Kentucky Windage

(By P. W.)

We join the rest of his legion of friends in expressing our heartfelt condolences to the family of Nemo Williams, who passed away last Thursday at the age of only 44.

Nemo was one of those quiet kind of guys who didn't say much, but he always did his job well and was as dependable as your right arm. As fire chief here for the past 19 years, Nemo made that his full-time and complete interest, and in the years I have been in Fulton I have never known a more dedicated or hard-working servant of the public.

Sometimes a lot of citizens in small communities like these don't realize just how much time and dedication their employees give to their jobs of being firemen, policemen and providing utility services on a round-the-clock basis, most of the time at pay that is not equal to their dedication to their job, even though it is all that the city can afford.

Men like Nemo Williams make a small town a good town, and we'll sure miss him. After nineteen years around the fire house, he WAS the fire department. No community could ask for greater public service than that.

Had a nice chat last weekend with Milton ("Hodge") Hodges, who was visiting in Fulton from his home in Detroit. He was here visiting the bedside of his brother, Herschel, at the Fulton Hospital. Herschel passed away Tuesday morning, we are sorry to learn, and we extend our sympathies to all his family.

Hodge was asking about all of his old friends, and hoped he would get to see a few of them, including Frank Beadles, Louis Weeks, Ual Killebrew, "Bones" Forrest and Lowell Valentine, and I hoped that he could. I told him that Lowell was over at Franklin. Hodge played professional baseball for 12 years, including time in the Southern League, before going to work for Chrysler as a tool and die maker. He has retired after 30 years on that job.

"Hodge" keeps up with the Fulton area happenings through The News, every week. Says it's the greatest paper that has ever been on Commercial Avenue.

In the mail this week came an announcement that a new musical, "The Hatfields and McCoys" will premier this summer at Beckley, West Va. The feud-play depicts in music, story and dance the famous 19th-century family war between the Hatfields of West Virginia and the McCoys of Kentucky.

Which brings to mind an incident in 1962 in which a Fulton Army officer brought a serious military lecture at Fort Gordon (Ga) to a hilarious and premature ending without really intending to.

It seems that the 439th Civil Affairs Company of Paducah - including several Fulton officers—was attending a series of lectures at Fort Gordon. This particular one was being given by a New Yorker, who got off his subject a little and started talking about, and comparing the morals, manners and fierceness of the Hatfields and the McCoys and their famous feuding. After suffering insults to the family name about as long as he could stand it, a short hand went up in the audience, asking for recognition. The startled instructor nodded.

"Captain Hatfield of Kentucky, Sir", said Gene as he introduced himself, but he got no further. The whole class burst into a roar of laughter and the embarrassed instructor had his lecture shattered. After some kind of order was finally restored, Gene patiently explained that there were a number of errors in the instructor's historical sketch that he would like to correct with the instructor when the class was over. That sent the lecture hall into another state of prolonged uproar that broke up the meeting.

Gene met the instructor after class and corrected the errors to him, and the poor guy walked away shaking his head, vowing never to get on the subject again.

Do you ever see the television commercial about the "six-second soak"? It takes sixty seconds to do it. Time it yourself some time.

Scott Smith up at Benton notes that it has been nine years since the Peace Corps was established, and we've been fighting a war ever since.

Hickman Switches To TVA Low Cost Power

It's going to be a cool, cool summer for residents, business firms and industries in Hickman come the electrical statement on the first of June of this year.

While Hickman slept in the early morning hours of April 15, 12:01 a. m. to be exact, the Hickman Electric System switched over its purchasing of electric power from the Kentucky Utilities Company to power from the Tennessee Valley Authority.

The switchover means savings of as high as 33% for residential users, as high as 37.7% for small lighting and power, and 30.2% for large lighting and power consumers.

The overall savings, in all months of arduous and dedicated efforts by civic and industrial leaders in Hickman to bring the city into competition with industry and to afford its residents the conveniences of expanded use of electrical appliances at no extra cost, and even a saving.

The milestone for low cost power reflects months and City of Hickman, elected to

County Has Just One Approved CD Shelter

"If we aren't prepared before it begins, we do not have the time after it happens," was the message civic leaders, interested citizens and elected officials learned Monday night at the Fulton County Emergency Conference held at the Hickman Elementary School. Making the statement was Wayne Berry, of the University of Kentucky Extension Service who spoke on the "Effects of Modern Warfare."

"But warfare is not the only hazards people must prepare against in a strong Civil Defense program," Leon J. Reed, deputy director of the Kentucky Division of Civil Defense told the large crowd attending the conference. "Tornadoes, floods, and other natural disasters are equally as hazardous to communities when its citizens must be protected in an emergency," Mr. Reed said.

It was pointed out at the meeting that Fulton County has only one Federally approved protection center and that is the basement of the post-office building in Hickman. "This is not to say that there are not other facilities, such as home basements, school gymnasiums, and other fortified buildings that cannot be used in an emergency," the speakers said, "but the postoffice building in Hickman is the only one that meets the standards for protection for the Federal government," they added.

Other significant statements revealed at the meeting were that 68 radiological monitors are needed for effective protection in Fulton County, but only six are trained; 80 trained shelter managers are needed, but none have been trained thus far in Fulton County. Only 266 students in the county have been taught medical self-help, state accumulated facts reveal.

Opening the program with welcome greetings were Judge James C. Meneses and Mayor of Hickman Richard White. Giving the invocation was Rev. George McKelvey, pastor of the First United Methodist Church.

Moderating the program was R. D. Johnson, dean of the Extension Service of UK. A discussion on local emergency was led by Henry A. Vick of UK and Livingston Campbell, coordinator of Area One, Department of Civil Defense.

Wardell Yarbro is director of Fulton County's Civil Defense program.

NORMAN WORRELL, left, Executive Director of the Tennessee Arts Commission, paid his first visit to Fulton Wednesday for a planning session for the Banana Festival. Besides Worrell, picture includes Mrs. Hendon Wright, advisor to the Banana Festival board; Ruth and Ron Laird, co-chairmen of the Inter-American Music Committee, and Mrs. Evelyn Dixon, Banana Festival secretary.

17-Year Locusts Are Due To Emerge Soon

This may be the most unlucky spring in 17 years.

From the Mississippi to the Atlantic, much of the country will be buzzing to the love call of the 17-year locust. It can be one of the most awesome and overpowering noises in nature.

Billions and billions of these large insects will dig open their individual ground burrows and crawl out some warm evening. They will be suddenly responding to a biological clock that ticks off one of the longest and strangest life cycles of the insect world.

From late April in the southern states to early June in the north, the ground and trees

Suzie Harris Chosen "Miss South Fulton"

A tiny but charming brunette, Miss Suzie Harris, was chosen from a field of sixty-three contestants Tuesday night to be "Miss South Fulton of 1970."

Suzie, four-feet and eleven inches of personality and good looks, is 17, a senior at South Fulton and the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Joe Thomas Harris, 101 Circle Drive, South Fulton. She won a $50 bond, trophy, and a dozen red roses.

Besides Suzie, the top five finalists included Jackie Hollie, school officials. Proceeds from the gate will go to various school activities.

The princess was crowned by South Fulton Mayor Dr. Dan Crocker. Ray Williams served as MC, assisted by Mrs. Sammy Haddad; organ music was provided by Mrs. Martha Logan assisted by Lamon Kilzer on the guitar, and there were additional musical numbers interspersed at various times by other performers.

The competition, open to all students in the South Fulton schools, drew an estimated audience of over 800 and was

New Time Arrives Saturday! Set Your Clocks Up An Hour!

Daylight Time — that fighting word that had all Western Kentuckians deadlocked in battle with their Eastern Kentucky neighbors in a grim tug-of-war in the legislature during the recent session — will come peacefully to all this weekend.

To be exact, daylight time becomes "official" Sunday morning at 2: a. m., so as you turn in Saturday night, set your clocks forward one hour.

Only three States out of the 50 will not officially observe daylight time this year: Michigan, Arizona and Hawaii, although scattered communities within each of them will.

It is an interesting fact, that was apparently unknown to many Kentuckians, that the Uniform Time Act affects only States, and not the cities and other communities within them. These communities remain completely free to set their own standard times, and to switch to and from these standard times whenever they choose, according to a major wire

Twin Cities Youth Readies '70 Schedule

The summer recreation program for Twin Cities Youth Inc. will enter its ninth year of baseball and softball this summer at Fulton's city park, and if past records are any indication, some 400 boys and girls will be playing in the five leagues that the organization directs.

