Kentucky Windage

(By P. W.)

If the results of the hearing and vote by the Fulton Planning Commission last Monday night were greatly disappointing to me, there's no use carrying the matter any further. The News tried to present the case from the viewpoint of a business firm seeking to improve the community business climate, that's all. We have done the same thing ever since we have been members of this community seeking to help better its lot.

Since neither Fulton nor South Fulton are county seats, and since we have strong and vigorous county seat towns to the north and south of us who naturally work very hard for their own personal interests, our twin communities have to fight hard for whatever little straws they can get to maintain ourselves as trade centers.

I know the whole E. W. James family and they are fine people, and the location of their store here was a big boost in the overall attractiveness of the community. Their firm increased the competition in the grocery field to the point that all consumers benefited; they spend thousands of dollars every year circulating their advertising to the far points of the twin cities shopping area, inducing food customers to come here to shop. As a matter of fact it was the insistence of Billy Joe James for intense area-wide circulation each week that caused us to begin publication of the Fulton Shopper at the time the South Fulton store opened in June 1965.

As a businessman, I felt that the matter went further than just a simple rezoning question; I still maintain that intelligent business planners would not only allow, but encourage a good commercial corridor along West Stateline. In this respect, neighbors in non-competitive fields help each other out; if one can cause a shopper to stop and buy something, the rest of them in the immediate area also have a good chance to sell the shop-

JOTTINGS from Jo's Notebook

Some Forethoughts

Before you read this column this week I'd like to start off with asking the topmost questions on my mind. First, where is the money coming from to build the proposed new Fulton City Hall? I'm sure I haven't seen it published very plainly, and if it has, I may have missed it.

How about a letter on the matter City Manager David Peace and Mayor Nelson Tripp? Also, how much will the new city hall cost, how much will it cost to buy the property, and in general just what is the price tag?

A letter to this paper will be published if it is sent.

From The County Court

The work being done by private citizens to improve and develop the Fulton Airport is almost unbelievable. On good authority I learn that the Federal government and the State of Kentucky have committed funds to increase the run-way about 1500 feet to make it one of the nicest, most modern little airports around here.

What's wrong with County Judge Buck Menees allocating about $35,000 over the next five years to match the state and Federal money? There's nothing wrong with it, for whatever is good for industrial development in the cities the judge presides over, is also good for the county.

The judge was quoted as saying he was somewhat confused about the amount of money he will receive, and perhaps so, if he measures it to the penny. But over five years I'd say he's going to get about $500,000.00, give or take a few thousand dollars more, or less.

As a member of the Airport Board I think it's about time the county give some help to the airport development. I've always thought it was more than silly for the City of Fulton and private individuals to support this facility when it serves the entire county and very well too!

With the help of Thelma Stovall and John Swinford, as well as Governor Ford and state Democratic Party Chairman J. R. Miller, I am confident that the McGovern/Shriver campaign in Kentucky will have the support of all Democrats and that we will see a Democratic sweep there in November."

VISITING

Saim Basham has returned after a week's visit with his son in Columbus, Ohio.

The Fulton Planning Commission Monday night declined to rezone certain lots on McDade Street to a "Neighborhood Business" category, voting unanimously to leave the area zoned R-2, "Residential".

The property in question is located in West Fulton a half-block north of West State Line, and is owned by Max McDade. McDade sought to have the property rezoned in order to provide a parking lot for a planned expansion of the E. W. James Supermarket, which, had the rezoning been approved, would have moved across the street to the Kentucky side about the first of the year. Adjacent property facing State Line is already zoned for neighborhood business and being used for that purpose.

The decision of the Planning Commission has thus killed the proposed move, and spokesmen for the Supermarket indicate that the store, finding its Tennessee position untenable, will be leaving the community in the near future.

A public hearing on the re-use its growth as such. Commissioning question was held at the mented Miller, "the community Fulton City Hall prior to the seems to be full of people who Commission's private meeting say they are all for the commercial growth of the town, to vote on the matter. The decision of the Planning Commission can be appealed rezoning would violate the con- to the Fulton City Commission fidence that these owners had for a review and final verdict in the zoning ordinance and in if the McDade interests wish the deeds originally conveyed them to do so, but as this issue by Maxwell McDade which spent to press there was no cified that the property was to indication that such an appeal remain residential, and (2) the was going to be made. Members of the Fulton Planning Commission, all of whom were present for Monday's hearing and voting, included Dade and his sister Ann McDade, pointed out that West State Line Street is already a commercial corridor and should be permitted to continue.

