The student laboratory newspaper of Murray State University has been awarded the Medalist Certificate. The Murray State News also was awarded an All-Columbian Award for its "objective handling of controversial news stores" during the year.

This year's Medalist Certificate is only the third the newspaper has received during its 50-year history. It received the award in 1968 and again last year.

In order to receive the award, the newspaper must first attain at least 850 of a possible 1,000 points in judging. Of the newspapers that reach that plateau, fewer than 10 percent go on to win the Medalist Certificate, according to the

The Murray State News received 941 points in the judging of newspapers published during 1977

During that time, Babette Morgan, Advance, Mo., senior, served as editor in chief. She served as co-editor in chief during the fall semester with Dennis Hill, who, after graduating from MSU in December, is now a staff writer with the Evansville (Ind.) Press.

"Career education for young children deals with the ways different occupational groups help them to have a better life through an understanding of various occupations and the environment around them," said Dr. Charles May, chairman of the Department of Childhood Studies at Murray State and the campus coordinator for the conference.

"This involves those occupations around which their dramatic play behavior revolves - such as physicians, dentists, policemen, firemen and others who work with and help people. Of course, "he went on,

"we are in no way attempting to help five-year-old children choose careers, but we can familiarize them with some of the occupations with which they most frequently come in contact, help them to understand the environment in which they live and how the various occupations fit into it.".

The conference is being sponsored by the Career Education Project at Murray State University Center for Innovation and Development and the Department of Child Studies. Funded by the U.S. Office of Career Education, the Murray State project is designed to facilitate infusion of career educationhandicapped methodologies into a university curriculum.

COURTHOUSE BENCH WARMERS - The county courthouse bench warmers were out enmasse early this week, soaking up the sunshine, swapping yarns and maybe trading a knife now and then. Ben Purdom, H. S. Robertson, Kelzie Beeler and Kelly Burton listen as Joe Jackson (standing) spins a yarn. Carrying on a conversation in the background are George Morgan, Otrie Dixon and Bob Hubbs. If you take a notion to join the shade tree philosophers and knife traders-extraordinary, the benches can be found on the north side of the courthouse. Be sure to have a story or two to relate and a couple of knives to show.

Concerted Effort Expected In Carter Inflation Program

WASHINGTON (AP) — President man of the Council of Economic today's speech because oil imports remain "the key to the problem." The by the government and the private sector as one way to help solve the problem of rising inflation.

The administration originally predicted prices would rise 6.1 percent this year. But some government economists say the increase could be closer to 7 percent. Since returning from a trip to Africa and Latin America, the battle on inflation has been the No. 1 topic on the president's schedule. He spent much of the weekend working on the speech after meeting earlier with congressional leaders, Treasury Secretary W. Michael Blumenthal and Charles Schultz, chair-

While White House aides said Carter wants to hold down military pay, a spokesman for the Council of Economic Advisers. Peter Gould, denied the administration was seeking wage constraints, He commented, "There will be no controls on pay. Period."

Aides said Carter is continuing to push for speedy passage of his energy program, sent to Congress nearly 12

Carter has advocated raising federal taxes on gasoline to discourage use of the fuel, and cut to oil imports, but such a tax would also raise prices and contribute to inflation.

One White House aide said "a strong emphasis on energy" was written into half of the petroleum it uses.

The role of the energy legislation in fighting inflation has been one of Carter's frequent themes, as he attempts to deal with the worst trade deficit in the nation's history and the declining value of the dollar.

Commerce Department figures indicate the United States imported $4.5 billion more in goods than it sold abroad in February, topping the $3.6 billion balance-of-payments deficit of last October and marking the 21st monthly deficit in a row.

The deficit was a blow to the administration's attempts to reduce the balance-of-payments figures below last year's $26.7 billion.

Plant Ingestion Rates High In Control Calls

Ingestion of some kind of plant was. the subject of most of the over 600 calls received by the Murray Calloway County Poison Control Center this year. The calls were received from the surrounding Western Kentucky and Western Tennessee counties.

