Kentucky Windage

(By P. W.)

There is little question that the most dangerous intersection around the Twin Cities is located out at what is commonly called the "Derby Corner," and we think it is high time that something is done about making this a safer place for traffic.

This is a very busy corner. It is a heavy traffic corner for all kinds of vehicles, especially large trucks that experience difficulty in making its sharp turns.

It is a busy corner for hundreds of tourist vehicles daily, and they are generally unaware of its potential hazards, even though they may observe all stop signs, traffic lanes and speed warnings.

Within the past year, at least two deaths have occurred at this intersection. Within the past two weeks two giant trucks have careened off the roadway at this intersection. In the past months there have been any number of lesser accidents and near-accidents.

The problem is many-fold, complicated by the fact that vehicles converge at the multiple-intersection complex from six directions; have to carefully watch a maze of traffic lanes and stop signs, and have to be on the lookout for traffic coming at them from five other directions.

One of the most frustrating problems at this intersection stems from the fact that it is exactly on the Kentucky-Tennessee State Line, and that "everybody's business" has turned out to be "nobody's business" in seeking a traffic control plan that will include both States. A final and complete solution of the problem will take the cooperation of both State Highway Departments, and we hope that they will plan some immediate action.

From the Kentucky side, the intersection is very poorly marked. There should be a blinking red light over the intersection as one approaches it from the north, inasmuch as southbound traffic is required to make two stops there, one scarcely 50 yards from the other. Also, a broad "stop" line should be painted on the street at the first stop; there is none.

Since most of the problems lie on the Tennessee side, let's examine them one by one:

As one approaches the turn-off from the south, there is absolutely no warning that it is going to be sharp, nor that the left lane of the 2-lane northbound strip ends at the turn off. We feel very strongly that there should be a blinking "caution" light in advance of the intersection, on the Tennessee approach, and that adequate signs (perhaps overhead) should indicate that the left lane is the "turn left" lane only. This is especially hazardous at night, and it is at night that practically all of the bad accidents have happened.

There have been too many vehicles enter the intersection at too high a speed to navigate it safely; at least SOME kind of a warning sign should be posted to reduce speed to a safe level.

Again, a better marking must be established to keep southbound traffic desiring to turn into downtown Fulton on the proper side of the road until actual turning is accomplished. Time after time, we have noted southbound traffic going to the downtown area stopped on the wrong side of the road... and directly in the path of northbound vehicles.

This is a tough corner, and even after the new by-pass is completed around South Fulton, it will remain a tough corner, since considerable northbound traffic will want to continue on into either the Highlands or downtown, and the southern flow will remain the same. It is rightfully the responsibility of both States, and we hope that a little cooperation will get the mess straightened out... and as soon as possible.

Perhaps you noticed this one in the metropolitan press Wednesday:

"A survey of drinking drivers in the Falls Church (Va) area... that's suburban Washington, DC... has been abruptly halted because too many drivers are drinking."

"We didn't think the holiday drinking started till the week before Christmas" the Alcohol Safety Action Project manager said, adding that the survey will be resumed after the Christmas shopping and drinking season is over.

To which I might add, the drinking season in Washington and environs is never over, and I doubt they'll get much better results than now. It is a well known

Fred Whitnel Is Returning From England

Fred P. Whitnel, supervisor of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company stores in England, Scotland and Wales, returned to Akron, Ohio last Sunday, and plans to return to Fulton to make his home.

For the past four years he has lived in London, England, which is headquarters for Firestone overseas operations.

After reporting to the home office in Akron, Mr. Whitnel will fly to Nashville to attend the Vanderbilt Invitational basketball tournament December 10-11, returning to Fulton Sunday December 12.

After 42 years service with the Firestone Company he will officially retire in January 1972 and return to his home in Fulton on the Union City Highway.

Mr. Whitnel is the brother of Win, Henry and Ann Whitnel, all of Fulton.

County ASCS Convention Is Dec. 15

Duly elected 1972 Community Committeemen will assemble as delegates to the County Convention, Wednesday, December 15, 1971, 10:00 a.m. at Fulton County ASCS Office, 701 Moscow, Hickman, Kentucky.

The function of the convention will be to elect one member to the County Committee for a 3 year term; a first and second alternate for a year term; then to elect positions on the County Committee for 1972 - Chairman, Vice Chairman and regular member.

Presently serving on the Fulton County ASCS Committee are Roy Bard, Chairman; T. M. Conder, Vice Chairman; and Richard Adams, Regular Member. Mr. Adams' term is expiring; however, he is eligible for reelection.

New Commission Will Focus On Local Goals

The new Fulton City Planning Commission held its first meeting at City Hall, Monday night, December 6, with Wayne Spencer, representative of the Kentucky Program Development Office, to reorganize and restructure duties of this commission.

The new commission replaces the City-County Commission. The discussion at the meeting focused on the restructure of the duties of the group and the need for future planning. Duties will include such problems as zoning, street working, traffic, land use, electric and building codes.

The next meeting will be held January 20, at City Hall. Members of the Fulton Planning Commission include, Dick Armstrong, Chairman; Mayor Nelson Tripp, ex-officio member; J. D. Hales, W. D. Powers, Mildred Freeman, Clyde Williams, Jr. and Charles Thomas.

Stan Watts Ends MSU Career With Every Kicking Record

When Stan Watts kicked a 58-yard field goal in Murray State's final game of the season, he regained an Ohio Valley Conference record he had lost a couple of weeks earlier and ended his career at Murray with most of the OVC kicking records in his pocket. His kicking success also earned him a spot on the All-OVC team.

Among Watts' records are career ones for most points by kicking -- 138, most field goals -- 21, and most points after touchdowns -- 75. His 11 field goals this season and his 3 field goals in a single game game him a tie for conference records in those departments.

Watts holds every Murray State kicking record. During his four years at Murray, Watts has kicked 21 field goals in 57 attempts and 75 of 86 PAT's for 138 points. As a freshman in 1968 he connected on 3 of 4 field goals and 19 of 21 PAT's. The next year he was 5 for 8 on field goals and 23 for 30 on PAT's. In 1970 he was 2 for 10 and 18 for 20. This season he was 11 for 25 and 15 for 15. He has kicked three field goals during his career of more than 50 yards -- a 52-yarder against Austin Peay in 1969, a 53-yarder against Western Carolina in the opening game this season, and the 58-yarder against Western Kentucky. He had two 50-plus field goals nullified last season by penalties.

