The Farm and Home Paper of the Ken-Tenn Territory

Volume Twenty-One

Fulton, Fulton County Kentucky, Friday, Dec. 5, 1952

Number Forty-Nine

Few people know it, mightily, but elsewhere in today's News is revealed that President-elect Eisenhower will visit Water Valley, Ky., in July. The visit is a well guarded secret down Water Valley way, but the exclusive story says that General Ike will visit Camp Beauregard, where the cotton pickers "knocked over so many damn Yankees and then died of pneumonia themselves." Even the menu has been planned for the new President the story says; country sausage, and a mess of celebrated waffles and sorghum is the peice de resistance. The eggs will be poached in some of their country ham gravy.

We hesitate to reveal the name of our correspondent who reported the story today, so we ask that you scan the paper and find out for yourself. It is inconceivable to think that with the President-elect so busy making plans for Korea that he should also reveal his plans for visiting Water Valley, but that's what the man said. Just read it for yourself.

We had a wonderful short vacation in Paul's hometown of St. Joseph, Missouri over the Thanksgiving holidays. It was the first time we have visited there since before Mary Jo was born and it was a real family reunion for the kiddies. Besides getting to know their paternal grandparents they saw more snow than they ever saw in their little lives and their took to it like a robin takes to Spring. Fact is they came home with running noses from running in the snow, but we just couldn't keep the mout of it. The weather was fine going up but just as soon as we got there the weather accomodated the kids with a steady snow for two days. As for the distaff side of the household we'd like to make this little comment: A Mississippi bred gal just don't take to all that snow. Our personal temperature was about ten above zero during the whole visit, which matched the temperature outside.

The visit showed us something else besides snow though. Never in all this hectic life of ours have we ever seen so many real, live Republicans. Yo know we were 24 years old before we ever laid eyes on a Republican, then here in this year of 1952 there's landslide of those folks. Understand we don't mean hybrid-Republicans (Democrats for Eisenhower) we mean folks who have always been Republicans. They look pretty much like Democrats, but they ain't.

First Methodist Church
Fulton, Kentucky

Carl M. Robbins, Minister

December 2, 1952

Editor, Fulton County News
Fulton, Kentucky.

Dear Sir:

This letter is to express the appreciation of the Methodists of the Paris District for your generous publicity during the recent United Evangelistic Mission in our churches.

The Mission was a great success in every way and this is at least partly due to the fine news coverage we received from every newspaper in the district.

We appreciate so much the help you gave us through your paper in keeping people informed about the services and work of the Mission.

With gratitude and best regards, I am,

Sincerely yours,
Carl M. Robbins
District Chairman,
Publicity and Promotion

Dr. Crocker
Arrives Here

Dr. E. F. Crocker, of Miami, Tenn., arrived in Fulton Tuesday to assume the practice of Dr. Walter B. Grenell at Haws Memorial Hospital.

Dr. Grenell has received orders to report to the Naval Air Station at Millington, Tenn., Monday, December 8.

Fire Destroys Home
Of Mr. Fred Collier

Early last Friday morning a fire of undetermined origin completely destroyed the four-room residence and contents of Fred Collier, located two miles north of Fulton just off Highway 51. Even though the Fulton Fire Department was called for assistance, the fire had made such headway that little could be done.

Mr. and Mrs. Collier had just moved into the house in the spring. Relatives of Mrs. Collier from North Worth, Texas were visiting in the home and all of the occupants were asleep when the fire broke out.

BAILEY GETS FINE BIRTHDAY SEND-OFF

Bailey Binford, popular football star at Fulton High, who was stricken with polio in September, will leave for Warm Springs, Georgia this week-end. He will take with him the memory of the loyalty of his friends and especially the memory of a surprise birthday party given him Tuesday night by more than 40 of his friends.

Don Wright, his lifelong friend, and Miss Kay Cherry were host and hostess for the occasion at Don's home on Park Avenue. There can be no doubt that the party was a complete surprise to Bailey. He went over to Don's around supper time and not a car was in sight on the streets. After he was there a few minutes, things started popping.

The doors to the dining room were spread open and there before him was a sight he could hardly believe. His classmates, his football mates, his basketball mates, his coaches and others stood around the table where not one birthday cake, but three greeted his eyes. All the cakes were adorned with 17 candles, for Bailey was 17 on Thursday.

Bailey's courage and spirit during his long illness has been an inspiration to his hundreds of friends in Fulton. His welfare has been a deep concern to all who know and love him and the little birthday party Tuesday night was just another token of the esteem in which Bailey is held.

Don and Kay were assisted by Mrs. Hendon Wright and Mrs. Louis Weeks in serving.

WHITNEL APPOINTED FOR POLIO PUBLICITY

Rev. L. R. Still, Fulton chairman for the March of Dimes campaign, announced today that he had named Mr. Whitnel as publicity director for the 1953 drive. Mr. Whitnel, an experienced public relations expert will handle all publicity phases of the drive and persons needing his advice and services are asked to contact him either at his home or at the Whitnel Funeral Home.

Rev. Still is busily making arrangements for the 1953 drive in the city and is appointing committees to handle all departments of the huge drive. Last year Fulton County raised the largest sum ever secured for polio funds. Ira Kane, industrial engineer for the Kentucky Utilities is county chairman.

$32,000 MAILED CLUB MEMBERS

The largest amounts ever mailed out in Christmas Club checks were sent to club members this week, Howard Shaw, cashier of the Fulton Bank announced today. A total of $32,000 was mailed, which is almost double the amount first sent out five years ago. When the bank first installed the Christmas Club plan in 1947, $18,000 was mailed to members.

The bank is well pleased with the reception given the Christmas Club saving plan. "It is an easy, systematic, weekly plan of saving," Mr. Shaw said. The new club for next Christmas has already been started. Persons interested in such a saving plan are invited to join the club, Mr. Shaw said.

Food To Be Price Of Show Admission

According to Louis (Nubbin) Bizzle, manager of the Fulton Theatre, there will be a Saturday morning show on December 20, at which time children will be admitted by presenting a can of food. No charge will be made for admission, but each person attending the show is asked to bring canned goods.

All canned goods received will be used for distribution among the poor families of the city.

Sibley Rites Held In Baton Rouge, La.

Funeral services for Mrs. Steve Sibley, 66, who died Tuesday at her home in Baton Rouge, La., were conducted Thursday.

Mrs. J. E. Pond, of this city, who is a sister of the deceased, attended the funeral.

Whitesell Boys Have Five-Day Visit In Far East

The Whitesell boys, Hunter and Robert, may be far, far from home, but that doesn't keep them from keeping the home fires burning. Robert a first lieutenant in the Marine Corps is stationed in Tokyo, Japan and Hunter a second lieutenant in the same service is stationed in Korea. Recently the boys had a nice five-day visit together in Toyko and took prominent parts in the Far East celebration of the 177th anniversary of the founding of the Marine Corps.

Brother Robert used his influence to get the five-day leave for his brother and a plane brought him to Tokyo for the reunion and the celebration. Photographs released by the Marine Corps show the two boys standing near the commander of the unit cutting the huge cake in observance of the anniversary.

Robert held the honor guard post while Hunter was not far behind. Then too, Hunter had the honor of serving, at dinner, the wife of the oldest member of the Marine Corps stationed in Japan.

Both boys are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Hunter Whitesell of Fulton and are well known and popular here. When Hunter winged his way back to the fighting fronts of Korea he no doubt went back on a ticket issued by the "small world department."

Johnsons Hold Open House Last Sunday

Mr. and Mrs. Jess Johnson, West State Line, held open house Sunday, November 30, in observance of their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Guests called from two to five Sunday afternoon. For the occasion Mrs. Johnson was dressed in a black crepe afternoon dress with a corsage of yellow mums.

Mesdames Gilbert Bowling and Trice Bowling of this city and two nieces of the guests of honor, Mesdames Walter Caldwell and Jimmy Perry, of St. Louis, assisted in serving the guests coffee and wedding cake from a beautifully appointed dining table, centered with a three-tiered wedding cake, iced in white and gold.

Many lovely gifts were received by this couple and during the afternoon pictures were made of Mr. and Mrs. Johnson.

MRS. J. L. VAUGHN DIES ON WEDNESDAY

FRY'S SHOE STORE OPENS SATURDAY

Tom Bradley, hard-working manager of Fry's Shoe Store is up to his neck in shoes. He's also pretty well snowed under with beautiful store fixtures, window trimmings, handsome lighting and a score of other up-to-the-minute dressings, but he says that Saturday his doors will open for business. The store has been completely destroyed the shoe store.

Tom has been working furiously with the contractors and decorators all during that time to open for business this week. This is not the formal opening, that's next week, its just to give his faithful customers an opportunity to do some early Christmas shopping this Saturday.

Tom has been working extra hard for another reason . . . to give his boss William Scott some extra Christmas cheer by having the big, new beautiful store open as soon before Christmas as possible. William is confined to the Kennedy General Hospital in Memphis, but he's been kept informed on the latest development at Fry's Shoe Store on Lake Street.

ARRIVES HOME

Mrs. Jewell McClain has arrived home from Madison, Wisc., and will remain here until spring.

