Henry Named To State Vo-Ed Advisory Post

Kentucky Governor Julian Carroll has named Donald Henry, chairman of Murray Independent School Board, to serve on the Kentucky Vocational Education Advisory Council.

The Governor also named a Paducahan, Malcolm Wilson, to a post on the council.

Henry will represent members serving on local school boards and will fill the unexpired term of Joe Denning of Bowling Green, who resigned. Wilson, who will represent vocational guidance and counseling services, will fill the unexpired term of Mary Saylor, Mt. Vernon, who also resigned.

Henry said of his appointment to the council, "I certainly am looking forward to working with the council. It is my understanding that some prestigious people have served on it in the past. I hope to contribute something worthwhile to vocational education in Kentucky." Henry added that emphasis on vocational education "is becoming more prevalent" in Kentucky and other states.

The vocational education appointee said 29 persons serve on the board and make recommendations concerning vocational education to Kentucky Department of Education.

Authorities Investigate

Post Office Burglary

A special inspector with U. S. Postal Service and deputies with Calloway County Sheriff's Department are currently investigating a burglary at Lynn Grove Post Office.

According to Ted Alexander, who investigated the burglary today, a preliminary inventory of the post office showed from $12 to $15 in small change missing in the burglary.

Alexander said a burglar or burglars entered the building by first breaking in a glass front door, then an inside door. The deputy said the entire building was "ransacked," with most desk drawers pulled out, and letters strewn about.

"It looked like all papers had been gone through and desks had been gone through," Alexander said.

A U. S. Postal Inspector arrived today to investigate.

11 SHOPPING DAYS TIL CHRISTMAS

State Changing License Plate Renewal Methods

Kentucky is embarking on a new staggered vehicle registration program, and Calloway County Clerk Marvin Harris says the system should reduce waiting lines at the courthouse.

License plates for 1978 will go on sale in Calloway County by the Christmas weekend, Harris said.

License plates will be available at county courthouses by Jan. 1, next year, throughout the state, according to Kentucky Department of Transportation, Division of Motor Vehicle Registration Commissioner O. B. Arnold.

"We are now moving to a staggered registration whereby license plates will be issued according to the month of vehicle purchase," Arnold said. "The program will take about six years to phase in," he added.

As in previous years, all cars must be licensed by March 1, and trucks, which are not included in the new system, must be licensed by April. However, when new cars are purchased during 1978, and as out-of-state vehicles are licensed in Kentucky, new tags will carry new renewal dates.

The system is similar to auto drivers license renewal. Rather than renewing on one's birthday (drivers license) one will renew his auto plate during the month of purchase.

Harris said, "When the system is completed, we hope to have more level sales throughout the year." Harris said the new system should eliminate the traditional long lines in late March.

Tennessee initiated a similar program this year.

Arnold explained that a new car licenses in April, 1978, must be renewed by the end of March, 1979.

Harris said Calloway County will register about 20,300 cars next year. All license tags will number about 35,000, he said.

When going to buy new plates, one needs the registration license slip from the previous year plus the cost of the plate, $12.50, Harris said.

The new 1978 license plates are manufactured by a firm in Mississippi — not by Kentucky prison industries as in previous years. And several changes have been made on the new tags.

The white plates with blue letters will be issued to last through the next five years so they are made of thicker metal than the old tags which alternated colors each year. The tags will be updated with a yearly renewal sticker near the center of the license plate. A county name sticker will be placed across the bottom of the plate and may be changed from year to year if a vehicle registration is renewed in a different county.

One advantage of the new system will be uniform fees for vehicle registration, Arnold said. He noted that in past years, if a vehicle was registered in the middle of the year, the registration fee was adjusted.

But with the new staggered system, a flat fee of $12.50 is charged and the renewal date is moved to 12 months from issuance.

NEW PLATE — Cindy Cossey, a deputy clerk in the office of Calloway County Clerk Marvin Harris, shows a 1978 Kentucky auto license plate. License tags are expected to go on sale in Calloway County Christmas weekend, according to Harris. Next year marks the first year in a state process of changing the existing license plate renewal system to a method of "staggering" license plate renewals throughout the year. A phasing-in process will last six years.

Five MSU Buildings Nominated To Register Of Historic Places

By L. J. Hortin

Murray State University hopes soon to have five of its early buildings listed as a "Historic District" on the National Register of Historic Places under the auspices of the National Park Service of the U. S. Department of the Interior.

The five structures are: 1. Old Normal School Building (Wrather Hall), previously listed on the Register June 11, 1975; 2. "Edgewood," home of Dr. and Mrs. Rainey T. Wells, now known as Oakhurst; 3. Wells Hall; 4. Wilson Hall; and 5. The Old Library.

Mrs. Eldred W. Melton, executive director and State Historic Preservation Officer, Frankfort, recently wrote that the nomination had been approved on the state level and the nomination form had been forwarded to Washington, D. C., for possible approval and listing on the National Register.

"It will probably be a few months before the district comes up for review by the Federal National Register Staff," Mrs. Melton explained. "However, I hope we will be notified of their decision by March 1978."

The National Historic Preservation Act of 1966 (Public Law 89-665) provides for an expanded National Register to encompass "districts, sites, buildings, structures, and objects significant in American history, architecture, archeology, and culture." The National Register recognizes the significant tangible evidences of our national, state, and local heritage that merit preservation.

Architects Gressham and Kerr of Paducah are currently preparing plans and specifications for the proposed restoration of Wrather Hall and conversion into a Jackson Purchase Museum. Wrather Hall, originally known as the Old Normal School Building, was built in 1924 with $117,000 contributed by Murray and Calloway County to secure the location of Murray State Normal School at its present site.

It is adorned with the Shield adapted from the coat-of-arms of William Murray of Scotland, Lord Chief Justice and Earl of Mansfield. His monument stands in historic Westminster Abbey. From the Murray clan, the city of Murray and Murray State University probably derived the name of "Murray."

Social Security Impasse Broken

WASHINGTON (AP) — A compromise was reported reached today to break a stalemate and make possible quick passage of a bill to keep the Social Security system solvent.

Senate conferees on the measure to increase payroll taxes to cover Social Security deficits were reported willing to remove from the measure an unrelated amendment authorizing a $250-per-student income tax credit for college tuition.

The credit provision would be attached to another bill instead.

A leadership aide who would not be quoted by name said the House and Senate conferees would hold a joint meeting late today or Wednesday.

The conferees have agreed on all provisions affecting Social Security, but the House members rejected the tuition credit rider, insisting the vote should come on the Social Security issues alone.

