UTM's Growth Rate Is Fastest In State

The University of Tennessee at Martin is the fastest growing university in the state, percentage-wise, Dr. Norman Campbell, vice-chancellor of academic affairs, told Rotarians Friday noon at the Biltmore.

Dr. Campbell, who is a frequent visitor to the local club, was introduced by program chairman W. W. Sterling.

Enrollment at UTM this fall is 4,206 students, or 453 more than this time last fall, Dr. Campbell said this represents an increase of 12 per cent.

Dr. Campbell, who has maintained a perfect Rotary attendance for the past 25 years, said however, he expects UTM's growth to taper off within the next year or so, "simply because we are about full."

Due to its rapid growth, he said, UTM has been faced with financial problems because state funds have not kept pace. Dr. Campbell said, however, state officials are now aware of these problems and are doing something about them.

He said the state paid only $650 per student to UTM last year while this year the figure has been brought up to $800 and next year is expected to reach $950.

Then, touching on another subject, Dr. Campbell said a full 20 per cent of all colleges and universities across the nation last year experienced some type of student unrest or demonstration.

"At that same time UTM was experiencing one of its smoothest years ever. About the biggest problem we have had is with student parking. We have some 2,500 student cars on campus and it is a problem but it does not approach some of the problems other universities are experiencing," he said.

Dr. Campbell said he feels the reason for UTM's happy student body is the universities open-door policy. Initiated by Chancellor Archie Dykes.

"I would say communications and the open door policy between the administration and the students are the reasons for our success," he added.

"Chancellor Dykes keeps his administration open and always gives student groups an answer, even if that answer is 'no.' You know, students are people and want to be treated like people and they would rather get a 'no' answer with an explanation than no answer at all," Dr. Campbell said.

He credited members of the local Rotary Club and many other Oblion Countians with helping the university obtain its new nursing and engineering technology programs.

"We will be spending much time during the next year or so implementing these two new courses of study which will begin next fall," he said.

Finally, the academic dean said that while UTM has an outstanding college in agriculture it is not actually a "cow college" any more. He said actually UTM's College of Agriculture occupies only 10 per cent of its total program.

Youth Center Proposal Boosted By BPW Club

A proposal for an area youth center, being pushed by the Oblion County Ministerial Association and other groups and individuals, got another boost this week when members of the Union City Business and Professional Women's Club voted to contribute to the project part of their profits from their 196 Fabulous Follies, scheduled for Dec. 5-6.

Mrs. John Thomas, general chairman of the Follies project, also announced the names of all committee chairmen and revealed the chairmen are to meet for the first time Tuesday to begin planning.

The B&PW meeting, in observance of National B&PW Week, centered its program around a "BPW Club Cake." The ingredients included Personal Development (sugar), by Mrs. Marjorie Moore; World Affairs (butter), by Mrs. J. H. Rochelle; Civic Participation (eggs), by Mrs. Martin Blakemore; Membership (flour), by Linda Hammonds; Legislation (baking powder), by Mrs. Jack Oliver; Finance (milk), by Mrs. Lurline Moore; and Public Relations (spice), by Miss Dorothy Latimer.

The meeting was held at the home of Mrs. Elsie Huntington on East Exchange Street. The program was introduced by Miss Edna Earl True, membership chairman, and conducted by Mrs. Tommy Hawks, program chairman.

Members were reminded that the West I District Meeting will be held in Huntington Nov. 16.

Adult Class Set To Begin South Fulton Trips Cross Town Rival

Union City is offering a special course for high school dropouts who are interested in improving their basic skills in reading, writing, arithmetic and language.

The only qualification for persons attending the class is that they be at least 18 years of age and have not completed the eighth grade in school.

Classes will be held at the Miles school each Tuesday and Wednesday nights from 7 until 10. There will be no charge for the classes, which are being sponsored by the local system and the state Department of Education. Registration will be Tuesday night at 6:45.

According to City School Superintendent T.F. Wallace, anyone from this general area who meets these qualifications is eligible to attend.

"We are out to help these people improve their basic skills so they may hold better jobs. No one is barred from these classes. In fact, we are urging these adults to take advantage of this opportunity. The teachers are well qualified and certified and are members of our faculty. Frankly, I wish we would have enough adults for 10 sections."

"I would also like to point out that there is no need for embarrassment. Each person in the class is there for the same purpose—to improve his educational background."

South Fulton whipped cross-town rival Fulton City for the first time since 1966 and for only the fourth time since 1951 Friday evening with Red Devil Coach Terry Beadles terming his club's 20-12 victory "the finest effort I have ever seen by a group of boys."