Last week registration cards were distributed in the various schools in the area, with all those interested in playing asked to fill out the cards and turn them in this week. Teams will be selected and managers named probably sometime this week.

Charles Curtis is the new president of Twin Cities Youth, Inc., and other officers include: George Brock, 1st vice president and treasurer; Clyde Stunson, 2nd vice president; Mrs. Hunter B. Whitesell, secretary.

Other directors are: Nelson Tripp, Virgil Yates, Jim Bright, Jack Moore, Louis Weeks and Cecil Maddox.

For the second straight year, Cecil Maddox, Fulton Junior High school, will serve as park director. Wayne Lohaus will be the assistant director.

Lions Program Will Feature African Trip

Newton Belt, a well-known artist and traveler, will be the guest speaker at the Fulton Lions Club program Friday noon at the Park Terrace.

Mr. Belt has recently returned from several weeks stay in Africa and will show slides of this trip. He has exhibited his paintings at the Banana Festival and at the Fulton Art Guild recently.

Lawson Roper is program chairman and would like to have each Lions Club member bring a guest to this meeting.

Have You Made Your Derby Choice Yet? The Big Race Is Coming Up May 2

As one writer puts it, "when a dyed-in-the-wool horse player wins a bet on the Kentucky Derby, it brings an exhilaration far beyond the money involved. That one winner can erase a whole string of frustrating losers, psychologically if not financially; it can completely banish that tiny doubt that might have begun to nibble at the bettor's faith in his own better judgement."

The bettors are beginning to get their little pads out and do some figuring; it's nearly time for the Derby again. The big day at Churchill Downs is a week from Saturday: May 2.

For the casual bettor, how do you go about picking a winner? There are several ways. You can stick a pin through the program and bet the nearest name to the pinhole. You can ask the taxi driver or the guy selling balloons on the sidewalk downtown. You can do it the hard way with a form sheet and an appraisal of blood lines and past performances. There's a formula about adding the letters in a horse's name, subtract the weight he is carrying (or is it add?) then you add those numerals and you come up with a post position somehow. Anyway, don't forget the numerologists, the astrologers and the talented touts.

If you're successful, whichever way you arrive at the winner, the chances are better than three to one he'll be a native Kentuckian. Of the 95 winners to date, 72 were foaled in Kentucky. And

by Lois Campbell

Entering a new era of Kentucky-tourism, the state Division of Arts and Crafts opened its first handicraft outlet on the Kentucky Turnpike at Shepherdsville.

The small shop with its wooden shingle decor is filled with authentic works of skilled Kentucky craftsmen. The corn shuck dolls, the beeswax candles, the hand made quilts... are all welcome diversions from the imported gift items usually found in souvenir shops.

Like telescoping hundreds of years of history, one finds traditional articles of early colonial days... some that were objects of beauty, others that were necessary to daily life.

Mrs. Mary O'Hara, director of the Division of Arts and Crafts is the originator of the Kentucky handicraft outlet concept.

Artisans in Kentucky produce objects that are rare and imminently desirable, and Mrs. O'Hara and four regional supervisors have attempted to select items to sell that represent craftsmen from all parts of the state.

A second outlet will be opened in May at the Beaver Dam Plaza on the Western Kentucky Turnpike.

The Division of Arts and Crafts is organized within the Department of Public Information.

Mrs. Bynum Is Honored At A Sunday Tea

On Sunday afternoon, April 19, Mrs. Bobby Bynum, a recent bride, was honored with a tea in the home of Mrs. J. T. Burrow on the Ruthville Road. Co-hostesses for the occasion were Miss Susan Burrow, Mrs. Charles Burrow, and Mrs. Paul Blaylock.

The honoree wore a figured satin double knit, with a gift corsage of yellow carnations.

Receiving the guests with Mrs. Bynum were her mother, Mrs. Mac Burrow, and Mrs. C. R. Bynum, mother of the groom. Miss Susan Burrow presided at the register.

The hostesses' gift was a dinner plate in the honoree's chosen pattern.

Refreshments were served from a beautifully appointed table, centered with an arrangement of pink carnations in a silver compote. Silver candelabra with white tapers flanked the centerpiece. Assisting in serving were Miss Eleanor Jones, Miss Susan Carol Warren, Miss Marilyn Hardy, and Miss Suzette McMorries.

Bouquets of spring flowers were used throughout the house.

Approximately seventy-five guests called between the hours of two and five.

Mr. and Mrs. Tony Alan Taylor
Sherry Milstead, Tony Taylor
Are United In Marriage

The wedding of Miss Sherry Lee Milstead and Sgt. Tony Alan Taylor was solemnized on Sunday, April 5, in the parlor of the First Baptist Church of Fulton. The Reverend Thurmond Skaggs, a cousin of the bride, from Tallapoosa, Georgia, performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Hafford L. Milstead of Fulton. The groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Taylor of South Fulton.

Preceding the ceremony, a program of nuptial music was presented by Miss Cathy Hyland, organist, and Mrs. Jim Newton, soloist.

The vows were exchanged before a mantle of pink gladioli and flanked with spiral candelabra holding pink burning tapers. A fern ball of jade greenery was at the base of each candelabra.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a street-length bridal gown featuring a lace cage effect with scalloped neck and hem over a fitted bodice of peau de soie. Lace sleeves that tapered to points at the wrists were fastened with covered buttons. She wore a shoulder-length veil of illusion secured to a cluster of lace leaves and seed pearls, and her bridal bouquet was of stephanotis and pink rosebuds with white streamers tied in love knots.

Mrs. Henry Holland, Jr., cousin of the bride, from Calhoun, Georgia, served as Matron of Honor. She wore a street-length dress of pink silk featuring an A-line skirt and cowl neckline. Her headpiece was a Dior bow of the same material. She carried a small Colonial nosegay of white pompons and a single pink rose.

Attending the groom as best man was his brother, Tommy Taylor. Ushers were Henry Holland, Jr., of Calhoun, Georgia, and David Thorpe. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Milstead wore a mint green dress of silk with matching accessories. She wore a corsage of yellow cymbidium orchids.

Mrs. Taylor, mother of the groom, wore a pale blue knit dress with beige accessories. Her corsage was of white cymbidium orchids.

Following the ceremony, a

Orientation Day Announced At UTM

High school seniors entering The University of Tennessee at Martin during the 1970-71 academic year and their parents will be on the UTM campus Saturday, April 25, for a one-day orientation program.

According to Henry C. Allison, UTM dean of admissions and records, approximately 250 students who have been accepted for entrance at the University will participate in the program. Three hundred parents also are expected to be present for the orientation program.

Dear Ann Landers: You frequently stand up for downtrodden groups such as telephone operators, waitresses and office janitors. Will you please speak up in behalf of the data processing people?

I've been a data processor for four years and am sick to death of bum jokes about computers and the people who operate them. Hardly a day goes by that we don't hear someone knock "those damned computers" for fouling up a bill or reducing humans to numbers.

Numbers are a lot more personal than names. There are thousands of John Joneses or Bill Smiths but there is only one 419728651.

The next time a computer messes you up, ask yourself these questions: Did you fill out the form properly? Did you write legibly? Did you bend, fold, staple or mutilate the card? Everyone ought to

Harris Wins Television At Southside Drug

Howard Harris of Dukedom was the winner of the 19' Panasonic portable TV, the grand prize at Southside Drug Company's grand opening on Friday and Saturday, April 17-18, his name being drawn as winner on Saturday night. Ruth Ann Burnette Fahl's name was drawn for the beautiful woven bedspread.

Winners of prizes during the two days, when a name was drawn each hour, were:

Steve Pickle, Super-8 movie camera; Mary Swann Bushart, Instamatic camera; Vodie Murphy, Mrs. Dawson Huddleston, Polaroid camera; W. H. Heath, Mrs. Cloyce Veatch, Mrs. Travis Slayden, Polaroid Swinger camera; Mrs. Vangie Neely, Polaroid land camera; Nancy McConnell, Kodak 124; Linda Patrick, Maude Morris, Anna Belle Edwards, Mrs. Buddy Carver, Mrs. Clyde Williams, Sr., Fling hose; Mildred Williams, make-up kit; Lucille Matheny, Gertrude Murphey, Dessie McGowan, Mrs. J. T. Willey, Mrs. Dale Chaney, Joyce Henderson, Butane cigarette lighter; Kenneth Cruse Chap-ans and Sergeant set;

Also, E. H. Bradley, Maude Dedmon, Pearl Eudy, Larry Howard of Memphis, Mrs. Lillie Daves, Andy Workman, Johnson's First Aid kit; Mrs. Robert Whitesell, Vick's set; Mrs. Gaylon R. Jackson, radio-record player combination; Peggy McConnell, Lady Sunbeam electric razor; Susan Moore, Melamine set of dishes, service for six; Mildred Williams, Arex cosmetic kit; Guinell Tucker, transistor radio and record player combination; Finis Vancil, Maxwell toilet set.

