Note Book

It seems to me that nearly all of my life I have been viewing home talent shows, with a sort of detached, yet enthusiastic interest. I have attended such shows in various capacities. . . . sometimes as a purely interested spectator, sometimes as a reporter and photographer to cover the event, sometimes as a judge of the various participants.

What is more I have been attending Cub Scout Minstrels since here I've been and I have always left the dress rehearsals and then the final event with a feeling of warmth for the extremely talented performers and the pride their parents feel for the abilities of their children.

Monday night I attended a full scale rehearsal of the Cub Scout Minstrel, which will be held this year on Monday and Tuesday, April 9 and 10. I have done this for the past several years and I always enjoy seeing the young folks labor through their first appearances before the mike. This year something happened to my enthusiasm for the Cub Scout Minstrel.

Don't get me wrong. There's a very good and valid reason for my attitude. You see, for the first time in my life I will not be a spectator. I will not be a reporter. I will not be a judge. I will be the mother of two youngsters who will do a solo number for the minstrel, and this, my friends, marks the first time in their lives or ours that they will perform before large numbers of the dear public. It ain't easy on mothers, I can tell you for sure.

Montelle and Nelson Tripp told Paul and me that as far as they know there has never been a brother and sister act in the minstrel. At first I thought that was a nice and novel idea. Now I am wondering why it has to happen during my lifetime and in my life.

I can say without fear of contradiction that there is no human emotion describable that compares with the fright that comes to a mother when her children get up to perform.

Take Monday night for instance. When Interlocutor Vyrion Mitchell called out for Mary Jo and R. Paul to come to the stage, the children bounced up and started back stage. I, in turn, went into a deep freeze. My hands became so clammy I couldn't open them for fear the perspiration of fright would flood out the auditorium. Suddenly I looked at the stage and there was no stage at all. . . . just a bubbling crater, blurred as all get out.

In a few minutes Montelle played an introduction and out ran the two kids. They stopped dead in front of the mike. . . . and I sitting in the balcony, telling myself that I was watching some kids do an act, stopped breathing. I was gasping for breath when they started the tune, forgot the words, had to start all over again, sang a bar or two, got mixed up, decided to start over again. . . . I said this is it. . . . I can't stand it, they just won't be in the show. . . . it's too hard on me.

Then I looked over at Clara Warren. She looked calm enough and her little boy has been on the stage for 10 these many years. I thought of Lucille Adams, of Maureen Treas, of Shirley Temple, Judy Garland, Mickey Rooney, Lon Chaney, the hunchback of Notre Dame and Rin-tin-tin.

I thought of laughing, crying, screaming and going blind. Paradoxically their number is called "Love and Marriage." I thought if I hadn't gotten involved in such a thing those two young 'uns wouldn't be on the stage and I in turn would not be witnessing rigor mortis.

Suddenly I decided to take hold of myself. By this time the children were through with their number and I could feel the life creeping back into me. I made it through their first full scale rehearsal.

But dear people I have a Wednesday night, a Friday night and a Sunday afternoon rehearsal to go through. If, on Monday you see a chair around

Judge McCain Says Youth Program Is Community Project

"Seek out the youngsters in your community who need a helping hand," Judge Elizabeth McCain of the Juvenile Court of Memphis told an audience in Hickman Tuesday night. "Children need a chance to grow according to their own abilities and need a set of standards by which to live," the Judge said as she recounted many of the real life experiences she encounters in her busy life as one of the few women Juvenile Court Judges in the United States.

Introduced by Hickman School Superintendent J. C. McClellan, Judge McCain was presented in Hickman under the auspices of the local Parent-Teacher organization, Mrs. J. A. Whipple, program chairman for the group, was instrumental in arranging the speaking date.

Stressing the importance of religious training for young people today, Judge McCain said that children must grow up with a faith in God. She cited instances that came before her court where youngsters revealed that they did not know the Ten Commandments.

Judge McCain urged her listeners to make recreational programs for young people of the community, for she said: "Children need leadership and personal interest in all their activities." She said that rarely is the delinquency found where a community fulfills its obligations to its young people.

Prior to Judge McCain's talk a dinner was held in her honor in the Hickman Homemakers room. The Homemakers served the meal. Members of the local bar association, civic leaders and public officials and press and attaches were present. At the speaking Nancy Adams delighted the audience with several musical numbers and Mrs. Don Henry gave a most inspiring and appropriate devotional.

