Seen & Heard Around MURRAY

Something new in the doings of kids occurred last night about 3:00 a. m. or this morning rather.

It came from the youngest who had both hands extended with the palms together.

It took a minute of figuring what was going on when it was plain to see that his hands were together and the couldn't get them apart.

Investigation revealed that a huge wad of bubble gum, which he had taken to bed with him, had come out of his mouth into his hand, and in some way he had squeezed his hands together, and the bubble gum had them stuck fast.

It took about thirty minutes of pulling bubble gum off of his hands, then the house settled down again for the rest of the night.

This date last year: Twelve Polish sailors were granted political asylum in Sweden after sailing their ship to a Swedish port following a mutiny. Iraq signed an agreement with three oil companies owned by western interests, for 50 percent profits and a four-engine B-50 bomber hit an apartment house in Seattle, Washington, killing 11 persons.

Remodeling Underway At Murray Hospital

Remodeling is in progress at the Murray Hospital which will give five more rooms for patients and completely new business offices. The part being remodelled is in the right front wing of the hospital and the area formerly held class rooms for nurses, a bath, and space for coke, and candy machines.

Work has been in progress at the hospital for about one week. The remodeling program in the present location of the business offices will not begin until the present work is completed.

E. J. Walkup, administrator of the hospital, said today that the hospital would be able to utilize the space to much greater advantage when the remodeling is completed.

Fifth Annual Purchase District Fair Opens On Tuesday Aug. 19

MAYFIELD, Ky., Aug. 13 — Graves County's Memorial Fairgrounds gave swing open on Tuesday, August 19, for the fifth annual Purchase District Fair, and this one, says the officials, planners and workers, will top all the others for exhibits and entertainment.

The most varied program ever to be presented will be unfolded in the five days and five nights of the biggest fair in the state outside Louisville's state fair. Included this year will be afternoon and night horse racing, night automobile races, Little Jimmy Dickens and other stars of Grand Ole Opry, County running races and mule races; Fonzie Davis and his troupe; parade of livestock champions and a concert by the U. S. Army band of Fort Campbell.

On opening day horse racing will be held afternoon and night with the Fort Campbell band on hand for a day-night concert. This day has been designated Hickman, Carlisle, Fulton and Ballard County, and citizens of these counties have been issued a special invitation to be on hand on their "day" and every other day.

On Wednesday, August 20, afternoon and night horse racing will be held and the day has been designated Marshall, McCracken and Callaway County Day. Citizens of these counties are issued special invitations to attend.

Thursday, August 21, is "Homecoming Day." On this day a program of afternoon horse races; Jimmy Dickens and his troupe; Grand Ole Opry; Fonzie Davis and his troupe; parade of livestock champions and a concert by the U. S. Army band of Fort Campbell.

Friday, August 22, is the closing day of the fair, another fine racing program including a County race and a mule race will be presented and on Saturday night automobile races will close out the program.

In addition to all these events, the exhibits of livestock, poultry, farm products, flowers, home-made Club exhibits, Women's Club exhibits, which will bring some of West Kentucky's best farm produce and livestock into the show rings are expected to be the biggest of the five year fair.

The L. J. Heth Carnival Shows will be back on the midway this year presenting the cleanest and finest carnival on the road today. It will be the fourth successive year to the fair by the Heth shows.

With prizes in the horse races set at $600, some of the finest horse races in the Kentucky, Illinois, Missouri and Indiana circuit will be here and in addition to the country races and mule races two running races will be held for $100 purses, one on Wednesday afternoon and one Wednesday night. The generous purses for the horse races have attracted some of the best talent in the four state area.

Reds Handed Victory By Cards In Little League Game Tuesday

Evidently the Cardinals didn't want a chance at the playoffs from the way they played last Tuesday night. With only six hits backing their attack along with four errors they made, their name wasn't on the winners sheet as the Reds took their second victory of the half 8-7 in a giveaway contest.

The Reds won their first game of the year in the second half opener with a 13-3 victory over the Cubs. They didn't win another until Tuesday night's contest.

With two runs in the opening frame the Cards jumped into a quick lead. One hit produced one Red run in the first to make the score stand at 2-1 Card favor.

