James R. Rash Named To Head Postmasters

James R. Rash Jr. of Henderson has been named president of the Kentucky Branch, National League of Postmasters at the state convention here.

The convention was held Wednesday through Saturday with 150 postmasters attending the meetings.

Assistant Postmaster General Kenneth A. Housman, Bureau of Personnel, delivered the keynote address Thursday night at a Kentucky Luau.

The chief speaker Friday was James E. Josendale, director of the Office of Regional Administration, Bureau of Operations, Washington, D.C. Also present for the convention were John P. Doran of Cincinnati, regional director, and Eugene Pinson of Cincinnati, inspector in charge.

The postmaster of the year award was presented to the retiring president, Elton Souder of Corinth. Souder has been president of the organization for the past two years.

Other officers elected by the group are Mrs. Marian Estep of Linda, executive vice president; Thomas Abell of Leitchfield, vice president; George Billings of Stanton, vice president; Kermit Cook of Beaver Dam, vice president; James Dismukes of Salvisa, vice president, and Thomas Young of Caneyville, secretary-treasurer.

Among the resolutions approved by the group at the convention, was one requesting the Post Office department to eliminate the recently instituted title "Officer in Charge." The resolution requests that the title be restored to "Acting Postmaster." Under the new title, the individual acting in the absence of a postmaster cannot be admitted to membership in the postmasters organizations.

Another resolution approved was one endorsing the candidacy of Bremer Ehrler, postmaster of Louisville, for the position of national president of the National Association of Postmasters. Postmasters may belong to both the National League and the National Association of Postmasters, and the Kentucky group will support Ehrler as a candidate for election to the presidency.

Tourist Promotion Launched

By BILL POWELL

Public operation by an organization devoted to promotion of tourism in Western Kentucky began here last night. The group, known as Western Kentucky Waterland Association, has been two years in the formative stage.

A steering committee headed by Smith Broadbent Jr., Trigg County farmer and businessman, set the stage for the regional operation. Western Kentucky Waterland Association will operate in eight counties — McCracken, Marshall, Calloway, Lyon, Caldwell, Trigg, Christian and Livingston.

The development of tourism by national and local promotion will be connected primarily with Kentucky Lake, Barkley Lake and Land Between the Lakes.

Broadbent emphasized, however, that any tourist facility in the area will receive the full attention of the new organization. The association has absorbed Kentucky Lake Vacationland, Inc., a federation of resort owners and motel operators around Kentucky Lake in Marshall, Calloway and other counties.

The merger follows the organization's plan to expand in the wake of Barkley Lake.

Allen Worms, resource development specialist in economic development in tourism for a 17-county area in Western Kentucky, said the goal of the new association will be to promote the tourist industry on a regional basis and to "promote regional community development that pertains to tourism."

He said the new association has been carefully planned and will be a "strong instrument in the economic development of all of Western Kentucky."

Meetings by the association will be held in all the counties of the area, said Broadbent. The next meeting will be May 13 at Kenlake State Park and will be for Calloway and Marshall counties.

Broadbent said that the combination of the two lakes and the LBL provides the key to one of the greatest mid-national recreational regions in the United States.

IRB Defends Request For Auto Rates Hike

FRANKFORT, Ky.

Costs have gone up steadily and auto insurance rates should also be increased, the Insurance Rating Board said Wednesday.

The board, comprising members who write about one-third of all such insurance in Kentucky, gave its reasons to the Insurance Department for seeking higher premiums.

It cited the "harsh effects of inflation on the costs of selling automobile insurance claims," a sharp increase in auto theft and a rise in auto accidents.

The premium raises, if approved, would affect the average Kentucky motorist who carries liability insurance in the common "10-20-5" policy, full coverage comprehensive and $100 deductible collision.

The average statewide increase would be $22.22 a year. If only the basic liability policy is chosen, the increase would be $5.74.

The Insurance Board said the rates would go into effect on renewal dates of policies now in force.

Spokesmen testified at a hearing that every phase of the automobile damage and injuries is climbing steadily.

are up, property damage liability claim costs "are directly related to inflation" and the increase in crime also is having an impact.