Raymond Hicks won a Timex $12.95 watch, and M. C. Wilbanks won a $5.00 bill each in a grab bag.

Mrs. Maggie Rawls, 98, was the oldest person attending the opening and was awarded a pair of Flng support hose.

Officers Will Be Installed Today

The West Fulton PTA will hold its final meeting of the year tonight (Thursday) at 7:30 in the Carr gym with the public invited.

New officers for the year will be installed with Mrs. Robert Whitesell, President, conducting the business session. New officers, nominated by the executive Board at their luncheon April 16, include:

President, Mrs. Max McDade; Vice President, Mrs. Michael Homra; Mrs. Robert Whitesell, second Vice President; Secretary, Mrs. Bob Peterson; Treasurer, Mrs. James Green.

A variety program of music and gymnastics is also scheduled.

Welcoming the hundreds of friends who called to extend greetings to the owners of the Southside Drug Company on their gala opening day last Saturday were, left to right, cashier Marjorie Lowry, Charles Wade Andrews and Mrs. Andrews.

Gathered around a circular tier at the new Southside Drug Company, Lynn Andrews, front left, is mightily proud as she shows a group of young people all the interesting piggy banks for sale at her daddy's drug store. Lynn is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Wade Andrews.

Drawing the lucky number that brought a beautiful television to Howard Harris is little Lynne Andrews. At left is Mrs. Hendon Wright, whose husband is senior partner in the Southside Drug Company. The ladies in the background were eager to hear the winning number.

SECOND PLACE WINNER

Valerie Haakenson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Gordon of Fulton Route 1, a student at Fulgham school, won second place in the Hickman County elementary school spelling bee this month.

FARM BUREAU PICNIC

August 12 has been selected as the date for the annual Fulton County Farm Bureau picnic, which will be a barbecue lunch and FHA style show at the Union C. P. Church west of Fulton.

Why Join A Homemaker's Club? Agent Names Many Reasons

Why join a Homemakers' Club? And what is it, anyhow? Catherine C. Thompson, Fulton County Home Economics Extension Agent, has the answers to those questions:

"Homemakers Clubs are made up of women of all ages who want to improve their homemaking skills, have a say in community affairs, change their family's living style, or do a better job of raising their children."

"That sounds pretty far-reaching, pretty idealistic, doesn't it?"

"Well," says Mrs. Thompson, "Let's get down to some of the very personal reasons why women join a Homemakers Club."

"One woman joins because she's new to the community and is lonely."

"A new bride joins because she has so many things to learn about homemaking and she knows that these Extension clubs can help her."

"Another woman joins because a friend belongs and she's heard they're going to have a workshop on making children's cloths or planning low-cost meals."

"A fourth woman is getting ready to re-do her kitchen and has been told the county home agent is teaching a kitchen remodeling lesson."

"Another homemaker is desperately concerned about a son or daughter caught up in the drug scene. She hopes that the club's exploration of drug use and abuse can help put her and her husband in touch with ways to cope with the problem."

"Right now, there are 16 Homemaker groups in Fulton County, with a total of 296 members. Each club is what its members make it. They plan their own programs, make use of specially-trained volunteer leaders, and specialists from the University of Kentucky in carrying out these programs."

County home agents are available to other homemakers in the community, too, the home economist explains. Lots of women just aren't joiners, or they feel they just don't have the energy to take on one more activity. Many women are holding down full-time jobs and jealously guard what little time is left to spend with their families. Others have need of some personalized professional help from time to time on certain problems.

"We have many homemaking publications these women would find helpful. They are free of charge, can be looked over and picked up at the County Extension Office, located in Hickman, Kentucky. They include a wide variety of subjects and skills such as: time and money management, clothing construction and buyman-ship, foods and nutrition, housing, and home furnishings, landscaping, home gardening, and many more."

Dogwood Tour At Cape Park

The Annual Trail of Tears State Park Dogwood Tour will be held on Sunday, April 26th, from 12:00 noon until 5:00 p. m.

An information booth will be set up by the Jaycees and the Chamber of Commerce at the intersection of Broadway and Perry Avenue in Cape Girardeau, Missouri.

Tour maps and copies of the "Legend of the Dogwood" will be available at the booth. Orange arrows will mark the tour. The Trail of Tears State Park is a rugged area where the Cherokee Nation crossed the river in its forced pilgrimage from North Carolina to Oklahoma. A road nearly 2 miles long was built between the lake and the lower drive. This road has one of the most profuse and spectacular displays of dogwood in the midwest and attracts thousands of viewers annually.

Over 1500 cars are expected to tour the park on the April 26th Sunday when the dogwood will be nearest the height of their bloom.

TO OKLAHOMA

Mrs. Florence Knighton, a member of the First Baptist Church here since 1915 and its church hostess, was honored by members Sunday with a basket dinner in Fellowship Hall. She moved Wednesday to Oklahoma City to make her home with her daughter, Mrs. Bryce Petrie.

SURVEY UNDERWAY

A consumer trade survey by the Marketing I class of South Fulton high school is underway in the twin cities this week by telephone, on behalf of the Retail Merchants Bureau.

Tryouts Are Announced For Kenlake Play

A new play, "Rameses" — the story of Moses, is scheduled to open for a summer run at the Kenlake Amphitheatre Friday night June 12, and auditions for the 28 roles will be held at noon on Saturdays and Sundays, April 25-6 and May 2-3.

The play's producer, Frank Gonzales, announced this week that the auditions will be held at the Amphitheatre site in Kenlake State Park. Phillip Padgett, the director, told The News this week that he is especially seeking school teachers, college-age young people, adults and senior high school students.

The story concerns that portion of Moses' life as it relates to the Pharaoh, Rameses II, and is full of pageantry, magnificent sets and beautiful costumes.

The play is scheduled to run every night except Wednesdays through Labor Day, September 7.

Local Wives

Take Pacific Trip

Carbie Lou Bolin Bowers returned to Fulton Sunday night, April 18, after a week's stay in Honolulu with her husband, Amn. 1-C Jim Powers, who was on R&R leave from Saigon.

Carbie was accompanied to Honolulu by Belinda Newton Kimbell, who was enroute to Japan to join her husband, Sgt. Gayle Kimbell, presently located at Misawa Air Force Base.

Art Guild Hears Union City Speaker

The April meeting of the Fulton-South Fulton Art Guild was held Monday night, April 21, at 7:30 at the Woman's Club.

Jack Burchard, artist and owner of the Hobby Shop in Union City, was the speaker. Mr. Burchard gave an interesting and informative talk on the process and history of De'coupage, an art form particularly popular at present. Mr. Burchard said that De'coupage was begun in Venice, Italy in the 17th century, died out at the end of the 18th century and was revived in 1900. To illustrate his discussion of the processes involved in making De'coupage, Mr. Burchard had on display beautiful examples of this work.

Preceding the program, Mrs. Hendon Wright presided over a short business session. She told of the excellent work being done in the art classes for children, which are being held every Saturday during April. Plans were completed for the Art Guild's sidewalk show, which will be held on May 9 at the Southland Shopping Center.

April 24: Ronnie Burrow, Roy Mac Reams; April 25: Gilbert Bowlin, Dave Peterson, Paula Whitlock; April 26: Mrs. Charles Fields, Ray Wright; April 27: Gwen Browder, Judy Neely, Pamie Sue Hicks, Victor Medley; April 28: James Wall; April 29: Jimmy Bodker, Richard Caldwell; April 30: Greg Wheeler, David Wiley.

"Champagne Lady" Coming To Jackson

Kentuckians who are fans of Norma Zimmer are invited to hear her perform in Jackson, Tennessee. To open the Tenth Season of the Jackson Symphony Orchestra a gala concert has been planned for Saturday, May 16th at 8 p. m. in the Jackson Coliseum.

Norma Zimmer, the Champagne Lady from ABC's Lawrence Welk Show, will be featured with the Orchestra on this occasion. Norma will be singing many of her most-requested hits.

