Twin Cities Tenth International Banana Festival Is NOW--Welcome Visitors

HOW'S BUSINESS? "GREAT!" SAYS BOBBY JOHNSON as he sells a sombrero to James Hill at a Hospitality Booth on Lake Street. The booth is one of many scattered through town that offer Festival information and souvenirs. The unidentified shopper in the background looks as though she is ready for a lot of Festival guests!

THE MARIMBA IS HERE and happy is the Festival president Jo Westpheling (left) to present a "banana bunch" to Humberto Garci-Aquirre, regional manager of the Guatemala Aviateca Airlines that brought the Latin-American entertainment group to the Festival.

These ancient ruins were collected from West Kentucky and West Tennessee by Brent Wade, Donald and Mark Macklin, Demp Gattis, Robert Gattis, Joe Byrd, and Billy Jo Powell. Some of these collectors have been finding the Indian Artifacts for as many as fifteen years.

PUTTING THE FINISHING TOUCHES ON the bandstand on Avenida de Amistad (Avenue of Friendship), which is Carr Street, is Lou Biehlich. He is only one of the many community workers whose combined service effort makes the International Banana Festival the success that it is.

JOTTINGS from Jo's Notebook

NEW COLUMNIST

This is Dona Martin writing for Jo — the excitement of the fabulous tenth annual International Banana Festival has strictly caused her to "go bananas!" (She'll be back next week).

Jo talked to Peter Nero Tuesday from Festival headquarters and was so encouraged with their telephone conversation. He is quite excited about coming to the Festival and is looking forward to meeting everyone.

PETER NERO

If you think the enthusiasm in the twin cities because of the tenth annual International Banana Festival is great, then you ought to have a little talk with Peter Nero, the great pianist who will appear in the air-conditioned auditorium of the Fulton City High School on Friday night, August 18, at 8 p. m.

Mr. Nero was in contact with Festival officials by telephone twice on Tuesday to get all the details of the Festival, which he has termed "one of the most exciting community events I have ever been privileged to attend."

The famous artist will arrive in Paducah on Friday, August 18, at 11:04 a. m. via Ozark Air Lines. He will be picked up and whisked to the Governor's Luncheon to be held at noon at the Holiday Inn, which he will attend with his 11-year-old son, and two of the musicians appearing in the two-hour show.

Mr. Nero, a resident of Great Neck, New York, will spend the night in Fulton and leave on Saturday morning for another engagement on the weekend.

The artist is extremely congenial, laughs easily, and is extremely modest about the wide acclaim he has received from audiences all over the world.

Some of his many hits that will be performed Friday night are "Love Story," "Summer of '42," "You've Got a Friend," and "The First Time Ever I Saw Your Face."

Jo also talked with Governor Wendell Ford this week about his visit to the Festival. Naturally, he will be present at the Governor's Luncheon; but an added attraction he will attend is the "Banana Shoot." He says that his back is better and is physically able to challenge Lt. Gov. John S. Wilder of Tennessee. It should be quite a contest—don't miss it!

BANANA SHOOT

Governor Wendell Ford of Kentucky today challenged Governor Winfield Dunn of Tennessee to the nation's first "Banana Shoot," which will take place at the tenth annual International Banana Festival in Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton, Tennessee on Friday, August 19.

Governor Ford, in whose home state the "shoot" will be held, said that although the state is famous for its long riflemen, horse racing, and bluegrass — the growing fame of the Banana Festival, and the tremendous work being done by the twin cities of Fulton, Kentucky and South Fulton, Tennessee in the field of people-to-people diplomacy with the banana-producing countries of Central and South America compels him to challenge the governors of all states to determine the best banana splitter in the whole world!

THE ANNUAL "AMIGO SUNDAY" at St. Edward's Catholic Church last Sunday featured the traditional Mass in Spanish, again celebrated by Spanish-speaking Father Frank Roof, native Paducahan now stationed in Owensboro. Following Mass, a social hour was held in the recreation room, and (above) Fr. Roof demonstrated his ping-pong dexterity with some of his Latin friends.

Saturday Show Features The Symphonics

"The Symphonics," one of America's "hottest" groups in the entertainment world, has been booked for the tenth annual International Banana Festival.

The all-Black group, containing five vocalists and a four-man combo will appear on Saturday afternoon, August 19, at 2:30 p. m. at the Kitty League Park grandstand. An attractive stage, covered to keep the players out of the sun and decorated in the Latin American motif, has been built especially for the all-Black group, who have just completed a hit album.

Mrs. Dorothy Jackson, a member of the Banana Festival's board of directors said that a committee will be formed to meet and handle all arrangements for the "Symphonics" while they are in the twin cities at the Banana Festival.

Advance sale tickets for the Symphonics went on sale at the Banana Festival headquarters in the Chamber of Commerce building Friday. The tickets will sell for $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children.

"The reasonable prices for this performance have been made in order to attract the large number of people who will be in the city to attend the Festival parade on Saturday," a Festival official said today.

Mrs. Jackson urges all music lovers who enjoy an outstanding group of all-Black musicians to get their tickets early to be assured a seat.

The Fulton Jaycees are in charge of all mechanical and technical arrangements for the Symphonics.

TO RECEIVE DEGREE

Mrs. Nancy Counce Hall, of Jeffersonton, Kentucky, will receive the B. S. degree in Commerce at the University of Louisville on August 21. A Secretarial Science major, she plans to teach in Louisville this fall. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Tom Counce of Fulton and is married to James Lee Hall.

Window Fair's 1st Place Goes To Tri County Club

The Tri-County Homemakers won the Window Fair, sponsored by the Retail Merchants, according to judges who made their decisions Wednesday morning. The announcement came after their viewing the 13 entries.

