of Hickman was named to the board as the mayor representing Fulton County.

Others from the area who applied for the post were Rev. P. L. Nichols, Hickman; Rev. William Fields, pastor of the Sacred Heart and St. Edwards Catholic Churches; Michael Lappin, of New York andinton and two others from outside the four-county area.

Four-County Ministerial Alliance Formed; Commends Shapiro's Work

The Mississippi River Area Ministers Alliance met Tuesday, September 10 at Green Valley Baptist Church, Clinton, Kentucky with Rev. W. O. Fields presiding as temporary chairman and Rev. Floyd Jones, host. Many areas of human relation were discussed and the group addresses itself to the task of improvement in these areas.

The group approved the suggestion of Chairman Fields that it offer to serve as co-sponsor along with the Mississippi River Economic Opportunity Council for the Cooperative Housing Project in Clinton.

The Rev. Mr. Fields was chosen as permanent chairman with the Rev. Mr. Layne as vice chairman and P. L. Nichols as secretary-treasurer.

Several committees were appointed by the chairman.

The next meeting date will be Friday, October 18th, at three o'clock at Green Valley Baptist Church, Clinton, Kentucky.

At its meeting, the Alliance unanimously approved the following resolution:

"We the members of the Four County Ministerial Alliance do lend our unqualified support to the poverty program within our four-county area."

"In its efforts to help the poor society's 'underdog' - we see all that is best in the American and Christian traditions. It was this same type of human concern that prompted the early Christians to share 'everything in common,' to sell 'their possessions and goods' and to divide 'the proceeds among the fellowship according to individual need.' (Acts of Apostles 2:43) in like manner it was this dream of equal opportunity and dignity for all men which prompted our founding fathers to 'set forth on this continent a new nation... Dedicated to the proposition that all men are created equal.'"

"We wish also to take this opportunity to extend our deep gratitude to the out-going director of the local poverty program, Mr. Michael L. Shapiro, for his untiring efforts toward the realization of this great American and Christian dream in this far west corner of Kentucky."

South Fulton and tried to attend to these to the best of my power and ability.

With no offense to the new Commissioners taking office, I do not feel that I can give the people of South Fulton the protection and enforcement they are due and deserve. There are wonderful people in the City of South Fulton, only the differences between them cause confusion.

To my friends and fellow workers in the City Hall, I say thanks for their friendship and help in the past six (6) years and it has been a pleasure being with them.

To my successor I hope he can see the need of Law Enforcement and has knowledge of the Law Enforcement Code of Ethics.

It is with sad regrets that I hereby give notice of my resignation from The South Fulton Police Department, effective the 19th day of September at 1:00 P. M.

Respectfully,

Fulton County To Rejoin River EOC

HICKMAN, Ky., — Fulton County Fiscal Court voted unanimously at noon today to rejoin the Mississippi River Area Economic Opportunity Council.

The court reversed a stand it took Aug. 23 when it voted unanimously to drop out of the program.

At the time, Judge John E. Cruse said the council was not solving Fulton County's poverty problems.

Today's action followed a 2½-hour meeting of selected representatives of the people involved in the council program with members of Fiscal Court. The representatives were selected for the session by Ro Gardner, mayor of Hickman and critic of the previous Fiscal Court action, and W. P. (Dub) Burnette, who attended the meeting as "an interested citizen."

Burnette also advocated re-entry into the program by Fulton County and acted as spokesman for the council during the session.

Afterwards, Burnette said that questions the Fiscal Court had concerning the administration of the EOC program "had been answered satisfactorily."

Judge Cruse agreed.

He said the court would re-evaluate the program and do its best to make it successful.

"The court has never been against the EOC program. It wants to help," he said.

Burnette said he considered "all differences ironed out." Voting for reinstatement of the program were magistrates Roy Nethery, A. L. Cox, James Black, and N. F. Crocker. Judge Cruse does not vote except in case of a tie.

Three ministers were among the representatives invited to the meeting by Gardner and Burnette. They were the Rev. Robert Layne, Episcopal rector from Fulton who formerly served in the state senate from Louisville; the Rev. William Field, Catholic pastor from Hickman; and the Rev. Jordan Davis of Hickman.

