I believe I've heard everything now. The other day I found out about ole Pete, a Negro yardman whom a lot of you know. Pete's family thought he looked a little peaked around the eyes so they decided to give him a dose of castor oil. He took it one night and the next day, the family thought he needed another swig. Pete would have none of it, so he left the house and disappeared for some time. When found they asked where he had been and he said he had been making his basket. The family looked high and low for the thing, but Pete said it was hidden in the weeds somewhere and wouldn't tell where it was.

Signs of the times: On the marquee of a local theatre this week, "The Big Heat," "It Grows on Trees." The other day I saw this one: "Giva a Girl A Break" in Technicolor.

WIND-JAMMER. With grammarians and leading newpeople in America advocating the short, staccato sentence in writing I found this one in the local competition the other day:

"Sunday evening, shortly before 8, we had just completed writing an article about how happy Oscar, a small red Pick-nese dog, had made his mistress, six-year-old Donna Carol Looney by returning home over the week end after being lost for the past week, when we had to make a trip to the grocery store."

The dog was a Pekinese. The sentence 55 words.

Speaking of dogs, Bud Hughes called the other day and asked what I'd do with a fellow who would leave a mother and three stray pups on the highway. Thinking quickly about all the stray dogs and cats I have to feed at my house, I said, without thinking, "I'd give him a Carnegie medal." Bud got indignant. He had been caring and feeding for the family in the back of the telephone office and wants me to help find them a good home. Since I acted hastily in the matter then I'll just remind folks that Bud has a litter of pups and anybody caring for man's best friend, can get one of them.

Want to call especial attention to our correspondents in the New Hope, Rock Springs and Middle Road Communities. Their weekly newsletter arrived on Monday and that means they got set in the early part of the week and were sure of getting in on the first run. Our correspondents are some of our favorite people and are as loyal as loyalty can be. I know it takes time and effort to get the news rounded up each week and we do want you to know how much we appreciate it. We hate more than anything to leave out a letter when we have to, but production problems sometimes make it necessary. If you can find the time to send them in on Monday or Tuesday, they will nearly always get in.

I want to acknowledge the lovely poems sent in to me by our good friend Mattie Bernhard of Farmington, Mich. I enjoyed reading them very much and want to thank you, Mattie, for sending them.

Judge Homer Roberts deserves some kind of special commendation for getting the blinker light erected at the dangerous intersection at the "Y" on the road to Hickman and Clinton. The responsibility for any hazards is left to the motorist now. He certainly must slow up as he approaches the dangerous intersection and if he doesn't he can't say he wasn't warned. Thanks, Judge Roberts, for your keen interest in such matters.

Never too busy department: The Nelson Tripps and the Ward Johnsons motored over to Salem, Ky., Monday night to give their old friend and Scoutmaster Ted Christy a hand. Ted is interested in forming a Cub Scout troop there and the foursome from Fulton went to add their advice and wise counsel. Betcha Salem gets a troop!

Many Public Rest Rooms 'Awful' Committee Finds

TCIC Committee Surveys 41 Local Restaurants And Service Stations; Finds Only 33% With "Good" or "Superior" Rating

As an opening gun in its 1954 campaign to improve general conditions in Fulton and South Fulton, the Twin City Improvement Committee released a survey report this week classifying 33% of the public rest-rooms in Fulton restaurants and service stations as "good" or "superior," 40% as "just fair," and the remaining 27% as "revolting."

The survey idea of rest rooms originated some months ago but was held off until Spring in order to tie up with other coming activities of the organization. It was stated during the past week a survey committee made unannounced visits to the rest rooms in all 41 restaurants and service stations, the bus station and the railroad station and checked conditions as they found them, according to the following checklist:

Cleanliness of floor, cleanliness of toilet, condition of repair.

BURROW NAMED SERVICE ENGINEER FOR KY. UTILITIES

Long-Time Employee Of Utility Company Replaces Ira Kane

cleanliness of walls, outside ventilation, lights, self-closing door, toilet tissue, condition of sink and presence of soap, sanitary towels and waste receptacle. A man's team checked the men's facilities; a team of two ladies checked all ladies' facilities.

Twenty-two service stations located on all U. S. and State highways, both downtown and suburban, were visited; 14 restaurants having rest rooms were visited; five other "miscellaneous" places having public rest rooms, three of which sold gasoline, were visited.

