NEWS PRINTS

We're Mighty Sorry Department: Apologies to the Fulton Rotary Club. After the wonderful program they are undertaking to sponsor a Belgian student here, we said in our interview with Antoine Morimont that he was sponsored by the Clinton and Hickman Rotary Clubs. Of course it should have been Clinton and Fulton Clubs and we're sorry.

We apologize to Elbert Johns, as the president of the Lion's Club, in not reporting last week that he was president of the club instead of C. E. Hughes. Bud called us and asked us to make the correction and we're sorry if our error caused either of them embarrassment.

We owe this story to Win Widnell. He was telling of a guard at Sing Sing prison who was once asked who was the toughest prisoner he ever saw electrocuted. The guard told of an arrogant tough guy by the name of Apple, who, on the day of his execution walked out of his cell smoking a big black cigar. He sauntered gayly down Condemned Row and was asked if he had any last words to speak before meeting his death.

"Yes," he said, flicking the ashes from his cigar and giving a condescending look to the crowd, "you are about to see, in a few minutes, A WRINKLED APPLE."

Heard on Lake Street during the excitement of the Elks Club cave-in. "Yes, he knows what he's doing. He's highly educated in his job. He's studying to be an idiot and has three more years before he gets his diploma."

We received a letter from far-off Korea this week, from our old friend and former employee, Robert Jackson, who is in combat there. Robert sent along for a subscription to the News and in a short note attached stated that "it is now after dark, and I am having to write by candle light in a tent. We are now in reserve; we HAVE been on the line and we are going back soon. We have been taking some training; tomorrow we are going out on a field problem and I guess we will be out half the night; we're the last time." Robert says "right now we are in a place called 'Inje'. It used to be a village, but there was a battle here so now there isn't much left. They hold church services in an old movie theatre with the top blown off of it."

Any ex-serviceman will get lots of unpleasant reminiscing from Robert's brief remarks. They hold the old, familiar combat ring: letters by candlelight (everything's blacked-out outside from air attack, just in case electricity should be available, which it probably isn't at all); places that "used to be" towns or villages, that are now wiped off the map, and the exasperating "training" for combat troops the minute they leave the line of combat. The "training" is exasperating for veterans, though probably very necessary for the rookie replacements.

Robert, your mother was in the office here this week; she looks

Democrats Name Women's Director

Miss Pearl Frances Runyon, Kentucky's State treasurer, will direct women's activities in the Democratic state campaign this fall.

Her appointment as chairman of the women's division was announced yesterday by Clyde Watson, Democratic state campaign chairman.

Watson said Miss Runyon would be assisted by Mrs. Elgin Morison, Frankfort, and Mrs. Susan Pollard, Lawrenceburg.

Mrs. Morison was Democratic state women's chairman in the 1950 and 1951 campaigns. Mrs. Pollard has been Democratic national committeewoman since 1948.

Watson also announced that Democratic state campaign headquarters in the Seelbach Hotel would be opened September 9.

Senator Underwood, Democratic nominee for United States Senator, several Democratic nominees for the House, and other party leaders are expected to be present.

While it will be Miss Runyon's first service in a state campaign post, she has been in public life for a long time, first in her native Pike County and later at Frankfort.

In Pike she served as a deputy county clerk and as Pike County campaign chairman for former Governors Keen Johnson and Earle C. Clements.

In 1947 she was named assistant secretary of state. In 1949 she was named State treasurer to fill out the unexpired term of Edward F. Seiler, who resigned to take a federal job. In 1951 she was elected State treasurer for a full four-year term.

Miss Pearl F. Runyon

The Democrats this year will occupy their usual campaign headquarters, seven rooms on the seventh floor of the Seelbach. Until the opening, Watson said yesterday, Democratic state headquarters on the mezzanine at the Seelbach will be used for campaign purposes.

Hay For Livestock Arrives In County

W. H. Harrison, Chairman of Fulton County Agricultural Extension Committee, announced that hay will be made available to farmers to replace hay and pasture lost or damaged by the drought.

