Rededication Day honors MSU's past

Murray State, celebrating its 50th anniversary this year, will observe a Day of Rededication on the campus Sunday to mark the second of three key dates in the school's history.

Scheduled at 2 p.m. in the university auditorium, the program is planned as a recognition of the date 50 years ago—Sept. 1, 1922—when the State Normal School Commission made the decision to locate a normal school in Murray.

Wilson Gantt, dean of admissions and registrar, who is serving as chairman of the planning committee, called the event "particularly significant to the people of the Murray community and this immediate area."

Dr. C. S. Lowry, professor emeritus who retired from the faculty at Murray State in 1968, will be the featured speaker for the program.

Harry Lee Waterfield, of Frankfort, a 1932 alumnus of Murray State, a two-time former lieutenant governor of Kentucky, and currently a member of the Board of Regents, will preside during the ceremonies.

Engraved silver bowls will be presented by President Sparks to people or direct descendants of people for whom 33 buildings and facilities on the campus are named.

Murray State celebrated Charter Day on March 8 as the first of the three dates to draw special attention during the Golden Anniversary Observance.

The third significant date in Murray State's beginning was Sept. 24, 1923, when Murray State Normal School first opened its doors to 202 students with Dr. John W. Carr as president.

Pick up student org petitions on Monday

The elections will be held Tuesday, October 3 in the SUB ballroom from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m.

All petitions must be filed in the Student Government office by no later than 6 p.m. Thursday.

Offices vacant this semester are: Freshman class president, vice-president, secretary, treasurer and three representatives; Sophomore class treasurer; Junior class representative; Senior class

MSU awaits decision

Roy Stewart Stadium has run into numerous problems and delays since Clark Construction Co., of Owensboro, was awarded the bid Oct. 16, 1969.

The most recent delay resulted from an announcement by State Finance Commissioner Donald Bradshaw on May 5, effective May

In Memory

This issue of the Murray State News is dedicated to Dr. A. C. LaFollette and Lou H. Edmondson, two faculty members in the communications department, who died last month. Dr. LaFollette was a former debate coach here and helped found the Murray State chapter of Tau Kappa Alpha national forensics fraternity. Mr. Edmondson was the former director of journalism and advised the News for a number of years.

8, that Clark Construction was being declared in default in their contract for poor job in construction.

The Owensboro firm decided to fight the case by filing a counter suit against the state. A hearing was held in Frankfort before Franklin Circuit Judge Henry Meigs on Aug. 4.

Judge Meigs took the case under advisement, and reportedly set a date from 10 to 15 days to deliver his decision. On Aug. 15, 11 days later however, Judge Meigs left for a month's vacation without submitting a decision.

A decision, therefore, will not be returned until today. Until then, construction on the 20,000-seat stadium remains at a standstill.

If another firm is called upon to finish the job, much of the current work will have to be redone. A cost evaluation of what remains to be completed, plus what cost will be necessary to replace the faulty concrete work, would be the first order of business.

Delay ends season hopes

Work to be completed includes the construction of an elevator shaft and two vertical seat support columns. Seat supports, however, are pre-cast and only need to be placed and bolted.

Other remaining projects include the replanting of trees and the planting of shrubs; the retopping of the asphalt, which has been subject to the heavy equipment being moved in and out of the construction area; and the laying of the Astro Turf which will take 25 days to complete.

Dr. Thomas B. Hogancamp, vice president for administrative affairs at Murray, termed the project "impossible" to complete by the time the contract ran out, despite repeated statements from the contractor that the stadium would definitely be ready for the '72 season.

The construction delays really didn't come as a complete surprise. Clark Construction Company has a history of falling behind schedule, including the construction of Eastern Kentucky University's stadium.

Law suit results

Last March Bradshaw threatened to declare the firm in default unless it showed that it could complete the Murray job by Aug. 31. Two months later Bradshaw halted construction. Gov. Ford's announcement followed a recent inspection which showed that Clark still had 38 per cent of the project left to complete.

Clark retaliated by filing suit against the State Finance Commission for their removal. Until a settlement is reached, progress on the stadium will remain halted.

If further delays and court actions are involved, the academic-athletic facility may not even be ready by next fall. University officials believe, however, that if bids are retaken by Jan. 1, 1973 that completion should be possible by fall of 1973.

Until then, 40-year old Cutchin Stadium, built under the WPA Program in 1932, will have to accommodate the 7,000 students now enrolled at the university.

Concerts: Rare Earth headlines musical presentations future schedule depends upon success

By JOHN ERARDI
Special Writer

Murray State's first "at-tempt" for a successful concert this fall will be tonight's presentation of "Rare Earth" in the Fieldhouse at 8 p.m.

Many students find it hard to understand why MSU can't afford three or four big-name concerts a year. Facts and figures from Dave Curtis, concert chairman from November until May last year and present Student Government president, and Keith Steele, current concert chairman, explain the dilemma.

Examples of prices for top name groups are: Three Dog Night, $40,000; Sonny and Cher, $28,000; Chicago, $25,000; and Blood, Sweat, and Tears, $25,000.

According to Curtis and Steele, by filling the Fieldhouse (4,200 capacity) and selling tickets at $4.00, $4.50, and $5.00 approximately $17,500 can be expected. By comparing this figure with the group prices, one can see why booking some of the more popular groups is financially impossible.

Obviously, none of these groups, nor any group of comparable status, will ever set foot in Murray until a bigger auditorium is operable. (Incidentally, B, S & T, Chicago, and Sonny and Cher were the three groups most often listed by students as desirable at Murray in last spring's concert poll.)

And don't try the reserve in the concert fund because there is only $10,000 in it.

The idea that the price tag on Rare Earth is a cheap one is also a mistaken impression.

Their contract calls for $10,000, plus a $550 sound fee. No doubt a considerably less amount than Three Dog Night would be getting, but consider these figures before labeling tonight's concert a sure bet for success.

The James Gang concert of last spring provided disastrous as it dealt the concert fund a $2900 loss. Their contract called for approximately $6000. Only 800 attended the show.

The most successful concert of last year was Jesus Christ Superstar. A tremendous turnout enabled the committee to break even on a $14,300 contract. It was this "ambitious effort made good" which gave Curtis, the fortitude to attempt to stage this fall's expensive concert schedule.

It should be made clear that Curtis is still handling the booking of concert performers. This year's concert chairman, Keith Steele, will handle the managing part of the actual performance. Curtis has some revealing information on what could have been, and what probably will be, Murray's fall concert future.

The Bee Gees was the group originally scheduled for Homecoming, Oct. 21. Complications arose, and under the "45 day escape clause" that the contracts contain Bee Gees escaped. Dionne Warwick was the next to utilize the clause. Melanie and Don McLean (then working together) followed suit.

So, obviously, even when the appropriate group is contracted for a particular date at a reasonable price, there is the resultant headache when the performers fail to honor the contract.

The most recent development is that Dionne Warwick is again available for Homecoming. The price is $13,500. Also available are Ike and Tina Turner at a more attractive $11,000. The date for either concert is Oct. 22, which is Sunday night. The ideal night for the concert would be Saturday.

The concert for November, should all the variables remain constant, is Black Oak Arkansas on the 19th. A good date would ensure that the concert is a success because the group is contracted at the "bargain" price of $6,000.

However, the recurrent headache has appeared.

The signing of Black Oak Arkansas is dependent upon the success of tonight's concert. Should the attendance be good, then the Special Events Committee and the concert chairman will take positive action for Murray's next two concerts.

Rare Earth needs no build-up. Their sudden resurgence in popularity is indicated by the statistic that the band now demands $14,000 for a one-night stand. Despite the benefits of a recent top-sepping single, Rare Earth enters Murray following a resounding three night success in Chicago.

Accompanying Rare Earth is a group of top instrumentalists from Nashville. Harrison Anvil. The program is scheduled for 8 p.m. at the MSU fieldhouse with tickets on sale at the door.

Maybe the music scene at Murray will bring you to your feet this fall if the concert gets off the ground tonight.

Absentee ballots solve out-of-state problem

Each year about this time there arises questions in many students minds about voting. To a large number of students on college campuses, voting does present a problem. Absentee ballots can help solve this problem and, with this year being a presidential election year, students should make a special effort to obtaining an absentee ballot.

Applications for an absentee ballot can be obtained by an in-state or an out-of-state student at the County Court Clerk office in downtown Murray. After filling out the application the student must send it to his election board, which in the state of Kentucky is the County Court Clerk office in the county he lives in. The deadline for filing an application, in Kentucky, is Oct. 18.

Once the student receives the ballot he fills it out in the presence of a Notary Public or in the County Clerk's office. The completed ballot is then to be returned to the Election board in his home town.

According to the Calloway County Clerk's office, there is no push on campus for students to obtain ballots. However, there will be a new push on campus to obtain a registrar to work along with a special effort in that office to care for students who wish to register.

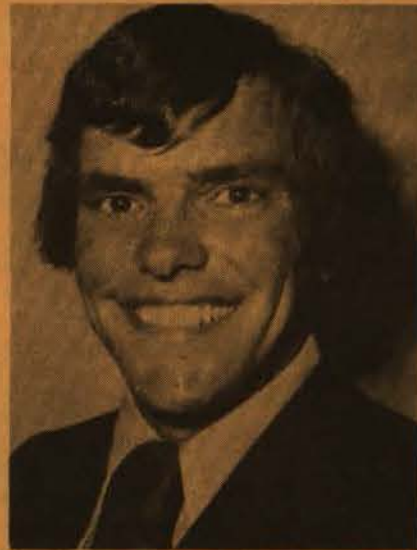

With a recent United States Supreme Court ruling, students will be able to register after residing 30 days in a state.