After it heard this report and examined individuals contained therein, the Committee announced at its meeting Monday night that the status of the individuals would not be made public, but that a copy of each inspection slip would be mailed each place visited, by this weekend, together with the suggestion that they examine it carefully and try to correct any bad conditions.

While space does not permit a complete classified breakdown of the report here, it was noted that generally the rest rooms of the service stations were much cleaner and better supplied than those of the restaurants. Samples on "cleanliness of toilet," 12 service stations were rated AA or A, only 10 B or C; only one restaurant managed an A, none AA, and 12 rated B or C. In 19 service stations the toilets were in "good repair," in three they were not; in nine restaurants they were in good repair, while five were not, 13 service stations offered soap and sanitary towels while four did not; six restaurants offered soap and towels while three did not.

Here is the breakdown of all 41 lumped together: (AA) Superior; (A) Good; (B) Just Fair; (C) Revolting:

(Men's)	AA	A	B	C
Cleanliness of floor	11	17	12
Toilet cleanliness	2	15	11
Cleanliness of walls	2	11	19	8
Condition of sink	1	10	14	7

EDD THOMPSON TAKES IN STATE FARM CONVENTION

Says He Had Fine Time and Kept The Young Folks Hopping

Edd Thompson, prominent farmer around these parts, will never grow old. He will be 87 next month and still participates in all the newest developments in farming. He's been farming for 62 years and has one of the best farms in the State of Kentucky. Mr. Edd recently returned from the Farm and Home Convention in Lexington and said that he and his friend, Ed Williamson had more fun than anybody there. They had a formula for being fresh and eager at every meeting. Said Mr. Edd: "Long about sun-down Ed and I (Ed Williamson) would go in and have lunch and then turn in. The rest of the folks would go out and stay out late and the next day we were feeling tops and they were a little on the droopy side."

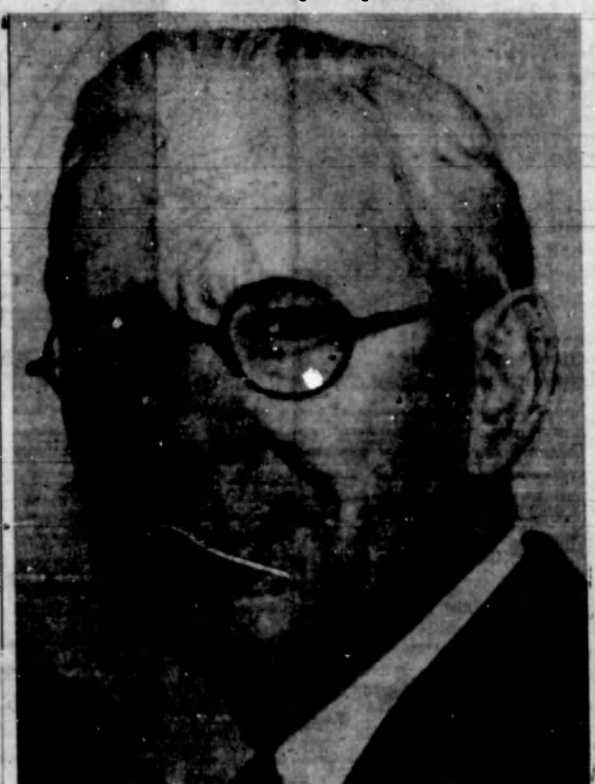

This example of sensible living, together with his keen foresight into farming have made him a Master Farmer of Kentucky and he's still going strong. This octogenarian says he did not learn much more at the meeting than he knew already, but says he: "It's good to know what's going on all the time." (Photos on Back Page)

HEALTH OFFICER SAYS REPORT OF JURY UNFOUNDED

Dr. Harrell Finds That Jail Resident Is Not Tubercular

In their report at the final term of Circuit Court here the Grand Jury reported that information was received that the son of the Jailer of Fulton County had tuberculosis. They stated that the young man was living in the county jail and waiting on prisoners confined to the jail. The jury recommended that an investigation be made and the situation remedied. Jesse Sanders is the county jailer.

Dr. J. F. Harrell, county health officer, reported to the News today that the information received was false and made the following statement:

February 4, 1954
To Whom It May Concern:
In regard to Grand Jury report of last week pertaining to food handling at the Fulton County Jail.