Dear Char: It's reassuring to know that humans actually operate those monsters. I had the feeling computerized bills were sent out by computers. If it's all the same to you, Char, I'd rather be one of the thousands of Mary Joneses than the only 419728651.

Dear Ann Landers: Your reply to Big Q burned me up, to say the least. All my life I've heard it said the female is the big loser in the game called unmarried love. How about the guy who gets hooked by a dame he wouldn't be seen with in public; let alone marry, if her old man hadn't stuck a gun in his ribs? I'm one of those guys and I can tell you it's a lousy life. The girl I married had nothing going for her but round heels. No one has expressed one word of sympathy for me, or for the thousands of other suckers who got trapped the same way. Be fair, will you please?—Ed of El Paso

Dear Ed: The stakes can be high when you play with matches—especially if the match is no match. From your letter it doesn't sound like your wife got much of a bargain, either, Bub.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband is a great writer. Of checks, that is. The problem is that frequently he doesn't have enough money in the bank to cover himself.

I'm worn out from the telephone calls. At least three times a month I have to run around like crazy, borrowing from family and friends to make his checks good.

I've tried to reason with him but it's useless. He excuses himself by saying, "This is my only weakness. I don't smoke, drink, gamble or chase women. Be satisfied." Any advice?—Melancholy Baby

Dear Mel: Since it's his weakness, let him deal with it. From now on when a telephone call comes, instruct the party to call HIM. Let him run around town like crazy, borrowing from family and friends. He might then decide to keep track of what he has in the bank before he writes checks.

It May Not Be Perfect, But Our American System Of Government Is The Best Yet Devised

We would like to add our "Amen" to the following article that we received in the mail over the weekend. If any of our readers disagree with its conclusion, our "Letter to the Editor" column is open and available for their rebuttal: ed.

"Lately, I have been giving some thought to the fundamentals of our American system of government. Obviously, our system has some good things going for it, since ours is the oldest continuous government in the world. On the other hand, it has its flaws; otherwise, we wouldn't have all the controversy that we have.

"The first thing that comes to mind is that our democratic system is not really a democracy in the true sense of the word. This word literally means people-rule. To have a true democracy, every citizen would have to participate directly in every governmental decision. All the citizens would have to vote on all the laws, on how to carry out these laws, and on every judicial decision. In other words, every legislative, executive, and judicial decision would be determined by a majority vote of all the people.

"Since our country has more than 200 million persons, a referendum on every governmental decision is impossible. Even if we had only one million citizens, it would be impossible, for the business of government is a full time job, believe me. If everyone spent the time necessary to make knowledgeable decisions, there would be no one to carry on the other essential work. For example, if our doctors spent all their time studying legislation in order to cast responsible votes, they would have no time left to practice medicine.

"Since a true democracy is impossible and even undesirable, we have established a republic. We have invested certain people with the authority to make our governmental decisions for us. Periodically, we have elections to determine democratically who these people will be. So instead of having a true democracy, we have a democratic republic. This system has served us well for nearly two-hundred years, but it is not perfect by any means.

"If our system was perfect, I suppose we would be generally satisfied with it all of the time. However, we are often dissatisfied with it when it fails to produce the results we want. It may fail to produce desirable results for many reasons. Our elected representatives can and do make mistakes in judgment. They may legislate the wrong laws because of self-interest, because of pressure from the voters, because of an unwillingness to put forth the effort to truly understand the consequences of legislation, or because of honest misjudgment. It is also possible that the voters are dissatisfied because they do not really understand particular laws.

"For our system to produce the best results all the time, not only our elected officials but also the electorate would have to possess the ability to reason, a fairly good education, an absence of selfishness, the willingness to act in good faith, and the willingness to put forth the study necessary to truly understand the issues. Even then controversy and discontent would result.

"Considering what our system is and what it is not, what then is the obligation of our elected officials? As I personally see it, the representative's job is to cast his vote as he feels the majority of the people he represents would cast theirs if they were in his shoes. There is room for error in this view, of course, but I know of no better alternative.

"Our American system of government has its flaws, some of them very serious. Yet to my knowledge no civilization has ever found a better one. Until I know of a better system, I am willing to settle for the one we have."

—Ed Jones, Congressman, Tenn. 8th District

he's most unlikely to be a she, since only one filly has ever won the race. Geldings don't do too well, either. Only seven of these have won.

A horse's color may have some effect, also. Only three greys have ever won the Derby, four blacks and fourteen browns. Chestnuts come next with 30 wins, but the bays have won 44 times.—That might be, of course, because there are so many more bays and so few greys.

Better think twice if you are inclined toward an odds-on favorite.—That's when the odds are less than even money. There have been 27 such top-heavy favorites in the past, but only 15 of them won. Eight ran second and the others ran out of the money.

Himyar went to the post at 1 to 3 in 1878, the shortest odds favorite in 90 years.—He finished second. Court Fleet and Citation each won and paid 40c on the dollar. The longest odds ever paid on a Derby winner was the $184.90 on Donnerail in 1913.

The only legal way you can bet on a horserace in Kentucky is through a pari-mutuel at the track. But bookmakers used to be legal and they operated right at the race course. Then in 1908 a political feud resulted in a law that banned the bookies and hoped to put Churchill Downs out of business. Matt Wynn, however, the Downs' flamboyant and resourceful manager, discovered a loophole in the law, tracked down half a dozen of the French totalizing machines and thus gave the pari-mutuel system a permanent home in Louisville.

The money you share with the owners of other winning tickets comes from the win, place and show pools. It represents 86c out of every dollar you bet. Of the other 14c, four goes to the state treasury and ten to the track.

Know how much money we are talking about?—On Derby Day in 1969 more than $6,100,000 was bet at Churchill Downs. And more than $2,625,000 of that was bet on the Derby.

Everybody connected with Churchill Downs is on your side. They all want to see you win. They are pulling for you and they ask only one thing in return. As you lug your money to the bank, they ask you to please tell people where you got it.

POET'S CORNER

THE PHARISEE

I close my eyes and do not see
The pleading hands outstretched to me;
My deafened ears can hardly hear
The moan of poverty and fear;
My feet, protesting, must walk fast,
If by some chance I venture past
These pleading hands, these hopeless voices.
No need to make such painful choices,
Nor need I ever heed the cry -
There, but for the grace of God, go I!

FULTON'S Library Corner

BY LUCY DANIEL

SECOND GREATEST INVENTION, by Eleanor Clymer. Who were the first farmers? When did man first learn to farm? How did he make the great leap from the nomadic life of a hunter and food gatherer to that of a civilized dweller of settled communities? The author's skillful exploration of these intriguing questions, which leads to some surprising answers, makes this book an exciting scientific mystery.

FORMULAS, METHODS, TIPS AND DATA, by Kenneth M. Swezey. If a householder had to settle for only one book in the how-to-do-it library, this would be it. It's the most comprehensive book of its kind ever published. It contains thousands of formulas, expert methods, calculations, conversions, plus tables of information for nearly every activity in the home and home workshop.

THE TEEN-AGER'S MENU COOKBOOK, by Charlotte Adams. The cooking novice of any age will welcome these step-by-step directions for the preparation of complete meals. The simple, yet imaginative menus are suitable for a wide range of occasions, festive as well as everyday. Instructions for each meal include a precise schedule for the order of work, with the timing for the preparation, cooking and serving of the food. Even a beginner can follow the easy-to-follow directions and recipes.

KENTUCKY POLITICS, by Malcolm Jewell. Kentuckians have long prided themselves on their tradition of colorful and unpredictable politics, and many of them doubtless saw in the election of a Republican governor in 1967—the first to be elected to that office in twenty-four years—but another instance of this tradition. To the authors of this study, however, that election portends a significant trend for the Commonwealth's political structure, and here they offer a much-needed description and analysis of recent Kentucky politics, looking toward future developments and emphasizing the revival of a competitive two-party system.

TEMPLE ON A HILL, by Anne Rockwell. The Parthenon is one of the most familiar buildings in the world. People know it when they see it in a picture because of its location—on top of a hill in the city of Athens—because of its size and shape, and because of its beauty. This great temple was built after the city-state of Athens had won a great war against the Persians, but had been left with a ruined city. This is the story of the building of that temple.

ROGUE'S GALLERY, by Walter Gibson, ed. These stories represent a wide range of mystery and detective fiction by some of the finest writers in the field. There are intuittive sleuths, such as Agatha Christie's Hercule Poirot. There are slightly-reformed criminals, such as E. W. Hornsby's Raffles. There are scientific detectives, private eyes both hardboiled and soft, secret agents, and anonymous cops on the beat. There are also such unlikely investigators as a carnival fortune teller alias Swami and a school-teacher (Hildegard Withers).