Also meeting with the magistrates and judge were S. H.

Arnett of Bandana, assistant director of the four county program, and Bill Metcalf, an EOC worker. The council covers Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle, and Ballard counties.

A crowd of about 50 people — many of them Negroes — appeared at the Hickman County courthouse for the meeting. Some were transported here by EOC bus.

Several in the crowd — mostly women — made an issue of being barred from the meeting. Several called out for a public meeting. Perhaps a dozen people, in two and threes, came to the judge's office and asked to be allowed to enter the fiscal court room during the session. They were told in each instance to wait outside and that they would be called in if the group wanted to see them.

None besides the representative group was called into the conference. In the group in the hall were several EOC and Vista workers from the four counties. Two or three joined the EOC "citizens group" in calling out for a public meeting, but when some in the crowd became angry and threatened to enter the closed meeting, the workers pleaded with them to be patient.

Michael L. Shapiro, director of the council, who has resigned effective Oct. 1, was not invited to the meeting. He remained in the hall with others most of the time. Shapiro laughingly said he "felt honored."

KENTUCKY DAM VILLAGE,
—City and school taxing bodies banded together here today for a fight to preserve Senate Bill 288—a 1968 measure aimed at maintaining TVA electric plant board payments at or

The bill, which was sponsored by Paducah Senator Tom Garrett, is under attack at Glasgow by the Glasgow Electric Plant Board and others. Opponents of the bill claim that it violates the Constitution in several ways. The plaintiffs in the suit contend that the law discriminates against distributors of TVA power and also originated in the wrong lawmaking body.

They say it is a revenue measure and should have originated in the House instead of the Senate. The plaintiffs maintain that the measure violates both the Kentucky and U.S. Constitutions by forcing TVA to pay more in lieu of taxation than non-TVA distributors and private utilities companies are required to pay.

Uhel Barrickman, attorney for the Glasgow school board, said the meeting here today to plan the fight for SB288 represented territory receiving 98 per cent of the plant board payments.

Thirteen cities and 16 school districts are involved in the attack on the Senate bill. The city and school board representatives present indicated that they will support the defense of the lawsuit by hiring legal council to help Barrickman in his case. Barrickman reported that TVA itself is now a party (plaintiff) to the action.

Henry Whitlow, attorney for the Paducah school system, reported his board had filed a motion in Barren Circuit Court to make the Paducah system a defendant in the action.

Barrickman invited other school boards and cities to aid the Glasgow cause.

Garrett's measure provides that plant boards will pay what they did in 1965 plus 10 per cent tax increases allowed school boards and cities in 1967 and 1968 and plant growth.

TVA's contention is that even before a Court of Appeals ruling that all Kentucky property must be assessed at 100 per cent, that the plant boards were paying on the basis of book value which they regarded as 100 per cent. Now it is the contention that the boards are not allowed adjusted tax rates which have come in the wake of the 100 per cent assessment ruling.

At the meeting today, several spokesmen for cities and school systems said they thought there was a vast difference in the board's book value and actual cash value. One representative said that his city's electric system was valued at $4-$5 million when its cash value was nearer $12 million.

James Melton, assistant superintendent of public instruction for administration and finance, presided at today's meeting. He pointed out that Senate Bill 288 was only an attempt to remove difficulties imposed by House Bill 1 of 1965. This bill permitted school systems and cities to raise taxes by a total of only 21 per cent, thereby making adjusted rates necessary.

Senate Bill 288 is designed to eliminate inequities created by House Bill One in so far as the city plant boards using TVA power are concerned," said Melton.

He said that the measure is an amendment of the Little TVA Act so that payments by the plant boards would not drop below the 1965 level.

Barrickman told the group that he did not know whether the attorney general of Kentucky will enter the case and that it also is not clear what position the Kentucky Department of Revenue will take. In the lawsuit at Glasgow the plant board maintains the Kentucky Department of Revenue is not involved.

Whitlow pointed out at the meeting that in Paducah the plant board has continued to pay about what it paid in 1965.

Others reported that in lieu of tax payments had been cut in their districts or cities by one-fourth to one-fifth.