Stanley Young walked to open the sixth for the Reds. A wild pitch advanced him to second before Bill Moss doubled him to third. John McDougal followed with another double to drive in both Young and Moss. McDougal later stole third and home. Stoney Henson was given an intentional pass to first base. He stole second on a double steal with McDougal. An error on Card hurler Danny Roberts advanced him to third. McDougal had already stolen home so Henson took a shot at it with catcher Herbie Oakley holding the ball on the pitchers mound. Henson slid in safely to give the Reds their one run victory.

David Buchanan took the victory for the Reds even though he pitched but two innings. He came in for relief in the fifth with the score loaded. He refused one man and the other two were picked off third base. Danny Roberts in a relief role for James Carson took the defeat. It was his first of the season.

McDougal's two hits were tops for the Reds. Henson, S. Young and Bill Moss were the only other hitters. Gene King, who hit two hits along with Herbie Oakley's two hits led the Card hitting attack. Steven, Sanders and Danny Wells were the other hitters.

The defeat pulls the Cards out of a chance to get in playoffs with the Yankees. First place is now held by the Cubs and Yankees. Score by innings:

Cardinals 210 130-7 6 4

Reds 112 004-8 5 4

Carson, D. Roberts (6) and Oakley; Brewer, Buchanan (5) and Spann.

Price Supports Will Be Made Available To Fescue Growers

Price support to producers of Kentucky 21 and A-1 fescue will be made available through "purchase agreements" under the 1952 crop hay and pasture grass seed support program, R. O. Wilson, chairman of the Production and Marketing Administration state committee, said here today.

Under the purchase agreement plan, the state FFA chairman said, a certain quantity of seed will be earmarked for sale to the Commodity Credit Corporation. No money is advanced to the producer but he will have this option of delivering eligible seed of the quantity specified in the agreement to CCC after April 30, 1953, at the agreed price.

The basic support price will be 27 cents a pound for certified and 20 cents a pound for uncertified seed.

"Specifications for eligible seed will be: basic price are 98 percent purity, 85 percent germination, not more than 1/2 percent of weed seed, and not more than 4 1/2 percent of other crop seeds. Discounts will apply for seeds below these basic standards.

Minimums of 95 percent purity and 80 percent germination are required for price support eligibility.

Memorial Service To Be Held On Sunday

Memorial service and interment for J. W. Hirst, M. D., will be held on Sunday afternoon, August 17 at 2:00 p. m. The service will be held at the South Pleasant Grove church.

Relatives and friends are invited to be present. A request has been made that no flowers be sent.

Livestock Burned In Stockyard Fire

Firemen battling through the night have controlled a fire that raged through the stockyards at Joplin, Missouri, burning hundreds of animals to death.

The blaze, whipped up by a brisk wind, raced through two blocks of the yards, threatening to destroy them all. It also endangered a lumber company and several feed and grain firms and other buildings.

Nearly half the buildings of the stockyards were destroyed, along with hundreds of horses, hogs and other animals. In one large coal building were found the remains of at least 60 horses, including some of the best saddle horses in southwest Missouri.

Firemen say many animals are still roaming the streets of Joplin after having been rescued from the yards by some of the 10,000 spectators on hand.

Officials have not yet learned the cause of the blaze which resulted in damage estimated at well over $150,000.

Lynn Grove Boys Attend Leadership Course Recently

President Bobby Pickard, Secretary Glenn Baker, alternate Vice-President Jimmy Ford, and Advisor C. W. Jones of the Lynn Grove FFA attended the Leadership Training Camp at Harpersburg during the week of August 4-8.

The purpose of the Leadership Training Center is to teach and familiarize officers with their duties and responsibilities.

Breakfast was served at 7:00 in the morning and the first class starting at 8:30, each officer going to his special class. Then the second class began at 9:45 in which the chapters work together as a whole on their program of activity for the year. At 11:30 the local officers get together with their advisor and work on their own program of activity.

Dinner was served at 12:00 and at 1:00 the last class of the day starts. This class is a special study of one of four topics, including swimming, casting, rope making and FFA Work.