Auto thefts in Kentucky have doubled in a two-year period, the board said, a greater increase proportionately than the national average.

"In addition the plain fact is that the average driver is more likely to get in an auto accident year after year," the board said.

It noted that from 1962 to 1967 the number of licensed drivers in Kentucky increased 20 per cent, auto accidents were up 39 per cent and injuries rose 51 per cent.

Board members and subscribers write 30 per cent of the liability and 45 per cent of the physical damage insurance in Kentucky.

Their proposed rate would average $5.74 annually for basic bodily injury and property damage liability protection, $15.52 for $50 deductible collision coverage, $13.31 for $100 deductible and $3.17 for comprehensive insurance.

Liability compensates people who have been injured or for property damage for which the policyholder is legally liable.

Comprehensive gives the car owner insurance against loss or damage to his car from fire, theft, windstorm, hail, glass

Make Room Larger

Have a room in your house that gives you claustrophobia? United-DeSoto suggests that small scale wallcovering designs in light colors can make a room seem larger. Large-scale wall-covering patterns can do the trick, too, providing the designs are spaced so that a great deal of open background shows through. Stay away from strong, dark colors and elaborate, heavy designs.

Judicious Advice

PAINTSVILLE, Ky. William Hazelrigg remembers the time a 78-year-old man, convicted of murder, was sentenced to 20 years in prison. "I won't live that long," the prisoner complained. "You know my age." "Well," the judge replied, "you just go along and do as much of it as you can."

Glover Seeks Register Post

J. L. 'Jelly' Glover, desk clerk at the Biltmore and former circulation manager of the Union City Daily Messenger, today became the third candidate to announce for the position of Obion County Register.

Register Mrs. Rubye Oliver Armstrong will not seek re-election but two candidates, Miss

J. L. 'JELLY' GLOVER

Evelyn Hogins and Ed Lee Stone, have previously announced for the position, subject to the Democratic Primary in August.

In making his announcement, Mr. Glover said he hoped to see as many Union Citizens and Obion Countians as possible, before the primary, to solicit their vote.

"When elected, I will perform the duties of register in a courteous and efficient manner, which I feel I am well qualified to do," Mr. Glover said.

Mr. Glover is married to the former Miss Mildred Lucy Garrigan, who works as a bookkeeper for the Gulf Oil Corp. in Union City. They have one son, John Hugh Glover, 9, a fourth grader at Westover School and make their home on South Third Street.

Mr. Glover was born in Union City in 1912, son of the late Jim Fate Glover and Hattie Marshall Glover. He was graduated from Union City High School in 1932 and went to work at the old E. P. Grissom Grocery. He was with this firm until he came to The Messenger in 1938 as bookkeeper and circulation manager.

Mr. Glover served in the Navy from 1943 until 1946, including a year in the South Pacific. He returned to The Messenger as circulation manager in 1943 and remained with this newspaper until 1953. In that year he went with the local post office briefly and then became bookkeeper from the Union City Hardware Co. In 1954 Mr. Glover became a distributor for the Commercial Appeal, a position he held until 1967 when he went with the Biltmore.

Aside from his high school work Mr. Glover has also studied at Drewry's Business School.

Mr. Glover is a lifelong member of the First Baptist Church and a member of the Laurence Thompson Sunday School Class. He is a past Sunday School teacher, a former Jaycee and a past member of the local VFW post. He is a member of the Westover PTA, the City Beautiful Commission of Union City and the American Legion.

Mrs. Glover is the daughter of Mrs. Dee Garrigan of Lee Street and the late Hugh Garrigan.

Union City Man Dies Of Stab Wounds

Police of Jackson, Miss., are investigating the fatal stabbing of Union City native Louis Johnson Sedberry, who, for the past two years, had served as executive director of the Mississippi Art Association.

Services for Mr. Sedberry, 33, were conducted Tuesday at 2 p.m. at White Ransom Memorial Chapel in Union City. The Rev. W. Fred Kendall officiated and burial was in East View Cemetery.