Fine Gathering Joins In Meet Of Witnesses

Jehovah's Witnesses climaxed their two-day assembly at the South Fulton High School Sunday with 971 at the afternoon session, according to Raymond Clark, presiding minister of the Fulton-South Fulton congregation.

The main discourse was given by H. C. Brewer, assembly chairman and supervisor of 440 congregations of Jehovah's Witnesses. His lecture was entitled, "Is This Life All There Is?"

"Our life today can be especially meaningful, for we live at a time when persons can escape ever dying," Brewer stated. He continued, "One can enter right into endless life. Witnesses have repeatedly shown from the Bible that we are in the conclusion of this system of things. God will soon wipe out wickedness and allow righteous ones to enter life. Christian Witnesses of Jehovah know that life has real purpose. They know this life is not all there is; they live with confidence in the new order."

Clark announced that, following the Sunday morning discourse "Dedication," 26 were baptized and ordained as ministers.

City National Bank Celebrating Its 75th Anniversary

The City National Bank of Fulton is observing its 75th year in business this week amid gay decorations, employees dressed in turn-of-the-century costumes and free souvenirs to all visitors.

A landmark on Lake Street for well over half a century, the institution is the oldest bank in the community. As the only bank in Fulton to survive the great Depression of the 1930's for many years thereafter it adopted as its motto "That Strong Bank."

The following account covers the history of the personnel associated with the Bank throughout its years, as well as its financial growth:

On October 2, 1897 the Citizens Bank of Fulton, Kentucky, a forerunner of the City National Bank, opened its doors for business with Smith Fields as the first President of the bank and C. E. Rice as Cashier and Manager of the bank. Another young man was employed who was seventeen years of age--N. G. Cooke who was destined to be connected with the bank for the next seventy-one years.

The original directors were Joe Browder, W. W. Brady, Lewis Browder, M. L. Farmer, Smith Fields, Lewis Fields, J. R. Smith, W. H. Powers, W. A. Terry, J. W. Thomas and Dr. George F. Weeks. The first statement published on April 2, 1898 shows total assets of $87,654.16 with capital stock and undivided profits of $26,264.67 and deposits of $61,389.49.

The bank prospered from the very beginning and continued to grow as a state bank until March 15, 1902 at which time a national charter was issued and the name of the bank changed to the City National Bank. The bank had done so well that its capital stock was increased to $75,000.00. It continued to flourish and in 1908 again increased its stock to $80,000.00 in order to purchase the handsome building in which the bank now has its home.

Prior to this time the bank was located at the corner of Lake and Commercial Street in the building that now houses Warren Jewelry Store. The new building was fitted up with elegant fixtures in keeping with the splendored record it had made and at that time was one of the most handsome banks in the state.

In a statement published June 30, 1908 the total assets of the bank had risen to $334,313.18 with capital stock, surplus and undivided profits in excess of $100,000.00.

Smith Fields, the first president of the bank, passed away in 1908 and W. W. Morris was elected to the presidency. W. C. Croft was Vice President, C. E. Rice, Cashier and N. G. Cooke, Assistant Cashier. The directors in 1908 were listed as Joe Browder, Lewis Browder, J. C. Brann, W. W. Brady, J. C. Cheek, W. C. Croft, Lewis Fields, W. W. Morris, N. B. Morris, C. E. Rice, J. W. Thomas, W. A. Terry and Dr. George F. Weeks.

In 1912 two new directors were elected to the bank--W. P. Felts and T. N. Fields. The bank suffered a tragic loss in December of 1916 when C. E. Rice, Cashier and Manager of the bank since its inception, was killed when hit by a streetcar while he was visiting his daughter in Washington, D.C. In January of 1917 two new directors were added to the bank--N. G. Cooke and Enoch Browder. Mr. Cooke along with being named a Director of the bank was made Cashier of the bank.