At 2:00 the athletic part of the day began. There were six groups of boys competing against each other in all kinds of sports. The team which had the most points after the first half of the swimming began.

Supper was at 6:30, then the groups went to the auditorium for announcements and entertainment. Lights were out at 10:00.

The camp was enjoyed by all.

FFA And F-H Will Have Dairy Show

The FFA and F-H Club members of Calloway County will have a Junior Dairy Show at the Murray Training School Friday, August 15, at ten a. m.

E. B. Howton and Hobart Wright will be the judges.

Accident Cases Now In Court

The trial of Dean Miller vs. Joe McCusick was heard by the Calloway Circuit court yesterday. The trial involved an automobile collision between the two. The jury granted Miller $115,000 damages.

Boys Enjoying Camp At Mammoth Cave

One hundred and twenty-five boys from Western Kentucky are participating in a three day camp at the Mammoth Cave National Park under the auspices of the Woodmen of the World.

The boys saw "Cave Capers of 1952" a musical comedy produced by the Mammoth Cave Hotel Employees, on Monday evening and took the historic trip through the Mammoth Cave Tuesday.

Encampment activities include athletic stunts, games and contests. This annual event is sponsored by the WOW for its junior members. Eugene Hendon of Murray is assisting on the encampment staff.

During the past two weeks more than 650 boys from the western part of the state have participated in the WOW encampment at the national park under the direction of Buford Hurt and his co-workers. Mr. Hurt of Murray is state manager of the WOW.

Former Presidents Have Dim View Of Holding The Office Sought After By Many Politicians

By Robert J. Sterling (UP)

The president who wants to be a private citizen has met with the private citizen who wants to be president.

It would be interesting to know the inward thoughts of Adlai Stevenson yesterday as he walked into the White House for the first time since his nomination, whether he really wished he was walking in as president and not as a man who just seeks the job.

For the one thing that has impressed Stevenson, as it has anyone who has been around the White House lately, is the attitude of the man leaving it next January. Harry S. Truman is so carefree and relaxed these days, so obviously happy, that his presidential career is drawing to a close. It makes one wonder why any man would want the job in the first place.

The average citizen looks on the presidency with mingled envy and awe. Also with a sneaking hunch he'd like to be president himself, if only for a couple of days. The respectful sound of those two words, "Mr. President," the obvious delights of having "Im-

UK Appeals Decision Of Conference

The University of Kentucky has appealed a Southeastern Conference ruling barring star football guard Gene Donaldson from playing next season.

Donaldson and another player, Chet Lukowski, were declared ineligible in a conference ruling last night because of violations of the league rule. At the same time, the Wildcats were suspended from conference basketball for one season.

University president Hiram A. Donovan says only the suspension of Donaldson has been appealed. He adds that the rest of the sentence will not be appealed.

"Donaldson's suspension, in my opinion," says Donovan, "is out of line. Donaldson was guilty of no more than accepting spare-time employment. He earned less than $200 in two and one half years by working on Saturdays."

Donovan says the Lukowski case will not be appealed because the player admitted taking $200 to buy clothing.

Says Donovan, "if we had known that, dean of students, A. D. Kirwin would have declared Lukowski ineligible before this."

spies, private airlines, flights and railroad trains at one's disposal, the authority and dignity of the office, the unbounded pride of holding the same post as the giants of American history, like Washington, Lincoln, Wilson.

All this contributes to that disease known as "presidential fever." Those who catch it promptly forget the most of the thirty-two men who served as president were unhappy during their terms or at least darned glad when they were over. The two Roosevelts, Theodore and Franklin, were about the only ones who actually enjoyed being president.

The rest of them either tolerated life in the White House or frankly hated it. Lincoln called the executive mansion "this damned old house," and remember what outgoing President James Buchanan said to him the day Lincoln was inaugurated.

"If you are as happy, my dear sir, as I am entering this house as I am in leaving it, and returning home, you are the happiest man in the country."

A few years later, Lincoln told a friend: "If to be the head of the

Democrats Set Up Liaison Team Between White House, Nominee

By United Press

The liaison team for smooth operations between the white house and Adlai Stevenson's headquarters in Springfield, Illinois, consists of two presidential assistants—David Bell and Clayton Fritchey.