Heretofore all police officers will be required to watch for parking violations and give tickets when violations occur. Stricter enforcement of traffic arrests will be made and all tickets will be followed up to see that they are paid.

The Council dispensed with other routine matters coming up before the body.

SPECIAL ELECTION ON SATURDAY FOR SOUTH FULTON BOND

Voters To Decide On Issue To Erect Industrial Building

All registered voters in the City of South Fulton are being urged as a matter of civic duty to vote Saturday, April 7 on the bond issue which will finance the construction of an Industrial Building.

The rent or revenues from the lease of the industrial building to a potential company occupying it, would be used to retire the bonds and the bonds issued as a result of this bond referendum would not and could not be general obligations of the City of South Fulton and thus could not affect or in any manner result in a tax increase in the city.

The various organizations in South Fulton are urging all citizens to go to the polls and vote in favor of this bond issue which will not exceed $500,000.00 (Continued on page five)

House Passes Budget; Happy Fails To Reveal Tax Program

GOVERNOR TAKES ACTION TO SMOOTH PASSAGE OF BILL

Governor A. B. Chandler has taken action to smooth the Legislative pathway for his record budget bill by telling Legislators that if they don't like his tax plans, they will be free to draft their own.

Chandler's statement is regarded as a major concession to the Legislature - his first since he became Governor. Until this morning he has been insisting that the General Assembly pass his 570-million dollar budget for the next two years before he reveals how he plans to raise the additional 46-million dollars in taxes that will be needed.

The concession came just as mounting opposition made it appear that the budget would not be approved on that basis in the Senate, although it is expected to clear the house today with little difficulty.

Some 20 Senate - A majority of the upper house - have indicated they would oppose the budget bill unless and until the Governor tells them about his tax (Continued on Page Five)

BULLETIN
FRANKFORT April 4 - The Kentucky House Of Representatives has passed Governor A. B. Chandler's record 570-Million Dollar Biennial budget bill by a vote of 79 to nothing. The budget now goes to the Senate.

Frankfort, Ky., April 3. - Members of the Legislature Tuesday failed in an effort to peep through the stubborn curtain drawn between them and Governor Chandler's plans for $46,000,000 in new taxes.

Finance Commissioner James W. Martin kept a determined grip on the drawstring.

Asked by Senator Leon Shaikun, Louisville, if he could say what new taxes the Administration is considering, Martin said: "I could if I wanted to, but I'm not going to."

The abortive attempt to get at Chandler's revenue plans came as Martin and members of his staff attended a Joint House-Senate Rules Committee session to discuss the 1956-58 budget.

Shaikun first asked Martin to tell the group what new tax measures will be submitted by the Governor to fill in the gap between proposed spending and expected revenue.

Martin said that was a function of the Department of Revenue and it would be improper for him to make a statement on it.

In response to a question by Senator Arthur Grafton, Louisville, Martin said he expected Chandler to give the Legislature detailed estimates of revenue at the beginning of the special session on revenue and taxation.

The Governor has said he will call the revenue and taxation session immediately after adjournment of the current special session on the budget.

Representative Rodney Thompson, Winchester, asked Martin if he would be able to give the Legislature estimates of revenue before the budget is voted on.

Martin said that was outside his bailiwick. He added that the Department of Finance would give the Governor information about expected revenue "immediately following the week-end."

Senator Clarence Maloney, Madisonville, said the Legislature is being asked to vote a debt on the people "before we have a chance to see where the revenue is to come from."

That, Martin said, was standard procedure. Most legislatures first pass the budget and the take up means of financing it, he said.

Maloney said that the Governor, if he wanted to, could limit the call for the revenue and taxation session to include only the specific tax proposals that the Administration wants.

Martin said he presumed the terms of the Governor's call of the special session would be broad enough to permit tax proposals other than the Administration's to be submitted.

Representative Henry R. Heyburn, Louisville, wanted to know the meaning of this sentence concerning revenue estimates in (Continued on page eight)

IT'S BIGGER AND BETTER THAN EVER; CUBS-BIG MINSTREL

Big Headline Acts Promise Startling Talent Specialities

It may be hard to believe, but it's a fact, that this year's Cub Scout Minstrel bids well to be bigger and better than ever.