Had his leg not been so strong he would likely have had a much better percentage on field goals, as he was usually called on to kick in lieu of a punt anytime the Racers stalled around the 50.

Murray Coach Bill Furgerson calls Watts a fine pro prospect, noting that he has been checked out by most pro teams. Furgerson also noted that Watts' graduation next spring will leave a big hole on the Racers team to fill next season. "Stan has been invaluable to us the last four seasons," he said, "it will be difficult ever to find a kicker to fill his shoes."

The Fulton That Was

(Ed's note: The following nostalgic "flashbacks" of a warm, friendly Fulton that was his boyhood home have been contributed by Ned Holman, now living in Florida. The incidents date from around 1910 to the early 1920's, and while they are unrelated paragraphs, not necessarily in chronological order, each will recall many now-forgotten incidents in the early lives of other Fultonians who were living here during this period. We think they are interesting to all. This article is being published in three installments.)

Fulton City	3,250
Hickman division	4,263
Hickman City	3,048

"RED BARN" CARE--Some 11 Letcher County children, ages 4-12 enter this red barn each day to receive a special type of care and services. The red barn is one of the best-housed day care centers for mentally retarded children in the commonwealth, operated by the Upper Kentucky River Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Comprehensive Care Center. The barn was renovated in the summer of 1968. (Richard Upchurch Photo)

"Old Red Barn" Is Now A Day Care Center In Letcher

Old Barns are being used for almost everything these days, but in Letcher County there is one that is nonetheless unique. Red Barn, as it is called, is a day care center for mentally retarded children.

The facility is operated in the Jeremiah Community by the Upper Kentucky River Regional Mental Health-Mental Retardation Comprehensive Care Center.

Though a barn seems an improbable place for a day care unit, a massive renovation job has resulted in one of the best-housed day care centers in the commonwealth.

The barn boasts room for housing 20 day care participants. The concrete floors have inlaid linoleum and the inside of the building is paneled throughout. Local funds and volunteer labor were utilized during the renovation.

The ex-cow palace has a furnished kitchen, bathroom, supply room and isolation room. It is heated electrically and has plenty of room for play areas.

When the Red Barn Day Care Center held open house Sept. 1, 1968, instructor Bobby Jo Collins and aide Hassie Breeding nervously welcomed the public.

On the first day, seven mothers hesitatingly entered their mentally retarded children in the day care facility. Although there was some apprehension, the mothers welcomed the opportunity. The center now serves 11 mentally retarded children.

The children receive training primarily in self-help, hygiene and grooming, communication, socialization and economic efficiency or independence. They range in age from four to twelve years and spend five hours at Red Barn each school day.

Some of the participants have shown progress far beyond the most optimistic expectations. One 12-year-old girl has never fed herself but now does a good job eating with all the others.

Most of the instruction is individualized but group activities are used when feasible. Instruction is geared to results and every child is expected to progress to the extent of his ability.

The children enjoy many of the activities of normal classrooms such as singing together, morning inspections, pledge to the flag, square dancing, rhythm bands and even meal preparation. Many have learned nursery rhymes, numerals, colors, traffic signals and the names of all of the children in the class.

The Upper Kentucky River Region, headquartered in Hazard, is one of 15 regions covering the entire commonwealth. Each region is operated by a non-profit board of local citizens in cooperation with the Kentucky Department of Mental Health.

Do You Remember This?

From Our Picture Album

FULTON'S

Library Corner

BY LUCY DANIEL

Books are a source of companionship. Books are not only for solitary leisure-time, but they also offer the companionship of shared experiences and discussion among those who have been stimulated by the same ideas, whether they be young people or adults.

BEASTLY INVENTIONS, by Jean George. What do we do that animals can do better? The list of things is endless. Animals have created effective social systems, built impressive buildings, developed widely varied sexual patterns, and are far better at adapting to their environment than man is. This book takes us on a fascinating tour of the extraordinary inventiveness within the animal kingdom.

THE KAISERS, by Theo Aronson. In the personalities and psyches of the three Kaisers who ruled the German Empire from 1871 to 1918, barely fifty years, lies a microcosm of the forces at war throughout 19th century Europe. By revealing Europe, by revealing all before every facet of their lives in rich detail, from The Reichstag to the royal boudoir, the author has painted a portrait not only of the battling Hohenzollerns, but of an age that changed the course of history and inevitably plunged the world into a holocaust.

AN ENDURING IMAGE, by Lillian Freedgood. American Painting, sweeping all before it in a remarkable dash to world preeminence in our own time, began a little over three hundred years ago in ignorance and amateurishness. The dramatic and absorbing story of this rise to leadership, from the first crude efforts of the itinerant colonial limner to the latest audacities of the avant-garde, is told with authority and zest by this author.

ROBERT, EARL OF ESSEX, by Robert Lacey. In England toward the end of the reign of Elizabeth I, there appeared a handsome impetuous young Welshman who had everything but money. Though he was young enough to be the Queen's grandson, the dashing courtier's poverty and his insistent romanticism made him attractive to her. For Elizabeth, a failing woman, snatching at reassurance against death, there was security in the knowledge that the young Earl of Essex was totally in her grasp. He was the hero of his age—a soldier, a poet, perhaps a statesman, certainly a lover.

TREASURY OF HUMOR, by Isaac Asimov. Here is a lifetime harvest of favorite anecdotes, jokes, puns, and scandalous verse—everything is included, from the original shaggy-dog story to famous put-downs from ancient history, from the cerebral whimsies of Talmudic wit to the bawlsness of the barracks. There is bound to be something new to every reader: moreover many of the jokes are original and presented here for the first time.

THOREAU'S WORLD. Although Thoreau is a tremendously popular writer, the bulk of his work rarely reaches the average reader. Year after year, in his personal journals, Thoreau recorded his observations on the world around him: his meditations on the inner life, first drafts of essays and passages later used in his books—including Walden—as well as bird and flower lists and random jottings. Many of his writings will strike the reader as surprisingly relevant to today.