They accompanied Stevenson back to Springfield following his strategy talks with Mr. Truman and top-level briefing on world affairs and our defense buildup yesterday in Washington.

President Truman said his meeting with Stevenson yesterday was very satisfactory but Mr. Truman's role in the coming campaign still is cloaked in mystery.

However, the president indicated that general agreement was reached on his part in the campaign. He said the details would be worked out later.

Presumably, the job of working out the details will be the main assignment of Bell and Fritchey. While they are serving on the campaign staff in Springfield, neither man will draw government pay.

Meanwhile, Stevenson's personal campaign manager—Wilson Wyatt—says the next major campaign conference at the Illinois governor's mansion will be held this weekend when the campaign advisory committee assembles.

Stevenson is scheduled to make a speech tomorrow during governors Day at the Illinois State fair. And he will have the opportunity again of answering Republican charges that he is a captive candidate.

Those charges have been renewed by Republican presidential candidate Dwight Eisenhower in Denver, Colorado. He says the Truman-Stevenson meeting yesterday proved that Stevenson is under the thumb of political forces which have held power too long in the country.

In a sharp attack, Eisenhower said the meeting signified that the present administration is determined to hand down its doctrines and policies to hand-picked successors. And Eisenhower calls those doctrines and policies "ones which have led the nation to its present state of indecision and fear for the future."

Says Eisenhower: "The American people want a change—they want more than a change of names and faces."

Meanwhile, Eisenhower's running mate—Senator Richard Nixon of California—has criticized what he calls Stevenson's light attitude toward Communism. Nixon told newsmen in Chicago that in a recent message to a veterans group Stevenson called the issue of Communism "phantoms in our midst."

Nixon indicated that such an attitude will make the issue of Communism Republican campaign fodder as far as Stevenson is concerned.

Nixon is scheduled to deliver the major speech at Republican Day at the Illinois State fair—only a few miles from Stevenson's headquarters in Springfield.

Luffman Fund Now Reaches $98.30 Total

The Luffman fund rose to $98.30 today as contributions continue to come in to the office of the daily Ledger and Times.

The people of Murray, in all walks of life, are contributing to the fund, to help the family whose broken back when his tractor overturned. He is now in the Murray Hospital.

He has ten boys and one girl, who take turns staying with him at the hospital to wait on him. At present Hubert age 13 and Jerry age 10 are in the room.

The campaign was started by the daily Ledger and Times, so that the boys who are staying with their father could receive regular meals. They had been eating bologna and cheese crackers in the hospital room since every now and then getting a sandwich or something from their father's plate.

Murrayans have responded to the plea, and have brought in money to insure that the boys get milk and three square meals a day. Numerous comic books have also been brought in for the boys since all they had to occupy their minds has been a yo-yo a piece. The boys might enjoy a New Testament or some children's books also.

Those contributors who have not already been listed are as follows:

A friend $1.00

Connie Ford $2.00

Mrs. C. D. Vinson, comics and $8.00

James Thurmond $1.50

Tommy Lavender $2.50

Chris Schultz $1.00

A friend $2.50

A friend $2.00

Jean and Barney Weaks $2.00

A friend $2.50

Glitter and Chatter Club $5.00

All money over and above the amount necessary to pay the boy's board bill will be applied on Mr. Luffman's hospital bill. Mr. Luffman said that his family will soon be increased to twelve children.

Lions Club Has Meeting

"Liberty, Intelligence, Our Nation's Safety" was the subject of the program presented by R. L. Wade and R. L. Cooper. Talks by the two gentlemen were for what the club's stands for in its ideals and service.

Plans are being made for the annual minstrel, "Lion A. Nite," to be presented October 6 and 7 under the direction of Chuck Simons.

Arrangement was made that that the broom sale will be held sometime in this month.

Guests of the club were R. C. Greene, Dr. C. C. Lowry, Rev. H. P. Blankenship and Dr. Kenneth Ross.