INTRODUCING SOFT TOY MAKING, by Delphine Davidson. An illustration, pattern and full instructions for making up go with each toy. These include: Mouse; Hen; Pigeon; Scottie Dog; Great Twit; Pig; Elephant; Snowman; Fish; Hedgehog; etc. The simplest patterns are suitable for children, the more difficult for those who have already done some toy-making. All the toys have been designed to be economical both of time and materials, all are as attractive and lovable in themselves as soft toys should be. The book opens with some general instructions on toy-making, and concludes with a bibliography and a list of names and addresses where materials may be obtained.

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

April 24, 1925

The Peoples Hardware Company, successors to Campbell and Jones Hardware Company, is a new business firm for Fulton. Officers of the new company include W. W. Batts, president; P. C. Jones, secretary; S. B. McAlister, treasurer, and J. H. Campbell, manager. The firm will handle implements, wagons, buggies, harnesses, crockery, glassware, field seed, etc. Mr. Batts has represented the Oliver Chilled Plow Company in this section for the past nine years.

Members of the Rice City Methodist Church started a campaign to obtain funds with which to erect a house of worship. J. J. Owen is at the head of the movement.

Sebra Evans and the following members of his orchestra went to Crutchfield to play for an entertainment: P. A. Barnes, Sam DeMyer, Robert DeMyer, Virgil Brown, Claud Shelby, George Vaughn, Hardy Roberts and Mr. Speeds.

Mrs. Helen Carmon Mayhew of Beelerton, a bride of two weeks, died in Nashville while on her wedding trip in the south. Services were held Saturday at Sandy Branch.

Fire Chief Lee Roberts and his crew did heroic work Monday morning in extinguishing a bad fire in the Paul DeMyer Grocery Store on 4th Street.

Sousa's Kitchen Cabinet Band gave a delightful entertainment at Cayce last week end. The group is made up of ladies of the Hickman PTA.

ANSWERS

THE PEOPLE

Your questions relating to the Commonwealth of Kentucky will be answered. Write Governor Ford at Frankfort, Ky.

R. S. C., a resident of south-central Kentucky, inquires, "What would be involved in getting a vocational school for a community? In recent years our town has acquired a modern water and sewage system, a hospital and land for an industrial park, but it's still tough to get industry. Our people need training for industry jobs."

Dear Mr. C.: The first step toward a vocational school is for the district or county board of education to contact the Bureau of Vocational Education, Department of Education, Frankfort, Ky. 40601. (Dr. Carl F. Lamar is bureau director.) The district board will be asked for certain specific information, such as economic conditions in the community, employment levels, and ability to furnish local share of costs. The Bureau reviews this information and recommends to the State Superintendent of Public Instruction whether the state can and should participate. The Superintendent makes a recommendation to the State Board of Education, which makes the decision.

There are two types of vocational training facilities:

Area schools are built, equipped and operated by state and federal funds. Kentucky has 13 area schools.

Extension centers are financed by a combination of federal, state and local funds.

Thirty-eight extension centers are now in operation. In Appalachian counties, the local school district usually must furnish 20 per cent of the building cost; in other counties, the local share is usually 50 per cent. Depending on the number of students, the vocational school often serves more than one county.

A vocational school is a tremendous help in attracting industry and in helping people qualify for jobs. Presently, vocational training is available to only about 15 percent of Kentucky's high school students and a small fraction of adults. Such training should be available to over four times this many, so we need more vocational schools in Kentucky.

Sincerely,

Wendell Ford

Mrs. C. T. L. of Louisville, writes: "Like many others, I am interested in ways to cope with our litter problem."

"I suggest enlisting each housewife (and others) in picking up each piece of trash on her property and as much other territory as possible. To give dignity and recognition, each person would be asked to wear green gloves while working on the project—gloves bought at their own expense. If the idea really caught on, however, the gloves could be ordered by Garden Clubs, Senior Citizen Clubs and other civic organizations in large quantity so that one small expense would be the only cost involved. The project could be called 'Green Gloves' or something similar."

Dear Mrs. L.: Your suggestion is excellent and may attract more help to cleanup campaigns. Fortunately, many people are becoming concerned over the pollution of air and water, and one of the other important things is to have pride in clean streets and pretty yards.

I have brought your idea to the attention of Kentucky's Garden Club President, Homemakers' Club President and others who are interested. Many thanks for the suggestion.

Sincerely,

Wendell Ford

Mobile Homes!

Ethiopia's nomadic Danakil tribesmen build mobile homes using brushwood, goatskins, and straw mats. When water and forage run short, a family simply bundles the collapsible shelter onto a camel and moves on. National Geographic says.

Chestnut Glade

By Mrs. Harvey Vaughan

Without a doubt, more people felt that their prayers had been answered last Friday than ever before, when the astronauts landed aboard the Iwo Jima. It was, indeed, a time of thanksgiving for all true Americans and their friends.

Mrs. Laverne Owensby, Mrs. Jim Burke, Mrs. V. C. Simpson and Mrs. Harvey Vaughan represented the Chestnut Glade Club when the eighty members of the Weakley County Home Demonstration Clubs enjoyed a day of sightseeing of places of interest in Memphis last Thursday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Whitver and Debbie, from Huntsville, spent the week end with Mrs. Eula Rogers and Darrell.

Mr. and Mrs. Irvin Brundige, Mrs. Mattie Atkinson, Mrs. Walling and Mrs. Clark visited Mr. and Mrs. Grady Simpson in Middleton, Tenn., last Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Vaughan enjoyed a birthday dinner with Mrs. Lucy Gibbs in Fulton, Sunday.

Friends are glad to know that Mrs. Ruby Thompson has improved so as to be dismissed from the hospital.

Glad to report that Otis Sheridan is improving satisfactorily, after being a patient in the Volunteer Hospital at Martin and in the Jackson-Madison County Hospital at Jackson for the past several days.

Members of the Oak Grove Church are looking forward to the services to be conducted by Bro. W. A. Bradford May 2-3. An invitation is extended to everyone to attend any or all of the services.

GOLFERS LOSE

The golf team of South Fulton High School lost a match to Union City last Friday 1-14.

AUSTIN SPRINGS

By Mrs. Carey Friele

Rev. Bobby Copeland filled his regular appointment at New Salem Baptist Church the past Sunday at 11 a. m., following Sunday School at 10 a. m. The evening worship followed the B. T. U. meeting at 6:30 p. m. The attendance was very good at each service.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Vincent spent last week in Akron, Ohio, accompanying Mr. and Mrs. David Lassiter there on last Sunday night, and were house guests of children, Mrs. Jo Nell Vincent, and children, Debbie and Kevin. They had a nice visit.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobbie Rickman arrived from Huntsville, Ala., for a week end visit with parents, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Rickman, and left for home Sunday afternoon.

Mr. and Mrs. Buton Lassiter spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Lassiter and sons, Mark, Stevie and Barry, in Martin and made tapes to send to Sp. 4 Leslie B. Lassiter in Da Nang, Vietnam. They have just received a tape from Sp. 4 Lassiter and are enjoying these communications from him.

We have news that T. A. McClain, who is a patient in Fulton Hospital, isn't so well at this writing, which all regret to hear. Everyone sends best wishes that he will respond very soon.

Mr. and Mrs. Bell Farmer arrived Saturday morning from St. Louis for a week end with Mr. and Mrs. Grover True. They returned home today (Monday).

Mr. and Mrs. Ed Garth, of Nashville, arrived over the week end to attend the bedside of their dad, T. A. McClain. Other children are attending also, due to Mr. McClain's illness. We hope he will improve shortly.

Bro. Dennis Crutchfield filled his regular appointment at Knob Creek Church of Christ the past Sunday at 11 a. m. Bible study begins at 10 a. m.

Drunk Drivers Escaping Penalty

Nearly 50 per cent of all persons arrested by state police for drunk driving during 1969 were able to get the charges filed away, dismissed or amended to lesser offenses by lower courts.

Public Safety Commissioner William O. Newman added that with all police agencies reporting, the drinking driver was identified as being involved during the year in 3152 accidents—some fatal.

Numbers Games

The Incas' unique system of recording numbers with knotted strings survives today in parts of Peru and Bolivia, the National Geographic Society says in its new book Discovering Man's Past in the Americas.