JAMES BROWDER IS 'SUPER PERSONALITY' OF NASHVILLE MOTOR FREIGHT COMPANY

The younger generation of Browders is certainly holding their own with their illustrious ancestors and among the young try to make the news this week is James Browder son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Browder of near Fulton. James, an employee of the Super Service Motor Freight Co. of Nashville has been selected as "super personality of the month" by that company's monthly magazine, "Tandem Talk". He is married to the former Elwanda Buck, daughter of Mrs. Jewell Melton of Fulton.

The magazine had the following to say of James:

For November we have selected James R. Browder, of the Nashville Traffic department for our Super Personality of the month.

James is a native Tennessean, born and reared in a small town in the western part of the state. After the war James enrolled at the University of Tennessee. In August of 1949 he received the Bachelor of Science degree for his efforts there.

Jim majored in transportation work.

After graduation James was transferred to the Nashville office to work in the traffic department. Since coming to the home office in 1950, he has had a man-size job of auditing G. B. S/L, handling customers rate quotations, overcharge claims, and auditing waybills. Jim helped compile and issue the company's first routing guide and his performed various other Traffic department duties.

Jim is also interested in the legal side of the transportation business because in September of this year he enrolled in the Y. M. C. A. night law school with the intentions of becoming a class "A" I. C. C. practitioner four years from now. Our hats are off to you Jim, keep up the good work.

EPISCOPAL BISHOP TO BE HERE SUNDAY

One of the State's most brilliant and distinguished clergymen will visit in Fulton Sunday night when the Rt. Rev. Charles Clingman, Bishop of the Episcopal Diocese of Kentucky will visit the local church. Bishop Clingman will officiate at Trinity Episcopal Church's confirmation service to be held at 7:30 p. m. The Bishop will also conduct even song services and deliver a sermon. He will be assisted by the church's Pastor Rev. William G. Frank.

Bishop Clingman last visited in Fulton in December, 1950 when he joined the local Episcopalians in observing the 100th anniversary of the local church. Known as a gifted speaker and an outstanding theologian, Bishop Clingman is one of the State's best known and loved church officials. The public is cordially invited to the services Sunday night.

CARTER URGES EARLY MAILING

According to Postmaster Nathan (Jack) Carter, the Post Office will remain open until 4 o'clock in the afternoon on Saturday, beginning this Saturday, December 6, until Christmas in order to take care of the holiday rush.

Postmaster Carter urges all post office patrons to mail their packages early and to buy postage in advance so as to avoid the rush period. He reminds all persons sending Christmas cards to use three-cent stamps on each card if they expect the cards to be forwarded. Cards carrying two-cent stamps will not insure this service.

Complete instructions on mailing Christmas packages and mail will be published in next week's issue of the News.

PROWLERS ENTER SCHOOL BUILDING

W. L. Holland, Superintendent of Fulton City Schools, reported Thursday morning that the school was broken into about ten o'clock Wednesday night. The High School Building was entered as was the Science Hall and Carr Institute. A small amount of money was taken from the stamp box and Coca-Cola machine, which was badly damaged by the intruders.

K. M. Winston, Principal, left the building about 10 o'clock and apparently the prowlers entered the buildings after that hour.

It's a Girl!

Mr. and Mrs. Tommie Simon are the proud parents of a nine pound 8 ounce daughter, born December 3 at the Fulton hospital.

All Democratic voters in Fulton County are urged to participate in the precinct elections Saturday, December 6 at 2 p. m. Justin Atteberry, county chairman said today. The election Saturday will be held to elect chairmen who will represent their precincts in the county election on Saturday, December 13, when a county Democratic chairman will be elected.

Jennings Kearby is secretary of the county group.

The elections are held each four years following a presidential election. In the past little interest has been shown in the elections, but in view of the recent results in the Presidential election, where many Democrats voted the Republican ticket, added interest is being taken to reorganize the county organization. This attitude is prevalent all over the State, it was revealed.

Seven Candidates Take Shrine Initiation Rites

Saturday night, Nov. 29, at 7:45 the Marie Shrine No. 12 Order of the White Shrine of Jerusalem held an initiation in the Masonic Hall in Paducah. Seven candidates received the Degrees of the Order. Mrs. H. D. Stanfield and Miss Elizabeth Ward of Fulton were among those initiated. Following the meeting refreshments were served.

Fulton City Park Committee Named

The Fulton City Council has named a steering committee to lead a movement to acquire a city park, according to Mayor Smith Atkins.

The committee is composed of Dr. Glenn Bushart, F. A. Homra, Maxwell McDade, E. E. Williamson, Mrs. Horace Reams, Hugh Rushton and Mrs. Ernest Fall, Jr. Mayor Atkins appointed the committee to act as representatives of the citizens in the matter. (See Editorial Page 2).

IMPORTANT MEETING

Tonight at 7:30 members of the Fulton Country Club will hold a meeting at the Club House to discuss the by-laws.

All Democrat Voters Urged To Attend Precinct Meetings To Be Held Saturday

This Saturday December 6 and next Saturday December 13 the Democrats of Fulton County will have an opportunity to have a voice in their party when a complete reorganization of the group is planned. Too long have the voters in this county by-passed the privilege of taking part in the county organization, mainly because the meetings have not been given sufficient publicity prior to the time for them to be held. The meeting this Saturday will be to select precinct committeemen to attend the county-wide meeting to be held in Hickman in December 13, at which time a county chairman will be elected.

Not many people realize the importance or the power of the county executive committee. It can do many things concerning elections, appointments and other things and as an example we cite the case of Voorhies Gregory. Mr. Gregory, a brother of the present incumbent Congressman Noble Gregory was elected as the Democratic nominee for Congress in the Democratic primary of 1932. That year in October he died and the chairman of the various county Democratic committee in the district met and named his successor, his brother. The present Congressman was subsequently elected in the November elections of that year.

For some unknown reason there has been an air of mystery concerning the meetings of the Fulton county committee, which must be named each four years following a presidential election. We do not believe the mystery has been intended, just a normal by-product of the disinterest shown by the voters in the selection of their county leaders.

This year we hope that things will be different. We hope that many voters will attend the meetings held in the precincts, which are usually held at the polling places in the precincts. At that time a precinct chairman will be selected who will have the power to vote for the Democratic county chairman. Personally, because we think it good citizenship, we hope many voters will attend the precinct meetings. In that manner a voter assumes the right to sanction or condemn the action of his chairman if he has taken a personal interest in his selection.

We like very much the comments made by the Courier-Journal on the subject. It said in its issue of December 2, the following:

"Many people who are seriously interested in their government would take an active part in politics were it not such a seemingly mysterious operation. They fear that in order to influence the selection of party officers and candidates a person must serve for years within the party organization and become part of a business which they consider sordid if not dishonest."

"They are wrong. Actually, it is very easy to 'get into politics' and to have a voice in party matters. Political amateurs who enjoyed their first taste of political action during the recent presidential campaign can get into politics this Saturday afternoon. The Democratic Party is reorganizing in Kentucky, and new party officers, from precinct captains to district and state committeemen, will be elected in the next two weeks by Democrats who are interested enough to take part in the elections."

"Meetings will be held in each precinct at 2 p. m. Saturday for the election of precinct officers. District committeemen will be chosen by the precinct officers on the following Saturday. Precinct meetings will be held in precinct voting places. Any registered Democrat may attend, vote and be elected."

"If you were a Volunteer-for-Stevenson, or just a voter who is interested in the Democratic Party, here is an opportunity for you and other amateurs within your precinct to continue your influence in politics and to improve the quality and service of your party. On Saturday afternoon at two o'clock, go to the place where you voted on November 4. You or any of your friends are eligible for nomination and election to precinct office. It will prove an interesting experience."

group appointed represents a good cross-section of population and what is more a resident of South Fulton and two businessmen who have their firms located in Tennessee, are on the committee. Mrs. Horace Reams lives on the outskirts of South Fulton. Hugh Rushton and Gene Williamson operate businesses in South Fulton. This fact will lend added importance to the problem of working out an arrangement whereby the residents of South Fulton, Tennessee will have representation on the committee.

Other members of the committee are: Foad Homra, Dr. Glynn Bushart, Maxwell McDade and Mrs. Ernest Fall, Jr.

All persons named to the committee have long records of community service. Each one has done work in all phases of civic improvement and each knows the problems facing both the committee and the Council in working out financial arrangements to secure the park.

The News thinks that the Council has used wise judgment in the selection of its steering committee. If a City Park is anywhere within the realms of possibility for Fulton and South Fulton we know that this committee, together with the City Council will bring it about.

Sermonette of the Week -

HISTORY TEACHES: NO GOD, NO CIVILIZATION

(By Phillip J. Cunningham)
FIFTEEN HUNDRED YEARS AGO the greatest thinker of that time scanned a world in its death struggle. He witnessed the fall of the world's greatest civilization. St. Augustine searched for the reason behind this catastrophe. He knew the struggle was more than one between Roman and Barbarian. He found his answer in the heart of man.