Tri-County's theme was "Sew a Trouseau—SAVE." The theme was derived when one of the members made every piece of her daughter's trousseau including wedding gown, veil, lingerie, sportswear, and bathing suit. The winning display is in K. Homra's window.

Second prize went to Crutchfield Homemakers who centered their display around the theme "Be Creative and Stay Happy." This exhibit is in the Budget Shop window.

The Willing Workers took third place with their "Busy Hands Make Happy Hearts" exhibit. This display is in Western Auto's window.

Special community awards went to Haws Memorial, Mound Diggers, and FFA who contributed displays but were not in competition. They are found in Weeks, Graham's and Sherwin Williams window respectively.

These winning windows and the other ten entries who did not place all have interesting displays. In the busy schedule of the Festival, try to steal a minute to get by to see them. (See picture of winning display on Society page 3.)

Ferry-Morse Electrician Receives Highest "Suggestion" Award

(By PW)

Many of the nation's larger corporation have adopted the plan of an "employee suggestion system" for increasing the efficiency of their operations. Useful suggestions that prove feasible and are adopted by the company generally bring cash awards to the employee who thought up the idea.

The idea of an employee suggestion system has been adopted by the Purex Corporation (Ltd.), and all of its subsidiary corporations, including the Ferry-Morse Seed Company, and that put the inventive mind of Neil Shanklin to work.

Neil, who makes his home in Palmersville, is a maintenance electrician at the Fulton plant, and has been with the company here about two years, and he had an idea.

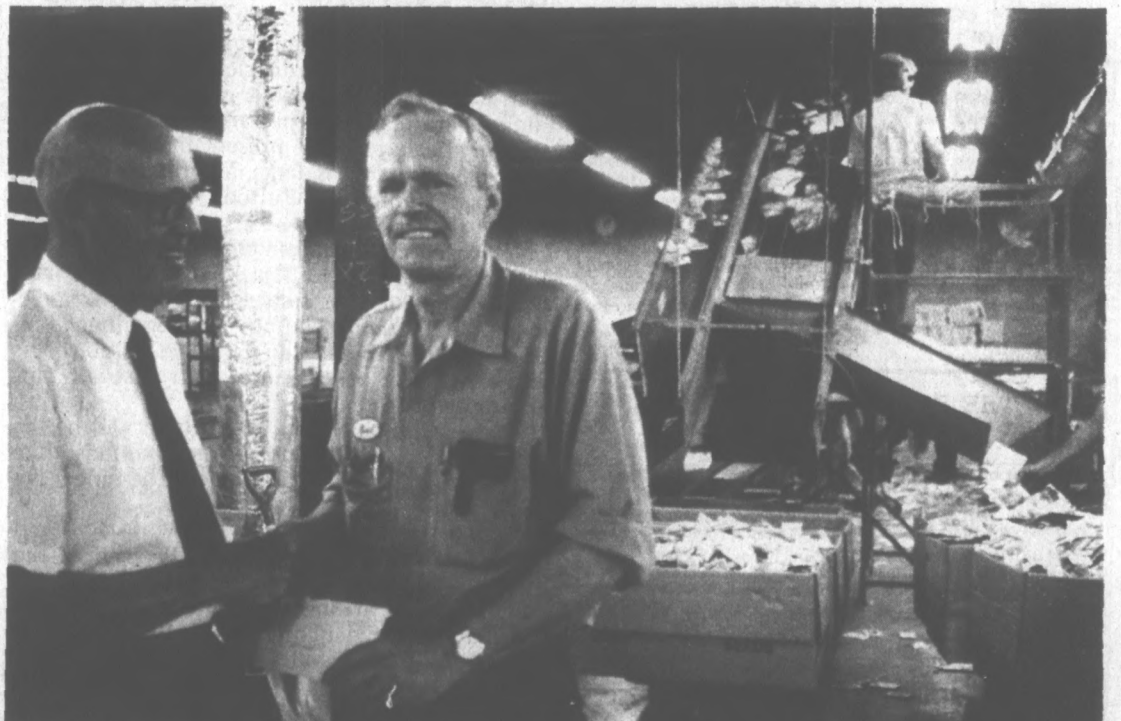

To begin with, you must know that when seed is packaged at the Fulton plant, it is meticulously stored, and kept separated in row after row of neat packet storage bins until incoming orders are filled. Thereafter the packets and boxes are mixed on the outgoing display racks that are sent to the customer stores.

At the end of each season, the seed displays plus their unsold contents are returned from all over the nation to their point of origin, which happens to be the plant here in Fulton. Thousands go out filled, the same thousands come back with odds and ends of unsold contents. The little packets, never re-issued, are burned, but some of the larger seed is salvaged for other purposes.

The problem has been to sort out the returned seed. Until Neil Shanklin put his inventive mind to work, it used to take a lot of people a lot of time to do this. Neil's machine now does it all, and quickly.

All the returned seed is dumped into a hopper, and carried from that point via belt to the top of the sorting slide (see picture). As the assorted

CAPITOL DIGEST

Edited by-
JIM WARREN

Gov. Wendell Ford has requested the federal pay Board to exempt from its wage ceiling a 15 per cent pay boost for Kentucky policemen passed by the 1972 General Assembly.

The Pay Board previously has ruled that raises of more than 5.5 per cent are prohibited.

As part of Governor Ford's criminal justice legislative package, the legislature passed House Bill 203, establishing a Law Enforcement Foundation Program Fund to increase police salaries by 15 per cent if their city or county decides to participate and impose the required standards.

To be eligible for the pay increase, policemen must meet specified training, educational and operational standards.

The Kentucky Crime Commission, which supported the pay boost, estimates some 2600 state law enforcement officers would qualify for the increase.

In a letter to the Pay Board, Governor Ford pointed out that, "This is a unique state response to the problem of upgrading local law enforcement agencies. It offers a positive impetus for improved police performances that will serve to reduce the incidence of crime experienced in both urban and rural Kentucky."