In May of 1919 Clyde P. Williams was elected as Assistant Cashier of the bank. Mr. Williams had been employed by the bank in 1912 prior to entering the Army during World War I where he served and upon his return was employed by the bank. In 1920 Mr. Williams was elected Cashier of the bank and N. G. Cooke became active Vice President. W. W. Morris still served as President and W. C. Croft as Vice President.

Also in 1920 two new directors were added to the bank, Edwin C. Rice and Sam P. Butler. The total assets of the bank had grown to $794,338.97 with capital accounts having grown to $143,500.00. In 1921 two more Directors were added to the bank--W. P. Murrell and E. F. Karmire and in 1922 L. F. Burke was added to the Board of Directors. On January 10, 1928 Clyde P. Williams was added to the Board of Directors. At this time the bank had total assets of $1,012,141.55 with total capital accounts in excess of $160,000.00.

During the next few years under the excellent leadership of N. G. Cooke and Clyde P. Williams as active managers of the affairs of the bank and with the support of excellent leadership from W. W. Morris as President and W. A. Terry as Vice President and the fine Board of Directors, the City National Bank weathered the storm that caused many banks in the area to close and not reopen.

A newspaper article from Fulton newspaper dated November 28, 1930 describes the situation with the headlines CITY NATIONAL BANK FLOODED WITH MONEY. City National Bank was the only bank in Fulton and one of the very few in the area to survive during the great depression.

Another officer of the bank during this crucial period was Bertie J. Pigue who had been hired by the bank in 1918 and had been made Assistant Cashier in 1925. In 1934 two new directors were added to the bank--J. D. Davis and L. H. Weeks, both of whom still serve as Directors of the City National Bank today.

In 1937 Leon E. Browder was added to the Board of Directors.

cost of living and the growing tax load the "little man" is paying sometimes gets kicked in the teeth, or the seat of the pants.

They deserve such abuse because people find it easier to complain than to do something about what they are complaining about.

This week's case in point is the almost unbelievable amount of money that will be coming into Fulton County within the next few weeks, the next few months, and the next few years under a new-fangled plan called "revenue-sharing."

Some of the revenue-sharing will be coming from the Federal government almost immediately, and continue upwards for the next five years. The other revenue-sharing will come from the State of Kentucky from the two cents added to the gasoline tax.

Fulton will get $11,949.00 for the next five years; Hickman will get $19,893 for the next five years, and Fulton County Fiscal Court will get another $84,663 for the next five years, and according to the Federal revenue-sharing law the sums will graduate upwards each year.

Where's It Going?

How many people know or care what this money is going to be spent for?

As a reporter I have a fairly good idea what the municipalities will do with their money, because it is my obligation to be there and listen to their plans. But how many other people know or care what will happen to this money?

Certainly, I hope it will be spent wisely, but don't you think that both cities, and the Fiscal Court ought to appoint a citizen's advisory committee to keep them advised of what will happen to these monies?

With elected officials constantly wailing that tax revenues are too low; that there's not enough money to go around for streets and sewers, and playgrounds, and aid to the poor, don't you think that public officials owe their constituents the courtesy to have open meetings to ask how it should be spent and where the greatest needs are?

Simply because people are elected to office does not give them a sixth sense of fiscal judgment to spend our hard-earned tax dollars in the sanctum sanctorum of their private sessions. Of course, the records of public officials are open records, but who among you have the curiosity to ask, "where is this new money going, and how will it help make better communities and give better public services?"

The Building Craze

And for the likes of me I cannot understand why, with a lot of new money floating around, public officials invariably get on this "new building kick."

Take a look at the colleges and universities around us. The tax dollar for schools and institutions of higher learning is getting fatter, and fatter and fatter. And what happens... new buildings, plush dormitories, elegant fine arts buildings, stadiums, student centers.

Sometimes I wonder how those of us who make a living these days, who learned how to read and write when classrooms were built for learning, ever get around in this world without having had solariums, air-conditioned classrooms, carpets on the class-room floors, and luxury services everywhere.

Well, so be it. It happens, and will go on happening, but what concerns me at this very moment is what will be done with the new, entirely new, refreshingly new money that will come right into the hot little hands of our elected officials.

I want to know! You ought to know, and I think it is imperative that our city and county officials give us an accounting of how it will be spent and I'll be happy to give it the maximum exposure in our newspapers.

Ask your elected official next time you see him to tell you what gives with our tax money, and it is our tax money, coming at least from the Federal government, who aren't the last of the big spenders.