"Two loves," he wrote, "founded two cities: the one founded by the love of self carried even to the contempt of God; the other, founded by the love of God carried even to the contempt of self." The City of God and the City of Pride.

LOVE UNITES, and love divides. Those who love the same things are close. Those who love different things are by that very fact pulled apart.

Those who love only themselves can never be united, for their selfishness draws them away from everyone. But those who love God, and each other because of Him, are drawn into ever closer union.

THE LOVE OF SELF is still at work. This self-love forms a city composed of men who live only for themselves. They never know real peace, but only moments of equilibrium in struggle to get more and more for themselves.

Yet, for the men of the City of God, peace is inevitable: as their love for God grows, so does their love for one another.

OUR WORLD TOO is a divided world, a world in titanic struggle. But we must not look upon it as merely the struggle between Communism and Democracy. The conflict is still between the Two Cities.

Some have called it the struggle between those who love God and those who love man. This is not true. Those who love God and who have faith in Him are the only ones who can really love man.

If the City of God fails, then nothing else can resist the disintegrating effect of the City of Pride. Soon our civilization so dearly won, and our freedoms so highly prized, will be tumbled into the dust of History.

Turning Back The Clock

25 YEARS AGO (Dec. 16, 1927):

Mrs. Sarah B. Atteberry died early Wednesday morning at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lon Jones, 414 Jackson Street. Mrs. Atteberry was a consecrated Christian and was loved by all who knew her. Funeral services were conducted at Cayce, with burial in the cemetery there.

Water Valley, Ky., was host to 1,500 visitors last Friday, when they gathered to celebrate the opening of the southern-end of Highway No. 45, which was completed recently. The occasion was sponsored by the Lions' Club of Fulton and Mayfield.

The ladies of Water Valley prepared a delightful lunch at the noon hour with a nominal charge for the visitors, and every merchant and citizen of the town made all visitors welcome.

Mr. Cleveland Butts has opened the Amco Feed Store on Walnut Street, and will carry Amco Open Formula Feeds. Mr. O. C. Croft, a well-known Fulton man will be in charge of the store at all times.

The Dresden road was finished this week and opened to traffic. The Fulton-Mayfield-Paducah highway was also completed within the past few days and the Dresden road gives access from Cairo and Paducah to the Jeff Davis highway at Union City and the State highway from Union City to Nashville.

Dick Oberlin:

Oberlin's Observations

Since the energetic Communist journalists of the United Socialist Soviet Republics have "exposed" two great American sports, "Beizbol" and "futbol" as horrible, brutal spectacles we should expect any day now, the following story from Pravda:

Moscow, Dec. — (CP) — Citizens of the glorious Soviet Union should be happy they live in an enlightened nation instead of a barbaric, uncivilized, boorish place like the capitalistic, decadent United States of America.

Our enterprising, fearless reporters on the American continent have with incomparable daring and matchless socialist bravery uncovered another bloody, brutal U. S. pastime.

This wide-spread American sport (among the sodden, materialist, Wall Street war-mongers) is known as "throwing of the bull."

While millions of their own people are without proper clothing or food or shelter, these tools of international imperialism make play with what could and properly should be food for the people.

Our statistics are from the most recent U. S. government release, which declares that one third of the nation is ill-fed, ill housed and ill-clothed. There are a puny 150 million people in the United States. This means more than 50 million (by their own admission,

I am hardly fit for a tip, but—believe me, when I go to church on Sunday, I am considered some Money!

The dream of a bridge over the Mississippi River at Hickman approached reality this week with the granting of franchises for such a span to E. M. Elliott and Associates of Chicago.

Mr. and Mrs. Boyd Puckett spent Saturday night and Sunday with her mother, Mrs. Lon Morgan.

The following are the characters in the Bealton High School Senior play, "Mary's Castle in the Air": Alma Bushart, Hugh Wright, Nell Wright, Ima Fite, Harry Bushart, Obert Bushart, Royal Bennett, Willie Clair Bailey, Margaret Foy, Paul Fite, and Pauline Brown.

The following made the highest grades last week: Hugh Wright, senior; Lowell Weatherspoon, junior; and Margaret Walker, freshman.

S. N. Matthews, died Sunday afternoon at his home on Vine Street.

The funeral services were held Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home with Rev. C. J. Camron of Memphis and Rev. H. R. Vaught, conducting the services. Burial followed in the Fairview cemetery.

He is survived by his wife, a son, Clarence Matthews, Fulton; and a daughter, Mrs. John Payne, near Gibbs, Tenn., and several grandchildren.

He was a member of Shady Grove Methodist Church and had many friends who will be grieved at his death.

Dear Jo:

I appreciate the marked copy of the Fulton County News of November 14, and I thoroughly enjoyed both Mr. Browder's letter to you and your personality-plus reply.

Governor Stevenson and I were both proud to count your paper among the ones which supported his candidacy. It is great to know that twenty-seven million voters feel as you and I do about Adlai Stevenson. Certainly he has emerged a truly great figure on the American scene today.

And we were at the right Convention — and will be there again, four years from now!

With best regards,

Cordially,

Dear Friends:

Unless you have a better piece (Milton School Story) which I doubt I would respectfully suggest this be entered in one of the KPA contests. What I mean, it was everything... human interest, pathos, lively phraseology and wide appeal. I consider this the best possible community journalism and it should make you and your paper a lot of friends; not necessarily just this single example of the way you go about editing your paper, but the overall modus operandi.

In my travels, visiting the community newspaper folk, I do not find much of this type of writing, alas. And very little of the byline and confident spirit which was so manifest when I barged in upon you, at the worst possible time of the week.

Now I am wishing I had been able 20 years ago to travel to each of the offices and shops getting out newspapers in Kentucky. I surely could have saved a lot of wasted effort, some mistakes; and maybe some money. I regret to say I find about as few newspapers in our State as yours now as there were in 1930, when I first edited a weekly. And this despite the fact that many bright young folk have come into the Fourth Estate, replacing printer-publishers of little or no vision and knowledge of ethics. Or maybe I am merely billions.

Hoping it is otherwise with you, and that your pre-Christmas advertising is heavy.

Gracean M. Pedley.

Fulton, Kentucky
Dec. 1, 1952

This contribution to your "Letters To The Editor" column has no direct bearing on our recent presidential election. I agree that it was time for a change in Washington, and now that the election is over, the choice which the American people have made will undoubtedly prove for the better. However, in taking the world as a whole, and viewing the record of the efforts which mankind has made down through the ages to establish perfect governments, it appears that many people look to the outcome of elections, or whatever means they have in forming a government, to be the sole answer in solving the various problems of world conditions. It is my opinion that these conditions existing in the world today are in fulfillment of the prophecies recorded in the Bible at the 24th chapter of Matthew, the 13th chapter of Mark, and the 21st chapter of Luke. These conditions were stated by our Lord in answer to the question by the disciples: "When will these things be, and what will be the sign of the consummation of this system of things?"

In view of these facts, man is helpless or totally unable to remedy this situation. Many feel today that the Bible is an old-fashioned book... that it is merely a legend which in contradictory and impractical for our times. Still, the Bible holds the real answer at Matthew, 6:9-10; "Our Father who art in heaven, Hallowed be thy name. Thy Kingdom come. Thy will be done, as in heaven, so on earth." (ASV) Analyzing this prayer, prayed in many of our churches throughout the nation last Sunday, it is found that when this kingdom, which, incidentally, is the main theme of the Bible, is completely established, then God's will will be done on this earth, "which will abide forever." (Ecc. 1: 4)

Furthermore, in view of the scripture at Daniel 2:44, which states, "And in the days of these kings shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, which shall never be destroyed; and the kingdom shall not be left to other people, but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand forever. Therefore it is my opinion that it is definitely impossible for men to try to establish perfect government on his own.

It is true that our rulers do pray for God's help, but how can they receive this, since the Bible emphatically states that this world is lying in the power of the evil one. (1 John 7:19). Also, the scripture at James 4: 3, 4, and Rev. 11: 18 applies as well.

All men naturally want life. As I see it this can be obtained only through the provision of God's kingdom on the earth. And who has a better right to establish a kingdom than the supreme sovereign of the universe, Jehovah? Psalms 83: 18 and Exodus 6:3. (King James Version)

It has been said by misinformed critics and minority groups, that the Jehovah's Witnesses are not popular. In reply to that narrow-minded point of view, I will say right here and now, that I don't especially care whether I am popular or not.

If the requirements of popularity are that one must possess a complete disregard for God's Word in the Bible, then I guess I will just have to chose to be unpopular.

Very truly yours,
Raymond Clark

Club Notes

WELFARE WORKERS CLUB MEETS IN FINCH HOME FOR MONTHLY MEETING

The Welfare Workers Home Demonstration Club held their November meeting in the home of Mrs. Ruth Finch with Mrs. Guy Finch as co-hostess.

Mrs. Will McDade, president, called the meeting to order, and Mrs. Roy Watts gave the devotional. Roll was called and each answered with a home improvement they had made during the year.

During the business session, a donation was made to the speech and hearing clinic. Mrs. Brooks Oliver gave a report on the last county council meeting. Plans were made for a number of members to attend the Achievement Day Luncheon which will be held on December 4 at the Greystone Hotel in Paris, Tenn.