ANIMALS NOBODY LOVES, by Roland Rood. "Animals Nobody Loves" will be, I promise you, the book everyone will love. It starts with my favorite of all, the wolf, and ends with my very next favorite, the coyote. And in between is a veritable feast of beasts—with goodies about even the least of them, the eel, the flea, etc.

Manufacturers in the U.S. are expected to spend more than $32,000 to train and locate salesmen during 1970.

Fulton Buffalo Hunt

A COLUMN BY WIN WHITNEL

The following paragraph was contributed by Ned Holman in the flashbacks of the "Fulton That Was" which appears in today's issue (front page). A few more facts will complete the story of this paragraph. "Come ye, one and all, to the Indian Buffalo Hunt at the Fulton Fairgrounds. The Indians equipped with only bows and arrows rode their Pinto ponies in the exhibition kill. When it took place the buffalo failed to cooperate; it took all their arrows into its body which failed to down it. It sought sanctuary in the pond at the fairgrounds and required the services of two local policemen to end its misery with pistol shots. The spectators were disappointed after paying 50 cents admission charge."

Tom Whitnel and Bob Wreather from Texas promoted this exhibition. At the time both men were engaged in selling ranches and smaller parcels of land in Oklahoma and Texas. They staged this performance with the idea of promoting interest in their land sales. Four Indians in native dress equipped with bows and arrows, four Pinto ponies and one buffalo were shipped from Oklahoma to Fulton. The presence of real Indians and Pinto ponies created a stir of excitement. The event was well publicized with handbills and other advertising media.

Before the buffalo hunt got under way, the Indians performed with ropes, lassoes and fancy trick riding on their ponies. This was followed by a war chant and dance.

Then with a flourish of showmanship the buffalo was turned out of his pen...and away he roared. The Indians yelling and shrieking on their ponies with poised bows and arrows rode in hot pursuit. After shooting eight arrows into the sides and neck of the buffalo the frightened animal staggered into the old fairground pond beyond the reach and range of the Indians...much to the dismay of both Indians and spectators.

With the buffalo in the pond the confusion and frustration continued until a policeman was called in to end the hunt with pistol bullets. Spectators, Indians and promoters were obviously annoyed and disappointed.

ed at such an abrupt turn and ending of this spectacular event. After all, anybody could shoot a buffalo.

But this was not the end. The Humane Society swore out warrants. Promoters and Indians were arrested and carried to City Hall for a preliminary hearing. After much argument and confusion the case was dismissed.

The dead buffalo was butchered and sold to any local citizen who wanted a taste of buffalo meat. Comments suggested that the meat was more palatable than the hunt. From a financial standpoint, the entire promotion proved to be a flop and fizzle. But the Indians and ponies did manage to get back to Oklahoma.

GIVE YOURSELF Want to have a Merry Christmas? Why not give of yourself in an effort to make someone a little happier. A visit to someone who needs companionship, a word of appreciation, a telephone call, a smile, a letter, a card, a small surprise gift are just a few suggestions...if you try you can add to this Christmas gift list.

A Chinese proverb puts it this way: "A bit of fragrance always clings to the hand that gives you roses."

This is the season to do many of the kind deeds you have intended to do all year long. Remember that anything you can do to bring happiness to someone else should be done now, because you only pass this way but once.

Santa Claus is a jolly and merry old gentleman because he gives of himself to the task of making children happy and merry.

You, too can make "some little nook of God's creation a little greener, more fruitful, more blessed, less accursed." Give yourself a Merry Christmas by giving of yourself to someone else. That is a priceless gift.

The poet, James Russell Lowell put it in these words: "Not what we give, but what we share."

For the gift without the giver is bare; Who gives himself with his aims feeds three, Himself, his hungry neighbor and Me."

MAJOR POINTS

BERLIN: From the rooftop dining room of the Berlin Hilton I look out over portions of both the Western and Eastern areas of the city. The room is beautiful, surroundings comfortable; the music and the food are delightful. And I hear a nearby diner remark, "Be glad you're in West Berlin, where all this is possible. There's nothing like it on the other side of the Iron Curtain." And I know there isn't. Move from the free West Berlin to the Communist eastern part of the city, as I did earlier today, and you see contrast so great it's hard to imagine. The city of course is divided by the menacing concrete, barbed wire, sensors, to detect movement, guard towers and night searchlights. For an East Berliner to attempt escape means almost certain death.

On the eastern side of the wall there is none of the happy laughter of West Berlin. The shops are drab, the streets deserted even on a sunny Sunday afternoon when West Berliners are strolling by the thousands.

Yes, it is sad. And as well-to-do West Berliners and visitors enjoy a splendid meal, across the Iron Curtain are millions who may not be missing the food and the music but who are missing something much more basic and necessary: Freedom.

Berlin is a fascinating city. If you are in Frankfurt, take two days at least for a visit. British European Airways (BEA) will fly you here in an hour, and you'll have an experience that will long remain in your memory!

Few people in this world feel more completely useless than I do when covering a meeting of any one of the many homemaker groups in the county.

Last Thursday, in attendance at a large part of the activities of annual day of the Fulton County Homemakers, this reporter felt useless, hopeless and helpless.

To those of us not assiduously involved in the career of making a house a home, please be advised that nothing, but nothing, can describe the ingenuity and creativity of members of the Fulton County Homemaker groups.

You just have to take a look at the handiwork displayed in the homes in Hickman that were included on the tour by the more than 150 homemakers who attended the annual program last Thursday, which included a fine program and a fine luncheon served by the ladies of the First United Methodist Church.

There'll be some "for instances," but first we must report the morning program, where Mrs. Billy Threlkeld, the county homemakers' president opened the meeting at 9:45 p.m.

It was a thoughtfully prepared event, interspersed with fine entertainment rendered by Mrs. Charles Terrett with her bagpipes, and the Homemakers ensemble composed of Mrs. H. G. Butler, Mrs. Fred McClanahan, Mrs. Gerald Binford, Mrs. Elmer Shaw, Mrs. Gerald Cooley, Mrs. Eddie Hicks, Mrs. Sammy Haddad, Mrs. W. W. Kitterman, Mrs. Nelson Tripp and Mrs. Charles Ray.

Various reports were made by the respective committee chairmen, after which the "piece de resistance" of the morning program was a talk by Dr. Doris Tichenor, associate dean for home economics extension of the University of Kentucky.

