Board of Regents meets

Dr. Curris sworn in

By CATHERINE CHAPIN
Co-Editor

Amid members of the Board of Regents, the press and Dr. Harry M. Sparks, Dr. Constantine Curris was sworn in as the sixth president of Murray State University at the Regents meeting Saturday.

Soon after, he made his first appointment naming Mancil Vinson special assistant to the president. Vinson, who is also director of alumni affairs, will get a $100 a month raise.

Curris said that he will have many special problems his first year in office and will require someone to help him with speaking engagements, working with the legislature and other special activities. The appointment will keep the University from having to hire another staff member, Curris said.

Sworn in as a new regent was James A. Davis, an Owensboro banker. He succeeds E. G. Adams who now resides in Missouri. Both Curris' and Adams' oaths were administered by Court of Appeals Judge Earl T. Osborne who represents the First Appellate District.

In other action:

*Plans for a $1,489,000 livestock show exposition center were explained by Thomas Hogancamp, vice-president in charge of administrative affairs. The center, to be adjoined to the A. Carmen Pavillion, will be used for cattle and horse shows, farm equipment exhibitions and other types of shows.

It will serve the entire Western Kentucky region and thus may bring more interest and students to the Murray area. Seating 2500, the facility will be built with states funds. Hogancamp said the showplace will be another six months in the planning stage and hoped that funds would be alloted in the next biennial budget.

*Dr. Sparks told the Board that the fulltime enrollment equivalent was down five per cent from last year. However, because of increased non-resident enrollment, the University is $3,000 ahead of estimates. He attributed the rise in out-of-state enrollment to non-resident dormitory scholarships.

Sparks said that when all the figures are in, sometime in the next few weeks, the enrollment should fall around 7,000. "We're doing pretty well," he said.

*Dr. Sparks announced a gift from the estate of the late James Leland Hurley of $250,000. Although Hurley did not attend Murray State, his nephew, James (Buck) Hurley graduated from here in 1938. Hurley was in the construction equipment rental business in Detroit, Mich. It was suggested by James Hurley that the money be used to establish a scholarship in his uncle's name, to enlarge existing scholarships and to provide more student loans.

*The Board made public plans to acquire two one-story, steel buildings that have been declared surplus by the government. The buildings will be used for storage.

*A resolution was noted giving the security department power to render assistance to the Murray City Police under emergency situations.

*Glen Doran, chairman of the Board of Regents, and

Dave Curtis, student representative to the Board, were named to the inauguration committee for Dr. Curris. The ceremony is set for Nov. 12.

*The Board authorized Dr. Curris to buy some furniture or fittings for Oakhurst presidential residence. Dr. Curris said that any purchases for those areas in which he lives will be made with his private funds.

*Glen Doran was reelected chairman of the Board, Patsy Dyer was reelected secretary and Dr. Hogancamp was reelected treasurer. Dr. Charles Howard was elected vice-chairman to replace retired board member Adams.

Mancil Vinson chosen to be presidential aide

Mancil J. Vinson, director of alumni affairs at Murray State University was unanimously approved on President Curris' first recommendation to the Board of Regents as special assistant to the president. The position became effective Monday following the Saturday meeting of the Board.

Dr. Curris stated that Vinson will serve him in meeting special demands of a new University president. Special assignments will be in speeches, communications, state government and meeting legislatures.

Vinson said that he hoped to help Dr. Curris in his ambition to make Murray State University a truly regional institution, subject to the needs of the people in the region. This includes not only the Jackson Purchase but the surrounding states. Vinson expressed the belief that Murray State has a unique opportunity because of the extraordinary resources available in the region. These include agriculture, recreation, chemical industries and most importantly, the youth.

In reference to his additional duties Vinson said, "It will be an exciting challenge to help Dr. Curris. I deeply appreciate the appointment he has extended to me to serve as his special assistant and alumni representative. We appreciate the fact that he has recognized the important support that alumni provide for Murray State University. Their loyalty is unexcelled."

Vinson, 48, was born in Murray and holds a BS in agriculture from Murray. He has a MS from the University of Kentucky. He joined the faculty at Murray as director of alumni affairs in 1968 after serving as Assistant Commissioner of Agriculture of Kentucky for 13 years - longer than anyone in Kentucky history. During this period, he received a number of citations for outstanding service, including selection by Murray State University agriculture alumni as their first recipient of the Outstanding Alumnus Award.

In his present position Vinson heads an educational service for 22,000 graduates. Since he became director the Alumni Association has raised funds for five perpetual scholarships, the first in the school's history; commenced a program to computerize all alumni records; instigated the policy of preparing written guidelines for the administration of all scholarships; and begun an expanded program of fund raising for student aid and educational facilities.

Campus police powers clarified in Board action

Murray State Security Director Orman Price says the security resolution passed by the Board of Regents will give his department better guidelines, but will make no major changes.

The most important benefit of the resolution, Price says, is that the force now has assurance that citations they give on streets adjacent to University property will be honored in city court.

Price says in the past some citations given on streets adjacent to the campus have been thrown out of court.

Price was quick to stress the fact that because their authority has been clarified this doesn't mean that MSU security police will suddenly start giving out hundreds of speeding citations on streets adjoining the campus.

Student-Curris meeting set

Classes will be called off Monday afternoon so that students may attend an informal "talk session" with President Curris 12:30 p.m.

According to Dave Curtis, student government association president, classes will be called off from 12:30 p.m. until 2:30 p.m.

Dr. Curris will address the students and then answer questions. Curtis notes that since this meeting is "being held for students," only students will be allowed to ask questions.

Former athletes sponsor Cutchin Scholarship plans

The members of the 1963, '37, and '38 basketball teams are suggesting to the Alumnae Council that a perpetual scholarship in the name of Carlisle Cutchin, former athletic director at Murray State University be initiated.

The idea came about during discussions of plans for the new Roy Stewart Stadium. At one point it had been suggested that the Cutchin stadium be removed. The former students and players of Cutchins wanted to be sure his name was not removed with the stadium.

On Jan. 24, 1970, Dr. Ben Humphreys, chairman of guidance and counseling, suggested to the Council that a plaque be left at the site of the stadium as a remembrance.

In 1972 the former athletes met to discuss promoting a scholarship to help deserving students and at the same time perpetual Cutchins' name.

A setting committee has been set up to look into the prospects of the scholarship and to handle the guidelines, should the Council grant its approval.

department of physical education and health, University of Tennessee at Martin; and Mancel Vinson, chairman of Alumni Affairs at MSU. Hurley was recommended to serve as chairman.

The members of the committee are: James E. Hurley, Benton, manager of Valley Savings and Loan; James H. Phillips, Clinton, principal of Clinton County High; Floyd Burnett, assistant professor,

Honor Society chapter elects Deboe president

Thomas Deboe, senior from Paducah, was elected president of the Murray State University Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa at the Sept. 16 meeting. ODK is the national leadership honor society for men. Deboe is also this year's editor of the SHIELD.

Student applications for membership are now being accepted. The applications may be obtained from Dr. J. M. Kline, faculty adviser, in Room 131, Blackburn Science Bldg. until Sept. 28.

The minimum requirements for eligibility are that junior and senior men must have one full academic year in residence at MSU, rank in the highest 35 percent in scholarship among male students in their class and must attain special distinction in at least one of the five major phases of campus life: scholarship; athletics; social and religious affairs; publications; and speech, music, drama and the other arts.

Only 4 More Days Left For Voters To Register

One Man's Opinion

By DAVE CURTIS
Student Organization President

Roy Stewart Stadium opened last weekend with a spectacular splash. The excitement and enthusiasm generated by the large crowd was contagious. The players, coaches and band are to be complimented on their performances. This $5.5 million sports complex has been a thorn in the side of the University for the last two and one half years.

Now that it is in use, I foresee an opportunity for Murray State to intensively increase the involvement of the populace in this region. This would be an excellent chance to get high school students on campus and let them see Murray in action. The involvement of the people of the surrounding region is an area in which a great deal of work needs to be done. Since the new stadium is large enough to accomodate all the possible guests of the University, the opportunity is golden to begin a program of this type. Dr. Thomas Hogancamp, along with Cal Luther and members of the public relations staff, should be commended on the efforts they have made in the direction of getting more people on campus. Several different groups, along with the general public, have been invited to attend the home games as guests of the University.

There is, however, one feature of concern that I would like to voice. With a multi-million dollar facility like the new stadium, there must be a strong football program.

