STATE BANKERS END BUSINESS.

The Eleventh Annual Session Has Come To An End After a Meeting Of Unusual Interest and Benefit.

THE PRINCIPAL OFFICERS WERE RE-ELECTED.

The Next Place of Meeting Was Referred to the Executive Committee.—Banquet and Reception Were Greatly Enjoyed.—Several Fine Papers Were Presented and the Discussions Were General and Exhaustive.

(From Thursday's Daily.)

ROMAN BANKERS.—The eleventh annual convention of the Kentucky Bankers' association, which will leave this afternoon and tonight for their respective homes, after one of the best meetings in the history of the organization. The bankers are lavish in the praise of hospitality and courtesies extended to them by the local banking fraternity and the people of Hopkinsville generally.

Good Papers.—The papers read before the convention this morning were among the best features of the entire meeting. Mr. Logan C. Murray, of Louisville, had as his subject "The Aldrich Bill." It evidenced careful preparation and was heard with the closest attention.

Mr. Ira L. Smith's paper on "Banking and Benevolence" was pronounced by the members as one of the most interesting ever heard by the association. The subject had been keenly thought out and was written with rare literary skill. An additional charm was lent the paper by the manner in which Mr. Smith read it.

Next Meeting.—The matter of the next place for the annual meeting and the date of the occasion were referred to the executive committee and will be decided later on. Several cities are anxious of the twelfth annual convention.

Officers Elected.—Officers for the ensuing year were elected this morning as follows:

President, Edward B. Long, Hopkinsville; Secretary, Isham Bridges, Louisville; Treasurer, E. W. Hayes, Louisville. Each of these officers was re-elected. Mr. Long was filling out an unexpected term. Vice presidents for each of the congressional districts were elected as follows: First, J. B. Wylie, Princeton; Second, J. E. E. McPherson, Hopkinsville; Third, J. H. Covington, Franklin; Fourth, J. T. Moore, Hartford; Fifth, J. M. Scott, Louisville; Sixth, J. M. Olliver, Carrollton; Seventh, J. R. Downing, Georgetown; Eighth, J. L. Gaugh.

Mother's Friend

Those who do know about it wonder how they ever got along without it. It has robbed childbirth of its terrors for many a young wife. It has preserved her health and saved her much suffering. It is an external treatment and carries with it therefore, absolutely no danger of upsetting the system as drugs taken internally are apt to do. It is to be rubbed into the abdomen to soften and strengthen the muscles which are to bear the strain. This means much less pain. It also prevents morning sickness and all of the other discomforts of pregnancy. A druggist of Macon, Ga., says: "I have used a large quantity of Mother's Friend and have never known an instance where it has failed to produce the good results claimed for it."

A prominent lady of Tallahassee, Fla., writes: "With my first six children I was in labor from 24 to 36 hours. After using Mother's Friend, my seventh was born in 4 hours."

The following executive committee was appointed: H. C. Rhodes, E. C. Bohne, Louisville; B. G. Wilt, Henderson.

The following delegates to the convention of the National Bankers Association which will meet in San Francisco Oct. 20-23 were appointed: J. D. Powers, of Louisville; L. N. Leonard, of Edwille; and J. G. Winn, of Mt. Sterling.

The Banquet.

Last night was given up to social festivities. Citizens of Hopkinsville mingled with the bankers in the lobby and cordially greeted the visitors. In the parlors and corridors pretty girls, looking their sweetest in handsome frocks smiled a welcome on the younger members of the association and made the time until the banquet pass all too swiftly. A delightful program of music by the association's accomplished concert band, of Nashville, Tenn., was rendered throughout the evening.

At 10:30 o'clock the banquet took place in the main dining hall. There were three tables extending the full length of the long room, and covers were laid for about one hundred and fifty persons. The tables with their snowy linen and silverware and decorated with fresh flowers were most inviting. The menu was excellent and various tempting courses were served.

After discussing the dishes for two hours, there were toasts over the coffee and cigars. Mr. T. C. Underwood, the toastmaster, introduced several prominent bankers and other gentlemen all of whom made clever and interesting talks. Mr. J. W. Downer eloquently welcomed the visitors and Mr. N. Leonard, of Edwille, fittingly responded. Mayor Joust Henry extolled the virtues of the Pearl of the Penny.

Mr. Logan C. Murray, of Louisville, former president of the American Bankers' association talked entertainingly about "Other People's Money." Mr. John B. Wylie, of Princeton, the humorist of the association maintained his reputation, his subject being "Tales and the Teller."

