Kentucky Windage

(By P. W.)

From what I gather just "nosing" around, there is quite a bit of speculation going on as to who will be Fulton's new Chief of Police, come the Commission meeting in May.

Some seem to think that the guy with most political pull is going to get it, and continue on the policy of being the glad-hand ambassador of the community from 8: to 4: This type of job (it's a "position") involves meeting all of the delegations, attending all the dinners while traffic gets snarled on downtown streets and the rest of the force looks to guidance that isn't forthcoming.

There are some, however, who hope that the next Chief will guide the force as a good Chief should, shouldering his share of the work — for which he is paid — being considerate of his fellow workers, building a good morale in the department, and assuming that the Mayor and the Commissioners will do the glad-handing while he does the job for which he is paid.

I was a little surprised, but delighted, to hear the name of Milford Jobe mentioned as a possible candidate for the job this week, and he ought to be a strong contender. Milford has been a State Detective in this area for a number of years, and I happen to know personally of some very fine work he has done; I also happen to know that he has some fine connections with area police and has worked well with them. Milford is also a good investigator and because of his present work, keeps his thumb on a lot of potential troublesome individuals. He has done a lot of under-cover work on the marijuana-busting cases around here, among other things. I hope he will throw his hat in the ring.

Time is passing, and sometimes swiftly, but surely not THAT fast . . . it couldn't be more than a couple of years ago that I saw the fact advertised that "Gone With The Wind" was to be removed from circulation for ten years after its showing at that time. It is now showing at the Fulton theatre.

Please, somebody tell me that ten years hasn't passed since GWTW was last in circulation.

It's entirely possible, of course, that in today's inflation, ten years has now been shortened to two years. After all, the Post Office announced last year that they had adopted a rate increase (for third class mail) that was to span four years, and six months later put the whole increase into effect.

Such thoughts may or may not be related to the new bumper sticker I noted on a Kentucky truck this week, the first one I have seen: "Nixon is thru in '72".

T. C. Taylor tells me that he has a neighbor up around Wingo who is also pretty much down on the Republicans, and his dis-

The Banana Festival

I hope you don't think it's too early to start thinking about the Tenth Annual International Banana Festival to be held this year from August 17 through the 19. Although our efforts haven't been publicized very much, the office in the Chamber of Commerce is getting in high gear.

Actually, Christine Batts has been in high gear almost since the last Festival, writing thank-you letters, letters to exhibitors, ambassadors, foreign embassies, and a score of other people asking for participation in this year's program.

Last week we sent out a letter to all those persons who were members of the Top Banana Club hoping that we could solicit their membership early in order to have the entire organization in there working with a lot of enthusiasm to make the tenth Festival a kind of tremendous affair.

I don't think the letter had hit his mail box before James Butts mailed us his and his wife, Patsy's membership. Christine was so

ANOTHER INSTANT INFERNO greeted Fulton firemen as they arrived at this vacant house at 408 Park Avenue in West Fulton at 5: p. m. Tuesday afternoon. Note that the house is ablaze from front to rear, despite the fact that it was divided into rooms that would normally have slowed the spread of the flames. House at left is already afire too, and it was ruined, though not leveled.

Wayne Freeman Gets Contract On Rail Board

Wayne W. Freeman, defeated in his bid for renomination for state railroad commissioner last year, has been given a personal-services contract by the commission as a rate consultant.

Freeman, of Mayfield, who served three terms as railroad commissioner, could receive up to $5,000 in pay and expenses a year under the contract, dated Jan. 9, 1972. His pay as railroad commissioner was $3,000 a year.

Freeman sought Democratic renomination to a fourth term on the commission in the May 1971 primary. He was defeated by George A. Ford, of Hickman, who went on to win in the general election.

The Railroad Commission already had a rate consultant, Leslie C. Bruce, of Lexington, whose contract runs through June 30, 1972. There is no indication that Bruce's contract, which also calls for pay and expenses up to $5,000 a year, has been terminated.

Both Freeman and Bruce contracts are similarly worded. The services to be rendered the state are:

"Consulting services for matters involving inter and intrastate rail rates and changes and railroad services, equipment, railroad freight and passenger traffic and aid counsel in preparing and conducting hearings before all regulatory bodies.

"The consultant shall attend all meetings and serve as an expert witness for the commission in such hearings and shall advise the commission on all technical rates and traffic involved.

Freeman is an attorney who served a term in the state Senate before being elected to the Railroad Commission in 1959.

Another Instant Inferno Hits In West Fulton Tuesday Afternoon

(By PW)

Is it possible for a vacant house to catch fire . . . in a heavily-populated neighborhood, at five o'clock in the afternoon while the streets are full of home-bound workers and children out playing . . . and still not get reported before it becomes a raging inferno? It would seem very unlikely.

Again, is it possible for a vacant house to mushroom into a raging inferno, in late afternoon, in a busy neighborhood, in a matter of minutes? The Fulton police don't think so either; they think it had to be set. In other words not accidentally; deliberately.

At five o'clock last Tuesday afternoon the Fulton fire department answered an alarm at 406 Park Avenue, and, arriving within minutes, found the frame building a roaring inferno, ablaze from front to back. (See photo). The house, owned by Mrs. Louis Weaks, had been unoccupied since a fire in the kitchen and bedroom, last November 15 caused its partial destruction. The fire had gained such headway, along with a slight wind, that it had already ignited the walls of the house next door at 406 Park Avenue occupied by the R.H. Moss family.

Also ignited was the garage of the Martin home on the other side of the blazing house at 412 Park. Firemen fought desperately to control both auxiliary fires, and succeeded in preventing the Martin home from catching, but were unable to save the Moss home.

Fulton police Wednesday conducted an intensive search of the neighborhood to seek out any suspicious activities observed the afternoon of the fire, but thus far have come up with no leads. This reporter, questioning a resident of the neighborhood during the fire, was told that "the building has been used from time to time by youngsters who may have gone in there for a cigarette, or to play", but the resident declined to provide names, nor were the police able to obtain any from their other questionings.