A petite, handsome lady, Dr. Tichenor entitled her talk, "Stepping Forward: The Complete Walker." Borrowing her title from a book by Colin Fletcher, author of "The Man Who Walked Through Time," and others called "The Thousand Mile Summer," and "The Complete Walker," Dr. Tichenor delineated the ways that busy people, like the homemakers, can get from one place to another and for what reasons.

It was a thoroughly thought-provoking message, and greatly enjoyed by her audience who find it necessary to get to many places, and to do many things in the least amount of time. The morning session concluded with the installation of new officers by Mrs. R. B. Foster, the area president from Wickliffe, Kentucky.

The new officers are: Mrs. Bert Yarbrow, Jr. of Hickman, president; Mrs. David Dean of Fulton, vice-president; Mrs. Bill Fenwick, Fulton, secretary-treasurer.

As is customary the ladies of the Methodist Church served their unusually delicious meal at noon, after which Mrs. W. C. Tipton announced the modus operandi of visiting the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Erle Ezell, placed in strategic places Mr. and Mrs. Sam Holly, and around the home, will be concluded with the installation of

SIGNING UP FOR AN ADVENTURE IN BEAUTIFUL LIVING is Mrs. David Phelps of Fulton who made the tour of Hickman homes with about 154 other ladies in attendance at Annual Day of Fulton Homemakers. Mrs. Phelps is shown at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. McClellan. Mrs. McClellan is standing at the guest register.

of the visitors for many days to come.

The many listeners of WFUL's Live Wire, who are delighted with the thoughtful prose and verse three times a week by Sam Holly, can readily understand why he often selects verse about the home. Warm, and comfortable, the Holly home contains some beautiful antique pieces, in addition to dainty, decorative ornaments that complement the decor of the home.

Mrs. Holly has made her own Christmas decorations, that are surely the envy of the most discriminating interior designers.

At the Ezell home the exterior holiday decorations of Christmas Card Lane have not been put up, as yet, but the same cannot be said of the interior of the Ezell home.

The spacious, sprawling, liveable home sits atop a hillside right outside of Hickman. Each room is furnished with comfortable living as a forethought, including the little guest house where the Ezell grandchildren and other visitors can enjoy themselves to the fullest in surroundings depicting true Southern hospitality.

Focal point of interest at the Ezell home was the kitchen area decorated in the motif of an old carriage house, complete with leather hinges, even on the refrigerator. The Ezells are completely imaginative people as is evidenced by the landscaping that is in complete agreement with their travels.

Each of the little walkways around the house depicts a street, or some historic landmark of Washington, D.C., with the front of the house fronting, on what else — Pennsylvania Avenue.

Yes, indeed, if ever you need a real excuse to say that your own life is drab and uninteresting, just take a trek with the Homemakers, under the able direction of Mrs. Catherine Thompson.

You can either end it all, or join one of the many Homemaker groups in the county... for in the latter endeavor you can surely find the real way to make life worth living and to prove that home is where the heart is.

Linda Hicks, Bride-Elect, Given Shower

Miss Linda Sue Hicks, bride-elect of Terry Lynn Taylor, was honored with a personal shower Saturday, November 27, at the home of Mrs. Becky Roberts. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Becky Roberts and Mrs. Sylvia Cunningham.

Miss Hicks chose for the occasion a blue pantsuit and was presented with a corsage of chrysanthemums by the hostesses.

Games were played and prizes were won by Mrs. Sherri Little, Mrs. Kathy Hazlewood and Mrs. Pam Evans. These prizes were presented to the honoree.

Refreshments consisted of Millionaire pie with coffee and cakes.

Those attending or sending gifts were: Miss Hicks, Mrs. Sue Hicks, mother of the bride-elect, Mrs. William Taylor, mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. Barbara Vaughn, Mrs. Marianne Taylor, Mrs. Janie Williams, Mrs. Sheri Little, Mrs. Kathy Hazlewood, Mrs. Pam Evans, Miss Catherine Foy, Mrs. Connie Oliver, Mrs. Melinda Via, Mrs. Julie Davis, Miss Nancy Veatch and the hostesses.

The W. V. Eaves Celebrate 60th Anniversary

Mr. and Mrs. W. V. Eaves, Highlands, Fulton, celebrated their 60th wedding anniversary Thursday, December 9. They were married in Jonesboro, Illinois, on December 9, 1911.

They have four children, Lewis of Garden Grove, California, Lester of Detroit, Michigan, Mrs. Retta Minton of Athens, Alabama and Mrs. Gladys Simpson, Fulton.

No open house was observed, but they visited with friends.

Mr. Eaves is a retired Illinois Central engineer. Mr. Eaves is 82 and his wife is 79. They are members of the First Baptist Church of Fulton.

CLUB PARTIES

Illinois Central Railroad employees are reminded of the Service Club Christmas Bingo parties held this week. The first one is scheduled for Friday at the Shangri-La and the second on Saturday at the One and All Club.

Miss Susan Seyfried Feted With Series Of Pre-Nuptial Parties

Miss Susan Seyfried, bride-elect of Mike Campbell, was honored with a series of pre-nuptial parties during the latter part of November. The first was a coffee held on Sunday, November 28, at the social hall of St. Edwards Church. Hostesses for the occasion were Mrs. Bob Hyland, Mrs. Harry Hicks, Mrs. Lou Biehslich, Mrs. Kate Hora and Mrs. Bill Fenwick.

The table was overlaid with a lace cloth over burgundy, and held a centerpiece which was an arrangement of yellow and bronze mums in a silver bowl.

Coffee, individual cakes, nuts and mints were served.

The honoree was presented with a gift from the hostesses and also received many nice gifts from the guests who called between the hours of 11:30 and 12:30.

The second of these pre-nuptial events was a bridal tea held at the home of Mrs. Robert Holland Saturday, November 27.

Miss Seyfried chose for the occasion a brown sheath with natural trim and was presented a yellow gift corsage. The hostess gift was a set of place mats.

In the receiving line were Mrs. Presley Campbell, mother of the groom-elect, Miss Seyfried, her mother, Mrs. Donald Seyfried, and her sisters, the Misses Mary Ann and Diane Seyfried, and Mrs. Howard Huenke, all of New Bremen, Ohio.