The aide said he understood the conferees were prepared to release the bill and that the House Rules Committee was standing by to provide special procedures allowing a vote Thursday. The Senate is expected to act immediately after the House does.

Action on the Social Security bill probably would open the way for Congress to adjourn for the year on Thursday, as leaders have planned.

If no Social Security bill is passed this year, it could delay income-tax cuts next year.

One top-level staff member said the negotiating process was not helped by remarks made by Joseph A. Califano Jr., secretary of health, education and welfare.

Califano told reporters Saturday that a college tuition tax credit now attached to the bill is so bad that he would seriously consider recommending that President Carter veto the entire package.

Califano said it is intolerable for Sen. William V. Roth, R-Del., chief sponsor of the tuition credit, to hold the Social

MHS Jazz Band To Perform In Chicago

Murray High School Jazz Band is expected to leave Wednesday for a performance at the 31st Annual Midwest Band and Orchestra Clinic at the Conrad Hilton Hotel in Chicago.

The band and orchestra clinic marks the world's largest gathering of musicians, music educators and composers with an annual attendance number about 10,000.

According to Murray High Band Director Joe Sills, the clinic consists of concerts by some of the nation's finest school bands and orchestras, as well as special emphasis sessions on instrument teaching methods, conducting, arranging and new music.

Murray High Jazz Band, a select group of 29 students, was selected by taped audition material submitted last year and was one of several from across the country to be considered, Sills said. Only one high school jazz band is selected to perform each year.

Several concert bands will appear including the George Rogers Clark High School Concert Band from Winchester, Kentucky had only one other band to perform at Midwest and that was the Paul Rogers Band of Ashland in the late 60's, Sills said.

Other bands this year come from New York, Illinois, Michigan, Texas, Georgia, Wisconsin, Tennessee and Minnesota.

Appearing with the Murray High Jazz Band will be Jamie Abesold, nationally known saxophonist and jazz educator of New Albany, Ind.; and Louis Bellson, one of the "greats" on drums from Northridge, Calif. Sills said Bellson is a regular on the Johnny Carson Tonight Show Band and also is husband of jazz singer Pearl Bailey.

"We are highly honored to be able to perform at Midwest. It is the dream of most band directors to have a group to perform at this most prestigious event. The students in the jazz band began preparing for this in late June and have spent many, many hours in individual as well as group practice. We also feel a great responsibility to perform our best because we represent Murray and the Commonwealth."

UMW, Companies, Call Off Talks

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP) — While restlessness among striking coal miners appears to be increasing, United Mine Workers and coal industry officials have announced a recess in their Washington, D.C. contract talks.

Though both sides reported some progress Monday during 90 minutes of talks, federal mediators said the negotiations will temporarily cease in order to give the UMW and the Bituminous Coal Operators Association time to reassess their positions.

"We thought it best that they caucus on their own," said Wayne Horwitz, chief of the Federal Mediation and Conciliation Service. He said he is not sure when the formal talks will resume.

Both UMW President Arnold Miller and BCOA president Joseph P. Brennan said the stalemated talks — which began Oct. 6 in hopes of reaching an early settlement — finally may be moving.

Approximately 160,000 UMW miners went on strike a week ago today when their former three-year contract ended. "We've been moving along. We've made some progress. We came to the points... where it was time for both of us to sit back and take a look at it," said Brennan.

Miller said, "We are making progress. We are moving in all areas."

But while the two sides were meeting in Washington, miners in Ohio, West Virginia and Kentucky made several shows of force. Hundreds of striking miners — many from UMW District 6 in eastern Ohio — invaded the non-union coal fields of eastern Kentucky, forcing coal truck drivers to dump their coal beside highways.

The miners, numbering about 500 according to union officials, shut down coal loading docks and slashed the tires of some trucks carrying non-union coal.

Kentucky state police said that while they were monitoring the situation, no arrests were made.

Bill Cray, vice president of UMW Local 1957 in Vinton County, Ohio, said the District 6 miners returned to their homes after the Monday dumpings.

"They're sitting by, waiting and watching," Cray said. "They'll send out scouts to look for anybody running coal. If the scouts come back and tell about anybody running coal, everybody will go again."

Cray told the Huntington, W. Va., Herald-Dispatch it is the miners' intentions to shut down all non-union mining operations in the area.

Meanwhile, officials of two of the primary coal movers in Appalachian — the Chessie Rail System and Norfolk and Western — said they are still moving coal.

"We're still moving coal, but we don't know for how long," said Tom Johnson, a public relations official with the Chessie System in Cleveland.

In southeastern Kentucky, about 60 riot-equipped troopers were called out in an effort to enforce a court-ordered sixpicket limit when about 200 miners gathered at the Stearns Mining Co. The Stearns employees, many of whom have been arrested before for violating the picket order, left the picket line after the arrival of traveling pickets, apparently from other UMW operations. Monday afternoon.

State police Capt. Lergy Falcouner said, "We're not expecting any trouble today whatsoever. We really didn't have any" Monday.

Beware Eye Injuries From Christmas Toys, Children

Some of the gaily wrapped packages under your Christmas tree could hold peril as well as pleasure for your children. A number of toys are especially hazardous to sight, warns the Kentucky Society for the Prevention of Blindness.
 Eye accidents endanger the sight of an estimated 2,500 Kentucky school-age children each year, says the Society. And about 17 percent of those eye injuries are caused by such projectile playthings as BB guns, bow and arrow sets, dart guns and cross bows.
 Since Christmas is nearing, the Society has some hints for parents when buying toys for children:
 —Don't always believe the advertising claims. Check the item before purchase.
 —Don't buy poorly made toys.
 —Don't buy wooden toys that may splinter.
 —Don't buy anything that could cut children.
 —Don't buy baby toys unless they can be sterilized.
 —Don't buy dolls with glued-on eyes, or with pop-out eyes.
 —Don't buy windup toys unless the springs are strong and enclosed in casings tough enough to contain them if they break.
 Try to foresee what will happen should the toy break down or fall apart.
 The Kentucky Society for the Prevention of Blindness urges parents to make every possible effort to determine the safety of the toys children receive as holiday gifts or purchase for themselves.