We have had our problems in the past. I feel that the only way to build a stronger and better football program is to invest more money. With the gradual completion of the new stadium it would seem that more emphasis would apparently be placed in this area.

This does not seem to be the case.

The budget for football has stayed relatively the same and has actually decreased slightly. This might be due to reduced travel. It is my opinion that with $5.5 million invested in a structure that is oriented towards a particular sport, some avid attention should be directed to the area of building that program.

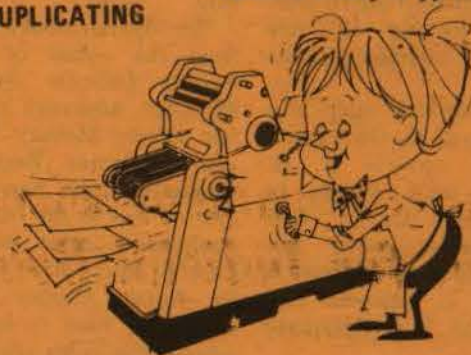

There is sentiment that the athletic department should be under the direction of a fulltime athletic director. At the present time, Cal Luther serves as athletic director and basketball coach. I feel that perhaps no coach of a major sport should also fulfill the duties of athletic director. I predict that Murray may soon have a fulltime director of athletic affairs.

50th Anniversary ends

Murray State University will observe the 50th anniversary of the opening of its doors to students on Monday, Sept. 24. To commemorate the occasion, a ceremony will be held on the front lawn of the Murray Middle School, where the first classes were held.

To begin at 9 a.m., the program will celebrate the date when 202 students, 67 men and 135 women, began classes at the "new Normal" school in the then Murray High School.

Presiding over the ceremonies will be Dr. Ray Mofield, chairman of the department of communications, and past president of the Jackson Purchase Historical Society.

The invocation will be given by Dr. Harry M. Sparks, the fifth and retiring president of Murray State. The benediction will be delivered by Dr. L. J. Hortin, chairman of the department of journalism.

Other speakers will include Mrs. Lucille Farmer Austin, a member of the first student body, Fred Schultz, superintendent of the Murray city schools and Dr. Constantine Curris, Murray State's sixth president. Dr. Josiah Darnall, professor of music at Murray State, will lead the group in the singing of "The Battle Hymn of the Republic," the song sung by the first students on the first day of school.

Following the Middle School ceremonies, the group will proceed via a police escorted motorcade to the Student Union Bldg. for a coffee-hour-reunion.

At additional ceremonies in the S.U.B., Mrs. Modest Clark Jeffery will present a portrait of her father, the late Lee Clark, to President Curris. The portrait will be hung in Clark Hall, a residence hall named in his honor.

Upward Bound Project Apollo given $125,000 federal grant

By STEVE VIED
Special Writer

A federal grant of $125,000 has been awarded to Murray State University to be used for the Upward Bound project according to the project's director Jim Biggs. The money will be used to fund Project Apollo, an outdoor educational program designed as an expansion of the two-year pilot program for Upward Bound students. Project Apollo will be funded from September of this year until September of next year. It is designed to provide high school students an opportunity to develop potential within themselves. The project will involve 500 students from 18 states. It will be used as a national teaching model for outdoor educational programs.

"A 30-square-mile primitive area in the southern half of the Land Between the Lakes, about 15 miles from the campus, has been chosen as the location to be used in encouraging these young people to reconstruct their attitudes about themselves and the world they live in," Biggs said.

Biggs said the Upward Bound staff at Murray State spent two years in an experimental period to determine the best approach for the innovative outdoor experience.

Emphasis in Project Apollo is focused on informal education to develop awareness in the field of man and his environment. Four series will be used, according to Biggs.

The "Poseidon Series" will last 14 days and involve water activities. "Hermes Series," also lasting 14 days will concentrate on land based activities. The "Vulcan Series," a five day overview of Poseidon and Hermes activities will be structured for beginning students.

The final series, "Athena," will be the most flexible and direct of the series. It will comprise two sections: a section of two two-day exercises a month for six months with a curriculum drawn from the summer series; and a section with two four-day exercises, one in December and one in the spring.

Wildlife observation and study in groups with a student-leader ratio of 5-1 will be a daily activity of the program. Students will also become involved in group interaction, role-playing and self-evaluation during experiences of varying lengths.

Student Government selects members for Judicial Board

Seven members of the MSU Judicial Board and one alternate were nominated last week by a special Student Government committee. They now await final approval by Dr. Constantine Curris, University president, before officially taking office.

Those tentatively chosen are Hugh Griffith, Warren, Mich., chairman; Marilynne Rowland, Louisville, vice-chairman; Dave Long, Mayfield, Beth Tuck, Harold Doran, Lona Ray Adams, Dan Patterson, Murray and Jeff Taylor, Elizabethtown, first alternate.

The Judicial Board is responsible for impartial hearings in cases brought before it by students, faculty and administrators involving infractions of the University code of conduct and Student Organization Constitution.

To be eligible for voting membership in the Student Senate applicants must be full-time students of the University and maintain at least a 2.0 cumulative point standing. Applications and more information are available at the Student Government Office in the Student Union Bldg.

Random sampling: Perhaps not the best theme for a unified appearance

It's "the South's most beautiful campus" according to the brochure. Trees age gracefully on gently rolling hills and the students' summer shuffle turns into a brisk hustle as the temperatures drop.

Why then scatter all types of all types of architecture about with little or no attempt at harmony? From all points of view, the campus looks as if some structures fell out of the sky. Scattered at random, these buildings are in sharp contrast with the rest of the campus. About the only harmonious note is that most of the newer structures have vertical stripes.

A new speech and hearing center has been planned. It will be erected across from the university laboratory school on 16th Street. Not only will this facility relocate and enlarge the speech and hearing division, but will house other classes as well.

The question of necessity seems settled, but some remain. Will this structure and future ones appear to be part of the present campus or will they prompt speculation about more movie houses opening in Murray? Will it compliment the campus?

This university publishes an impressive brochure explaining its planning theory, or lack of one, depending on where you stand as you read it. This pamphlet is based on a Department of Health, Education and Welfare survey that estimates the Murray State enrollment at 13,000 for the 1980-81 school year. With recent enrollment figures shaky at best, perhaps a reevaluation would be in order.

Maybe MSU is in need of a long-term planning committee.