So...the fire will probably go down in department records as "cause unknown", and take its place side by side with at least nine others within the city, in the past two years, with the same listing. The most recent was only two weeks ago, the old C o well grocery, in the Missionary Bottom area; it has yet to be explained.

The house at 408 Park Avenue had been partially burned last November 15th, while it was occupied. Fire department records indicate that call was made at 10:00 a.m. in the morning, and that the fire destroyed or partially destroyed, the kitchen and a bedroom.

Acting City Manager Nelson Tripp said Wednesday morning that Fulton police are still probing circumstances surrounding

Barrett Funeral Home, Long Time Hickman Business, Sold Last Week

by Carol Major

Barrett Funeral Home, an establishment whose operation has chronicled the history of the Hickman area for nearly three-quarters of a century was sold to a Fulton funeral director last week-end, Mrs. Martha Rice and Mrs. Camille Stokes, the owners have announced.

The interesting story of the funeral home almost parallels the finest traditions of the profession itself.

"I can remember during the tornado of 1917 when the caskets were piled up on top of each other for sale in front of the furniture store downtown. At that time, my father, H.C. (Harry) Barrett, often took a cooling board to the home of the deceased where he performed the process of embalming. The coffins were merely shells during those years and it was the responsibility of the funeral director to measure the body and trim the casket accordingly. Visitors would travel by wagon to the home of the deceased to pay their respect before an actual funeral home was available."

These are the words of Mrs. Camille Stokes, daughter of the late Harry Barrett. She and her sister, Mrs. Martha Rice related to the News many interesting facts concerning the history of the Barrett Funeral Home which was recently sold to James Needham of Hornbeak Funeral Home in Fulton.

H.C. Barrett was born one century ago in 1872 in Ford County, Missouri. The present and well respected funeral home, established in 1937, has served the community of Hickman for 35 years.

1937 was, indeed, a proud year for Harry Barrett. Not only did he purchase the old R.B. Brevard home and funeral home in Hickman, but he purchased his pride and joy, a Sayer-Scholes hearse. This was the second automobile hearse Barrett had owned. His first one was a small grey Ford. Before that time, his hearses were horse drawn. Mrs. Martha Rice added, "oftentimes father would come home with icicles hanging off his tall black hat. He always rode beside the driver during the funerals.

Following Barrett's death in 1943, the home was managed by Ruth Barrett White and her husband, Alvin. Ruth, a licensed funeral director while Alvin was a licensed embalmer.

Ruth passed away in 1956 and, following their mother's death in 1963, Martha Rice and Camille Stokes became joint owners of the Barrett Funeral Home. Harold Everett has served as the manager of the home and Ennis Miller was ready to retire as Barrett's licensed embalmer. It was due to Miller's retirement that Mrs. Rice and Mrs. Stokes

Welcome Center Opens For Business Monday

The Welcome Center on the Jackson Purchase Parkway will be "open for business" after nine o'clock Monday morning, April 10, Gayle Roberts, operations manager for the Parkway told the News on Wednesday.

"There will be no formal ceremony," Mr. Roberts said. "We are going to officially open the doors, raise the flag, and begin the pleasant duty of welcoming visitors to Kentucky on the state's fastest parkway," he added.

Mr. Roberts will be on hand for the opening event. He will be joined here by E. Bob Bond, deputy Commissioner of Kentucky Highways; Charles E. Brown, executive director of toll facilities for the Commonwealth; Bob Boston, deputy director of toll facilities and John Alden, director of research and information for the Department of Public Information. An official photographer, Wayne Hudley, will also be on hand.

At the same time, Mr. Roberts advised the News that Mrs. Margaret Hall and Mrs. Novella Killebrew will staff the Center. The ladies will alternate their hours so that the Center will be open from nine to five p.m. each day, seven days a week.

The Welcome Center was established on the Parkway at Fulton through the efforts of former Highway Commissioner Henry Ward. It was Ward also who made it possible for the several access roads to be built on the Parkway to facilitate tourist traffic into the city.

Located near Fulton on the Tennessee board, it is at the beginning of the 49-mile long parkway.

The Welcome Center will be manned by two persons to provide tourist information, the names to be announced later.

The building is contemporary in style. Exterior walls are of native stone and panels coated with small stones. Large windows open the interior to light. Besides the usual features of the rest area—telephones, restrooms, heating and air-conditioning, and tourist information, the Fulton area will have vending machines.

A small refreshment stand outside the main building will house the vending machines when they are installed later this spring.

Landscaping includes trees and shrubs and a small fountain in front of the building.

The parking area provides spaces for 22 cars and 5 trucks.

Pre-School Clinic Is Scheduled

The Spring Round-up for prospective first graders will be held Tuesday, April 25, for all new first graders of Fulton City Schools and Cayce Elementary. This clinic will be held at the Fulton Health Center from 1:00 to 2:00 in the afternoon.

Again, this is for ALL children who will enter the first grade at Carr Elementary, Terry Norman, or Cayce Elementary this fall. A parent should accompany each child.

The Kentucky state school entrance requirement is that each child have a birth certificate, certain immunizations and a physical check-up before entering school. At no cost to you, local physicians will be present to make the check-up and Mrs. Geri Braswell, Fulton County Health Nurse, will talk with you about the necessary immunizations. Please, bring your child's birth certificate.

The school officials feel that if parents will co-operate by bringing their children to the pre-school clinic, both time and expense will be saved at the beginning of next year's school term.

Huddleston Says Nunn Confused About Plans To Run For Senator

Sen. Walter Dee Huddleston, candidate for the Democratic nomination for United States Senator, speaking to a standing room only crowd at Beecher Hotel in Somerset Saturday said that former Gov. Louie Nunn is a confused man.

Huddleston, who is likely to meet Nunn in the fall election contest, said that Nunn is "obviously confused. He didn't file for the Republican primary race until 28 minutes before the deadline Wednesday night so he must have been confused about whether or not he wanted to run.

"And he is certainly confused," Huddleston said, "if he believes the people of Kentucky are going to forget all his broken promises, the disgraceful conduct of his administration and elect him to another public office."