Our X-Ray and laboratory reports here at the health office, as well as other clinical evidence show the person concerned is not infected with a communicable disease in an infectious stage. Therefore, I see no reason that he would be a menace to the health of others.

Our records may be seen at our office by anyone desiring to do so.

Top Scorer

Harold Lloyd Ross, the goal throwing sensation of Hickman High School, whose stellar play in games played makes him a strong contender for an All-State berth. In the game with Fulton last week at Hickman, Ross was watched carefully by the Fulton boys, but still he got away with a sizeable number of buckets.

Sudden Death of Beloved Citizens From Heart Disease Should Be Considered Now

By Mrs. Ben Kilgore

The alarm went off at 6:30—this was early for us on Sunday morning unless Ben was teaching a Sunday School class out of town. Usually we slept until 8 which gave us plenty of time for a leisurely breakfast and still make Sunday School at 9:45. Ben was superintendent of the Franklin Presbyterian Sunday School.

But this was a special Sunday. Ben was to preach the layman's sermon at the Methodist Church in Hodgenville.

I jumped out of bed and went downstairs to get breakfast. It was a gorgeous spring morning—just the kind that makes one want to sing. Though it was early, our 16-year-old daughter Betty joined us for breakfast. Her father had been on the go so much lately that she took every opportunity to have breakfast with him.

We started our breakfast as usual by joining hands and saying the morning prayer that had been handed down in Ben's family.

Shortly we were in Ben's new car that had been given him on his 50th birthday and left on the 100-mile drive to Hodgenville. I drove all the way to spare Ben and to give him a chance to review his sermon notes.

After a pleasant day spent with friends we returned home with me driving most of the way. Ben slept much of the time perfectly relaxed. When we went to bed that night the last thing Ben said to me was, "I have a song in my heart—I have never been happier or felt better in my life."

At 4th next morning Ben was awakened out of a deep sleep with a severe pain in his left chest and extending into his arm. The doctor, at once, pronounced it a heart attack. For one month my husband put up a most valiant fight for life. Each day he lived was a miracle. If it were God's will he was ready to go but he prayed for ten more years with his family.

Ben, Jr., came home from the University of Kentucky to be with his father. Ben joked with the children, the nurses and me. Though he was desperately ill I never gave up hope. There were so many things he had planned to do.

Four weeks after he was stricken he passed away from this life. Up to this time I hadn't thought much about heart disease. Later I found out he was a perfect example of the kind of person the doctors say are stricken by coronary thrombosis. He was a living dynamo—never sick—on the go constantly—always promoting something. He was a candidate for governor of Kentucky at the time he had his attack.

As soon as possible after the funeral the children and I went to my sister's cottage at the seashore for a rest.

The first Sunday we were there a 14-year-old boy visiting in the cottage next door was called home. His father had died suddenly that morning of a heart attack.

The father of this boy was unlike Ben in his attitude. He was a man who never drove himself or worried about anything. He had inherited a small fortune and took life easy, a friendly likeable person.

In August, carrying out Ben's plans, I took Betty to Washington to see the capital. I was eager for her to meet her father's friends there. While walking through the capitol with U. S. Senator Thomas Underwood we were stopped by a friend of the senator's who told of the sudden heart attack of Stephen Early. He died a few days later.

Upon our return to Kentucky we learned that Harry Walters, commissioner of agriculture, had died—heart attack. In October Dr. Patterson, pastor of First Presbyterian Church, Bowling Green, was a victim of this terrible killer. Some time later Congressman John Whitaker died in his office of a heart attack.

There are just a few of the men whose deaths at 50 from heart attacks have come to my attention since Ben was taken.

What does this all add up to? We have a Frankenstein in our midst who is killing off our men at the age of 50.

and younger at a terrific pace.

Heart diseases kill three and one-fourth times as many people as cancer. Heart disease is the outstanding cause of death in the United States. It kills 14 times as many as tuberculosis and six times as many as are victims of accidents. More children are disabled as a result of rheumatic fever than from attacks of polio. I have worked for years on cancer drives. I, as you, have bought TB seals and have read and talked constantly of safety. Do not misunderstand me I am 100 per cent for fighting these other killers—but we must wake up to the fact that heart disease is by far the greatest threat to America today.

What precautions can we take to guard against heart disease?

Why does it strike so many men in the prime of life?