Open House Will Be Held At Eddyville

The Open House Committee at Eddyville, the State Penitentiary, has announced that a master program for the Christmas Eve Open House day at the prison has been designed and completed by its members with the full cooperation of the prison administration.
 Plans are being made for dressing out the prison in gay Christmas colors on Dec. 24th. Numerous Christmas trees and a profusion of bright colors will prevail side by side with the bleak coloration that enshrouds the prison on a normal, routine, uneventful day.
 Decorations and toys to be given by substitute inmates to their children are slowly trickling into the institution, donated by individuals, church and civic groups.
 The toys are being repaired, painted, sparkled, new colors and stored. Decorations are being accumulated...but more of them, as well as toys, are needed.
 People wishing to donate toys and/or decorations for this event, may call Ms. Rachael Oats, Telephone: 762-4661, or contact: Richard Flesch, Psychology Dept., Murray State University.

Studies Continue On Legionnaires' Disease

Q: Mr. L. P. writes that he has been reading in the newspapers in recent weeks of Legionnaires' disease and wonders if it may be gradually on the rise. He wants to know if an epidemic is likely some time in the next year or so. Also, he wonders if an effective treatment is being developed.

A: While certain important questions remain unanswered regarding Legionnaires' disease, much significant information has been gathered.

It is true that small clusters of cases have developed in widely separated areas of the country in recent months - in Vermont, Ohio, and Tennessee. An epidemic of any significant size is unlikely.

The disease is due to a small bacterium. It may be present in dust or carried by birds, such as pigeons, and is released into the environment at particular times, as during construction. The disease is not transmitted from one infected person to another person. The germ is difficult to culture in the laboratory.

Some authorities feel that many of the unusual deaths (about 25,000 in the U.S.A.) attributed to pneumonia that is atypical may be due to Legionnaires' disease (perhaps as many as 5,000 cases). Occasionally, a group of deaths takes place in rapid succession in a given location and may be due to Legionnaires' disease. Such small, unexpected outbreaks occurred in 1965, 1968, and 1973. The Center for Disease Control in Atlanta continues to press physicians to watch out for such epidemics and to be particularly alert in managing the atypical pneumonias. Special attention and tests may prove that some of these cases are actually Legionnaires' disease.

This infection is more likely to strike persons who are weak and debilitated, such as those with cancer or advanced kidney disease. Older persons and heavy smokers appear to have a lowered resistance to this germ, and men more commonly have the disease than do women.

The principal symptoms are general malaise, sudden high fever, cough, and abdominal pain.

Physicians and other health scientists continue on the alert to learn more about this bacterium, where it lives, how it spreads, how to grow it in the laboratory, to determine whether a vaccine can be prepared against the infection, and how to treat it more effectively. Such information will be helpful in reducing further any danger of this virulent bacterium spreading among our citizens.

Especially favored now: Success in handling the affairs of others, travel, personal interests. You can accomplish a great deal under this day's influence.

MSU Madrigal Dinner

Unique And Entertaining

About this time last year, Bill and Margaret Sams and Cathryn and I thought we would put on the dog and go out for dinner one evening. The Christmas Madrigal Dinner some of the youngsters at Murray State had worked up looked interesting. We made reservations for it.

The advance billing proclaimed there had never been anything like it on campus before. We would dine as the lords and ladies did during the Renaissance Era of the 16th century. The evening would be complete with medieval costumes, setting, songs and menu.

It turned out to be everything they said it would — colorful, musical, unique and entertaining. The four of us did encounter a bit of a problem, however. They ran out of food before they got to us. We ended up with a sliver of celery, a couple of radishes and an olive before finally having a late, late dinner at a local restaurant. We missed some of the most enjoyable music of the event.

Terrell and Treva Johnson, our friends over in Galesburg, fared much better. They told us the dinner and the program were among the finest, most enjoyable they had ever experienced — and they've been around.

This week they're having another Christmas Madrigal Dinner at the university. It's being sponsored by the same group, the Gamma Delta chapter of Phi Mu Alpha men's music fraternity. Again, the proceeds will go for a good cause, this year to commission an American composer to write a piece for symphonic band.

It's set for Thursday, Friday and Saturday nights of this week, and again in the Clara M. Eagle Gallery of the Fine Arts Center. It is open to the public at $6 a person ($1.50 less than last year), and it will begin at 7 p. m. each evening.

A Murray restaurant will cater the affair instead of the Paducah house that had it last year, so they should have plenty of food. Roger Reichmuth, the music department chairman, says this will be no problem this year. "We learned from last year's experience," he laughed.

A trumpet fanfare, a court jester, wandering minstrels and a narrator will be part of the evening, along with eight singers dressed in costumes of the Renaissance era. They will introduce each course of the menu with an appropriate song such as "The Wassail Song" and the "Boar's Head Song."

The menu, Roger tells us, will include such fare as roast beef, flaming plum pudding, wassail (a beverage of the period) and Yorkshire pudding, all colorfully catered.

If you are looking for something different and unique in the way of a Christmas outing, this could be just what you are looking for. Reservations may be made in the Department of Music in the Fine Arts Center at the university or by calling 762-4288.

If I can convince Bill Sams that Roger is right — that they won't run out of food again — he, Margaret, Cathryn and I just might try it again. We like to try unusual, unprecedented things from time to time, and, too, it all goes for a good cause.

Felix Dunn loves to tell the story of his going to the Army with Albert (Scoop) Jones. Scoop, who now lives in Memphis, is a twin brother of Alton (Al) Jones, who moved back to Calloway County a couple years ago after working with Chrysler in Detroit for a number of years.

The Jones boys came from out in the Faxon section of the County, and they looked so much alike even their mother had trouble telling them apart.

When Felix and Scoop received their Army induction orders during World War II, Al already was in the service, a sergeant and stationed at Camp Grant, Ill. As it happened, Camp Grant was where the Army sent Felix and Scoop to be inducted.

"We were being issued our uniforms," Felix said, "when a soldier behind a counter pitched a huge pair of shoes at me. They were big enough for the Jolly Green Giant."

"Sir," I said, "these are too big for me."

"You're in the Army now, buddy," the soldier snapped. "You take and wear what is issued to you." I notice he was having trouble keeping a straight face. Then he laughed and said, "That fellow over there told me to give you some big shoes." Standing off to one side in all his sergeant stripes and ribbons and grinning broadly was Al.

Later, Felix and Scoop were eating in a mess hall with a fellow from Mississippi whom they had met in the induction line. Finishing eating, Scoop got up and left, but he had no more than disappeared before Al walked up in all his sergeant stripes, Good Conduct medal and related regalia.

"You should have seen the eyes on that Mississippi fellow!" Felix laughed. "They were as big as hen eggs. He leaned over to me and said, 'Dunn, I thought I knew a little about this man's Army, but that's the quickest I've ever heard of anybody making sergeant!'"