Huddleston is the odds-on favorite to win the Democratic primary, having no significant opposition. The apparent front runner in the Republican primary before Nunn's entry was

Robert Gable who announced in February that he would make the race.

The Democratic candidate spoke to what was described as the largest crowd ever to attend a political rally in Clay County the night before the Somerset meeting. There he hit the Nixon administration's economic policies and the President's handling of the Viet Nam War.

"Nixon is running the war on a political timetable. We shouldn't end the war in September or in October, we should end it Saturday," Huddleston said.

County Firms Decrease 2%

The number of businesses counted by Dun and Bradstreet in Fulton County is down 2 per cent compared to last year. According to J.W. Hill, III, district manager for the business information company in Louisville, Kentucky, there are 246 concerns listed in the January edition of D&B's Reference Book compared with 250 names reported 12 months ago.

Out of a total of nearly three million manufacturing, wholesaling and retailing businesses listed in the D&B Reference Book, Mr. Hill said that there are slightly over 20,000 companies with a financial strength of over $1 million. They are responsible for one-third of the nation's sales and more than two-thirds of its employment.

Yet, according to Mr. Hill, 71 per cent of the names rated by D&B have an individual business worth of less than $50,000 and 47 per cent are worth less than $20,000. The U.S. economic structure, he concluded, depends on the vitality of small business as a user and supplier of goods and services, with the ability to make safe, rapid business credit decisions a key ingredient in the success of the economy.

Burkhart Discusses Platform In First District Speeches

"The only way to enjoy more money or your jobs!" take-home pay is to become a big, rich corporation," said congressional candidate Kenneth Burkhardt Monday during a three-county tour of the Purchase area.

During an early morning meeting with McCracken County supporters, a motorcade to Benton's "Tater Day", and a luncheon with the Fulton Kiwanis Club, Burkhardt released a portion of his platform, and unleashed an attack on the incumbent, Frank Stubblefield of Murray.

"I will never support tax increases for the middle-income American," said the Paducah judge, and "I will use all the strength of office of congressman to investigate the tax system as it now stands, and propose legislation to relieve the wage earner of some of this burden."

"Taxes are rising, prices are rising, and unemployment is rising, but your present congressman, in all of his 14 years in Washington, has not once jumped to his feet to save your gust goes further back than even the Nixon administration. "Why, look at Ike," says the fellow, "Ike said he'd bring the boys back home, and he did. He brought both of my boys home from Chicago."

Any old soldier who has been security-minded insofar as allied movements are concerned must have shuddered this week as he read the Monday night front-page headline in the Memphis Press-Scimitar: US Plans Biggest Air Raid in Vietnam in 3 Years. Boy, how's that for giving away all the secrets!

I can remember the time that censorship was so tough that the papers in the States stayed 30 days behind what was actually going on. Now they're running two days ahead of the action!

David Luke III, president of Westvaco Corporation that operates the giant paper mill up at Wickliffe (plus a dozen others around the country), and also chairman of the American Paper Institute, made some remarks in a speech recently that are well worth our pondering.

Luke points out that all industry is full of nagging problems caused by critical public attitudes "that are seldom based on facts yet seem to fall on receptive ears", citing a heavy wave of criticism from conservationists, ecologists, consumer advocates, social idealists and many other special-interest groups in our society. He made these points:

— The detergent industry is caught in a crossfire of criticism almost beyond belief, while sanitary experts are trying to tell us that badly needed municipal waste treatment plants will permit the nation's housewives to use whatever detergent they wish, without danger; (no one listens to the experts).

— The market for swordfish, a tasty seafood with high nutritional values, is virtually wiped out by the mercury scare, though there is no evidence that the presence of mercury remotely approaches the level of human danger.

— There is real danger of a power shortage in the nation, but utilities find it difficult to build needed new capacity because of the objections of the environmentalists. In this respect, TVA Chairman "Red" Wagner said in Paducah last week that if TVA has to saddle its big Shawnee plant with all of the new gadgetry that the environmentalists seek, the cost of electricity for all of us will be doubled).

— Oil costs are rising because of domestic shortages, yet the new major source of oil on the northern slopes of Alaska are blocked by ecologists who fear pollution to the Alaskan wilderness.

— Surface mining, which produces almost half of the nation's coal supply at costs considerably less than deep mining, would be outlawed today "if environmentalists had their way", despite the fact that reclamation procedures involving replanting of trees and vegetation are being practiced.

— "In our own (paper) industry", comments Luke, "we are the targets of conservationists who believe that cutting a tree is a cardinal sin, forgetting that forest lands produce renewable material resources that are vital to the nation's basic wealth, not realizing that today we are growing more wood than we are consuming, and growing better trees than nature ever produced."

Citing the paper industry as an example, Luke stated that "by the end of 1972 the paper industry will have invested more than a billion dollars in environmental control systems that will cost $100 million a year to operate", and that next year the paper companies "will earmark from 10 to 15% of their normal capital budgets for pollution control" while facing legislation making costs even higher.

(And as the costs get higher, the foreign competition gets tougher and heavier. They don't have to spend that kind of money to make things overseas.)

Do You Remember This?

From Our Picture Album

FULTON'S

Library Corner

BY LUCY DANIEL

Here are some of the new books received at the Fulton Public Library this week:

DEATH IN A SUNNY PLACE, by Richard Lockridge. "I'm asking you to come, dear. . . Please, Enid, please, please." There was something strangely insistent in the letter that Enid Towne received from her mother's old friend, Lillian Stanton. Enid hadn't seen "Aunt" Lily for years, but the invitation to visit the Stanton's private club in North Carolina was tempting. Now that her mother was dead, there wasn't anything to keep Enid in Connecticut.

RUNNING TOWARDS LIFE, by Lisa Hobbs. This is the story of the Hobbs family—Lisa, Jack, their sons, Crispin and Jonathan, and Bjorke, a Great Dane—whose left their comfortable push-button life in California to make a new beginning in the wilderness of British Columbia. Disenchanted with their traditional, middle-class urban life and the ambition-success syndrome, they sold their home and gave up promising careers—Lisa as a reporter with the San Francisco Examiner and Jack as head of the science department at a private high school—to become modern-day pioneers.