The program fund was to have begun July 1, but no action could be taken without an exemption from the board. As yet the board has taken no action.

"I hope you will give this exemption request your personal attention, and understand that a denial will not simply hold the salaries of Kentucky's police to undeniably low levels," Governor Ford told the board.

State Auditor Mary Louise Foust has criticized several laws passed by the 1972 General Assembly, including one raising legislators' monthly expense allowances from $300 to $400.

Miss Foust pointed out that only five of 120 expense accounts submitted by her own field agents since Jan. 1 exceeded $400. And those auditors were on the road full time, she said.

Under the expense boost, legislators' get $400 each month the General Assembly is not in session for "secretarial assistance, books and periodicals, reports or publications, conduct of small scale studies, postage, telephone services or any other expense incident to performance of the legislator's duty."

Miss Foust also criticized a 1972 law which authorizes the state treasurer to clear his records of unpaid checks after one year.

State agencies could use that to get around the requirement to turn in to the general treasury each June 30 any funds appropriated to them which are not spent, she said.

That could be done, she said, by the agency's writing a check to itself, then holding it for 13 months, at which time the money would revert to the agency under the 1972 law.

Lt. Gov. Julian Carroll says Kentucky must develop a plan to equalize the funding of local school districts, but without taking money away from any district.

Addressing the Kentucky Association of School Administrators, the lieutenant governor said a prime goal for the state in this decade is to "improve education in such a way as to improve the quality of life for our citizens."

He said one of the main problems in improving education is equalization of funding.

"Like California, Texas and most other states in the nation, Kentucky makes use of property taxes in financing its public schools," Lt. Governor Carroll said. "And herein lies the source of great disparities."

He noted that he assessed valuation per student in Kentucky ranges from 9000 in some districts, to more than $90,000 in others.

"The Supreme Court may tell us we must equalize these disparities, or it may not," he said. "In any case, we ought to do it."

Lt. Governor Carroll did not outline a proposed plan, but said it should be a "leveling-up" process which would raise the expenditures of the lower districts toward the highest.

"It would be opposed to any scheme which would take money away from any district," he said.

State Corrections Commissioner Charles J. Holmes says some prisoners involved in a recent racial disturbance at La Grange State Reformatory may be transferred to the state penitentiary.

Almost 400 inmates at the La Grange institution, divided almost equally between whites and blacks, fought for 15 minutes before armed prison guards stopped the outbreak.

"If we can determine some of the ringleaders, it's possible they may be sent to Eddyville," Holmes said. "We are continuing our investigation."

Holmes said the transfer would serve the dual purpose of punishment and to imprison troublemakers under maximum security conditions.

TALK ABOUT LARGE CROWDS! Just take a gander at the number of people attending the First International Banana Festival held in 1963. It looks like every front row seat is taken to see these lovely ladies parade by. This parade drew an estimated 20,000 and each year crowds have increased to where they now average about 40,000 viewers a year. The 1972 parade is hailed as the longest ever and with fair weather is expected to break previous parade records.

FULTON'S

Library Corner

BY LUCY DANIEL

Come to the Fulton Library and see our nice antiques display. I think you'll enjoy it.

Some very, very interesting books at the Fulton Public Library:

WILD HORIZON, by F. Van Wyck Mason. This is a vividly exciting story of the American Revolutionary War by an outstanding historical novelist.

The time is September, 1779. Lieutenant Colonel John Sevier has ridden long and hard to the encampment at Watauga to bring the dispirited news that American troops have lost much ground to the King's Army. With this, he brings a plan that the Patriots and their families move westward, "there to settle and build a new free nation which can, and will, defy tyranny till Hell itself freezes over!"

AMERICAN ANTIQUES, 1800-1900. Until recently the thought of a 19th-century interior brought to mind images of heavily curtained rooms stuffed with over-elaborate furniture. But over the last few years the objects and furnishings of this period have received a fresh appraisal and new appreciation as well as a good deal of attention. Many people have discovered the pleasure of collecting 19th-century antiques, which are at once well-made, decorative and amusing, and readily available at a reasonably low cost.

THE FISHERMAN'S WORLD, by Slave Stochl. What is the mysterious attraction that draws the keen angler to the side of an apparently uneventful stretch of water, to sit silently hour after hour, waiting for glimpses of the life that lies beneath the placid surface? All the delightful photographs and complementary narrative, communicate the compelling attraction of angling as sport and pastime.

ONE MORE TIME, by Faith Baldwin. After twenty years of marriage, Cynthia Pemberton Warren's husband has asked her for a divorce. There had been an indiscretion earlier in their marriage, but he'd come back again. This time she wasn't so sure he would. How many other times had he strayed and she had not known it? Nine years ago he had told her, "Men get into situations like this, very often because they feel wanted and needed. No matter how much I love you--and still do--you have never wanted or needed me". This time he said "I don't love you, Cynthia. . ."

WHITE COLUMNS IN GEORGIA, by Medora Field Perkinson. Romance by candlelight; a breath of scandal; coffee and pistols at dawn; war and history in the making. It's all in White Columns in Georgia--even murder. The beautiful white-columned ante-bellum houses of Georgia are more than a tourist's dream. They are the South in its heyday. And here--in this vivacious book is a delightful compendium of their history, legend, folklore and odd-doings.

FLOWERS NATIVE TO THE DEEP SOUTH, by Caroline Dornon. Fascinating Pitcher-Plants which catch and "digest" insects; fabulous Louisiana lilies, representing every color in the spectrum; exquisite Texas Bluebells--these are but a few of the native plants described in this volume. Caroline Dornon has lived with these flowers all her life and knows them as intimate friends. That is why she is able to depict many characteristics that escape the casual observer.