Officers for the coming year were elected as follows: Mrs. Ruth Finch, president; Mrs. Lorenzo Palmer, vice-president; Mrs. Harry Watts, secretary; and Mrs. Guy Finch, assistant secretary and treasurer.

After a delicious luncheon, Miss Odum, displayed various suggestions for Christmas gifts, such as aprons, scarves, pot holders, place mats, etc., and distributed patterns for some. She also demonstrated etching of glass and the craft leader gave a demonstration of stenciling.

The club then enjoyed an auction sale made up of home prepared articles.

The following visitors were present: Mrs. A. F. Phillips, Mrs. Sam Campbell, Mrs. Larry Beadles, Mrs. Jonakin, Mrs. Pond and Mr. and Mrs. C. H. Warren.

New sunshine names were drawn and the meeting adjourned to meet December 16 at 7 o'clock at the One and All Club house with Mrs. Harold Muzzall as hostess.

CAYCE W. S. C. S. MET LAST MONDAY AT WADE HOME

The WSCS of the Cayce Methodist Church met Monday night, November 24 in the home of Mrs. Chester Wade. Eighteen members and four visitors, Mrs. Charles Linder, Mrs. Joe Campbell, Mrs. Johnnie Stayton, Mrs. Joe Alexander were present.

The regular monthly program was carried out. Those taking parts were: Mrs. Margaret Workman, Mrs. Frank Daniels, Mrs. Wilson Fowler, Mrs. James McMurry, Miss Eva Johnson.

After the regular business session the group was dismissed to meet in December with Mrs. Maurice Bonduant.

The hostess served a delicious salad plate and Coca-Colas during the social hour.

FULTON HOMEMAKERS MET IN LAWRENCE HOME WEDNESDAY

The Fulton Homemakers Club met last Wednesday, November 26, for their monthly meeting with Mrs. J. H. Lawrence at her home.

The devotional was given by Mrs. Hattie Gibson from Psalms.

A poem, "Is Life Worth Living" was read by Mrs. Fred Bonduant. The roll was called and answered by a household hint. Mrs. McLeod, home demonstration agent, led the group in discussing 4-H Club work and the new project at Dawson Springs.

Mrs. L. C. Brown and Mrs. Ernest Caldwell led the group in demonstrating pattern alteration to perfection. Good fit is important to comfort and appearance. All women desire well fitting and comfortable clothes.

Mrs. Gibson gave a very interesting lesson on seasonal landscaping. Charcoal will keep water sweet in bulbs.

The reading lesson as prepared by Mrs. C. M. Reynolds was given by Mrs. H. G. Butler. George Rogers Clark and Daniel Boone contributed endlessly to the settlement of Kentucky. Early frontiersmen suffered much in their determination to push west.

A delicious pot-luck luncheon was enjoyed at the noon hour.

The four visitors, Mrs. J. U. McKendree, Mrs. Curtis Craven, Mrs. Ernest Caldwell, and Mrs. Halford Milstead joined the club.

The December meeting will be with Mrs. Sam Jones.

PUBLIC HEALTH TOPICS

COLDS MAY CAUSE OTHER SERIOUS AILMENTS

"Study shows that most people have two or more colds a year, each lasting about two weeks and causing a considerable amount of discomfort," said Dr. J. F. Harrell, County Health Officer.

The danger of a common cold lies mainly in the other infections that may follow. A cold lessens resistance and is likely to pave the way for other more serious respiratory ailments.

Sinusitis, ear infections, bronchitis, and various forms of pneumonia are frequently ushered in by a cold. Pneumonia, particularly, is likely to attack a person who is overtired or rundown because of a severe cold.

Fortunately, many of the respiratory diseases are not as dangerous as they used to be. Modern infection-fighting drugs, such as penicillin and sulfa, offer highly effective treatment of many cases. But, of course, it is always better to prevent a serious illness whenever possible. If you have a cold it is just good sense to stay away from people and avoid spreading the infection, and to get plenty of rest in bed if possible.

WORTHY GRAND MATRON, OES, MAKES INSPECTION TOUR OF LOCAL GROUP

Tuesday, Nov. 25 the Masonic Hall in Fulton was a very busy place. Preparations were made for the annual inspection of the O. E. S. by the Worthy Grand Matron, Order of the Eastern Star in Kentucky. The Fulton Star and Hickman Chapters held a joint inspection.

At 6 p. m. a banquet honoring all Grand Officers, was held in the Rose Room of Smith's Cafe. The tables were attractively decorated with fruit, candles and magnolia leaves. The Worthy Grand Matron was presented a

Miss Jean Holland and Charles William Fenwick Married In Brilliant Ceremony At St. Edward's

(Agatha Voelpel)

In a nuptial high mass with a single ring ceremony, Miss Jean Holland, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William L. Holland of Fulton, became the bride of Charles W. Fenwick, son of Mrs. Nettie Fenwick Hicks of Water Valley and the late Mr. Fenwick on Saturday morning, November 29, 1952 at St. Edward's Catholic Church. The Rev. Leonard Reicz solemnized the mass, assisted by the church organist and choir.

The altar was beautifully decorated with bouquets of giant white and yellow chrysanthemums. Twin baskets were placed at either side of the altar steps.

The beautiful young bride wore an exquisite Joel wedding gown of crystalline nylon illusion made over white slipper satin. The skirt worn over hoops developed into a billowy train; long lace-edged illusion mitts formed points over the hands. She wore a single strand of pearls, a gift of the groom, and carried a prayer book topped with a white orchid showered with satin ribbons.

The maid of honor, Miss Frances Jean Ferrell, a cousin of the groom, and the bridesmaid, Miss Martha Sue Holland, the bride's sister, wore identical formal frocks of tulle taffeta designed with camisole neckline and gathered skirts. Their headresses and long mitts were of matching nylon net and they carried arm bouquets of roses. The maid of honor wore fuchsia with yellow roses and the bridesmaid wore aqua with pink roses.

Dainty little Kathy Cash, the flower girl, wore a full length white tulle dress with full net skirt. She carried a nosegay of pink and yellow rosebuds tied with pastel ribbons.

Howard Cash, the groom's cousin was best man. Connie Cash, another cousin, was groomsman. The ushers were: Irvin Cash and Allard Cash. Young Irvin Cash was ring bearer.

For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Holland wore an afternoon frock of peacock tissue tulle fashioned along tailored lines. Her white velvet hat was trimmed in sequins and her other accessories were black velvet. She wore a corsage of yellow roses.

Mrs. Hicks, the groom's mother chose a suit of purple tweed tulle. Her hat was of pale pink felt and she wore a corsage of pink roses.

Following the ceremony a reception was held at the Fulton Woman's Club. Candles and silvered magnolia leaves were used in decoration. The bride's table, draped in a cutwork cloth, was centered with a beautiful tiered wedding cake, topped with a miniature bride and groom. White candles burned in crystal holders.

Assisting at the reception were Miss Nancy Holland, Miss Wanda Holland, Mrs. Billie Ayers, Mrs. Ed Elliott and Miss Alma Phillips.

Early in the afternoon, Mr. and Mrs. Fenwick left for a wedding trip to Florida after which they will be at home in Water Valley. For traveling the bride wore a tailored suit of grey flannel. Her accessories were deep purple. She wore an orchid corsage.

SPAGHETTI SUPPER HONORS GRENELLS; TO LEAVE CITY

Mr. and Mrs. Vyron Mitchell, were hosts to a delightful spaghetti supper Sunday night at their home, honoring Dr. and Mrs. Walter Grenell, who will leave soon to report for duty in the U. S. Navy. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Johnson were co-hosts.

The delicious supper was served buffet style from an attractively appointed table, centered with beautiful Christmas arrangements.

The guest list included about sixteen invited guests.

Master of Grand Lodge and Grand Committeeman, Councils U. D. Grand Council of Ky. Each officer introduced received a gift from the Fulton and Hickman Chapters which were presented by Mrs. Max McKnight. Mrs. Eunice Robinson, our own Past Worthy Grand Matron was unable to be present.

The Worthy Grand Matron's objectives for the year are the Shriner's hospital for crippled children and the O. E. S. Home in Louisville, Ky. A collection of $25.67 was taken for this.

At this time the Fulton officers vacated their stations for the Hickman officers. Mrs. Ed Gaskins, a candidate for membership in the Hickman Chapter was impressively initiated into the Order. Following the initiation Mrs. Wachtman made a very beneficial and inspiring address to the chapters. The meeting closed with the usual ceremonies and the officers retired in proper form.

After the closing of the meeting a social hour followed in the reception room. Delicious punch and cookies were served. Mrs. John T. Price presided at the punch bowl.

Others Chapters represented at the inspection were: Murray, Cuba, Folsomdale, Paducah, Mayfield, Wingo and Clinton.

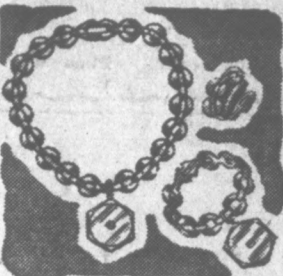

The next regular meeting of the Fulton Chapter will be in the Masonic Hall on Tuesday night, Dec. 9 at 7:30 for an initiating. All members are asked to be present and visitors are always welcome.