Several attorneys at the meeting pointed out that one of the key claims by the plant boards and TVA will be that SB288 has impaired contracts between TVA and distributors. This, they claim, is unconstitutional.

The group agreed to do everything possible to dispose of the case rapidly in the Court of Appeals. Until the case is completed, in lieu of tax requirements are uncertain in the various districts. It was suggested that a lawsuit to uphold SE288 be filed in Franklin Circuit Court at Franklin. But Ray Coons, attorney for the Department of Education, said this might not be wise since the Franklin Court docket is badly congested at this time.

FULTON, Ky., —The Fulton City Commission has instructed City Attorney James Warren to draw up a resolution in support of the Glasgow City school board in its test suit which favors Senate Bill No. 288, which concerns payments in lieu of taxes by municipally owned electric systems.

In a lawsuit, the Glasgow city council, has withdrawn from the case.

Asked if he knew why, Barrickman said, "I guess you'd say it's a matter of politics." He said the action by the council goes back to a "bitter Glasgow fight over the move to buy power from TVA, and discontinue an arrangement for Kentucky Utilities Co. power."

"There are still scars over that. Some people think TVA is next to God, but some people of Glasgow don't think much of it. This feeling carried over into the City Council," said Barrickman.

Holmes Ellis, mayor of Murray, said that his city's distributor of TVA power actually will pay less than it paid in 1965. It was brought out at the meet-

TOOL VIBRATES FAST

Dairy farmers in Kentucky will cast votes Saturday, Sept. 21, on the question of promotion funds to increase the use of dairy products.

According to H. H. Barlow Jr., president of American Dairy Association of Kentucky, "the approval of this referendum will give the dairy farmer a much stronger voice in reaching consumers in this competitive time. Many imitation products are here now or are just around the corner, and we must meet this invasion now with the story of real dairy products."

The board of dairy farmers of American Dairy Association of Kentucky will administer the program.

Should the referendum carry, Barlow said, any producer who does not wish to participate can request a refund.

McCracken County dairymen will vote at the court house from 9 a.m. to 4 p.m.

BACK TO SCHOOL

So it's back to school for kids all over the country this month. And you, mother: It's that time of year again when your school-age children are gone during most of the week day hours.

A little relaxation perhaps? Fewer interruptions during the day while you organize better all the chores you must accomplish as wife and mother?

But oh those morning hours. When everybody is rushing around to dress, to have breakfast, and to get off to school or work. It is wilder than the summer months have been. But then, after the rush, it's quieter.

Enjoy Breakfast Time

If you're one of the lucky ones, breakfast can be a happy time, too. If you took the time this summer to insist that the family enjoy breakfast together there's no reason for the habit to not continue. Or if your family still neglects breakfast, start now to get everyone up just a bit earlier and start the day with pleasant and a good breakfast. It will start your day better, too.

Then, there's school lunch. Your children will get a balanced, nutritious meal if they participate in the school lunch program. The food choices that are offered are in themselves part of your child's education on how and what to eat for his or her own best good.

If you pack your child's lunch make sure you, too, give him a nutritious selection from the four food groups. It isn't difficult to make sandwiches and also include fruit and raw vegetables so that your child, with his purchase of milk at school, gets a serving from the milk group, the meat group, fruits and vegetables, and bread and cereals.

School Lunch Program

But back to school lunch. Some people wonder about cost so let me describe the rules that govern at least those lunch programs that come under the National School Lunch program. The meals must be served without cost, or at reduced cost, to children who are unable to pay the full price of the lunch. No discrimination or segregation within the school against any child is permitted because of race, color, or national origin. For other children the lunch cost is modest indeed.

Non-Profit Schools Eligible

Both public and private (non-profit) schools are eligible to participate in the Federal school lunch program provided they operate the lunch program on a non-profit basis. Both the U.S. Department of Agriculture and state departments of education are involved. Federal funds reimburse local communities for part of the cost of food, most of which is purchased locally. Some foods are purchased by USDA; some surplus foods also are distributed from this source to the school lunchrooms.