The dining table featured a lace cloth and the cranberry candles and flowers in the centerpiece carried out the bride's wedding colors. Silver appointments were used.

Guests were served dainty holiday sandwiches, cookies, nuts and goodies with coffee or tea.

Serving at the refreshment table were Mrs. Mike Butts, Mrs. Dee Fields, Miss Gail Bushart and Miss Cindy Homra.

Assisting the hostess were Mrs. F. D. Phillips and Mrs. J. C. Olive.

Miss Corrienne Vowel, sister of Mrs. Campbell was at the register.

About 70 guests called during the afternoon.

Miss Susan Tegethoff Honored With Bridal Tea And Shower

Miss Susan Tegethoff, bride-elect of Ladd Stokes, was first honored at a bridal tea on November 28, at the South Fulton Baptist Church. Hostesses for the occasion were: Mrs. Mildred Wood, Mrs. J. D. Simpson, Mrs. Robert Polsgrove and Mrs. Joe Williams.

Guests were greeted by Miss June Vetter at the register.

Miss Tegethoff chose a grey and white knit dress with black accessories for the tea. The hostesses presented her with a corsage of white carnations.

Receiving with Miss Tegethoff were her mother, Mrs. W. D. Tegethoff, her grandmother, Mrs. Anna Kupfer, Mrs. Fred Jolley, mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. Eva Caldwell, grandmother of the groom-elect and Mrs. W. L. Jolley, Sr.

The table, draped in white lace, held an arrangement of red and white blossoms, in an antique epergne. Punch with cakes, nuts and mints were served.

Those attending or sending gifts were: Mrs. Charles Reams, Mrs. Don Sensing, Mrs. Glenn Dunn, The Hillman Collier family, Mrs. Morgan Omar, Mrs. Charles Wade Andrews, Mrs. Phillip Andrews, Mrs. Fred Brady, Mrs. Bill Johnson, Mrs. Abe Jolley, Mrs. E. K. Jones, Mrs. I. M. Jones, Mrs. Carter Olive, Mrs. David Phelps, Mrs. Parks Weaks, Mrs. Mary Davis Dicken of Lexington.

Ann Landers

— Your Problems Bring Answers —

Dear Ann Landers: Recently you had a letter in your column from a man who said, "Too bad I didn't have the good sense to look at my wife's mother when I was courting her. I would have known where that girl was heading."

I bitterly resent that generalization. If it were true otherwise lovely city we have no boy in his right mind would be a group of sportsmen who become within 40 feet of me — long to a gun club. Their idea and I wouldn't blame him. My of fun is to round up a large mother is insensitive, crude number of tame pigeons, pull and thoughtless. advice, I just want to see this I would appreciate some ad in the paper. — Poles Apart vice on what should be done about this cruel practice. Not only is this a sick way to have fun but it sets a poor example for the children in our community. — Lafayette, Louisiana

Dear Poles: Here's the ad-

Dear L.L.: Have you contacted the local Humane Society? They should be interested in your story.

Dear Ann Landers: Is something wrong with a 14-year-old girl who is terrified of getting old? Sometimes I lie awake nights picturing myself as a wrinkled old woman and it scares me to death. Lately it's been worse.

One of my problems is that I love the water, and I spend every possible minute swimming. I use gobs of lotion and suntan oil but still my skin takes a lot of punishment because I am in the sun so much. I am very health and figure conscious — I eat the right foods, get plenty of exercise and lots of sleep. But what can I do to keep the wrinkles of age away? I keep reading that sun is damaging to the skin and it worries me to death because I am a sun worshipper. Do you have any advice that will help me stay young looking? — An Eye To The Future

Dear Eye: The texture and durability of a woman's skin is primarily a matter of inheritance. If your mother had wrinkle-free skin, your skin has a better chance of holding up. Exposure to the elements CAN make a big difference, however. You need not give up swimming but you SHOULD give up sun bathing. Today's beautiful tan is tomorrow's wrinkled face.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet, "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

HOLIDAY TEA

Members of the Home and Garden Department of the Fulton Woman's Club will enjoy a holiday tea Friday, December 10 from 2 to 4 at the home of Mrs. W. S. Atkins, Third Street.

Hosts for the occasion are: Mrs. Billy Gore, Mrs. J. O. Lewis, Mrs. Ben Evans, Mrs. Rob Fowlkes, Mrs. C. W. Francis and Mrs. Ray Graham.

REPRESENT

Fulton's two Cadette Troops were represented at Bear Creek Council's recent Cadette Planning Board meeting conducted in the Red Cross building in Mayfield. Those attending were: Cathy Butts and LaDonna Daugherty of Troop 182 and Chris Jones and Karen Clark of Troop 90.

CWF ENJOYS

Eleven members of Group One of the First Christian CWF and one visitor enjoyed a delicious luncheon at the home of Mrs. Frank Beadles on Monday, December 6, with Mrs. F. D. Phillips serving as co-hostess. Mrs. W. H. McGee presented the program and gave an interesting account of her trip to the Holy Land.

THE CHRISTMAS PARTY OF SOUTH CENTRAL BELL Telephone employees last Saturday evening at the Park Terrace was up to its usual form as one of the liveliest parties of the December season. On hand for the dinner and dancing were these three couples, all formerly associated with the local office (from left): Pete Byars, (now in Mayfield), Sue Byars, Paul Heltsley (now in Owensboro), Betty Heltsley, Margaret Hurd, Harvey Hurd (now in Murray).

Kentuckians Will File Tax Returns At Memphis Center

Robert J. Math, District Director of Internal Revenue, announced today that Kentucky taxpayers will mail their Federal income tax returns in 1972 to the new Internal Revenue Service Center, Memphis, Tennessee 38110.

The first Kentucky Federal tax returns for taxable year 1971 to be sent to the new Memphis Service Center are the income tax returns for individuals that will be filed on and after January 1, 1972.

Individual income tax returns include the following tax forms:

Form 1040 — Individual Income Tax Return

Form 1040 ES — Declaration of Estimated Income Tax

Form 1040 X — Amended Individual Return

Dath said business returns are not to be filed with the Memphis Service Center until July 1, 1972. Business returns include the income returns for corporations, partnerships and fiduciaries, excise tax returns, and employer returns for social security, railroad retirement and income tax withholding. These returns should continue to be sent to the Internal Revenue Service Center, Cincinnati, Ohio 45208 until the July 1, 1972 date.