Mr. Chas. M. Maccham made a witty speech on "Bankers and Others," and Mr. B. G. Wilt, of Henderson, attractively presented ways of "Getting Rich Quick." Mr. Geo. C. Long interestingly discussed to question "To Trust or Not to Trust." Mr. John G. Winn, of Mt. Sterling, made a pleasing talk on "The Ground Floor." Rev. Dr. W. L. Nourse dismissed the diners with prayer. The banquet was a fine success in every way.

Died Suddenly.

Andrew Harris, aged eighteen years, a brother-in-law of Dr. J. J. Esell, of Lafayette, died suddenly at the home of Sincere Harris of congestion of the brain. He recently located in Oklahoma Territory and was here on a visit.

Date Announced.

The marriage of Miss Goldie Adair Rice, of Louisville, and John Crenshaw, of Cadiz, Ky., will take place Wednesday, November 11, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. L. M. Rice, 409 Park avenue, Louisville.

CANNING FACTORY

A Large Part of the Stock Has Been Sold.

Messrs. W. T. Fowler and W. R. Brumfield are meeting with a large measure of success in securing subscriptions to their proposed canning factory here. Already a good portion of the stock has been subscribed for and others have expressed their intention of taking one or more shares who have not yet signed the paper. These gentlemen are very anxious to get the subscription up as soon as possible as they wish to have the building erected, machinery installed, contracts with the farmers made, etc., in time to begin operations next season. The contracts with the farmers for the products to be used will have to be signed before next planting time so that proper seeds may be sown and in sufficient quantities. This is not only of interest to the citizens of this city but also to the farmers for several miles around as they are the ones to whom the promoters will look for their supply of vegetables and fruits.

Small Fire.

Fire Sunday night partially destroyed a dwelling on Fourth street belonging to S. H. McCulloch and occupied by Charles Ritter. The flames were caused by the overturning of a lamp. Loss about $500 and insured.

CARLOAD OF TIES HERE

Laying of the Track From This End Will Soon Begin.

This morning's Illinois Central train brought in the first Tennessee Central engine to be seen in Hopkinsville. The engine is a 45 ton machine, and is numbered 4. It is in the charge of engineer C. J. McGee and fireman Samuel Goodwin.

A carload of ties came in on the same train to be used in laying the Y, the grading for which is now being done.

Engineer McGee says he doesn't know yet what his work will be, but supposes he was sent here to haul ties and lay rails. These will probably be shipped from Clarksville to Gracery where he will take charge of them and bring them here.

As soon as a supply can be collected here the work of laying track from this end will begin. The men and engine left Nashville Sunday and have been on the road ever since.

CO. D. IS GETTING IN SHAPE FOR ARMY MANEUVERS AT WEST POINT

Clifton Long Is Made Captain—Nightly Drills Under the Supervision of Regular Soldiers Will Be Held.

Major Bassett acting on the authority vested in him by Adjutant General Murray, has appointed Mr. G. Clifton Long to succeed Mr. Gano Bullard, who recently resigned as captain of Co. D, K. S. G. Mr. Long is one of the most popular young men in the city and has considerable experience in military affairs.

Major Bassett received notice this morning from General Bates, commanding the department of the Lakes, that his requisition for two drill sergeants from the regular army had been granted and that they would report to him tonight. These men, who have been serving in the regular army, will drill the local company every night from now until the twentieth, when they leave for the maneuvers at West Point, and will be in camp for ten days. Until the tutelage of these seasoned soldiers it is hoped that Company D will prove to be one of the best drilled companies in the camp.

Major Bassett is leaving no stone unturned which will benefit in any degree the companies in his battalion. He is now trying to make arrangements whereby the ball park may be fitted up with electric lights and if his plans are fulfilled the nightly drills from now on will be held there instead of at the armory. This will give more ground for the evolutions and will also prove a great attraction for the citizens.

BE GRATEFUL

Hopkinsville Women Have Much to Thank This Lady For.

It's a real mercy To lighten women's woes. Yet a natural shrinking Keeps many women silent. Hopkinsville women should be thankful for the following statement: Mrs. J. T. Johnson, wife of J. T. Johnson, superintendent of streets, living at 616 N. Main St., says: "During the latter part of last summer I noticed growing upon me a dull itching on the small of the back which kept getting worse until finally the pain became so severe that I could hardly get to get around and many times could not attend to my household duties. The trouble I believe came from the kidneys for I suffered from other distressing symptoms of this complaint. I was subjected to the most severe headaches and frequent attacks of dizziness. I learned about Doan's Kidney Pills from a friend and got a box for me at Thomas & Travers's drug store. They did me a wonderful lot of good. I felt much better and stronger in every way than I had for some years. I do not know what I should have done if it had not been for Doan's Kidney Pills."