THE PAST WE SHARE, Peter Quennell, ed. This is the book of books for all who cherish our heritage as Americans. To read it--to explore with awe and wonder its unequalled assemblage of rare, authentic illustrations that bring our traditions to life in your own home--is to experience the miracle of being present at the past.

PENN'S GREAT TOWN, by George B. Tatum. This is 250 years of Philadelphia architecture. It begins with Thomas Holme's plan of 1682, one of the earliest comprehensive designs for an American Community, and ends with Louis Kahn's Medical Research Building, completed in 1960 and recognized by many critics as one of the most important structures of the last decade.

AMERICA THE BEAUTIFUL, by Reader's Digest, ed. Here between the covers of one beautifully illustrated volume, prepared by the editors of Reader's Digest are absorbing stories about the unspoiled scenic wonders of America. Every section of the country is covered in depth--verdant, rock-ribbed Northeast; the rustic South; the vast, sprawling Midwest and Great Plains; the magnificent Rocky Mountain wilderness; the colorful Southwest; the monumental Pacific West; our far-flung new frontiers, exotic Hawaii and rugged Alaska.

hither and yon and lovely and charming Miss Cissy Murphy is right in the focal point as she announces her wedding plans and comes forth as the delightful inspiration for many lovely pre-nuptial parties in her honor. Thus far this week Mesdames Elizabeth Payne and Arch Huddleston have entertained at a bridge; Mrs. Hunter White-sell and Betsy entertained at a luncheon and bridge and Mrs. Ward Bushart and Mrs. Rodney Miller of Chevy Chase, Md., entertained at a mid-morning coke party. Today (Friday) Mesdames Leon Browder, Louis Weeks, J. H. Maddox and Clyde Williams, Sr., will entertain at a dessert bridge at the Country Club.

Miss Murphy is the bride-elect of Gene Edwin Hatfield of West Point, Kentucky.

A "BANANA" NOTE

Well folks, the Banana Festival is upon us. And what a festival it will be! I'm not going to re-hash all the events that will be happening because there are plenty of news items in this week's paper giving dates and times. I would just like to say a few things.

First off, I think that each and every person in Fulton and South Fulton should be proud of the Amigo program. It's a very worthwhile project and lasting friendships are formed every year. And a little of the hospitality of this town is conveyed back to the Central American countries. All of us should do our best to make these kids feel really welcome and make this festival something they will never forget. I can think how I would feel if I were in a strange country and around strange people. A little smile goes a long way toward taking the strangeness out of a strange place. So let's each and every one of us show these kids just how much they are welcomed here. Introduce yourself to them. Be a good-will ambassador. Who knows, their memory of Kentucky and Tennessee may well be you.

Secondly, I think that the people of these Twin Cities should do their darndest to attend as many of the activities as possible. Don't just sit at home and watch television and wish you were out. Get out and visit the exhibits. A lot of people have put in a lot of time and effort to make this festival the best in history. The least each one of us can do is to attend the events and show these people who have worked so hard and so long our appreciation. After all, this festival is for the enjoyment of the people of this town. And it takes all of us to make it a resounding success. So remember, visit the exhibits and attend the specially planned events. And it wouldn't be a bad idea to tell Jo and Christine Batts and other members of the Festival crew just how much you are enjoying the Festival. After all, they did all that hard work for YOU and not for their health.

TO DRINK OR NOT TO DRINK

You know, I've often wondered that since Tennessee and some other states have lowered their drinking age to 18 when the rest of the states were going to take up the towel and do the same. But, it looks like nobody else is going to do anything about it. And I think it's a shame. Why shouldn't 18-year-olds everywhere be allowed to drink?

Now I know there are many good arguments for and against. There usually are about things people want changed. Most 18-year-olds are supposed to be entering the really wild stage and are not very mature. I firmly disagree. Most 18-year-olds are VERY mature. After all, if one takes the time to realize it, young people in this country are growing up very fast nowadays. They have too. Otherwise they are caught in the undertow and pulled under. The age of the naive is out. And contrary to popular belief, most 18-year-olds are not very wild at all. In fact most have begun to settle down for good. They hold good, steady jobs, and the majority are married or about to be married. If an 18-year-old is old enough to take on the responsibility of a wife and a family, why shouldn't he be allowed to legally buy liquor.

Now you notice that I said to LEGALLY buy liquor. Members of the older generation would rather ignore one simple fact -- an 18-year-old or younger, it doesn't really matter at all about age, CAN get liquor anytime whether he buys it himself or not. There are many, many bootleggers and anybody can get them to buy their liquor. So really the age limit on liquor does nothing to stop younger drinkers. If they are going to drink, they can. It's that simple. Of course there are penalties and stiff fines to pay if they and/or the bootleggers are caught. The only problem with that is that rarely are any caught. So the high age limit does little good.

I've often heard it asked "if a boy is old enough to vote, old enough to marry and old enough to die in Vietnam, why isn't he old enough to drink?" And why isn't he? Simply because the law doesn't allow him to. And so, he buys from a bootlegger which is not only shady but blatant breaking of the law. Of course there have always been bootleggers and there always will be even if the drinking age is lowered.

Now don't get the idea that just because they want to legally buy liquor that 18-year-olds want to be able to get intoxicated regularly. Like members of the older generation, young people frequently run into occasions where social drinking is demanded. And who doesn't like to take a drink with friends. But I'm not going to rap on anymore on this subject. I just think that 18-year-olds are quite able to use discretion in drinking. They're old enough to know the difference between right and wrong and wouldn't abuse the right. What do you think?

Members of the wedding party who is your same age, like 10, says, "I would like you to come over to my house and play sometime." Is this a real invitation? Or should I wait until she asks me for a certain day? Would it be all right if I called her and asked "Can I come over now?" Or would it be too pushy? Please help me settle this in my head. ---Mixed Up in Pittsburgh

Dear Mixed: Read the previous letter again---and pay special attention to what I said about "Hollywood Invitations."