SANTA and the PIGWIDGEN

Synopsis: Claus uses the ring to change the donkey back into Tweedleknecs, leaving only two weapons to fight the Pigwidgeen. Then the elf falls into a snake nest.

CHAPTER TEN THE DAGGER

WHEN CLAUS saw the snakes preparing to strike Tweedleknecs he knew what he had to do. He dug the magic mouthharp from his pocket.

The elves had told him the sound of the harp would charm the fiercest foe. Would it work for a thousand snakes? wondered Claus.

Although he had never played such an instrument, he took a deep breath and blew with all his might on the harp.

The sweetest music he had ever heard filled the air. The snakes grew silent. Slowly they uncoiled. Their tongues were still. Their eyes grew dreamy.

Claus took his mouth from the harp and shouted, "Tweedleknecs, come!" Then he filled his lungs with air again and blew desperately on the harp while the elf, freed of his hypnosis, scrambled up the log to safety.

As soon as Tweedleknecs was out of the pit he ran. Claus stumbled after him still blowing furiously on the harp. They ran until they had no breath left either to run or blow. They fell into a snow bank and lay there gasping.

Presently Claus sat up. He threw away the harp. It was the third weapon and its magic would not work again. Claus said not a word but Tweedleknecs said miserably, "It's all my fault." Then he wailed, "But it wasn't because I lost my temper? I was only trying to be kind to the rabbit."

Claus nodded. "Ah, well," he said. "We still have one last weapon." He drew from his belt the dagger whose point had been dipped in a deadly poison. "When I

"I am done for," said the elf. "You must go on."

meet the Pigwidgeen I shall use this. Even if the dagger fails to kill, the poison will."

Tweedleknecs took the dagger in his own hands and examined it. "The point seems dull," he said critically. He pressed the point gently against the palm of his hand.

"Ah," he said with satisfaction. "It is sharp enough." He handed back the dagger.

"Let us go," said Claus rising, "for surely we have wasted time enough."

But Tweedleknecs did not stir. His face turned dreadfully pale. Sweat poured down his forehead. His whole body shook with fever.

"I cannot move," he grunted.

The awful truth came to Claus. He opened Tweedleknecs' hand. There lay a single drop of blood where the dagger had pressed against the palm.

"You are poisoned!" cried

Claus. He cradled the trembling elf in his arms. "What shall we do? What shall we do?"

"Leave me," murmured Tweedleknecs.

"Never!"

"I have been nothing but trouble."

"It doesn't matter. You never meant harm."

"I am done for," growled the elf. "You must go on. There is no more time to lose."

Claus would not leave. "There must be some way to save you. You are an elf. Tell me what you know!"

"There is a way," sighed Tweedleknecs.

"What is it? Tell me!"

"If," whispered Tweedleknecs, fainting, "a stone should weep for me."

Laetrile Legalization Among Hot Issues

By SEN. RICK WEISENBERGER

In a session which promises to be filled with hot issues, a measure to legalize the sale and use of the alleged cancer drug Laetrile has been added to the list facing the 1978 Kentucky General Assembly in January.

Advocates of both sides offer persuasive arguments and I have personally received nearly a dozen letters from constituents urging my support of the bill.

A special legislative study panel handed down a report of their findings in September which stopped short of any recommendations.

Supporters of the drug, derived from the pit of apricots, were prominent among those testifying in favor of it.

The drug is sold over the counter in countries such as Mexico, where it is believed to have originated. Laetrile has been legalized in at least 12 states, including Indiana, where the legislature there overrode the governor's veto.

The Laetrile story is remarkably complex. There is a genuine disagreement over whether it is a question of drug regulation or freedom of choice. The U. S. Food and Drug Administration has stated flatly that Laetrile is totally ineffective in the treatment of cancer, even though thousands of users insist it is keeping them alive.

The FDA bans interstate shipment of the drug, but because it has no jurisdiction over intrastate transactions it has become a state-by-state issue. Advocates of Laetrile argue that the FDA historically has been a super-conservative agency (i.e. saccharin ban) and is perhaps too quick to reject any new drug.

Kentucky's Department of Human Resources has jurisdiction over drugs for use inside the state, but it follows findings of the FDA in virtually every case. The only way to legalize Laetrile in Kentucky is by a specific statutory exemption.

Stated briefly, the best argument against the drug is that it is ineffective in the treatment of cancer and that there is a danger that victims of the disease will substitute Laetrile for other more conventional methods of treatment.

On the other hand, there are thousands who insist that it works even though it is not supported by scientific findings. Having reached this point, why not allow them the freedom to choose?

As a legislator, I feel the need on occasion to protect the public from itself, but so far I am persuaded that Laetrile at the very worst causes no harm and there may be a very real psychological benefit to users. To be honest, if I suffered from terminal cancer I would be willing to try anything.

I plan to support the bill to legalize the sale and use of Laetrile if properly prescribed by a Physician. I would appreciate hearing from you on this important issue.

Laker Girls Up Season Mark 5-0, Rip Reidland

A good basketball team can find a number of ways to win a game. And that's just what the Calloway County Laker girls did at Reidland Monday night.

They used a "numbers" game to coast to a 68-48 win over the Greyhounds. Calloway, though hitting just 30 per cent of their shots from the floor, hit on 28 of 40 free throws.

From the field, the Lakers outpointed Reidland only 40-38 but the 'Hounds were hit with 37 personal fouls in the contest and had four players to foul out of the game.

Part of the reason the Lakers shot 30 per cent was of course, the karate defense of Reidland which kept hacking away all night as the Lakers tried to establish some sort of offense before being fouled.

Needless to say, it was a very long game.

The Lakers, using a press, jumped out in front early and by the end of the first period, were coasting along with a 15-5 lead. But, in the second period, three Laker starters picked up their third fouls. They included Rose Ross, Mina Todd and Felicia Pinner. That put a bit of a damper on the Calloway offense and then Reidland, which had hit nothing in the first period, began to connect on their shots and at intermission, the Laker lead was only 24-20.

But in the second half, the Lakers again started out in the press with everyone back in the lineup. Taking advantage of four consecutive steals, the Laker girls rattled off the first eight points and were never again threatened. At the end of the third frame, Calloway had a commanding 47-26 lead.

"We pressed real well in the first quarter and ran our offensive patterns pretty well but the foul situation hurt us and we seemed a little hesitant to play much offense in the second quarter.

"The key for us in the third quarter was our press. We had Stephanie Wyatt up at the top of the press and she batted away three or four passes and that enabled us to steal it quite a few times. She did a super job on the press for us," Laker coach Marianne Davis said.