IMMENSE CROWD HEARD MRS. NATION

Over three thousand people heard Mrs. Carrie Nation lecture at Union Tabernacle Tuesday night. It was the largest crowd that has assembled in the big auditorium since Sam Jones' last visit to Hopkinsville.
Mrs. Nation appeared shortly after half past seven o'clock, and was greeted by cheers. Her portly figure, dark hair streaked with gray, big spectacles and beaming countenance gave her a motherly appearance.
Her dress was all white, made of peach in princess style, buttoned front with large pearl buttons, with a short plain shoulder cape of the same material with a tie at her throat. This finished her costume.
She wore no ruffles, trimmings or jewels. When she reached the platform she lost no time in useless preliminaries.

Her first move was to have a collection taken for the benefit of the debt now resting on the tabernacle, and while this was being done she had the audience sing the hymn "Am I a Soldier of the Cross."

As soon as the collection was taken Mrs. Nation began her lecture. For an hour the vast crowd was highly entertained.

GET YOUR GLASSES

Faces of Town Clock Are Much Too Small.

The faces for the clock have been placed in position in the new tower of the courthouse and the works will follow immediately. The clock faces are transparent and at night an electric light behind each one will enable Hopkinsville people to see the time as well as in the day.

There is one drawback, however, and that is the small size of the faces. The circle is only three feet in diameter and is about sixty or seventy feet above the ground. At this height a person cannot distinguish the figures on the dial unless he is standing in the immediate neighborhood. According to the scale used in these cases in these cases by architects a clock face should be a foot in diameter for every ten feet it is placed above the ground, so these faces should be at least six feet in diameter or exactly twice as large as they are. The old dials were nearly this large. However, having the dials lit up at night is something new to people of this city, and will make up in a measure for decrease in size.

MUTUAL DUTIES OF PARENT AND TEACHER.

By MRS. W. T. FOWLER.

When I was quite a little girl I attended my first institute and on that occasion I heard the mutual duties of parent and teacher discussed and settled. These duties included on the part of the parent the furnishing of water buckets, blackboards and other furniture, weekly visitation of the school, words of cheer and encouragement and absence of adverse criticism of the teacher in the presence of the child.

This was some years since. At varying intervals in 119 counties in Kentucky the question has been discussed and settled in institutes.
Yet during this week we have heard the perennial plaint of the water bucket. Parents do not visit the school weekly, nor trustees monthly.
Teachers have been agreed as to these mutual duties, but when have the parents heard? And how shall they hear? It seems to me this is the real point of attack, to get the teacher and parents into close communion with the teacher and let them reason together. Too often teachers have been content to allow the parents to more easily along the lines of least resistance and observe a sort of passive neutrality, when by a drawing-out process they might have had help and sympathy. This brings us around to the teacher's duty again. Everything does come back to this source and I can promise cessation, for more and more will the parents themselves be the product of our public schools. When this is so, who will bear the blame?
Let us hope there will be perfect cooperation between parent and teacher when our present school-work bears its fruitage.

Directly or indirectly we have been discussing different phases of this subject all day long. I first endeavored to point out the valuable aid that libraries in the rural schools were to give to the solution of this problem by bringing parent and teacher together in reading circles. This subject was thoroughly discussed by those whose experience entitled them to speak. I then thought I would try to express my own views on the subject to improve myself and the means by which she may do so, knowing that one bent on self-improvement will radiate so much of the genial current of the soul that the most loyal parent will be melted.
This, too, has been discussed. In the divisions of apparatus and of school equipment, again my realm was invaded. When politics and duty to school property had been treated of,
I was left but a divided kingdom.

But there is one influence which has not been referred to here, except in an indirect way and under a general head. When the duties of parents have been mentioned it has been in connection with the mother's influence of the mother? Others go their way, but toiling, praying and hoping the mother treasures the sayings of her children in her heart.
There are various manifestations of motherly solicitude which may partially obscure the hopeful view.
Johnny Smith's mother may come,
in sunbonnet and apron, arrayed, tell us that Johnny must be taught his A B C's and ought not to be taught to count with sticks. And Jenny Day's mother will come—
I have myself met her at the door—tell us that Jennie has been raised a pet and that we must modify our school government accordingly.

But let me plead with you to enlist the mother's influence. These little outbreaks are but the outward manifestation of interest, and underneath is a real regard for the child's best good as she sees it. If you can tact-fully meet her you may make a friend of the most disgruntled mother.