Do You Remember This?

From Our Picture Album

THIS PEACEFUL LOOKING SCENE, taken at the Illinois Central depot in Fulton, recalls the now-departed Express office at the left, while the station, still standing and used today, apparently has not changed at all. The News wonders if anyone can place an approximate date this picture was taken (it is over 25 years old at a minimum). Clues would be the water pipe in front of the station, which hasn't been there for many years; the absence of a wood platform between the tracks, no wood awning over the front of the station, and probably a lot of other items that railroaders will recognize but we don't! Let us hear from you.

FULTON'S

Library Corner

BY LUCY DANIEL

New books at Fulton Public Library this week:

FAMOUS KENTUCKY TRIALS AND TRAGEDIES, BY L. F. Johnson. This book on the trials and tragedies of the 1800's was originally published in 1916 and was prepared from Johnson's close study of court records and reports of the Court of Appeals. Speaking of the tragedies in his preface, Johnson noted, "some of us have participated in them and have been a part of them and we know by observation, and by some actual experience, the motives, the impulses and the interest which cause men to act."

THE MIRACLE AT ST. BRUNO'S, by Philippa Carr. "I was born in September of 1523, nine months after the monks had discovered the child in the crib on that Christmas morning. My birth was, my father used to say, another miracle: He was not young at the time being forty years of age... My mother, whose great pleasure was tending her gardens, called me Damask, after the rose which Dr. Linacre, the King's physician, had brought into England that year." Thus begins the story narrated by Damask Farland, daughter of a well-to-do lawyer whose considerable lands adjoin those of St. Bruno's Abbey.

BLANDA: ALIVE AND KICKING, by Wells Twombly. At an age when most football players have long retired to more sedentary pursuits, George Blanda, stunned the football world and the rest of the country with a series of incredible, "come-from-behind" miracles that made every middle-aged man in America proud to be past 40. Here is the story of professional football's all-time high scorer who, like a good brandy, improves with age.

BANK SHOT, by Donald E. Westlake. The plan is to rob a suburban bank whose temporary headquarters are located in a mobile trailer home. Each Thursday, when the stores are open late, the cash is left in the bank overnight. So the easiest way to get the money is—to simply back up a truck, hook it onto the mobile home, and steal the bank. What follows in this delightful adventure is an unequalled mixture of laughter and thrills.

THE ATHELSONS, by Jocelyn Kettle. According to village legend, the House Of Athel had been founded by a Viking chieftain who had come to plunder the land and stayed on to love it. For nearly a thousand years the Atheltons have owned the estate of Clere Athel, on a remote stretch of the north coast of England, and administered it according to patriarchal custom. To this ancestral home come fifteen-year-old Justine Athelton and her widowed mother, in search of a dowry for her daughter. The seasons turn, replenishing the fields of Athel, and Justine and young Athel begin to develop a relationship for each other that is far from cousinly.

BEYOND DARK HILLS, by Jesse Stuart. Forty years ago a young man from Kentucky gathered up $130, his Oliver typewriter, a trunk short on clothes and long on manuscript pages, and headed for Vanderbilt University in Nashville, Tennessee, to see whether he could get a master's degree. He was essentially a farmer and liked what he had heard about a group of writers at the University who were interested in the land instead of the growing industrialization of the South. The young man was Jesse Stuart. This book was written at Vanderbilt as a paper for his English professor.

INCIDENT AT VILLA RAHMANA, by Anne Elliot. Against a splendidly exotic background in modern Morocco, this new suspense novel presents Kate Haskell Margaret Coffman; Secretary, Ray Ferguson; Treasurer, Allen Ferguson.

Mr. and Mrs. Billy Green, Route 3, Martin, are the proud parents of a 7 pound and 9 1/2 ounce son, Billy Mac, born September 19, 1952, at the Jones Hospital.

Pvt. and Mrs. Charles Morris, Water Valley are the proud parents of a 7 pound and 6 ounce baby girl, born Sunday, September 21, 1952 at the Weakley County Hospital.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Treas, Fulton, are the proud parents of a 6 pound and 3 ounce baby girl, Karen Lynn, born Monday, September 22, 1952 at the Jones Hospital.

per something too... that is the basis for the organization of all suburban shopping centers. I firmly believe that had E. W. James been permitted to move across the street, any potential for a suburban shopping center on the Kentucky side would have been forestalled for many years and the overall commercial magnetism of downtown Fulton would have been preserved.