Joy reigned all across South Fulton for the rest of the night as parades, dancing in the streets, pep rallies and general joy bubbled over into the early hours.

One resident said there were pep meetings, groups of as many as 50 persons gathering in the streets singing the South Fulton fight song and leading Red Devil cheers.

Coach Beadles went on to add, "Our boys went out and hit. They wanted to win and they played like it. Both Coach Curling (assistant coach Kerry) and myself are extremely proud of our boys. They have every right to be proud of themselves and the effort they gave."

The first period of play was scoreless, thanks to a blade of grass. The Devils received, gained about two yards, then sent Tommy Bodker off tackle through a hole. Bodker broke the line and was free for a touchdown when he stumbled and fell in front of the Devil bench. Fulton dug in and held with neither side being able to mount a threat the remainder of the opening canto.

The Devils drew first blood in the second frame when freshman field general Bob Winston drifted back and lofted a 40-yard scoring strike to senior end Johnny McGuire. Bodker kicked the point for a 7-0 Devil edge near the middle of the period.

South Fulton was forced to kickoff from the 25 after being assessed a 15-yard penalty for McGuire who tossed the ball into the stands when he scored.

The short kick and a 15-yarder for piling on set the Bulldogs in business and the Canine Clan punched it over. The Devils creamed the center on the extra-point try but a penalty gave them another chance. The Bulldogs then decided to try for two rather than kick. The plan failed. It was still 7-6 at the half-way point.

South Fulton came back in the third period with Bob Woodruff and McGuire teaming for a counter. Woodruff deflected a Kentucky pass to McGuire who lugged it across from 20 yards away for a 13-7 Devil edge. The point failed.

The Bulldogs, never ready to quit, ripped back and scored, driving the ball down the field on the Devil defensive unit. A pair of passes keyed the charge with Kim Homra going the last four yards.

The kick that would have tied the contest was wide to the right enabling the Devils to hang onto their 13-12 margin heading into the final 12 minutes.

South Fulton received a punt on their own eight with about three minutes gone into the final period when Winston called an automatic at the line of scrimmage and popped McGuire with what turned into a 90-yard pass-run for another score. Bodker's toe was true and it was 20-12. Fulton is a fine town.

The Bulldogs made two more threats, moving to the Devil 30 and then again inside the 45 but interceptions by Bodker and Phillip Wylie cut short the Bulldog threats.

Additional Local Tax Money Sought For Counties, Schools

FRANKFORT, Ky. — There was no official consensus and Rep. Ralph Mitchell, D-Shelbyville, chairman of the subcommittee on Local Revenue and Taxation, said the matter would be taken up again after the November elections.

State school and revenue officials said the 1965 statute which froze local taxation is the great stumbling block although

Nunn Says OEOP Program In State May Have Increased Relief Rolls

WASHINGTON — Gov. Louie B. Nunn of Kentucky said today that Office of Economic Opportunity programs in Kentucky have in some instances increased rather than reduced the number of persons on public assistance rolls.

He said the programs are poorly administered and that frequently the money involved finds its way into the hands of politicians.

At a news conference held jointly with Nunn, Rep. William J. Scherle, R-Iowa, described OEOP as the greatest hoax ever perpetrated on the American taxpayers.

It is, he said, "scandal ridden and corrupt and now they are asking us to perpetrate this hoax on the taxpayer for another two years."

Scherle is seeking to have hearings on the House Education and Labor Committee into the Nixon administration's poverty program reopened.

The earlier witnesses who favored continuation of the OEOP program without modification.

He said the committee chairman, Rep. Carl D. Perkins, D-Ky., has ignored his requests to have Nunn and other state officials testify.

Republicans on the committee, including Scherle, generally favor giving state authorities more say-so in assignment of OEOP funds and programs and more veto power.

Nunn said "my prime objective is to find out how to get the evidence before Congress it must hear."

"My chief concern is to see that funds for the poor get into the hands of the poor, not elsewhere," he said.

Nunn sometime ago vetoed a $27,000 poverty program for Education Office Seeks $25 Million

FRANKFORT, Ky. — and Budget Director Larry Forgy estimated that normal growth and inflation would add about 38 million a year to the General Fund, if tax rates remained the same.

But Gov. Louie B. Nunn already has announced plans to ask the 1970 legislature to adopt a tax cut package which would mean a $10 million-a-year reduction in state revenue.

The largest single increase being sought by the department is for vocational education. The request for $35.5 million jump, $7.7 million of it in federal funds, would bring that division to a total of $79.4 million for the two-year period.