It is not necessary to tell you what my mother has done for me, I could say it if I would. It is useless to tell you what your mother has done for
you. You know it now and you will know it better as time goes on. Every mother in your district has met and faced in some wise solved very problems that confront you.
How well many of them have solved these problems is what I do not know.
I do not know how many of these mothers, in spite of ignorance and poverty, they have reared families of stalwart, honorable men and vir-tuous, lovely women. The wisdom learned of their motherhood outranks all that may be learned of books.

Whatever device you may employ
I know of nothing better than a
"Mother's Day." Let every mother feel herself more than welcome when she reads her invitation carefully written by her own child. Let every song and poem and essay glorify motherhood. Many of these mothers do not know how motherhood is regarded in song and story, but their souls will thrill with the tender sentiments for they have treasured up expressed these things, too, in their hearts.

I do not wish to make any suggestion that is not practical. There is one book which would help you, would perhaps be all you needed for such an exercise. It is "Mothers Home and Heaven," a collection of the best phrases and verse on these subjects. It costs a little more than books for entertainment but it is of value for that personal library of your own that you are collecting.

Miss Sasseen, of Henderson, a few years ago undertook to introduce Mothers' Day in the schools of Kentucky. She has published a pamphlet which, if now obtainable, can be used successfully. There are also in the September number of the Ladies Home Journal two very pertinent and helpful articles, one an editorial on Mothers' Monuments, the other Hamilton Garland's story of his mother's life. J. H. Barrie also has written the life of his mother, a very touching and tender picture from life.

There are many ways in which the Mothers' Day idea can be made out. I leave the thought with you who yesterday proved yourselves so resourceful on the library movement, I wish that you might have mother meetings and read to them out of your books or from those library books you are going to have. Do not read theories to them. Get into the heart of life and begin with Mrs.
Wiggs and Lovey Mary and Emory Lou. In such simple ways can you interest them and bring opinions from the most timid on these homely subjects of love and life, and childhood, which, after all, are the real things.

The true touchstone of your success in giving yourself, give your
braries in the rural schools were to
by bringing parent and teacher to-
the means by which she may do so,
the most loyal parent will be melted.
equipment, again my realm was in-
school property had been treated of,
I was left but a divided kingdom.

in an indirect way and under a general head. When the duties of par-
ings of her children in her heart.
There are various manifestations of
partially obscure the hopeful view.
Johnny Smith's mother may come,
in sunbonnet and apron, arrayed,
tell us that Johnny must be taught
Jenny Day's mother will come—
I have myself met her at the door—
tell us that Jennie has been raised a
school government accordingly.

the mother's influence. These little
friend of the most disgruntled mother.

It is not necessary to tell you what
you what your mother has done for
very problems that confront you.
How well many of them have solved
these problems is what I do not know.
poverty, they have reared families
learned of their motherhood outranks
all that may be learned of books.

I know of nothing better than a
do not know how motherhood is regarded in song and story, but their
souls will thrill with the tender sen-

KILLED A CROPPER.

MORRIS MINIMS USED HIS PISTOL.

Farmer Shoots Negro Hand
Who Attacked Him
From Behind.

Near Guthrie, Monday, Mr. Morris Minims, a prominent farmer, while directing work at his tobacco barn, was attacked from behind by Gabe Leavell, a farm hand, who struck Minims on the head with a club, knocking him down and inflicting a scalp wound.

Minims pulled a pistol and shot Leavell in the heart, killing him instantly. It was a clear case of self-defense.

Leavell had threatened Minims because the latter had corrected him while cutting tobacco last week.

Painful Injury.

This morning while descending into her cellar, the step broke with Mrs. C. H. Nash and her ankle was severely sprained. As it happened the step was close to the bottom of the flight of stairs and the fall was short, otherwise Mrs. Nash's ankle would probably have been broken.

OUTDOING EX- PECTATIONS.

Wonderful Success of L. L.
Eglin's Half Price Sale of Dr. Howard's Dyspepsia Specific.

We are always glad to print in the New Era a story about a remarkable success achieved by advertising, and especially so when the article advertised is one of superior merit.

Not so very long ago Mr. Eglin, one of our most enterprising druggists, succeeded in getting the Dr.
Howard Co., to allow him to sell their Specific for the cure of dyspepsia and dyspepsia at half price, as an introductory offer.

Such was his confidence in the remedy that he personally guaranteed every package of the Specific that he sold, and agreed to refund the money if it did not cure. His faith was well founded, for out of the hundreds of packages he has sold only one has been returned.