THERE IS NO JUSTICE, by R.B. Dominic. Murder intruded into a headline—hunting Senator's investigation of the President's latest nominee to the Supreme Court. Confirmation might then have proceeded smoothly if scandal hadn't suddenly exploded in the middle of it all, embarrassing not only the appointee, but his friends and backers from the President of the United States down.

CLOUD-WALKING, by Marie Campbell. As a story it grips us. As a sociological document it is so genuine, so quietly told, so deep in insight into the isolated little world it depicts that we see that world, not as sophisticated spectators looking at an exhibit, but from the very inside. We lose ourselves in it.

HAPPY ENDING, by Elizabeth Savage. The year is 1935; the setting, a windswept cattle ranch in Montana. Thomas and Carrie Russell have grown old together at the ranch; every season brings its memories, every acre of the land is familiar and precious. Thomas and Carrie know they may soon be forced to leave their land, they know they are getting too old to cope alone. But for the moment they have each other and the ranch—and they plan to hang onto what they have until they can hang no longer. But the winter of 1935-36 brings changes: new faces at the ranch, mistrust and frustration that have led to black militancy and protest.

THE RELUCTANT WIDOW, by Georgette Heyer. On her way to a genteel but unpromising position as a governess, Elinor Rochdale, an impoverished girl of good family, gets into the wrong carriage at a village in the country. She is brought to the house of Lord Carlyon, to whom she is an answer to a prayer. He desperately wants a wife for his ne'er-do-well cousin for the curious reason that he himself does not want to inherit the estate. They are enemies and he wants to avoid unpleasant comment. Elinor marries the cousin on his death-bed, so it is rags-to-riches for her in the course of a few days, but all is not easy for her.

TREGARON'S DAUGHTER, by Madeleine Bren. Excitement, drama and suspense were only part of Cadl Tregaron's new life. It had been a sunny afternoon when she glanced from the cliff where she sat reading and saw below her in the sea a sight that would change her life. Set in England and Italy, this is the story of a young girl who by accident starts to unravel the unknown elements of her grandmother's past and is brought by the mystery to the faraway city of Venice.

LIVING BLACK IN WHITE AMERICA, by Jay David. This book is an overwhelming journey through two hundred years of adult black experience. Several people tell in a poignant fashion of their lives and the ever increasing alienation,

GREAT LAND, by Booton Herndon. Alaska, from Alyeska, which means The Great Land, is America's last wilderness frontier, a region so vast that were it superimposed over the U.S. its southeastern peninsula would reach California. Yet this enormous land-mass supports a population no larger than Staten Island's. Alaska is a land of surprising beauty. The tundra has an eerie and breathtaking beauty all its own. The mountains are magnificent. But America's last great frontier is changing and changing rapidly. Will man be able to keep Alaska a northern paradise? Or will man wreak another ecological catastrophe?

YOU AND YOUR FEET, by Julius Fast. Perhaps no part of the human body is so abused as the foot: squeezed and misshapen by "stylish" shoes; pounded relentlessly on concrete pavement; prey to ingrown toenails, fungus infections and bunions. At last, Julius Fast offers relief to foot sufferers, in a comprehensive examination of foot problems, their prevention and cure.

TWENTY YEARS AGO

APRIL 4, 1952

Bill Browning, Fulton County Director of Civil Defense, in conjunction with the State Office of Civilian Defense, has named Mrs. Donald Mabry, Hickman a post supervisor for the Ground Observer Corps being organized as part of the county's Civil Defense setup.

James A. Willingham of Fulton was elected president of the Fulton County Sportsmen's Club last Thursday at Cayce, succeeding Will Caldwell.

Other officers elected include Roy Wade, first vice president; Ralph Tipton, second vice president; C. P. Freeman, secretary-treasurer. The Board of Directors includes Turney Davie, J. E. Attebery, Jennings Kearby, Dick Polsgrove, Carl Hastings and Ernest Fall, Jr.

Rev. Lonnie Stoner, pastor of the Union Cumberland Presbyterian Church will preach the ordination sermon and ordain two of the church's prominent members as deacons into the church. They are W. P. and N. W. Burnette. The ordination services will be held this Sunday, April 6.

Miss Shirley Houston, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. H. B. Houston of Fulton and a student at Murray State College has been elected as vice president of Sigma Alpha Iota, professional music fraternity, the college announced today.

The highway committee of the Union City Chamber of Commerce, meeting at the Grill, decided to send a Union City delegation to Nashville, April 2nd, to ask Governor Browning and the state highway commission to take steps at once to widen and resurface the Fulton highway from Union City to Fulton.

FORTY-FIVE YEARS AGO

APRIL 8, 1927

The delegation of Fulton citizens, members of the Chamber of Commerce, photographers and railroad men who went out to the new yards to welcome and see the first official train come in over the southern division of the new Fulton-Edgewood cut-off felt that a new era of progress had opened up in our city, and sure enough it has. The arrival of locomotive 2963 with 39 cars from the Kentucky coal fields brought a real thrill to the group.

The train crew on this first trip was composed of engineer, H. M. Harper, fireman, C. C. Fisher, conductor, O. T. Laws, flagman, J. T. Henson and brakeman Herbert Lynn.

More than a mile of the new Fulton-Hickman highway is under water this week as the Mississippi river goes out on another rampage, filling the stores and streets in Hickman and bringing life in the lower end of the county to a standstill.

Fulton Lodge BPOE No. 1142 installed newly elected officers Monday including H. H. Murphy, Exalted Ruler and the following others: Frank Beadles, O. C. Linton, Heber Finch, P. M. Newhouse, D. W. Smith, Ed Wade, J. D. Davis and R. E. Pickering.

Mrs. R. B. Beadles has been appointed to serve as chairman of a committee to conduct a "Better Homes" campaign in Fulton. Mayor W. O. Shankle has proclaimed the week of April 25-May 1 as "Paint-Up, Clean-Up" week in Fulton.

happy about the check she tracked me down all over everywhere to tell me. And finding me on a busy publication day is a real job.