That increase would go to fund new vocational training programs and centers. Ten new area vocational education centers have begun operation in the last two years.

The department is asking for a 56 per cent increase in administration and finance, although the increase in dollar terms would be just $336,867 for a total of $2.6 million for the two years.

The $25.4 million increase being asked for the department's own operation would constitute about one-third of the estimated total increase into the General Fund through normal growth.

not to be blamed entirely. The act rolled back property tax rates in the wake of a Court of Appeals decision imposing 100 per cent assessment which alarmed many taxpayers.

The statute allowed two consecutive yearly 10 per cent increases, after which a ceiling was placed on further tax boosts.

Dave Magill, state local finance officer, said the result is that despite the growth in value of assessed property all over the state, tax rates essentially remain static.

In fact the often drop. A Revenue Department review of taxes for last and this fiscal year shows that 76 counties have decreased their rates slightly, 27 have increased them a bit and 27 are unchanged.

Contrary to public belief, higher total assessments mean lower individual tax rates, paradoxical as it may seem.

For example, a district's property may be assessed at $1 million. A tax rate of 10 cents would produce $100,000.

If the assessment doubles to $2 million, a tax rate of only 5 cents would produce the $100,000 — the limit under the rollback concept.

James Melton, an assistant superintendent of public instruction, commented: "We have simply converted inequities in property assessments to inequities in the tax rate."

He said local district rates range from a low of 31.5 cents to a high of 91.7 cents per $100 of assessed valuation.

Kentucky ranks 47th in the nation in amount of funds spent for education from property taxes, he said.

Some legislators talked of outright repeal of House Bill No. 1, the creature of the 1965 special session.

Rep. Bernard Keene, D-Bardonia, said repeal would be foredoomed.

The only proposal with a chance of passage, he said, is one permitting counties and schools to share somewhat in net assessment increases. Currently the only extra taxes they can obtain come from new property added to the rolls.

Melton talked in terms of allowing districts two consecutive 10-cent tax raises.

He stressed he means 10 cents yearly and not 10 per cent, which he said amounted to less than 10 cents when applied to the total tax rate.

Magill said the occupational license tax method of raising money could be extended to smaller communities or perhaps local governments might be allowed to impose their own one-half cent sales tax. He acknowledged both methods would be difficult to administer.

Magill said an increasing number of counties are creating special taxing districts which provide specific services for the money collected — such as police protection.

Another approach, he said, is "merely tossing out here" involves legislative permission for counties to provide special services in certain sections and to levy taxes accordingly only on the people so favored.

That would be fulfilled in part by a proposed constitutional amendment on assessment of farmland which will appear on the Nov. 4 referendum ballot. One section of the amendment apparently would base taxation of land surrounding a city on the extent of urban services received by the land or property owner.

But Magill also remarked that the suggestion seems to run into the state prohibition against discrimination for or against any group of taxpayers. All must be treated the same.

"The question that has bugged me is why the legislature should set tax rates (locally)," Mitchell commented. "What do I know of Harlan County's problems?"

He said the time-honored procedure in Kentucky "seems to stem from an inner distrust of local officials (by) the people. They somehow feel somebody in Frankfort or Washington can be trusted (more)."

Scientists To Meet At University

MURRAY, Ky.—About 150 Kentucky scientists are expected to attend the 55th annual meeting of the Kentucky Academy of Science at Murray State University Friday and Saturday.

Dr. Walter E. Blackburn, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences at Murray State and official host for the meeting, said the program will include a banquet, presentation of technical papers, a business meeting, and field trips.

Dr. Donald Caplenor, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences of Tennessee Technological University, will be the featured speaker at the 7 p.m. banquet Friday at the Murray Holiday Inn. His topic will be "What is the Way to Effective Conservation?"

A welcome to the academy will be extended by Dr. Harry M. Sparks, Murray State president. Dr. Orville Richardson, professor of biology at Kentucky Wesleyan College and academy president, will preside at the banquet.

Sixty-five technical papers will be presented in nine sections Saturday morning in Blackburn Science Hall on the Murray State campus. The sections are anthropology, botany and microbiology, chemistry, geology and geography, physics, psychology, science education, sociology, and zoology.

The session at Murray State marks the fifth time in the academy's history it has met at the school and the first time since 1960. Faculty members from the School of Arts and Sciences and the psychology department are assisting Dr. Blackburn with the meeting.