Overwhelming Success Friday Night

The "Rising Tide" of the Ballard County Young Democrats rose with overwhelming success Friday night. A crowd estimated at over 600 attended the club's political rally and street dance.

Miss Katherine Peden, Democratic candidate for the U. S. Senate was warmly accepted by the large crowd consisting mostly of young people.

Applause interrupted the Christian County candidate as she told them "the real young people are here in Wickliffe. They're going to be at Paducah Community College, at Murray, at Western, and at UK."

"The young people of Kentucky know where they are going," Miss Peden said.

"Some of you in the audience might wonder why a 42-year-old woman wanted to run for office," she commented.

Miss Peden told the large crowd that she wanted to run so that she could show the young people that someone was not against them -- and that they could be heard.

A plea for an end to violence came as she asked, "Will we have more violence, or more fellowship and more leadership?"

"Our generation has failed," she said, "and the fate of the nation is in your hands. We are another generation and we ask the young people to join us. We need the young people."

On the speakers platform are Representative Maddox, Miss Peden and Miss Parler

"Those who seek leadership need you," she said. "If I go to the Senate, I will work for you. If you will listen to me, I will listen to you."

Mike Morris, President of the Young Dems, announced that the club's county-wide registration drive was a total success. "Three times as many people registered during this one month than all of the previous two years!" he stated.

Other dignitaries attended the successful event. Henry Maddox, State Representative, was well received by the young people of Ballard County.

At the political rally, Morris also recognized Clyde Elrod for his efforts toward Ballard County and Miss Peden.

Lottie Wolfe, associate director of Democrat Party for the 1st district, was also hailed for her efforts.

ASSOCIATE DEGREES!

The University of Kentucky community colleges offer two-year associate degree programs designed to prepare the student for immediate employment on a technical or semi-professional level.

Follies Plans Are Under Way

The "Fabulous Follies" are on the way again this year.

The 1968 version of the highly successful 1967 musical, sponsored by the Union City Business and Professional Women's Club and produced by the Jerome H. Cargill Production Company, Inc., of New York, will return to the stage of the Obion County Central High School auditorium Friday and Saturday, Oct. 4 and 5.

A substantial portion of the 1968 profits will be donated to the Northwest Tennessee Mental Health Center, to be headquartered in Union City. Last year $1,000 was placed in a special interest-drawing fund for a future civic center for Obion County. The cast for the show will be composed of local men and women who wish to participate in the professionally produced follies.

"We are looking forward to all those who joined the fun of making last year's show a success to sign up for this year's bigger and better musical," said Mrs. Maxine Hawks, general chairman of the 1968 Fabulous Follies. "We especially urge all those who were unable to be in the previous follies to make their plans to be in the 1968 version. It is not the amount of talent one has that is important in a show of this kind but the desire to have fun and participate in a local production for a worthy cause."

"All one has to do to become

Many Farmers To Benefit From Drought Area Rule

As many as 1,450 farmers may be benefited by the naming of Obion County as a drought relief area. It was learned today from the local Agricultural, Stabilization and Conservation (ASC) office.

As a drought relief area, local farmers are now eligible to graze and cut hay from land diverted under the various U.S. Department of Agriculture programs.

According to Marvel Seale, chairman of the ASC County Committee, farmers will be allowed to cut or graze land that has been diverted to the soil bank and crop land adjustment programs as well, and on land diverted under the feed grain and cotton diversion programs.

All producers, he said, are required to obtain authorization from the local county ASC office before taking advantage of this drought program, he said.

"Any unauthorized grazing or haying will cause forfeiture of 1968 program payments," Mr. Seale warned.

According to ASC records there are about 750 farmers participating in the feed grain program, another 600 taking part in the cotton program and 100 qualified under the soil bank and cropland adjustment program.

2 Area Road Projects May Not Be Delayed

Construction of two Western Kentucky highway projects listed as being affected by a federal order curtailing expenditure of federal funds may not necessarily be delayed.

The projects are:

McCracken County—construction of a new road connecting U.S. 62 and U.S. 68 near Reidland and an interchange at this point with Interstate 24.

Fulton County—a port of entry building at Fulton, on the Purchase Parkway.