If enthusiastic rehearsals, beautiful and original stage settings and dazzling costumes have anything to do with it, then the statement is well founded.

Nancy Adams as you like her, Peggy Russell and Nancy Treas doing a number with Interlocutor Vyrion Mitchell, James Jones and Glenn Exum in a surprise comedy song, Den No. 10 doing an original number written and directed by Viola Strong called "Crazy Little Indians," are some of the head-liners of the show, but there are many, many others you will want to see. Students from the Rosemary Peterson School of Dance will also appear.

The production is under the able direction of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Tripp, the hard-working couple in town. Make plans now to attend the Cub Scout Minstrel. . . . it's a must . . . for next Monday and Tuesday, April 9 and 10.

Welcome Home

A cordial welcome back to Fulton is extended to Mrs. Elizabeth Payne who has been visiting relatives for several weeks. Mrs. Payne visited with her daughter and son-in-law in Arkansas and with her sister and brother-in-law in Memphis.

Happy Visit! The Walter Permenters are happy. They have as their house guests their nephew, Freddie Towles, and his wife, Mary, who will visit with them for two weeks. Following the visit here they will journey to Goodland, Kansas where they will visit with her parents.

Everybody has a big smile as they practice furiously on the big Cub Scout Minstrel to be staged next Monday and Tuesday. Viola Strong, background, has a pat on the back for some of her "Crazy Little Indians," who are shown here. They are left to right: Tony Taylor, Brent Burrow, Cortis Stinnett, Philip Moss and David Long, whose face is hidden. The lady in the foreground is Montelle Tripp, who will accompany the numbers.

Happy Chandler's Secrecy About His $25,000,000 Tax Program Smacks Of Disloyalty To Kentuckians

"Tax, Tax, Tax. Spend, Spend, Spend," was the theme song from a sour-note opera last summer, when an off-key tenor named one Albert Benjamin "Happy" Chandler sang the title role. From the Breaks of Sandy to Madrid Bend this wandering wonder boy mesmerized the voters of Kentucky like a Pied Piper leading his followers into a Utopia of tax-free government, and chicken every Sunday.

Right here on Lake Street in Fulton, Kentucky, with arms outstretched and his eyes to God in Heaven he blasphemed the holy wedding vows by linking Clementine and Wetherbine in marriage, with Henryine a witness and Bert Combs, the flower girl.

This self-styled "white hope" of Kentucky promised all things to all men... to women and children... to the blind and infirm... to the young and aged... to the laborer and the farmer... to the rich and the poor... without additional taxes.

And as an encore to Happy's lilting melody Harry Lee Waterfield, in the manner of a second string crooner would sing another verse to the same tune.

Right on Lake Street in Fulton Harry Lee said to his friends and neighbors: "There's some belief in Fulton that Happy and I cannot finance the Minimum Foundation program without additional taxes. That belief is wrong. We are going to set aside $55,000,000 for education first, and with what's left we can run the State of Kentucky."

Come the rains of January, the snows of February, the Ides of March, and April showers. The soloists have retreated back-stage, fearful of an April curtain call for the tunes they sang in August.

In that same campaign, a fine, honorable and outstanding young man by the name of Bert Combs, who sadly found it his lot to run against an opponent who campaigned against the evils of honesty, told the people of Kentucky some real facts about financing State Government. He told the people in his opening address, "Kentucky will need $25,000,000 more in taxes to adequately finance the programs to which he (Combs) was committed."

Happy Chandler jumped on that statement like a mad dog on a kitten. He multiplied the $25,000,000 into $100,000,000 to distort the truth. Like the cost of the rug in the Governor's office... Chandler upped the cost from $2700 to $20,000.00

Now Happy Chandler is doing some right sharp upping of his own figures. His financial advisors are telling him in effect that Bert Combs knew exactly what he was talking about.

Happy Chandler's BUDGET FOR TWO YEARS CALLS FOR NEARLY $25,000,000 annually in new taxes. Just exactly what Bert Combs said... but there the similarity ends. Bert Combs is satisfied in his defeat that he played square with the people of Kentucky. Can Happy Chandler say the same thing in his victory?