Many of the requirements have been dropped, and now college students who don't plan to return home after leaving Murray are able to register in Murray as a resident. Also, any student who does not receive any financial aid from his parents is able to register here.

CHANGES ON CAMPUS have given many old places a new look. The picture above shows progress on the new snacketeria, replacing the T-room which was encompassed in the enlarging of the University bookstore.

Courts under construction as tennis popularity grows

The sounds of lobs and the cries of love now heard on Murray State's tennis courts will be reechoing from just a block away where the new tennis court will be located, this fall.

The courts being constructed near Regents Hall will cost an estimated $118,000 according to Mr. Chad Stewart, chairman of health, physical education and recreation, and will be completed in October, weather permitting.

When completed, the eight regulation sized courts will have the following features: a natural amphitheatre for a spectator area with steps leading to the courts, sidewalks, drinking fountains, and the entire facility will be sufficiently well lit for optimum night playing.

There will be a color distinction between playing area and its background to facilitate the game and a greater distance will be provided between each court.

Campus facilities improved

Repairs, changes made in housing

Whether or not students in men's and women's residence halls on the MSU campus have noticed, quite a few repairs were made on their living quarters during the summer.

The improvements included:

- Complete interior paint jobs in Elizabeth and Hart Halls.
- Decoration of the television lounge in Clark Hall.
- Paint jobs on the needed areas in Richmond and Franklin Halls.
- Paint jobs on the lounges and study rooms in Franklin, Richmond and Springer Halls.

--Transformation of the bookstore into the general lounge in Hart Hall.

--Replacement of beds in Woods Hall.

--Repairing of paint job by contractors in Regents Hall.

--Interior and exterior paint jobs in the married students' apartments.

MSU denied operating permit

Board says plant pollutes air

Murray State University's permit to operate the coal-fired central heating plant has been denied by the Kentucky Air Pollution Commission.

The permit was denied in a recent letter from Ralph C. Pickard, executive secretary of the commission. The letter stated that the heating plant does not meet the minimum pollution standards set by Kentucky statutes.

Dr. Thomas B. Hogancamp, vice president of administrative affairs at Murray State, stated: "We do not feel that this is an edict to force us to cease operation of the heating plant."

According to Orrin Bickel, director of the physical plant, no tests have been conducted by either the University or the state to determine the emission levels of the heating plant.

Speech and hearing seeks federal grant

The completion date for a new speech and hearing complex at M.S.U. is September, 1974, according to Dr. John Bartholomy, chairman of the department of special education. The firm of Gresham and Kerr of Paducah has been chosen to construct the complex and Patrick Kerr will be the architect.

Funds for construction of the facility will come from a $619,904.59 grant from the department of Health, Education and Welfare. The grant must still be approved by several organizations.

When completed, the facility will include the divisions of mental retardation, reading, and speech and hearing.

Dr. Hogancamp and Mr. Bickel stated that consulting engineers have been studying the heating system hoping to increase the efficiency of its operation.

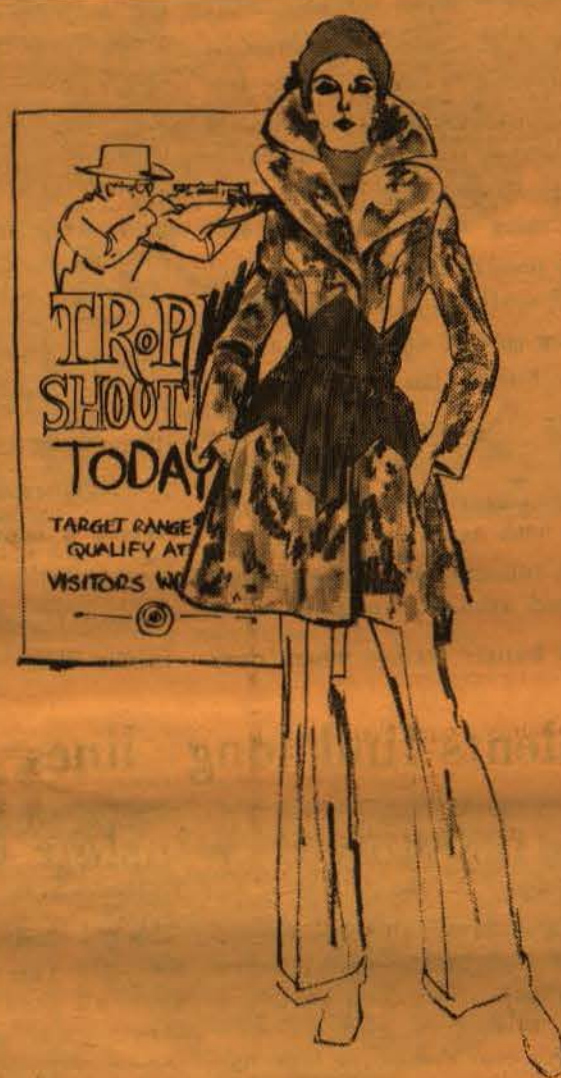

"The age and type of our coal boilers are such that it is not practical to convert them for gas consumption, and even so, no gas supply is available in West Kentucky for conversion to this type at this time," Bickel stated.

A modern facility which would have met the air pollution standards as well as the University's heating and cooling needs was proposed in 1970. Progress on the facility was halted in May, 1971 due to a lack of funds. The new facility would have been located in the southeast corner of what is now Cutchin Stadium.

The present heating plant consists of two coal-fired boilers and one gas-fired boiler. The coal-fired boilers, installed in 1950, are used to heat many of the older buildings on campus. The gas-fired boiler, installed in 1971, is used to supply hot water.

Each year more than 4,500 tons of coal are burned with a peak of 600 to 700 tons being burned per month in the winter.

Student magazine "Guidepost" helpful to incoming Freshmen

The Student Government is to be commended for the work they did this summer to aid Freshmen and upperclassmen during registration. In the past students were presented with a bombardment of literature from the various town merchants and organizations on campus. This was not completely abolished but for the first time students were presented with a detailed magazine that could answer almost any question from where to bank those few remaining funds after registration to how to occupy those spare moments.

The booklet was put together with the incoming student in mind and tried to present the Murray campus life as it really is. It pointed out the disadvantages of not having access to a car, but did list a number of interesting things to do for those who have to "hoof it." In an effort to do this the magazine acquainted the student with activities such as; art exhibits, concerts, plays, the student union and athletic events.

When hunger strikes where does one eat is always the question. This was taken care of very effectively in "Guidepost" as popular places to eat were rated as to type of menu and prices to fit the pocket book.

For the many activities during the school year students are always in a dilemma as to what to wear. Buy something new, always seems to be the answer, and the new student magazine pointed out places to shop for the coed and well-dressed man.

In addition the students were provided with a tour map round the town with stopping places ranging from arts and crafts, and dairy products to laundry and dry cleaning.

Once again the Student Government should be praised for their fine efforts in putting a magazine of this type together. For those who did not receive a copy during registration, "Guidepost" is available at the Student Government office located in the SUB.

Students find long lines, walks, locked doors at Winslow Cafeteria

As school started this fall, we are again puzzled by the school policy toward meals, cafeteria style. Many students arrived on campus even earlier this year due to the fact that registration began on Saturday. This accentuated the problem of finding a suitable place for nutritious meals. With Winslow Cafeteria not opening its doors for students until the first day of classes on Wednesday, this left many people with the problem of eating well for four days during registration.

The cafeteria, as well as accepting meal tickets during the regular term also sells meals on a cash basis. Would this not also be feasible for the short term before the commencement of classes? The added expense of having the staff report four days early could be deferred by the number of students who would be willing to partake of the offerings at the cafeteria. Even a reduced number of lines would aid many students with limited funds and a lack of transportation to Murray restaurants.