The way we see it is that if we can get some early financing for program planning and for operating the office, and for getting out publicity early, we'll have that task out of the way long before the excitement of the final days begins.

The membership of the Top Banana Club is open to every citizen in the twin cities. It is not an exclusive, social group, but there are some extra niceties that go with the membership.

We've been kicking around the idea of having a gala, dressed-up affair as soon as most of the members send in their membership. So, won't you be "tops" in civic promotion by being a Top Banana, like now?

Progress Thus Far

We're making some headway with the program and its promotion.

After asking them for many years, the Holiday Inn magazine, whose circulation numbers into the thousands, has promised us a good story, with pictures in its July issue.

Funny thing about this very excellently edited magazine. The editor, Lois Ray Crowe, is a brilliant gal who has made her mark in the publishing field.

Would you believe that 'way back in the 1930's Lois worked with me as a reporter on the Clarksdale (Miss.) Register? Well, she did, but not for long.

After a few months Lois went to work for the Memphis Press-Scimitar and after that went from one good job to another. Although we have not been pen pals through the years I have kept up with her whereabouts through various Travel Editor Conferences that have been held in Kentucky.

If you ever stay at a Holiday Inn on some of your travels, be sure to read the magazine, as I feel sure you already have.

An Anniversary

Even my family was disbelieving when I reminded them that this issue of the Courier, we mark our second anniversary as owners and publishers of the newspaper. My daughter, Mary Jo actually argued with me that it was only one year, as of this week, but after some concrete evidence she realized that I was right. It is two years indeed.

Though I view my own second anniversary as significant, there is another anniversary in the annals of the Courier that makes my milestone dwarf into an ant hill.

As of next week the Hickman Courier will enter its 114th year of continued publication. According to some historical information I have studied there have been other newspapers published in Hickman, but their continuity was interrupted for some reason or another.

Our Radio Man

Since our Son R. Paul worked with us here at the newspapers for a short time after the first of the year, and many people have asked about his present whereabouts, while commenting on his ability as a writer and radio news commentator, I think you'd like to have the latest news report on him.

He is working as a newsman on a radio station in Honolulu. A card from him Sunday says he is F-I-N-E, which means in the vernacular of youth, he's living it up.

The safari to Hawaii happened quite by accident. Since he manages to keep in touch with what's going on in broadcasting he said he saw where a Honolulu radio station needed a newsman. He called there from Los Angeles and the first thing we knew he was on a 747 jet to Honolulu, at the request of the station, and at their expense.

That fellow is teaching me something about the radio business that I never learned while we owned WFUL. That is that when you get established in the major markets, as he must be, one good job brings on offers from others. Since he's been out West he has had job offers from Albany, New York; Wilmington, Delaware; Atlanta, Georgia and even a San Francisco station.

To old-timers like Paul and me, it seems like job hopping, but in radio it's par for the course. Two things are for sure; one: he's certainly seeing these United States and two: after the speed and frenzy of radio news broadcasting there doesn't seem much hope that he will settle down to the more casual life of weekly newspaper publishing.

Oh, to be young, or younger, again.

SOCIETY - WOMAN'S INTEREST

It's lucky 'thirteen' for B&PW members

Tuesday night members of Fulton's very active Business and Professional Women's Club celebrated their thirteenth birthday with a dinner meeting and program at the Holiday Inn.

The number of years--thirteen--have been anything but unlucky for the ladies for they have accumulated a record of accomplishment in their club activities and in the community that sometimes awes even the most ardent members.

The history of the club reads like an all-time success story. It was on March 21, 1959 that fourteen Fulton ladies met at the Park Terrace Restaurant with six members of the Mayfield B&PW Club to discuss the organization of a club in Fulton.

It was in early April that the organizational meeting was held with 80 members present. At the time the charter was presented a record number of 98 members were on the roster.

Three months after the organizational meeting, in July 1959, only 29 members joined. The greatly decreased number was not an indication of any lack of interest in the program of the B&PW Club, but a technicality of the manner by which the dues were calculated. At the end of the first club year, the membership had increased to 47 members.

At the beginning of the current club year, 62 members were enrolled.

Within the past ten years the club has sponsored the Heart Fund Drive; awarded scholarships to deserving students; contributed to the polio drive, heart fund, Red Cross, cancer drive, Girl Scouts, Boy Scouts, park playground, Christmas boxes for soldiers and Christmas baskets for the needy in the area.

The club is represented in the Chamber of Commerce and on the Banana Festival Board of directors.

THIRTEENTH BIRTHDAY PARTY: Around seventy members of the Fulton-South Fulton Business and Professional Women's Club, augmented by B&PW visitors from Paducah and Mayfield, assembled Tuesday evening at Fulton's Holiday Inn to enjoy a buffet dinner and mark the thirteenth anniversary of the founding of the local club. This is a general view of the gathering.

The commission will broaden the scope of its activities this year. Afresh from the President's White House Conference on Aging last December and the recipient of new federal monies, the agency is mapping plans to become the advocate for Kentucky's more than 336,000 senior citizens (persons 65 and older).

County Homemakers Meet With Mrs. Julian Carroll

The Fulton County Homemakers and Catherine Thompson, Extension Home Economist, returned Friday night, March 24, from a 3-day trip which included an afternoon in Frankfort, Kentucky, with a tour of the State Capitol, a visit with Mrs. Ford at the Governor's Mansion and a reception given by Lt. Governor and Mrs. Carroll at the Lt. Governor's home and ended with a 2-day meeting of the Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association.

They also received two first place state awards--one the best Foods Exhibit and the other the best radio script, "How to Stretch Your Food Dollar", which was presented over WFUL by Sarah Poyner, County Foods Chairman, on January 19.

Fulton County Homemaker Club members met up with approximately 1700 other Kentucky women last week at the annual conference of their Kentucky Extension Homemakers Association, held March 21-24 on the UK campus in Lexington. During the program, they were urged by state president, Mrs. Philip Harrison of Harrison County, to join hands across the state for a greater Extension program for all Kentuckians.