These projects were included in a list to which Gov. Louie B. Nunn referred Tuesday when he issued a statement at Frankfort that a federal government cut-back in highway funds would seriously curtail construction of federal aid highways in Kentucky.

The Fulton project is not affected, because its construction cost will be borne out of revenue from bonds issued to finance construction of the toll road. No federal funds are involved.

The McCracken County job already has been authorized for construction by the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads, and the Department of Highways had announced that bids were to be received December 13. The project originally had been scheduled for contract letting August 9, but this action already had been delayed before the federal order was issued.

The federal order reducing federal highway expenditures over the nation by $200 million this calendar year represents a deferment, not a loss, of funds. The Sun-Democrat was told today by Robert Johnson, the state engineer of the U.S. Bureau of Public Roads at Frankfort.

He confirmed an announcement that had been made at Washington that it is anticipated that the order will be withdrawn by December 1, so that the Bureau of Public Roads may authorize the Department of Highways to proceed with advertising federal aid projects for construction, or to acquire rights of way on others.

The order does not affect projects the state already had been authorized to advertise, Johnson said.

The effect of the deferment might be material on most projects let to contract this late in the year, because little construction work can be done during the winter months. The period from April through November generally is regarded as the highway construction season.

The federal order is part of the anti-inflation program initiated by President Johnson and of the congressional directive to reduce federal spending.

Johnson said that it was impossible to allocate a specific share of the $200 million figure to Kentucky because of the complexities of the federal aid program.

The McCracken County project was placed in the state program in 1966, and plans for its construction were prepared so that it would be ready for use concurrent with construction of Interstate 24.

Roberts, Green Seek Tax Assessor's Post

Hollis Roberts of Route 2, Troy, former employee of the State Highway Department, and Coy Green, tax assessor for the City of Union City for the past nine years, have both announced as candidates for the office of county tax assessor.

The two men therefore join Mrs. Opal Arnett Hudson in seeking the post made vacant when Mrs. Hudson's husband, longtime tax assessor, Harry C. Hudson, died suddenly Aug. 31.

The successor to Mr. Hudson will be chosen Oct. 7 by members of the Obion County Quarterly Court and will serve for 21 months, until Sept. 1, 1970. In August, 1970, in the next county general election, a tax assessor will be elected by vote of the people to serve out the remaining two years of Mr. Hudson's term.

The names of several other potential candidates are being mentioned frequently throughout the county but no other public announcements have been made. The post pays $10,000 annually. Mr. Green, in his announcement, said that municipal and county tax assessor offices must be consolidated no later than Sept. 1, 1975, under provisions of a state law passed in 1967, and that after that date there will be only one such office in each county.

Tax assessors must meet specified qualification requirements set up by the State Board of Equalization and be certified for the office, Mr. Green added. "I have attended and received certificates for all of the prescribed training courses that have been held to date by the state for tax assessors," declared Mr. Green.

Garrigan Asks County Office

Paul E. Garrigan today became the second magistrate and the fourth candidate to announce for the office of Obion County Tax Assessor, made vacant by the death Aug. 31 of longtime Tax Assessor Harry C. Hudson.

Mr. Garrigan, well-known farmer of Route 4, Union City, said he is in the process of cutting his extensive farming operation by about two-thirds "and I will be able to devote full time to the duties of the office."

Other candidates for the office include Coy Green, Union City tax assessor; Hollis Roberts of Route 2, Troy, former State Highway Department employee, and Mrs. Opal Arnett Hudson, widow of Mr. Hudson who held the office for 21 years.

Members of the Obion County Quarterly Court will convene Oct. 7 and one of the major items of business will be the election of a successor for Mr. Hudson, to serve for approximately 22 months. In August, 1970, voters of the county will elect someone to serve out the remaining two years of Mr. Hudson's term.

Mr. Garrigan, who has represented District 1 on the county court for eight years, was born in Obion County and spent most of his life here. He spent four years in the Marines during World War II, including service in the South Pacific. He is a member and a past Sunday School superintendent at the Mt. Zion Methodist Church.

He and his wife, Mrs. Katharine McKelvey Garrigan, have five sons.