And like a dictator, a term which he used loud and loosely during his campaign, Chandler is refusing to tell what type of taxes he will levy until the General Assembly approves his new and tremendous budget. Then he can bring forth the sad-sack look and say: "I didn't know what kind of taxes they were going to levy, but the General Assembly approved the budget so there's nothing we can do."

We are wiring our Representative and Senator not to approve the budget until Chandler makes public the taxes he will levy. We hope you will let your representative know how you feel too. That is if your representative is out from the spell of intimidation under which most of them seem to be living these days.

We review this August and April situation for you for a number of reasons. Chief among them is the fact that Happy Chandler will ask the people of Kentucky to help him elect a United States Senator from Kentucky to replace Earle C. Clements.

With his few short months in office a barometer of his ability to tell the truth to the people of Kentucky who will want to follow Chandler into his dictatorship?

Who will want to believe what he says?

It looks to us like this fellow who is a past master at upping figures and distorting facts, is just about to get his come-uppance. A little too late, we're afraid... for before he goes out of office... if he stays around four years... he will have taxed the people of Kentucky an additional $100,000,000 in taxes.

Just like he promised he wouldn't!

humble belief in the guidance of God.

Pope Pius has told us that instead of shuddering at every new atomic discovery we should see a new door opening behind which we find God. God meant us to find the atom and if we use it in accord with His laws we can use it to bring increased happiness to man here on earth.

THIS FAITH in God's providence is an essential part of the Christian mood in the atom age. But we must go beyond faith. We must have recourse to God for the enlightenment of our understanding to use this great gift for man's good.

This duty of prayer, though most important for our leaders, falls upon all of us. It is a duty for all of us who have a stake in the survival of our nation.

WE HEAR much today about greater aid for our allies, better education and more schools as the answers to our problems. But these are not enough. Man alone cannot cure his ills.

God has given us the atom; He has also given us the freedom to use it wisely or madly. To face that responsibility, courageously and humbly, bowing prayerfully before the atom's giver, this is the Christian mood in our atomic-age, the age of decision.

Fight Cancer With A Check-up And A Check

April, Cancer Control Month, is at hand. The volunteers of the American Cancer Society, like the voice of the turtle, will soon be heard in the land. This year they will chorus a catchy message: Fight cancer with a check-up and a check.

By fighting cancer with a check-up, we can realize the Society's goal of doubling current cancer cure rates through mass adoption of early detection and prompt treatment. Last year 80,000 persons died of cancer only because treatment was begun too late. It cannot be stressed too often that most cancers are curable if caught or better, if checked, in time.

By fighting cancer with a check, we are helping scientists to conquer cancer through research; we are helping cancer patients with a wide variety of comforting services at home and in hospitals; and we are helping the ACS to spread life-saving knowledge of cancer throughout the nation.

In any battle, the side that can choose its weapons is likely to have the advantage. And in some of the world's greatest conflicts money and knowledge are potent implements against an enemy. That is particularly true of the war to control and eventually conquer cancer, top killer among diseases that prey upon humans.

It urges all men and women to have periodic medical checkups to detect the existence of any possible cancer symptoms and it asks for checks to enable its cancer control program to go forward without interruption. Thus the Society seeks to render a deadly enemy powerless and to save countless more thousands of lives through prompt and adequate treatment.

Realistic people will heed that urging. It is sensible, and it will add to the peace of mind and happiness of a vast number.

And the appeal of the ACS to "say it with a check" will not exclude anyone who lacks a checking account from giving toward its vital work. Making a contribution of this kind to the Society is one satisfying way of participating in a herculean struggle to end an ancient menace to our lives.

Send the check today, and arrange for the medical examination without delay. That's wise health insurance.

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

How To React To The Atom Age

By Thomas E. Murray, United States Atomic Energy Commission

LIVING IN the atom age gives rise to various moods. People react to the new discoveries in different ways.

Some react with a mood of guilt, as though atomic energy was essentially evil. Others are seized by a mood of fear, giving rise to a policy of neutralism. Then there is the mood of futility. "There's nothing I can do about it, so I won't even think about it." Still others are just simply bewildered.

IT SEEMS to me that none of these is the Christian mood. The Christian mood is not escapist, nor is it bred of illusions. A Christian is always a realist.