A good way to get the message across when a person says, "Please come over sometime," is to reply, "I'd love to. When?"

Is an upcoming wedding driving you bananas? Ann Landers' comprehensive booklet, "The Bride's Guide," gives you the facts from the initial announcement to the last bill and who should pay it. To receive your copy, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope and 35¢ in coin.

Dear Diff: A blanket phrase, hooked on to "thank you for these lovely gifts" is not my idea of a sincere invitation to a wedding. It's what we used to call a Hollywood Invitation---"Drop over sometime."

Dear Ann Landers: I read an article in yesterday's paper about "Rent-A-Girl Services" in many major cities. It seems girls can be rented for $50 an evening. Although the ads imply no funny stuff, no man is going to pay $50 for conversation. I was shocked to learn these "services" have the approval of the chamber of commerce and the Better Business Bureau.

My husband travels so that article had special meaning. He comes off the road exhausted. I find myself shushing the kids so he can sleep late, getting his clothes in shape for the next trip and being "understanding" while he regains his energy.

What do you think about the Rental Business? How can a wife fight it?---Mrs. Left Behind

Dear Mrs.: Since my husband is chairman of the board of a major car rental organization, I won't knock the rental business---but girls are something else.

A man who wants to play around doesn't need the approval of the chamber of commerce or the Better Business Bureau. And he doesn't have to leave town either. If your marriage is healthy you don't have to worry. If it isn't, worrying won't help.

Dear Ann Landers: If a friend

THE AMIGOS' SINGING AND CLAPPING entertained the Haws Memorial residents Monday. The program consisted of Latin American music in the forms of vocal solos, duets, and groups with accompaniment on accordion, guitar, and piano. A folk dance performed by four couples delighted the audience.

Haws Memorial

Fiesta week began for us Monday morning when the Amigos and Mrs. Ahda McCoy visited Haws. The universal smile, Latin American music and dance transcended any common language. The patients, each wearing a banana man name tag, were entertained by the talented Amigos.

Tuesday morning Jeff Campbell and Denise Pitman set up our window display at Weeks Department store. Much credit and many thanks go to Elizabeth Wilson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wilson, who did all the printing for our window and made the sixty banana man name tags. Mary Lee Swift and Jeff Campbell each get a star for imagination. They cut down a cypress and constructed our banana tree!

Thursday morning was our big day when 7 cars and 31 patients attended the official opening ceremonies for the Festival on Carr Street at 10 a.m. Then the caravan proceeded to Lake Street to view the window displays.

Those who helped drive were: Mary Lee Swift, Trula Atkins, Geniva Castleman, Ruben Pirtle, Jeff Campbell, Mrs. Bob O'Neill, Mrs. Curtis Wilson and Denise Pitman.

The patients attending the outing were: Mesdames Lillie McGinnis, Nell Bennett, Myrtle Temple, Johnnie Groce, Ora Thompson, Hollie Hill, Maggie Summerville, Mary Dowdy, Josie Moser, Helen Tyler and Costella Chambers, Lena McAllister, Effie Williams, Ira Raines, Etta Stevens, Effie Winter, Mary Williams, Mattie Johnson, Leona Keating, Leona McIntyre, Cora Gilbert, Lillie Work, Effie Cunningham and Lillian Atkins.

Lexington Correction Center Has New Relaxed Atmosphere

By Frank Coots
State News Bureau

FRANKFORT, Ky.—"This is Chuck Holmes. Do you want to go to lunch with me?"

"Well..."

"I'm going to lunch at the Bluegrass Correctional Complex. Do you want to come along?"

"Yeah, I guess so." (I had already eaten lunch) "What time?"

"I'll pick you up in five minutes."

During the drive to the new minimum security institution, located just outside Lexington at the facility formerly operated by the Department of Child Welfare and known as Kentucky Village, Corrections Commissioner Charles J. Holmes talked about the progress that had been made in renovating the structures.

"Wait till you see it. When were you there last? A month ago? You won't recognize it. Wait and see."

He was right. This time around the grass was cut and the shrubbery had been trimmed. Buildings which before had no glass in their windows, now had new glass. The faulty plumbing and wiring in the dormitories had been replaced, the buildings had fresh coats of paint and new tile had been laid on the floors.

The swimming pool is usable now, the basketball courts have backboards for each basket and the common dining area has been cleaned, polished and refurbished.

"Looks pretty good doesn't it? You know the residents did all the work: plumbing, wiring, everything. Now we ought to get moving on a program like this in Western Kentucky. There are some facilities we know of that could be renovated."

Holmes is enthusiastic about the programs at the facility as he directed similar ones in Indiana before coming to Kentucky a few months ago.

The Bluegrass Complex has an education facility for the first offender program, and intensive group therapy and counseling for men in the pre-release program, which is designed for those with only 90 to 120 days left to serve on their sentence. In addition, the institution houses a building and grounds maintenance unit and the 40-man Frankfort work detail. In all, the complex will house 150 to 200 men.

"See that man over there? He's a correctional officer, and has his degree. That's pretty unusual in an institution, but we have a number of correctional officers with college degrees here."

"Did you notice the long hair? We don't care about that. I think I'd fire Mr. Maddix (the director of the pre-release program) if he cut that beard."

"We have a relaxed atmosphere here. The residents can wear what they please, and the correctional officers don't wear uniforms."

The relaxed atmosphere extends to the grounds. There are no walls, no fences. There is a picnic area and swing set for the resident's families when they come to visit.

The residents must wake themselves in the morning and put in an eight-hour day, whether working, going to classes or therapy sessions, to prepare themselves for the life they will lead when they leave the facility. Even the families of the men will receive some counseling to prepare them for the return of their husbands and sons.

During lunch, Holmes stops one of the residents.