As matters apparently stand now, the field is going to be wide open for future development of a suburban shopping center somewhere on the outskirts of Fulton that will contain a new supermarket as its core; and this will mean also another druggist, another major clothing store and allied lesser stores.

That's just fine if we are growing, but unfortunately we do not seem to be; in fifty years, if I'm not mistaken, the population of Fulton has grown less than a thousand. So if we are not growing, anything new will be taking it away from anything old instead of sharing. Professional planners know these things; I am wondering if the non-professionals on the Fulton Planning Commission considered them at all.

I would like to make a couple of final points about the Monday night hearing. A published report Tuesday quoted Fred Jolley as stating that E. W. James chose a Tennessee location and should have come to Kentucky in the first place. The quotation was actually from remarks made by Mayor Nelson Tripp at the hearing, but that's not what's interesting. The fact is that E. W. James DID choose a Kentucky location in the first place: the location behind the present Texaco station, and Nelson Tripp, who was a member of the planning and zoning commission at that time, endorsed this location and was instrumental in getting it zoned for this commercial purpose! But, alas, the rezoning request was turned down by the City Commissioners. That was early 1965.

So E. W. James abandoned their Kentucky site and instead, went to the Tennessee location across the street

And, finally, not a single purchaser of property in the entire old Carr Park area was EVER given assurance that property anywhere around him retained by the McDade family would not be converted into commercial property. This, despite repeated accusations from the property owners that their deed says so!

The deeds conveyed to the property owners very specifically state that THEY could NOT convert their property to commercial use; they state NOTHING about what the unsold McDade land could be used for. Unfortunately, this was the strongest leg that the residential property owners chose to stand on, and it was, in polite language, a falsehood.

We certainly are not opposed to suburban shopping centers nor will we be unhappy if Fulton eventually gets one, which it probably will. South Fulton has a good one, and it is doing well. Fifteen years ago this South Fulton shopping area was a bunch of vacant fields; everything down there would most likely have located in the old downtown area IF there was room to park, room to expand, room to move around. There wasn't any room and there wasn't any intelligent effort made to get any.

A sad note from old friend Cliff Massoth at the ICRR in Chicago announces this week that the Illinois Central Magazine, once a favorite standby bit of reading in this office, is no more. With the consolidation of the IC and The GM&O, the new title is now the Illinois Central Gulf News; and while it may be a good magazine, I will miss the friendly old one, no end.

Got an invitation from the Kentucky Restaurant Association to attend a dinner in Louisville November 9th honoring "Kentucky's all-time outstanding Restaurateur" Col. Sanders, and all the Big Chickens will be there.

McGovern, Democrats Endorsed By Former Wallace Activist

Lifelong Democrat and former activist for Alabama Governor George C. Wallace, Ervin Coleman of Russellville, Kentucky, has issued an appeal to Kentucky Democrats to reunite for Presidential Candidate George McGovern.

Mr. Coleman signalled his support for the 1972 Democratic Ticket in recent letters to Secretary of State Thelma Stovall and two Louisville newspapers (The Courier-Journal and Louisville Times).

With ringing sincerity Mr. Coleman writes: "I ask my friends to join me in electing George McGovern and the straight Democratic ticket, win in November."

With conditions at home and abroad so serious, and as a lifelong Democrat who has lost a son in Vietnam (with 20 years military service) and another son in World War II, I feel life as a father of two sons lost in war. It is time to speak up in this campaign. With no malice or hatred toward anyone in the Administration, I wish to support the Democratic ticket."

Secretary of State Stovall has responded to Mr. Coleman's letter, saying: "I am confident Coleman has that with the active participation of good citizens such as you throughout Kentucky, we can straight Democratic ticket, win in November."

Art Guild Sidewalk Show To Be Oct. 8

Sunday, Oct. 8, has been set as the date for the annual Sidewalk Art Exhibit sponsored by the Paducah Art Guild at the riverfront on Broadway.

This annual event, which attracts artists from a 150 mile radius in Kentucky, Tennessee, Missouri and Illinois, has become one of the most popular attractions of the autumn season.