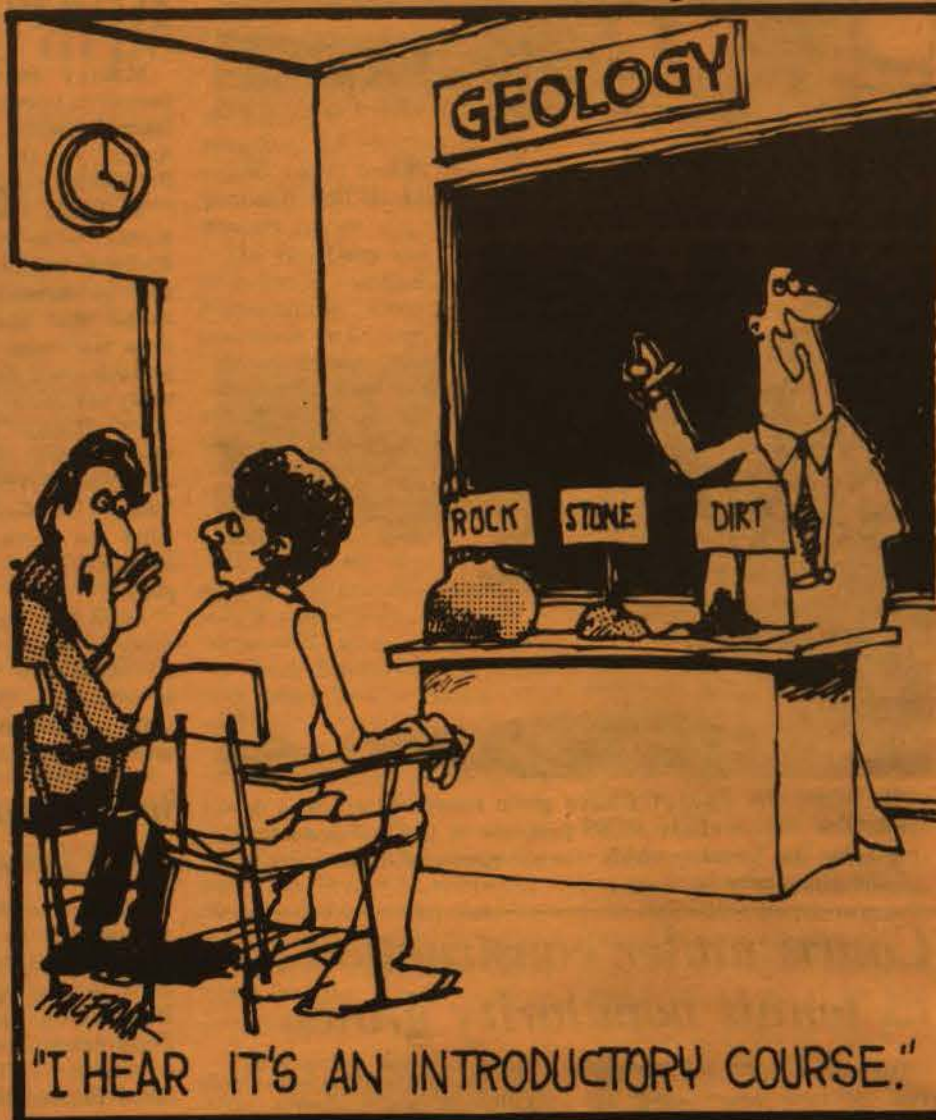

Another problem brought to the fore by the first day of cafeteria business was the problem of waiting in line to be served. On Wednesday, the lines wound outside of the building and onto the sidewalk. At lunchtime, some students complained of waits of thirty minutes and some waited fifty minutes for their dinner. The problem was only accentuated by the girls from Ordway and Woods Halls who were left with the walk to Winslow Cafeteria after the closing of the meal lines in the SUB. This problem was reduced after all four lines were opened. Why could these lines not be opened concurrently with the opening of the cafeteria? Students can help keep the lines flowing smoothly by trying, if at all possible, to avoid the most crowded times.

Seemingly, if the cafeteria is indeed maintained as a service to students and if freshmen are to be required to buy meal tickets, the university should strive to better meet the needs of the students utilizing the food services division.

Refrigerator fee questioned

Dear Editor,

On the first day that I came back to MSU I read on the wall of my dorm a notice put forth by the Board of Regents. The notice stated that the Board had voted to charge each student in the dorm $5.00 for the use of portable refrigerators in their room.

As far as I know Murray State University has nothing whatsoever to do with renting refrigerators to students. They are rented by private businesses.

I do not wish to be critical of the University unduly, I merely wish to know what this $5.00 fee is being used for. If it is not being used for a purpose directly associated with the refrigerators themselves, then I feel this ruling is taking unfair advantage of the students who may not have extra money to hand over. Next we may find ourselves paying to take a shower or plug in a radio.

In the future, when the Board of Regents decides to assess an extra fee, they would be well advised to inform the students exactly where their money is going. If they don't, they may find it hard to collect.

Students were quite informal at registration and took advantage of any place to sit and fill out those seemingly endless repetitious cards, some like freshman Emily Belote, Murray, could not find a chair.

Registration

Fall 1972

The frantic mass confusion of registration prevailed again as students struggled to get the correct class cards by standing in line, only to discover in many cases that the class had been filled.

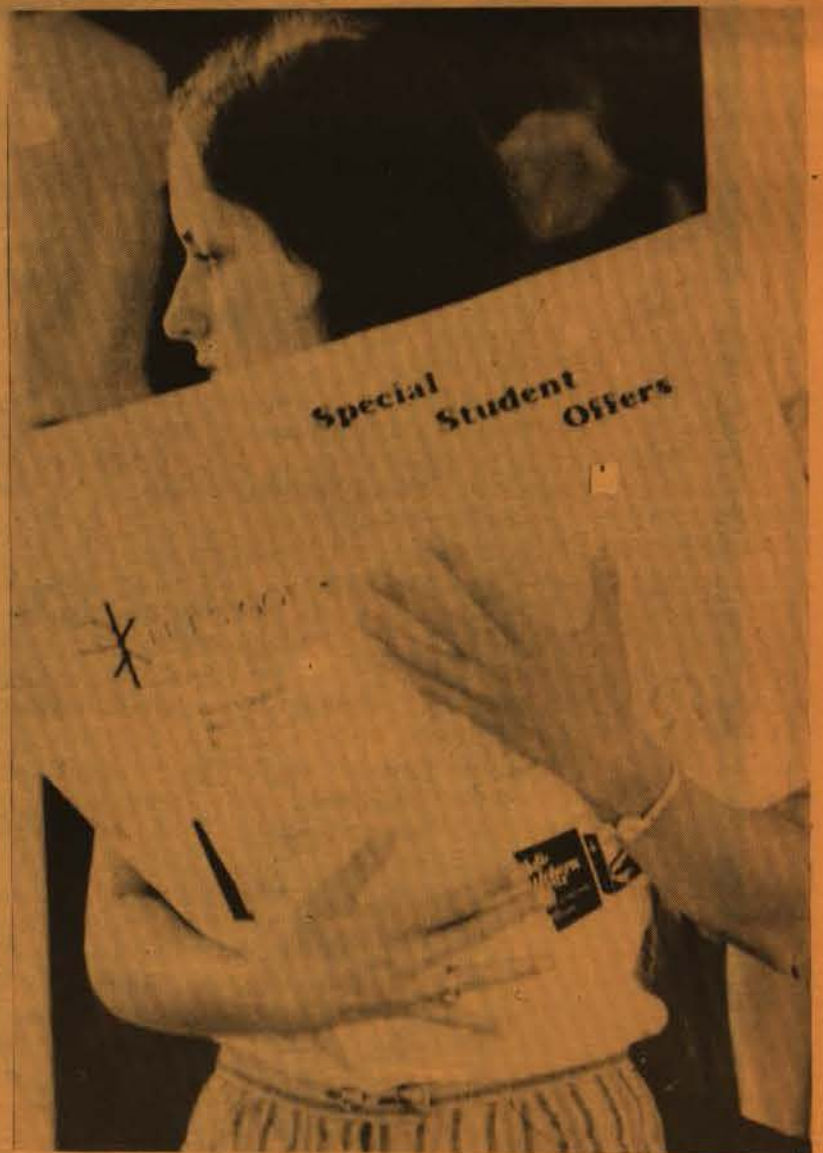

Reactions varied from "Oh" to "You've got to be kidding" when a helper tried to explain a procedure to confused students.

Future Student Teachers, Are You Ready?

When someone mentions "student teaching", what is your first reaction? Confusion, fear? Maybe you have even heard of someone who had to postpone student teaching because he had overlooked some requirements or deadlines.

This horrible experience can be eliminated by taking a few precautions. Seniors who plan to student teach next semester must (1) have taken the Cooperative English Test, (2) have been admitted to teach education, (3) have a 2.0 overall average, and (4) have a 2.0 average in English 101 and 102.

After the prospective student teacher has met these requirements, he should check with his adviser to make sure he has taken all the required courses for student teaching. Then he should fill out the student teaching forms and go to the Educational Services office, room 450 in the Education Bldg., for an interview with Dr. John Taylor, chairman, or with Mr. Wayne Williams.

"This is so we can determine whether the student has any personal problems that will determine where they will be placed," Williams explained.

"We don't know what they look like, if they can speak effectively, or where they could or could not go."

These interviews will be held through Sept. 29, the deadline for turning in the student teaching applications. Interviews are being held Monday through Friday, 9 a. m. to 11 a. m. and 1:30 p. m. to 3:30 p. m., and Tuesday and Thursday, 6 p. m. to 8 p. m.

After placement has been confirmed by the cooperating school, it is the student teacher's responsibility to visit the school and meet the principal and supervising teacher some time before the assignment begins. According to Williams, it is the general policy that a student cannot teach in the high school from which he graduated.

"It is very difficult for local people to be objective about the student teacher if they have known him as a younger person," said Williams.

In further preparation for student teaching, those assigned to a school outside the Jackson Purchase area and who will student teach the first eight weeks of the spring semester will have a chance to pre-register. Others will go through the regular registration procedure in January, being sure to pick up the student teaching class card.

So, you've made all the plans for it, what about student teaching itself? It can be a rewarding experience, but problems do come up.

According to Williams, those things most challenging in student teaching assignments are: the ability to control pupils in the classroom, the problem of adjusting to an adult faculty situation, and failure to plan and prepare each lesson very carefully.