Light Weight Aggregate Is Made By TVA

TVA today announced it has developed a process to make light-weight aggregate which more than doubles the value of byproduct electric phosphorus furnace slag from which the new material is made. TVA believes the new process offers considerable promise to the elemental phosphorus industry which produces large tonnages of the byproduct slag, as well as to manufacturers of such products as concrete building blocks. The process has been developed through the pilot-plant stage and tests have been made on a larger scale.

TVA revealed one private company plans to build equipment to try out the method and two others have indicated they are considering use of the process. TVA has not yet taken steps toward the building of a commercial scale plant.

The process involves tapping molten slag from the furnace and adding steam and water at the same time. This expands the slag to form a porous mass, looking not unlike a sponge. After cooling, the expanded slag is crushed to the desired size.

Market value of the expanded slag is more than double the value of the ordinary slag. It weighs only one-half to two-thirds as much.

HUNT FOR COPPER IS UNDERWAY

FACED WITH A CUT of 40 per cent in copper supply because chief supplier Chile, which normally supplies 80 per cent, wants to raise its price, the U. S. is sponsoring a copper hunt in 20 places in 11 states (black) and Alaska. Numbers indicate more than one digging in four states. Under a 1951 agreement Chile's copper price is 27 1/2 cents a pound, but South American nations want to boost this to 32 1/2 cents.

A BIT OF RETROSPECT ON RECENT HECTIC EVENTS

Alan Ladd Takes His Shirt Off At Least One Time In A Picture

"It doesn't make any difference what type of picture I'm in," he grinned to your movieland correspondent. "Sooner or later, the shirt comes off."

Ladd's starring role in Universal-International's movie, "Desert Legion" establishes an added record to his beefcake career. He'll be stripped to the waist in a pink bathtub, in the foreign legion barracks and in a battle to the death with the villain, played by Richard Conte.

Ladd says he owes his photo-genic torso to football, swimming and several years of rugged work as a laborer at Warner studio before he turned actor.

Hollywood's welcomed another glamour girl named Gabor, but this one, Eva claims she has no desire to be a godcap like her sister Zsa Zsa.

Eva Gabor is in movietown to rehearse for a summer stock play, "Strike A Match," in which she will appear at La Jolla, California. And Eva insists she's the serious member of the family.

The Gabor sisters number three, plus mama. They're beautiful Hungarians who have won fame, fortune, publicity and husbands.

As she puts it, only in a heavy accent, "this is a big world, darling. There is room in Hollywood for both of us. Olivia De Havilland and Joan Fontaine are both actresses and I think they look quite a bit alike."

"I am the younger one, anyway," she added with a dazzling smile.

Now from some brief news items from around the platter city: An 18th century arsenal, worthy of a museum, has been amassed by prop men at Warner studio for the picture, "The Master of Ballantrae," starring Errol Flynn. The prop men scoured England for nearly 700 weapons, including flintlocks and Scottish broadswords.

Even the animals have beauty contests in movietown. The seeing eye dog foundation will hold a dog show for movie stars' pets this fall to raise money for the guide dog institution—MGM was pleased with Robert Taylor's performance in "Advance" that he's been cast in a similar role, and next thing you'll hear he'll be trying to get out of this medieval type casting. This time the classic story of "Knight Errantry" and rivalry is "Quentin Dugard" and now for today's thumbnail movie review: One of the top motion pictures so far for 1952, and a film sure to be in next year's Oscar sweepstakes, is of all things, a western. It's a black and white film, to not even in color. But the movie, "High Noon" was shot purposely without color because it is a dramatic suspense film, superbly directed by Fred Zinnemann of "Teresa" fame. The star of this Stanley Kramer production for Columbia pictures is Gary Cooper. He plays a marshal in a small western town who is about to turn in his badge and leave with his new bride. But a killer has been sent to prison five years before he turns at high noon to try to kill him. Your movieland correspondent recommends the picture as exciting, adult entertainment.

Zsa Zsa recently elected to enter films and has become one of the established glamour dolls of the platter city. She's now in Paris for one of the leading roles in "Moulin Rouge." But sister-Eva sniffs that Zsa Zsa can have all that publicity.

"She likes it, that's fine," says Eva. "But I have my own ideas. I am very serious about my career."