The change in Service Centers from Cincinnati, Ohio, is necessary to equalize the returns processing workload which has increased nationally from 94 million in the early 1960's to 113 million in 1970. IRS projections indicate 131 million returns will be filed in 1980 — a national 17 per cent increase during the decade. The number of Kentucky taxpayers is expected to reach the 1,708,700 mark in 1980 for a 37 per cent increase. Business returns from the area served by Memphis will be up almost 26 per cent during the same period.

According to Dath, the Service Center change will result in more efficient operations and quicker, more responsive service to Kentucky taxpayers.

The Memphis Service Center is one of the largest and most technically advanced facilities in the nation. In addition to processing returns from Tennessee and Virginia during the 1972 filing season.

To speed returns processing and receipt of Income tax returns, Dath reminded Kentucky taxpayers to use the preprinted tax forms and preaddressed envelopes when filing to the Memphis Service Center in 1972.

Chartres Cathedral, France (High Altar)

The beauty of the complicated window tracery in the Chartres Cathedral is framed in stone, and sheds its gorgeous colors throughout the great Church.

YOU who dwell in the comforts of this great age, and to whom material comforts have been proffered . . . add to your joy, by sharing your worldly goods with others, and the Lord will bless you for your benevolence and welcome you in His heart as one of his true children. Your Church can guide you to many needy to whom you can bring solace and contentment.

Notes and News From—

Haws Memorial

Mr. Jubie Henderson, "Jubie" as he is known to his numerous friends of all ages (including the diaper set) is a remarkable person and artist. He has presented Haws three of his exquisite bird prints, the woodcock, red-headed woodpecker and the cardinal. This delightful grouping will hang in our dining room.

Two Fulton High freshmen and FHA members, Denise Pittman and Cathy Hicks, have made decorative Christmas candle holders for each patient, Denise, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pittman, was a volunteer during the summer months. Cathy is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hicks. Thank you, girls, for the original and sparkling candle holders!

Two local pharmacist brothers (and avid hunters) are providing geese and duck for Haws Christmas day dinner. One of the hunter's wives who just heard of their thoughtful gesture is not as optimistic. "They'll bag their limit and ask, 'Christmas dinner, for what year?'"

Monday, Mrs. Bulok Canter and Lucy Jefferson decorated the white flocked Christmas tree in one lounge and it looks lovely. Thursday will find us in the other lounge decorating a silver tree. Next Monday morning, December 13th, at 10:30 we will have a tree trimming party when our big green tree sprouts up in the dining room. This tree will be trimmed only with T.L.C. decorations. They are ornaments all hand made by the patients with tender loving care. James Robert Putnam is coming to our party and help us with our decorating.

Woman's Club Again Seeks Gifts For Jewel Manor Girls

Remember Christmas 1970—the joy you received from sharing your love and riches with the Jewel Manor Girls' Center.

The Fulton Woman's Club is again sponsoring a campaign for gifts for these unfortunate girls. You are asked to please open your hearts as you did last year and make this a Merry Christmas for them.

Mrs. Robert Batts, President of the local club, visited Jewel Manor and talked with the girls. They are girls who have been neglected by their parents, girls whose parents have failed to communicate with them and discipline them. At Jewel Manor or, the girls are loved, disciplined and rehabilitated so that they may be returned to a useful life in society. Their greatest need is to know that someone loves and cares for them.

These girls range in age from ten to fifteen. They need cosmetics, hose, stationery, wearing apparel, costume jewelry, food snacks and all the other niceties that normal teen-age girls enjoy.

Please wrap your gifts and bring them to the Chamber of Commerce before December 17. The Fulton Woman's Club and the Jewel Manor girls will sincerely appreciate your contribution.

Remember the deadline—December 17.

Best Small Game Hunting Occurs Three Weeks After Season Starts

FRANKFORT, Ky. — Most small game hunters are bent on getting into the field on the very first day of the season. Their fever is running high after a year's layoff and they figure to get into the rabbits, quail and grouse, as well as squirrels, before the other hunters "get them all."

Of course, their fears are unfounded. Actually the best hunting usually occurs after two or three weeks of the season have passed and sometimes even into the new year. During the early part of the season the hunter is disorganized. First he is likely to be out of condition physically, and so are his dogs. Also, he has an itchy trigger finger and his shooting suffers.

The cover is so thick during this period that a hunter is less apt to sight his quarry as the game finds denser places in which to hide. If the weather is hot, the dog is apt to "run down" after a few hours, and his master is in about the same shape.

And, in the early days every person who has any idea of hunting tries to get into the fields, causing a crowded condition. The same field may be hunted a half dozen times a day by different groups of hunters.

True, a great deal will be garnered the first day. With so many hunters in the field, the game is at a distinct disadvantage and the hunter has the edge. For instance, a once jumped rabbit that has eluded a hunter may be ousted more easily from his temporary hiding place by a second or third group. The same is true of coveys of birds. After having been shot into and scattered they may not have time to reassemble into a covey before another band of hunters and dogs invades their individual sanctuary.

So it's not all that important to get into the fields in the early days of a season. There will be plenty of game left, as the early hunters, will not hurt the population a great deal. A few years ago a testing group in another state released a given number of rabbits in a fenced-in area in which there was sufficient food and cover and water. This was prior to the hunting season. It was determined that the rabbits could not escape through the fence.

When the season rolled around a controlled hunt was held in this given area. Hunters scoured the plot thoroughly, they thought, and after a day of intensive hunting they had sighted less than the number of rabbits that had been released. In a few days the area was tested again, and again rabbits were found. This continued for some time. The experiment proved that at least half of a rabbit population can successfully hide from the hunter even in a fenced-in area. If a man hunted a field as intensively as he could, there would be rabbits (and the same applies to quail) left undetected in that field.

So, if a hunter can't make it the first two or three weeks of the season, he may well consider himself lucky. In later days he'll find thinner cover for the animals and birds as snows will mash down tall weeds, etc. He'll find his dogs as well as himself in better hunting condition. The game will be larger and fatter, perhaps, and hunted areas will be less crowded. In used in conjunction with the university's newly-installed $12,000 hearing evaluation booth in Wilson Hall, according to Dr. John M. Bartholomy, chairman of the department.