The hay, which will be purchased largely in Iowa, Wisconsin and Michigan by PMA committees in those states, will be shipped to Cayce, which has been chosen as the distribution center.

Prices of hay to be supplied under the drought disaster hay program are: $36 per ton for alfalfa or clover hay; $32 per ton for mixed grass and legume hay; and $28 per ton for timothy or other grass hay of recognized feed value. These prices are for hay received at the car at Cayce. Cost of hauling the hay from the rail distribution point will be borne by the farmers. The prices quoted will not be increased even if the purchase price and handling charges should exceed the quotations.

Requests for the hay should be filed in the county PMA office. A deposit of $5 per ton will be collected at the time the hay is ordered and the balance will be collected when the hay is delivered at the rail distribution point.

Farmers who purchase the hay through this program must certify that the hay is needed to feed their own livestock. They must agree not to sell the hay except upon approval of the county PMA committee. Persons will be designated by the county PMA committee to receive, weigh, and distribute the hay to the farmers upon arrival.

Old Kentucky Home Greets Jere Lowe As He Disembarks At Bremmerhaven

Aviation Cadet Jere Lowe, a former Fultonian and student at Fulton High School has written his parents an unusually interesting letter regarding his experience in the Air Force. The son of Mr. and Mrs. Kelly Lowe, who are visiting here, has arrived in Germany and his trip over will be of interest to his friends here.

His letter follows:

Dear Folks:
Arrived here safe and sound yesterday. It was quite a trip. I'll try to give an account (abridged) here.

When I left Fulton, I went to Louisville and from there to Cincinnati, then to Pittsburgh, Pa., there to Philadelphia and from there to New Brunswick, N. J., right outside of Camp Kilmer. I arrived there on Saturday, July 19, my reporting date. On Monday, I was put on a processing train and started the round of "record checking." Incidentally, someone found my pay record in San Francisco, and mailed it on, so it was waiting for me when I got to Kilmer. I had my address on it when I lost it so they just dropped it in the mail box.

On Friday I finished processing and was sent to the "Shipping Area" to await shipment. Sunday, the 27th, they told me I was to sail Monday, the 28th for Europe on the USN's Gen. Stuart Heintzelman.

We went to Jersey City on the train Monday morning and loaded on a ferry boat, which carried us to Staten Island in New York harbor and boarded the ship there. That was at 2:30 p. m. and by 3:00 p. m. the Statue of Liberty was fading into the horizon.

The ship was a troopship, constructed for that purpose, so it was a little more comfortable than a cargo ship, that has been converted into a troop carrier. But it was only slightly more comfortable. The sleeping quarters were very cramped. They consisted of an oblong tubular frame with canvas laced on with rope. They were stacked four high, with 19 inches between them vertically and 24 inches between them horizontally. The food was edible and that's all.

Our first stop was in La Pallice (Pa-lee's) France. The seaport for the city of La Rochelle. The Germans had submarine pens here and so the city and port was pretty well bombed out. It took almost half a day to navigate past the sunken wrecks in the harbor. We stayed there a day and then sailed for Bremerhaven, Germany. We arrived in Bremerhaven yesterday and my group was first off. The band was playing, "My Old Kentucky Home" and "Oklahoma," quite a coincidence. We were put on what looked like a string of dinky little cabooses and brought to the post where I am writing this. The post is former German this honor.

BILLY YATES MEETS SECRETARY OF STATE

Popular Young Man Is Doing Good Job

Billy Yates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Barney Yates of Fulton is something of a hero to his family and friends in Fulton. Stationed in Hawaii he was selected to be on the reception committee of the Navy when Secretary of State Dean Acheson visited that post. Billy's commanding officer was commenting on Billy's ability as a seaman when the Secretary said: "Why not let that boy go along with us."

The request was refused when Billy's commanding officer told of the need for Billy's presence in his own company.

Billy formerly worked with his dad in the meat department of the A and P Store here and all the folks there are beaming with pride for their former co-worker... so are all the folks at the News.

Polio Victim Remains In Critical Condition

Little Mary Jo Moss, recent polio victim, remains in a serious condition in John Gaston Isolation Hospital in Memphis. It is not known just how long she will have to be kept in the iron lung, the cost of which is $125.00 per day.