GOOD SPRINGS

Mrs. Hillman Westbrook

Evie Cashon and Elizabeth Darnell, of the Dukedom Homemakers, joined the group who made the tour last Thursday. The day was damp, but they reported the gardens they visited in Memphis very pretty, especially the tulips.

Debby Watkins spent last week in Trenton, N. J., house guest of her college chum.

Mrs. Will French returned with children, Mr. and Mrs. Frank Laird, to their home in Hammond, Ind., to spend a few weeks with them.

W. K. Blaylock, of Mayfield, died in a hospital at Paducah Tuesday morning, after a short illness. Burial was at Mayfield.

Mrs. Novella Wilds passed away Thursday. She had not been well for some time, but had been in the hospital only a few days. Funeral at Pentecostal Church, Water Valley, with burial at Oak Grove.

Evie Mitchell is in Detroit, visiting with relatives there.

Mr. and Mrs. Dale Fuller announce the arrival of a son, in the Paris Hospital Sunday. Grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Almon Blaylock.

Mrs. Mae Byars went last Sunday to the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Smoots and Mrs. Rhoda Cook and visited until Thursday. While there they took her to Benton to see Mr. and Mrs. Woody Shemwell.

Friday and Saturday nights Mr. and Mrs. Howard Lindsey and son, Roger, of Tri-City, visited with Mrs. Mae and Mr. and Mrs. Webb Brown.

Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Young went to Memphis today to visit with children, Mrs. Charles Mars and Johnny Young, and their families.

Sermon topic of Bro. Stover for Sunday morning at 9:45 will be "The Body of Christ." This is the second in a series of eight messages on "The Church." Everyone is invited and very welcome to attend all services at Good Springs.

Bennett Cited For Superior Herd Record

Charles F. Bennett, Fulton, Kentucky has been cited by the Kentucky Artificial Breeding Association for superior accomplishment in dairy herd production. He qualified for the KABA 450 Club by producing an average of more than 450 pounds of butterfat per cow in 1969. During the 12 months period ending September 30, 1969, his herd of 42.7 Holstein cows averaged 12,390 pounds of milk 3.7 percent and 456 pounds of butterfat.

In special recognition of this high production record, he was recently presented with a framed certificate of Achievement by Joe Armbruster, Clinton, Kentucky, Technician for the Jackson-Purchase Artificial Breeding Cooperative, an affiliate of KABA.

DEATHS

Benjamin Guy Hale, Hickman Lumber Dealer Dies Friday

All of Hickman was saddened last Friday morning when it became known that Benjamin Guy Hale, a prominent, beloved and pioneer resident of this area passed away at the Obion County Nursing Home in Union City. Mr. Hale had been a resident there for more than a year, though he had been in failing health for months before he was admitted there.

In Mr. Hale's death Hickman residents recall with deep respect the stature of this longtime resident who came here from his birthplace near Union City as a boy. He attended Hickman schools and upon graduation entered a business-oriented college, where he equipped himself to enter the sawmill business with his father.

Later the firm launched into a lumber and building materials supply house, which Mr. Hale owned and personally operated for 58 years. Well known in lumber and building supply circles he was joined in the firm by his sons, one of whom, Warwick, now operates the long established business.

Mr. Hale was one of those rare individuals who was known and respected by people in all walks of life. An aristocrat, a man schooled in the southern tradition, he was a gentleman to the manor born. Yet, the many people who knew him intimately say that he had Christian rapport with all the people he came in contact with.

For he was a good and exemplary Christian, a man whose church and whose home were his treasured pleasures. Mr. Hale served as senior warden and treasurer of St. Paul's Episcopal Church for more years than the oldest member can remember. He was constant and loyal in his duties and generous in support of the church.

In his home he was the family man, the patriarch, who loved to have his children, and their children and their friends surround him on the auspicious occasions and at least one day during the week.

He found time to give of his talents to the fraternal and cultural activities of the community. He was a charter member of the Elks Lodge, a 50-year member of the Masonic Lodge, served 20 years on the school board and was a director in the Hickman Federal Savings and Loan Association.

Mr. Hale was 82 years old at the time of his death. He was born on March 1, 1888, son of the late B. G. Hale and the late Bobbie Lattimer Hale. He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Annie Cowgill Hale; two sons, Warwick and Guy, both of Hickman; a sister, Mrs. Henry Sanger of Hickman; one niece, Mrs. Walter Butt of Louisville; one nephew, Robert Sanger of Hickman and three grandchildren and seven great grandchildren.

Mr. Hale

Funeral services for Mr. Hale were held on Saturday afternoon April 18 at St. Paul's Church with the Rev. Bob Layne officiating. Interment was in City Cemetery with Barrett Funeral Home in charge of arrangements.

Active pallbearers were: Newlin Clark, Bill Powers, Earl Bushy, Jr., Bob Sanger, Richard Golder and James Amberg.

The Courier joins the many friends of the family in extending condolences in their bereavement.

H. H. Hodges

Funeral services for Hershel Howard Hodges will be held this (Thursday) afternoon at two o'clock in Hopkins and Brown Funeral Home Chapel at Clinton, with Rev. Charles McKenzie officiating. Burial will be in Mount Moriah Cemetery.

Mr. Hodges, 79, died early Tuesday morning in the Fulton Hospital, following a short illness.

He was the son of the late Robert and Mattie Kendall Hodges of Hickman and was married to Pattie Mae Treas, who preceded him in death. He was a prominent farmer of Route 1, Clinton, and was a World War I veteran.

Surviving are three daughters, Mrs. Jane Wilkins of Berkeley, Mo., Mrs. Charlotte Kanawi of Gary, Ind., and Mrs. Frank Cullara of Tampa, Fla.; two sons, Bob Hodges of West Memphis, Ill.; three brothers, Harry and Milton Hodges of Detroit and Horace Hodges of Washington, D. C.; two sisters, Mrs. Ethel Gordon of Clinton and Mrs. Mary Redus of San Antonio, and fifteen grandchildren.

OBION COUNTY FARMING SHIFTED INTO HIGH GEAR LAST WEEK

The planting of corn in Obion County shifted into high gear last week and it was amazing to see how much corn was planted in the few days of good weather. All indications are that if the weather will cooperate we will have a good increase in the acreage of corn planted in Obion County over the past few years. Local farmers are making every effort to get their corn planted before the first of May in order to avoid as much damage from Southwestern Corn Borer as possible.

Last Thursday we visited with Red Hunt while he was completing the planting of 200 acres of corn on the Charles Martin farm east of Kenton. Only 3 or 4 days was necessary to complete planting and pre-emerge spraying of all the row crop on the Martin Farm except for the cotton. Red Hunt was planting more in one day almost than one farmer several years ago could plant in a crop season. While watching the large equipment plant one field, I couldn't keep from thinking about only a few years ago it took us all day to plant the same field while looking at the Southern part of the North bound mules.

We all know that temperatures were below normal in March, but according to Tennessee Crop reporting service March was the eighth consecutive month in which temperatures were below normal.

Another report from Tennessee Department of Agriculture Concerns the Southwestern Corn Borer. Over-wintering survival counts of the Southwestern Corn borer in Weakley County indicate that about 12 percent of overwintering larvae survived in plots with stubble remaining undisturbed through the winter and zero survival in plots with stubble disked in the fall.

FEEDER CALVES SELL GOOD IN SPRING FEEDER CALF SALE

394 feeder calves were sold in April 14 Feeder Calf Sale at Newbern by Northwest Tennessee Feeder Calf Association. Although feeder calf market has weakened recently calves sold good. Choice steers 32.30 - 35.70; good steers 32.75 - 37.50; medium steers 31.60 - 40.70; choice heifers 30.25 - 32.25; good heifers 30.25 - 33.40; medium heifers 29.50 - 31.20; The top price was 40.70 on some small medium steers. As usual for feeder calves in this area, the calves carried a good amount of flesh and only a handful of the calves weighed under 450 pounds.

RED MEAT

Americans "ate high on the steer" last year, stowing away a record 110.7 pounds of beef per capita. This was the fourth straight year a new beef eating record was established.

Total red meat consumption, however, dipped to 182 pounds per person, as compared to the record 183 pounds set in 1968.

MANURE DISPOSAL

You can now get cost sharing help from ASCS Office in building lagoons for manure disposal systems for Dairy, Hogs, and Beef Systems.

Mr. Sut Bennett has just finished digging the first lagoon for a dairy farm in Obion County.

purchase the electric utility system from Kentucky Utilities and that TVA agreed to supply power to Hickman after a five-year interim period.