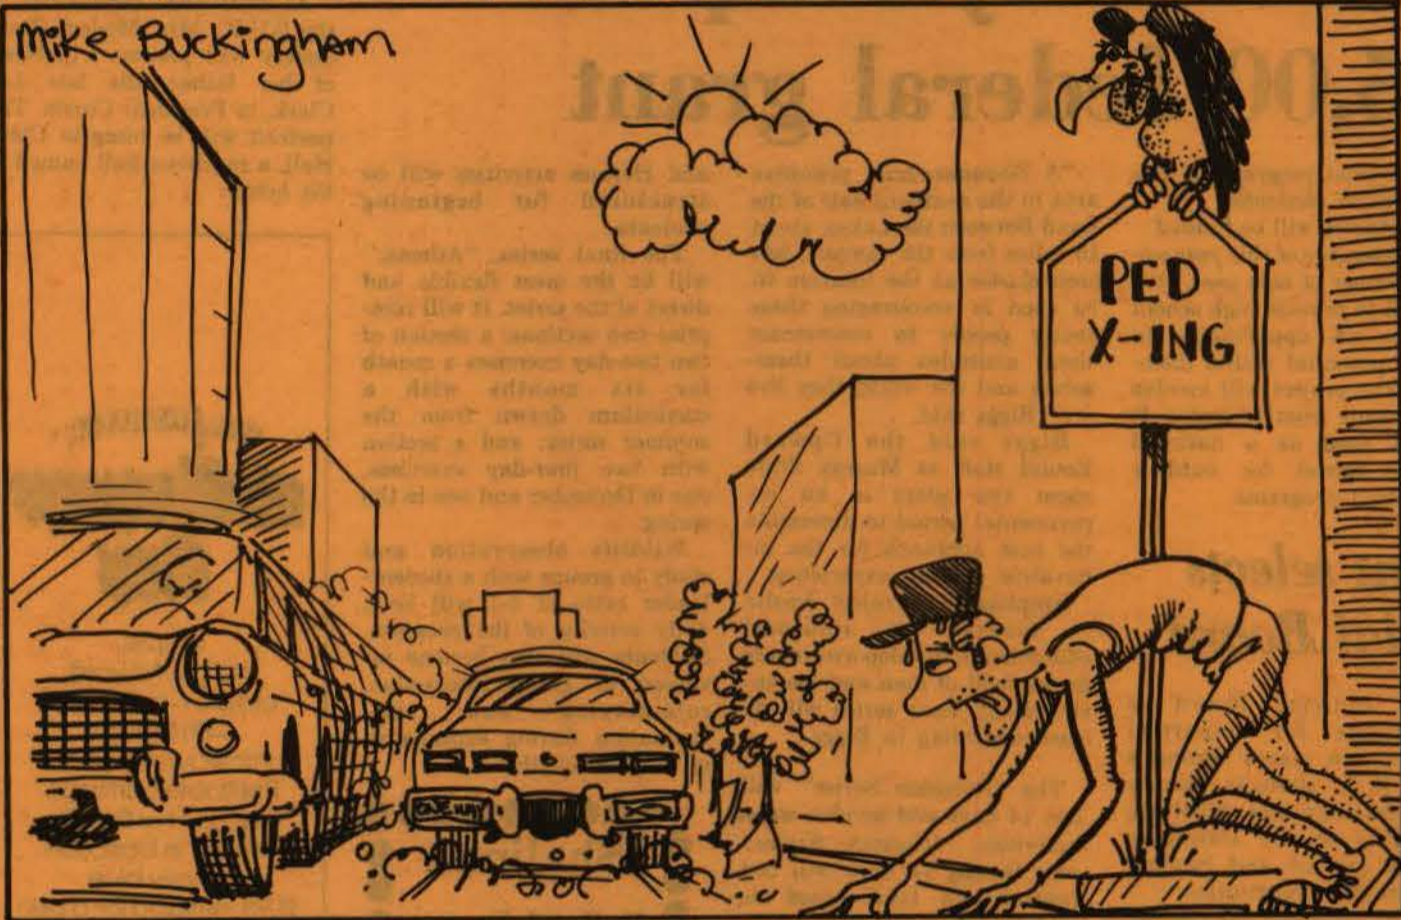

A look around may give some indication. We have buildings facing north and south butted against those facing east and west. Sidewalks have slowly begun to criss-cross the entire quadrangle resulting in an unfathomable maze.

Parking lots are unable to accommodate the areas they serve, the alternative being to park where no one else would dare. Add the stadium. If those 11,000 or more fans ever decide to leave at the same time, like at the end of a game, there is no way that lot can expell those cars in less than an hour.

Who plans these things? Once the matter of necessity is determined, the idea settles in the administration building. There in the offices of the two vice-presidents and budget and planning, specifics are worked out. Projected cost, availability of funds, location, completion date; all are variables. Each must be drawn to correlate with the others. Even after consultation with the architects, it is a lot of work for three men.

Needs point to a central planning committee. It would up-date current visions on a projected campus, organize immediate action concerning inevitable expansion and take steps to harmonize existing developments.

PERSPECTIVE

Want a super concert at Murray? Shell out!

The new school year has brought life once more to this campus, at least in the daytime. Again everyone is asking what there is to do. Especially at night, and particularly weekends.

The main group responsible for providing campus activities is the Student Government Association. One of the primary functions sponsored by the Association is a concert series. It has been announced that the first concert of the season will feature Lobo and the Goose Creek Symphony. Future concerts will feature Ike and Tina Turner, Jim Croce and the musical Godspell.

With the announcement of the concert schedule came the usual query: Why doesn't Murray State have concerts featuring the super groups like Chicago, Three Dog Night or Alice Cooper.

The answer is two-fold. Money and space.

An appearance by one of the super groups will cost generally $20,000 and up. Also, many of the groups require facilities which will seat many thousand more than do any of the facilities at Murray State.

Aside from the lack of adequate space, Murray State has in recent years had an average attendance at its concerts of around 3,000. In order for a major concert to break even with this sort of attendance, the tickets would cost from $10 to $15. Few students are willing to pay this. Any shortage must come from the Student Association since it must sign the contract.

But the Association gets a part of the registration fee paid by each student. So why the problem?

The Association receives $2.50 of the fees paid by each full-time student. Of this, $1 is used for the administrative needs of the group. The remaining $1.50 is designed as an activity fee and may be used to finance concerts, movies, lectures, dances, etc. Murray State's full-time enrollment is about 5,000. This would yield $7,500 which may be used to back the entire concert series and other activities of the semester.

As can readily be seen, poor attendance at a concert by a major group, which would be likely at the necessarily high prices, could not only deplete funds, but quickly put the Association in debt.

Would the student body bail out the group? Unlikely.

One proposal is to raise the student activity fee. Various proposals have suggested increases of from $5 to as high as $17. This would yield sufficient funds for the Association to underwrite at least one major concert. Depending on the increase, some concerts could even be free to students.

This fee, however, must be administered by the University. Last spring, the Board of Regents turned down a request to raise the fee by $3.50.

Without this, the Association can hardly be expected to go out on a limb for a really expensive concert.

Murray State students could get entertainment by bigger groups. But they must be willing to pay for it.

A look at the Board--

Editor's note: This is the first in a series taking a look at the Murray State Board of Regents, their positions, backgrounds and ideas.

By JAYNE CLARK
Special Writer

Like to hunt quail, collect guns, farm or go trail blazing over the countryside in a Scout? If you do, then you have something in common with Chairman of the Murray State Board of Regents, H. Glenn Doran.

Along with these hobbies, Doran has one more interest. As a Board of Regents member for 10 years he has demonstrated that he is concerned about MSU. He has been appointed to the Board three times and has served under Presidents Woods, Sparks and now Curris.

Chairman of the screening committee for Dr. Spark's successor was, he felt, a big job. It was he, along with the rest of the board, who narrowed down the 170 applications to the one man that they thought would be best for the University in its present stage of development.

As chairman, Doran views himself as more of a representative and spokesman for the entire board rather than the head of it. Along with Curris, he believes in making Murray more of a regional university and emphasizing the vocational aspects of higher education.

Doran

Doran would like to see the curriculum "tied in with today's world" more. Although he says there will not be much of an increase in course or degree offerings, the possibility of a Veterinarian curriculum is being studied. He hopes an increase in enrollment will come in the future so that the school faculty and facilities can be used to their full capacity.

Since Dr. Curris is a young man with an open door policy, Doran feels that he should be able to communicate with the students about their problems.

In the past students have always been good about talking their problems over with the president, but Doran said he would be available if they felt they could not talk with him.

Some of the qualifications Doran feels helped in his selection as a board member included being a former member of both the Kentucky State Board of Education and the Council on Higher Education.

Doran is involved in the community as well as school-related affairs. He has, since 1948, served as chief executive officer, vice-president, president and chairman of the board of the People's Bank of Murray and at age 47 is a member of Murray Rotary Club, director of Murray Chamber of Commerce and a member of the First United Methodist Church. He was selected "Man of the Year" by the Murray Chamber of Commerce in 1966.

As a graduate of Murray College High, Doran went on to attend MSU before joining the Navy. After a discharge as an Ensign in the Supply Corps, he then acquired his BBA from Tulane University and a MBA from Ohio State University. In college he was in the social fraternity Kappa Sigma and is now an honorary member of Murray's Alpha Kappa Psi fraternity.

When asked about his gun collection, Doran said he has been collecting his "spur trigger type" collection since high school. He also has a Kentucky Long Rifle and his two sons have a Colt Commemorative collection.

Doran, born and raised in Calloway County, lives in Murray with his wife Ann, formerly of Jonesboro, Ark. Besides the two sons, they also have three girls. Of the five children, two of them are now students at Murray State. Some final words with Doran revealed that he hoped to see possible renovation of both the Library and the Student Union Building in the future, and that plans for a new Hearing Center were in the process now.

H. Glenn Doran

The power of the executive-- What price equality?

That most fickle of all political allies, public opinion, has of late done a good bit of meandering about. Just about the time it seemed that everyone had made up their mind about the Watergate situation, it was revealed that the president had had his and other White House offices bugged.

Almost immediately the disclosures of the Watergate affair were shadowed by attempts to have these tapes released. Special investigator Archibald Cox wanted to hear the tapes in connection with his investigation. The Senate Committee investigating Watergate wanted to hear the tapes in relation to their investigation also.

President Nixon said no. The president justified his refusal to release the tapes by calling on confidentiality under executive privilege, one of those ambiguous expressions which tend to pop up in government on occasion.

The term executive privilege is absent from the constitution. It's another one of those "inherent powers" we were taught to consider as good as written. It arises from the separation of powers idea that the president, Congress, and the courts are equal; therefore, the president cannot be compelled to action by the Congress or, for that matter, the courts.