"The position of tax assessor is an important one and I'd like everyone to know I would do my very best to carry out the duties of the office in a fair, impartial and competent manner," Mr. Garrigan said.

County Coaches Eye Victories

Obion County coaches have their work cut out for them this week, preparing for tough opponents Friday night, but all are given a chance to win and give the county its first three-win, no-loss weekend in years.

In Union City, coaches are feverishly working with their youngsters, trying on one hand to produce a sorely needed passing attack and on the other trying to strengthen a leaky pass defense.

Union City travels to Milan Friday night for an 8 o'clock game with the Bulldogs.

At Obion Central, Coach Jerry Gage was more than pleased with his men who thrashed Lake County for the first time last Friday and said his men are in excellent condition for their game at Central with the Martin Panthers at 7:30.

South Fulton, late in opening its practice schedule, fell to Greenfield 12-6 last week but showed a potent attack—all based on Bobby Boyd. The Red Devils will take on Dyer County at Newbern at 7:30 Friday night. The game opens the season for Newbern.

Milan opened its season last Friday and fell to the Huntingdon powerhouse 28-6 and, like UC, will be looking for its first win.

Tornado Coach Chuck Lewis repeated the statement he made last summer when he said, "Our inexperience will kill us until the boys get a few games under their belts."

The coach, however, went on to praise his men for their defensive efforts in the first half of their game with Martin. "I thought we played real well during that time and, if we hadn't made a mistake, it would have been a 0-0 ball game at halftime."

The coach and his assistants are trying to develop a passing game and Coach Lewis said, "If we can, no one is going to push us around. But, you know, you don't develop a passer over-night."

The lack of a passing punch is definitely hurting the UC running game as defenses close in for the run they know is coming. Milan is also in a rebuilding year and will be depending on its quarterback, Hal Holmes, who likes to pass to end Tommy Pillow. The running game is supplied by a small fullback named Tommy Martin.

Central's Coach Gage doesn't try to hide the fact that he thinks this is the year the Rebel yell will be heard around West Tennessee.

And folks who have seen the Rebels play have to admit that he has something going for him. First of all, there is passage: Jerry Ray McCullough with his pinpoint accuracy. However, Jerry showed the fans something a little new last Friday night. Playing defensive end, he made 12 unassisted tackles.

Then there's all-state center candidate Jim Adams who was a terror at linebacker and should strike up a close relationship with Marlinde Shanklin, their chief runner, this Friday night. Middle guard Mike Haynes was all over the field Friday and got eight unassisted tackles.

Central's weak spot has to be its depth. Using a top-notch quarterback as a defensive end has to be dangerous but Coach Gage is going with the best men he has as long as he can.

After scouting the Martin-UC game Coach Gage is not only convinced that his men can stop Martin's passing game but throttle Shanklin as well and, if he does, it's going to be hard to beat the Rebels.

Central's men have been working hard this week in practice sessions which wound up at 6

P. M. with fourteen 50-yard wind sprints.

"We must get our men in the best condition possible. They must be ready to play the entire game without rest and, if possible, we are going to get them in that kind of condition," Coach Gage said.

Coach Bob Fowler's SF Red Devils will be going up against an unknown factor Friday night. For Newbern, it is their first game and Coach Fowler is not even sure what formation they will be using. "We are just going down there blind," he said.

Working with 20 boys who have their share of cuts and bruises, Coach Fowler is spending the week trying to show the boys the difference between pain and injury.

"I am telling them the same thing UTM Coach Robert Carroll tells his boys, 'Rub a little dirt on it and let's go,' the coach said.

"With only 20 boys out I just can't afford to have anyone hurt," he said.

Be that as it may, the coach saw two players receive cuts in practice Tuesday which required stitches to close.

Defensive end Gary Jetton stopped an elbow and wound up with a cut chin and Jerry Mac Reams got stuck in the eye. Both, however, are expected to be ready for the game with Newbern.

This week Coach Fowler has been working on pass patterns. He had praise for Johnny McGuire who caught six last week and hopes the aerial attack will be even better Friday.