Most student teachers are required to keep a professional notebook during student teaching. Also during this time, the student teaching coordinators from MSU will hold seminars with their respective groups, at a meeting place determined by the area. This provides the student teachers with the opportunity to discuss problems that confront them during the assignment.

Williams noted that problems most frequently discussed are pupil motivation, classroom control, relationships with other faculty members, and lesson planning.

"The best student teachers are the best planners," he said.

He added that haircuts and length of dresses sometimes pose a problem, but "We have very few problems."

Prospective student teachers for next semester will meet early in December to meet with their coordinators and receive assignments.

In the meantime, fill out the proper forms, go for the interview, and check your transcript to make sure you have completed the required courses. These steps could save you a semester.

Drama season to have variety of productions

Even when nothing else is going right, you can always count on the Theatre Arts Department to come up with top notch entertainment for your viewing pleasure and skimpy pocket. This year, as in the past, they have an outstanding list of productions for your enjoyment.

"A Flea In Her Ear," the first play of the year, will be presented on Homecoming weekend, Oct. 19, 20 and 21. For those of you not prone to partying this would be a nice way to end the day, or begin the evening.

On Nov. 9, a student-produced touring show will be presented. This production will be directed by Charlie Hall, senior drama student from Frankfort.

For those of you with children or who are just young at heart, the department's Children's Theatre will present "Androcles and the Lion" by Aurand Harris on Nov. 30 and Dec. 1 and 2.

Season tickets are on sale now from any member of the Sock and Buskin drama club or at the Theatre Arts office (767-4421).

REFINISHING BICYCLES in his spare time, Ray Hill draws upon his experience in working with bicycles when he was a paper boy. In his not-so-spare time he is a Murray city policeman and Murray State student who's interest is people.

Murray policeman Hill fixes bikes as pastime

"I got started as a paper boy. I had the largest route in Murray and was the main carrier for the Murray Democrat and later for the Ledger and Times."

Thus, policeman Ray Hill, explained the beginnings of his hobby of rebuilding old bicycles. In order to be a paper boy, he had to have a bicycle, and, since he came from a poor family, his bicycles were not new.

"I would buy a cheap one for the paper route and fix it up," Ray explained.

All this past experience in his younger days on the paper route lay dormant until recently when the 25-year-old Murray police officer was watching the bicycles go by in front of his house one day. He saw adults riding bicycles, some equipped with baby seats.

Thinking about the popular concern for ecology, the fact that many people ride bicycles for health reasons and for economy, and the fact that his home is near the University,

Ray decided to fix up a few bicycles.

"I enjoy working with tools, and since I don't make much of a profit, it's more of a hobby," Ray said.

He added that he has a wide range of customers, not primarily college students as might be expected. He sells the majority of repaired bicycles to local people. "Especially women," he interjected.

But bicycles are not his only interests. Education is a big thing -- an important thing -- to Ray Hill. This family man (he and his wife have three children, ages three months, one and a half years, and two and a half years) is taking nine hours here at Murray State. He is taking only Tuesday-Thursday classes, and because of changes in shifts he can arrange his days off so that he has to miss only two classes a semester.

The classes? English, speech, and Introduction to Law Enforcement.

After being out of high school

seven years, Ray explains his renewed interest in education this way, "When I got out of high school I thought I was as smart as I needed to be. I realize now that this is a changing world, and if I am going to keep up I will have to change with it."

As a full time Murray city policeman, Ray is concerned for people and is enthusiastic with sincerity when he says, "I love being a policeman."

He is taking college courses that will help him in his work, and plans to get an Associate Degree in Law Enforcement, which should take about three years.

"I'm studying public ideas of the police officer, and looking for changes to make myself a better officer," he said.

The young officer-student-bicycle-fixer is concerned with learning how to deal better with the public. He believes that in his lifetime, the police officer will become more respected and, "it will take an educated man to do the job."

All work - or all play ; students recall vacation

"How was your summer?" That seems to be the first question you ask or are asked the first few weeks after returning to the grind of campus life. The typical answers to such a question might be any one of the following; "fantastic," "lousy," "boring," or a simple shrug of the shoulders, which could mean practically anything.

But how many people reveal how the summer really was or what they actually did do? In order to learn exactly what some students did do over the summer "vacation," the reporter simply asked them. Here is what they said.

Linda Boyd, a junior from Murray, worked in Louisville at Stouffer's Inn (hotel) as a front desk cashier. Among the guest were the singing groups "Chicago" and "Sonny and Cher." Linda claims the most exciting thing about the summer was swimming one afternoon with Robert Lamm, one of the singers with "Chicago."

Jan Phipps, a senior from Paducah, when asked about her summer said, "I didn't do anything all summer--just went to bed at nine o'clock and got up at eight o'clock to dust furniture."

Steve Brown, a senior from St. Louis, worked on a construction crew and totaled car.

Lorna Tate, a sophomore from Paducah, when asked about her summer said, "I learned to parachute jump, got hijacked to Cuba, and was asked to be a counter-spy, walked to New York and back and swam to Brazil for the Banana Festival--you know, just an ordinary summer!"

Barbara Mitchell, a senior from Frankfort, had her first job this summer. According to Barbara, her duties consisted of, "typing graphs, xeroxing, answering phones--you know, all of the complicated step-and-fetch-it stuff."

Heather Kerr, a freshman from Evansville, "got up at one o'clock and went to bed at three o'clock. I sleep a lot."

Ruth Baxter, a junior from Owensboro, had a peculiar job for a girl. She worked as a draftsman, rather draftswomen, at a utilities company in Owensboro.

Gay McDaniel, a senior from Alamo, Tenn., worked at the Tennessee State Welfare office selling food stamps all summer.

"Student to manage small business. No selling. Short hours. $300-$600/month. Write INF, Box 508, Boulder, COLO 80302. Include a few personal details."

Americans well-liked by Jewish people

Freshman finds Israel friendly nation

By Gennie Goode
Assistant Feature Editor

If you had a chance to go anywhere in the world for two weeks, where would you choose? Ellen Wiese, a MSU freshman from Cincinnati, had just such a chance and she chose Israel.

Why Israel? Simply because she thought it would be "interesting."

Ellen is an art major and her grandmother gave her the trip for a graduation present. Her impressions of her venture are varied according to what she saw and the people she met.

"I guess I was most impressed by the friendliness of the people. They always made sure we were well taken care of."

"The people of Israel like all Americans because they believe America has tried to help them," Ellen said. They even have a John F. Kennedy Memorial Center in Jerusalem.

Ellen's trip began with a flight to New York, then on to Paris and Rome. "The security guards searched us thoroughly in Rome before we boarded the El Al airliner to Israel." The plane landed in Tel Aviv at Lod Airport.

"It's really scary now that I think of it—that airport was bombed not long after we came back," Ellen exclaimed.

Accompanied by her grandmother, Ellen visited a number of cities in Israel, including the old city of Jerusalem, Lazarus' tomb in Bethany, the Dead Sea and the Sea of Galilee, Nazareth, Haifa, the diamond center of Israel and the western world, and Masada, the scene of a mass suicide by 960 people who chose to die rather than be taken captive by the Romans.

Transportation in Israel surprised Ellen. She expected to see cars; instead she saw very few automobiles and many donkeys, carts, and camels.

"The land seems to be all waste land," said Ellen. Most of it is deserts where the temperature is a warm 80 degrees in the winter and a sizzling 125 degrees in the summer months.

The religious holy days seemed quite confusing to Ellen. "There are actually three holy days each week, Sunday for the Christians, Saturday for the Jews, and Friday for the Moslems." Ellen was surprised that the people, even though the majority are Jewish, believe in the Bible and Jesus Christ. "It's hard not to believe when you're actually there and you can see where he walked."

There were lots of peddlers who approached tourists on the streets, and many were orphaned children. "The prices of things, especially luxury items, surprised me," she commented.

The average car cost about $12,000 in Israel and gasoline is at least $1.00 a gallon."

Ellen's impression of the food was rather negative. "It all tasted kind of bland—they don't use much seasoning, and they fry everything in olive oil."

The trip to Israel for Ellen Wiese was an experience she says she will never forget.

'Try it, you'll like it' -- freshmen disagree

Maybe you could call it "freshman shock" or "Murray blues." Whatever the terminology, "it" is making the rounds this year as in years past during the fall semester.

Symptoms of this malady include disappointment in seeing a dorm room for the first time, panic during registration, one roommate moving out and leaving the other stuck with a private room, and in extreme cases, the packing up of suitcases to go back home.

A typically disappointed freshman might be Judy Bayless of Princeton. Her reaction to Murray State was, "I don't like it." She didn't know who her adviser was, was not familiar with the way to arrange classes, and did not know what to do during registration.

"There were all those signs and you don't know what to do unless someone has already told you about registration," she said.

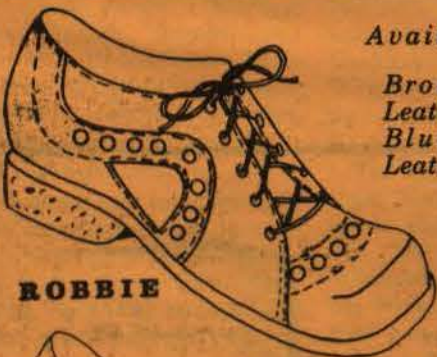

But "freshman shock" doesn't stop with moving in and registration. As Judy put it, "There are too many people in the classes."