Mrs. Clara McClendon at Stallings Grocery, Oak Street, in South Fulton will be glad to accept any contribution which will be used to help the parents of this little girl in their time of need.

BACK IN HOME

Mrs. Sam Campbell has moved back into her home that was destroyed by fire in May which was rebuilt by Doran Colley. She says she is very happy and most grateful to everyone who helped her get back home again.

Disaster Loans Now Available In County

Disaster loans are now available through the Farmers Home Administration to Kentucky farmers whose crops and pastures have been seriously damaged by this summer's drought. These loans will be made only to farmers who cannot get needed credit from local banks, PCA's or other established credit sources to buy feed, seed and fertilizer or to meet other farm operating expenses. Applications for disaster loans are handled through the local county offices of the Farmers Home Administration.

Under this program, farmers can obtain loans for the purchase of hay and other feed necessary to carry their livestock through the winter. Loans also will be made to enable farmers to reseed their pastures, where necessary because of drought, and to buy the seed and fertilizer required for fall and winter grazing crops or to plant fall grain. With such help available, most farmers should be able to save their basic herds, and thus be in shape to make a quick recovery from this year's drought. This is one of the aims of the government's emergency credit program. It would take most farmers several years to rebuild their herds to the present level if they sell off too sharply now because of the temporary feed shortage.

Disaster loan assistance also will be available to eligible Kentucky farmers to cover 1953 farm operating expenses. A farmer may receive a loan now to meet his immediate needs, such as feed, seed and fertilizer, and later obtain further credit to meet next year's operating expenses. Such loans may be made for any usual agricultural purpose essential to the borrower's continued operations. The purpose of this program is to help farmers stay in business when it appears that, with the help of the loan, there is a reasonable chance to succeed. Assistance is not available under this program to enable a farmer to change his present system of farming nor to expand materially his operations.

Outstanding Work of Homemaker Group Could Be The Key To A Sound and Lasting Peace

Mrs. Bertha McLeod, the busiest lady in Fulton County with one of the most worthwhile jobs in the State handed us a yearbook for the Homemakers in this county. For the past several years we have talked with Mrs. McLeod about her work and have attended many Homemaker meetings, but not until we carefully perused the handy little mimeographed booklet did we realize that Homemaker groups in this and other counties and States in the Nation, could well be the key to peace in the world.

The information contained in the yearbook is phenomenal. The programs are as sound and wholesome and meritorious as any concocted by the United Nations Conference on Human Relations, but more than that they are practical and earthy.

Take for instance the Kentucky Homemakers Creed. We quote it for your consideration:

"I believe in the home as an inspiring and happy center of family life, comfortable and attractive, a place for relaxation and work where pleasures and responsibilities are shared.

"I believe in the home, its contribution to community life which reflects the development of the homemaker and her family.

"I believe in the homemaker, alert, diligent, in search of better ways of doing ordinary things for the welfare and happiness of her family.

"I believe in the homemaker as a leader in her community, in her responsibility for passing on to others her mastered skills and knowledge.

"I believe in the fellowship that comes through the homemakers' organization, the exchange of ideas, the joy of knowledge shared with others thus broadening our lives and lifting household tasks above the commonplace.

"For these opportunities I am grateful. I am thankful for the courage of yesterday, the hope for tomorrow, and a growing consciousness of God's love always.

"Jeffersontown Homemakers Club"

We are deeply impressed by the foregoing for in it is contained the real meaning of peaceful living and what is more the real foundation for living harmoniously not only with the people in the delightful communities around us, but applied to world affairs it would seem an easy solution to the strife and treachery abounding in this war-torn world.

There is no trace of politics, of intrigue or self-seeking in the "fellowship that comes through home-makers' organization, the exchange of ideas, the joy of knowledge shared with others thus broadening our lives."