President Nixon has invoked his executive privilege because he says his position requires that he and those in connection with him must be able to communicate frankly and candidly, without fear of their statements being made public. He contends that if he were to release the taped conversations in question, others in the future could not be assured that what they said would be kept in confidence.

Several presidents have relied on executive privilege at one time or another. The premise for this privilege is well-founded and easily justifiable. It seems inevitable that secrecy will on occasion be the best policy. The threat of public disclosure could certainly cause some individuals to become overly cautious in disclosing their knowledge or opinion. One would be hard put to reason that this caution would always be beneficial in matters of national concern.

It must be pointed out, however, that one would be equally hardpressed to uphold the theory of executive privilege if it were used to cover up a criminal action.

The president may have based his decision on an approved assumption of the law. Those things he decides must be kept secret because that is in the nation's best interest (another of those ambiguous expressions) may be fairly applied to the doctrine of executive privilege.

But one of the first assumptions in law is that it will first apply as a means to the end of justice. Construing those laws to mask wrongdoing does not serve that end.

If the president feels that the doctrine of executive privilege is justly applied in this case it would seem his duty as chief executive to find some way to release evidence of wrongdoing, especially if it supports evidence from other sources. If nothing else, supportive excerpts could be released to substantiate information already gathered.

Public opinion may be a fickle thing, but it has often shown itself to be a powerful influence. Perhaps now would be a good time for it to be on the move again.

Letter to the editor

50th anniversary...

An Iconoclast is one who attacks venerated institutions or ideas, according to Webster's New World Dictionary. Perhaps now is the time for one of these slimey rascals to sneak around the corner of the barn and throw a corn cob or two at a scared cow, the 50th anniversary of Murray State University.

The 50th anniversary of Murray State, according to all the mathematical computations known to man was last year. So then the question is how then is it still going on in 1973?

Under normal conditions one would expect that an anniversary would last no longer than one year yet somehow Murray's has lasted 18 months. But, then again how often does one operate under normal conditions at Murray State?

The actual 50th anniversary of Murray State was March 8, 1972. Would not it have been more properly dealt with if the anniversary had ended on March 8, 1973? It is a well understood fact that classes did not begin until September 24, 1922, yet why should we have to undergo the same time lag once again. Indeed there are many minor dates to celebrate concerning Murray's founding.

Yet to celebrate each one of them serves only to detract from the anniversary.

Most certainly the founding of Murray State University should be celebrated, and we should be proud of its 50 years of existence. However the term "50th Anniversary" is now trite, over-used, and six months out of date.

Center will offer aid to students

By NANCY KELLY
Asst. Feature Editor

Maranatha is Greek for "The Lord Cometh" and the Maranatha Christian Center comes to Murray to spread the word of God.

The center, situated in a large yellow house on the corner of 12th and Olive is a mission of peace and love. It has four full-time staff members, Rod, Jim, Steve, and Doris (preferring only a first name basis) who serve as counselors as well as ministers of the religious meetings.

Contrary to some of the religious groups operating throughout the country, the Maranatha Christian Center does not seek to "brainwash" or "program" its followers. The primary purpose of the center is to encourage church participation and to teach the word of God.

The organization had its beginning in Paducah where a Maranatha Center has been in operation for about a year with a membership of 200 people, mostly teenagers. However, the Murray center is independent of the one in Paducah. The center came to Murray at the request of Wayne Perrin, owner of the Murray Christian Bookstore who has given a great deal of help to the center. The Maranatha Center sponsors its own Christian Bookstore, open from 6 to 9 p.m. each evening.

Literature for their bookstore is provided by Mr. Perrin. The bookstore has an interesting selection of religious albums, including gospel and Jesus rock as well as spiritual and prophetic books and pamphlets.

Each week Bible study is held on Wednesday nights at 7:30 p.m. and Fellowship Services begin at 7:30 p.m. on Friday nights. On Oct. 4 and Oct. 5, the center is sponsoring a movie, "Cross and the Switchblade" in the University School Auditorium at 8 p.m. The film is the story of a country preach, portrayed by Pat Boone, in the ghetti of New York City. Last Wednesday's Bible study included a speech by Tom Hamilton a well-known speaker from Charlestown, Ind.

The staff of the Murray center served as counselors for drug addicts, women seeking abortions, and lonely people, while working with the Paducah Maranatha Center. They invite anyone who needs help or needs someone to talk with, to contact them. There is no fee and no collections are taken during the religious services. The center is open 24 hours a day and its hotline number is 753-6666.

Maranatha hopes that after attending its services, students will take a more active and involved role in their respective churches. Unity in the spirit and unity in the body of Christ is the goal of Maranatha as it strives to join people of all denominations.

Speaking with some of the girls who have been a part of Christian fellowships over the years, and who are now seeking further study and enjoyment at Maranatha House, had such feelings as these:

"The Bible studies are really good, I learned alot, and met alot of people. The meetings touch so many people, I like being a Christian and sharing experiences with others."

There's no generation gap, with Jesus we all share a common bond. I use to have trouble talking to adults until I became a Christian, now I have no trouble at all--it helped me to get along with my parents."

"I thought I'd always been a Christian. I didn't do anything bad, but I didn't do anything

'The Issue of Amnesty' subject for Dr. Sims at UCM luncheon

"The Issue of Amnesty" was the topic discussed by Dr. Bobby Joe Sims, associate professor at Murray State University, during the United Campus Ministry luncheon Wednesday.

Dr. Sims upholds that the problem of deciding whether or not to grant amnesty depends on the legitimacy of the Vietnam war.

There are four basic ideas supported throughout the United States, Sims feels. One theory is that there should be absolutely no amnesty granted.

The second group supports the idea of selective amnesty or granting amnesty on an individual basis," as explained by Sims. In Sims' opinion there is "no selective difference between those who deserted and evaders."

Conditional amnesty, the third and most popular concept, suggests that amnesty should be granted to draft dodgers who agree to serving in some sort of compensatory service for three years. Sims said that according to his recent figures 63 percent of the people adhere to this idea.

Sims feels that the final concept, unconditional amnesty, seems to portray charity on the part of the supporter but in reality the majority of these people are interested more in proving themselves correct about the evils of the Vietnam war than the issue of amnesty itself.

Self vindication, says Sims, causes the seriousness of amnesty because it opens up all the old arguments of the war.

The speaker for next week's luncheon will be Cal Luther, athletics director.

Lobo offers wide range of musical mastery

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Special Writer

Late one spring evening last year, a California rock disk jockey selected a song by a new performer from among the many free "cuts" he received to air.

It was about a guy and a girl traveling across country with a dog whose name nobody quite understood. Nevertheless, the tune went the route to the magic kingdom of success...it sold and sold its way to a gold record.

And Kent LaVoie became known as Lobo, the star with "Me, You, and a Dog Named Boo" to his credit.

His latest cut, "Lobo-Calumet" reflects his entire range of vocal ability and contains two current hits, "How Can I Tell Her" and "It Sure Took A Long, Long Time". The beautiful part is that some of the other songs could also be smash sellers if only they were played.

Dipping back into a guy's childhood days, "Stoney" tells of someone who was happy with the simple things of life that people sometimes ignore when they try to love one too much. Then the next song, "Rock and Roll Days" uses the old technique of comparing life growing up today as it was years ago... "I've seen a lot of things change in many ways since I was a boy back in the rock and roll days...when the only bikes there were Schwinn's, the only pigs were the bad wolf's friend..."

On the flip side, "Love Me For What I Am" talks of a dude who "wore the clothes...parted my hair...carried your arm...and tried hard not to say the things you don't like to hear" for a girl and finally discovers he's changing too much of himself to be happy. "I can't give anymore of my soul away and still look myself in the mirror everyday." It's a sad song, which, undoubtedly, is true in many relationships.

Incidentally, Lobo will be appearing next Thursday evening Sept. 27, at 8:00 in the MSU Fieldhouse.

Hey, did I miss it?

... I thought the balloon was supposed to leave at 7.

The Marching Thoroughbred Band, directed by Roger Reichmuth presented a halftime show that added to the excitement of opening night in the new stadium. Among the selections played were: "Thematic Fanfare", "America the Beautiful", "March of American Hymns", "The Patriots". The majorettes performed their routine to "Broadway Salute" and the band marched into the outline of the state of Ky. while playing "This Is My Country", and "My Old Kentucky Home".