To participate in this unjuried show, it is not necessary to be a member of the Guild. All artists of the area are invited to take part. Work may be hung on the metal fence at First and Broadway on a first come first served basis. Artists are responsible for putting up and taking down their own work. The Paducah Art Guild assumes no responsibility for the work.

The only requirement, according to Guild President Nancy Bottoms, is that "all work must be original. No copies may be hung. This restriction includes copies of paintings by photo-mechanical reproduction processes, which in recent years have erroneously gained widespread circulation as 'prints'." Only bonafide prints, woodcuts, etchings, lithographs, et cetera, made from the artist's own plates will be hung as original work.

Craftsmen are also invited to bring their work, including tables for its display. An increasing number of artists have been showing crafts in recent years and this adds to the interest of the show.

The hours will be from 1 p.m. until sundown. In case of rain the exhibit will be postponed until the following Sunday, Oct. 15.

Ann Landers

— Your Problems Bring Answers —

Dear Ann Landers: My four-year-old sister loves your column. No, she doesn't read it. She eats it. And this is what I am writing about. The little rascal devours not only chunks of newspaper, but dirt from the houseplants, art-gum erasers, and table decorations.

My grandmother says to leave her alone--that this means her body needs certain elements she is not getting in her diet and it is nature's way of providing nutritional balance. My mother doesn't agree with her and our pediatrician is out of town. What about this? Is it harmful or beneficial?--Concerned Sis

Dear Sis: Young children should not be permitted to eat things they happen to find lying around. In fact, they should be taught at an early age to keep foreign objects and articles out of their mouths. "The body needs it" theory is an old wives tale and has no scientific validity. Thousands of children die every year because they ate toxic substances such as chips of paint, detergents and a whole host of household items that should have been kept under lock-and-key or out-of-reach. I am glad your little sister loves my column but please keep it away from her until she can read it. It's not for eating.

Dear Ann Landers: Our daughter moved to California two years ago to teach in an elementary school. She taught here in Connecticut for three years and her students really loved her.

My husband and our young son visited Renee in California last year and we want to do so again this Fall. But I just learned that Renee has a new roommate--a young man. I feel it would not be the proper environment for her 12 year old brother. Furthermore, if my husband knew about this living arrangement he'd be very upset. When I phoned Renee to tell her about my misgivings, she said it was nobody's business who she lives with but she would ask her boyfriend to move out while we were in town if it would upset her father. Last year her little brother stayed on with Renee a week after my husband and I returned home. I'm sure he'd want to do so again but I'm afraid Renee's boyfriend might move back with her. I'd hate for our son to see such goings-on.

Renee is 26 and a nice girl, but the new morality is something I'm not ready for. Please tell me what I should do in regard to our upcoming plans.--Old Fashioned Me

Dear O. F.: Let Renee know that you, your husband and son will be coming to visit and that you appreciate her asking the boyfriend to live elsewhere during your visit. Tell her it would be nice if her young brother could stay on for an additional week, but you would not agree to it unless the boyfriend remains elsewhere. Ask her to let you know her decision.

Dear Ann Landers: See what you can do to change the old, tiresome practice of printing only the bride-to-be's picture in the paper. So often when the engaged girl's picture appears, the question that pops into my mind is, "Who'd marry HER?" Or, if she's very pretty "I wonder what the guy looks like."

It would be interesting if the papers would run a picture of the engaged girl and her fiancé, or just him. How about sponsoring a crusade?--New Faces

Dear New: I'm a little long on crusades right now but your suggestion makes sense. You might find the guys a bit reluctant, but maybe if their girls asked them to, they'd go along.

Is alcoholism ruining your life? Know the danger signals and what to do. Read the booklet, "Alcoholism--Hope and Help," by Ann Landers. Enclose 35¢ in coin with your request and a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope to this newspaper.

She worked and toiled to send them to school But hardest of all to teach them the golden rule.

She worked for them from morn 'til night, Then kept working by an old oil light.

Now she is there in the old house alone The children all away living in their new home.

She goes out to the old mail box, Gets a letter from one of her flock. Then she is not worried at all For they promise to see her before fall.

Two Killed When Cattle Truck, Auto Collide Near South Fulton

Two persons were killed near South Fulton at 11 p.m. Saturday when a car collided head-on with a tractor-trailer truck.