In simple but well meaning words they are thankful for the courage of yesterday, the hope for tomorrow, and a growing consciousness of God's love always. These words are well meaning because by and large these good women live the creed from day to day. Working with their minds and their hearts it is from these American environments that come the great leaders of the world. We can see now why it has been such a great political asset to be born in a small community. If one interested in serving his country is endowed with the selfless characteristics as lived by the Homemakers, then it is no wonder that the asset is worth millions of dollars to the country he serves.

Moreover, the ladies are not concerned with lofty impractical ideas, they delve into every day living as it concerns them and their families, for they are urged to keep abreast of daily affairs of a local and national nature and are given grades for their zeal in doing so.

Just let us review a few of the questions asked the ladies in the annual report, which is by way of indirect urging them to become aware of such important problems.

Here are a few:

Do you listen to news broadcast on radio daily?

Estimate newspaper articles read daily? Have you made a study of your community recreation needs?

Have you made a study of your community health needs?

Did you assist with X-ray clinic?

Did you have chest X-ray?

Have you checked the conditions governing your drinking water supply?

We wish that we could reprint the booklet in full. We wish that we could show you the wonderful programs, month by month, but of course space does not permit.

One thing we will do though, and that is to urge you to know and cultivate the friendship of a real homemaker... for they are the seasoning and the salt of the earth.

Too much credit cannot be given the outstanding work of Mrs. McLeod and all the county leaders, but this we can do... and will give...

A Salute to all of Them.

Sermonette of the Week -

Best Family Prayer Comes From The Bible

By Clare Booth Luce

PRAYER WILL NOT spare a family all pain and suffering. That is the lot of men. And never more so than in times like these when men and their leaders have wandered so far from God.

But the family that prays together will never be down-hearted. Prayer prepares the family to meet all the unavoidable trials which come its way. And it will be spared the worst trials of all: those that members of the family inflict upon one another.

THOSE SEARCHING for the most perfect of family prayers will find it in the Rosary. The Bible does not tell us we should say the Rosary. But it does tell us we should say the Rosary prayers!

Jesus Himself told us to say the Our Father. The Rosary says that five times. Jesus Himself tells us about the Father and the Son and the Comforter, the Holy Ghost. And the Rosary says the "Glory Be" to the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, the ancient traditional prayer of Christendom to the Triune God, five times too.

THE BIBLE DOESN'T tell us explicitly to pray to Our Lady. But God's own messenger, Gabriel, the Angel of the Annunciation hails Mary in the Bible. It is the Angelic Salutation that the Rosary repeats fifty-three times, not because repetition makes reputation, as the advertisers say, but because reputation makes repetition; and the reputation of our Blessed Lady, given to her by God's angel, was "Blessed among women," and the Mother of God.

So the Rosary is a chain of the Bible's most perfect vocal prayers. And the recitation of them is linked together by the meditation on the mysteries in the lives of Jesus and His Mother. Who better to teach a family? What better can a family learn than what they had to teach?

SO PRAY LOUD in your family circle! Give your minds the width, your hearts the depth, and your spirits the height that comes from prayer. Unite the members of your family one to another in this strongest bond of charity!

And never forget, husband and wife, parent and child, that it takes three to stay in love: you and the other and God!

THOSE WHO love one another stay in God's love by prayer. And God's answer to their prayer is to keep them always in one another's love. "Wherever there are two or three gathered together in My name, there am I in the midst of them."

Dick Oberlin:

Oberlin's Observations

Like the weather, a whole lot of people have talked about the driving habits of teen-agers, but very few indeed have done anything about it.

Now the Kentucky State Fair Board, spurred on by Tom Ballantine, one of its members, and Charlie Vettner, the justly well-known Kentucky youth leader, is really doing something.

The Board agreed to underwrite an $8,000 program to help Kentucky high school boys and girls learn that driving safely and sanely makes a lot more sense than driving a car like Hopalong Cassidy rides a horse when he's after the villain.

And the State Fair Board isn't going about it the wrong way with a lot of sermons and pamphlets, either. The program planned by Ballantine and Vettner will make it well worth while to learn to drive right. The incentive of a brand new automobile—the first prize—should make a lot of good drivers!

