Young Farmer Killed by Flying Lever While Building Wire Fence.

STRUCK ON BACKOF NECK.

Eirnest Jetton, a young farmer was killed Tuesday afternoon wh.le at work building w wire fence on the Jett'n farm three miles south east of Sedalia. He was stretching the wire for the fence with a pair of wire stretchers when the three top wires broke causing the lever to break also. He was standing with his back to the fence and the lever flew off with tremendous force and struck Jetten on the back of the neck and head, producing al most instant death. ON CLEANING FURNITURE.

Some Timely Suggestions on the Bes Manner of Removing Accumulations of Dirt and on Polishing.

The sweeping and dusting which take place at this time of year are of a most particular kind. Moisten a cloth and fasten around broom just over the broom part. This will keep the dust from rising and make the work easier. Sweep always with long, firm strokes, away and to the front of the sweeper. Always sweep away from and dust toward the worker. The dust cloths should be of soft old silk, and nearly every housekeeper has on hand old umbrella cases, gowns, petticoats, waists, etc., to furnish silk dusters; failing those of silk, cheesecloth is the next best, but do not use a cloth dampened with water. For varnished furniture dampen the cloth with kerosene; but for genuine polished surfaces a different treatment is required. When paraffin oil and let it remain for two Then every time the left hand rests on a polished surface there will not be spiration. It is a great mistake not passage about the outside, as shown to have on hand a generous supply of dust cloths that one can afford to change often, for dusting furniture with soiled cloths does much to injure the finish, especially of polished furniture. For carved furniture that is dusty use a fine paint brush, dipped in kerosene oil; brush over the carvings and they will appear bright as when new; or dip the brush in a good furni-

Who is not tormented with "white spots" on the dining room table? To remedy have ready three cloths and three saucers, containing one kerosene, one alcohol and one sweet oil. Apply the flerosene first of all. If kerosene or raw linseed oil is applied as soon as the spot is discovered it will often remove it at once. After the stain has been allowed to stand for some time, however, first apply the kerosene, then the second cloth with alcohol and final fertile soil, about nine inches deep. ly the third cloth with sweet oil or lin. The shirt waist came into beshirts, under a coat, but it so quickly established itself as above and before all other bodices convenient and comfortable, it remained as a blouse, generally uncovered (and often scarcely covering). Fashion has been seeking to dethrone it for several seasons past. It finally got the separate contrasting waist adjudged fashionably "possible" only when worn matching bodice and skirt has been gaining ground for a year or more past more becoming next the face than are most colors, the white waist simply could not be gotten rid of, and when the coat came off there was still the inartistic, undress, informal effect of the white waist and darker skirt, the inelegance of it being undeniable, although the white waist cost, as many of them have of late years, more than a whole dress used to a few years ago.

Fashion is clever, though. It will not give in that it is beaten, and it kept up its warfare against the separate waist until the really very attractive threepiece compromise was hit upon.

Somebody discovered that simply by outting a very little of the dress goods on the white waist it becomes a costume. These few pieces can be bretelles, cuffs and girdle, or any other similar "skeieton," or "harness" arrangement. Under a coat such a waist takes up no more room than the ordinary thin shirt waist, and when the coat is taken off one is in a dress which looks as if designed all at one time, and not if accidentally thrown together.

Resting the Body.

Don't be afraid to open the mouth wide and yawn and stretch whenever you feel like it. Indeed, if you are very tired, but do not feel like yawnfloor, push them out in front of you push the head back, open the mouth will relax, the contracted muscles will stretch and the whole body will be rested. Such a house requires much the same ing, of course, to wear as men wear their management as does a hotbed. Ventilation is necessary on very warm days, and thorough watering at frequent intervals will cause the plants to grow most rapidly. Such a bed will furnish early vegetables, as lettuce, radish and bunch onions in abundance during the winter. In some instances the entire supply of winter vegetables has been grown in such a house with under a coat, and the costume with a floor space no larger than 10x12 feet. IN GARDEN AND ORCHARD.

The knife and saw still remain the principal remedies against the blight. We have not yet found a remedy that may be applied to and cure sick limbs and twigs.