Why does it strike more men than women?

What can surgery do?

Can an operation be perfected?

What are the warnings of an attack?

What about the use of certain drugs for the prevention of a coronary thrombosis?

Is there a cure?

All these questions are being studied by heart associations—the national, state and local groups. Part of the funds collected by these groups are used for research.

In this age when the world so badly needs sincere, honest, capable men we cannot allow this destructive disease to march on unchecked. We must devote more of our time, our talents and our money to discover the causes, preventions and cure of heart disease.

Therefore, I appeal to you, Ben's friends, to send in your contributions to the Kentucky Heart Association today.

Here in Fulton we are reminded of our departed citizens, Ira Little, Leon Browder, C. J. Black, J. B. Casey, R. S. Burgess, Mrs. Gusie Browder to name only a few. Contribute to the Heart Association drive this month.

Your Neighbor Is God's Image

By Rev. Wilfrid Diamond

IS THERE ANY difference between the love of God and the love of neighbor? Essentially none. Love of neighbor means love of God, as He is in our neighbor.

The command of Christ to love our neighbor is not just an afterthought or a whim of Christ to make life burdensome for us. Far from it. It is essentially the same as the love of God. You cannot love God and hate your neighbor. That is a contradiction.

IN THE STRONG words of Saint John, "If a man say, 'I love God,' and hateth his neighbor, he is a liar." You cannot say a face is beautiful when you see it directly, and then say it is ugly when you see the same face clearly reflected in a mirror.

THIS SPIRITUAL likeness I must try to see, even though it is sometimes hard to see, like a lily in the dark. I may not like the way my neighbor walks or talks or combs his hair. I may not like his taste in clothes. I may not like his actions or political convictions. I may not like the things he said about me behind my back.

I MUST ALSO SEE in him a person who has the same eternal destiny as I have. He is trying to achieve an eternal union with God, whether he knows it or not. So am I. We are fellow pilgrims trying to live out the same days and hours on this same little earth. We should do it together for our mutual advantage.

I must also see him as a person redeemed by Christ. Who died for all men of all times and places. If Christ thought enough of him to die for him, I should think enough of him to be kind to him.

In short, I just do not like him (nor he, me, perhaps for the same reasons). But I must try to see in him the spiritual likeness of God, and love that godly side of him. I must love God as He is in my neighbor.

So it is with God and neighbor. Our neighbor is made to the image and likeness of God—a spiritual, not a bodily likeness—because every man has a spiritual and immortal soul, which is made to the image and likeness of God.

PIOUS NONSENSE? Try it for five minutes and see what a difference it makes. Try it for a week, and those people who now think of you as a beast, will look upon you as an angel. What a difference it would make if everyone tried to see in his neighbor—not a nuisance, not a bore, not an enemy—but a creature whom God thought enough of to make in His own image and likeness.

TURRING BACK THE CLOCK

(February 6, 1929)

The Woman's Club held a most interesting meeting at the Chamber of Commerce Room, Friday afternoon.

The Valentine motif was elaborately carried out in the decorations. Mrs. Martin Nail, president, presided over the business session.

The following were on program: Mrs. Leon Callicot, Mrs. J. D. Carlton, Mrs. Frances Neal, Miss Laura Rummage, Miss Willie Bell Mays, President of the Matinee Musical Club closed the program, expressing the club's delight in being guests of the Woman's Club.

Hostesses were Mrs. Don Taylor and Mrs. Clarence Maddox. Pages were Misses Doris Huddleston, Zulene Alexander, Ruth Fields and Blanche Waggener.

Miss Jessie Wade of Crutchfield was the weekend guest of Miss Willie Everett in the New Hope Community.

Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Donoho attended the funeral of the former's brother-in-law, Hays Peewitt, at Palestine Saturday.

Several members of the Welfare Workers' Club met with the flower committee at the home of Mrs. John Coffman, Wednesday for a pot-luck luncheon. Several flowers were made and a social visit was enjoyed very much.

Pauline and Nora Lee Polsgrove, Aubrey Bondurant, Louise Jeffress and Jamie Stallins were Friday evening guests of Richard and Robert Bellew, in the Williamson Bridge Community.

Wayne Rhodes, who is teaching near Austin Spring, spent the weekend with home folks in the Route Five Community.