Mr. Sedberry was the son of former Mayor and Mrs. J. Morgan Sedberry of Union City.

Joe Ruffo, Memphis, a former classmate of Mr. Sedberry and chairman of the writmaking department of the Memphis Academy of Arts, found Mr. Sedberry dead on the floor of his bedroom Sunday.

The two had planned to conduct a workshop at the Stafford Springs Art Colony in Stafford Springs, Miss., Tuesday and when Mr. Sedberry did not show up at the airport Sunday, Mr. Ruffo went to his apartment in Jackson to see what had detained him.

It was then that he discovered the body of Mr. Sedberry, stabbed in the chest at least five times by a sharp instrument. He also had a long cut on one of his hands.

Although no weapon was found, Jackson police said displaced furniture and other items in the room indicated that there had been a struggle. A police investigator said Mr. Sedberry had been dead 24 hours or longer when the body was found.

Ten Candidates Seek Three County Offices

While they have not announced and appear to be in no particular hurry to do so, there is little doubt that Sheriff T. C. McCullough and County Court Clerk J. T. 'Bubba' Kendall will be candidates for re-election when the Obion County Democratic Primary rolls around sometime in August.

Both Sheriff McCullough and Mr. Kendall are popular office holders in the county and this may be the reason nobody has yet developed sufficient political courage to tackle either of the county officials.

In fact, the only contests to develop to date are for offices in which the incumbents will not seek re-election. For various reasons, Circuit Court Clerk Dee Ethridge, Trustee Earl Thorpe and Register Mrs. Rubye Oliver Armstrong have already announced publicly they will not be candidates for renomination.

There will be no dearth of candidates for any of the three offices. Already four candidates have announced they plan to seek the circuit court clerk's office and the other two jobs have three aspirants apiece. And more may come at any moment.

The latest candidate to announce is J. L. 'Jelly' Glover, desk clerk at the Union City Biltmore Hotel and former circulation manager for The Union City Daily Messenger and former local circulation manager for the Commercial Appeal. Mr. Glover today became the third candidate for the office of register. The others are Miss Evelyn Hogins and Ed Lee Stone.

The three candidates seeking the office of trustee include Milton Counce, Paul Garrigan and Navel Seals.

The office of circuit court clerk is being sought by Houston Caldwell, Joe D. Gwaltney, the Rev. James Moon and Preston Warren.

Despite the 10 announced candidates, none has yet qualified, according to members of the Obion County Democratic Executive Committee. One reason may be that the committee has not yet set the date for the primary.

Dwight Blackley of Hornbeak, committee chairman, was out of town today and could not be reached.

Reflections on Ironing

Ironing still remains the most disliked household chore, but even your ironing pad can speed it up. Select one with a metallic layer. It will reflect heat underneath fabrics as you iron, to cut ironing time. Another ironing chore easier is spray sizing. Because of its special lubricant, Magic sizing enables your iron to glide over garments sprayed with it, thus reducing ironing time. At the same time, sizing restores "like new" body and feel to garments.

Congressmen Spent Nearly .25 Million On Trips In 1968

WASHINGTON — Nearly a quarter of a million dollars was spent on trips by senators and aides throughout the world last year.

Senate committee business outside the United States accounted for $162,785, according to a report filed Friday by Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

Another $79,654 was spent by Senate members of joint congressional committees.

Whales' Deaths Are Mystery

TIBURON, Calif. — Tissue tests showed no oil or oil dispersants but were inconclusive as to cause of death of six whales found recently on California beaches, federal officials said Thursday. Conservationists had expressed fear the whales were infected by the giant oil slick off Santa Barbara.

Gerald Talbot, director of the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service Laboratory here, said the cause of death could not be determined because of extensive decomposition of the carcasses.

MORGAN'S FIRST BOOK:

Story of Stubblefield Published

By SHIRLEY O'BRIEN

When Mr. Thomas O. Morgan first came to Murray, the thought of writing a book had never entered his mind. And even if he had, it probably would never have been concerned with Nathan B. Stubblefield.