"How long have you been here?"

"Two weeks."
"What are you in for?"
"Forgery."
"What is your sentence?"
"Two years."
"Stay with us."
"Yes sir."
"I mean it. Stay with us. That's the only way to go."

Recipe Books For Festival Now On Sale

A bookful of prize-winning banana recipes is available for cooks during the tenth annual International Banana Festival, according to American Legion Auxiliary representatives, who compiled the books from the winning recipes in the past Banana Bake-Offs.

Cakes, pies, cookies, and yes—even casseroles made with bananas are available through the recipes found in this banana booklet. They have each been named "the best" in one of the Banana Bake-Offs in the past ten years.

The books sporting dozens and dozens of delicious ways to fix banana desserts will be sold for $1.25 at the Hospitality booths, at Banana Festival headquarters, and at various other places downtown.

Mrs. H. C. Sams, Sr., in charge of the sales, encourages everyone to buy a book because they can really "spice up a meal." She also said, "I fixed one of the recipes just last night and everyone just loved it!"

Evidently, the cookbook can really come in handy for housewives—it's not just a "run of the mill" cookbook! It is exciting because each of the recipes are WINNERS.

Commission Has Exhibit

The Board of Directors of the International Banana Festival are pleased to announce today that the distinguished Tennessee Arts Commission will present an Arts in Photography exhibit during the tenth annual Banana Festival August 17, 18, and 19.

The exhibit will be on display at the Farmers Exchange Bank in South Fulton.

This was a direct result of a project initiated by the Commission for the purpose of depicting in photography the several arts across the State.

Photographers Jack Schrader of East Tennessee, Bruce Hubbard of Middle Tennessee, and Michael Hood of West Tennessee were commissioned to provide as wide a variety of photographs depicting such arts forms as crafts, dance, music, architecture, sculpture, and painting.

Twenty photographs were selected from each photographer to depict the fact that photography is an art itself. These will be on show during the Festival to exhibit the great state of Tennessee.

State Officials Announce New Road Program For '72-'73

Governor Wendell H. Ford and Highway Commissioner Charles Pryor, Jr., announced last week the 1972-73 Rural Secondary Program for Fulton County. The county's share of Rural Secondary funds for the year beginning July 1 is $161,249.

The program selected provides maintenance for 64.2 miles of Rural Secondary roads. It also authorizes black-top resurfacing for 3.1 miles of KY 311, the Free Will School-Walnut Log Road, and survey and reconstruction of 1.9 miles of the McKelvey Road.

The Rural Secondary Program is supported by two cents of the Commonwealth's motor fuel tax. It originated in 1948 when the General Assembly recognized the need to improve farm-to-market and other rural roads. To insure fair distribution among the various counties, it enacted a statutory formula in 1962. This formula, which takes rural population, rural area and rural road mileage into account, determines each county's share.

The total revenue which the program anticipates for the coming fiscal year is $34,960,000.

Commissioner Pryor said, "This program permits the Department of Highways to maintain and upgrade many of the 'people' roads to which Governor Ford assigns priority."

COMMUNITY THEME

The Fulton County FFA has a display in Sherwin Williams Window. The exhibit is centered around a community theme.

Pickard To Become State Trooper

FULTON, Ky. — William F. Pickard, Kentucky State Police Academy cadet, took his oath of office Friday.

Ceremonies of the academy's 45th graduating class were held at 10:30 a.m. at the Capitol rotunda in Frankfort.

It was reported this is the

Mayfield Native Is New State Vet

By SY RAMSEY
Associated Press Writer
FRANKFORT, Ky.

Dr. Tom Smith Maddox, a native of Mayfield, was named state veterinarian Friday by unanimous vote of the new State Board of Agriculture.

"I'll do the job," said Maddox, who had been filling the position vacated last spring by Dr. L. G. Northington because of illness. He will serve four years at $19,500 a year.

Maddox, 52, of Owensboro, is a graduate of Murray State and Auburn universities, a World War II Army Air Corps veteran and a former city commissioner of Greenville.

He has operated an animal clinic in Owensboro since 1958. He and his wife have five children.

At its organizational meeting the board heard Agriculture Commissioner Wendell Butler drop a hint the state might get back into the meat inspection program.

The federal government assumed the entire inspection state veterinarian Friday by program last winter after denouncing the state operation was not up to U.S. standards.

Butler noted a proposal is afoot in congress to obtain federal financing of 80 per cent rather than 50 per cent for meat inspection by a state.

"It could be that in 1974 if we're ready we ought to get it back," he said.

Butler said there had been numerous complaints when the state ran the program, but none since federal inspectors took over.

"It's a funny thing," he said. "I guess it's like the state income tax (which people complain against) while they don't say anything to the federal income tax people."

Butler said that with elimination of the state program "we lost a lot of complaints—and a lot of jobs."

An estimated 110 persons were laid off, but about half have been rehired as federal meat inspection workers.

The commissioner reported his department is on a continuation budget of slightly more than $3 million for the current biennium except for $35,000 additional to help county fairs and $20,000 more to implement the new grain storage law.

Butler suggested the board should meet at least once every two months, and it will convene next week on the state fairgrounds at Louisville during the state fair.

As commissioner, Butler is board chairman. Dr. Charles Barnhart of the University of Kentucky is vice chairman.

Other members are John Mayer of Coss Creek, Jack Welch of Owenton, Edwin Reid of Symsonia, G. W. Gardner of Lexington, Wilbur Ray of Pembroke and Lee Nolen Jr. of Glasgow.

Associate members are Drs. William Householder of Eastern Kentucky University, Charles Derrickson of Morehead State, E. B. Howton of Murray State and Leonard Brown of Western Kentucky University.

Seasons Announced For Wildlife Area

Seasons and regulations for small game and deer hunting on the West Kentucky Wildlife Management Area near Grahamville were announced today by Refuge Manager J. D. "Duke" Boss.