Mr. Eglin in commenting upon the success that followed the adoption of his suggestion, not only in Hopkinsville but in other places, showed the New Era a letter from D. F. Davis, of Barre, one of the best known druggists in Vermont. Mr. Davis wrote: "The success of Dr. Howard's Specific in our city is wonderful. I received my first consignment the last of July, and since then have sold hundreds of packages, and cannot get it fast enough to keep my customers supplied. I have not had a single bottle returned, although I have guaranteed every one and have heard nothing but praise to its men-its. This is a record unsurpassed by any remedy that I have sold in the twenty-five years I have been in the drug business."

Mr. Eglin does not know how much longer he will be able to continue selling Dr. Howard's Specific for the cure of constipation and dyspepsia at half price, but will as long as his present supply holds out.
Some of his customers have told they would pay a dollar a bottle rather than be without it.

ALWAYS TIRED NEVER RESTED

To be tired out from hard work or bodily exercise is natural and rest is the remedy, but there is an exhaustion without physical exertion and a tired, never-rested feeling—a weariness without work that is unnatural and shows that some serious disorder is threatening the health.
One of the chief causes of this "Always-tired, never-rested condition" is impure blood and bad circulation. Unless the body is nourished with rich, pure blood there is lack of nerve force, the muscles become weak, the digestion impaired, and a general disorder occurs throughout the system. Debility, insomnia, nervousness, indigestion, dyspepsia, loss of appetite, strength and energy, and the hundreds of little ailments we often have are due directly to a bad condition of the blood and circulation, and the quickest way to get rid of them is by purifying and building up the blood, and for this purpose no remedy equals S. S. S., which contains the best ingredients for cleansing the blood and toning up the system. It is a vegetable blood purifier and tonic combined, that enriches the blood, and through it the entire system is nourished and refreshing sleep comes to the tired, never-rested, body.

Milan Boatright Went Over Bluff Into a Tree Top.

Milan Boatright fell from a steep bluff, a distance of seventy feet, lodging in the top of a small tree, and escaped without injury. His right arm was considerably bruised in the fall. He was riding near the precipice, when his horse became frightened, and in attempting to dismount, he went over the bluff.

W. D. Wade Fell 23
Feet Into a Well.
—Badly Hurt.

W. D. Wade, a young farmer who resides near Fairview went to the well on his place Saturday afternoon to draw a bucket of water. A plank broke and he fell into the well a distance of twenty-three feet, dislocat-ing his hip. He was extricated with great difficulty. It is feared that he may have received internal injuries.

SAM JONES HAS A FIGHT WITH POSTMASTER OF CARTERSVILLE, GA.

Struck in the Mouth.—He Hits Back and Lands on His Assailant's Eye.

(Special to New Era)
CARTERSVILLE, Ga., Sept. 16.— The Rev. Sam Jones, the evangelist, was badly bruised in a personal encounter with Postmaster Walter Ak-erman, whom Mr. Jones denounced for selling wine and threatened to have reported to President Roosevelt. The difficulty arose over statements made by Mr. Jones at his tabernacle meeting, when he used the expression "dirty dog" in remarks made to refer to Mr. Akerman. When they met Mr. Akerman mentioned the remark and hit Mr. Jones a lick in the mouth. The evangelist replied with a lick in the eye.

Though bleeding, Mr. Jones declared after the affair that the only thing hurt about him was his fist.
During his remarks Mr. Jones declared that the people of Cartersville would prefer a sober, decent negro to hand them out their mail to a dirty dog who was using his official position to sell wine and call himself a minister. Mr. Jones' remarks were sensational in the extreme, and the fight was not unexpected. This is not the first time that the minister has figured in such affairs. Several years ago the mayor of a Texas town attempted to cane him and received a thorough whipping.

Some of Carrie Nation's Sayings.

I've quit smashing, for saloons are an effect, not a cause, and I am now going after the cause. I am going to smash the saloon.
Men loyal to their homes are loyal to God and their country.
You can't be "temperate" any more than you can in stealing and lying.
There are no space writers in the Bible.
I'd rather smell a skunk than a cigarette.
You have freed your black slaves. Now free women—your white slaves—by letting them vote.
Christ died for prohibition.
The Bible is my hatchet.
Railroads, hotels and the government are in the saloon business.
The Republican and Democratic parties have left the platform of our forefathers.
The present administration is sending sons to drunkards' graves.
For God's sake, for the sake of home and family, help me to smash the saloons.
There is the church for heaven, there is the saloon for hell.
God selected me to use the hatchet as he selected Sampson to use the awbone and David to use the sling.