Miss Serrilla Phillips, who is attending school at Crutchfield, spent the week end with her father, J. B. Phillips, in the New Hope Community.

Sid Moore, of Route 5, who had a hemorrhage of the lung about a week ago, is slowly improving and is able to sit up a little. His daughter, Mrs. Balder Robey, and family are spending a few days with him.

A beautiful and impressive wedding was solemnized Sunday afternoon at two o'clock at the home of the late Mr. and Mrs. A. E. Homra and of Foad Homra of this city, lovely and talented daughter, Miss Victoria Homra, the first of the children to be married, became the bride of Sam Hamra of Steele, Mo., in the presence of a large assembly of friends and relatives. The bride was given in marriage by her uncle, Ed. Homra of Tiptonville. Fred Homra served the groom as best man. Miss Frieda Homra, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. The double ring ceremony was beautifully spoken in the Syrian language by Archbishop Sanfrance Bashara of Los Angeles, Calif., assisted by his brother, Elias Bashara and H. N. Khourie of this city.

After the ceremony, Mr. G. H. Homra of Bristow, Okla., made a most impressive talk to the wedding party, admonishing them to be steadfast and true to their marriage vows to always love and protect each other.

After a lovely reception and dinner tendered in the home of Mr. and Mrs. K. Homra, the couple left for an extended wedding trip to Miami.

Victoria was reared in Fulton and was educated in the city schools. She is a lovely and charming girl and has many friends who wish her great wedding happiness.

Mr. Hamra is a prominent and successful merchant in Steele, Mo., and as soon as the young couple arrive in Steele they will begin housekeeping in a new house that the groom has recently purchased.

Have noticed that the 1954 Illinois license plates indicate that it is the "Land of Lincoln." Wonder what the Cadillac people think about that.

In case you haven't followed them, the basketball team down at the Martin branch of the University of Tennessee has now emerged with the best win-loss record of any college in Tennessee. With last Saturday's win, their 12th in a row, they remain undefeated on their home court.

They are being ably assisted, ahem, by a couple of Kentucky boys named Virgil Yates (from Cuba) and Jimmy Young (from Bardwell).

Painless fund-raising dept.: The VFW down at Milan, Tenn., provides a good current example of how to raise funds happily and let everyone enjoy the process: in December the Club netted $2,800 from its own minstrel show, using the proceeds to build a "home" at Milan for the Boy Scouts and Girl Scouts.

We sure endorse this method of fund raising, and wish we had more of its type around Fulton. It's a little more work, to be sure, but it sure beats heck out of going around with an outstretched hand—On top of that, everybody enjoys it: the group that puts it on, the local cast that participates, and the public that gets something back for their money.

The Lions Club and Cub Scouts now sponsor annual local minstrels, but there are endless varieties of other kinds of entertainment that could be worked up locally. What's the matter with a good first-class musical show not in blackface . . . some community street dances in season a play . . . etc., etc.

County", he told us.

"Why not," we asked him . . . "it seems to go over big in other towns."

"How are you going to stir up interest?" John stated. "As best as I can remember, Fulton County now has only one mule."

That ended that.

A news story from the Kentucky Commissioner of Agriculture this week makes note of the fact that during the last 30 years Kentucky farms have become increasingly mechanized, with a resulting decrease in the horse and mule population.

Farm tractors have increased 600% in 12 years, and work animal population decreased 25%. Farm trucks have increased 300%, combines 400%, milking machines 1,300% in the last 10 years, Ben Adams points out.

All of which reminds us of a little incident that happened back about five years ago when various "Mule Days" in mid-South communities were attracting our interest as a possibility for a further annual event right here in Fulton.

We talked to several businessmen, who thought that Fulton ought to take its place right up with the rest of them and have an annual "Mule Day" too. So we looked up County Agent John Watts to get his ideas and see if we could start planning something specific, but John promptly threw cold water on the whole idea.

"It won't work in Fulton

We understand that the Twin Cities Improvement Committee is going to enlist the aid of several other allied beautification groups in seeking to have Fulton's new highway intersections landscaped and planted with some appropriate shrubs, which is a fine thing.

Wonder what would be the chance of getting some extensive shade-tree planting to boost . . . along the new fairgrounds route, and also along the new route in Highlands? Far enough off the right-of-way so they wouldn't obscure vision, understand, but still on the right-of-way, so adjoining property owners will leave them alone . . . and perhaps the Highway Dept. would set them out and take care of them in years to come.