"We had a good rebounding game and we didn't play sloppy. We cut down on our turnovers too. I wasn't really thrilled with the win but I was pleased with the way we played," Davis added.

Felicia Pinner and Mina Todd each tossed in 15 points to pace the attack while Susie Imes added 12.

In the rebound department, Pinner had 10 while Todd had eight, Wyatt eight and Renee Overbey six.

The freshmen boys boosted their season mark to 3-1 with a 63-43 win in the preliminary game.

James Bynum fired in 31 points and had a number of assists to boot in pacing the win. Marty McCuiston added 11 points and Larry Sanders 10. Sanders pulled off nine rebounds, Bynum seven and Wyatt five.

The Laker frosh will be idle until January 5 when they host Heath.

Calloway's girls are now 5-0 on the season and will hope to take a perfect record through Christmas when they host the Laker Invitational Tournament.

The tourney begins Thursday with the Murray High girls meeting Fulton County at 6:30 p. m. The Laker girls play Hickman County at 6:30 p. m. Friday and the two winners meet at 6:30 p. m. Saturday for the championship.

Mississippi College Stuns Miserable-Looking Racers

By MIKE BRANDON
Ledger & Times Sports Editor

The truth is a bitter pill to swallow. Grab a glass of water (or whatever), take a breath and open wide.

Murray State's basketball team is in trouble. In one season, they may very well fall from a 17-10 record to a 5-22 record if they play any more games like they played Monday night when they were ambushed 70-62 in the Sports Arena by Mississippi College.

It wasn't really that close either. Mississippi College could have won by 15 points. The Racers stunk. They did not play any team ball, they did not execute on offense and they did little to keep the Choctaws off their offensive boards in the second half.

Yes, Mississippi College was a pretty good team, for Division Two. But they have no business coming into Murray State and winning with the ease they did.

And the first person to admit that was Racer coach Fred Overton. The second was Choctaw coach Doug Hines.

"No, I've never had a team play that badly before," Overton said after the game. "We couldn't throw it in at all. Somewhere along the way, we've missed them somewhere. When you aren't mentally alert, things like that will happen to you. I don't guess there's anyone to blame but me," Overton added.

Would he have done anything differently, if he could have played the game over again?

"Technique-wise, no," Overton said.

"We're still searching for that one guy to run the show and in trying to do that, we're just not coming up with the right combination. We have to play our best players and we haven't been able to do that at all," he added.

"Sure I was surprised," said Choctaw coach Doug Hines, the Coach of the Year last season in the Gulf South Conference.

"Being from Somerset, originally, I know the caliber of ball the Ohio Valley Conference plays. We feel our football is probably better than the OVC but our basketball is nowhere near the caliber of the Ohio Valley Conference," Hines said.

"I knew I had a good team but they have been very inconsistent. Tonight, we played together and helped each other out. I don't know, maybe they weren't up for us or maybe we had a little more talent than they realized.

"I don't mean this in a derogative manner but I felt we played better together than they did. And this isn't the best game we've played either. We beat Athletes-In-Action 104-85 and they had gone to Samford and Florida and beat both of them.

"We are a good team but not powerful. We're strong in certain areas. We have a good bench and we have good play in the pivot. I really feel if we get going, we could be among the top 10 Division Two teams," Hines added.

The first half was about as exciting as spending an afternoon watching flies sticking to a peanut butter sandwich.

With 14:55 left in the first half, 5-7 guard Larry Bibb hit from 15 feet to tie the game at 8-8. It was tied once more at 12-12 before Bibb again hit from 15 feet to give the Choctaws the lead for good.

About the only excitement in the entire first half came when 6-8 junior John Randall of the Racers dove on the floor for a loose ball and forced a jump ball. Randall tipped the ball out of bounds and Bobo Jackson, in an effort to save the ball, wound up standing atop the scorer's table. His jump was probably the highest any Racer was off the floor all evening.

Once, when the Choctaws scored off an easy offensive rebound to go ahead 22-15, the Racers called timeout and a growing rumble of boos came from the obviously angry crowd which should have been paid to see such pathetic play.

The first half ended 28-25 in favor of the Choctaws and Murray had 12 turnovers.

At the start of the second half, Mississippi College outscored the Racers 10-2 and they cruised to a 38-27 lead and were never again threatened by the Racers, who moved like chickens with their heads off, at times playing like they didn't know where they were.

With 7:13 left in the game, the Choctaws broke through the Racer press with the ease that a bulldozer would break through the ice on a chilly morning at Miami Beach. The result was a slam-dunk by 6-4 Robert Graham and that left the Choctaws with a 56-42 lead.

The Racers then called a timeout and perhaps as many as half of the crowd let out some well-deserved boos. That doesn't sound nice. But the fact is, the Racers deserved them. And they deserved to lose.

When somebody got up off the bench to come in the game, they walked over to Overton, they didn't run. When someone came out of the game, they walked off the floor. And it certainly wasn't because they were tired.

The simple fact is, the Racers loafed.

With the exception of Mike Muff who did hit the offensive boards well but yet missed some easy shots, there wasn't much to be happy about. Muff hit 13 of 26 and finished with 30 points. Jimmy Warren, who played fair, hit five of 11 from the floor and added 10 points while a newcomer to the starting lineup, Johnnie Thirskill, had 10 rebounds and nine points in another performance that rated as fair.

Tyler Thompson, a 6-8 center who weighs in at 165 pounds, led the Choctaws with 22 points.

"The fact we went and got hit real hard by Kansas and Indiana may have had something to do with it," said

Overton, whose team has now lost four consecutive games, after barely managing to win their first two.

"It's sort of like Bethel and Arkansas-Pine Bluff. They were one of those kind of teams that can beat you if you're not sharp mentally and don't execute."

Murray State will run into two more of those type of teams this week. On Wednesday, Georgia College will be here before the Racers host a tough Livingston State team on Saturday.

Wildcats Hold Back Stubborn Gamecocks, Cincinnati Wins

By WILLIAM R. BARNARD
AP Sports Writer

South Carolina had the task of taking on the No. 1 team in the country and the memory of a legendary coach on the same night.

Not surprisingly, the Gamecocks lost.

Two nights after Adolph Rupp's death from cancer, playing in the filled 23,000-seat arena named after him, the top-ranked Kentucky Wildcats had to win.