It's a happy coincidence, too, that the first Grand Champion Automobile Driver of Kentucky will be crowned at the Golden Anniversary State Fair in September, 1953.

We're just about to see the 1952 edition of the Fair—which starts September 5th—and here are these guys worrying about something for 1953.

Actually, there isn't too much time, because every high school in the state will choose its own school champion driver—on the basis of a written examination and his (or her) driving record.

Then, after school champs are chosen they'll compete with each other in district tournaments which will be held in conjunction with the district high school basketball tournaments.

The 64 district winners will compete again in regional contests (again coincidental with the high school tournament), and from this come the Big 16 who will compete in September in the State Fair Grand Cham: onships.

This competition is open to every youngster old enough to obtain a driver's license, and not more than 20 at the time the finals are held. There's just one hitch—the youngsters must enter the contest within six months after they get their first driver's licenses.

There were tears in the eyes of one member of the State Fair Board when this program was outlined by Ballantine and Vettner, and the Board without exception was enthusiastic about the plan.

Better tears of strong emotion for a constructive program than the anguished tears of parents who see the broken or dead body of a child in the wreckage of a car.

My Country 'Tis of Thee

If some editorial writer was to suggest that the words, "I love thy rocks and rills, thy woods and templed hills," be deleted from one of our most popular national songs, he would probably be investigated by a loyalty board. Yet a glance at the long list of acts as a result of vandalism, stupidity, and thoughtlessness on the part of a segment of the American public could well brand the writer as a real patriot.

A thumb-nail sketch of a few happenings in the National Parks and Forests is as maddening as it is sickening to those who actually "love the rocks and rills, the woods and templed hills."

All of our National Parks, Monuments, and Forests are being inundated by a steady flood of waste paper, pop bottles, and garbage. And with 65 million persons passing through these areas each year, the situation is becoming critical. The damage amounts to six million dollars yearly.

The unique sandstone formation in southern Utah known as the "Goblet of Venus," a five-ton monolith balanced on a delicate one-foot base was ruthlessly knocked down by a destructive vandal.

And so on and on. Ugly names and obscenities inflicted by pencil, lipstick and knives on picnic tables, comfort stations, elevation markers, and signs are found practically everywhere. And the tell-tale trademarks of the would-be marksmen who bang away at everything which offers a target are mute testimonials to the reluctance on the part of officials to permit hunting in such areas.

It's fine to ask God to bless America—but let's save some of it.—B. M.—Ky. Magazine.

Good company and good discourse are the very sinews of virtue.—Isaak Walton.

Mississippi Plantation Life The Writings Of Mattie Dear

O, give thanks unto the Lord for he is good, he bless me to be at the Pleasant Valley M. B. Church Sunday, pastored by the Rev. C. R. Raymond. We sure had a good service and I sure do love to go to church and sing them old D. I. S. C. S. and hear them good prayers and hear that choir sing and that preacher preach Christ and Him crucified. Three souls was saved in our revival, that was better saved than lost and we are putting them right to work in the church. Christ said go in my vineyard and work and what so ever is right, I will pay thee.

I am going to live so God can use me anywhere and anytime. I have always lived a Christian life. When I was a child I confessed a hope in Christ, when I was 11 years and 10 months old. I am not tired of doing the will of the Master. He's good to me, he feeds me and he clothes me when I am naked, he's a father, mother, and also a husband for me, for that cause he's my all in all.

My sister in Christ, Mrs. Walter Bernhard of Farmington, Mich., sure did write me a Christian letter. Hope her all the good luck. Some people uses the word and puts God in front. He's been in front every since, before there was a when and a where. People can do what they will or may, but I can tell them the Lord rules Presidents or what not. The earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof. He rules, so now is a fine time to pray for peace, because we are living among mean people. Some are doing everything but right, but this is my task.

It matters not what others do, it is my task to see, My life is patterned in the mold, the Lord has planned for me.