Killed were Brenda Bobo of Cunningham, Ky., and Harry Jones, Jr., 37, Oakton, Ky. Both were dead on arrival at Obion County General Hospital.

The two were passengers in the car, which crossed the center line and struck the truck, according to Tennessee State Patrol Trooper W. C. Tate. The driver of the truck, Willard L. Cooper, 25, Dyer Rd. 1, was not injured.

Tate said he was unable to determine which of the occupants of the car was driving at the time of the accident. The accident occurred about one-eighth of a mile south of the South Fulton city limits on U.S. 51. When the accident occurred the trailer truck was loaded with 70 cattle. They escaped, and slowed traffic in the area for hours. One minor accident occurred about three hours after the cattle escaped when a car struck one of them. The car was slightly damaged, but there were no injuries.

Funeral services for Mrs. Bobo were conducted Tuesday in Bardwell.

Survivors include her husband, Eugene Bobo of Cunningham; three daughters, Donna Jean, Bobbie Dean and Samantha Diane Bobo, and a son, Darren

Bobo, all of the home. Funeral services for Jones were conducted Tuesday in Clinton.

Jones is survived by his father, Hannon Jones; a son, Bruce Jones of Bakersfield, Calif.; and a daughter, Valerie Jones.

TOUCHDOWN

TOUCHDOWN . . . we all know the thrill that lifts us to our feet when OUR team scores. We cheer, we sing and shout.

It takes teamwork to put a man over that goal line. The whole team must work together to move that ball down the field . . . "the right way." The guards and tackles must hold the line. The ends must be "on target" to receive passes. The quarterback must know his plays and execute them with speed and skill.

Likewise, in the game of life we need wisdom and strength beyond our individual endeavor. It is essential to receive inspiration and help in order to achieve successfully our goals in life. Your church can provide that faith which leads to everlasting victory.

Oil Makes News In Kentucky

Take a good look at the newspaper you're holding. Without oil, it might not be there.

From the film in the press camera to the rollers in the presses—today's newspapers depend on products that come from oil. Even the ink comes from oil.

To get a newspaper out takes a lot of energy too. And 75% of all our energy comes from oil and natural gas (including 40% of our electricity). But today, we're using these petroleum fuels faster than we are finding them. That's why America faces an Energy Gap.

We're your local oil companies. Working to bridge the growing Energy Gap. Because it shouldn't be news to anyone that a country that runs on oil can't afford to run short.

City National

In 1938 W. W. Morris resigned as President of City National Bank after having served in this capacity for thirty years. He remained as a member of the Board of Directors and N. G. Cooke was elected President and Clyde P. Williams as Executive Vice President and Cashier.

A statement dated in 1939 shows total assets of $1,287,300.25. By December 31, 1942 the bank had continued to grow and had total assets of $2,402,613.66. In 1948 the City National Bank lost a valuable Director who had served since 1897 and had served as Vice President since 1926 when W. A. Terry passed away after having served as Director of City National Bank for fifty-one years. A statement dated December 31, 1948 shows the total assets of the bank had climbed to $4,882,000.00.

Joe Browder was elected Vice President in 1948 and served

In this capacity until his death in 1951 and at this time the City National Bank lost another great man who had served well as a Director for fifty-four years. Also in 1951 John Daniel was elected an officer of City National Bank as Assistant Cashier. John had been employed by the bank in 1933.

In 1955 Parks Weeks and Clyde P. Williams, Jr. were elected to the Board of Directors and in 1958 Parks Weeks was elected as Vice President of the bank. In April of 1959 James W. White was elected as a Director, Executive Vice President and Cashier of City National Bank, and at that time Clyde P. Williams was serving as President and N. G. Cooke as Chairman of the Board. Mr. White served until the spring of 1962 when he resigned to accept a position with another bank. In 1959 it was decided to completely remodel the interior and exterior of City National Bank and in December of 1960 the remodeling job having been completed, the bank moved back into its beautiful new quarters. The colonial architecture used in the remodeling both of the exterior and interior of the bank have made it one of the prettiest banks in the state.

In January of 1961 Bonnie K. Asbell was made an officer of the bank and has served as Assistant Cashier since that time. Bonnie had been employed in 1948 and her friendly disposition and efficiency have added much to the services rendered by City National Bank. Upon the resignation of Mr. White in the spring of 1962, L. M. McBride joined the City National Bank as Vice President and Cashier.