Observe Golden Wedding Anniversary Wednesday

One of Fulton's most beloved couples observed their golden wedding anniversary on Wednesday. They celebrated their occasion the preceding week end in order that their children could be at home with them.

Mr. Collins, a retired railroad employee, began work for the Illinois Central Railroad Company on the Mississippi Division in January 1899. He and his family moved to Fulton for the second time in May 1925. They are members of the First Baptist Church of this city and Mr. Collins has served as Sunday School teacher and deacon for many years.

They have five children: Mrs. Clara C. Shirley of Nashville, Miss Sarah Collins, at home, Clarence Collins of West Memphis, Ark., and Milton Collins of New Orleans, and a son, who died in infancy. There are five grandchildren: Patricia, Nancy and Sue Shirley, Clem R. II, and Terry Collins.

The staff of the News joins the many friends of this worthy couple in extending congratulations and good wishes to them.

Jesse Stuart, well-known contemporary poet and novelist, was born near Greenup, Ky.

..TID BITS.."LAYERS OF PAINT"

My house, as is probably appropriate, is an old one, built back in the days of cut nails and yellow poplar. In fact, all the old part of it, from sills to rafters, is yellow poplar, probably sawed right here in Warren County. Even the elaborately carved door facings are of the same wood, not something imported from the West Coast. When this house was built, the West Coast was, figuratively if not actually, much farther away; and there was still a lot of good timber around here.

Yellow poplar is not especially to the taste of termites; hence, my timbers still preserve their ancient form and soundness.

As the years have come and gone, I have made or had made some additions to the house, so that it is not entirely what it used to be, though it preserves its front with no visible change. Because of recent layers of paint over much of it, what it used to be in color is now erased; white paint and green shutters make it look as if it had always been just as it is now in its complexion. But that is not true.

This summer, when the temperature was at its height, I took a blow torch and removed some badly cracked paint on the walls of the front porch. Before I had worked at this more than a few minutes, I began to realize how the layers of paint had chronicled a long lifetime for the house and its present and former occupants. Down through the outside five or six or maybe more layers I recognized the paint that I had put on in the thirty-four years that I have lived here.

Each one brought back the year and some of the events that were going on when the paint was spread. This yellowish layer, a way down in the thickness of the paint, was the first one I put on, away back in 1920. But there were several others below that one, layers that meant nothing to me personally, as they were the work of some former owner or someone whom he employed to paint the house. One of those layers was very tenacious; I had great difficulty in getting it removed, even with my blow torch.

Finally I came down to the yellow poplar weatherboarding and was astounded at its soundness and beauty. What were eighty or ninety years to weatherboarding that had been encased in these numerous layers of paint? After the last of the breaks had been remedied, I gave the newly-uncovered wood a priming coat and then covered the planks up again with gleaming white hoping that this treatment will keep them as sound as the numerous layers have kept them for the better part of a century.

Quite naturally, as a folklorist,

I drew an analogy between this unconscious piling up of paint and the accumulation of human customs. Down under some of the outside white or other modern paint still repose in untouched state the paints or customs of other times, buried so deeply that they are not known to exist until some break occurs that cuts down through all that had covered them so long. Like the tree layers of growth, the whole history of the race is wrapped up in these hidden customs. If some calamity were to occur, somewhat comparable to burning off the outside layers, there is no telling what we might find hidden within our civilization, both good and bad.

In many a building in Europe later generations had grown tired of some famous painting on the wall or some ornate carving on the woodwork and had painted over covered them over with some more modern paint or a picture. Art connoisseurs found some uncovered bits and gradually removed the later layers, often finding work of great importance untouched below. I am often reminded of an acquaintance of mine who certainly took into his own hands the making of priceless antiques into modern furniture.

He and his wife had been left as caretakers of the house of a famous German professor in one of the big universities. The house was almost a treasure house of furniture that the family had accumulated through forty years of travel abroad. When the caretaker's baby was born, a ditsy old cradle was found in the attic; it was a matter of a few hours to saw off the rockers, making a beautiful baby bed, for cradles were no longer fashionable. Then a coat of two modern paint made the old cradle bright and shiny.

When the professor and his family returned from their years abroad, the rosewood cradle was this botched up baby bed, and the rockers had been fed to the furnace. I have never known what was done with what was left. Maybe that baby bed is still reposing in its layers of paint; maybe it has been redone and refitted with rockers for the second and the third generation.

FARM BUREAU TO AID 4-H ADULTS

The County Farm Bureau is acting as sponsoring organization for the organization of an Association of adult leaders in 4-H Club work.

This organization is made up of directors, adult 4-H leaders each residing in one of the approximately 20 neighborhoods of Fulton County. Each of these directors is responsible in helping the boys of his neighborhood to carry on his 4-H Project. This adult guidance will give all 4-H boys more individual aids in obtaining project material (calves, chickens, pigs, and etc.), carrying on the project work, and the disposal of the project. This added adult supervision will permit the County Agent and Assistant Agent to reach more boys by working through local leaders.

Such 4-H Associations have been, and are being organized in several neighboring Western Kentucky Counties.

The first meeting of this Association will be held December 3rd

Kentucky Railroad Commission, with an attorney telling the State regulatory body:

"The local rail passenger train is a thing of the past... a dead animal."

Meanwhile, residents along the Frankfort and Cincinnati Railroad line that seeks to discontinue passenger service between Frankfort and Paris told the Commission the line would attract far more passengers if it changed its schedule to "meet needs of the public." The line represented to the Commission that it is losing $1,000 a day.

Is Your Wife Exceeding the Load Limit?

You'd probably be surprised to see your wife driving a truck down the street loaded with 13 tons of clothes—wouldn't you?

That's the weight of the clothes the average housewife lifts every year doing the laundry. From washer to wringer, from tub to tub, to clothesline—it adds up to about 13 back-breaking tons a year.

And it's all so unnecessary. Automatic electric laundry equipment—washer, dryer and ironer—do away with lifting and handling of hot, steamy, heavy clothes. It's just a half-step from the automatic washer to the automatic dryer. No more lugging heavy baskets upstairs and downstairs—indoors and outdoors—no more contending with the weather.

Let automatic laundry equipment eliminate the laundry "load" in your home.

Ask your dealer for a demonstration.

"HANGING" ARTICLE BRINGS COMMENT FROM READERS; CONCLUDED THIS ISSUE

The News has had considerable comment on the first installment of the article concerning J. O. Vincent. The editors wish to correct the impression left last week that the story was written by Mr. Vincent for it was not. The article was written by the publishers of the Martin Mail who were great friends of Mr. Vincent's.

We conclude the article this week and regret the error.

"Well, as the story books used to say, once upon a time when I was a small boy, living four miles north of Dresden, my uncle, Baldwin, Crawford, who lived in Dresden, sent a runner to my father's house with the awful intelligence that a Mr. Peck had been murdered the night before by negroes who were his own slaves, and who lived near Dresden on the Huntingdon road.

"Now, our family, the Vincents, and the Crawfords and the Pecks were all related, and the news scared us children nearly to death. For several months we were afraid to get out of the house after nightfall—and we used to huddle around the older people and listen to their talk and watch every door and window furtively, and jump at every sharp noise or bark of the dog. Often I have stayed awake hour after hour listening at the wind or rain and watching the great 'back-log' on the big fireplace, during the cool spring nights, wondering about the murderers and what they would do with them.

"And sometimes I would dream about them, too, and have a 'night-mare' and wake every body on the place. Then I would be scolded and maybe threatened with the 'hickory'.

"But after they found out that these threats would do no good—that it was the result of the stories told of the murder, they grew easier on me until, finally, the affair almost passed from my mind.

"Then it was all brought back by the trial. The negroes were found guilty and condemned to be hanged. The day for the execution was set, and when it came a great crowd of men and women, old and young, and even children and babies were present to witness it.

"The day was hot and sultry, and I well remember the supreme moment when Sheriff Roffe mounted the stand. I was trembling like a leaf and my companion, a boy about my own age, Gus

Hays, my nephew, hung close to our party, and cast scared, furtive glances at the grim, unrelenting scaffold before us. We looked at Roffe closely, and the solemn expression on his face frightened us all the more. Yet around us some of the heartless ones of the lower class gived and poked fun at the poor, helpless creatures as they mounted the steps. Even yet I can remember the disgust and loathing that mingled with my fear when the remarks of these people reached me. The faces of the poor fellows were blanched and almost colorless, and their steps slow and shaky. The looked about over the crowd in almost a hunted way, despair on every line of their countenances. Sheriff Roffe stepped forward slowly, and I jumped as he spoke, the spell of the hanging having gripped me so forcibly.