"This was a very special night for all of us with Coach Rupp's death," said Joe Hall, who took over as coach when Rupp retired after the 1972 season with 880 victories. "I told our players in the locker room that this was an historic moment that they would remember all their lives. It was a night we would not have wanted to get beaten on."

South Carolina made a game of it in the first half, however, trailing only 38-35 at intermission by slowing the tempo and using zone defenses to neutralize the Wildcats' strength and quickness. But Kentucky's man-to-man defensive pressure wilted South Carolina in the second half and the Wildcats went on to win easily, 84-65.

Rick Robey poured in 19 points and Jack Givens and Kyle Macy added 18 apiece to lead Kentucky, now 4-0 for the year.

The Gamecocks, 3-3, got 16 points from Mike Doyle and 12 from Jim Graziano, including 10 in South Carolina's successful first half.

At halftime, a tribute was held for Rupp during which university officials announced the establishment of a memorial fund for cancer research in his name.

Only two other teams in the Top Twenty were in action Monday night, with No. 7 Cincinnati whipping Eastern Kentucky 73-58 and 17th-ranked Detroit edging St. Bonaventure 94-92.

Cincinnati got 16 points from both Pat Cummings and Eddie Lee to post its 65th straight home victory over a five-year period.

A turn-around baseline basket from 18 feet by Terry Tyler with two seconds remaining gave Detroit its tough win on the road despite 46 points from Greg Sanders.

In a similar game, Rutgers center James Bailey sank a free throw with six seconds left to defeat Davidson 78-77 despite 41 points from John Gerdy.

Other games saw Penn State shoot a record 65.3 percent from the field to defeat Muhlenberg, Pa., 109-78; Houston break a Hofheinz Pavilion record with a 133-98 victory over Southwestern Texas; Iowa State trip Wisconsin 82-73; Temple drub Biscayne 80-58; Vanderbilt defeat Cal Poly-Pomona 88-72; Memphis State nip Jacksonville 79-77 and Texas-El Paso beat Alaska-Anchorage 88-83.

Standing On The Firing Line

By Mike Brandon

No Excuse For Racer Performance

Some of you missed the Murray State basketball game last night. Don't feel bad, the Racers missed it too.

For those who elected to attend the two junior high games in the area or for those who thought Mississippi College wouldn't provide much opposition and thus went to the movies, feel fortunate.

I don't recall seeing a Murray State team play worse in my six previous seasons of covering Racer basketball. They didn't run their plays, they free-lanced. They played with little emotion and seemed as if they didn't care if they won or lost.

Now for those who feel winning isn't everything, I disagree. In junior high and to an extent in high school, winning isn't every everything. The object is to learn.

When talking of college athletics, winning is everything. If it's not, then let's put all sports on an intramural level and do away with all scholarships.

A college athlete is, in a sense, a paid professional. In essence, he's being paid $2,000 per year to come to school.

So if winning isn't important, then why give scholarships? But, not only is winning important, how you play the games does matter some too. If you play terrible and win, there's not much gratification.

Such was the case in Murray State's first two wins, over Pine Bluff and Bethel.

We can understand having a couple of close calls there. But last night, it was different. Yes, Mississippi College was a good team. But would any other school in the OVC have lost on their own floor to the Choctaws?

What will it do to our program? If Georgia College comes in here and wins Wednesday and if Livingston State comes in and wins Saturday, we're in trouble folks. If those teams think they are better than us, then they aren't going to keep coming here.

Then who will we get to come to Murray and play? Well, let's see. We've dug up some places we think might come here and play. Included are Southern Institute for gifted cockerspaniels, the Sunny Valley home for unwed grandmothers, the Montana Institute for underwater comic book reading and the Lonely Hearts Club from Virgin, Utah, a town of 119 located somewhere but nobody has yet to find it.

The simple point is it's not good publicity to lose to Mississippi College. Besides, they aren't going to be coming back here after next season. They've built a new arena to play in and they think we owe them a trip.

Again, for the zeehundredth time, we need a new place

JUST MISSED — Johnnie Thirdkill (35) of the Racers tried to tip in this shot but the ball rolled off the Tyler Thompson (22) of the Choctaws leaps high and bats it out toward the point. Under the basket is 6-7-sophomore Ron White (35) of the Choctaws and Larry Scott (30) while Mike Muff (40) of the Racers watches from the side.

TWO FOR LENNY — Sophomore guard Lenny Barber fires up his only shot of the game and connects for two points. In the corner, with his back to the camera, is Johnnie Thirdkill (35).

Here's the Answer

By ANDY LANG
AP Newsfeatures

Q — We put down asphalt tile on the concrete floor of our basement, which has never been damp in the eight years we have lived in the house. Now some of the black cement we used is seeping up between the tiles. Is this due to floor dampness? What can we do to correct the condition? Can we use kerosene to rub off the black marks?

A — That last question first. By no means should you use kerosene. It will damage the asphalt tile, not to mention that it is dangerous to use indoors. The condition does not appear to be caused by floor dampness. It is almost certain that you put down too much adhesive or failed to follow the manufacturer's directions in some other fashion. Unfortunately, the condition may continue for quite a while. What you will have to do is to scrape up every bit of cement every time you spot some of it, then rub the area with a mild soap and water. Rinse thoroughly with a clean rag saturated with cold water, then dry with another cloth.

Q — Why do insulation blankets have vapor barriers? A — With a vapor barrier, insulation is prevented from absorbing moisture. If there were no barrier, the insulation would get wet and lose much of its effectiveness. That's why it is important, when installing insulation, not to tear the plastic, metal foil, brown paper or whatever is being used as a barrier. Even the tiniest tear can permit the entry of moisture and, in time, have the same disastrous effect as if no vapor barrier were used. When the barrier has been punctured or ripped accidentally, it should be immediately patched.

Q — I thought your readers would be interested in an old trick I learned many years ago when I was a professional painter. When you pour paint from one can into another can or container, it can get kind of messy if you aren't using a funnel. I discovered that if you hold a clean wooden stick across the opening of the can with the paint in it, the paint will flow freely and easily into the second can. Grasp the can with three fingers and a thumb, using the index finger to hold the stick vertically in place as you pour.

A — I tried it and it works well with a small can. With a large can, both hands must be used as you pour.

Q — I made a refreshment bar for our finished basement. I painted it black, but my wife says she is sure the paint will be damaged by spilled drinks. Is there some kind of varnish I can put over it that will protect it better? How about lacquer?

A — Many paint stores carry what is called bar varnish, especially suitable where hard usage and spilled drinks are inevitable. It can be applied over the paint, although you may have to dull the finish slightly so that the varnish will grip better. Forget about lacquer. It may damage the paint.