In May of 1962 the City National Bank suffered a severe loss when Clyde P. Williams died suddenly of a heart attack. Mr. Williams had devoted many years of his life at City National Bank and through his wise counsel and judgement, the bank had weathered many a storm and continued to be a tower of financial strength in the Twin Cities.

In June of 1962 Dr. Ward Bushart and L. M. McBride became members of the Board of Directors of City National Bank and in January of 1963 Arch Huddleston, Jr., became a member of the Board of Directors. In January of 1964 L. M. McBride was elected President of the bank. Bertes J. Pigue was promoted to Vice President of the bank and John Daniel to Cashier of the bank.

On December 31, 1964 the bank showed total assets of $5,307,000.00.

The bank lost another longtime and valuable employee when Bertes J. Pigue passed away in 1966.

In January of 1966 Kenneth E. Crews who had been employed as Manager of the Installment Loan Department in 1962 was elected Vice President of City National Bank. In February of 1968 Dave Galtney was elected a Director of City National Bank.

On April 26, 1968 City National suffered a great loss in the death of N. G. Cooke who had served this bank for seventy-one years starting at the age of seventeen and having filled every office in the bank down through the years and had seen the bank grow from its beginning in 1897 to total assets of

The Bookmobile is also due, this being the first Wednesday of the month. We have really enjoyed the records we checked out from the Bookmobile and we have had pleasant background music during meals.

Since Fall is here, we thought we would take advantage of nature's splendor for our crafts. We are using colorful pressed leaves to Artodge on stationery with quite lovely results, thus far. We have also gathered an ample supply of pine cones for use. Now we have a few cones perched in an old branch, with decorative eyes added—the end result supposed to be owls. Hopefully our owls will turn into turkeys for Thanksgiving when we add a few tail feathers and lots of imagination.

State Health Commissioner Visits Local Health Centers

"I have visited nearly all of the 120 Kentucky counties since I became State Health Commissioner in 1970, this being my second trip to Hickman. In order to gain an unbiased picture of all of Kentucky's health centers, I am aspiring to become familiar with each." These are the words of Kentucky's 39-year-old State Health Commissioner, Dr. William T. McElwain, who spent Tuesday, September 26, visiting Hickman's and Fulton's health centers.

McElwain added that seven deputy commissioners plus himself, all of Frankfort, spent Tuesday visiting eight western Kentucky counties, seeing their progress and their needs. Tuesday night, the eight representatives met for a conference at Kentucky Dam Village.

McElwain, a native of western Kentucky and a graduate of Murray State University, received his medical degree from the University of Louisville and his Master of Public Health Degree from John Hopkins University in Baltimore.

He, his wife and their five children have had several homes in their lifetime, recently moving to Frankfort after a four-year stay in Lexington.

In September of 1970, following the retirement of Dr. Teague as state health commissioner, McElwain was chosen by the Board of Health as Teague's successor. Following two years ment office, division of Indian health, U. S. Public Health Service. He served as director of the local health office before assuming his present title.

McElwain, a young, bright and eager commissioner of health seemed quite anxious to continue his work with the state. His youth and intelligence as well as experience-filled background seem to justify his posi-

Ans: Yes, if you call and tell me you will be here in 5 or 10 minutes no one will come before you and the chair will be open.

Question: May I make an appointment in advance?

Ans: Yes; my appointment book has every day and date of the year in it, and you may have any date you so desire, and the shop will call you to remind you of your appointment. General Motors Bldg. Barber Shop has had this system since 1942 and it is a sound system and has worked well for the General Motors Building Barber Shop. ## Fulton City Falls To Fort Campbell

FULTON, Ky. — Amid bone-chilling rain and biting wind Fort Campbell put together a convincing victory over host Fulton City Friday night. The Bulldogs scored their only tally in the opening stanza when Rusty Stewart hauled in a Ft. Campbell kick-off and picked his way through the mud and rain for a 75-yard touchdown run. The extra point kick failed to reach its mark.

Fulton City now carries a 0-5 record into next Friday's contest with host North Marshall who fell victim to a 47-0 shellacking by high-ranking Trigg County.