The Christian sees in all things the hand of God. With Pope Pius XII he recognizes that "technological progress comes from God; and it can and ought to lead to God."

AS AN Atomic Energy Commissioner, I have been brought close to many evidences for the providence of God. In looking at the tiny atoms, with their protons, neutrons and electrons showing forth unbelievable complexity along with perfect order, one cannot help but see the hand of God.

Even scientists who once dogmatically excluded God from the universe begin to realize that science cannot give man the answer to his fundamental problems. And doubting in the infallibility of science is a step towards

Diary of Doin's

—Around Fulton—

The News writes social happenings about you and your friends.

Two robins paused in their flight Sunday morning and hopped around at the feet of the Civic Chorus while the voices of the chorus sang out in unison to proclaim this, the Holy Day of Easter.

Everyone had arisen early to attend the annual communion service held at Memorial Stadium at 6:30 a. m. Some had dressed in their new Easter clothes — some wore flowers. Some wore hats — some did not — but we had the feeling that everyone was aglow with a sense of well-being — that all were happy to be alive and that all things — great and small — were in complete harmony with the spirit of the joyous Eastertide.

It was a day when families and friends were together. Students were home from their respective colleges and they came to church with mother and dad. Husbands were home on leave and were there with their wives — Everyone — young and old — at some time during the day, attended the church of their own faith and went away with the feeling that all was right with the world.

Comings and Goings: Mary Mozzelle and Dixie Howell and baby Robert Sanford Howell, who live on Lookout Mt. Chattanooga, were in Fulton for the holidays with Mary Mozzelle's mother, Mrs. George Crafton on Cedar Street. Betty Ann and Billie Hefley and children, Laura, Buddy, Charlie and John of Memphis spent the week-end with her parents, Bettie Louise and Clarence Reed at their home on Park Avenue. Peggy and Godfrey Binford, students at Lambuth College in Jackson visited their families for the holidays. Kay Cherry spent the week-end with her parents, Clella and Donald Cherry on Third Street. Mary Davis Weeks and Lieut. John Dicken of Bethel, Ky. arrived in Fulton Monday night for an overnight visit with her parents, Louis and Elsie Weeks on Third St. Mary Davis left Tuesday for Lexington to continue her "schooling" at U. K. Lieut. Dickenson also left on Tuesday for Houston, Texas where he is stationed at Ellington Air Force Base. Don Wright planned in to Memphis Monday night from Washington, D. C. for a visit with his parents, Mary Nellie and Hendon Wright at their home on West State Line Road. He will leave Fulton on Friday for Lexington, Ky. where he will visit friends and attend the Alpha Delta Pi spring formal as a guest of Kay Cherry. Jane White, Nancy Wilson, Donald Mac Speight and Dawson Huddleston of the University of Kentucky spent the Easter holidays with their parents. Carolyn Roberts of Murray State was home over the week-end with her parents, Martha and Pete Roberts on Jackson Street. She had a lovely visitor, who is her room-mate, Sue Boone of Aberdeen, Miss. Jeff Lester of Lambuth College, Jackson, spent the holidays with his parents, Fay and W. W. Lester on Third Street.

"Styles have definitely changed since last year" — is what the third graders at South Fulton said about the Easter hats they made at school for their mothers.

This chapeaux designing is an annual project for the class and their teacher, Pattie May Fields, is just as enthusiastic about the whole thing — as her pupils! Everyone in the class, boys and girls, take part in the project and they look forward to the time when their hats are completed and they can take them home to Mother. Each child gives much thought to his or her original design. The boys may be a bit shy — but they are just as proud of their fancy hats as the girls. The charming model worn by Alice Wilson (in picture) was made by none other than — Robert Wilkerson, which was the prize-winning hat! Another male designer was Brent Burrow who made strictly the tailored type for his mother, Jeannette.

It is a wonderful project which affords the children an opportunity to exercise their creative ability — not only in the actual designing — but as you may see in the following poem composed by Carolyn Hood, a member of the class.

THE EASTER HAT By Carolyn Hood

I have a little Easter hat,
It looks so gay and sweet.
Every time I wear it
It makes me feel quite neat.

This hat is not a copy
For it's my very own.
I made it in Mrs. Fields' room,
It makes me feel fully grown.