"I know teachers don't have time to give personal help, but they don't seem to even care," she lamented.

Judy granted that she may like MSU after weathering the transition from high school to a university. Right now she laughingly says, "It's different—I don't know if that's good or bad."

The free university

For those students who hold a responsibility for their own education and who seek out new ways to gain knowledge and skills, this regular feature of the Murray State News attempts to provide information about pamphlets, extra-curricular activities, projects, and special classes.

Comments, suggestions, and information about other such activities are welcomed by the NEWS. Address contributions to the Murray State News, Campus Life section, Wilson Hall, or call 762-4468.

Astrology course

The second six-week astrology course of the semester is now being organized by Dr. Betty Hinton. Approved by the Kentucky Academy of Astrology, the course is designed to provide the student with the basics in natal astrology.

Upon completion of the course, the student will have an understanding of how to cast and read a horoscope.

"This course provides a background for the student; how far you take it is up to each person," explained Dr. Hinton.

"Astrology as a science is always based on probability," she continued. "It is not predictive. We do not determine that on a certain day at a certain time you'll inherit a million dollars--all we can say is that the indications are such that you may receive monetary gains."

The course, now being set will meet Wednesday from 3:00 to 5:30, from September 27 through November 1. It will be taught in Dr. Hinton's studio at 701 S. 16th. The cost is $30 for the six week course.

Interested persons should contact Dr. Hinton at 753-6869. Those who have a schedule conflict should indicate what times are preferable; it is possible that another class can be organized at their convenience.

Drama buffs

Students interested in participating in the school's dramatic productions are welcome; being a drama major is not required. Although the auditions for the first play, "A Flea in her Ear" were held this week, students may still volunteer to help with the backstage segment of the production. Contact Mr. Schempp, office 107 in the Fine Arts building to volunteer.

The next auditions are scheduled for Wednesday, September 20 at 4:00 p.m. in the new University Theatre, first floor of the new Fine Arts building. "The Marriage Proposal" a one-act play by Anton Chekov, will be performed in a touring show to the area secondary schools. The director will be Charlie Hall, a senior from Frankfort.

Other University Theater productions planned for this year include "The Taming of the Shrew", "Androcles and the Lion", and "Rosencrantz and Guildenstern"

Jewelry class

The first lesson in the series of free jewelry classes offered by Jewel Art begin this week. The lessons, which last about thirty minutes, are designed to teach such skills as stringing, crocheting, and antiquing jewelry.

People who are interested may meet with the class either on Tuesday afternoons at 2:00 with Bernie Hobbs, or Thursday nights at 7:00 with Virginia Broswell. The meetings are held at 1117 Arcadia, next door to the Radio Shack. Call 753-7701 for more information.

Professional music fraternity to give anniversary recital

The Gamma Delta Chapter of Phi Mu Alpha Sinfonia, the professional fraternity for men in music, will launch its 35th Anniversary on the Murray State Campus, with an admission-free, joint faculty recital.

The recital is scheduled for 8 p.m., Tuesday, Sept. 19, in the Farrell Recital Hall of the Price Doyle Fine Arts Center.

Performing on viola will be Dr. Josiah Darnall, graduate advisor for the music department. Accompanying Dr. Darnall on piano and harpsichord and also performing a piano solo will be Mrs. Marie Taylor, piano instructor at Murray State.

The recital will open with "Sonata No. 5 for Viola and Harpsichord" by Vivaldi and performed by Dr. Darnall with accompaniment by Mrs. Taylor on harpsichord.

Mrs. Taylor will then perform "Sonata No. 2 for piano" by Prokofiev; followed by Dr. Darnall and Mrs. Taylor performing "Three Transcriptions for Viola and Piano" by L. G. Simon, and "Hymn and Fuguing Tune No. 7 for Viola and Piano" by Henry Cowell.

Religious groups start again

The religious organizations on campus are really getting off to a moving start this fall by planning several special programs for the students, in addition to their regularly-scheduled weekly programs.

Baptist Student Union members are planning an annual fall retreat to be held at Jonathan Creek on September 22 and 23. The annual state convention for the Baptist Student Union is also being scheduled; it will be held from October 20 through October 22 at Bowling Green.

The week-by-week activities at the Baptist Student Center include vesper services each Monday and Thursday evenings at 6:30 and choir rehearsal on Wednesday night at 5:00. Everyone is welcome to attend all these events. Members of the choir are chosen through auditions, according to the director of the center, Lloyd Cornell.

Monthly speakers are the featured programs for the Christian Student Center, or as it is better known, His House. Herb McCoy, from Champagne, Illinois—a card shark detector—spoke Wednesday, September 13, in the sub ballroom as this month's special guest.

His House also schedules weekly programs for students' interests. Fellowship hour is held on Wednesday evenings at 6:30, while the regular workshop hour on Sunday morning is at 9:45.

United Campus Ministry has special programs each week at a regularly scheduled time. On Wednesdays at 12:30 p.m., a luncheon is held in the UCM building. A different speaker is chosen each week to highlight the luncheon and may be chosen from students, faculty members, or members of the community. An admission of 75 cents is charged.

Then, on Saturday nights, special programs are also planned at the UCM. Testimonies and live entertainment make up the informal program held in the Nowhere Coffeehouse from 8 to 12 midnight. A 50 cents cover charge is collected; in return frequenters of the Coffeehouse may consume all the coffee, tea and goodies they want.

The "coming attractions" and the regular programs reflect that MSU's religious programs are geared around the student. It was emphasized that these programs can succeed only through student involvement.

German Dept. adds enrollment

The German classes at MSU have had a boom in enrollment. Dr. Eberhard Schorrig, chairman of the German languages department, says that enrollment has increased 80 per cent over the fall semester 1971.

The number of graduate students increased from three in fall 1971 to nine this semester. Dr. Schorrig said the German department is understaffed to handle the large number of students.

Dr. Milton Grimes has joined the German department at MSU. This semester Dr. Grimes is teaching 19th and 20th century German. He received his bachelor's degree from the University of Hawaii, his masters degree from Murray State University and his doctorate degree from Vanderbilt University.

BIKE RACKS OVERFLOW, so John Ellis of Morganfield takes a chance on leaving his bike locked in the open. More bike racks will be installed to take care of the overflow bicycles.

Bicycle popularity creates an added parking problem

Bicycles are rapidly becoming recognized by many college students as an economical form of transportation, recreation and exercise. As a result, "bicyclemania" has infested college campuses across the country, including Murray, and one of the problems that has come with the situation is a need for safe storage of bicycles.

It became apparent to all last spring that the surge toward two-wheelers was on at Murray. So, over the summer months, the university scattered 180, greatly needed, bicycle racks near most of the buildings on campus, and maintenance department officials say about 50 more will be installed in the very near future.

Jogging classes set for faculty

A faculty jogging program will begin next week, according to Dr. Jack Baker in the physical education department.

Two classes will be offered this semester. One class will meet on Monday, Wednesday and Friday at 11:30; no credit is given. The other class will meet on Tuesday and Thursday at 11:30 and participants may enroll for credit in the course, PE133.

Security Dept. relocates office

Over the summer the security department moved its offices to the edge of campus, behind the baseball field, and has developed a new function as a university information center.

From the south end of the Student Union Building the campus police have relocated in the Old Ham Radio Shack. "We had to have more room and this (building) provided us with the extra office and parking space we needed," stated Orin Price, director of security.

"At the old location, if a student needed information or had a fine to pay, he was unable to legally park near the office," Price explained as another reason for the move but, "Now we are close enough that many students can walk."

Now the offices of the campus police will also function on weekends and during the week as an information center for the university.

Science profs have research findings printed

The results of two research programs conducted at MURRAY STATE UNIVERSITY have been published in scientific journals.

"Gas Chromatographic Analysis of Halogenated Quinoline Compounds" prepared by Dr. Marshall Gordon and Paul C. Goodley was published in the August edition of the Journal of Chromatographic Science.

For forensic competition

Director organizes recruits

The Director of Forensics at Murray State University is smiling about something.

The director is Mr. Raymond Carter, assistant professor in the speech department, and his duties include directing debate, oral interpretation, and rhetorical analysis: all included under the name of "forensics."

Just as a football coach's eyes gleam when he recruits an all-state high school star to Murray, Mr. Carter puts on a grin from ear to ear, because he has done a little recruiting himself.

Some of the names to be reckoned with when MSU's forensic forces take the floor in the future are Russell, Darnell, and Paschall. The rhetorical wizardry in debate will be supplied by Steve Darnell of Cadiz and Keith Russell of Belleville, Ill. Both were outstanding debaters in high school and are attending Murray on debate scholarships.

Perhaps the most pleasant surprise of all is wrapped up in Katie Ann Paschall of Paris, Tenn. Miss Paschall is quite special to Mr. Carter because she happens to be the Tennessee high school State Champion in Oratory. All of these talented freshmen promise to keep their director smiling for another four years, at the very least.

And yet, Mr. Carter is not completely happy. With all that young talent just waiting to bud, one would think that the loquacious forensic coach would be content to sit back and collect the trophies.

However, Mr. Carter feels that there are some other potential forensic stars on campus whose abilities simply need an outlet.

"In the past, some of the finest debaters from Murray were students who were not even speech majors," claims the professor, "and I want to make it clear that forensics is open to all the Murray students."