Eva entered the theater and television in New York long before Zsa Zsa crashed the movies. Eva is best remembered for her role in the Broadway hit, "The Happy Time." She wouldn't mind being a movie star, either—she has no qualms about invading Zsa Zsa's territory.

As she puts it, only in a heavy accent, "this is a big world, darling. There is room in Hollywood for both of us. Olivia De Havilland and Joan Fontaine are both actresses and I think they look quite a bit alike."

"I am the younger one, anyway," she added with a dazzling smile.

Now from some brief news items from around the platter city: An 18th century arsenal, worthy of a museum, has been amassed by prop men at Warner studio for the picture, "The Master of Ballantrae," starring Errol Flynn. The prop men scoured England for nearly 700 weapons, including flintlocks and Scottish broadswords.

Even the animals have beauty contests in movietown. The seeing eye dog foundation will hold a dog show for movie stars' pets this fall to raise money for the guide dog institution—MGM was pleased with Robert Taylor's performance in "Advance" that he's been cast in a similar role, and next thing you'll hear he'll be trying to get out of this medieval type casting. This time the classic story of "Knight Errantry" and rivalry is "Quentin Dugard" and now for today's thumbnail movie review: One of the top motion pictures so far for 1952, and a film sure to be in next year's Oscar sweepstakes, is of all things, a western. It's a black and white film, to not even in color. But the movie, "High Noon" was shot purposely without color because it is a dramatic suspense film, superbly directed by Fred Zinnemann of "Teresa" fame. The star of this Stanley Kramer production for Columbia pictures is Gary Cooper. He plays a marshal in a small western town who is about to turn in his badge and leave with his new bride. But a killer has been sent to prison five years before he turns at high noon to try to kill him. Your movieland correspondent recommends the picture as exciting, adult entertainment.

Varicose Veins Are Most Common In The Legs

J. A. Outland, M. D.

"People go to the doctor for a variety of reasons, the most common of course being pain and discomfort."

For varicose legs are unattractive, with their enlarged bluish veins swelling above the surface of the skin, sometimes in lumpy masses. Varicose veins, enlarged veins whose walls have lost their elasticity, may occur anywhere on the body, but they are most common in the legs.

There is reason why the legs are affected most frequently. When a person is standing, blood pressure in the long veins of the legs is increased and the longer a person stands, the greater the strain on the leg veins. Police men, waitresses, salespeople—those who stand motionless a great deal of the time—frequently suffer from varicose veins.

The function of veins through the human body is to carry the blood back to the heart. Most of these veins are equipped with valves which keep the blood from flowing back or settling in the veins. When the valves no longer function properly because of injury or disease, blood that should be circulating becomes a stagnant pool in the vein and a "varicose vein" results.

Varicose veins are rarely fatal. But if they are neglected, they get progressively worse and cause the sufferer more and more pain.

Anyone who suspects the veins of his legs are enlarging, whether or not there is pain, should see his doctor without delay. Prompt medical treatment will bring about relief, probably help correct his varicose conditions and help ward off more serious complications of varicose veins, like ulceration and bleeding.

As far as we know, varicose veins cannot be prevented, but certain precautions can be taken.

Shakeoff apathy and become more active in the party of your choice. Communism is a challenge. It is the synthesis of our way of life. Its thesis was put forth by Marx and Engels a century ago. It is Utopian and although it preaches equality, there is no evidence that it has been successful in developing equality. Be vigilant. Vote in the November election. ## Miss Sara Alice Outland Is Married To Mr. McDaniel In Church Ceremony

Miss Sara Alice Outland, daughter of Rev. and Mrs. Joe Carless Outland of Nashville, Tenn., formerly of Murray, became the bride of Herman Charles McDaniel, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Herman Charles McDaniel, Sr., of Crawfordsville, Ark.

The single ring ceremony was read at the Baptist Church in Crawfordsville by one Rev. Cady Renaud of Sunday, August 10, at three o'clock in the afternoon.

The church was decorated with arrangements of peach gladioli and greenery. "Because" was played preceding the ceremony. The traditional wedding march was used for the processional and recessional.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a ballroom length wedding gown of white lace over white tulle. Her fingertip veil was attached to a crown of white lace. She carried a bridal bouquet of white flowers.