The local Center, sponsored by Murray-Calloway County Hospital and located in the hospital pharmacy, averages two calls each day.

Following plant poisoning, next on the list of commonly swallowed poisons about which the center received calls were detergents, aspirin, vitamins and antihistamines. Requests for information were also received about perfumes, household disinfectants. nsecticides and tranquilizers.

In operation since 1973, the Murray-Calloway County Poison Control Center is one of only two Poison Control Centers in the Jackson Purchase and only ten in Kentucky.

The Murray center provides a vital service to the Western Kentucky and Western Tennessee area and welcomes all questions concerning poisonous substances. The Poison Control Center number is 753-7588 and is listed with the

High Ranking Soviet UN Employee Seeks Asylum In America

UNITED NATIONS (AP) - The highest-ranking Soviet employee of the United Nations, Arkady N. Shevchenko, is in hiding after apparently defecting. An application to the United States for asylum is expected.

But in Moscow, a woman who said she was his wife today accused U.S. authorities of a "crude provocation," claimed her husband 'mever had any intention" of staying in the United States and said the Americans must be holding him forcibly.

Shevchenko, the $76,000-a-year undersecretary-general for political and Security Council affairs, left his job six days ago because of "differences with his government," a U.N. statement

Associated Press reporters calling "Shevchenko" entries in the Moscow telephone directory spoke with a woman who identified herself as Leongina Shevchenko, the diplomat's

She said she had returned from New York for fear the Americans would seize her and other family members as well as her husband.

"What they are sa ing about him is a provocation," she said. "He is a marvelous father and husband. He cannot live without his work and his family. I am 100 percent sure he will be returning. I know, and am certain. I have lived with him for 27 years ... . "

In Washington, the State Department said it had been contacted by Ernest Gross, Shevchenko's American lawyer, who indicated that the 47-year-old Russian would not return to the Soviet

State Department spokesman Tom Reston said Shevchenko had not asked for asylum. But he said Soviet officials had requested a meeting with Shevchenko and that Gross, a former assistant secretary of state and exdelegate to the United Nations, arranged the meeting, a formality that often precedes granting of asylum.

Reston did not disclose the place or time of the meeting. Gross was reported in Washington Monday night, and there was speculation that Shevchenko was with him to meet with representatives of the Soviet Embassy

An authoritative diplomatic source at the United Nations, who asked not to be identified, said Shevchenko was in the process of seeking asylum, the first U.N. employee ever to do so anywhere.

Unconfirmed reports said Shevchenko refused an order from the Soviet government to return home and that his wife and daughter left for Moscow over the weekend after "a violent quarrel." He also has a son in the Soviet foreign service.

Associates said he left his office last

Former FBI Director Gray Indicted In Federal Court

WASHINGTON (AP) - The Justice Department, concluding that responsibility for FBI excesses in the anti-radical campaign of the early 1970s rests at the top, has obtained the indictment of former FBI Director L. Patrick Gray III and two of his highest former aides.

In the culmination of a long and painful internal investigation, the department also dropped its prosecution of John J. Kearney, a former FBI supervisor in New York, who was indicted a year ago in connection with FBI break-ins, mail openings and wiretappings between 1970 and the summer of 1972.

"I am thoroughly delighted, pleased and vindicated," said Kearney, who was the first agent in FBI history to be charged with a felony involving his official duties. He resigned in 1972 to enter private business.

With the recent dumping, county road trucks are having difficulty manuevering in and out of the gravel pits with loads of gravel.

Janice Austin, clean-up coordinator for the county wide clean-up scheduled for April 22, has emphasized that dumping sites for the clean-up have not been officially determined and in-dividuals who are using the gravel pits for disposal of refuge are only hampering the county road department in the repairing of the roads.

Austin also added that announcement will be made concerning the scheduled days and sites for garbage disposal.