"When I was driving down '641' to Murray in 1965 to talk to Dr. Ralph Woods about getting a job, I passed an historical marker telling about Stubblefield," Morgan said. At first, he added, he thought that it was a mistake or just merely a local legend, because he knew from his father, a pioneer of educational broadcasting, that Stubblefield did not invent the radio; rather, Marconi.

After he started teaching radio and television courses at Murray, and students were continually asking him questions concerning the development and invention of radio, Thomas Morgan began to do research solely to knowledgeably answer these questions. Now, a "full scale research of the thing" and a planned doctoral dissertation has evolved.

Overheard But Overlooked, the Story of Nathan B. Stubblefield, (the title under consideration) is a part in the form of a biography will be the historical framework surrounding the invention," Morgan stated.

"To establish Stubblefield's correct place in the history of wireless communication, . . . to establish exactly what he did do," is the goal and purpose of this book, he explained and added, "he was the first to transmit the human voice without wires. . . . and Marconi did not steal Stubblefield's invention." An entire section of the book will be devoted to rumors and legends pertaining to Nathan Stubblefield, and other portions to why he never succeeded financially or achieved fame and credit for what he did invent.

"It's outlined (the proposed biography) and actual writing has begun. I've completed the family history and am up through where he married Ada Minerva Buchanan, from Paducah," its author reported.

He continued, "It's developed a deep appreciation in me for this nature. . . . I've been on this research 28 months and I'm still not really ready to write it." . . . I owe an unfillable debt to the Murray State University Foundation (it provided him with a grant to finance the research). . . . It enabled me to hire a secretary . . . get equipment . . . and without it I would've had to abandon the research."

Research for Overheard But Overlooked, the Story of Nathan B. Stubblefield, include field work, interviews with those who knew Stubblefield, witnesses to demonstrations of his wireless invention, library research, visits to the U. S. Patent Office and Library of Congress, relatives of Stubblefield, and tape recordings of interviews, to name a few.

Thomas O. Morgan was born in 1941—or in his words—"six months before Pearl Harbor." In 1963 he was graduated from De Pauw University in Greencastle, Ind. At this time, he entered Indiana State University at Terre Haute, Ind., and received his Master's Degree in 1964. "This summer," he said, "I leave for the Florida State University to complete my PhD in Instructional Communications."

BOSTON—According to many experts, the Atlantic Ocean becomes an inch wider every year as the continents are carried farther apart on conveyor belts of rock.

If Columbus were to set out to discover America today, he'd have to sail 13 yards farther than in 1492. But if he had started his voyage 180 million years ago, he could have traveled from Spain in hip boots.

Developing Lands Have More Visitors

GENEVA — International travel to the developing countries has increased rapidly in recent years. In 1960 there were only about 2.25 million international visitors to these lands; in 1967 there were about 16 million. Receipts from such visitors rose from $500 million to about $3 billion.

WONDERFUL CHEESE

Today I've been perusing a publication of the National Dairy Council called "Newer Knowledge of Cheese". It offers interesting information:

Cheese has been a popular food for thousands of years — going far back into history even before the time of Homer. It was served at Caesar's banquet tables and served to his armies as part of their rations just as cheese serves armies around the world at the present time.

Legend has it that cheese was "discovered" several thousand years before Christ by an Arabian traveler who, starting on a journey, placed milk in a pouch made of a sheep's stomach. During the day's journey, the combined action of the sun's heat and enzymes in the lining of the pouch changed the milk into cheese curds and whey. Whey is the thin liquid that drains off when the rest of the milk turns to cheese.

Varieties Of Cheese

And so since that time many varieties of cheese have been produced, ranging in texture from soft to hard and in flavor from mild to pungent and sharp. Today processing is done in clean modern plants with equipment that controls every step. Still, whatever the cheese, the basic process — the coagulation of milk to produce curd by the separate or combined action of the enzyme rennin and lactic acid — remains the same.

Cheese has, of course, played a role in the economy of peoples and nations. Early nomadic tribes considered cheese vital and it became a prized medium of exchange because it provided milk in a solid and less perishable form.