Fiftieth wedding anniversaries are very happy — and yet — sometimes nostalgic events. Mr. and Mrs. C. L. Gardner will tell you just this — because they celebrated their Easter Sunday afternoon.

When the many, many guests called to wish them happy returns of the day they undoubtedly recounted the beloved position this couple has played in the growth and development of Fulton County. Mr. and Mrs. Gardner were married in Fulton on April 1, 1906 by Esquire Futtrell at his home on Oak Street. They were married in a buggy which "was the fad" in those days. Their attendants were Mr. Ben Curdin, an uncle of Mrs. Gardner, and the late Miss Carol Roach. They lived in Fulton all of their lives and were associated in the photography business together for many, many years in the same location where they founded the business 44 years ago.

Their daughters, Lorene Harding and Carbone Bowlin and their daughter-in-law, Nettie Gardner, were hostesses for the delightful occasion which was held at the Gardner home at 113 West State Line between the hours of 2 and 5.

The Gardner home was transformed into a veritable flower garden by the many, many gift bouquets of yellow and gold flower arrangements. In the dining room the table was overlaid with a white lace cloth centered with a crystal bowl filled with yellow daisies and yellow Dutch iris. On either side of the bowl crystal candleabra held tall gold tapers which shed a soft glow over the table.

Nettie Gardner, dressed in a blue faille, afternoon frock with velvet trim with red rose corsage, greeted the guests and presented them to the honorees. Assisting in receiving with the Gardners were their two daughters.

Miss Mary Ann Brady Is Married In Impressive Ceremony In St. Paul's Church Of Nokomis, Ill.

The St. Paul's Lutheran Church of Nokomis, Ill. was the scene of a beautiful and impressive double wedding on Sunday afternoon, March 25, 1956 at 2:30 o'clock when Miss Mary Ann Brady, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Brady of Fulton, became the bride of Gene W. Adden, son of Mrs. Louis Adden and the late Mr. Adden of Nokomis, and Miss Betty Lou Wood, daughter of Mrs. Irene Moreland of Springfield, Ill., became the bride of Vern E. Adden. The two grooms are brothers. The Rev. J. P. Esslinger officiated, using the double-ring services.

Preceding the ceremonies, Mrs. Melvin Schweizer, organist, and Miss Vernie Croghan, soloist, presented a program of nuptial music. Miss Croghan's solos were "Through the Years" and "I Love Thee." The traditional wedding marches were used. Miss Brady wore an original full-length wedding gown of white imported rosepoint lace, fashioned over satin. Her jewelry was a pearl necklace and matching earrings, which were gifts of the groom. Her bouquet was a white orchid placed on a white Bible with streamers of white satin.

Miss Nancy May of Union City, Tenn. was Miss Brady's maid of honor. She wore a ballerina frock of pale blue crystal-ette with a molded empire waist-line and a bustle effect. She wore a headband of dainty fresh blue flowers with a nose veil of illusion. She carried a cascade bouquet of pink carnations. Mr. Carl Adden served his brother as best man. Ushers were Lester Lehnen, Paul DeWerff and Richard Buehenschuets. Bill Buehenschuets and Bill Moreland were acolytes. For her daughter's wedding, Mrs. Brady wore an afternoon frock of navy lace with navy and white accessories. Her corsage was of pink carnations. Immediately following the ceremony, a reception was held in the church parlors. Those assisting at the reception were Miss Lady Martin Hicks, Mrs. Paul DeWerff, Mrs. Paul Johnson, Miss Marlene Weher, Mrs. Ivan Miller, Mrs. Mel Cordani and Mrs. Lester Le Lehnen. Early in the evening Mr. and Mrs. Adden left for a southern wedding trip. Mrs. Adden wore a black linen costume suit. Her accessories were black and she wore the white orchid from her bridal bouquet. Upon their return they will make their home in Nokomis.

Out of town guests included Mrs. J. R. Powell, Mr. and Mrs. Reginald Williamson, and Ivan Brady of Fulton, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Taylor of Cape Girardeau, Mo., Mr. and Mrs. Ike May of Union City, and Mr. and Mrs. William Hill and daughter, Renee, of Bartholmo, Ill.

Williams of Humboldt and Mr. and Mrs. William L. Jenkins of Fayetteville, Tenn.