In a case personally guided by Attorney General Griffin B. Bell, a federal grand jury Monday indicted Gray, former Associate FBI Director W. Mark Felt and former Assistant Director Edward S. Miller on a charge of conspiring to violate the rights of citizens through unlawful break-ins.

The charge carries a maximum penalty of 10 years in prison and a fine

Gray issued a statement through his lawyer saying he had "never participated in or knowingly authorized any illegal conduct during my tenure as acting director of the FBI."

Felt, who called the indictments a 'tragic mistake,' said that he, Gray ment offer last week to plead guilty to a misdemeanor charge.

Felt's statement was confirmed by Miller's attorney, who said his client "emphatically denies wrongdoing." ... Said Felt, formerly the No. 2 official in the FBI high command:

"Irrespective of my personal case, these indictments will have a chilling effect on all law enforcement and the intelligence community. These agencies have already been impaired in recent years, and this is just another push downhill.

"In my own career up against mobsters, criminals, spies and the mad bombers of the Weather Underground, and Miller had rejected a Justice epart- I never approached a case with criminal intent and never got any personal gain from a case.'

> Bell, who announced the indictments at a news conference Monday, also said he was taking unspecified disciplinary action against J. Wallace LaPrade, an assistant FBI director and head of the bureau's New York office, "for his conduct in these matters."

Bell said 70 other persons - 68 in the FBI and two in the Justice Department will be subjected to disciplinary action ranging from censure to dismissal. Most of them were members of the New York office, which conducted the antiradical campaign under Kear-

Carbon monoxide poisoning to many people, it's a winter hazard. But according to the state Department for Human Resources (DHR), accidents involving carbon monoxide do not end with the coming of spring.

"During the winter, we hear about illness and death caused by carbon monoxide from unvented space heaters and automobile exhaust," said Edsel Moore, head of DHR's consumer product safety program. "People should be aware that carbon monoxide poisoning can happen at any time, from sources people may not consider."

One source of carbon monoxide (CO) is charcoal. In an attempt to get a jump on the cook-out season, Moore said, people may fire up the charcoal grill, wait for the fire to die down a bit, then roll the grill into the garage for cooking. If charcoal is left burning in a closed, unventilated area, he said, the level of CO in the air could

Dear Abby

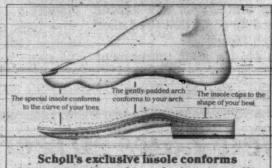

Don't boil the eggs!

Don't boil eggs! Overcooking can make them tough. Instead cover the eggs with water and bring the water rapidly just to boiling. Turn off the heat, cover the pan and let eggs stand for 15 minutes for large size eggs. Adjust the time three minutes up or down for each size larger or smaller. Cool immediately under cold running water and refrigerate.

Are there green rings around the yolks of your hard-cooked eggs? Don't worry, it's just a harmless chemical reaction between the iroh and the sulphur in the eggs. Proper cooking and immediate cooling will help you avoid ringaround-the-yolks.

It's easier to peel a hard-cooked egg if you first crackle the shell by gently tapping it on a counter or tabletop. Then, roll the egg between your hands to loosen the shell. Start peeling at the large end of the egg where the air cell is located. To ease the shell off, hold the egg under cold running-water or dip in a bowl of water as

It always makes us feel good when a deserving group of people receives recognition for their hard work. Such was the case this past weekend when the Calloway County High School Speech Team won the Kentucky State Speech Tournament for the second year in a row.

New Laws Affect

Horse Racing

FRANKFORT-Four new laws affecting horse racing in Kentucky were passed by the 1978 General Assembly.

The one affecting thoroughbred racing the most in the state is HB 766 that establishes the Churchill Downs Authority and authorize the issuance of bonds to purchase the famed race track from the présent stock owner; now a stock corporation.