When blighted portions are cut from twigs of trees they should be atonce burned. The dead wood really all wheels during the summer. Usually contains no live blight spores, but the an excellent growth will be made. Wilpoint where the living tree comes in contact with the dead part may.

The pecan crop is estimated at over 10,000,000 pounds short by the Dried privet, barberry, mock orange and most Fruit and Nut company, at St. Louis. The estimate is claimed to be made on careful investigation. Of course, a shortage of this extent would indicate much higher prices.

There can be no question but that the sulphur, lime and salt solution is a very efficient fungicide. It surpasses anything I know of for cleaning up the trunks of trees and it has a very marked effect upon the freedom from scab of both fruit and foliage.

Low-Headed Trees.

The old-style orchard was often very high headed, with the limbs well up out of the way. The idea was to train the ing, there is nothing that will rest you tree so high that teams could be driven so quickly as to sit on a straight-back under and to keep the limbs above the chair and, lifting the feet from the reach of cattle. It may be said in favor of the low-down tree that the fruit may be nicked at considerably less cost and is ground .- American Cultivator.

STRAWBERRY CULTURE.

Hints That Will Prove Valuable in Growing Next Year's Crop.

It is advisable to plant as early in the spring as possible, for early set plants will grow off better and the loss of plants will be little or none. As soon as the ground is sufficiently dry in the spring, therefore, I would prepare it. De sure to work it until it is thoroughly pulverized and then pack the surface all you can with roller or drag. I have better results from planting on firm soil than on that which is very loose. I also find, says a correspondent of the Prairie Farmer, that the later in the spring the plants are set the better condition the ground should be in and the firmer the surface should be.

After the ground is thus prepared we mark it off both ways. The rows the wide way should be four feet apart and the distance the narrow way depends on the variety grown. If it is a rankgrowing variety two to two and onehalf feet will be close enough. If a shy plant-maker 18 to 24 inches is the proper distance. The best marker we have ever used, and we have tried several, is made by bolting a pair of straight shafts to a piece of timber two by four inches and 12 feet long; brace it well. We bore holes in the piece every four, two and one-half feet. These holes are made slightly slanting. In every four-foot hole we bolt a square iron rod about three feet long, sharpened at the lower end. When the horse is hitched to the shafts you have a device something like a rake, only the teeth slant back so as not to catch on obstructions but slip over them. You are then ready to lay off your ground the wide way. By letting one tooth run in the last mark each time your rows will all be the same width. One boy and man can operate this and mark many acres in a day. When ready to cross and mark the nar row way, put in extra teeth the distance apart that you wish the rows. A mark thus made is not blotted out by the rain, but will show plainly even after a hard

I always use a spade for planting, a man and a boy working together. The man uses the spade and carries the basket of plants on his left arm and faces the way the row runs. With his right foot he forces the spade into the ground, pushing the handle forward which leaves an opening behind the spade. The boy on the left of the row places the plant in the opening, down to the bud, holding it thus while the spade is removed, and the man presses the soil firmly to the plant with his left foot.

MAKE CUTTINGS EARLY.

Simple and Easy Matter to Propagate Your Own Grapevines. Currants, Gooseberries, Etc.

It is a very simple and easy matter to propagate your own grapevines, currants, gooseberries and most ornamental shrubs. If a little skill is used these plants may be readily propagated from cuttings made late in the autumn after the leaves are off and preferably before cold weather comes on, says a writer in Farm and Home.

Well-ripened mature wood, which has grown during the past summer, should be selected and cut into lengths of six to ten inches. The base of these should be cut squarely just below the bud. They can be set in the fall in nursery rows two feet apart or tied in bundles of convenient size, with buds-all one way and stored in the cellar or buried in the ground through the winter.

When spring comes most of the cuttings will have put on a callous where the butt comes in contact with the moist earth or sawdust, in which they have been buried. Even the roots may have started from some of them. As early as the soil can be worked and before the buds of the cuttings begin to grow, they should be planted out in good garden soil. The soil should be well worked. the rows lined out and the cuttings stuck, at an angle of 45 degrees, down to the top bud.

They should be given clean, frequent cultivation and hoed often to keep down lows, poplars and some other varieties of trees, Marianna and Golden Beauty plums, some varieties of quinces, spirea, varieties of shrubs can be propagated in this way.