Dr. Karl Hussung, professor of chemistry at Murray State, is vice president of the academy. Former presidents include Dr. Blackburn, Dr. Pete Panzera, chairman of the Murray State chemistry department, and Dr. Alfred M. Wolfson, chairman of the Murray State biological sciences department until his retirement last spring.

MURRAY, Ky.—A crowd of 12,000 is expected to converge on the campus of Murray State University Nov. 1 to take part in the 37th annual Homecoming Day festivities.

A full slate of activities—the traditional parade, the alumni smorgasbord, and an assortment of breakfasts, coffees, brunches, lunches, dinners and dances—is planned to prime a record crowd for the football game between the Racers and Eastern Kentucky University.

Kickoff time is 2 p.m. During halftime of the Ohio Valley Conference game, a special tribute will be paid to the late Robert A. (Fats) Everett, former Tennessee congressman who was often called Murray State's No. 1 alumnus.

Highlighting homecoming eve will be a two-hour variety show headlined by nationally known television personality Pat Paulsen and featuring Kenny Rogers and the First Edition. Showtime is 8 p.m. in the fieldhouse.

For the first time, the homecoming queen will be crowned prior to Homecoming Day. She will be named Oct. 30 so she can

Stahr Says Strip Mines Are Threat

LEXINGTON, Ky.—The president of the National Audubon Society, Elvis Stahr Jr., says strip mining still is an "ominous threat" to Kentucky.

Stahr spoke to some 300 conservationists in the state's eight annual Conservation Congress, sponsored by a government and civic natural resources development committee.

Stahr said he has been disturbed by Bethlehem Steel Corp. plans to develop a strip mine in Letcher County.

"We hoped a company of Bethlehem's stature would have no part of such an operation," Stahr said.

He said a still more disquieting case is the one in which the state has granted a series of delays to the Peabody Coal Co. in meeting requirements for grading and planting at its Queen River Mine in Western Kentucky's Muhlenberg County.

Stahr said in a later interview, a "good law might be adequate" to control strip mining in Western Kentucky.

He said coming generations "would bless us" if strip mining is stopped in Eastern Kentucky because of problems of erosion and silting of streams.

VOTE YES

On November 4, the voters of this county will vote on a constitutional amendment which relates to farmland assessments and urban tax rates. It is generally known as the Farmland Assessment Amendment, and will be Amendment Number 1 on the ballot.

We believe an informed electorate will overwhelmingly approve the amendment and put Kentucky on the same footing as 28 other states which already have taken similar action.

We hope the following information will be helpful as you decide how to vote on November 4:

Here Are the Facts

The amendment was placed on the ballot by unanimous vote of your state legislators.

It will provide for assessment of farmland at its value for farming purposes.

It will allow lower tax rates for areas annexed by cities when those areas do not receive all available city services.

It will serve to preserve open space for future recreational and aesthetic purposes at no cost to the taxpayers.

It will help protect our wildlife and natural resources.

It will protect individual property rights, a vital part of our American freedom.

Nunn Politicking Hurts The Poor, Hubbard Asserts

HARLAN, Ky. — Political maneuvering by Gov. Louie B. Nunn "has caused thousands of Eastern Kentucky people to suffer," State Sen. Carroll Hubbard of Mayfield said here tonight.

Speaking at a fund-raising dinner held annually by Harlan County Democrats, Hubbard said the Middle Kentucky River area — based at Jackson and servicing the counties of Owsley, Lee, Wolfe and Breathitt — was without the federal programs and funds from the Office of Economic Opportunity for needy people from July 18 through Oct. 3 "due to Gov. Nunn's veto of the funding of the council."

Hubbard charged also that Nunn, in letters mailed this month to members of Congress, urged them to delay action on extension of the War on Poverty until he has had a chance to document information he is preparing on OEO.

The Nunn investigation is aimed at exposing alleged abuses of the federal program, he said.

Gov. Nunn also has requested time to appear before the House Committee on Labor and Education, the body handling anti-poverty legislation.

"Your outstanding representative, Carl Perkins, chairman of that committee," Hubbard said.

He quoted Nunn as saying that circumstances had led to general dissatisfaction with the OEO on the part of national and local governments.

"Gov. Nunn well knows that his efforts to discredit the OEO have fallen on deaf ears among many of Kentucky's members of the House and Senate," said Hubbard. "Even President Nixon has asked that the OEO program be continued for two more years."

The senator who is serving his first term added:

"What Nunn wants is that the national Office of Economic Opportunity be closed or that, as an alternative, made just a figurehead office and for federal programs and money to be turned over to governors of the 50 states instead of local community action programs," Hubbard said.