Just look what a pretty road we now have out on the Mayfield highway, as a result of a little advance thinking along this line done years ago.

"WHAT SHALL I BELIEVE?"

When we were very young, and that was a long time ago, we were so taught to believe what we heard that we had difficulty in thinking that the cheerful liars of Fidelity were actually making up some of their marvelous exploits. I can recall how offended I was when someone, less reverent than I, would express a doubt as to the heroism of Uncle Joe Clark or our colored Uncle Charlie. Weren't they old men, and weren't they taught to respect old people? Why, then, must we doubt their words, so faithfully and convincingly pronounced? In our history books we had read about the great heroes of the Civil War; now we were listening to some of the very heroes, actual soldiers who had fought in such famous encounters as Fort Donelson, Vicksburg, Shiloh, and Chattanooga. If these neighbors of ours were liars, then history was a liar. Because of this reasoning I very reluctantly began to check the stories I heard with most advanced history books. To my surprise and chagrin, I often had to join the ranks of the scoffers, but I would not admit it. I wanted to hear more from the rank-and-file soldiers, who probably knew a great deal about their little neck of the woods in a great battle but were painfully ignorant about the whole campaign. In fact, just what does a private know today about the big scheme of which he is a part? Even though I had to watch the yarns for their accuracy, I could hardly help feeling sorry for the braggart old soldier and for myself. It is not easy to cease to believe, no matter what the provocation.

In our Fidelity area we heard only the side of politics, the Democratic side. Since the Democrats, nationally, were in pretty bad straits then, the party was pictured as a martyr, suffering for all the evils of the world. If there were ever a time when the great party could get back into power, then all would be well, the cowards would thrive and somewhat forget the wrongs they had suffered. That is what we were told in every campaign, and we never heard from the other side, because, at Fidelity, there was no other side.

When I left Fidelity, in Christmas Week, 1906, ran into a world that was somewhat divided politically. By degrees I came to believe that not all the heroes voted one ticket and all the crooks voted the other. For a while it was a sort of shock to give up what had been spoken for by bearded wisdom since I had learned to listen to heated, but one-sided political discussions. I am afraid that I will never again feel the strange reverence for politics that I had felt when I knew little except successful Republicans and defeated, martyred Democrats. The funny thing is that many a person much older than I was at Fidelity still thinks very much as I did then and cannot understand how the world will escape destruction unless his own political party succeeds.

Future Farmer Fund Drive Nearing Goal
Of $250,000 For New Leadership Center

To aid over 12,000 Future Farmers of America in Kentucky and more than 20,000 Future Home-Makers of America in Kentucky, the $250,000 fund drive for the vocational education leadership training center at Hardinsburg is nearing its goal. Here are representatives of three Kentucky firms whose companies gave $5,000 each to the fund. From left: George Tomea, Louisville district chairman; J. R. Mitchell, Paducah, of Mid-States Steel and Wire; J. O. Marlick, editor of the Kentucky Farmer, and Curtis Craig, Louisville Gas and Electric Company.

On several social and intellectual levels people are taught to believe in pseudo-science, the kind that is dispensed at the country store and around the fire-place when people come to sit till bedtime. Teas, bitters, poultices, home-made pills, tonics, and talismans came to us belied with the faith of our elders or some of them. Grandpa, honored and respected in our little cosmos, believed in asafetida bags; why should we turn our backs on one so respected? Mrs. Johnson—bless her dear memory—cured her daughter's chills and fever by gathering nine kinds of weeds from the garden, tying them up in a rag, and hanging the rag in the chimney corner. Nobody doubted the sanity of Mrs. Johnson, nobody doubted her genuine goodness; then why not believe her sure cure for ague? Dropping faith in such matters is no easy thing for many people, some of whom will read this and probably think that I am looking into their windows when they take some time-honored home-made medicine or use some stuff to rub on joints or sore muscles. Maybe I am, but I suspect that most of us have a long way to go yet before we get entirely away from these folk ways of following the lead of people whom we have respected and loved, even though they have known very little about the things that they have hallowed in our memories.

Income Tax Withheld
For Non-Residents

Kentucky employers who pay wages to residents of other states are required to withhold Kentucky income tax from their wages, for the full year of 1954, the State Department of Revenue reminded today. This withholding requirement on nonresidents who earn income in Kentucky has been in effect since 1936. The new withholding law for all persons receiving wages does not take effect until July 1.