Mrs. Harrison said she was amazed at what past KEHA presidents had accomplished, she said she had set as one of her goals "a membership 30,000 strong in Kentucky by March of 1974," when her three-year term expires. Present membership is 27,750, which is 700 more than when Mrs. Harrison took office a year ago.

The general program opened Wednesday evening in the Memorial Coliseum with a special tribute to the late Myrtle Weldon. Miss Weldon, who died last November, was home demonstration leader in Kentucky from 1924 until her retirement in 1955. She is warmly remembered by many Fulton County Homemakers.

Thursday morning's program included greetings from UK Cooperative Extension administrators Dr. Charles E. Barnhart, director, and Dr. Doris Tichenor, assistant director for home economics. Mrs. Earl Friedly, Georgetown, gave a report on her experiences as a delegate to the Associated Country Women of the World's triennial meeting in Norway last summer, and Boyd County Homemaker Mrs. Samuel Whitt, Jr., spoke on "Priorities for Progress."

Out-of-state speaker "Epsy" Johnson told delegates about the opportunities for self-enrichment through fine arts activities and programs in Homemaker Clubs. A Laurel, Mississippi Homemaker, Mrs. Johnson is cultural arts chairman of the National Extension Homemakers Council.

Part of the afternoon was given over to special rap sessions in which Homemakers got some special training in leadership skills and how to become more effective volunteers in various programs and activities back home. That evening, Kentucky's winning Master Farm Homemakers for the year were presented to the conference. They were Mrs. James Herman Rafferty, Daviess County, Mrs. Charles Sherman, Ballard County, and Mrs. Earl Weldon, Jr., Todd County.

"What's Right with America" was the send-off talk, Friday morning, delivered by a man sold on the American way of life and the many benefits it has to offer its citizens. Rev. Oddvar Berg, an Alabama minister, a native of Norway, a former missionary in the Congo, chose this country for his homeplace and became a naturalized citizen in 1968. He brought his family here in 1962, after two years as a professor at the Royal College in Brussels, Belgium.

Theme of this year's KEHA meeting was "Hands Across the State."

Ann Landers

— Your Problems Bring Answers —

Dear Ann Landers: Please clear up a disagreement. The question under discussion is this: Is prostitution legal in any one of the United States? My friend says it's against the law everywhere but I'm sure I recall reading that prostitution is legal in Nevada.

If I am right, how did it happen that Nevada was able to pull this off? If prostitution is legal there, do the women of the evening have any special rules to follow, such as mandatory physical examinations? Are there any price controls? Would the wage freeze affect them? What about the working hours? Please check with your Nevada sources and give me the facts. I have some special reasons for wanting to know.--Curious But Not Yellow

Dear Curious: I checked with my friends at the Las Vegas Sun (the publisher Hank Green is an attorney), and the facts are as follows: Prostitution is legal in SOME counties in Nevada. Clark County (in which Las Vegas is located) is not one of them.

There are indeed special regulations for ladies of the evening. Each county has its own rules which must be strictly adhered to. If you are thinking about prostitution as a career, I hope you will consider the pros and cons. And according to the pros (and former pros), there are a lot more cons.

Dear Ann Landers: Something I read in your column several years ago changed my life. It's taken me a long time to say thank you, but here I am. Someone sent me a clipping of your column, anonymously, which dealt with a person who telephoned friends and talked interminably. I was incensed. Immediately I got on the phone and called several people to express my anger and declare my innocence. Finally one wise woman said, "Look, you've kept ME on the phone nearly an hour denying the accusation. This should tell you something about four months was still carrying around a picture of his deceased wife I had entirely too much time on my hands and suggested that I sign up for volunteer work in a hospital.

I was deeply hurt, but in a few months I had to admit she was right. I signed up for volunteer work and I now put in several days a week at the hospital. Now I'm too busy to talk on the telephone and I've never been happier. Would you believe I've been meaning to call three friends for a week and I can't get around to it? Isn't that a laugh?--Ann Fan In Cleveland

Dear Fan: It's more than a laugh. It's an example of growth. Why not send this column to the friend who wised you up? I'll bet she'd appreciate it.

Dear Ann Landers: Several years ago I read a letter in your column from a bride who had married a widower. She was terribly hurt when one day she discovered that her husband of months was still carrying around a picture of his deceased wife I had entirely too much time on my hands and suggested that I sign up for volunteer work in a hospital.

I married a widower two months ago. He was carrying a picture of his deceased wife in his wallet when we first met. I'm aching to check and see if it's still there, but I'm afraid to look. This haunts me. What should I do?--Fraidy Kat

Dear Fraidy: Don't look. For your husband's next birthday give him a new wallet with a nice new picture of yourself in it.

New Teachers Lounge At SFHS Is A Co-Op Effort

A project of building a teacher's lounge for the South Fulton High School began in August, 1970. And will be completed in 1972.

The lounge is located under the lobby of the gymnasium. The area which measures ten feet in depth, fifty feet in length and fifteen feet in width was completely dug by pick and shovel. Several tons of dirt was removed and hauled by wheelbarrow to an area in back of the school.

Boys have worked during the summer school O.E.O. project and P.E. students have helped. The building trade classes took over the project this year, and due to their help the lounge will be completed.

The lounge is paneled through out with carpet on the floor, and the area is arranged in four rooms, a lounge, a mimeograph room and two rest rooms. The T&I classes with the help of the instructor built the rooms. The mimeograph room will be an aid to instruction in that the teacher will have a room for grading tests, typing tests, and making lesson plans. The old lounge had been made into a bookstore. The room where the bookstore was has been made into a reception room for parents and teachers.

The New IRS Address Is "Memphis"

According to Robert J. Dath, District Director of Internal Revenue for Kentucky, a number of Kentucky taxpayers are continuing to send their individual income tax returns to the Internal Revenue Service Center, at Cincinnati. He reminded Kentucky taxpayers that the correct address for mailing IRS Forms 1040, 1040-X and 1040-ES is Internal Revenue Service, Memphis, Tennessee 38110.