The clinic, the only one of its kind in West Kentucky, provides a full range of hearing and speech evaluation services free to all children and adults in West Kentucky, in addition to its use in the university's programs for the training of students majoring in speech and hearing areas.

The clinic and its equipment has been financed largely from federal and special grants. Among the services provided are: air and bone conduction testing, hearing evaluation and free field speech discrimination. The Amur River in Siberia is 1,775 miles long.

School Closing Procedures Told

MAYFIELD, Ky. — James B. Deweese, Graves County superintendent of schools, today announced procedures that will be observed when it is necessary to close the county schools because of bad weather, hazardous road conditions, and other emergencies.

Deweese said if any of these conditions merit the closing of schools or altering regular class schedules, local and area broadcasting media will be notified by 7 a.m. on that particular day.

Students and parents alike are asked to tune to radio station WNGO locally, or radio stations at Benton, Murray and Fulton, for information concerning the possible closing of schools.

Channel 6 television at Paducah will also carry up-to-the-minute bulletins concerning school closings, Deweese said.

"Area radio stations, particularly WNGO, and Channel 6 have always been very cooperative, and we certainly appreciate their help in spreading the word concerning school closings during the winter months," Deweese said.

Deweese asks the cooperation of the public by not telephoning the superintendent's office or home, or the radio or television stations, due to the fact that all lines of communication will be under heavy strain while school officials are trying to determine safety conditions during bad weather.

County school buses are equipped with snow tires and are driven by skilled drivers, Deweese said. Safety conditions will be determined in cooperation with the Kentucky State Police and state highway department authorities, he noted.

"We certainly don't like to dismiss school at all," Deweese said, "because we are allowed only a limited number of 'calamity' days, which means that all other lost days in the classroom must be made up later."

However, he said, that if, in his discretion, the safety of a

Carlisle Countian Is 'Outstanding Farmer'

Bourke Mantle Jr., 27, Bardwell, has been named Kentucky's Outstanding Young Farmer for 1971 by the Kentucky Farm Bureau Federation.

Mantle's honor was announced at the 52nd Kentucky Farm Bureau Convention in Louisville.

A graduate of Murray State University, Mantle maintains a 1100-acre farm in Carlisle County producing milk, soybeans, feed grains, swine, grass cattle, cows and calves. He was recognized by the bureau for the extensive growth of his farming program which began in 1966.

Mantle is a director of the Purchase Area Farm Analysis Group, president of the Carlisle County Farm Bureau, past chairman of the Kentucky Farm Bureau Young Farmers Committee, secretary-treasurer of the Western Kentucky Swine Producers Assoc., treasurer of the Bardwell Lions Club, and a member of the Carlisle County Extension Council and the Bardwell First Christian Church.

Miss Maddox Weds Gary Pinner In Poplar Grove Baptist Church

Poplar Grove Baptist Church, near Hickman, was the setting Sunday afternoon, Nov. 7, at 3 o'clock for the marriage of Miss Margaret Maddox and Gary Pinner. The couple's parents are Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Bacon Maddox of Hickman and Mrs. Russell (Inez) Pinner of Brighton and the late Mr. Pinner.

Glowing tapers in a candle arch twined with Southern smilax formed the background for an inverted triangle arrangement of white snowflake gladioli and chrysanthemums. At either side were jade palm trees and fifteen-branched spiral candelabra festooned with smilax. Corners of the family pews were marked by four single candle holders with greenery.

The Rev. Joe Barber, church pastor, performed the double ring ceremony.

Nuptial music was furnished by Mrs. David Mattox of Memphis and Mrs. Pat Landrum of Brighton, vocalist. Piano selections were "O Promise Me," "O Perfect Love," "Sweetest Story Ever Told" and "Voice That Breathed Over Eden." Mrs. Landrum sang "Because" and "The Wedding Prayer."

Preceding the bride down the aisle were her twin sister, Miss Mary Maddox, who served as maid of honor, and her bridesmaids Mrs. Bill Maddox of Huntingdon, sister-in-law of the bride, and Miss Emma Sue Maddox of Union City, aunt of the bride. The honor attendants wore a formal gown fashioned with a burgundy velvet skirt and an empire bodice of pink satin with long flowing sleeves. A pink velvet ribbon bow emphasized the waistline. Her headpiece was a pink satin bow with a matching veil. She wore dyed-to-match shoes and carried a long stemmed pink chrysanthemum with pink bow and streamers. The bridesmaids wore gowns of pink satin with empire bodices, long flowing sleeves and burgundy ribbons and bows at the waistlines. Their headpieces were pink satin bows with pink veils, and their shoes were in the pink shade. Each carried a long stemmed pink chrysanthemum.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore an original creation of white bridal satin enhanced with tiny pink flowers. The empire silhouette was designed with a high neckline, long full sleeves bordered in satin and Venice lace, and a softly shirred skirt bordered in matching trim. Her double, chapel length mantilla was outlined in Venice lace. She wore a diamond necklace, a gift from the bridegroom, and carried a bouquet of pink sweetheart roses, stephanotis and scotch mist surrounded by a white lace ruffle and white satin ribbons tied in love knots.

Richard Lyles of Brighton, a nephew of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were Jimmy Erwin of Atoka and Bill Maddox of Huntingdon, brother of the bride. Ushers were Donald Adkison of Chattanooga, nephew of the bridegroom, and Jimmy Trotter of Brighton. For her daughter's wedding Mrs. Maddox was wearing a long sleeve wine knit with cord and bead trim around the high neck and sleeves. Her accessories were of grey patent and suede and her corsage, a white orchid. Mrs. Pinner, mother of the bridegroom, was attired in a blue knit with long full sleeves of matching sheer material, complemented with bone reptile shoes and purse and a white orchid.

Mrs. Annie Hogins maternal grandmother of the bride, was attired in a coral knit with black accessories. Mrs. L. D. Maddox, paternal grandmother of the bride, wore a purple knit model with black accessories. Both had corsages of white mums pinned at their shoulders.