Before the switchover on April 15 Hickman has purchased its electrical power over the 69,000-volt Hickman - Clinton line. It is now being furnished over the 69,000-volt Union City-Hickman Line.

It was on January 12, 1962 that the City Council of Hickman enacted an ordinance creating an Electric Plant Board. The Board was appointed by the Mayor with the approval of the then City Council.

Members of the first Electric Plant Board were: Ples Fields, Lee Gardner, Henry White, Roland Green, Everett Dedmon.

The members of the board at this time are: L. T. Hodges, chairman; Bob Holland, secretary-treasurer; Brodie Creed, representing the Hickman City Commission and Earl Taylor and Bob Sanger.

Burt Hicks, a veteran public utilities expert is manager of the electric system and was the first to be employed by the Plant Board under the five-year contract with Kentucky Utilities. He served in a similar capacity in Newbern, Tenn. for 28 years before coming to Hickman. He and his wife live on Magnolia Drive in Hickman. Experienced and well-known Hickman residents employed at the System's office on Clinton Street are: Dot Argo, Pat Cooley and Corinne Castleman.

Backstage With The News Camera During The Princess Competition

SHOWING NO SIGNS OF THE GROWING TENSION that always mounts among the "finalists" backstage in the latter part of a beauty competition, these happy contestants were behind the backstage curtain awaiting their number to be called for the first ramp walk. (from left): Julie Ann Bard, Carol Coleman, Jimette Gilbert and Suzie Harris.

PAMELA JO HURT (left) and Kathy Rhodes wish each other "good luck" following the announcement that each had been selected in the top 20 and were still in the running.

NERVOUS? YOU BET WE ARE, chorused (from left) Carol Coleman, Patsy Adams, Jimette Gilbert and Julie Ann Bard following the backstage announcement they were in the top ten and were still in the running.

SUZIE HARRIS mirrors a worried look as she prepared to re-enter the stage as one of the top ten finalists. Probably wondering if the judges would consider selecting such a tiny Princess (4-ft., 11-in.) among all of the taller contestants around her.

WORRY? NOT US, say Master of Ceremonies Ray Williams and backstage assistant Sue Hurt as they obviously are enjoying the show.

astonished one morning when they beheld "a numerous company of Flies which were like for bigness unto Wasps or Bumble-Bees."

"They came out of little holes in the grounds, and did eat up the green things, and made such a constant yelling noise as made all the woods ring of them, and ready to deaf the hearer."

Turning to their Bibles, the Pilgrims concluded these "locusts" were akin to the living clouds that chewed Egypt into devastation. Indeed, they seemed to call out "Pharaoh, Pharaoh... raah!"

They are not locusts, but harmless cicadas who eat nothing above ground during their final six weeks of life.

Looking like inch-long crawfish as they emerge from their half-inch-wide holes, they immediately climb tree trunk or branch, fasten their front feet, and start molting. Within a few minutes, the brown carapace hangs empty like a discarded jacket and nearby the young adult is drying its wings.

Drumming and Sawing
Males begin their noisy din, vibrating drumlike plates on their sides. After mating, females crawl out on the limbs and twigs and start drilling holes with sawlike egg-layers.

Each female may pump up to 600 eggs into dozens of holes. After six weeks, the branches are crawling with minute larvae. They soon fall to the ground and dig into the nearest crevice to begin 17 years of tunneling, hibernating, and growth.

The tiny, sawed holes weaken the branches, which snap off. Other insects may damage the trees through these wounds, but some trees appear to grow stronger after such natural pruning.

The 17-year locust's only defense against birds, squirrels, and man is in numbers. As many as 40,000 may pop out of the ground beneath a single big tree.

The black "W" on each of the wings has long brought forth predictions of war. American Indians considered the cicadas' surprising appearance every 17 years a bad omen, but the tribes also feasted on them with relish.

An adventurous naturalist claims that the plump insects, fried or boiled in a milk stew, taste better than oysters or shrimp.

morning in Paris, and seeing daylight, thought of moving clocks ahead one hour in order to conserve and lengthen the working day.

Franklin's concept first was utilized 200 years later in World War I as a temporary emergency aid to conserve fuel for lighting and heating. The idea stuck, but confusion grew as different areas set up their own timetables.

It is an interesting fact that since 1916 Great Britain has been on daylight time; they have called it "British Summer time". In 1968 Britain moved their clocks ahead permanently, summer AND winter, and their time is now known as "British Standard Time".

Like we said at the beginning: don't forget that Saturday night's the night.

Navy Promotes Fulton's Danny Baird To Captain

(Ed's Note: The following article from the "Whiting Tower" at NAS Whiting Field, Fla., regarding the promotion of Capt. Daniel M. Baird of Whiting Field, Florida will be of especial interest to a host of friends in Fulton and West Kentucky. (Captain Baird is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Horton Baird of Hickman, and the grandson of Mrs. Mace McDade of Fulton.)

There is a Navy captain here who once served as a United States Air Force captain.

He is recently - promoted Captain Daniel M. Baird, Whiting's dental officer. His promotion ceremony, December 30, was conducted by Captain C. H. Sigley, commanding officer, and attended by Mrs. Baird.

Captain Baird attended Vanderbilt University, the University of Kentucky and the University of Tennessee College of Dentistry, where he received a doctor of dental surgery degree. Following his graduation in 1952, he entered the Air Force and served for two years as the assistant dental officer at Ent Air Force Base, Colorado.

At the end of the Korean War, Captain Baird was discharged and began a private practice of dentistry in his Fulton, Ky. hometown. He later joined a naval reserve unit there.

His list of assignments include tours at Norfolk, Va., aboard USS Antietam (CVS-36), the Naval Dispensary, Washington, D. C., and the Naval Dental School as a post graduate student.

Also, he was stationed at the Naval Academy, Annapolis, Md., and the Naval Support Activity, Naples, Italy before his arrival here.

According to Captain Baird,

MRS. ICIE B. PEPPER ALLEN

Longtime Local Teacher Honored On Monday

Mrs. Icie B. Pepper Allen, a teacher in the Union City and Obion County school systems for the past 43 years, will step down from her teaching post this year but not before she is honored for the many years of service she has rendered.

Monday was proclaimed by Mayor Charles H. "Red" Adams as "Mrs. Icie B. Pepper Allen Day" and that night at 7:30 the Westover PTA honored the first grade teacher with a special program.

In his proclamation, Mayor Adams called attention to the fact that Mrs. Allen "has worked diligently and consistently for her students, their parents and the improvement of the various school systems in which she has been employed for 43 years."

Likewise, City School Superintendent T. F. Wallace and members of the board of education, in a resolution, stated that they "sincerely regret her loss to the system," they "wish her well in her retirement" and are "ready to be of any assistance which we can possibly render in the future."

Mrs. Allen was born in 1905 Adams called attention to the fact that Mrs. Allen "has worked diligently and consistently for her students, their parents and the improvement of the various school systems in which she has been employed for 43 years."

Agriculture Institute Is Scheduled At MSU

MURRAY, Ky., April 16 — The Kentucky Department of Agriculture will attempt to "take agriculture to the people" when it sponsors a Kentucky Agricultural Institute at Murray State University Thursday.

State Commissioner of Agriculture J. Robert Miller and a team from his office will descend upon room 204 of the Applied Science Building at MSU for an afternoon of discussion with any Jackson Purchase farmers who care to attend.

By meeting with farmers, county agents, and agriculture experts in each region of the state, Miller's office is attempting to find out what problems are being experienced by the average farmer, according to Paul Campin, assistant to the commissioner. Previously, Miller's office has sponsored institutes at Morehead State University and Eastern Kentucky University.

The proceedings at Eastern were filmed by a CBS news team from Washington, D.C., for use in an upcoming agriculture report program.

Murray State's agriculture department will be on hand to co-host the event. The afternoon's complete agenda:

- 12:30—Registration.
- 1:00—Call to Order; M. M. Botto, Princeton, member of the state board of agriculture.
- 1:05—Welcome; Dr. Harry M. Sparks, MSU president.
- 1:10—Outline of MSU agriculture program; department Chairman E. B. Howton.
- 1:20—"Kentucky Agriculture 1970 — Problems and Promises;" Commissioner Miller.
- 1:30—"Function of the Dept. of Agriculture;" Miller and staff.
- 2:00—"Kentucky Agriculture in the Decade Ahead;" group panel discussion with audience question period.
- 3:00—"Tobacco in the Future;" panel discussion with question period.
- 3:30—Summary remarks; Miller.
- 4:00—Adjournment.