The Band then formed an outline of the United States playing "This Is My Country", and "America the Beautiful", and the fireworks began. At the conclusion of this number a giant American flag was unfurled in the center of the formation.

Many people took part in making the half-time show an impressive and memorable event. It was certainly one of the highlights of the evening. The crowd that poured into Roy Stewart Stadium was the biggest ever to attend a Murray football game. With some 12,000 people the grand opening was spectacular and ended with a victory over Western Carolina.

Strange fruit

By JOHN ERARDI

Enchilada City, USA

Last night I decided that what I needed was a hot, spicy Mexican chow-down. You know, I wanted to go the whole route and try to blow my stomach out of commission altogether. Every organ in my body was crying out for enchiladas, tortillas, tamales and jalapeno bean dip. The hotter the better; I wanted to spare my ulcer no pain.

A buddy of mine suggested that there was a little Mexican restaurant in Calvert City, about 35 miles from Murray. To get psyched up, I played my favorite Larry Moore recording of "The Alamo" about ten times and got out my sombrero and pancho and sat around the room yelling "Toro" and "Ole". I was ready.

It was a long ride up, so while we drove we listened to Jose Feliciano sing "Nena Na Na" on the stereo.

Wherever this place was, when we got there it would be glad to see us leave because we were ready to put on a pig show that no self-respecting Mexican would want to associate himself with.

We never got the chance--at least not in Calvert City. The place, called "La Fiesta", looked like one of the cooks went green bananas after eating a hot chili pepper and tried to burn the kitchen down, so it was closed up as tight as a drum.

To show my appreciation for my buddy who suggested we drive there, I put on my baseball cleats and did a Mexican hat dance on his head.

But all wasn't lost because the same guy said he heard there was a place in Paducah that served Mexican food, so we decided to make the trek. After all, we wanted Mexican chow, nothing less. Besides, I had a bad case of enchilada-on-the-brain and it was spreading quickly.

We stopped at a few "red-neck" gas stations in Paducah and tried to get directions. None of the weed-chewing, tobacco-spitting, resident "red-necks" knew where the place was. Finally, we stumbled on to someone who said he remembered his wife telling him about a place on the corner of Ninth and Broadway.

No way. If it was there we couldn't find it. Later we heard there was, in fact, a little place there called "Pedro's Little Hacienda." Right on Pedro, may the Spanish bird of paradise spit a peso in your guacamole dip. I would have paid a fortune to get an enchilada by this time, and this dude has his place sequestered like a speakeasy joint during Prohibition.

What next? By this time I was hallucinating enchiladas and smelling tortillas so I suggested we take the next plane to Mexico City from Paducah. We probably would have if it wasn't for the guy in a taxicab who pulled up next to us at a stop light and asked if we knew of any Greek restaurants in town.

This poor fellow had a case. If we couldn't find a Mexican restaurant, there was no way this dude was going to come up with any Greek chow.

Now this fellow looked Greek to me, and the only thing I know about Greeks is that they are dark-complected like the Italians and a bunch of them ran a bakery back in my hometown.

So I put two and two together and figured why not go to Roberto's and get a bowl of spaghetti and then go onto Red's Donut Shoppe for some pastries to top it all off.

So that's what we did, and I've got to admit that it wasn't bad. And Red the Baker (he was obviously Irish but I didn't let the Greek onto it) turned us on to some glazed donut holes that were out of this world and only 20c a dozen. The Greek fellow rolled out a wad of twenties and bought 7,000 dozen of them.

Now they were good, but the drive back to Murray from Paducah is an hour long at the most and there is no way we were gong to eat 84,000 donut holes--not even with a Greek and an Italian in the car.

I couldn't figure this dude out--he seemed to have a strange hang-up with pastries--but he also seemed like a nice enough fellow, so when he asked for a lift back to Murray, I figured why not.

It was a pleasant ride back to town on Rt. 641 and we all got into a great conversation about Murray State. The Greek was really up on things, but appeared to be a little on edge about something. Perhaps the spaghetti sauce wasn't sitting right with him.

But at least now I know what he plans to do with 7,000 donut holes. Don't ask me how I know, but Deno Curris is serving complimentary coffee and donuts at Oakhurst tomorrow night for all the students after the football game. Bring your own enchiladas.

University Theatre casts 33 in first fall production

The cast for the University Theatre production of "An Italian Straw Hat" has been chosen, according to Robert E. Johnson, department chairman and director of the show.

Auditions were held last week and the following individuals received roles in the production: Charles Hall and Mark Atha, Frankfort; Wayne Britton and Larry Riter, Mansfield, Ohio; Grey Hurt, Ed Odom, Teri Sanders, and Cathy Crecelius, Paducah; Brad Holbrook, Lexington; Randy Powell and Diane Burnett Benton;

Hollis Clark, Debi Shinner, Sherry Sills, and Roderick Reed, Murray; Rick Stephens, Hopkinsville; Mike Stallings, and Michael Young, Owensboro; Rene Boyd and Debbie McReynolds, Henderson; Jackie Smith, Petersburg, Ill.; and Ruth Ann Ramage, Houston, Tex.

Also cast were Sally Hoback, Louisville; Felicia Farmer, Vienna, Ill.; Sue Milfelt, Gilbertsville; Eva Lantrip, Caruthersville, Mo.; Marcy Maddux, Sturgis; Kay Threlkeld, Versailles; Caryl Imray, Bardstown; Jeff Lackey and John Dowell, Radcliff; James Travis, Camden, Tenn.;

and Rick Willet, Eddyville.

Serving as stage manager will be Roger Humphrey, a theatre major from Rumsey. Included in his duties will be all sound and light cues, the responsibility of following the script, making sure the actors make their cues, and the supervision of all scene changes.

"An Italian Straw Hat" is written in five acts, each of which requires a different set. For this reason, the sets must be designed to facilitate rapid scene changes. There are additional difficulties to be overcome, including the problem of working songs into the play and the staging of both interior and exterior scenes.

Kay Threlkeld, of Versailles, has been appointed musical director. She will work with the principal characters on their solo numbers and the chorus as well. She will also serve as a member of the chorus.

"An Italian Straw Hat" will be the department's first production of the season and is scheduled for Oct. 18, 19 and 20.

Pi Phi Delta will hold festival October 19-20

Twenty colleges from nine states are expected to attend the Pi Phi Delta oral interpretation festival. The program to be held on campus Oct. 19 and 20, will feature Dr. Charlotte Lee, internationally known authority of oral interpretation.

Pi Phi Delta is the campus honorary association for students of oral interpretation. Dr. Lee, of Northwestern University, will be the visiting critic and will also present a public reading performance Friday, Oct. 19, at 8 p.m. Dr.

registration will take place in the Student Union Bldg. Rounds are scheduled for Faculty Hall.

Lee is the author of the oral interpretation text most commonly used in its field.

The opening assembly is scheduled to begin at 1 p.m. on Friday. The first session and Each college is allowed six entrants, or two in each division. Readings are categorized as prose, poetry and drama. No student will be allowed to double. Each school entered must also supply a critic judge.

From the contestants, the critics will recommend six readers to be evaluated by Dr. Lee in the final session Saturday afternoon. She will then give an oral critique for the benefit of all entrants and coaches.

Free tickets being given by 'Kaintuck'

Approximately 4,000 free tickets were distributed at random to Murray State University students Wednesday by employees of Kaintuck Territory. The tickets will gain admittance to holders to the town of the 1880's any of four days.

Kaintuck Territory, located 20 miles north of Murray near Kentucky Dam, is sponsoring Murray State Days tomorrow, Sunday, and Sept. 29 and 30. Any student having a ticket and/or student ID card, will be admitted to the town free of charge.

Dates for MSU's teacher exams set

National Teacher Examinations will be given on Nov. 10, 1973 and on Jan. 26, April 6 and July 20, 1974. College seniors preparing to teach should take the test on one of the four dates.

Results of the examinations are used by many large school districts as one of the factors in selecting new teachers. Many states also use the exams for certification or licensing of teachers.

On each testing day, prospective teachers may also take the Common Examinations to measure professional preparation and a Teaching Area Examination to measure their mastery of the subject they plan to teach.

Prospective teachers should contact their colleges for specific advice on which examinations to take and on the dates they should be taken.

Officer jobs now available for overseas

Positions are now open for new economic and commercial officers in the Foreign Service of the United States. Each year 40 to 50 positions are available as well as an equal number of positions for administrative officers.

Candidates are selected through an examination process which begins with a written examination to test professional competence in a particular functional field. This test is followed by oral and medical examinations as well as a personal background investigation.