At the present time the employer is required to withhold the approximate amount of tax due from nonresidents, according to a tax table furnished by the Department of Revenue.

RIGHT TO WORK
BILL IS SOUGHT

A "right to work" bill that would make it illegal in Kentucky to deny or abridge the right of persons to work an account of membership or non-membership in a labor union was introduced in the General Assembly last week.

The long-awaited bill was introduced in the Senate by Sen. Eugene H. Clark (R., Manchester) and in the House by Rep. John Rhea Banton (D., Franklin). In the Senate it is S. B. 103 and in the House it is H. B. 225. The bill is patterned after the Virginia "Right to Work" law which has been upheld by the United States Supreme Court. Fourteen other states already have such laws.

The Kentucky bill would make an illegal combination or conspiracy of any agreement between an employer and a labor union which provides that membership in a labor union is a condition of employment. Under the proposed law, no person shall be required by an employer to become or remain a member of a labor union or abstain or refrain from becoming a member of a union in order to obtain or keep his job.

DAIRYMEN: DID YOU KNOW?

Your Profits Can Increase.

With a shortage of feed the cost of keeping a bull is even greater. Replacing a bull with a money-making cow can mean greater profits to you. It costs about $200 to keep a bull a year.

Breeding your cows artificially means a saving in the cost of keeping a bull, and makes it possible for all dairymen, large or small, to breed to the "cream of the crop." K.A.B.A. Bulls are selected for high milk production and good type from top bloodlines available.

Kentucky farmers bred about 70,000 cows last year to bulls in the Stud with only a small investment in their membership and service fees.

These great bulls are in the Stud near Louisville but are as close to you as your telephone. Why not use this cooperative organization whose sole purpose is for improving Kentucky's dairy cattle.

New style... New power... New economy... and yet

Lowest-priced line in its field!

That's why people are calling the new 1954 Chevrolet the outstanding motor car value of this new year!

Men and women everywhere are deciding that Chevrolet for 1954 gives more for the money than any other car in its price range.

Here are the reasons why...
New style—more beauty of line, contour and color—with stunning new Bodies by Fisher and luxurious new modern-mode interiors.
New power—more pickup, more passing ability, more smoothness and quietness of operation with either of Chevrolet's two advanced 1954 engines—the thoroughly proved "Blue-Flame 125" engine teamed with Powerglide (available on all models at extra cost) or the thoroughly proved "Blue-Flame 115" engine!

New economy—yes, even stronger gasoline savings—because both of these great high-compression engines are designed, engineered and built to wring more power from every charge of fuel.

Moreover, these new Chevrolets remain the lowest-priced line in their field, again this year.

Come in... see and drive the new 1954 Chevrolet... and place your order now!

CAPITOL ROUND-UP

By Tom Smith
The 1954 Kentucky General Assembly has completed* just more than one-third of its tenure with most of the administration's "must" legislation out of the way. This clears the way for specific legislative proposals sought by various segments of the Commonwealth.

Due for introduction, probably this week, is the right to work proposal which has drawn the fire of organized labor leaders and sent a sizeable labor lobby to Frankfort. But these labor leaders now find themselves on the defensive in another matter proposed by Senator Joe Grace of Paducah.

Senator Grace hopes to clip international union leaders' wings by providing autonomy for local unions and restricting the power in international unions over locals. He believes such a law would help inter-union troubles which have plagued the Paducah area since construction of the atomic energy plant started.

Meantime the labor lobby in Frankfort has been busy with promoting passage of an amendment to the common carrier act which would allow a truck driver to decide for himself whether he would cross a picket line in making deliveries. This was approved by the House 70 to 15.

Representative William Jones of Princeton expects comparatively smooth legislative sailing for the dog control bill which he has introduced. He said the measure, a combined anti-rabies dog licensing and control bill, had been worked out by the several groups interested, including the Junior Chamber of Commerce, the State Health and Agriculture Departments, farmer and sheep raisers organizations. Dairymen also are asking the legislators to authorize referendums to determine whether milk producers want to establish a commission to promote the sale of dairy products.