This bill does not mean that the Commonwealth of Kentucky, through this newly-created agency, will acquire Churchill Downs any time in the near

It was passed more or less as a safety measure in case some outside interests try to acquire this historic racing plant. An out-of-state group tried a few years ago, but the stockholders refused to

The bill provides that the track be operated as an irrevocable trust, governed by trustees named by the Trustees may be appointed by the governor after the bill becomes law in mid-June. The trustees could then make a proposal to the board of directors of Churchill Downs. If the stockholders and board refuse the offer, then there would be no change.

Chairman William H. May of the Kentucky Racing Association said the bill looks to the future when some present stockholders die and their heirs may want to sell the stock.

Senate Bill 204 would require Kentucky race track to turn over uncliamed winning pari-mutuel tickets to the State Racing Commission. The funds would then be used to establish a Kentucky Racing Health and Welfare Fund to. give financial assistance to racing personnel, to be funded from proceeds from the unclaimed tickets. The winning tickets would be turned over to the sheriff of the county where the track is located two years after their valid date. The sheriff would then advertise tickets and askes owners to claim payment. Proceeds form the unclaimed tickets would go to the fund. HB 616 establishes the Kentucky thoroughbred development fund which would provide supplemental purses for Kentucky sired thoroughbreds. This will be funded by Three-nineteenths of annual race track excise taxes now collected.

HB 548 provides for appaloosas horse racing, but an important part of the bill legalizes Sunday racing in the state.

Apparently only one track in Kentucky, Latonia, is interested in Sunday racing at the moment. Latonia President David Vance said in a telephone interview that "we will take a close look at the possibility of Sunday racing to see if it could be profitable.'

Kentucky's Finance Chief Recalls His First MSU Visit

"Dr. Wood," Russ recalled, "had a way of starting a building before he had all the money for it, figuring he would be able to get more by the time construction reached the point where more was needed. So, in building the student union building, he had them put in all the ducts for the chillers (air conditioning), but he didn't buy any chillers at that time. Instead, he took that money and added more space to the building, making it larger.

"When the building was finished, here he came to Frankfort after money for the chillers. 'Can you imagine a fine building like that without air conditioning!,' he would exclaim. Things got pretty sticky over the matter as he went round and round with the state

Then one day Governor (Bert) Combs said to me, "Russ, go down to Murray and see what it will take to get Ralph Woods happy. Work things out some way.""

Russ came to Murray as directed, arriving in a driving rainstorm. "I found the Administration Building (now Wrather Hall) and parked in the parking area right behind it," he said. 'Then I ran for the building, getting soaked in the process.

"But just as I ran in the door, a man grabbed me by the arm and said, 'You can't park there! What do you mean parking in that area?' Apparently, he thought I was a student - and I was rather young looking then.

"I'm only going to be in here for a few minutes,' I stammered, taken aback by his aggressiveness. 'Can't help it,' the man went on, 'you can't park in that

"But it's raining hard,' I protested. At that, he jerked out his fountain pen and, pulling the top off with his teeth while he fumbled in his pockets for some paper with the other, he demanded, 'What's your name and address, boy?'

"I told him and he wrote it down. Then he said, 'Your parents are going to hear about this. You can bet your boots on that! Now, get that car outa that parking area!'

"And that, ladies and gentlemen, is how I remember my first visit to Murray, I had come down here to give Dr. Woods another hunk of money so he could put air-conditioning in his new student union building and got chased off the administrative parking lot by J. Matt Sparkman."

J. Matt, one of the most colorful administrators ever to walk the Murray campus, was dean of men for many years and was vice-president for student affairs during the Sparks Administration. We have some lighting recommendations, but these seem to be for an ordinary fin-ished basement and we want to know if they will hold up for a basement to be used for recreational activities.

A. - You did not say what the recommendations are, so it is impossible to tell you wheth er they are sufficient. However, if the area is to be designed just for games, you should pro-vide a recessed box, minimum -10 inches by 10 inches, with a maximum 100-watt bulb for every 40 square feet or a louvered downlight for an R-40, 150-watt floodlamp for every 30 square feet. For an even higher level of general lighting, use a re-cessed or surface-mounted fluorescent fixture with two 40watt home-line tubes for every 10 square feet. A ceiling fixture also should be placed over a specific game area - such as a table tennis top — in addition to the general lighting.