Candidates must be 21 years of age and U.S. citizens. Those who have completed three years of college by age 20 are also eligible.

For more information contact Dr. Howard C. Giles, Room 301A, Business Bldg.

"Bulletins of Information for Candidates" containing a list of information about the examinations as well as a registration form, may be obtained from the Murray State University Testing Center

Librarian resigns; will work for state

Edna Miliken, head of special collections at the Murray State University Library, will become director of special projects for the Kentucky Department of Libraries this Monday.

Frankie Trebing, former assistant librarian in social science and humanities, replaced Mrs. Miliken last Tuesday.

Editing a monthly newsletter and a quarterly publication will be among Mrs. Miliken's duties with the state library department.

She will also be in charge of special projects for all public libraries in the state.

One of these many projects will include encouraging the disadvantaged to use libraries. "Many of these disadvantaged persons have never been exposed to any other book except the Bible," said Mrs. Miliken. She explained that the projects would work from homes in the regions where a bookmobile cannot go.

A four year veteran of the Murray State Library, Edna Miliken joins former director of the MSU library, Charles Hines, at the Kentucky Department of Libraries.

MSU center started for testing, counseling

A counseling and testing center has been established on the MSU campus to serve the needs of all students and faculty. MSU library receives King literary collection

Murray State University's library has received an extensive collection of scholarly periodicals and professional books from the library of the late Dr. Rolf Egmont Percival King.

"King donated approximately 1200 volumes to the library, along with several hundred issues of scholarly journals," said Ernie Bailey, acquisitions librarian.

Among the works are critical studies by Schiller, Goethe, Durer and Hebbel.

"Many are, and have been, long out of print. It would be difficult, if not impossible, to replace some of these works at any price. The importance of this collection lies in its scholarly nature and the complement it will make to our German program," Bailey added.

Dr. King taught at Murray State during two periods, from 1950 to 1952 and from 1961 to 1970, before retiring because of ill health. In 1950, King edited Goethe on Human Creativeness and Other Essays. In addition to his scholastic endeavors, King was interested in the humanities. At Christmas he presented German plays in the Little Chapel in Wrather Hall.

An ardent patron of classical music and the arts, Dr. King donated a large collection of prints and Christmas cards to the art department.

Among his many achievements are the organization of the Language Laboratory and, in 1964, the establishment of Alpha Phi Omega, a service organization.

700 given jobs in 2 programs

Among the 7,000 students attending Murray State University this fall, approximately 700 have been given federal and University paid jobs suited to their interests and abilities. An even greater number are receiving other types of financial aid.

There are over 25 types of financial aid available at Murray State. It is the job of the Financial Aid Office to tailor the types of assistance available to the special needs of each student who receives financial aid.

Types of assistance offered at Murray range from Alumni scholarships amounting up to $500, dormitory scholarships equal to the rent of a semi-private room, departmental scholarships of $100 to $500 and Presidents scholarships of $300, most of which are renewable and last one academic year.

The ROTC department offers a four-year scholarship and Big Rivers RECC, a $500 four-year scholarship.

Also available at Murray are the federally sponsored loans of which the government pays 80 per cent and the University 20 per cent Federal Grants, Federal Work-Study Programs and University employment.

In order to receive financial aid, students are required to file applications with the Student Financial Aid Office and the American College Testing (ACT) program. ACT, upon study of the Family Financial Statement then aids the University in giving aid to the students who need it the most.

MSU tips 'Cats, 27-25, in home debut

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Asst. Sports Editor

Uncorking a gala evening of festivities which marked the christening of new Roy Stewart Stadium last Saturday night, Murray State eventually proved to be a poor host to Western Carolina as the 12,500 fans gleefully noted.

The Racers twice came from behind to hand the nationally ninth-ranked Catamount a 27-25 upset defeat before the largest crowd ever to see a MSU football battle.

In fact, the Catamounts could have wished they'd boarded the huge hot air balloon which prematurely departed from its scheduled pre-game liftoff.

With a host of players, several of whom are being touted as possible All-Americans, WCU brought what preseason polls called "the best 'Cat team in the history of the North Carolina school." But Murray used a deadly passing attack and some timely running to shove the reputation and make ripples of its own.

MSU gets loose fumble

It started in history book fashion as MSU's right tackle, Dan Helfrich, recovered a loose ball on the WCU nine-yard line on the opening kickoff. One play later, Racer signal caller Tom Pandolfi put Murray on the scoreboard only seconds after Roy Stewart...for whom the structure is named...was introduced.

After a fruitless 'Cat drive which ended in a punt, MSU marched 57 yards in 15 plays to record its second score when kicking specialist Don Wright booted a 31-yard field goal for a 9-0 advantage. Pandolfi used the inside running of tailback Don Clayton to rip off a first down before starting his first passing attack of the season.

Finding wide receiver Scotty Crump twice on short passes which moved the ball from the MSU 40 to the 'Cat 48, Pandolfi handed off to workhorse fullback Jim Engel who rambled for nine more. The key play of the drive was a pinpoint 22-yard strike to tight end Bill Farrell who rambled to the WCU 36.

Four plays later, MSU went ahead, but only briefly for nine points as the 'Cats rebounded with a touchdown, going 75 yards in only four plays. Sophomore quarterback Phil Dietz, who is already being scouted, uncorked a 38-yard bomb to speedy split end Jerry Gaines, who was finally pulled down from behind on the MSU 37-yard line. Two plays later, Dietz found Gaines again on a 44-yarder that carried the 'Cat senior across the goal line with exactly nine minutes to go in the quarter.

Penalty aids scoring drive

Willie Deloach took a Pandolfi handoff after WCU's kickoff and went 23 yards to give the Racers a first and ten situation on their own 31 before Clayton broke loose for 20 more to spot the ball near midfield. A timely penalty gave the Racers good field position as Pandolfi hit Crump for seven with a short pass in the flats to move Murray to the 14-yard stripe. Clayton gave the Racers their second touchdown when he barreled over from the one with 2:37 to go in the first period.

Wright, who earlier boomed a 31-yard field goal, missed on the conversion attempt and three others in the contest, but the Catamounts luckily, could also only complete one of four.

Both teams exchanged the ball five times, before WCU's David Hackett introduced himself to the Murray secondary. The reserve tailback started on his own 15-yard line and made two short gains on handoffs before he broke open on third down for a 30-yard gallop to the MSU 39 where he was torn down.

On the next play, "Catback" Eagle Moss, a 5'5" compact bundle of speed, picked up 25 yards on a double reverse to get down to the MSU six. Three plays later, Hackett bulled his way over to cut the Racer advantage to 15-13 for the half-time score.

Catamounts go ahead

Immediately following a Racer punt, the Catamounts recorded their first lead of the contest when Hackett broke through the Racer line from the seven to climax a 42-yard drive in 10 plays. The big tailback accounted for 17 of these as Dietz scrambled his offense with short passes to tight end Mike Green and Jeff Kirwin.

Murray grabbed the advantage back again when Pandolfi fired his first touchdown pass... the first thrown by MSU in Stewart Stadium... and the third of his career. Farrell made the catch on a fourth-down play which made it 21-19 with 4:57 left in the third canto.

MSU QUARTERBACK Tom Pandolfi plunges into the end zone to score the first touchdown in the Roy Stewart Stadium Saturday night against Western Carolina. The TD came within the first minute of play after the Racers had recovered a Catamount fumble. Leading the way for Pandolfi is center David Mains (51), while running back Don Clayton (31) follows.

Bill Furgerson is mindful of Tech's desire to win

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Asst. Sports Editor

Enjoying the repercussions from his Racers 27-25 upset of highly ranked Western Carolina last Saturday in the debut of classy Roy Stewart Stadium, Head Coach Bill Furgerson is not forgetting a hungry bird around the corner.

Tennessee Tech, MSU's visitors tomorrow in the OVC opener for both squads, was the 1972 league champion with only a single defeat until the Golden Eagles were routed in the post-season Grantland Rice Bowl.

This season, however, TT is winless--fighting the same Western Carolina team to a 10-10 standoff and being creamed by powerful South Dakota 30-0 last week.

"We really feel good about starting the season in the new stadium the way we did," Coach Furgerson said, "the emotional impact on the squad was great."

"It also made the coaching staff happy since all the preseason forecasters predicted Murray State as having three returning quarterbacks, none of which was a proven winner," he reflected. MSU did indeed have a leader last Saturday against WCU in junior Tom Pandolfi who completed 16 of 28 passes for 220 yards and one touchdown, while rushing for two more.