Among out of town guests attending were Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Hogins of Dyersburg, Mrs. Reece Hogins of Milan, Mrs. Butch McClintock and Tiffany Claire, Mr. and Mrs. Billy Saunders and Harry Todd Saunders of Jackson, Miss Marsha Rowe of Horn Lake, Miss. Mrs. J. B. Palmer and Mrs. Mary Chambers of Union City.

Mrs. Martin Wynia of Martin, Charles Scobey of Newbern, Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Adkison and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Adkison, all of Chattanooga, Mr. and Mrs. H. H. Lyles, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lyles, Tim Lyles, James Lyles, Mr. and Mrs. Richard Lyles, Mrs. Mazie Huffman, Mrs. Nina Fletcher, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hatcock and Jeanette, Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Trotter and Jimmy Trotter, all of Brighton, Mr. and Mrs. Jimmy Erwin of Atoka, Mr. and Mrs. Ricky Fletcher and Mrs. Ginny Wirt of Memphis and Miss Evelyn Logan of Mayfield.

RECEPTION

The church dining hall was the setting for the reception following the wedding. The bride's table, covered in a cutwork cloth over white, featured a centerpiece of green carnations and yellow pompons arranged on a white, five-branched cherub candelabrum. The three-tiered wedding cake, decorated in yellow roses and green leaves, was topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Lime punch, mints and salted nuts were served.

When the couple left on a honeymoon to Gatlinburg the bride was wearing a turquoise and brown knit dress with a brown vest, brown accessories and a corsage of yellow mums.

They are now living in Memphis where the bridegroom is a state trooper with the Tennessee Highway Patrol and the bride is employed as a secretary at the University of Tennessee Medical Units.

REHEARSAL DINNER

Mrs. Inez Pinner, her daughters, Mrs. G. W. Adkinson and Mrs. Robert Lyles, entertained with the rehearsal dinner at the Country Kitchen for some 25 guests. The couple presented their attendants with gifts.

Devils Fall To Martin

Martin Westview's high school basketball team bettered their records Friday evening at the expense of the South Fulton team in prep action on the Devil hardwood.

The boys from Westview ran their record to 5-0 with a 65-45 win while the Lady Chargers are now 4-1 following a 59-55 victory over the hard charging Devillette team.

In the opener, the Westview lassies took a commanding lead and appeared to have the game wrapped up with little difficulty. The Chargers led by 13, 39-26, at intermission and increased their spread to as many as 16 in the third period.

The Devillettes of Coach David Brann started pecking away at Westview but time caught them while they were still four points away.

All three Devillette forwards were in double digits, paced by Jimette Gilbert's 21. Kathy Whitlock was a field goal back at 19 and Fonda Bondurant tossed in 13. For the Chargers, Betsy Wade notched 22, Jana Fuqua bagged 20 and Starr Haller collected 17.

In the nightcap, Devil Coach Terry Beades summed up the Charger win by saying, "We played poorly." Once again, costly floor mistakes contributed to the Devils' loss.

TO REPRESENT OCCHS BAND-- Regina Duff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Duff of Rives, has been selected to represent the Obion County Central High School Band at the 24th annual Quad-State Music Festival at Murray State University Monday. Miss Duff, a fresh-

Six Art Exhibits 'Backdrop' For MSU Dedication Program

MURRAY, Ky. —Dedication ceremonies Sunday for the Clara M. Eagle Gallery of the new Price Doyle Fine Arts Center at Murray State University will have an appropriate backdrop of six different art exhibits.

Two senior student exhibits and four other shows will be hanging in the new 6,000 square-foot gallery at 4 p.m. when it is officially dedicated and named in honor of Miss Eagle, a faculty member since 1946 and chairman of the art department for 23 years before relinquishing that position last summer because of ill health.

Succeeded by Dr. Gordon Plummer as department chairman, Miss Eagle is now the gallery director and a member of the art faculty.

She gave this lineup of exhibits to be hanging in the gallery on dedication day:

Senior exhibits by Mrs. Carolyn Smith of Cadiz and Miss Julie Studer of Worthington, Ohio, both of whom will graduate this month with the BS degree in art education. Mrs. Smith's show consists of 19 drawings and six paintings, and Miss Studer's is made up of 27 pieces, including drawings, paintings, jewelry, prints and ceramics.

Paintings and drawings by Robert Head, associate professor of art at Murray State and a faculty member since 1965. Depicting his reactions to his environment, the show consists of 57 pieces.

Twelve acrylic paintings and 20 serigraph prints by Ben Mamoud, associate professor of art at Northern Illinois University at DeKalb, Ill. The one-man show by Mamoud has been widely exhibited in colleges and universities across the United States.

Contemporary paintings by living American and European artists in a show co-sponsored by the art department and the Kentucky Arts Commission. Including work by such artists as Gerald Gooch, Paul Wunderlich and Diter Rot, the 13-piece exhibit is on loan from the permanent collection of the University of Kentucky Art Gallery.

To remain on exhibit through Dec. 22, the Head, Mamoud and Kentucky Arts Commission shows are located on the fourth floor main entrance level of the gallery.

Prints and jewelry by Dortha Lee Henderson, a faculty member in the art department at the University of Oklahoma at Norman. Her show is made up of 13 pieces of jewelry, nine serigraphs and two photo-intaglio.

Located on the gallery's fifth floor upper level, the show by Miss Henderson, whose work has been widely exhibited in the South and Southwest, will also remain on exhibit through Dec. 22.

In addition to the exhibits some individual pieces of work by art students and faculty members will also be shown in the gallery during the dedication program and open house.

A third senior exhibit will be on display in the Mary Ed McCoy Hall Gallery in the old section of the fine arts center.

along with some work done by the freshmen design class of Mrs. Emily Wolfson, associate professor of art.

The senior show by Richard Payne of Enfield, Ill., consists of 24 ceramic items—one a 30-piece dinner set—and six prints. To graduate with the B.F.A. in ceramics this month, Payne will continue with his graduate work at Murray State.

Dedication of the gallery is the final formal program of the day which also includes dedication of the $3.6 million new fine arts addition at 2 p.m. and dedication of the Richard W. Farrell Recital Hall named in honor of the chairman of the music department at 3 p.m.

Besides art and music, the fine arts center houses the drama department and the division of radio-television. Construction on the building was begun in December, 1968.

The building will be open to the public Sunday from 2 to 6 p.m. for student and faculty-guided tours.