Mrs. Loris Rogers of Nashville, Tenn., sister of the bride, was matron of honor. Her ballroom length gown was of pink lace over blue tulle and she carried a bouquet of matching flowers.

Ushers were Joe Paul Outland of Murray, brother of the bride, and Sydney Erwin of Crawfordsville, brother-in-law of the bridegroom.

Mrs. Outland chose to wear her daughter's wedding a pink dress with blue accessories and a corsage of white gladioli. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink dress with white accessories and her corsage was of white gladioli.

The bride's father, Mr. Joe Carless Outland, died at a heart attack with a fatal aneurysm. He was 41 years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Carless Outland, Sr., of Nashville, Tenn., were the parents of the bride. Mr. Carless died in 1948.

Typical Family Surprise Officials With Family Budget

Food prices are at an all time high—and droughts threaten to cause them to soar even higher. So, it looks as though balancing the budget couldn't be tougher for the family with growing children and a fixed income.

The office of a New York City housing project picked a young couple with four children as a typical family to be questioned on how they fought their budget battle.

But the couple—Anthony and Virginia Wilson—pulled a surprise. Said the 22-year-old Virginia, "we have no complaints."

Her 27-year-old husband added, "people never had it so good." Anthony is a bus driver who brings home 65 dollars a week. He says, "sure food prices are higher, but so are incomes. People like us have more than our folks did. We're even better off than the average worker 15 years ago. Our hours are shorter, we get more workers' benefits, and our pay is a lot higher."

The Wilsons pay 50 dollars a month for their two-bedroom apartment. They don't live by a strict budget, but they set aside 15 dollars each week for rent and the telephone bill, and 25 dollars for food, plus 13.50 for milk. Their only rule is no charge accounts and no installment buying.

Says Anthony, "we've had four children in five years. We eat as well as we ever did. We have no complaints."

Freedom is not a right that just happens. There's no magic way to freedom. We have to work, sacrifice and sometimes fight to keep it alive. We, in America, take all our liberties for granted. When this happens, we are in grave danger of losing them. Be certain you are registered correctly to vote in November.

Fluorine Treated Drinking Water Cuts Tooth Decay

New York state health commissioner Herman Hilleboe has just released the latest findings on a water fluoridation experiment being conducted in Kingston and Newburgh.

Hilleboe says dental decay dropped 47 per cent in the entire elementary school population of Newburgh where the water has been treated since 1944. He said in Kingston, where the water was not treated, there has been no drop in tooth decay among the public school children.

From 1900 until 1913 an average of nearly 75,000 persons were killed in accidents each year, a rate of 83 deaths per 100,000 population. The toll would have reached 84,000 persons in 1914 if this rate had continued, but it was reduced to 79 and the death toll to 77,000, a saving of about 7,000 lives. Similar comparisons based on rates for succeeding years shows that about a million lives were saved by 1951.

Fluorine Treated Drinking Water Cuts Tooth Decay

New York state health commissioner Herman Hilleboe has just released the latest findings on a water fluoridation experiment being conducted in Kingston and Newburgh.

Hilleboe says dental decay dropped 47 per cent in the entire elementary school population of Newburgh where the water has been treated since 1944. He said in Kingston, where the water was not treated, there has been no drop in tooth decay among the public school children.

From 1900 until 1913 an average of nearly 75,000 persons were killed in accidents each year, a rate of 83 deaths per 100,000 population. The toll would have reached 84,000 persons in 1914 if this rate had continued, but it was reduced to 79 and the death toll to 77,000, a saving of about 7,000 lives. Similar comparisons based on rates for succeeding years shows that about a million lives were saved by 1951.

MANY ARE SAVED FROM ACCIDENTAL DEATH

Death and taxes may be inevitable, but the experts are beating the former.

From 1900 until 1913 an average of nearly 75,000 persons were killed in accidents each year, a rate of 83 deaths per 100,000 population. The toll would have reached 84,000 persons in 1914 if this rate had continued, but it was reduced to 79 and the death toll to 77,000, a saving of about 7,000 lives.