Dath stated that the new Memphis Service Center was geared specifically to handle tax returns from Kentucky taxpayers and added that since the Cincinnati Service Center was no longer scheduled to handle individual returns received from Kentucky taxpayers, delay and additional expense is incurred when returns are misdirected to that address.

ENVIRONMENT—Governor Ford's major environmental budgetary proposals would include more strip mine inspectors and a revolving fund to reclaim orphan strip mine spoil banks. The program, financed by $500,000 in state money matched by federal funds, would call for purchase, reclamation and resale of the orphan tracts—land stripped before current laws became effective.

a Veteran's hospital in the First District, and tighter restrictions of imported foods and products that "choke our factories and farms."

"But," said the candidate, "our biggest issue is law and order."

"We must not continue to bind our courts of law. Our laws were created to dispense justice...and that means a measure of punishment for the guilty and protection of the innocent. It is still my belief that the innocent people are in the majority and give in to raging mobs bent on destruction."

"We have laws. They're good laws. They will protect anyone who pursues his own happiness without bringing harm to others. We must not continue to release and appease these lawless groups who think that gun-fights, brick-throwing, and bombing will get them to their goals."

Admitting that he is a flag-waver, Burkhardt said that "patriotism may be 'square' to some folks, but it sure feels good. Let's try a lot more of it."

"I want to be your next congressman. I want to work for you and with you."

"Together, we can take our country from those who seek her damnation, a return her to those who cherish and honor her."

Guest Speakers

Fulgham Girl Wins Hickman Poetry Contest

Kim Gilliam, a sixth grade student at Fulgham School is destined to become a famous poetess some day. That is if her early, excellent efforts are any criteria.

Kim, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jewell Gilliam of Water Valley, Route 1, won the Hickman County Poetry contest with her entry called "Condemned." The competition is sponsored by the Hickman Woman's Club. As a result of being selected the Hickman County winner, Kim's poem is now entered in the state-wide poetry contest.

Kim has been writing poems since she was three years old. In addition to being talented in poetry-writing, she does creative writing and is showing signs of developing a distinctive styling in art.

"CONDEMNED"

I'm standing now between the time,
My feet touch but a narrow line.

I'm looking down and see my fate,
And sadly realize, it's too late.

I lift my eyes to heaven's throne,
And pray Oh God, if I'd only known.

If I could go back to family and friends,
I promise Dear Lord, I would make amends.

But darkness shrouds my sinful soul,
I've failed in life and missed my goal.....

Arts Festival
Set At Martin

The Fine Arts Festival, initiated at the University of Tennessee at Martin last spring with the dedication of the new Fine Arts Building, will take place this year on Saturday, April 15.

A notable program of events is scheduled for the second annual festival, which begins at 8 p.m. in the Performing Arts Theatre of the Fine Arts Building.

Selections will include a duo piano performance featuring artist-in-residence Allison Nelson, and vocal numbers by two popular campus singing groups — the Choralairs and Today's People.

Also scheduled during the 90-minute program are performances by the UTM Percussion Ensemble, the Wind Ensemble, the Opera Theatre, the Vanguard Theatre, the Orchestral modern dance group, and a special presentation of elementary school music by children from grades 1-3.

Art exhibits, including works by U-T Martin students, will hang in the central foyer and upper gallery of the Fine Arts Building.

The festival will be open to the public, with no admission charged. A full house is expected and reserved tickets may be obtained through the UTM Department of Music.

Special guests for the festival will be the UTM Development Committee and the Board of Directors of the UTM Alumni Council.

Anti-Liquor Forces
Plan More Projects

A spokesman for the Concerned Citizens for a Better Community said today the organization will continue to be interested in the improvement of Union City and announced plans to call a meeting in the near future to discuss its next projects.

Robert McAdoo made the statement in the wake of Tuesday's referendum which saw Union City voters defeat a proposal calling for the establishment of legal package liquor stores within the city limits.

More than 3,000 citizens trooped to the polls in Union City's six precincts and complete returns showed 1,833 votes against liquor sales, with 1,206 approving.

State law will prohibit another local option election from being called until a period of 24 months has passed.

Proponents of legal liquor carried only one of the six precincts, the Fairgrounds box, and that by a margin of only two votes, 290 to 288.

Elsewhere, voters at the Union City High School precinct voted against liquor sales 543 to 335, at the Electric System 321 to 237, at the Courthouse 270 to 120, at City Hall 263 to 127, and at the Armory 148 to 97.

The referendum was called after petitions were filed in the wake of a call by Mayor Charles H. Adams for an expression of opinion by the citizens of the town.

"The people have spoken," Mayor Adams said today. "By this vote they have indicated they prefer that the revenue from liquor sales go to other communities, rather than to Union City, and that's the way it will have to be."

"If additional revenue is needed to operate our schools, our city and to continue things like our sewage improvement program, the money will have to come from other sources."

Ernest Mayo, another leader in the Concerned Citizens group, was quoted by the Associated Press today as indicating the group might make an attempt to outlaw beer sales in Union City. Mr. McAdoo did not rule out such a move but emphasized that no such decision has yet been made.

"We hope to call a meeting of all interested and concerned citizens in the near future to discuss what all of us can do to help improve our community," Mr. McAdoo said. "We hope to convince the City Council that we are sincere in offering our services in any way possible for the overall betterment of the city as a whole."

"We want the people who voted for legal liquor stores to join with us, to give us the benefit of their leadership, in improving our community. We want to go ahead, to remove from the scene such things as bootleggers and places that sell liquor illegally," Mr. McAdoo added.

Regarding the results of the Tuesday vote, Mr. McAdoo said: "Speaking for the large group of people who worked so hard as a team — men, women and teenagers across the community — we feel like the churches of the Lord Jesus Christ have spoken, that the church is involved in the world, is alive and active, healthy and doing well."

"We feel like the campaign was run on a good, Christlike level, that we didn't choose in any way to slander or demean anyone. The results of the vote showed that we, as Christians, are more interested in people than we are in money."

Insight Lectures
Planned In April

MURRAY, Ky. — "The Political Future of Blacks in the South" will be the topic of Insight lectures at Murray State University April 18-19 that will feature a prominent black man and a former Southern governor.