Most didn't want to be both-Storage Can Cut Food Cost

While economists debate inflation indexes, grain deals and harvest expectations, the American homemaker knows one thing for certain. Food costs are still rising.

For some, high prices mean doing without specialty items and choice cuts. For others; cutting back to the basics.

The National Kitchen Cabinet Association suggests there are ways to set a good table despite a tight budget But, it takes shopping knowhow and storage space.

NKCA notes, for instance. that most cities have bakery outlets where bread and cake cost substantially less than at supermarkets. Fruits and vegetables can be purchased for less at farmers' markets. In some · areas, families have formed cooperatives in order to buy all kinds of food at wholesale prices.

To save money on grocer-ies, says NKCA, it's important to become a comparison shopper. Check unit prices to . be sure of getting the most economical size. Canned staples can be stored on cabinet shelves for long periods. Frozen foods on the other hand require energy to keep them frozen. Watch for sales, and take advantage of the cents-off coupons carried in newspapers and magazines. When you find bargains, buy in bulk for maximum savings. Some stores will discount regular prices if you offer to buy by the case.

Bulk buying, however, requires storage space, a roomy freezer and lots of kitchen cabinets. Sufficient storage area also helps save gas by cutting down on shopping

NKCA notes that stocks of erable shelf weight, so be sure cabinets are strong enough to take it. For assurance of bothstructural strength and finish resistance, look for cabinets that carry the NKCA certification seal. It shows the cabinets have been laboratory tested to indicate they can withstand overloaded shelves and drawers, as well as heat, humidity, food spillage and a-brasive liquids such as alco-

Extra Bath Needn't Be Big Luxury

Home decorators are enthusiastic about plush-looking bathrooms. For many families, an extra bathroom would be luxury enough.
The National Kitchen Cabinet Association says families that need an additional bathroom are often stymied by the thought of where to put it. Some suggestions: a walk-in closet, a pantry, a back porch, a mud room, or a utility room. Try to find space off the kitchen or under the main bathroom. It's easier to run plumbing lines.

Even if the extra bathroom is small, without tub or shower facilities, it needn't lack storage space. Under-counter vanities, wall-mounted cabinets and corner units provide convenient space for towels, soap, tissues, and the overflow of health and beauty. paraphernalia from the other bath. In addition to their storage capacity, cabinets are a practical way to give the bathroom glamor. They come in a variety of good-looking wood-grain finishes, and in luxurious white and gold.

Also important is the ability of bathroom equipment to take the daily abuse it's bound to get

Remodelers' Future Sunny, With Money

One business that has proved appearance. Cabinets benefited from high newhome construction costs is remodeling. With marketing forecasts so rosy, mothers are referring proudly to "my son, the remodeler.

In 1977, says Qualified Remodeler magazine, almost $17-billion was realized by the professional segment of the giant remodeling market. Another $17-billion was spent on modernization by do-itvourselfers

With these indications that Americans are wedded to the when you can't move 9mprove" concept, some experts predict that modernization will become a $60-billion industry within five years. Assuming the 50/50 market split with do it yourselfers will continue, professional remodelers can look forward to a hefty $30-billion annual share by 1981.

Why the remodeling frenzy? Rising new home costs is an obvious answer. The price of the average single-family home has been put at $55,900 nationally, compared with $48,000 in 1976. There are other reasons. Many families don't want to leave the neighborhood, or take their children out of school. Also important is the high cost of moving versus the knowledge that improvements often increase resale value.