Hubbard said, "Gov. Nunn is primarily interested in these funds and projects being controlled in Kentucky by himself."

"It is interesting to note that no other governor in any state opposes the national OEO," Hubbard said.

Hubbard said, "Nunn would love to have control of federal anti-poverty money in Kentucky during the last two years of his administration."

"... Thereby, he could build for himself a powerful political machine throughout the commonwealth by distributing the money and programs as would best benefit his control of Kentucky politics," said Hubbard.

Hubbard, a frequent critic of Nunn, said:

"It could be that Gov. Nunn's political maneuvering will delay and possibly prevent any anti-poverty legislation from passing Congress this year."

"Have not the people of Eastern Kentucky been innocent pawns of the governor's ire enough already?"

Bell Sees No Crisis In Kentucky

South Central Bell Telephone Co. does not expect a telephone crisis in Kentucky similar to that in New York City, Mike Sermersheim, Louisville, division commercial manager for the company, told newspaper, television and radio representatives Thursday night.

The telephone company was host to the media representatives at a dinner at Ken-Bar Inn.

Sermersheim said the New York crisis was due to failure of planners to foresee the rapid growth of population and demand for increased telephone service in the city. The business growth rate for the city had been forecast to be about 3 per cent a year but rose to more than 8 per cent.

To help meet the situation, the Bell company's 50,000 employees in New York City have been joined by workers brought in from other states, including 500 from Kentucky.

Personnel recruitment has also been a factor in the New York situation, Sermersheim said. Many of the company's employees there have to be fluent in Spanish as well as English.

South Central Bell has 6,000 employees in Kentucky. The company has about 800,000 telephones in Kentucky, about one-tenth of the number of phones in New York City.

Choral Festival Is Planned At Murray

MURRAY, Ky. — More than 300 singers, representing 66 high schools in Kentucky, Missouri, and Illinois, have been selected to participate in the 21st annual Quad-State Choral Festival November 3 at Murray State University.

The first, the Quad-State String Festival, was held last week at Paducah Tilghman High School, while the last, the Quad-State Band Festival, is scheduled for December 8, also at the University.

Dr. Josiah Darnall, a professor of music at the University, is chairman of the Quad-State Music Festivals.

The choral festival Nov. 3 will include a full day of rehearsals, recreation and a concert and broadcast, set for 7 p.m. in the University's Waterfield Student Union Building. A luncheon for the high school directors will be held at the Holiday Inn.

The chorus will be under the direction of Robert Barr, an associate professor of music at Murray State University.

The public is invited to the concert. There is no admission charge.

Among the high school students selected to participate are the following from the Paducah area:

Congressmen Again Sweeten Their Liberal Pension Pot

WASHINGTON — Top congressional pensions, increasing nearly 3½ times since the plan was born amid controversy in 1946, are being liberalized again but it probably won't bring a fresh uproar.

A bill signed into law by President Nixon this week contains a slight liberalization to enable members with long service to get the maximum pension—$34,000 a year—after just three years at the $42,500 salary which took effect early this year. Formerly, it required five years at the top salary to get maximum pension.

The bill also increased the contribution a senator or representative must make to participate in the plan from 7½ to 8 per cent of his salary.

Thus he now pays $3,400 annually which is matched by the government, a total contribution of $6,800 in his behalf.

It is a part of the over-all Civil Service retirement system for all federal employees which now has a $57 billion unfunded liability. The new measure contains additional financing designed to correct this.

The great increase in pensions has taken place because of the sharp rise in congressional salaries since the two are tied together.

The 1946 law fixed a congressional salary of $12,500 and a maximum pension of $10,000. The pension is equal to 2.5 per cent times years of service times the average annual salary in the last three years.

The maximum payment is 80 per cent of salary which required 32 years of service.

The representative or senator must serve at least five years to be eligible for a pension. Normally, he can start getting pension payments at age 62. If he has served 30 years, he can begin at age 60.

Although congressmen don't expect an outcry from the pension modification, some are still stinging from the reaction to their salary increase from $30,000 to $42,500 per year. One senator received a shirt in the mail—representing the shirt off the back of his constituents.

Greek Regime Kills Paragraph In Textbook

ATHENS — A paragraph in a new history textbook criticizing exiled King Constantine was ordered deleted today by the Greek military-controlled regime.

The king was described in the book as "too young and inexperienced to cope with the political crises and constant government collapses" that preceded the military takeover, April 21, 1967. He was said also to have driven Greece to "the brink of disaster."