Dr. Charles Hurst, president of Malcolm X College in Chicago, and Lt. Gov. Lester Maddox of Georgia, a former governor of that state, will be the speakers for the program sponsored by the student government.

Open to the public at no admission charge, both lectures will begin at 8 p.m.

Hurst, who left Howard University in 1968 to accept the presidency of what was then Crane Junior College, will speak in the University School auditorium Tuesday, April 18.

Maddox, who first came to public attention when he defied court-ordered integration by arming himself with an ax handle and blocking the doorway of his Atlanta restaurant against Negroes, will lecture Wednesday, April 19, in the university auditorium.

Hurst was originally scheduled as one of the Insight speakers in 1971, but the series was canceled and he did not appear.

Following the cancellation in the spring of 1971, the Insight format was changed this year to include a program in both the fall and spring semesters under the direction of Van A. Fiser of Paducah, chairman of the Insight executive committee.

Smallpox Vaccinations Waived In Kentucky

For the first time in Kentucky, parents with children entering the first grade this fall won't have to show that their youngsters are immunized against smallpox before they can be registered.

A bill passed during the closing days of the 1972 General Assembly removes smallpox from the list of diseases against which children must be vaccinated before entering school.

Dr. C. Hernandez, director of epidemiology for the state Department of Health, says the reason is simple—the cure has become worse than the disease.

The latest figures from the National Center for Communicable Disease control in Atlanta show there are about 500 cases of serious reaction to smallpox serum in the United States each year. The figures, last revised in 1968, reveal around seven to nine deaths per year from bad reactions.

The World Health Organization is well ahead of schedule in its program to eliminate smallpox. As a result, Hernandez says, it is possible to travel in most parts of the world, including all of Western Europe, without being immunized to the disease.

About three months ago the American Academy of Pediatrics and the U.S. Public Health Service recommended abolishing mandatory inoculation for smallpox. Since then, a public health spokesman said, the number of bad reactions reported has dropped from about 40 to around 10 a month.

Around Kentucky, Indiana has quit requiring immunization for smallpox and a bill to do the same is currently before the Ohio Senate, the West Virginia legislature failed to pass a similar law this year. Other states such as Virginia and Illinois still have mandatory immunization laws but they aren't strictly enforced.

Hernandez says the greatest incidence of bad reactions to smallpox vaccinations is among children less than a year old. Prior to the new law the state Health Department recommended initial vaccination at age one with boosters every five to seven years. Hernandez said savings as a result of the new law in Kentucky won't be that great since the smallpox serum is relatively inexpensive, costing about 10 cents a dose. He said a little over 48,000 doses were dis-

Mrs. Anderson Will Give Fulton Program

FULTON, Ky.,

The next meeting of the Fulton Woman's Club will feature color pictures and commentary by Mrs. Mildred Anderson covering a tour which she and her son, Wayne, made last summer through England and Scotland. The meeting will be at 2 p.m. Friday at the clubhouse.

The program leader will be Mrs. Nelson Tripp. In addition, there will be installation of officers.

performed by his department last year.

Based on the number of worldwide cases in 1970, Hernandez said, the United States could expect to import one case of smallpox every 12 years. The last confirmed case in this country, he said, occurred in 1949.

England abolished compulsory smallpox vaccination in the 1950s and the Public Health Service reports 46 states have done so in this country.

Tax Withholding Slows Economy

WASHINGTON

Government economists say they are concerned because taxpayers are letting too much money be withheld from their paychecks. They fear the over-withholding will retard the nation's economic recovery.

New income tax withholding schedules that went into effect Jan. 16 are taking more money out of paychecks than before, and people are not adjusting their withholding exemptions to reduce the amount of money withheld.

The Treasury Department said Friday it is collecting about $1 billion a month more than it anticipated in January. This factor, by itself, could reduce the current fiscal year deficit by about $5 billion.

In January, the Nixon administration estimated the government would end up $38.8 billion in the red at the end of the current fiscal year, Jan. 30.

But officials said Friday the budget deficit will run much lower than that.

Wells Lovett Will Address MSU Club

MURRAY, Ky.—Wells T. Lovett of Owensboro, attorney and insurance executive whose grandfather founded Murray State University, will be the featured speaker at the 50th anniversary banquet of the Alumni Association on the campus May 6.

To be held at 6:30 p.m. in the Waterfield Student Union Building on the weekend prior to graduation exercises, the dinner will be followed by a program that includes the installation of new officers, scholarship presentations and recognition of the distinguished professor of the year.

In announcing the selection of the speaker for the annual banquet, Mancil Vinson, director of alumni affairs, called it "fitting during the Golden Anniversary Observance to have the grandson of Dr. Rainey T. Wells as a guest of honor."

Vinson said Lovett, a one-time student at Murray State, "has followed in the long tradition of loyalty and support given to the school by members of the Wells family."

Lovett's mother, Mrs. Laurine Wells Lovett of Owensboro, a daughter of Dr. Wells, was a member of the first board of regents at Murray State. Both her sons, Wells and Dr. John Daniel Lovett, also of Owensboro, were born in the family home known as "Edgewood."

Mrs. Martha Robertson Ellison of Louisville will be installed as the new president of the alumni association to replace Dr. Forrest C. Pogue of Arlington, Va., executive director of the George C. Marshall Research Foundation.

Among other officers to be installed are Kentucky State Sen. William A. Logan of Madisonville as president-elect and Edwin O. Morris of Kingsport, Tenn., as vice president, along with five new representatives to the executive council—Donald W. Sparks of Mayfield, Mrs. Melissa Sexton Briscoe of Louisville, Roy A. Weatherly of Hopkinsville, John C. Padgett of Frankfort, and Richard Cates of Owensboro.

Logan will become president of the association in May of next year.

Scholarships to be awarded are 16 alumni scholarships for $500 each financed primarily by Century Club donations, along with special scholarship awards honoring several individuals.

The faculty member at the university chosen as the distinguished professor of the year also will receive a $500 award.