Homeowners seem to agree on the areas they want improved. Kitchens and bathrooms regularly top the re-modeling list. In 1977, 78 percent of professional remodelers were involved in kitchen work, 76 percent in bath-rooms. They reported 1,841,-000 kitchen jobs and a total of 2,480,000 bathroom modernizations and additions. Biggest selling items were cabi nets and countertops for kitchens, vanities for bathrooms.

The National Kitchen Cabinet Association says cabinets and vanities are popular because they satisfy two major remodeling goals-additional storage space and improvide virtually all the storage area in kitchens and bathrooms, and are the best chance these workrooms have to achieve elegance at reasonable cost.

What's more, says NKCA there's a wide variety of preassembled, ready-toinstall cabinets available in standard sizes, shapes, and styles at kitchen and bath dealers and building supply centers. This makes cabinets a practical remodeling item for competent home handymen as well as for "pros.

Whoever does the installation, NKCA recommends use of well made and durable cabinets-those bearing the blue and white NKCA certification seal. It assures consumers that cabinets and vanities meet the strict construction and performance standards of the American National Standards Institute

This certification seal usually found inside cabinet doors or drawers, can be displayed only after the kitcher cabinets or bath vanities pass more than 30 laboratory tests and inspections measuring structural strength and finish resistance. to years of ordinary use and abuse.

Cabinet structure, for example, must withstand overloaded shelves and drawers, impacts from dropped ob jects, pulling on doors of waff cabinets, repeated knee closure of base cabinets, even the probability of children climbing on base cabinet shelves to reach countertops, The finish must hold up und heat, humidity, water and soap splashes, and abrasives such as alcohol, vinegar, grease and mustard. Associated Press Writer Steadily rising electric bills have focused new attention on the way utility rates are calculated and on possible changes in the traditional system under which big customers pay proportionately less money.

Proposals pending in Congress would require state utility commissions to consider new and controversial ways of setting rates and distributing power. Among the alternatives are "lifeline" systems to provide a minimum amount of electricity at rock-bottom prices for the poor and variable rates

Rogers said Pease was virtually unknown as a composer until a recent upsurge of interest in the history of . American music, adding glimpse into a hitherto little explored part of the country's musical past.

Born in Cleveland, Ohio, in 1838, Pease studied six years in Germany to become a pianist and composer. He made his debut in New York in 1864, the same year he published his first song.

He continued to write songs until his death in 1882, about 100 of them in all. Copies of some of them have still not been located.

Pease has the distinction of being one of the earliest Americans composers of art songs. He also wrote many sentimental ballads, a kind of song which was very popular

E.H. Canon Dies: The funeral for Gerstal Native Calloway & Western Registrar

E. H. Canon, native of Calloway County, died Sunday at the Turtle Creek Convalescent Center, Bowling Green. He was 90 years of age and served as registrar at Western Kentucky University, Bowling Green, for 34 years.

Mr. Canon who did his undergraduate student at Western, came to Bowling Green in 1909 after teaching in one room schools at Locust Grove, Lebanon, and Cherry Corner in Calloway County. His experience as a school administrator began in 1917 when he was named as principal at Kevil, and later served as principal at Lynn Grove and Finchville. He directed the summer normal school at Williamstown and Medford before being named as registrar at Western in 1925 serving under three of Western's four presidents. When Mr. Canon came to Western the school enrollment was about 3,000 compared to the 13,000 plus today. One wing of the academic complex at Western is named in honor of Mr. Canon and it houses the nursing, home economics, and family living facilities. He served as president of the Bowling Green Kiwanis Club and was secretary for 21 years, was a member of the Fortnightly Club, and an elder in the First Christian Church.

Mr. Canon also served as assistant registrar at the University of Kentucky from 1924 to 1925 while obtaining his master's degree there. He is survived by one daughter, Mrs. Anne C. Frank of Danville, and one grandson.

The funeral will be held Wednesday at 2:30 p.m. at the First Christian Church, Bowling Green. Burial will follow in the Fairview Cemetery with the Gerard-Bradley Funeral Home, Bowling Green, in charge of the arrangements.