Jessica Sensing was the happiest one on her ninth birthday last week when her mother, Mrs. Louis Sensing, honored her with a birthday party.

Fifteen of her little friends were included on the guest list and they played such games as "guessing the beans" and "pinning the tail on the donkey."

Her mother was assisted in serving by Mrs. Raymond Murray when they served delicious cake and ice cream. Then, each guest was given balloons, candy and bubble gum. The hostess made many interesting pictures of her daughter and guests and everyone had a wonderful time.

Jessica received many lovely gifts from her little friends.

Those who attended were Terry Lynn Foster, Mike Faulkner, Tony Taylor, Lowell Grooms, Ray Murray, Brent Burrow, David Long, Roger McAlister, Mary Elizabeth Fields, Linda Grissom, Melva Matlock, Joy Fagan, Judy Neeley and Genita Murray.

Sandra Coates was unable to attend but sent a gift.

The happiest "gang" in town all got together for a supper at the Derby Friday night. It was strictly a HEN party. These gals are all in college and when a vacation comes — they all head for Fulton and spend an evening just by themselves. They go to such colleges as South-western, Murray State, Ole Miss, University of Ky. and Memphis State — but we know — for sure — that HOME is the place they like BEST. We never did determine WHICH one did the MOST talking because each one was speaking on her favorite subject — at the SAME time. But what fun they were having. They were, Kay Cherry, Glenda Sue Brown, Roma Satterfield, Beverly Cursey, Mary Ann Hill, Paula DeMeyer, Jackie Edwards, Jean Ann Hyland, Jane Austin, Lucy Anderson — have we forgotten any? If so, please accept our apologies!

Technicolor West's best-loved story!

Effective until further notice, this theatre will be open the above four days weekly. Closed on Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday.

Hickman whether Martha Hornsby will ever be the same again. One thing is for sure, and that is that all events in her future life will be counted as either before or after "the first plane ride."

You see, Martha and her husband, Hoot, with Charlotte and Pots Sanger and Jessie Lou and Duck Goulder attended some kind of a high level committee meeting in Washington recently. Since this is planting time on the farm, and all three couples are engaged in such activities, they thought the "bestest and fastest" way to get there was via the air lanes.

Martha, who has never had the fortune, or maybe misfortune, to travel in such a manner was more than a little perturbed at the prospect of such mode of travel, but good sport that she is, she decided to go along with the crowd. We might even say that Martha was apprehensive at being so high in the heavens... and she's never had one single lesson on how to be a paratrooper.

Well, the group took off from Paducah on a fine Spring day and if our authority is reliable, and we think she is, we have been told that Martha did not look up a single time from the time she left Paducah until she neared the outskirts of Washington.

One nearing the Nation's Capital she thought that perhaps she was a little accustomed to the plane travel and decided to relax a little only to be informed, almost simultaneously with her relaxation, that the plane was encountering rough weather. That completed all the preparations for a nervous breakdown and you can well imagine that when she alighted from the plane at Washington's National Airport she was as limp as a dish rag. Poor thing. She said that she could hardly enjoy her visit in Washington knowing that she would have to go through that plane ride again.

Another passenger in the group, Jessie Lou, also had never had a plane ride, but she fared much better than Martha did. There's a rumor going around Hickman that Martha has not said categorically that she will never board a plane again, but she has said with equal emphasis, that if she ever goes up again, it will surely be without her will and consent.

We offer condolences to Martha. We've felt that way many-a-time about flying, and we've made up our minds too, that never, but never, will we fly unless it is a matter of extreme urgency.

A large share of the good things of life come your way on rails held down by Illinois Central spikes. These same rails help people in your community to earn a living doing business with people in thousands of other places.

That is why transportation is so important to you. The Illinois Central shares the responsibility with other railroads and highway, water and air carriers. Each does certain jobs best and most economically.

But the most economical carrier doesn't always get the job. Even when the Illinois Central can haul freight more economically than trucks, for example, present transport regulations often keep us from giving you the benefit of this economy.

This can be corrected by relying more on competition and less on regulation to set freight rates, according to a Cabinet Committee appointed by the President of the United States.

This Committee believes competitive pricing will save you money. We are for it, because it will help us to serve you and all the people of Mid-America better and more economically.