Giving added eloquence to Murray's rhetorical fortunes, were Mark Madison, Mike Hobart, Jim Carr and Tom Cooley. These men comprised the team that was no less than National Champions in Discussion at last April's Delta Sigma Rho-Tau Kappa Alpha Student Congress in Albuquerque. Only Carr and Cooley return to Murray as undergraduates.

So as one can see, this highly respected director of forensics has the veterans and he has the rookies. But nowhere are a plethora of positions to be filled and room for a lot more happiness.

It is for this reason that Mr. Carter wants to make it known that his office is in Room 319, Wilson Hall, and he wants to meet you if you are the least bit interested in some competition in any of the fields of speech.

WKMS granted $15,000; two positions funded

WKMS, Murray State's stereo FM radio station, was awarded a $15,000 Federal grant for the 1972-73 school year, according to Dr. Ray Mofield, chairman of the department of communications.

Funded by the money are two new staff positions. A programming change has also resulted.

Operating hours have been increased to 12 hours each day. The station has an expanded cultural and educational program. The broadcasting will reach the community as well as the campus.

WKMS now stays on 365 days a year. September 1 marked the beginning of the station's National live network service, from the National Public Radio.

Steve Ziegler, Covington, has been named full-time station manager. He has held various positions with radio and television stations in the Cincinnati area.

Jay Landers, a 1972 graduate of MSU, is now fulltime program director for the station.

According to Landers, programming is more difficult and causes a distinct change in the station's noon to midnight schedule. Also, staff additions at the radio station are now auditioned for. In the past students worked there for their lab.

STORY

A WINDOW DISPLAY promoting Murray State University and the Fiftieth Anniversary has become a permanent fixture at the Louisville Exposition Center. Governor Ford is shown with Mancil Vinson, director of alumni affairs, who is explaining the purpose of the display.

Permanent space allotted

MSU displays booth at state fair

Mancil Vinson, Director of Alumni Affairs at MSU has helped to provide the university with a display booth at the Exposition Center in Louisville. The event took place during the recent Kentucky State Fair.

Mr. Vinson sent a letter to Mr. George Meagher of the fair, who represents the fair board. Notified by the board that the request had been approved, the Alumni office at Murray started preparing the booth. M. C. Garrott, director of public relations provided the art work for the booth.

However, the content of Mr. Vinson's letter appeared to motivate the request. A section of the letter stated, "We believe a Murray State display in the space to which we refer will not only be appreciated by the central Kentuckians we serve, but also by the west Kentuckians who visit your facility." Mr. Vinson also added that the display would be of great value since one of the top sources of students at Murray is Jefferson County.

The display will remain in the Exposition Center the entire year, and will be updated annually.

Economics dept. offers new government area

One of the new areas now being offered by the department of economics at MSU is Governmental Affairs and Public Administration. This degree program is a cross between business and social science designed to prepare students for posts in management of local, state, and federal governmental offices. The program prepares the student who wishes to enter the area or urban or public administration or graduate school.

paid the fee. Payment should be made at the Business Office in the Administration Building, and presentation of the receipt to locker room attendants will be necessary.

counting, sociology, and finance," stated Giles. "It will give the student a well rounded background in government and business administration."

MSU is the only one of the state supported colleges and universities to offer a program of this type.

Requirement sheets are ready for interested students to pick up in the economics office on the 3rd floor of the Business Building.

Decatur, Ill.; Charles W. Henry and James J. Bryant, both of Murray; Gordon S. Fitzgerald, Whitesville; and James E. McDowell, Marion. Not shown are two other cadets, Michael W. Morgan, Murray, and George H. Smiley III, Paducah, who earned recognition in the ceremony.

For summer camp performance

MSU ROTC cadets honored

Sixteen ROTC cadets were honored in ceremonies on campus last week for their superior performance at summer camp.

Dr. Harry M. Sparks, Murray State president, assisted by Col. Palmer Peterson, professor of military science, made the awards. Guests in attendance were; Norman O. Lane, dean of student affairs, Dr. William Read, vice-president of academic affairs and dean of the faculties, and Dr. Walter E. Blackburn, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences.

Eight of those honored went through either one or two voluntary programs identical to those offered to regular army personnel. These are the Airborne School and the Ranger School.

Murray State sent five men, the third largest number in the country, to Ranger School. It was also the only school with more than one cadet in Ranger School to have all of its cadets finish the program. A total of 452 ROTC cadets began Ranger School and 366 completed the program.

Those attending both the Ranger and Airborne Schools were; James J. Bryant and Charles W. Henry, Murray; Gordon S. Fitzgerald, Whitesville; and Jack R. Gordon, Decatur, Ill. They earned the Parachutist Wings and the Ranger Tab, both regular army awards.

Attending Ranger School and earning the Ranger Tab was William Byars, Madisonville. James E. McDowell, Marion, Michael W. Morgan, Murray, and George H. Smiley III, Paducah, completed Airborne School and earned their Parachutists' Wings.

Cadet Byars also won the Merrill Award for proficiency in map reading and orienteering during Ranger School.

All organizations--sororities, fraternities and clubs--intending to enter floats or displays in Homecoming should contact Glyn Gordon, Homecoming chairman, in the Student Government office. Entries should make this month and by October 1.

Record 575 vets at MSU; all urged to use benefits

J. D. Rayburn of the Veterans Affairs office here at Murray State announced this week that more veterans are taking advantage of the G.I. Bill than any previous semester to date. There are approximately 575 veterans on the Murray campus this semester.

Rayburn reminds that any veteran that did not register with his office during registration should contact them immediately. Failure to do so will slow the veteran's monthly allotment check. The G.I. Bill states that a veteran must enroll with the Veterans Affairs office each semester he attends school. The office on the Murray campus is 450E in the Education Building.

Rayburn also advised that any veteran who will graduate in December should notify his office as soon as possible.

If you are a veteran and have any questions on the G.I. Bill, or have a problem as the semester progresses, check with the Veterans Affairs office here on campus or use the toll free number in Louisville 1-800-292-4562.

Mayfield senior wins scholarship

Michael R. Kennedy, a senior from Mayfield, is one of 20 college and university students from throughout the country named as recipients of the Gildea Scholarships in Conservation for 1972-73.

A 20-year-old agronomy major, Kennedy was one of two students from the South Central Region to be selected for a scholarship in the program carried out under the supervision of the Soil Conservation Society of America. His award is for $500.

Funds for the scholarship program are provided by Mr. and Mrs. Ray Y. Gildea of Columbus, Miss. The objective of the scholarship program is to encourage qualified students to complete their undergraduate training and pursue a career in conservation. Since its founding eight years ago, the scholarship program has provided about $66,000 in awards to 142 students.

New ag. degree will be offered

The Agriculture Department reports an increase of 27 in incoming freshman this year, partially due to the fact that three more classes and a new two year curriculum in Horticulture are being offered. The new program leads to a degree of Associate of Science with specification in Horticulture.

This past summer the University's Agriculture department took the school's dairy herd to the Kentucky State Fair. This was the first time in twenty years that a herd from Murray had been entered in competition. The prize was $350.

GOVERNOR Wendall Ford crowns Nancy Coplen queen at the annual Mountain Laurel Festival.

Mountain Laurel title goes to Nancy Coplen

Nancy Coplen, a junior from Mayfield, was crowned Kentucky Mountain Laurel Queen by Gov. Ford at the annual festival last May in Pineville.

Miss Coplen, who represented MSU, was selected from a field of 21 girls representing colleges, junior colleges and universities in Kentucky.

The contestants were judged on the basis of their personality, poise and beauty.

There were no swimsuit or talent competitions, rather the girls were assigned to live with a family in the community for four days and were observed by judges whose identities were unknown.

As part of the tradition that goes with the gaiety, the Queen's escort is thrown into the pond after her crowning. So while Nancy got flowers, her escort, Dave Curtis, Student Government President, got wet.

Largest summer class graduates

Dr. Dero G. Downing, president of Western Kentucky University, addressed the largest summer graduating class in the history of Murray State University during the summer commencement exercises on August 4th.

Downing reminded the 571 graduates, "Today has been built upon the accomplishments of yesterday and what we do today will shape our tomorrow." Based on a theme of "Change and Tradition" his address placed the blame of many of our problems on an accelerated rate of change in the order of society.

Dr. Harry M. Sparks conferred honorary doctoral degrees upon Downing and two retired educators-Theodore A. Sanford, who served 25 years as the commissioner of the Kentucky High School Athletic Association, and J. Matt Sparkman, former vice president for student affairs at Murray State.

Col. Palmer A. Peterson, professor of military science, also commissioned two ROTC graduates as second lieutenants in the U.S. Army during the graduation exercises.

Two students in the summer graduating class were listed as Summa Cum Laude with four-year academic averages of 3.8 or better of a possible 4.0. They were: Annette Trevathan, Paducah, and Margaret Hall Sims, Murray.

Six other members of the class graduated Magna Cum Laude (3.6 to 3.79) and 13 Cum Laude (3.3 to 3.59). Magna Cum Laude graduates were: Patricia F. Bell, Mayfield; Mary Gail Corder, Paducah; Malinda Porter Eades, Henderson; Margaret Collen Hester, Louisville; Clifford Wayne Ritchie, Paducah; and Bob Eugene Wetherington, Grand Chain, Ill.