NERVOUS HEADACHE

MARRED A YOUNG WOMAN'S HAP-PINESS FOR SEVEN YEARS.

Interfered With Her Social Duties and Threatened to Cause Her Betirement-How She Was Cured

Every sufferer from nervous headache knows how completely it unfits one for the duties and pleasures of life. Any little excitement, or over-exertion, or ir-regularity brings it on. Sometimes the AVE you ever tried them? pain is over the whole head. Again it If not, do so at once and be is like a nail driven into the brain, or a wedge splitting it open, or a band tightening about it. At one time it is all in the top of the head, at another it is all at the base of the skull.

Most headaches can be traced to some faulty state of the blood. When the blood is scanty or charged with poison, and the nerves are imperfectly nourished and the digestion weak, one of the commonest results is frequent and severe headaches.

The important thing is to get rid of the diseased condition of the blood-that causes the attack by the use of a remedy that will do the work quickly and thoroughly. What is that remedy? The experience of Miss Ellen McKenna furnishes the answer. She says: "For more than seven years I was a great sufferer from nervous headache and of the dancer to serve as a balance, dizziness. My stomach was disordered. and I became so restless that I could not sit still any length of time. Dizziness interrupted my work greatly. At first the attacks were not so severe, but they gradually grew more violent, and finally became so acute that I was on the point of relinquishing my membership in the different organizations to which I be-

"What sayed you from that necessity?" "A very simple thing; the call of a member of one of the clubs, who strongly advised me to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills before giving up. I acted on her suggestion at once, and after steadily using this great blood and nerve remedy for two months, my headaches and my diazi-ness entirely disappeared.

Miss McKenna is secretary of the Associated Ladies' Guild, and resides at No. 48 Waitstreet, Roxbury, Mass. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills have cured many hundreds of similar cases, and can be confidently recommended to drive all poisons from the blood and to give needed trength to the nerves. Every druggist

AUTOMOBILE WHEELS.

Ingenious English Substitute for the Pneumatic Tires Which Works Satisfactorily.

The pneumatic tire is one of the most troublesome problems of the automobile question. Something that will give the elasticity of the pneumatic tube is absolutely necessary for the so. The seats are uphoistered in harrown plush, otherwise the decorations are the same as in the chair cars. All the cars run, and indeed for almost any speed. have very large double plate glass windows and are equipped with Pullman standard six-wheel trucks.

The cost of the ordinary rubber tire is excessive, and besides it is subject and America have been eagerly at essary elasticity. The most successful attempt of this kind is by an English inventor whose device, figured below, has been thoroughly tried for some months and is pronounced by English experts to give a wheel having practically all the advantages of the pneumatic tire. In some respects it falls below the rubber time, but it has compensating advantages in other ways. Engineering, the leading mechanical paper in Great Britain, gives the following description of the new wheel:

sure on the rim of the wheel is transmitted irom the plate spring immediately opposite the point of application to the whole of the springs around the wheel by the agency of the equalizing pieces, and further, that these springs are protected from any oblique strains by the triangular levers. "Inside the rim, on each side of the collers of the segmental pieces, are curved internal projections, so that any motion of the segments would cause the latter to approach the center of the wheel. This is resisted by the tension of the plate springs, but will take place to a greater or less extent, depending on the irregularities of the power being transmitted through the wheel, due to variations in the engine speed or in the road resistance. Hence a spring drive is obtained, resulting in much smoother running of the engine and the gear."

Prevent Loose Papers . Being Lost.

The modern office building, generally a sky-scraper, divided into hundreds of small rooms, has reached such perfection, both in its interior and exterior construction, that it is difficult for the inventor to devise more improvements. Every possible contingency has been anticipated and provided for. as well as every modern convenience for the comfort of the occupant. A New York man has patented an article for a purpose which has heretofore been overlooked-a screen and guard for windows-which would prove useful, especially in large office buildings. Occupants of rooms above the third floor are seldom annoyed in the summer with flies or other insects, and for this reason the ordinary screen is not required. When the windows are opened there is always danger of loose papers being gathered up by the wind work for years to remedy this griev- and carried away.