The techniques of using varnish, lacquer, shellac, bleach, stain, etc., are detailed in Andy Lang's booklet, "Wood Finishing in the Home," available by sending 35 cents and a long, STAMPEO self-addressed envelope to Know-How, P.O. Box 477, Huntington, N.Y. 11743. Questions of general interest will be answered in the column, but individual correspondence cannot be undertaken.)

Here's How Brighten a Shut-in's Room With Holiday Cheer

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures

Christmas is the ideal time to pamper the bedridden. A room occupied by an ill person is often the dreariest room in the house whereas it should be made the cheeriest.

Looking at the idea from the vantage point of the sick bed, what would please the ailing one?

How about a remote control unit so that the TV dial might be controlled more easily by the captive viewer? And how about that reading matter that is absentmindedly removed from the bed area or falls to the floor? A useful item is a long-handled pinners that serves as an extra hand in picking up anything from a small coin to a book.

A reading stand that folds flat to be used as an eating tray is another convenience item. A subscription to the local newspaper is a good companion gift. Attach a copy of the paper to the stand when you gift wrap it.

Or how about one of the new designer series telephones — Mickey Mouse is one idea. He has certainly had a lot of experience in dispensing cheer.

Contour bed pillows offer comfort and ear-muffs are useful in shutting out annoying noises. A number of other items may be used as pain relievers — moist-heat, padded collars and body covers that operate without water or chemicals.

A sheepskin pad can be used under bedsheets to relieve soreness. These can be found in some medical supply stores and through some sheep grower groups.

Lamb's wool-lined heel protectors can be good stocking stuffers. So, too, loose lamb's wool which can be taken out of small packages and formed into little beribboned rolls of fluff for the Christmas stocking. These can be used to relieve corns by wrapping bits of it about toes.

As for grooming, instant curlers release a fine mist for longer lasting curls and are designed to keep hair looking good between washings.

In bringing cheer into the sick room, trim a plant with little ornaments, ribbons or even little fluffs of the lamb's wool.

There are other ways to provide cheer — very little effort is required to turn ordinary drinking glasses and punch cups into handsome bedtray accessories.

Acquire ball point paint tubes, wash each piece of glass or pottery to be decorated with baking soda and water, rinse and dry with tissue paper to avoid finger marks. Tape a little design (holly, wreath, Santa Claus, tree) inside a clear glass and prepare to paint the design on the outside, following these instructions suggested by the Vogart Crafts people who advise that these paints may be used also on fabric, leather, metal and other surfaces.

In working with a paint tube hold it vertically, press down lightly so the paint will flow easily through the ball point tip. Following taped designs, blend the paint to achieve attractive shadings. Apply dark colors first, blend the lighter shades over them before the first application dries. Wait at least 48 hours before washing the glass and do not put painted glass in the dishwasher. For maximum durability after painting, bake the glassware in a 275 degree oven for about 25 minutes, and cool slowly. Never bake plastic.

Is there such a thing as an all-purpose adhesive?

Not if you mean an adhesive that does the best possible job in every instance regardless of the type of material on which it is being used. While there are some adhesives for almost anything, you will find them excellent only in some cases, so-so in others and poor in still others.

The much-publicized cyanoacrylates, for example, hold some materials — such as metals and glass — in an incredible bond, but aren't at their best with porous materials such as wood and leather. When used, only a drop is needed and, as the labels are required to state, must be used with great care so that none gets on the skin.

A strong contender for the "almost" all-purpose adhesive is epoxy, but it isn't the best seller because it is fairly expensive. It comes in two parts, one of which is the adhesive itself, one a hardening agent. They must be mixed just before use. While a strong, durable bond is produced within minutes after application, a wait of an hour or so is required for the bond to become fully cured. The proper temperature for this union to reach maximum strength in so short a period of time is about 75 degrees Fahrenheit.

Mixing of the two parts should be done on a clean surface or in a paper cup which is free of wax. I have found that the simplest way to handle this is to squeeze some of the adhesive onto a piece of clean paper with no print on it, then squeeze out an equal amount of the hardener right next to it (if you run one into the other immediately, it is difficult to judge when the amounts are equal). I then use a wooden toothpick to mix the two, wait half a minute and then apply the mixture to both of the surfaces to be joined. Only a thin layer is required, after which the surfaces are put together at once. Most of the time I find the toothpick an excellent spreader.

The first time you use an epoxy, you will have a tendency to squeeze out more of the adhesive and the hardener than you need for a single application. Try not to do so, because the mixture cannot be saved.

Epoxy adhesives handle such materials as metals, glass, plastics, ceramics and wood, among others, and can be used to repair china, ovenware and anything that comes into contact with water and heat, since it is both waterproof and heatproof. Another good feature is that it has excellent void-filling properties for joining parts with uneven mating surfaces.

There are numerous other quality adhesives, including the white glues, the clear plastic cements, the rubber or neoprene-based mastics, the contact cements, the metal menders, the many wood-bonders and dozens of specialty adhesives.

While the multiplicity of adhesives on the market is likely to be confusing, make it a point to read the label before you buy to see if the product fits your need. Be certain the label specifically mentions the material you will be working on. The absence of such mention can be significant.

Remodeled Kitchen A Winner

Kitchen modernization is usually initiated by a homeowner seeking more work and storage space, a better layout, up-to-date appliances, good looks and convenience.

All of these needs were met by a remodeled kitchen that took first place in its category in a competition sponsored by the American Institute of Kitchen Dealers. The award-winning kitchen was designed by Larry Routen, CKD, of Bloomington, Indiana, and featured cabinets certified by the National Kitchen Cabinet Association.

The kitchen remodeled by Routen is an example of the role NKCA certified cabinets can play in custom design. Since few homeowners are able to do a good job of kitchen planning, a dealer with a specialized department in kitchens is an excellent source of remodeling help. The dealer also is the source for factory-made, certified cabinets specifically engineered and tested for use in the kitchen.

Because of their modular design, factory-made NKCA certified cabinets enable the homeowner to enjoy the custom appearance and efficiency of built-in cabinets and, at the same time, the assurance of long-term performance and durability despite hard use in the kitchen.

Dear Abby

Seeks Release From Loveless Marriage

By Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I've been married for 12 years to a man who, from all outside appearances, is an ideal husband. Nothing could be further from the truth.