It is said that the Crusaders brought back secrets of cheesemaking that promoted the art rapidly in Europe. After the fall of the Roman Empire, during the Dark Ages, these secrets were guarded in the monasteries. Trappist Monks developed varieties of cheese that still are made. As cheeses developed in various world localities they usually became known by the name of that area, as for example, Cheddar, Stilton, and Roquefort.

The Cheese Industry

Cheesemaking remained a farm and home operation until the middle of the nineteenth century. Its development into a great industry as we know it today began in 1851 when the first cheese factory was started in Rome, N.Y. Today, cheesemakers in the United States have successfully manufactured virtually all foreign types of cheese such as Swiss, Camembert, Limburger, Blue and Parmesan. Original American varieties include Brick, Colby, Monterey or Jack cheese, and others.

Cheese is a very versatile food. Its use extends from hors d'oeuvres to dessert, alone and in combination with other foods. People of all ages like it. It is said there is a cheese for every taste and every pocketbook. Three ounces of cheddar cheese has the same amount of protein as three ounces of boneless meat, fish, or poultry, or three eggs. It is a rich source of all the nutrients of milk.

Right to Advertise

Do you have a right to advertise whatever you please in your local newspaper, so long as you are willing to pay for the space?

No. As a matter of fact, ads worth millions of dollars are rejected annually by the nation's press, usually on grounds of bad taste or dishonesty.

To the advertiser who is turned down, this may seem to be an unlawful exercise of power on the part of the newspaper. One merchant, whose ads were found unacceptable, raised that issue in a court test.

"A newspaper," he argued, "performs a public service. It has a duty to make its advertising space available to one and all."

But his complaint was denied. The court said that, since a newspaper is not a public utility, it has the same privilege as any other private business to turn down a customer.

That doesn't mean there are no limits at all on a newspaper's right to reject advertising. Suppose, for instance, that the rejection is part of a scheme to choke off competition and set up an unlawful monopoly. In such circumstances, the United States Supreme Court has ruled, the newspaper is violating the anti-trust laws.

What about the news and editorial columns? Could a person insist on being mentioned in those sections? Again, the newspaper has broad discretion as to what it will publish.

In one case, a reader went to court to complain that his letter-to-the-editor had never been printed. He based his complaint on the fact that the newspaper had invited its readers to write in.

However, the court said the newspaper's invitation for letters did not amount to a promise that it would print them all.

In another case, a political candidate sought damages from a newspaper because it failed to mention his name in a story about the election. But the court ruled that it was the job of the editor, not of the candidate, to decide what was newsworthy. The court said:

"(The newspaper) must be the judge of the news it prints."

EVERY CITIZEN SHOULD Vote

Fulton, Ky. Thursday, May 8, 1969 Page 7

TO THE CITIZENS OF FULTON COUNTY

This is my formal announcement for candidate for Fulton County Coroner.

I am 42 years of age and a life long resident of Fulton County.

I am married to the former Bobbie Jean Williams of Hickman, Ky., also a life long resident of Fulton County.

We have two children, 17 and 14 years of age.

I have been associated with Barrett Funeral Home of Hickman, Ky. for the past 12 years of which I have been a partner in the business for the past 9-1/2 years.

I am making this appeal for this office for the third time. I have been coroner for the past 7-1/2 years and am seeking my third term. I have attended the School for continuing Education for Coroners held at the University of Kentucky in Lexington each time it is held. I have had 7-1/2 years of experience in office for this job.

This office for coroner is the least thought of when people cast their ballots. Most people don't even think to look on the ballot for it. It is the least thought of and one of the most important offices in the county. I spend an average of two days in court each time Circuit Court is in session to fulfill the office of Coroner for which I have been elected.

DONALD CHANEY

CANDIDATE FOR

FULTON COUNTY CORONER

John W. Greene, Democratic candidate for State Auditor in the May 27 Primary Election, has the endorsement of all four Kentucky elected Democratic officials in Frankfort: Lt. Gov. Wendell H. Ford, Attorney General John Breckinridge, State Treasurer Delma Stovall and State Superintendent of Public Instruction Wendell Butler. Greene has opened State Headquarters in the South Hotel in Frankfort.