The squirrel season on the area will open Saturday and correspond with the statewide season. All areas except Area A, which is never hunted, will be open to squirrel hunters. Sportsmen are not required to check in at the registration office during squirrel season.

The dove season will begin on the first day of September and hunters will be permitted in all areas except Area A. Dove hunters must check in and out at headquarters the first three days of the season.

Archery season for deer will run from Oct. 15-31 and hunters will be required to check in and check out.

The special shotgun season for deer follows Nov. 3-5. Shotgun hunters must also check in and check out.

The quail and rabbit seasons will open Nov. 16 and continue through Jan. 31. Only Areas 2, 3 and 6 will be opened to rabbit and quail hunters who check in and check out.

PCC Officials Expecting 10 Per Cent Increase In Enrollment Over 1971

Paducah Community College officials are expecting approximately a 10 per cent increase in enrollment over last year's figure for the fall term, scheduled to begin Aug. 25.

"The pleasant, non-threatening, and productive atmosphere at Paducah Community College which allows for an enjoyable learning environment, the well qualified faculty, and the beautiful facilities attracted over 1,000 students from McCracken County in the fall of 1971. It is anticipated that the college will receive a continued increase in enrollment," Dr. Donald J. Clemens, director of the school said, concerning the fall registration.

The regular enrollment at PCC will be supplemented this fall by students in several special areas. Included will be courses in law enforcement and fire science technology, and courses under the Community Service Program ranging from retirement planning to creative crafts.

The Community Service courses are non-credit courses open to anyone in the community. A high school diploma and entrance examinations are not necessary for these program courses.

PCC also will offer graduate courses this fall through the University of Kentucky and Murray State University extension services.

School officials said a higher percentage of students at PCC this fall would be enrolled in two-year associate degree programs. The programs are offered in nursing, broadcast technology, secretarialship, and other areas where a two-year degree can be sufficient. According to the officials such courses are becoming increasingly popular because only 28 per cent of the jobs in the country require a baccalaureate degree, but many do require some training in addition to high school.

PCC has received several grants to help finance programs at the school this fall. The school has received its seventh consecutive Title III grant to help finance the Data Processing Program and subsidize the developmental English and Reading Program.

Another grant to the college is for $22,000 from the Nurses Training Act of 1971. The funds will be used to hire another nursing faculty member and to improve instruction and counseling services.

Two new faculty members will be added at PCC for the fall term. Jeannine Connole, an instructor for nine years at the Illinois Masonic Hospital School of Nursing in Chicago will become a nursing instructor. Ronald Kauffman, who received a masters degree from Southern Methodist University will teach music.

Two counselors, Dennis Griffith and Malcolm Wilson, both of Paducah, have been added to the PCC staff.

The "Focus" fine arts presentations will continue at PCC in the fall. Programs already contracted for will include a Back-to-School rock concert set for Sept. 5; a harpsichord concert by James Bonn; piano concert by Lee Luvisi; a choral clinic; a piano clinic; the Sean O'Casey drama "I Knock At The Door" and "An Evening of American Poetry" by the Adventure Theatre of Louisville. Art exhibits, changed each month, will be on display throughout the school year in Rosenthal Hall.

Registration for the fall term will be Aug. 28 for evening courses, and Aug. 28, (letters A through L) and Aug. 29 (letters M through Z) for all other students not pre-registered.

Orientation for freshman and new students will be at 9 a.m. Aug. 25. Evening classes will begin on Aug. 28, and day classes on Aug. 30. The last day to register for any class will be Sept. 6.

Fulton City Schools On Tight Budget

FULTON, Ky. — Fulton City Schools will be operating, like a number of other school systems, on a "tight budget" but schools are not overcrowded, according to Supt. Charles Thomas.

Perhaps due to the lack of overcrowded schools, Thomas said, the faculty was cut 1.5 this year over last year.

This year, Thomas said, Fulton High School will be starting its first year in the Phase English program.

Thomas explained that this English program allows students in grades nine through 12 to work in areas of interest such as poetry, short story, novel, creative writing for about nine weeks and then move on into other English areas of study.

He said this innovative English program allows for more "individual" work on the part of the student rather than all students following the same prescribed curriculum.

An enrollment of 650 is anticipated this year, Thomas said. Last year, 633 students were enrolled, he said.

Thomas issued this 1972-73 school calendar:

Aug. 8 — new students register.

Aug. 25 — teacher in-service day.

Aug. 28 — Students report for classes.

Oct. 13 — First District Education Association meeting — schools dismissed.

Nov. 23-24 — Thanksgiving vacation.

Dec. 20-Jan. 1, 1973 — Christmas vacation.

Jan. 12, 1973 — Teacher in-service day.

March 16, 1973 — Schools dismissed for state high school basketball tournament.

April 9-13, 1973 — Kentucky Education Association meeting — schools dismissed.

May 28, 1973 — Teacher's professional day.

May 29, 1973 — Last day of school.

100 Firms Make Radioisotopes

WASHINGTON — Since the government made the first commercial shipment of radioisotopes 25 years ago, private industry has established more than 100 firms to produce and process these unique forms of energy. The Atomic Energy Commission still distributes about 50 kinds of radioisotopes.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Turned On" Wedding

"I do," solemnly spoken by bride and groom, is usually enough to make a legally valid marriage. But suppose one or both of the parties is "turned on," either by drugs or by alcohol. This may create a situation once described as follows by Euripides: "The tongue hath sworn, but the mind is unsworn."

Marriage is a contract—a special kind, to be sure, but a contract nonetheless. The key to a contract is mutual assent, a meeting of the minds. And a mind not competent to assent is not competent to make a contract, no matter what the tongue says.