I'm 34 and he's 49. I don't drink or smoke, and I've never looked at another man. We have no children because he's never wanted any. He thinks sex is for animals, but he does accommodate me on my birthday, anniversary and Christmas. Then he acts as though he's doing me a favor. He is good-looking, meticulous in his dress, and has a very successful business. The only people we see socially are his relatives and a few business associates.

I spoke to my rabbi about my loveless marriage, and he said as long as my husband doesn't mistreat me, I have nothing to complain about.

If I weren't financially dependent on him I'd leave him. I'm aching for a pair of arms to hold me. I could even live without sex if he would only let me fall asleep on his chest. I am dying inside.

Where do I go from here?

CRAVING AFFECTION

DEAR CRAVING: To your husband, with the announcement that if he doesn't see a counselor about improving the quality of your marriage, you are going to see a lawyer. There is more in life than three square meals a day. You may have to support yourself, but craving affection as you do, it could be preferable to being yoked to a cold fish for the rest of your life.

DEAR ABBY: I am a wedding photographer, and recently I found myself in a situation that I didn't know how to handle.

I started shooting this wedding at 4 and was still shooting at 10 while the wedding dinner and dance were going on.

They had an elegant sit-down dinner, but nobody invited me to have dinner. I saw several empty places set up for dinner, but didn't think I should sit down like an invited guest and eat, even though I was starving.

It is customary to invite the photographer to have dinner? And how about the band?

ALSO HUMAN

DEAR ALSO: The thoughtful host and hostess will invite the photographer (and the band) to eat if they are engaged to work a five- or six-hour stint. A separate table or a place in the kitchen is usually provided for those who are "working" a party.

DEAR ABBY: Will you please settle a disagreement between my husband and me?

He thinks I'm some kind of cleanliness nut because I bathe every night before going to bed. I believe it's just good personal hygiene.

My husband says I'm "flaky," and bathing before going to bed is not necessary. What do you say?

MRS. CLEAN

DEAR MRS. CLEAN: I vote with you. And my mail tells me that there are a lot of men out there who wish their wives were as "flaky" as you. (P.S. A little soft soap at bedtime wouldn't hurt your husband either.)

Howe Named MCC President

E. L. (Red) Howe, Jr., a 32-year-old partner in the Richardson & Trevathan certified public accountants firm in Murray, has been named president of the Murray Country Club for the 1978 calendar year.

Howe was elected by the club's new board of directors Sunday at a special meeting prior to the club's annual Christmas Open House observance.

A graduate of Murray High School and a 1967 graduate of Murray State University, Howe has been a member of the club since 1973. His father, Red Howe, Sr., was president of the club in 1966, making it the first time in the club's history that a father and son have held the office.

Young Howe is married to the former Janice Wilkerson of Murray, and they have two children, Meredith, 6, and Jennifer, 3. They live at 1504 Canterbury.

Walter Jones, Jr., Canterbury Estates, a newly-elect member of the board was named vice president, and Mrs. Margaret Polly another newly-elected board member, was elected secretary of the board. J. H. Shackelford was re-elected treasurer.

Committee assignments announced for the coming year included:

Dr. Joe Rexroat, membership; Dr. Dick Stout, swimming and tennis; Mrs. Betty Jo Pardon, ladies activities; Virgil Harris, golf; Tommy Sanders, house and grounds; and J. D. Rayburn, budget.

Two new family memberships and two single memberships also were approved at the brief meeting. The new members are: Gene and Romona Steely, Route 4; Harold and Peggy Shoemaker, 1218 Dogwood Drive; Eddie Clees, 5th and Maple; and William C. Nail, III.

The board's first meeting of the new year will be Monday night, January 9.

UMW Attempts To Close Non-Union Mines Taxing Kentucky State Police

By The Associated Press
Taxed by hundreds of roving United Mine Workers pickets, state police in eastern Kentucky were maintaining a wary vigilance today in expectation of renewed efforts to close nonunion coal mines.

A dispatcher at the state police post at Ashland said this morning, "I'm just waiting. It's going to break."

And a dispatcher at the Harlan post said that all officers at the post had been put on standby alert in anticipation of further trouble.

On Monday, several hundred striking UMW miners picketed non-union mines in both eastern and western Kentucky.

An estimated 400 miners formed a caravan of about 100 vehicles in Ohio and traveled through parts of Ohio, West Virginia and eastern Kentucky.

Some truck drivers were forced to dump non-union coal by the roadside in eastern Kentucky and two men were arrested in what police said was a rock throwing incident in Pike County.

In addition, police said shots were fired Monday night into the engine of a train carrying coal near Path Fork in Harlan County. No injuries were reported.

The increase in strike-related activities put a strain on the state police, according to an unidentified state police official in Pike County quoted in this morning's Courier-Journal.

"With all the activity here (Pike County) and with Stearns and western Kentucky, we don't have any reserve left," the newspaper quoted him as saying. "We have it all out there now. If the union pickets increase any more, we'll be in trouble. Right now, we can't provide the total necessary services to the rest of the community."

Describing their confrontations with the three-state caravan, coal truck drivers Raymond Russell of Ironton, Ohio, and Dewey Marshall of Sandy Hook, Ky., said the group stopped them on U.S. 23 in Boyd County and forced them to dump out loads of coal they were carrying from nonunion mines.

Neither man was hurt, but the miners told the drivers to

Rites Today For Adolph Rupp, 76

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP)—With flags at half-staff across his adopted state, former Kentucky basketball coach Adolph Rupp will be buried today in the brown suit he was identified with during 42 years with the Wildcats.

Rupp died Saturday night at age 76 after a year-long bout with cancer of the spine. A memorial fund was established Monday in his name for cancer research.

A funeral service open to the public was planned this afternoon at Central Christian Church here and a private graveside service was to follow at the Lexington Cemetery.

Ten of Rupp's longtime friends and associates were named pallbearers, including former Gov. A. B. "Happy" Chandler and Cecil Bell, who lettered on Rupp's 1931 Kentucky team.

Others included John R. Ferguson and Doug Billips, former team managers; businessmen Claude M. Vaughan, Robert A. Sparks and John V. Brown Sr.; Dr. V. A. Jackson, the Kentucky team physician; Dr. Lyman Ginger, former state superintendent of public instruction, and J. Paul Nickell, former president of the University of Kentucky Alumni Association.

Honorary pallbearers included all former lettermen during the Rupp regime, members of the National Association of Basketball Coaches and board members of the Basketball Hall of Fame and the Shriners Hospital for crippled children in Lexington.

Joe B. Hall, Rupp's successor, said his top-ranked Wildcat squad also would attend the services in the church's 1,100-seat sanctuary.