"Ladies and gentlemen: said he, 'close up your umbrellas and padfolios for five minutes so everybody can see.' "Then there was a craning of necks and pushing and crowding masses of humanity edged nearer the scene. There were tears in the eyes of the Sheriff, but he did his duty. The trap fell amid almost breathless silence, every eye being glued to the two forms swinging slowly back and forth and round and round. An awful awe seemed to pervade the entire crowd for the nine minutes that they hung there, an awe that, to me, is terrible to this good day. I have never felt anything like that sensation since, and I never did before. The poor wretches were buried a few yards of the scaffold, and the still silent crowd broke into little knots of two or three and wended their way slowly homeward.

"News was soon afloat that the doctors would put the graves that night. This put Gus and me to thinking. So we lay in our stable loft until late waiting for the doctors to come. A slight noise was heard by us about eleven o'clock, and we almost fell out of that loft in our scramble to reach the ground. Then to the house we went as fast as our legs could carry us. Not another time for days would we venture to leave the house after dark. Gus lived almost in sight of the hanging, and every time there was a noise I would jump and crawl closer to the older members of the family. Gus and I were simply afraid to breathe.

"And then, as time somewhat soothed us of our fright and the scene grew obscured, came the near-tragedy. It is funny, now, when I think of it, but then it was anything but funny. Now I can see myself being 'worked' to perfection by Gus, who was the sharper. I think, though, to this good day he denies it and vows he would have given his best jaw, his empty spoons and the longest string in his pocket for the 'pleasure' as he expresses it, of hanging first.

"Anyhow, we were down in my father's orchard playing under a large mulberry tree, while the entire family, which was a large one, was engaged in picking up apples and peaches to carry to the still-house to make brandy. The negro hanging came into our conversation, and we decided that we could do anything that anybody else could, so we would play hanging awhile. Securing a rope and keeping everything a secret, we went back to the tree. Gus being the sharper, ruled that I should hang first, to which I consented. A long limb reaching out twelve feet or more was an ideal place to hang a fellow. After tying my hands behind me, as I sat on the limb with the noose around my neck, Gus crawled out and tied the rope securely. Then I turned losses and there I was swinging by the neck with no possible chance to extricate myself.

"Gus, said I, I can do something that you can't. He answered that it was not so—that he could do anything I could, and was ready to prove it. Then I slyly opened a peach and took out the seed and closing it together again without him suspecting anything. Taking it in my hand, I told him I would bet him fifty dollars that I could peel that peach and eat it seed and all. He said I could not do it.

"Suiting my actions to the word, I chewed on the peach, and then with a powerful effort I swallowed. He sat staring at my utter astonishment, his eyes bulging and my mouth open. Finally, finding his voice, he exclaimed, 'By jacks, I can do anything you can!' Taking a peach from the pile, he peeled it and put it in his mouth, and I could hear his teeth grating on the seed. With a terrible effort he swallowed, and the big seed started slowly down. Slower and slower it went, as closer grew the passage, until about half-way down it stopped, turned crossways and fastened itself there.

"He coughed and coughed, turned somersaults, ran backward, got down on his all-fours, up again, and put himself in sundry and divers positions, to no good. I sat there and laughed till the tears ran down my face in streams, while he, almost black in the face, performed the feats in a vain effort to dislodge the seed.

"Hardly a sound, then, could he utter—he was long past speaking—but he looked at me piteously, his eyes almost popping from his head, his mouth open, and the water streaming from it. He tried to reach the cause with his finger, but it was a little too far. He stood on his head, but it held fast.

"Finally, his exertions growing fiercer and his coughing deeper, with greater efforts to rid himself of the seed, the blood in great mouthfuls came gushing from his throat. Then I saw and felt that Sister Minerva's help was again needed, and needed badly. I had got enough revenge. The blood coming so fast from my playmate's mouth sobered me in an instant. I had lost every particle of fun. I had already forgotten the capers he cut—I had already forgotten that he had been my hangerman.

"Gus Got Over It With a yell I made for the house, my heels flying, my feet hitting the ground in high places. I wanted help and I wanted it quick. Every step I took and every jump I made jolted a yell from me louder and more appealing than the noise before it. Half the family heard me and came running to see what was the matter. Without a word of explanation I started back when I met them, the others at my heels. Sister Minerva showing that she had the 'staying qualities'. It seemed that we would never get there; every minute was an hour, and I wondered if Gus were dead. I wondered if I were the cause of it, and if they would hang me. Over the ground I flew, Minerva at my heels, panting and blowing almost like a steam engine. Gus was black in the face when we reached him, and I gasped out the truth. Then such a beating I never saw in my life. They hit him in the back, in the sides and shook him, rolled him and stood him on his head and shook him again. Finally after a mighty effort, it came, covered with blood.

"For some time he was mighty self and fast chocking to death. "And here again is where Gus and I differ. He vows he was yelling because his finger was under that rope, and declares he thought he was hurt much the worse of the two.

"I believe, though, that he saw our mistake and began calling lustily for help to get me down. The seconds seemed like hours to me, swinging there gasping once or twice. My breath, what little I got, grew shorter, then stopped altogether, and everything began to turn round and round and then became black as night, and I was floating off into space—inky black space, so easily.

"I do not know how long I hung there, but Gus' cries soon brought my sister, Minerva, at break-neck speed. They tell me she raised my body while another member of the family cut the rope. I was carried to the house half dead, while Gus brought up the rear almost unnoticed, scared out of his wits, panting like a lizard, afraid of the result of our rash act.

"And he was mighty good to me while I lay on the bed and regained my strength. He would sit around with a face as long as your arm, and every chance he got he would edge nearer to me and whisper some piece of cheering news about the new calf or the young colt.

"But I grew better, and as I did so he grew careless and one day had the nerve to poke fun at me. Then the other took it up, and for weeks I never heard the last of my hanging. It grew monotonous, and finally obnoxious, and then it made my life a burden until I could stand it no longer. I was determined to have revenge, and—well, I got it, and more than was coming to me; and I believe to this good day Gus thinks he got more than his share, too.

"We were again in the orchard—this time under a peach tree that was loaded with ripe, juicy fruit that makes my mouth water even yet. And, do you know, I don't believe we have as good peaches as we used to.

"We picked up about a peck of these clear-seeds and sat down to see which could eat the greatest number, laying the stones beside us, to be counted afterwards. I was itching for my revenge, and I was, all unsuspecting, walked into the trap so rapidly that I was surprised he was 'easy'.

"Gus, said I, I can do something that you can't. He answered that it was not so—that he could do anything I could, and was ready to prove it. Then I slyly opened a peach and took out the seed and closing it together again without him suspecting anything. good to me—and you may bet that I was good to him, too. But then it could not last. He began to nag and 'guy' me again and threatening to hang me. Then I fixed him good and plenty, and after that he was the best fellow you ever saw for a long time.

"Yes, I retorted, after getting tired of his guying, 'and if you fool with me I will make you choke your fool self to death.' Then, pointing to the grindstone, which was mounted on a four section of a small peach tree and stood on four spreading legs three feet high, I continued, 'If you say another word to me, fellow, I'll make you swallow that, too.'

"There I had him. He looked at me and then at the grindstone, and words failed him; then he looked at me again in speechless disgust and Vincent's eyes twinkled as he finished, and he looked at me and smiled and I had to confess that they had both been as great kids, in the Tom Sawyer fashion, as could be found. Then Vincent put the finishing touches to his story:

"I had a letter from Gus the other day about this very thing. You should see it. I'll let you react it some time. He is still one of the best friends I've got in the world."

Former Fultonians Observe Anniversary

On Sunday, November 30, Mr. and Mrs. John Averitt, who formerly lived in Fulton, observed their golden wedding anniversary at the home of their daughter, Mrs. R. W. Terry in Jackson, Miss.

More than one hundred guests attended open house, given by children of this couple, and they were served cake, tea, mints and nuts from a beautiful table draped in a gold cloth and overlaid in lace. Gold candles were used in gold holders and the tiered wedding cake was decorated in gold flowers.

Mrs. Sam Winston of this city, who is a sister of Mrs. Averitt, attended the open house. Also Albert and Charles Hutchens of Fulton are brothers of Mrs. Averitt and Mrs. A. L. Roper of this city is a sister of Mr. Averitt.

Mayfield, Ky., is named for an early Kentucky pioneer whose name was found carved on a tree near the site where the city now stands.

CARR INSTITUTE SCHOOL NEWS

(Too late for last week)
Dear Jo:
Carr Institute was so busy till Wednesday trying to survive six weeks tests that we didn't realize that we had a two day Thanksgiving holiday (Thursday and Friday) till we were through with six weeks tests and believe me the holidays came as quite a relief.

Jr. High has certainly gone in for Thanksgiving decorations this year. In my room we have both of our blackboards covered with Thanksgiving drawings. In 8-1 the room is covered with Thanksgiving posters. In 7-1 the blackboards are covered with Thanksgiving drawings also.

Carr Institute and particularly 7-11 is sorry that Ann Anderson is leaving us.

Jr. High is getting their basketball team in ship shape and before long we will be playing some games.

Mrs. Bennett's sixth grade presented their parents with the play "The First Thanksgiving", Tuesday. Afterwards refreshments were served.

Happy Thanksgiving, Jo!
Your friend,
Ella Doyle

Music Club Meets

The third regular meeting of the Beethoven Music Club was held at the Fulton Woman's Club, Wednesday, November 19, 1952 at 3 o'clock.