How clear must the mind be? The law's test is whether the person is able to understand the nature of a marriage contract at the moment he says "I do." If he is not, the marriage may be annulled.

But intoxication short of that will usually be overlooked. Since the law gives matrimony the benefit of the doubt, courts generally will not grant an annulment merely because the bride or the groom was a little high.

Furthermore, even if one of the parties was indeed "out of it" at the time of the wedding, the marriage may become valid because of what happens afterward. Take this case:

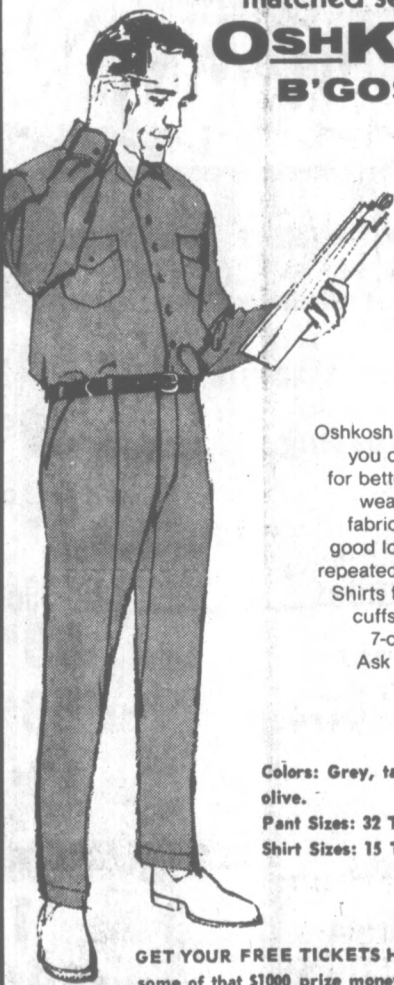

A man married a girl he scarcely knew, as the climax of a protracted drinking party. Seeking an annulment later, he pleaded in court that he had been in an alcoholic stupor at the time of the wedding.

But the girl pointed out that he had continued to cohabit with her for several days after he had sobered up. Result: annulment denied: because the marriage had been "ratified" by subsequent events.

What if one of the parties, although in good shape at the wedding itself, had concealed the fact that he was an alcoholic or a dope addict? Under these circumstances, most courts will grant an annulment to the spouse who has been deceived.

Thus, a bride won an annulment when she discovered after the nuptials that her bridegroom was a heroin addict. The court said this was the kind of vital information that, in all fairness, any bride had a right to know.

Award recipients were: 30 years- Jack Crider, McCracken County; Herman J. Joiner, Trigg County; William W. Shelby, Graves County; and John E. Wall, Lyon County.

Mr. DeLime Retires At Refuge

John DeLime, a man who once earned his living as a commercial fisherman and hunter, retired earlier this week as the Reelfoot National Wildlife Refuge manager, a position he had held since July 1961.

Actually, Mr. DeLime was to have retired later this month but took some of his annual leave and sort of slipped away a little earlier. He now makes his home in Murray, Ky.

As an ardent collector of Indian artifacts, Mr. DeLime knows he'll have plenty to occupy his time and says, if his collecting, trading and selling gets a little slow, he can always hunt and fish.

Mr. DeLime is helping the Obion County Museum set up a display of Indian artifacts which will be ready by the time the Obion County Fair rolls around.

Born in Louisville, Ky., son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Adolph J. DeLime, he attended Emmanuel Missionary College in Berrien Springs, Mich.

Leaving college in 1928 he held a number of jobs. "I even dug ginseng for awhile," he said.

He joined the Department of Fish and Wildlife Resources in Kentucky and began the deer and wild turkey restocking program in the Land Between the Lakes area in 1946.

In 1951, he went with the U.S. Bureau of Sport Fisheries and Wildlife as a maintenance supervisor at the St. Mark's Refuge in Florida. In 1953 he became refuge manager of the Presquille Refuge on the James River in Virginia and five years later was transferred to the Delta Refuge in Louisiana. Looking back, Mr. DeLime said his home was so far in the wilderness at Delta Refuge that he had to travel the final nine miles to his home by boat.

His next stop was Reelfoot. Mr. DeLime is married to the former Mary Agnes Ott of Louisville.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Fat Bus

Harvey never knew what hit him until they told him about it afterward in the hospital.

He had been standing on a sidewalk near the curb, gazing to the north, when a bus approaching from the south moved in for a stop. The front corner of the bus, which overhung the curb, struck him a glancing blow on the forehead.

Under these circumstances, was Harvey entitled to collect damages from the bus company? In a court test, the company said no.
The driver had a right, argued the company, to drive as close to the curb as his wheels would allow.

But Harvey won a substantial judgment. The court said the driver should have realized that, since a bus is fatter than its wheels, it can extend over the curb and smite an unsuspecting pedestrian standing on the sidewalk.

In the eyes of the law, a sidewalk is a safety zone in which the pedestrian reigns supreme. As the court put it:
"A pedestrian is entitled to assume there is no danger from traffic as long as he remains on the sidewalk."

Would it matter if the pedestrian had actually seen the bus coming toward him? That should make a difference, claimed the bus company in another injury case, because it would have been so easy for him to take one step backward—to be safe.

But again the court ruled in the pedestrian's favor. The court said he simply had no reason to expect that the bus would intrude where it had no business intruding.
Still, there is always the possibility that at the very moment of impact, the pedestrian may have been leaning over the curb into the street.

One woman was struck by a bus while she was standing on the sidewalk between a fire hydrant and an electric light pole. Yet, even though both the hydrant and the pole were at the very edge of the curb, neither of these objects was even scratched.

Applying common sense, the court concluded that the woman herself must have been at fault.
The judge said that, at least for a brief instant and a brief distance, she must have leaned out of her safety zone on the sidewalk, into the danger zone on the street.

quired free of charge by pre-