So far the Devils offense has been built around Bobby Boyd who was shifted from quarterback to halfback to take advantage of his running skills. As a result, SF's passes are now tossed off a halfback option play.

Boyd, by the way, picked up 150 yards on the ground last week. The only trouble now is the fact that every team will be keying on him and, if he is stopped, the Devils are in trouble.

OBION COUNTY

Joe Martin, County Agent
Union City, Tenn.

Soybean production is one of the most rapidly expanding farm enterprises in the state. The research work at the Milan station should be of interest to every soybean grower or to anyone having other interests in the crop. Over 100,000 acres of land in Obion County is devoted to the production of soybeans. After observing the amount of land being cleared in the Obion River bottoms, we expect this acreage to again increase the number of acres in soybeans in Obion County during 1968. Soybeans should bring into Obion County this fall almost 6 million dollars.

The Obion County Junior Livestock Association had a very successful auction sale of their steers and market hogs at the Obion County Fair. 43 steers returned to the youngsters $20,420.22 and 24 market hogs brought $3,147.04. By this time everyone should know that Trent Ferrell sold his steer for $1.30 per pound and that Vic Ivy sold his Market hog for $1.55. Both animals were bought by E. W. James & Son. The steers averaged over 49 cents per pound and Market hogs averaged over 62 cents per pound.

We have inquired of a lot of people and a lot of different sources and we have yet to find a county anywhere that has a more successful sale of junior livestock. A lot of the credit for the sale operating so smoothly and successfully must go to the co-operation of Reelfoot Packing Company.

The reason for a successful sale organization and wonderful cooperation. It makes us all proud to live in Obion County when we attend the Junior Livestock Sale and see individuals, stores, banks, farm implement companies, community organizations, automobile dealers, tire companies, lending agencies, oil dealers, chemical companies, feed mills, fertilizer dealers, and others buy the steers and market hogs. The youngsters selling livestock really appreciate the support of all the buyers. I know of several boys and girls going to college now on money realized from past sales and the money that Trent Ferrell received for his calf will be used on his college education.

The sale realized about same amount of money as last year even though fewer steers and market hogs were entered in the sale. More prime calves were in this sale than last year and every calf graded choice or better. The opening bid on most calves this year was 40 cents.

This year's sale was the smoothest operated sale ever held of Junior Livestock in Obion County and we attribute this to the wonderful cooperation of the buyers of the calves.

CHECK YOUR CORN FIELD LOSSES

Corn harvesting should begin moving into high gear soon and combines need to be adjusted to have as small amount of corn left in the field as possible. To estimate amount of corn left in field behind the combine - count the number of kernels around a hill in a square 40 by 40 inches, make a count several places.

If you find an average of 20 kernels per square you are losing 1 bushel per acre; 80 kernels per square means a loss of 4 bushels per acre.

For ear corn loss, mark off 133 feet along one row. Each good size ear found in 133 feet represents 1 bushel of ear corn lost per acre. To get an accurate check on machine efficiency, estimate corn lost before, as well as during and after a field has been harvested. This will give you an idea of how much corn dropped off before picking and how much the picker and operators are contributing to losses.

Area Chalks Up National Record For Aerial Crop

Farmers in the eight Purchase Counties airplane seeded 14,500 acres of wheat in standing corn or soybeans last fall. This is the largest acreage of an airplane-seeded crop anywhere throughout the United States.

The normal seeding rate from the air is two bushels per acre, and the best seeding date is from September 25th to October 20th.

Research work which was done at Murray State University last year indicates that there is no significant difference in harvested yields or production cost in comparing aerial seeding with drilled wheat. Aerial-seeded wheat gets off to an early start and provides an early vegetative cover for winter erosion control. It will yield more than late November or December-seeded wheat and may save the farmer valuable time at the busy corn or soybean harvest season.

Care must be taken to get a uniform stand over the whole field as the pilot may skip areas under trees or electric lines. These areas should be hand seeded.

Wheat acreage produced by farmers in the Jackson Purchase Counties has increased from 31,600 acres in 1965 to 46,000 acres in 1968, while yields have increased from 28 to 32 bushels per acre.

Kentucky is the world's largest grower of Burley tobacco.