For his spectacular performance, Pandolfi was presented a game ball by the MSU coaching staff and was named the OVC offensive player of the week.

"You know Dr. Curris, our new president, came down to our dressing room prior to the start of the game," Coach Furgerson said laughing, "and if the outcome is any reflection, we'll use him every game!"

As a team, Saturday's efforts boosted MSU to second in OVC team offense behind Eastern Kentucky, who also led in total defense. Pandolfi holds down the top position in total offense and ranks second in OVC passing.

Running back Don Clayton ranks as the number two rusher in the league after galloping for 111 yards in 19 tries Saturday for a sparkling 5.8 yards per carry average. In pass receiving, Scotty Crump and Bill Farrell are in the number one and three positions, respectively.

"Tech is certainly going to be ready for Murray since the Golden Eagles have played two top-notch teams--they're aggressive, sound, and well coached," Coach Furgerson noted.

The Racers escaped the encounter with the Catamounts without serious injuries, although David Wright, freshman running back, sustained a slight bone bruise and will be briefly out of action.

Kickoff for tomorrow's OVC battle is 7:30 p.m.

Pandolfi connected on 16 of 28 passes for 220 yards, and he earned the Associated Press' Offensive Player of the Week honors for the Ohio Valley Conference.

Mikko Horsma, '72 MVP, leads tennis hopes in '73

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Asst. Sports Editor

With three returning lettermen and the OVC champion in the men's number two singles, Head Coach Bennie Purcell is "cautiously optimistic" about his tennis team's chances this fall.

Finishing with a 21-6 slate last season, the Racers have Mikko Horsma, a native of Finland who was the 1972 Most Valuable Player, returning to the number one position on the courts to defend his singles title.

Also coming back are lettermen: Ross Bowling, Bowling Green, junior; Arne Knudsen, a native of Norway; Buddy Carollo, Lexington, senior, and Mike Owen, Evansville, Ind.

"There's really not much I can say about the team this year other than we'll need excellent play from everyone if we hope to finish near or on top," Coach Purcell said. "We're a very young team with so many untried players that it will be difficult to match last season's mark."

New faces across the nets are Bob Peters, Fla. junior college transfer; Del Purcell, the head coach's son who teamed with brother Mel to sweep the 1973 State High School Doubles Championship, and Charles Wadlington, who was ranked number nine in Florida junior's play.

The MSU squad recently hosted the 15th annual Kentucky Hardcourt Invitational which was described as "very successful". "There were 42 singles entries and 40 doubles teams involved in the play," Coach Purcell noted.

Murray had two doubles teams of Horsma-Knudsen and Peters-Del Purcell to be defeated in the semi-finals.

Coach Purcell is currently working with Athletic Department officials on the playing conditions of the newly opened tennis courts located near Regents Hall and old Carlise Cutchin Stadium.

Alpha Gams undefeated in softball

Alpha Gamma Delta gained the lead in the sorority division, while BSU I, Ashton B. Raisor, and Mac's Monkeys were all tied for the top spot in the independent division of the women's intramural softball league.

Alpha Gamma Delta possesses a record of 1-0, while Kappa Delta is second with a 1-1 mark. Alpha Omicron Pi is winless in one outing, while Sigma Sigma Sigma, Alpha Sigma Alpha, and Alpha Delta Pi have yet to see action.

The three teams in the independent division have all recorded 1-1 marks, while two other squads, BSU II, and Pooh's Gang, have yet to compete. Dames Club is 0-1 on the season.

Golden Eagles now 0-1-1 on the season

Racers set for Tech(nical) encounter

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Asst. Sports Editor

Prior to the start of the current season, Tennessee Tech fans were informed that the first two contests would determine their team's chances of repeating the OVC crown it won handily last year.

Murray State Head Coach Bill Furgerson could be smiling now if he remembers those words as he prepares his Racers for tomorrow night's clash with the Golden Eagles at Roy Stewart Stadium.

Tech currently stands 0-1-1 after opening with nationally ninth-ranked Western Carolina (which MSU skimmed 27-25 last week) and deadlocking the Catamounts 10-10 and being blown out by fourth ranked South Dakota 30-0 last week.

But undoubtedly, the Golden Eagles will not be a pushover for the Racers as Murray has failed to defeat TT since 1968 and still the visitors have 33 lettermen from the squad which edged MSU 10-0 in 1972 during a driving rainstorm at Cookeville.

Heading the Golden Eagles offensively will be Mike Ledford, junior quarterback who engineered the drive which tied TT with Western Carolina; Tommy Pemberton, junior split end who was honorable mention All-OVC; outside running threat Dicki Fulton, senior halfback; and workhorse sophomore halfback, Mike DeRossett.

Should Ledford run into trouble with the Racer defense, Robert Dalton, a sophomore quarterback-turned-end and David Quay will be used on pass patterns with junior fullback Terry Johnson, who supported the second best yard-gained-average in the OVC last season. Mike Defino and Steve Evans opened at the tackle slots against WCU, as Bobby Graham and Don McDaniel played guards. The top center in the league, Jim Dorsey will start at that position as the Golden Eagles attempt to generate some offense.

Defensively, TT looks solid, although something had to give last week to allow South Dakota to slap 30 markers on the board. Junior linebacker Dana Wittingham led the Golden Eagles against WCU; defensive end Elois Grooms, one of the best Golden Eagles has the pro scouts watching in tackles-assists; Larry Monteen, Ronnie Summey, and Bill Tesno head the halfbacks; Tony Plavich and Joe Jachimowicz team at the tackle slot; and Russ Waddell, Eddie Nunley, and Howard Stidham will hold down the linebacker positions.

Racers edge Catamounts behind Pandolfi's passing

The margin stood until midway through the final period when Dietz and Hackett rallied the 'Cats with a final charge which covered 69 yards in 11 plays. Combining with pinpoint accuracy, the pair effectively switched from pass patterns to handoffs to give WCU its final marker with 9:48 remaining as Hackett burst through the middle from the eight for a 25-21 WCU advantage.

Determined not to spoil their showplace opener, coach Bill Furgerson's Racers drove 78 yards in six plays in the best offensive showing of the contest which was highlighted by a 56-yard pass play from Pandolfi to Farrell. Almost the entire crowd was on its feet when Pandolfi used a quarterback sneak to ice the game for MSU with 7:49 showing.

The Racers' stout defense which sacked Dietz four times in the first half, preserved the win although there were several uneasy seconds with 0:01 showing on the clock and WCU on the Murray 37-yard line. But the threat died when fake field goal pass was caught, and WCU's Mike Green was chased out of bounds.

Final stats close for first contest

The closeness of the final score of Saturday night's contest between Murray State and Western Carolina typified the two team's final statistics.

The Racers piled up 19 first downs, as compared to the Catamounts' 20, while both teams recorded the same number of rushing plays--23.

Murray's 140 net yards rushing was 11 more yards than Western Carolina's total of 129, but both teams amassed 360 yards on total offensive.

Softball play begins; five tied for lead

Five teams lead the fraternity division, and two lead the independent division as the first week of men's intramural fast pitch softball action comes to an end.

The results, which do not include the games of this week's schedule, finds five fraternity teams with a single win and no loss.

The teams are Tau Kappa Epsilon, Pi Kappa Alpha, Sigma Chi, Sigma Phi Epsilon, and Delta Sigma Phi.

The independent league is led by Jesus Is Lord and Purple Flash, both of whom have recorded two victories without a setback.

Several games in the fraternity league were rescheduled due to poor weather and field conditions.

Both divisions will play full schedules every week, but the results will not be published until the following week.

MSU and Western Carolina each were penalized 45 yards, and each team lost a fumble.

Individually, Steve Martin boomed six punts for 189 yards, good for a 31.5 average.

Willie DeLoach hauled down five kick-off returns for 96 yards and a 19.2 average.

Joe Echert and Bruce Farris led the Racers' defensive charge. Echert was credited with seven tackles and three assists, while Farris had eight tackles and a pair of assists.

Jay Waddle collected eight tackles and had a single assist, and Dan Helfrich made six tackles and had three assists.

Also contributing to the defensive charge was Mark Hickman, who had six tackles and one assist, and Paul Coltharp, who totalled three tackles and three assists.

As a team, Murray State made 60 tackles and 20 assists throughout the contest.

Helfrich made the fumble recovery, and Don Deiken and Tom Johnson each was credited with an interception.

Les Taylor given waivers in ABA

Former MSU hardwood superstar Les Taylor was put on waivers by the Kentucky Colonels of the ABA who had earlier drafted the 6'3" guard.