Cum Laude graduates were: Susan C. Barrett, Calvert City; Gladys Hammond Blackford, Mayfield; Audrey Richardson

UCM offers Coffeehouse, Wed. luncheon

"Students, become cosmic conscious--not Murray conscious, not Kentucky conscious, not even United State conscious--but COSMIC conscious. Find challenge in those who differ from you," charged Dr. Samuel R. Dodson, chairman of the executive committee of United Campus Ministry, in his address at the first UCM luncheon of the semester Wednesday, September 6.

In his address "Student and His World," Dr. Dodson, minister at the United Methodist Church in Murray, stressed the need in international exchange in learning.

Having worked in Athens, Greece, Dr. Dodson expressed his idea of the United States' aid to Greece. "Our government should not be supporting the police-dominated dictatorship present in Greece today with their aid. I am overjoyed in McGovern's stand to withdraw aid from Greece," the minister stated.

The basement of the UCM building is the scene each Wednesday at 12:30 p.m. of such addresses. The weekly luncheon is always accompanied by a speaker, drawn from the student body, faculty, or community. The luncheon, which is open to all students and faculty members, concludes each session in time to allow students to get to 1:30 classes.

In addition to the Wednesday luncheons, the UCM also schedules the Nowhere Coffeehouse each Saturday night from 8 til 12. Live entertainment and testimonies are a part of the Saturday informal program.

Rock Festival draws mixed emotions

By ALAN RAIDT
Photography Editor

"Judy from Evansville, please come to the right of the stage. The couple who rode with you have your pills."

"We finally have some sound equipment--we should have some music up here before too long--"

The crowd waited and grew until there were some 275,000 music fans gathered on the 900 acre Bull Island. The Labor Day weekend "Erie Canal 'Soda' Pop Festival" had gotten off to something less than a booming start.

When the music started some twelve hours late, the crowd learned that Joe Cocker and Black Sabbath, two of the leading groups scheduled to perform, refused to play when they saw the size of the crowd.

The concert was scheduled to start September 2 at noon. Alexander and Duncan, the festival promoters, had expected about 30,000 people. As the weekend progressed, the fans found that they were provided three portable toilets (one per 100,000 people), little water, and less food.

"It got too big too fast" Alexander explained.

One thing the festival was not lacking, however, was the presence of drugs. Salesmen were everywhere, advertising their wares like popcorn salesmen at a ball game. Among a host of others, the most popular were LSD, mescaline, MDA, cocaine and heroin (which ran short around Monday).

Among the groups who did appear were Black Oak Arkansas, Foghat (Savoy Brown), Flash, Amboy Dukes and Albert King. These appearances sparked quite a bit of life into the audience, so what was lacking in comfort was replaced by hopeful enthusiasm.

RUMMAGING AROUND WAITING FOR THE MUSIC, the crowd at the Erie Canal

Breds fall baseball; six games scheduled

By JOHN ERARDI
Special Writer

For those Murray baseball buffs who can't make it to the National League Playoffs in Cincinnati, don't lose hope for viewing some fall baseball. And you won't even have to leave Murray.

On October 7, the same day that the Reds square off against the Pittsburgh Pirates in Riverfront Stadium, the Murray State 9 will class with Austin Peay in a twinbill at Reagan Field.

Coach Johnny Reagan announces that the Thoroughbreds will have a six game fall schedule this year, consisting of three doubleheaders. On October 14, the 'Breds journey to Western Ky. Univ. and then conclude the brief campaign at Middle Tenn. Univ. on October 20.

A quick look at the NCAA baseball statistics for last season reveal that three Racers were among the nation's leading batsmen. In RBI's, Ron Pryer finished 5th with a 1.2 per game average. Pryer also had the 36th highest batting average as he pounded out 45 hits for a sizzling .388 average. Steve Barrett rapped 50 hits in 13 more at bats than Pryer and finished with an equivalent .388 average. Barrett also banged 14 doubles for a .37 per game average which placed him no. 4 in the nation. In triples, it was Steve Coulson's 6 and .16 per game average which earned him the no. 10 spot in the nation. Barrett and Coulson return from last season's 26-13 club.

Coach Reagan and Asst. Coach Hawk Taylor have been busy this week sifting through the large number of aspirants that showed up for the fall tryout camp. It seems as though everybody wants to play for a winner.

MURRAY STATE'S cross country team is one of the strongest in recent years. The harriers will begin their season tomorrow at Jefferson City, Mo. Members of the team,

MSU harriers to run tomorrow

By MARK BAUMAN
Sports Writer

Murray State's cross country team left for Jefferson City, Mo. this morning for their first meet of the 1972 season.

The Racers will be running against the host school, Lincoln University, and Southern Illinois University (Edwardsville) tomorrow.

SIU (Edwardsville) was not one of the strongest teams the Racers ran against last season, but they were young and inexperienced. Last year Coach Bill Cornell's team placed their first four runners before Edwardsville's first man crossed the finish line.

Murray did not run Lincoln in cross country last season, but Cornell believes they will be a well balanced team.

Murray has only two men returning from last seasons second place team finish in the Ohio Valley Conference.

The success of the Racers' cross country team depends quite heavily on four new runners at Murray. They are junior college transfer Sam Torres, first year runner Stan Thompson, and freshmen Rod Harvey and Randy Norris.

Torres, from Flint, Michigan, was second in the National Junior College Cross Country Championships last fall and won the National Junior college three-mile on the track last spring.

Norris is from Evansville and Harvey hails from Montrose, Ill. Both lack college experience running but had high school bests of 9:24 in the two-mile on the track.

Thompson has three years of eligibility remaining but has never run competitively before. However, he has looked strong in practice so far.

Coach Cornell has been impressed with the progress of his new runners the first three weeks of practice and seems confident that they will all make it through the tough season.

The race tomorrow will be four miles, giving the young Racers time to get into shape before the six-mile races later in the season.

Carr Health Building pool now in operation for students

By STEVE GIVENS
Sports Writer

Bring out the scuba gear, swimtrunks, and fins because the Carr Health Building pool is now operating.

"The pool opened Wednesday morning after a series of mechanical problems which started last spring. It was drained and cleaned routinely following band week, but an inch layer of sand was present on the bottom of the pool," stated Chad Stewart, chairman of the Dept. of Health, Recreation, and Physical Education at MSU.

When the sand was removed, it was discovered that the chlorinator was broken and clogged. After the parts arrived, following a long delay, the water failed to mix properly with the chlorine.

"Regardless of the rust-green color of the water in the pool, it

Interested students (if they hurry) can still enroll in the first series of classes at the

Murray State Judo Club. Classes began last week, but in-Separate classes are held for juniors (ages 6 to 16), men, and women, with Brenda Falls leading the women.

A ten dollar fee is collected yearly for the classes. Brenda and Bill Falls trained at the

The following schedule for pool use was released:

"The happy I am when I'm straight is more beautiful than the happy I seemed to be when I was stoned."

The girl in the picture is named Chris. For over a year, she was on amphetamines, powerful drugs known as "speed." This is how she describes it:

"I think 'speed' is a lot worse than heroin. Kids have got to know about it, because they can fall so easily into taking it through the diet pill hassle, or needing something to help them study. You know, that's crazy. Because the combination of amphetamines and no sleep just blows your memory completely. There are whole sections of my life which I just can't remember. It got to be just 'do a little more, do a little more,' until that was all there was. And the 'crashing' . . . sometimes the 'crashing' is just really awful!

"For me to stop taking it, I had to feel that people were caring. And they were. I was really lucky. I was very close to two people that were really into amphetamines very deeply, and I loved them a lot. But as far as they were concerned, the only thing that they had was the 'meth,' and that was their life. And they're both dead now."

"Dexies," "bennies," "meth" are all called "speed" these days. And people who know "speed" know "speed" kills!

Test your sports knowledge!

For all you sports enthusiasts, here's a little sports trivia quiz to test your knowledge. A score of 8-10 is excellent; 5-7 is good; 2-4 is a bit poor; and 0 or 1 means you shouldn't have taken it in the first place.

1.) True or False - Murray State beat the University of Louisville 105-0 in a football game in 1932.

2.) True or False - Dan Blocker (the late "Hoss" of Bonanza) played against Murray in the 1948 Tangerine Bowl for Sul Ross State.

3.) A Murray State basketball player once held the record for number of points scored in a single game in the American Basketball Association. Who is he?

4.) Bear Bryant played his college football at what school? Who played the other end on the same team?

Racers fumble way to defeat; Catamounts capitalize on errors

By ROY HALE
Sports Editor

The 1972 version of the Murray State University Racer football team got off on the wrong foot, so to speak, as they dropped their season opener to Western Carolina, 21-12, here Saturday night before 6,500 fans.

Although losing All-OVC tailback Rick Fisher for the season, the 'Breds were still favored to duplicate last season's opening win over the same team from Cullowhee, North Carolina.

A stiff W. Carolina defense kept the Murray offensive machine bottled up all night, holding George Greenfield, Don Clayton, and others to only 100 yards rushing. Tom Pandolfi completed 13 of 22 passes, but five others were intercepted by a sticky Carolina secondary.

After a scoreless first quarter, W. Carolina scored with 8:55 remaining before halftime as tailback Hackett took a pitch-out from quarterback Mote around the end for a four yard touchdown, and a 7-0 lead.