The meeting was called to order by Marion Blackstone.

Refreshments were then served by Millie McDade, Anne Fall, Joan Carter, and Diane Wright. The theme of Thanksgiving was carried out in the decorations.

In the business meeting a Christmas party was discussed to take place of the December meeting.

A lovely program was presented by Gloria Hinton. The following were on program: Sidney Callahan, Nancy Bushart, Nancy Omar, and Ella Doyle, playing the piano. Ann Fall gave a musical quiz.

A game committee was appointed to arrange games to be played at the Christmas party, they are Anne Fall, Millie McDade, Gloria Hinton, and Diane Wright.

Rev. M. W. Kiphart, pastor of the First Christian Church will speak to the student body at assembly Friday morning, December 5. Following his talk, the second year Home Economics girls, under the direction of Miss Grace Barnes, will give a style show modeling the winter dresses which they have just completed.

The Girls' Glee Club is planning a special Christmas program which they will present as a chapel program shortly before the Christmas holidays. Jane Kearby, Louise Kiphart, and Paula June Hornsby were appointed chairman of the program.

School was dismissed Tuesday, December 2, at noon, for a city and county wide teachers' meeting which was held at Hickman High School. School was also dismissed at 2:30 Wednesday afternoon, December 3, for the P. T. A. meeting.

Jennings Kearby, First District representative in the Kentucky Legislature, spoke to the student body Tuesday morning, November 25, on the subject of George Rogers Clark. The speech was part of the state-wide observance honoring the birthday of

New Dual-Streak Pontiacs Announced for '53

In nationwide dealer showings, Pontiac Division of General Motors today introduced its new line of Dual-Streak Chieftain models, featuring longer wheelbase, increased vision and new curve-control front suspension. Advanced styling is marked by smooth contours, rear fender fin and high deck lid, one-piece curved windshield, wrap-around one-piece rear windows, roomier interiors and entirely new radiator grille and chrome treatment. Above is the new Custom Catalina, one of 11 body types in three Chieftain series: Special, De Luxe and Custom. Wheelbase for all series is 122 inches, with Power Steering as optional equipment.

The Cayce Chapter of Future Farmers of America has planned a full year's program of work, with the following officers in charge:

Henry Smith, president; Billy Atwill, vice-president; George Jones, Secretary; Nicky McClanahan, Treasurer; Aaron Workman, Reporter; and Billy Lawson, Sentinel.

In the October meeting, 7 members were initiated as greenhands and were given their Greenhand pins. They were:

Gerald Alexander, Ralph Cook, Bobby Jones, Jimmy Luker, Richard Scarce, Charles Sisson, and Jimmy Yates.

As a shop project the F. F. A. boys have been building farm equipment for local farms. This fall they have built and sold 22 gates and a hay and grain rack for cattle, and they are still taking orders from farmers who need them.

On the night of initiation a delicious barbecue supper was enjoyed by the members, Eugene Waggoner, Chapter advisor, and two guests, Charles Bennett and Bobby Hendon.

Roma Satterfield

Well, here we are back at school after our wonderful Thanksgiving holidays.

We were all very glad to see Bailey Binford, who has been home this past week. He came to school Wednesday. He left for Warm Springs, Georgia Thursday. We are all looking forward to the day when he comes home again.

If you want a basketball season ticket, see Charles Sevier. And speaking of basketball, everyone is very excited over our first game tonight when we play Western here.

Wednesday every one went around looking apprehensive, then either happy or sad. We got our report cards in case you haven't guessed.

Well I guess that is about all. Good-bye until next week.

BANKERS TO HELP FREEDOM CRUSADE

Robert Steptoe

At least six Kentucky bankers, including two bank presidents, and an official of the Kentucky Bankers Association, have leading roles in the 1952 Crusade For Freedom in Kentucky.

At the State campaign headquarters, in Louisville, and traveling throughout the State's 120 Counties, Robert P. Steptoe, on loan from the KBA, is serving as executive director of the campaign. Steptoe is public relations director of the bankers association.

Treasurer for the State campaign is Matthew W. King, vice-president of Citizens Fidelity Bank & Trust Co., Louisville.

All of the several county chairmen have not been selected, but of those who have agreed to serve six are bank executives. These

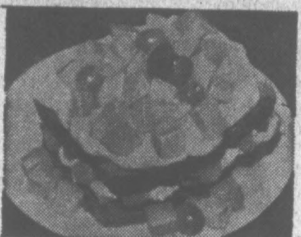

NEW TREATS FOR THE HOLIDAYS MADE EASY WITH CANNED FRUIT COCKTAIL

Marguerite Mickelsen

FRUIT ICE CREAM SWIRL—exciting, inexpensive, easy dessert with a rainbow all through it! Chill and drain a No. 2½ can of fruit cocktail. Prepare 1 package strawberry-flavored gelatin as package directs. Chill until set. Arrange fruit cocktail, gelatin, and 1 pint vanilla ice cream in layers in tall glasses. Serve at once. Serves 6 to 8.

The five luscious fruits which are combined in California fruit cocktail—golden cling peaches, pears, pineapple, grapes and cherries, make a perfect dessert when simply chilled and spooned from the can but can be used to make easy appetizers and salads as well as holiday desserts. Because the fruit is close-packed in each can it is an especially economical buy too.

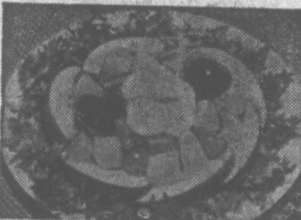

RED CIRCLE FRUIT SALAD—quick, thrifty! Chill and drain 1 can fruit cocktail. Arrange thin slices of unpeeled red apple in circle on salad greens. Fill center with fruit cocktail.

Top generously with your favorite mayonnaise or salad dressing.

FESTIVE SHORTCAKE—easy as you wish! Cut white cake into slices, using cake made at home your favorite way, or pound cake from your bakery or grocery store.

Make dessert "sandwiches" with bright canned fruit cocktail and whipped cream as filling and topping.

4 Kentucky 4-H'ers Earn High Honors

HIGH HONORS were accorded four Kentucky 4-H'ers for their top records in the 1952 National 4-H Dress Revue, Farm and Home Electric, Safety, Field Crops programs. Each received an educational trip to the 81st National 4-H Club Congress, Chicago, November 30-December 4. Highlights of their club careers are given below.

Edith Sue Terry

Shirley Vaughn

Norma Weiss

Representing Kentucky in the National 4-H Dress Revue program will be Edith Sue Terry, 21, Valley Station. Through her 4-H project work, planning and making a harmonious ensemble has become a simple matter to Edith Sue. Poise, good grooming habits, improved personality and a considerable savings in dollars have also been gained along the way. For her prize-winning ensemble, Edith wore a two-piece brown costume of men's suiting, a dusty pink shorty coat, white blouse, brown hat, white gloves stitched in brown, and brown lizard shoes and bag. The skirt of her dressmaker suit has a kick-pleat in the center back, and the perky poodle cloth coat is soft and full. Edith will be the guest of Simplicity Pattern Co. at the Chicago Club Congress.

An outstanding 4-H Field Crops record yielded state honors to Shirley Vaughn, 16, of Campbellsville. Living on the 116-acre farm of her parents, the T. H. Vaughns, she put to good use the skill and know-how gained during two years in field crops. Keeping farm machinery in top-notch condition, careful selection and treatment of soil and scientific methods of seed conservation, helped her in the growing of her crop. From March 3 when she burned the tobacco bed and sowed it on the 5th until the stripping was begun on October 10th, some 300 man hours were spent on her half-acre tobacco project. This ambitious farmette ended up with 35 to 40 leaves in a hand, twelve hands on a stick and 204 stripped stubs including the prime tobacco.

All these national 4-H programs are conducted under the direction of the Cooperative Extension Service.

co. This marketed at over 1,340 pounds, and the crop won her a prize at a district show. Her trip to the Congress was provided by International Harvester.

Norma Weiss, 17, of Augusta, has accomplished noteworthy results in the 4-H Farm and Home Safety program, for which she received the General Motors trip award to the Chicago Club Congress. By means of surveys, demonstrations and other aids, she has helped to make her community more safety conscious. She has found and corrected 141 hazards, including accumulated rubbish, defective wiring, loaded guns, over-waxed floors, and unanchored rugs. Using her sister as a "patient" in her various demonstrations on first aid bandaging, she reached nearly 2,000 persons. She prepared safety exhibits for two county fairs which were seen by 10,000 persons.

State winner in the 4-H Farm and Home Electric program, Anna Lee Stice, 17, of Brownsville, was awarded the Westinghouse Educational Foundation all-expense trip to National 4-H Club Congress. A better understanding of electricity and the know-how gained during four years in the project, has meant greater productivity, better management and more leisure time for the Stice family. Anna Lee put her skill to good use this year when she converted an oil lamp into an electrical one for a cash outlay of seventy-five cents. She also made an attractive table lamp from a discarded coffee mill. The quality of all Anna Lee's project work has been excellent.