PARENTS WARNED TO TAKE EXTRA CAUTION IN TRAFFIC WITH SCHOOL OPENING NEAR

School opening this year will present new and increased hazards for children, Eugene Stuart, Secretary-Manager of the Louisville Automobile Club, said today. The warning to both parents and drivers is a result of the increased motor vehicle registration in Kentucky and elsewhere. Mr. Stuart urges extra care on the part of school officials, parents and those who operate motor vehicles.

"A marked increase in motor vehicles and the expanded use of automobiles and trucks during the past few years have resulted in serious traffic congestion," Stuart said. "Kentucky's motor vehicle registration has doubled within the past 10 years. There are many crossings which are frequented by school pedestrian traffic still unprotected. These areas present a real hazard which should be examined and corrected before the schools are opened."

City officials and school boards would do well to give this matter serious thought. Re-alignment of highways and re-distribution of traffic usually occur during the summer months. New problems near schools might have been created by disubring the former flow of traffic. A crossing which was comparatively safe last year, might be a definite hazard for this term.

"Those who operate cars and trucks should also observe increased care in school zones. Records indicate that traffic accidents to children of school age are heaviest in the fall months."

Hello Robert—Eph Dawes.

quickly as borrowers are able to do so from their farm income.

Advances for annually recurring expenses are expected to be repaid from the sale of the crops or livestock or livestock products. Advances for livestock, equipment or other capital items may be repaid over a longer period, if necessary, but not exceeding five years.

Where necessary, however, disaster loans made for the purchase or the production of feed may be scheduled for repayment over a period extending to the end of the second full crop year after the loan is made. For example, a portion or all of a loan made now for the purchase of feed may, in justifiable cases, be extended to the fall of 1954. However, borrowers will be required to make repayments to the extent possible during this period. In line with this policy, the repayment schedule is worked out with each individual borrower, according to his circumstances.

DISASTER—

Applicants for disaster loans must be certified as eligible by the local county committee of the Farmers Home Administration.

Disaster loans bear three percent interest and must be secured by a crop and chattel mortgage to protect reasonably the government's interest. Real Estate liens may be required in some instances. Loans are not made to refinance any existing debts nor to reimburse farmers for losses suffered in the disaster. It is expected that loans will be repaid as

CHICAGO, ILL. NEWS

Sue Clark

Here I am again, after being in Fulton, Ky., for two weeks with my parents.

At this writing it's raining in Chicago, and from the way Kentucky was when I left it needs some of this rain that Chicago has been getting every day!

Sure miss Virginia Clark who has gone back to Fulton to live. All her friends at Spiegel, Inc., feel a little sadness when they don't find that gal bouncing around with her hill billy ways. We would like to say to Virginia, "The best of luck, and take a trip

SOIL CONSERVATION NOTES

By SCOTT DEMYER

RAIN — RAIN — RAIN

You had it. Did you keep it? If not it is time to prepare a Soil and Water Conservation Farm Plan, and start putting it into effect. Make a request to your Soil Conservation District and get the assistance you need to develop such a plan on your farm.

W. E. Hardy, State Line Road; Leon Bransford, Rush Creek; Mrs. Virginia Kerby, Hickman, Route 4; W. J. Shepherd, Fulton; and Cliff Wade, Cayce, have completed ponds that were staked out by SCS technicians. Watershed areas range from 2 to 15 acres on these ponds.

One inch of rain on an acre of land is equal to about 27,000 gallons of water. A pond properly located will catch many gallons of needed water, at the same time prevent erosion farther down the draw.

Contour cultivation is paying off. The level rows around the hills are holding water until it has a chance to soak in the ground to be used by the thirsty corn. That means money too.

Contours drilling of grasses and of small grain is needed to prevent the washing out of tracks left by the tractor and the drill disc.

Waterways need special treatment. Seed this month. Use 30 to 40 pounds of fescue seed broadcast, then cultipack in. Heavy applications of fertilizer are needed to get a good stand before winter rains start.

From the looks of the muddy streams not much of the rain stayed on the rolling fields, due to up and down the hill planting and over grazed pastures. Not only the water, but much of the light and best top soil went with it. Often times this soil fills up drainage ditches on the same farm.

Accuse not Nature. She has done her part; Do thou but thine.

TRANSFERRED