On the next series the Racers' Charlie Carpenter pounced on a Carolina fumble at midfield and Murray had good field position for the first time in the contest. However, Pandolfi's pass on the next play was picked off and seven plays later, Eagle Moss, W. Carolina's pint-sized halfback, took a ten yard Mote pass for a Carolina touchdown and a 14-0 advantage.

Murray took the ensuing kickoff, and with some great running by Greenfield and passing by Pandolfi, scored with only 32 seconds left in the half on a twelve yard pass from Pandolfi to tight end Bill Farrell. Chuck Cantrell's point after attempt was wide and the Racers trailed at the half, 14-6.

The Racers wasted no time at the start of the second half as they marched down to the Catamount 14 yard line, only to have the fumble bug hit them again.

After exchanging the ball five times, the 'Cats scored again with 2:34 left in the third period as Eagle Moss gathered in a Mote pass from the ten yard line for his second score of the night.

Murray tallied its final points in the fourth stanza as Pandolfi scored from the three. A two point conversion failed and Murray trailed 21-12.

Later in the game the Racers made a valiant charge at the 'Cats, but Pandolfi's pass was intercepted by Yates on the W. Carolina 21 and Murray's hopes of victory seemed to die.

The visitors outgained the 'Breds on the ground 142-100, and in the air 235-186.

Fumbles and interceptions doomed the Racers all night, as they lost four and five respectively.

George Greenfield was the leading rusher for the Racers as he picked up 48 yards on 18 carries. Right behind him was Don Clayton with 43 yards in 12 carries.

The Racers will have an open date this week-end and then travel to Cookeville, Tennessee on Saturday, Sept. 23, to meet with one of the pre-season conference favorites, Tennessee Tech.

Racers 1972 slate an uphill battle

The Murray State Racers have an open date on their schedule this week, and will be hard at work next week in preparation for their clash with Tennessee Tech, one of the pre-season conference favorites, on Sept. 23 at Cookeville.

More than 30 lettermen - including an All-America and two All-Conference players - return to give Tech the favorite's role for the '72 OVC crown.

Jim Youngblood, the OVC Defensive Player of the Year last season at middle linebacker, along with fullback Jeff Axel and tackle Mike Defino, will lead the Golden Eagles as they attempt to improve on last year's 8-2 slate. Murray must be rated the underdog.

Murray then travels to Morehead Sept. 30 for a game with the always-tough Eagles. Although losing 20 lettermen, including 10 starters, new head coach Roy Terry has "recycled" most of his players, so there will be at least one letterman at 21 of the 22 positions. Strengths lie in a very talented offense, with quarterback Dave Schaetzke the total offense leader in the OVC last year. Defense could be a weakness. Murray will have to beef up their defense and hope for Morehead to make a few mistakes if they are to win.

The University of Tennessee at Martin will visit Cutchin Stadium on Oct. 7 in what proves to be a grudge match for the Racers. U-T Martin soundly thrashed the 'Breds 41-0 last season as All-America running back Nate Holmes ran wild. Martin is expected to go to the air more this year although Holmes is back.

Middle Tennessee is next on the Racer schedule as they come to Murray on Oct. 14. Middle will return 17 of the players that started the final game last season and 35 lettermen. Among them are defensive back Ray Oldham, punter Mike Shawen, cornerback Ed Miller and guard Charlie Holt. All four have been named All-conference the last two years. Murray beat the Blue Raiders 24-15 last season and could upset them this year.

Murray's next foe, East Tennessee, has undertaken a complete reorganization of the defense and a development of a new offensive line. The Bucs failed to win last year and should have improved their attack, with transfer Alan Chadwick providing ample help at quarterback. Murray should win this one.

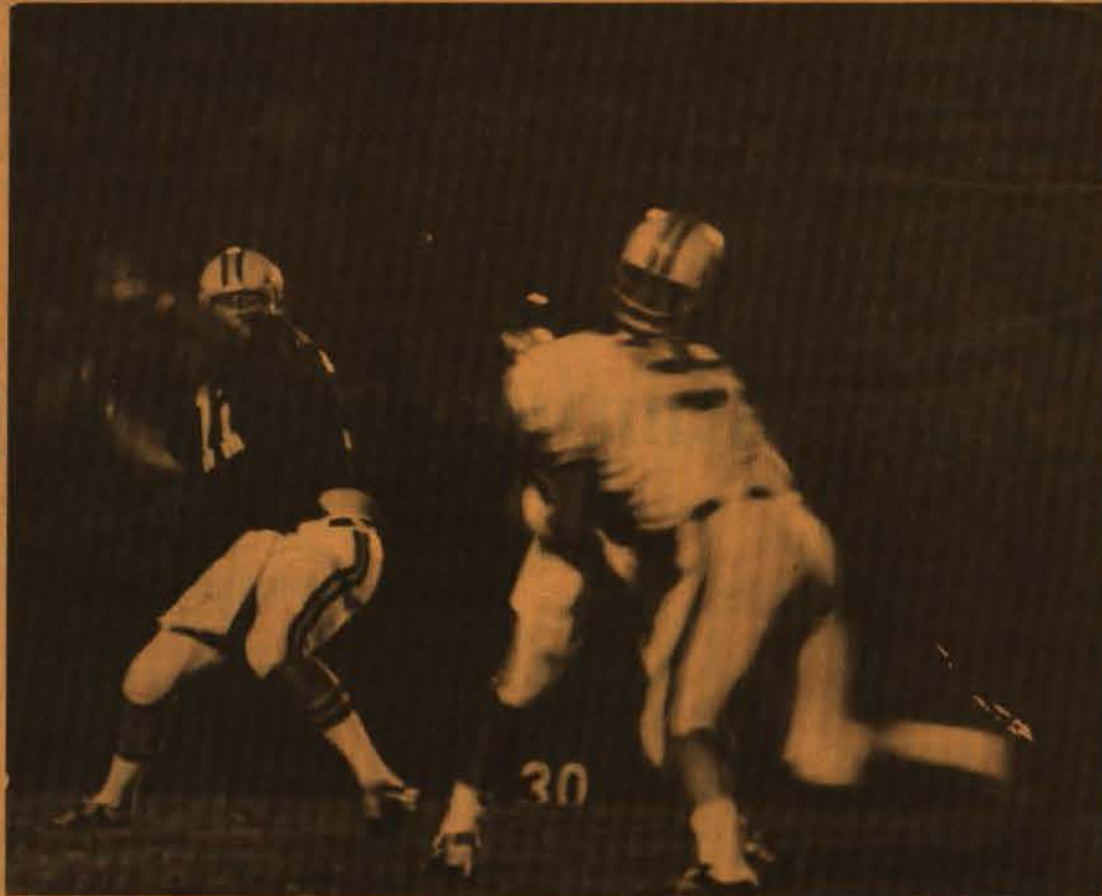

Although returning 20 lettermen from last year's 6-4-1 team, Eastern Kentucky will be one of the least experienced teams in the OVC this year. Big holes to fill seem to be in the offensive line and defensive backfield. Murray will be favored.

With 30 lettermen returning, the next Murray opponent, Austin Peay would seem to be in better than average shape.

However, of the 14 lettermen gone, included are 1971 season's No. 1 rusher, total offense leader, scorer, punter and punt returner. Murray should be able to duplicate last season's victory.

Evansville is predicted to be vastly improved over last year's 3-6 season with quarterback Randy Mattingly, the NCAA College Division total offense leader last season returning. Coach Jim Byers has much optimism about his new solid-looking defensive unit. The secondary was hard hit by graduation and is being patched up by two seniors and two sophomores. Murray should be a solid favorite.

Rival Western Kentucky will travel to Murray for the Racers final game on Nov. 18, and you can bet no favorite's role will be filled. Coach Jimmy Feix has only one starter returning to the offensive line and the same story holds for the defensive line. As usual, the game should be rated a toss-up.

TOM PANDOLFI throws downfield as George Greenfield keeps out a Western Carolina lineman. Pandolfi completed 13 of 22 passes for 186 yards, but had five interceptions. The Racers have an open date tomorrow and then travel to Cookeville, Tenn. on Sept. 23 to face Tennessee Tech.

Our foes . . .

While Murray State was losing to Western Carolina last week-end some other OVC schools were having a tough time, too.

In Bowling Green, Western Kentucky University, the defending OVC champ, gave away the ball seven times on fumbles in losing to Appalachian State of Tennessee 7-6. Appalachian scored on a 78 yard bomb in the fourth quarter, and after Western scored in the final two minutes and failed on a two point conversion, the final score fell in Appalachian's favor.

Morehead State University had a tough time in untracking its talented passing game as Xavier held quarterback Dave Schaetzke, the OVC total offense leader last season, to eight completions out of 28 passes for a mere 59 yards.

Tennessee Tech, the pre-season favorite in the conference, bowled over Morningside, Iowa, 37-7, as they unveiled a new and powerful wishbone offense. The golden Eagles rolled up an amazing 404 yards rushing while intercepting four passes and recovering two fumbles.

Sophomore quarterback Fayne Limbo hit on nine of 15 passes for 116 yards as Middle Tennessee overwhelmed Florence State 31-10.

Eastern Kentucky coughed up three fumbles and gave up an interception, but hung on to beat Southeastern Louisiana of the Gulf South Conference, 10-0.