BEAUTIFUL CHRISTIAN SCIENCE HOME TO BE DEDICATED HERE ON DECEMBER 7TH

Christian Science Society, 211 Carr Street, Fulton, Kentucky, will dedicate its new church edifice on Sunday, December 7, 1952, with two services, one to be conducted at 11 o'clock in the morning, and the other at 3 o'clock in the afternoon. The subject of the Lesson-Sermon is "God the Only Cause and Creator," with Golden Text from Psalms 86: "All nations whom thou hast made shall come and worship before thee, O Lord: and shall glorify thy name. For thou art great, and doest wondrous things: thou art God alone." The public is cordially invited to attend the dedication services.

Interest in Christian Science among several families in this community led a small group to hold church services in a private home on Norman Street, beginning the first Sunday in October, 1927. Since this first meeting, regular Sunday services, Wednesday testimony meetings, and a Christian Science Sunday School have been maintained.

After holding services for three Sundays in the private home, this group was joined by interested Christian Science students from the surrounding communities, and transferred the location of their services to the American Legion Hall, over L. Kaspow's on Lake Street, where they continued until late in the Spring of 1928, at which time a room over Fall & Fall Insurance Company on Main Street was rented. It was here, in July 1928, that they were officially organized as a Christian Science Reading Group. Growth and unfoldment was substantial during this period, and in October, 1931, the group, with members from Fulton, Hickman, Martin, and Crutchfield, was recognized as a Christian Science Society by The Mother Church, the First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Massachusetts. Three years thereafter additional room was needed, and in August, 1934, the present site of the church now being dedicated was purchased. At the time of the purchase of this property, the residence located thereon was remodeled and made suitable for church services, Sunday School meetings, and a Christian Science Reading Room, open to the public. With facilities with which to better serve the community in the work of God, it was natural for this church to be rewarded, and in April, 1951, the old building was torn down and construction of the present new, brick veneer building was begun. Seven months later, on October 7, 1951, the first service in the newly constructed edifice was held, a glorious tribute to the love of God. The new edifice, with interior furnishings and woodwork beautifully finished in natural Birch, will comfortably accommodate an attendance of one hundred and twenty-five, and by use of accordion doors may be enlarged to a seating capacity of two hundred. The Sunday School rooms, adjoining the church auditorium, are equipped for fifty pupils, where the Bible, the King James version, and the Christian Science text-book, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy, are used in teaching pupils up to the age of 20. A room has been provided where infants and small children may be cared for by an attendant during church services. Also in the edifice is a Christian Science Reading Room, with entrance on South Carr Street, open to the public, where the Bible and all the books written by Mrs. Eddy, and other authorized literature on Christian Science, may be read, borrowed, or purchased. Reading Room hours are Wednesday through Saturday from 2 to 4 p. m.

As Christian Science churches must be free from debt before dedication, gratitude for loving assistance given by the Selma C. Cornish Fund; the Trustees under the Will of Mary Baker Eddy; and all those who have made the fulfillment of dedication possible at this time is hereby acknowledged with heartfelt thanks.

Mrs. Edgar Grissom

There was a good attendance at the Mission on Saturday evening, but due to it being so bad and cold, there was only a few there Sunday afternoon and night. Rev. John McClure preached at the Sunday afternoon service and everyone enjoyed his message very much.

The entire community is in sympathy with Mr. and Mrs. Fred Collier, who lost their home and belongings in a fire last week.

Mattie Sutton celebrated her 14th birthday Wednesday, December 3. Congratulations Mattie and we wish you many, many more happy birthdays.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Grissom spent Friday evening with Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Noles and daughters in Riceville.

Mrs. Hullman Collier and children, Mrs. J. C. Olive and son attended the play party at Cayce school last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sutton and family attended the birthday dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Sutton in Water Valley, Sunday. It was J. P.'s 22nd birthday.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Thompson killed three hogs Friday.

Mr. and Mrs. Raymond Sutton, Mr. and Mrs. Jim McFadden and Mr. and Mrs. Vance Hicks killed six hogs Tuesday.

The school children returned to school Monday after a long week end for the Thanksgiving holidays.

Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Grissom spent Thanksgiving with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. M. W. Weatherford and family of Springhill.

Those enjoying a turkey dinner at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Moore and Albert Thanksgiving were: Mr. and Mrs. Jim McDaniel, Mrs. Vie Killebrew, Mr. and Mrs.

N. B. Roberson and sons, Mrs. Nora Sterling, Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Sutton and family and Mrs. Jocie Hicks.

Mr. and Mrs. Willis Hicks and little Bill have returned from Chicago where he has been working. They are staying with their parents at the present.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Moser and daughter, Patsy, of Uborn, Ohio left Tuesday after spending the Thanksgiving holidays with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Moser, Mary and Joe, Jack is also here for a 30-day leave from overseas. He will leave the 15th for overseas duty. They also visited his sister, Mrs. J. W. Noles and family.

Mr. Earl Hopkins is on the sick list.

Mrs. Ernest Sullivan spent Monday in Mayfield shopping.

Patsy and Beverly Davis spent Saturday in Mayfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Bobby Yates moved to Mayfield.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fields, Dianne and Ronda of Jackson, Tenn., spent Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Fields and son.

Mrs. Lola Gosson visited Mrs. Beulah Sutton one day last week.

Mr. and Mrs. Fug Vaughn's little daughter has scarlet fever.

Mr. and Mrs. Jonah Hopkins spent Thanksgiving with Mr. and Mrs. Earl Hopkins.

Mr. and Mrs. John Hopkins had Thanksgiving dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Charlie Jackson and family.

PLANS COMPLETED FOR U. K. MEN'S RESIDENCE HALL—Construction is expected to begin in January on the University of Kentucky's new men's residence hall. The new $1,500,000 dormitory, shown above in a drawing by architect John F. Wilson of Lexington, has been designed to house 250 students and to provide dining facilities for 1,500. A loan of $1,400,000 has been approved by the federal government, and the Kentucky Property and Building Commission has allocated an additional $500,000 for the structure. It will take at least two years to complete construction.

Must not leave out the coffee that Charlie Haskill is providing. The gals buy perfume called "Evening in Paris," but the aroma is called "Temptation" and he will be tempted to stay, for a week. All in all we propose having a jolly good time and are not revealing a doggone thing.

So when he arrives there will be no more news about him than there is supposed to be out of Korea. And I am not revealing a thing.

—Bill of Harris Fork

(Ed's Note: Ain't it a shame Stevenson wasn't elected. He isn't married and certainly could have been an interesting visitor for all those widows you're always talking about.)

BYNE APPOINTED

Commissioner of Welfare Luther T. Goheen announced selection of William H. Byne, head of the Greendale Houses of Reform, as director of Kentucky Youth Authority. Byne, former assistant superintendent of the Louisville and Jefferson County Children's Home, will continue as head of the Houses of Reform. The Youth Agency was created by the 1952 General Assembly and will supervise a new youth rehabilitation program.

BILL OF HARRIS FORK

Water Valley folks are very old fashioned, oh very old, I reckon because when they make up their mind to marry up they just get some kind of a license, grab onto a preacher or somebody and proceed to put the Dime Store ring to work.

That's where the City gals have it all over the Water Valley Bells. The City gal will start off with "Miss Speiglehaupt reveals the dope on her coming hookup with Jeremiah McGook." It was a deep dyed mystery up to right now the folks have been getting hitched since Noah drove the first spike in the ARK. Then day after day there are columns and columns in the daily papers till folks are glad when that "revealed" day shows up and the same columns can tell us about Gen. Ike and retinue going to visit Water Valley in July and wants especially to see Camp Beauregard where the Cotton Pickers knocked over so many damyankees and then died of pneumonia themselves.

"We are going to give them a feed of our famous country sausage and a mess of our celebrated waffles and sorghum. He will not want to leave after all of that. The eggs will be poached in some of our country ham red gravy. Bet he will want to engage some of our cooks for the White House."

CODE OPPOSED

Kentucky's Judicial Conference—composed of Circuit and Appellate Judges—voiced disapproval of a proposed major change in Kentucky's new Code of Civil Procedure that would require open hearings in all equity cases—rather than permit them to be heard by deposition. The Circuit Judges' Division of the Conference, voted 23 to 12 against the proposal.

JUDGMENT GRANTED

The State Department of Revenue obtained judgment in Franklin Circuit Court for $250,525.58 against American Suppliers, subsidiary of American Tobacco Company, for additional income taxes, penalties and interest for a five-year period. The suit grew out of a disagreement over the method of computing taxes.

ROAD PLAN PROPOSED

A group of Kentucky Highway 15 residents—headed by Dewey Daniel, Hazard, proposed to the State Highway Department and Governor Wetherby construction of a $25,000,000 toll road between Winchester and Hazard that would shorten the distance thirty miles. Wetherby suggested that a traffic count be made over the proposed route.

VERSATILE MR. MEILINGER

Kentucky's nomination for All-America honors, 220-pound quarterback-end Steve Meilinger, may be one of the most versatile athletes in major college football today. He was an all-conference end last year and this season has won his fame at quarterback, defensive safety, linebacker, offensive and defensive end, and as the team's punter.