Administration pressures exerted passage of both the income tax and the cigarette tax increase appeared again last week in the Senate's 22 to 14 vote on the strip mining bill. Senator Doug Hays, Democrat of Floyd County, termed it the strongest he had ever seen. Senator Hays was strenuously opposed to the measure.

The bill, designed to regulate and license strip mining operations, is due for a final House vote before mid-week.

A bill to put approximately half of Kentucky on Eastern Standard Time and retain Central Standard Time for the other half is in for a bitter fight. The Kentucky Farm Bureau has announced that it considers this proposal just as objectionable as daylight saving time which it has fought through a number of legislative sessions. Senator Ed P. Warriner of Albany said of the proposal: "It just shifts the confusion."

Still on the legislative horizon as one of the most controversial issues of the session is a proposal which would allow an increase in truck load limits to 55,000 pounds. Railroad people expect to fight this strenuously despite an apparent lack of opposition to a bill which would force out-of-state truckers to pay Kentucky gasoline taxes when they use Kentucky roads.

A public hearing has been called for February 3 on a proposed constitutional amendment which would reduce the voting age in Kentucky to 18. This hearing is scheduled for the Senate chamber.

Other proposals talked in Frankfort include a minimum wage bill and extension of unemployment compensation benefits for persons out of work due to strikes in which they are not involved.

Maximum interest rates charged by petty loan companies would be substantially reduced under a proposal offered by eight members of the Senate. The high interest rate of three and a half per cent a month on loans up to $300 would be reduced to a ceiling of two per cent monthly.

Authors of the proposal are Wayne W. Freeman, Mayfield; Joseph J. Grace, Paducah; Dr. J. E. Johnson, South Williamson; Clarence W. Maloney, Madisonville; William L. Sullivan, Henderson; Doug Hays, McDowell; Albert Thompson, Leitchfield, and Dr. B. F. Shields, Shelbyville.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE SOCIETY
How spiritual understanding of God brings health and harmony into human experience will be brought out in the Lesson-Sermon entitled "Soul" which will be read at Christian Science services Sunday.

The Bible selections include this citation from Psalms: "Why art thou cast down, O my soul? and why art thou disquieted within me? hope thou in God: for shall yet praise him, who is the health of my countenance, and my God." (42: 11).

Among the passages from "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Eddy Eddy to be read will be the following: "We cannot deny that Life is self-sustained, and we should never deny the everlasting harmony of Soul, simply because, to the mortal senses, there is seeming discord. It is our ignorance of God, the divine Principle, which produces apparent discord, and the right understanding of Him restores harmony." (390: 4-9).

The Responsive Reading includes the following verses from the Bible: "God be merciful unto us, and bless us; and cause his face to shine upon us; That thy way may be known upon earth, thy saving health among all nations." (Psalms 67: 1, 2).

'Bear' Facts-

By PAUL BRYANT
Football Coach

(Ed's Note): This will be the last column the News will carry from farmer UK coach "Bear" Bryant, who has thrown away his Kentucky string tie and is currently sprouting long horns for Texas.

The game of college football has a very long and glorious history during which time those in charge of rules making have introduced a good many innovations that have improved the way the game is played.

While many of us in the coaching profession cannot always agree with the merits of these changes, we like to think that the faults of some proposals are outweighed by the contribution they make to the enjoyment of football by the fans.

This desire to make the sport more attractive to the spectator leads me to suggest a few minor alterations in the game that have been in the back of my mind to some time. Briefly, I would like to see the "elimination" of the half-time, the moving of the goal posts crossbar up to the goal line, a change in the method of scoring for points after touchdown, and an overtime period to eliminate tie games.

The tie game business is never satisfying to either side or the fans. I would prefer to see the game go into "sudden-death" overtime in which the first team to score would be declared the winner.

In regards to elimination of the half-time, my thought is not that the players go without rest but rather that the third period start in much the same way as the other quarters—that is elimination of the kickoff which only starts the game over instead of allowing the teams to "progress from the point they had reached at halftime. My suggestion on moving up the goal posts is based on the belief that it would promote more extensive use of the crowd-pleasing field goal attempt.

Lastly, I figure that giving a point after touchdown the same value regardless of how it is scored is unfair and that greater values placed on different methods of making this extra point would make the game more interesting and spectacular. My plan would give one point for a PAT scored by kicking from the five yard line, two points for the more difficult feat of completing a pass over the goal line, and three points for running the five yards with the ball.