Earle Clements Has Served State From County Office To National Prominence

(The News is herewith pleased to publish biographical information concerning Senator Earle C. Clements, who is campaigning for re-election for United States Senator. His entire life is a story of hard work and public service.)

Earle C. Clements, Kentucky's Senior United States Senator and the Deputy Majority Leader of the United States Senate, was born October 22, 1896, in Morganfield, Ky. His father, Aaron Wailer Clements, was a farmer and a public servant who served Union County as sheriff and county judge. Both his father and his mother, Sallie Tukey Clements, were born in Union County, Kentucky.

CHILDHOOD AND YOUTH
A product of rural America, Earle Clements received his social, spiritual, and educational background from his family, his church and the public school system. His understanding and concern for the farmer, worker, and small businessman came early through his life in a rural community. He also learned the virtue of hard work and the philosophy of public service and "grass-roots" democracy that was to mark his career. As a youth close to the land he learned the preciousness of water and soil. He learned, too, that Kentucky's successful future depended upon how wisely she conserved, developed and utilized her natural resources.

EDUCATION OF A SENATOR
Following the War, Earle Clements returned to Morganfield and after a brief period as a prospector in the southwest, settled in his home town. In 1922 he commenced a career dedicated to the improvement of his State through ever-better government, a career that is a story of achievement in seven chapters.

PUBLIC SERVICE CAREER
Following the War, Earle Clements returned to Morganfield and after a brief period as a prospector in the southwest, settled in his home town. In 1922 he commenced a career dedicated to the improvement of his State through ever-better government, a career that is a story of achievement in seven chapters.

The first chapter was written between 1922 and 1926 when he served the people of Union County as sheriff. Between 1926 and 1934 he served as County Clerk. During the period 1934-1942, Earle Clements discharged the duties of County Judge.

In 1942, the process of learning government "from the ground up" was furthered when he was elected a State Senator. In 1944, his leadership qualities and carefully acquired governmental "know how" resulted in his being elected Democratic Floor Leader of the Senate.

In January, 1945, still another chapter in his career story began when he was sworn in as a Member of the U. S. House of Representatives, having been elected by the people of the Second Kentucky Congressional District in 1944. He served on the Committee on Agriculture and the Post Office and Civil Service Committee in the House of Representatives. He was re-elected in 1946.

In 1947, Earle Clements' experience at five levels of government was recognized by the people of Kentucky and they elected him Governor. As Governor, Earle Clements made sweeping changes and initiated long - needed programs. He brought about an extensive rural road program that got Kentucky's farmers "out of the mud", greatly enlarged the state education budget, organized the first State Police Department; developed Kentucky's park facilities and tourist attractions as a new source of income; established the Agricultural and Industrial Development Board to encourage new industry to locate in Kentucky and promote agriculture; created the State Department of Economic Security; established the first Legislative Research Commission; built needed hospitals and mental institutions; started the New State Fair; expanded the highway system; raised old age pensions; and generally gave Kentucky an outstanding administration.

In addition, and in spite of all these advances of benefit to every Kentuckian - Earle Clements maintained a balanced budget. In November, 1950, Earle Clements took office as a United States Senator, to finish out a short term, and in January, 1951, he began a full six - year term. In the Senate, he was quickly recognized as a "man of experience," and his colleagues bestowed upon him honors and responsibilities seldom given to a "freshman" Senator. In 1952, he was named Chairman of the Senate Democratic Campaign Committee. He was honored by being named to two of the most important standing committees of the United States Senate - the Committee on Agriculture and the Committee on Appropriations. In 1953, Earle Clements was elected by his Democratic colleagues to the post of Deputy Majority Leader. He has assumed the full responsibilities of the Senate Majority Leader during several periods.

While government has been his true career, Clements has farmed for most of his life. On his farm near Morganfield, he raises purebred cattle.

HOBBIES AND INTERESTS:

In addition to his abiding interest in government, Earle Clements has had a life-long interest in youth. From 1921 through 1931 he coached football at Morganfield High School as an unpaid "volunteer".

"My pay" was the satisfaction I had in teaching boys a great game," Clements says today, "and in helping them learn the fundamentals of team play and group effort that would be of lasting benefit to them throughout their lives." He was also active in Boy Scout work.

"The main reason we never enjoy small talk is that it invariably comes in large doses."