Taylor was chosen OVC "Player of the Year" for two successive seasons and made the All-OVC cage squad a record three years in a row.

For $500 or more, any ABA team can claim Taylor. If any player on waivers is unselected, he becomes a free agent and any club can make him an offer.

Racers rally twice to deadlock 'Bama in opening soccer match

By STEVE W. GIVENS
Asst. Sports Editor

Down by two goals late in the final period, Murray State's soccer team rallied for a 4-4 stand off with powerful University of Alabama in the Racers' open last Saturday.

But an even sweeter event occurred when MSU Head Coach John Polacek read what the UAH newspaper said about the Racers prior to the match. The 'Bama team coach said, "Our schedule for this year is tough since we're the defending Southeastern Conference champs. Everyone's out to get us, but the teams to beat are Murray State and St. Bernard College (Ala.)."

In the match played at Huntsville, the Crimson Tide jumped to a 1-0 advantage after seven minutes of play, but MSU fought back on Ben Tabrizi's goal. The Racers controlled the tempo of the contest during the remainder of the half and tacked on another marker with near five minutes remaining on a Pat Francis boot.

'Bama roared back in the second half to a 4-2 margin before the young Racer team settled in its pattern. Greg Gelholt cut the advantage to a point when he knocked a goal home with 14 minutes showing to set up the spectacular finish.

MSU had several opportunities to score in the final minutes but failed until Francis decided to make his move. Taking a daring 25 foot shot, the big middle forward saw the ball slap into the net to deadlock the match at 4-4.

Holding the defensive pressure on 'Bama the Racers secured a tie and avenged a 6-3 opening loss to the UAH squad last season which compiled a 15-3-2 slate.

"I was quite pleased with the way the team came back after being down two goals, particularly since it's so early in the season," Coach Polacek commented.

"We played a defensive game at UAH, but Saturday against Vandy we're going to display more offense and force them to play our type of game," he added.

Everyone in the country, and perhaps in the world, has probably heard of Atlanta Braves' slugger Henry Aaron's attempt to break Babe Ruth's all-time major league home run mark this season.

Aaron is shooting for the once-unthinkable goal of Ruth's 714, and at the present time, the already legendary Aaron has belted 711 career round-trippers.

And, maybe everyone has heard of Buffalo Bills' O.J. Simpson, who just last weekend broke a single game rushing record in the National Football League by amassing 250 yards in 29 attempts.

The running back's total eclipsed the previous mark of 247 yards which was set by the Los Angeles Rams' Willie Ellisson in 1972.

But, who has ever heard of Joe Sprinz, A.L. Gastin, Chick Linster, Bill Corbett, or Mark Lowder?

Each and every one of these individuals holds a unique record in the Guinness Book of World Records.

Sprinz, formerly of the Cleveland Indians in the American League, holds the dubious distinction of catching a baseball from the highest altitude.

The outfielder, in July, 1931, caught the baseball which was dropped from an airship at 800 feet. Unfortunately, the force of catching the ball broke his jaw.

Or take, for instance, Gastin, who holds the lowest recorded score (93) for throwing a golfball around 18 holes. Gastin accomplished the feat on the 6,220-yard University of Missouri-Columbia course in October, 1971.

Doing 6,006 consecutive push-ups was no "push-over" for the 16-year-old Linster of Wilmette, Ill. in October, 1965. Linster set the mark for most push-ups in three hours, 54 minutes.

Corbett, a Seattle, Wash. resident holds the mark for most bricks broken. He performed the feat on Sept. 18-20, 1971, by breaking 3,500 bricks with his hand in 13 hours, and he sustained a rate of 269 per hour. Unfortunately, he also sustained a cracked left wrist.

Sixteen-year-old Lowder set the duration mark for treading water in a vertical position--18 hours on July 20-21, 1972, at Rock Creek Park, N.C.

Are there any Murray State students who have a yearning for headlines, and who wish to do so by smashing one of the aforementioned marks? If not, is there anyone who has knowledge of any other unpublished or little-known "world records?"

I would like to take this opportunity to extend my thanks and appreciation to Joe Dorris of the Kentucky New Era in Hopkinsville for giving his permission to me to borrow the title for this column.

The title was coined 13 years ago by Dorris when he was writing a regular sports column for the New Era.

Cross country team wins tri-meet in season opener

By MARK BAUMAN

Murray State's cross country team opened the season with a triangular meet victory over Lincoln University and SIU-Edwardsville Saturday at Jefferson City, Mo.

The Racers, led by Sam Torres and Gordy Benfield, scored 25 points to 41 for SIU and 73 for the host school Lincoln.

Running his second year at Murray, Torres won individual honors in the four-mile race with a record time of 18:56.0 which was 14 seconds ahead of the old record.

Benfield finished only six seconds behind the course record with a clocking of 19:16. Freshman Don Wilcox finished fifth in the race as the Racers' third man, crossing the line in 19:47.

Two SIU runners followed Wilcox across the line, but Murray claimed the next three places with Brad Finseth, Dennis Mabbit, and Stan Thompson finishing eighth, ninth, and 10th respectively.

Finseth finished in 20:47, Mabbit was timed in 20:42, and Thompson was ten seconds behind Mabbit.

Clint Strohmeier was 12th with a 21:01 clocking, John Balbach was next in 21:21, and Dennis Sturt ran 21:31 for 14th place.

Harriers will compete on Owensboro course

By MARK BAUMAN

The Murray State cross country team is slated to compete in the Owensboro Invitational, a four-mile race to be held in Owensboro tomorrow.

Coach Bill Cornell will have Sam Torres, Rod Harvey, Stan Thompson, John Balbach, and Dennis Sturt returning. The five were members of last year's squad that finished fifth behind Southeast Missouri, Eastern Kentucky, Western Kentucky, and Morehead.

Torres took runnerup honors in the event last year to Western's Nick Rose, while Harvey was eighth, Sturt 24th, Balbach 51st, and Thompson 52nd.

Competing for the first time for MSU at Owensboro will be Gordy Benfield, Don Wilcox, Brad Finseth, Dennis Mabbit, and Clint Strohmeier.

Murray lost two of its runners from the team last season, while both Eastern and Western have retained their top runners from last fall.

Cornell says, "The course will be a lot tougher than the one the team ran on last year, and my new runners get will get their first chance to run against other OVC teams."

Wins five of six pitching Class A in Miami

MSU's loss, Baltimore's gain--Peach goes pro

By STEVE HALE
Special Writer

Russ Peach, Murray State's standout pitcher last season, is still a student at Murray but is no longer the property of the Racer baseball team. Under the management of the Baltimore Orioles, the Evansville, Ind. native has just finished his first season in professional baseball.

Peach said that before going to the Appalachian League, a rookie league in West Virginia, "I expected all of them to be great ball players, but I soon found myself to be just as good as many of them.

Gaining a 5-1 record with the Orioles, Peach had an earned run average of 1.00 before

RUSS PEACH
Former MSU hurler

allowing six runs to score in a game which he thought had ruined all chances for advancement toward the major leagues. Ironically, it was that same night that he was called up to play Class A ball in the Florida State League, one of the best pitching leagues in the minor league system.

"After the game, I was depressed and was walking toward my car when one of the players called me back in. The coach wanted to see me." Upon entering the coach's office, here's how the conversation went:

Coach: Have you got your bags packed?
Peach: To go where? Home?
Coach: No, Miami.
Peach: You're kidding.
Coach: No, you've been promoted to Class A ball.

It wasn't long after arriving in Miami that Peach had what he called, "my biggest highlight of the season." In one day, the 6'1", 185-pound southpaw pitched in two games and was credited with the win in both games. He also scored the winning run in the second game.

While in Miami, Peach saw action in six games, winning five of them and establishing an ERA of 1.35.

Peach, who is one of only four Murray players to ever hurl a no-hitter, says that the Florida State League is quite different from the Ohio Valley Conference. "In college, it was not unusual for me to have 11 or 12 strike-outs a game. I'm lucky if I get five now."

Peach admits that it's nice getting paid for something he enjoys, but added, "A person can't live off the salary they start you on. It becomes just like any other job--hard work if you want to make it to the top."

After pitching in the playoffs on August 30, the southpaw took a flight out of Miami at 3:15 a.m. and was no longer under complete management in the Orioles' farm system. He became the newly-acquired property of Nanette Holler of Evansville, Ind., as the two were married that evening.

Incidentally, Peach lost the game the night before.