VD Rate Among Teens Near Epidemic In State

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — Dr. C. Hernandez, director of the Kentucky Health Department's division of epidemiology, says the incidence of infectious venereal disease among Kentucky teenagers is approaching epidemic stages.

Hernandez said Friday the current VD problem is "certainly alarming" and estimated that Kentucky cases of infectious syphilis and gonorrhea could total more than 20,000 this year.

The estimate is based on the 4,313 cases officially reported last fiscal year and the 2,341 cases reported for the first half of the current fiscal year, he said.

Hernandez said more than 90 per cent of such cases diagnosed and treated by private physicians are not reported to local health departments.

He added that the number of cases in Kentucky is the highest in the past 19 years, with one-third of the cases occurring among teenagers and with persons 24 and under taking up 70 per cent.

Land Is Added To UTM Farm

Purchase of the Jeff L. Parish farm, north of the Martin city limits, for the University of Tennessee at Martin was authorized by the UT board of trustees in a meeting in Memphis Monday.

The sale price of the 130-acre tract, adjoining the UTM experimental farm on the north and the city of Martin, was $86,350. Adding this acreage to the Martin unit of the UT experimental station, was necessitated by the Federal allocation of land to non-agricultural purposes.

Also authorized by the board was the developing of preliminary plans and cost estimates for enlarging the University Center, including cafeteria facilities.

In other action the board confirmed authorization of a federal interest subsidy grant to aid in the financing of the $2,325,000 men's residence hall now under construction immediately south of the University Center.

Three Killed, Five Others Injured In Headon Friday Night Smashup

Wreck On Fulton Highway Involves Three Vehicles

A headon, grinding collision just inside the city limits of Union City on the Fulton highway Friday night claimed the lives of three young girls, two of them students at Union City High School. Five other persons were injured, including a Union City couple in a third car which also became involved in the smashup.

The dead are:
Jessica Ann Phillips, 17, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Phillips of 1218 Woodlawn, a high school senior.

Merye Elaine Perry, 15, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Perry of 1096 Highland Ave., a sophomore at Union City High. Mrs. Ivory Sue Williams, 18, Negro of East College Court, a Union City High School graduate and a checker at E. W. James and Sons Supermarket in Union City.

Critically injured was Allen

Graham, 16, son of Mr. and

Mrs. Al Graham of 704 Whim-mander. He received severe fractures of the right leg and both arms, multiple fractures of the jaw and facial bones, multiple lacerations of the face and mouth and possible other internal injuries. He was kept overnight in Obion County General Hospital and transferred to Baptist Memorial Hospital in Memphis this morning.

A physician said the youth's condition was "satisfactory considering the extent of his injuries."

Charles "Chuck" Barham, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bob Wyatt of the Jordan highway, was undergoing treatment in the local hospital today for a nose fracture and laceration and possible fractures of the elbow and wrist. His condition was listed as good. Others injured included James D. Olds, about 35, of South Fulton, Lester B. Hatchell, 64, of 208 Taylor St., Union City, and his wife, Mrs. Burlie Hatchell, 56. Mr. Olds received facial and arm lacerations and was admitted to the local hospital. Mr. and Mrs. Hatchell were treated for cuts and bruises but were not admitted.

Assistant Police Chief Homer Palmer said the cars were a 1965 Buick four-door, driven by the Graham youth; a 1969 Chevrolet four-door, driven by Mr. Olds, and a 1967 Chevrolet four-door, driven by Mr. Hatchell.

The officer said Mr. Olds was traveling toward Union City and began passing two cars, one driven by Mr. Hatchell and the other by Mr. and Mrs. Fred Fall of Fulton. Graham youth was driving toward Fulton and the Graham and Olds autos collided almost headon. Asst. Chief Palmer said, Mr. Hatchell was unable to avoid smashing into the wreckage and about $800 in damage was done to the left side of his car. The other cars were demolished.

Mr. Fall was not involved in the wreck and he and his wife remained at the scene to give aid. The Graham car left the highway on the east side and over-turned, partly in a ditch and partly in a field. The Olds car remained in the middle of the highway and the Hatchell car was partly off the highway on the west side.

Asst. Chief Palmer said Mr. Olds will be charged with improper passing and "possibly other charges."

Assisting Asst. Chief Palmer at the scene were Patrolmen Raymond Hutchens, Bill Lemonds and James McGowan, along with State Trooper W. C. Tate.

The fatalities were the first of the year in Union City.

Miss Phillips had the lower part of her left leg amputated about two years ago because of cancer and had been fitted with an artificial limb.

Better Days Ahead Seen By KEA Chief

LOUISVILLE, Ky.

The Kentucky Education Association's outgoing president, Dr. Kenneth A. Estes, predicted better days ahead for teachers at the final session of the KEA convention Friday.

"Regardless of the sparsity of action this past legislative session, I believe that legislators will be more conscious of school needs next session," he said.

"Without doubt the next program will be planned long before the legislature meets and have the commitment of the governor and legislators before the session starts," he added.

He told the teachers they are at a changing point for education and should have no regrets for their action (to strike) last February.

Estes also said that teachers have a professional responsibility to work more closely with parents in order to present a united front at all times.

He also predicted an increase in negotiations between teachers and local school boards.

"Most boards are beginning to realize that they are delaying school progress by continuing to fight this movement," he commented.

Incoming KEA president, Ruth Reeves of Ashland, echoed his sentiments when she said that the local community is where the action is.

"We have an obligation to create a better climate for improvement in education through local boards of education," Mrs. Reeves said.

Poor spirit of country living can be corrected by placing a new emphasis on religious faith, and the spiritual qualities of good neighbors, family cooperation, love and appreciation.

"Teachers are fed up with bearing the burden of every tax in the state to get a small fractional part of that tax dollar to not only add a small pittance to their salaries but for the complete financing of the elementary and secondary schools," she remarked.

Mrs. Reeves added, "KEA members are tired of hearing prospective candidates say, 'I am for education' from one side of their mouths and 'I will raise taxes' from the other side."

"By so doing they have made education synonymous with taxes," she said.

Farmington Boy Killed In Fall From Spreader

FARMINGTON, Ky., April 18—A 12-year-old Farmington boy died Saturday when he fell into a farm lime spreader and suffocated.

Joseph Michael Williams, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Freeze, Farmington Rt. 1, was riding the machine when the accident occurred, according to Graves County authorities.

The accident occurred on the James Barker farm, Sedalia Rt. 1, about 4 p.m.

The body is at the Bryn Funeral Home where funeral arrangements are incomplete.

Mayfield To Open Fire Station Bids

Adrian Smith Honored By Farmington

MURRAY, Ky.

Adrian 'Odie' Smith was honored by his high school alma mater here tonight and his old Farmington High School jersey, No.
34, was retired and will repose in a trophy case along with his picture.

Smith was guest of honor at the annual Farmington High cage banquet held here. He was presented with a handsome plaque by Alfred Deik and Gary
Sanderson, captains of the 1969-
70 Farmington team.

Smith played for Farmington during the 1960-64 era, and averaged 29 points a game his junior and senior years.

He later was a member of Adolph Rupp's 'Fiddlin' Five that won the NCAA title for Kentucky in 1958. Smith also played on the U.S. Olympic cage team in 1960.

Smith has been in professional basketball for the past nine years, eight with the Cincinnati
Royals and last year with the San Francisco Warriors.

In accepting his award, Smith commented, "You never lose sight of the people you grow up with. To come back here and receive this award is touching beyond words."

Smith listed his keys to success are (1) dedication; (2) sacrifice; and (3) determination and confidence.

"I'm always proud to say I'm from Farmington. This award means a lot to me," he concluded.

Individual team awards were announced and presented by Farmington principal Jimmy
Baker and Coach Joe Mikez.

Some 100 persons, including cheerleaders, attended the banquet to honor Smith and the Farmington Wildcats and their coach.

Carlisle County Beats Hickman

BARDWELL, Ky. — Mickey
Thomasson pitched and batted the Carlisle County Comets to a 9-4 triumph over the visiting Hickman County Falcons in a game here Wednesday.

Thomasson gave up four hits and five runs, while fanning 10 and walking one. He also accounted for two of the Comets' nine hits.

Carlisle County romped for five runs in the second, on three walks, a hit batsman, and singles by Mike Cain and Thomasson.

The Comets, now 5-2 on the season, will host Farmington today.
