Associated Press Writer TEHRAN, Iran (AP) - Iran moved another step toward the return of civilian government today, and the prospective prime minister said Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi has agreed to name a regency council and leave the country for a rest.

Both houses of Parliament recommended that the shah appoint Shahpour Bakhtiar, the 62-year-old opposition politician whom the embattled ruler asked last week to try to form a government that might be able to end the nationwide crisis threatening his

The vote in the Senate was unanimous, but a spokesman said several members of the Majlis, the lower house, spoke and voted against Bakhtiar. Informed sources said the dissident deputies were offended by his statement in a TV speech Monday that Iran had been suffering from corrupt government for 25 years.

Bahktiar was expected to announced his cabinet lineup on Thursday.

The parliamentary formalities were set in motion after Bakhtiar, former deputy chief of the anti-shah National Front, informed the 59-year-old monarch he had lined up a cabinet to Bakhtiar told a French TV inteviewer Tuesday that the shah has "agreed to take a trip abroad, to take a rest and to name a regency council" to exercise the royal powers. But he did not say when the shah would leave.

The shah won Bakhtiar away from other opposition leaders demanding his abdication by agreeing to give up much of his power, although how much has not been announced. Meanwhile, the other political and religious leaders of the nationwide opposition to the monarch continue to demand his ouster and denounce Bakhtiar as a traitor to their movement.

The state radio reported antishah demonstrations today in seven cities, including a march by 1,000 children in Hajikurd, northwest of Tehran. It also said a 16-year-old boy blew himself up with a homemade bomb in the riot-torn Normal Weather Returns To Kentucky, There's Only One Word For It—COLD!

By The Associated Press

The weather word across Kentucky today was one that has become commonplace across the Commonwealth in recent years - cold.

Temperatures ranged from near zero to a few degress above zero early today as the state continued to feel the frigid effects of a massive cold front that moved through country's midsection on Tuesday. That front was reported off the Atlantic Coast early today, but little relief from the cold is in sight.

The National Weather Service office in Louisville said that only slight warming is forecast through the weekend, with a chance of snow flurries Saturday and Sunday. Highs today were not expected to break into the 20s in most areas of the state.

Kentuckians who suffered through bitter winters the past two years shouldn't think the recent bout of cold weather is abnormal, according to a NWS spokesman.

FIREFIGHTERS BUSY - Both

"You have to remember that we've been above normal for so long, that now when it gets back to normal, we're not prepared for it," the spokesman said. "On the first of January, we were seven degrees above normal, and on the second we were 16 below normal."

Incidentally, the early morning low of 6 at the NWS office in Louisville was nowhere near the record minus 10 set exactly 100 years ago.

Kentucky State Police headquarters in Frankfort reported that the cold weather was the apparent cause for a state's highways. Few accidents were reported during the early hours today, and none involved serious injuries. There were no reports of power

State police posts around the state

reported that highways in the eastern half of the state were slick, with western Kentucky roadways said to be slick in spots.

Frankfort, where state workers took a day off Tuesday, received a blanket of snow in the early hours, but weather service forecasters said that accumulation would be minimal.

Police said that salt crews were dispatched shortly after midnight in Franklin and Fayette counties to work on icy highways.

"I don't know how it is in the rest of the state this morning, but central Kentucky is just as bad today as it was yesterday (Tuesday)," a state police spokesman in Frankfort said.

Kentucky Legislature Apparently Will Become Independent Monday

By SY RAMSEY Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) - The Kentucky Legislature, which has been crying for independence all these years, apparently will obtain it by forfeit in the special session which begins Monday. The session has been called by Lt. Gov. Thelma Stovall, a Democratic candidate for governor this year.

Although she listed six items ranging from tax relief to changes in fines and fees, she has insisted that the assembly work out the details.

Gov. Julian Carroll, whose brief absence from the state last November enabled Mrs. Stovall to call the session, has added 14 subjects, but also has remained on the sidelines.

His implied attitude is that since he did not summon the lawmakers, he is not responsible for offering or pushing programs.

That leaves the next move squarely up to the legislative leadership, which, except for Mrs. Stovall as Senate president, has been practically handpicked by the administration.

Consequently, the skeptical assumption is that assembly chieftans or embarrass Mrs. Stovall so that she does not accrue political dividends from her tax-cutting posture.

This is not necessarily so. For example, Senate President Pro Tem Joe Prather, D-Vine Grove, while a Carroll ally, also is running for lieutenant governor and wants to win favor with voters. A knee-jerk denunciation of Mrs. Stovall is hardly the way to do that, and Prather is not so inclined anyway.

In the House, where all revenue bills must originate, the big gun is House Speaker William Kenton, D-Lexington.

Kenton may have further political ambitions - for example, Congress in 1980 - and also can be expected to avoid alienating constitutents.

That probably means going along with at least some of the lieutenant governor's proposals, such as a semifreeze on state property taxes and mild state income tax relief, if not her proposed elimination of the five-cent state sales tax on home utilities. Furthermore, the waning power of a governor in the year he leaves office must be recognized. The truth is that the state administration has only plans to work on behalf of Democratic lieutenant governor candidate Richard Lewis of Benton. Bordenkircher and his wife also will open a private security consulting firm, probably in Benton.

Sowders said he plans an "open door"

Does this unexpected legislative independence spell chaos and endless weeks of a special session?

Probably not, for the behavior of the General Assembly, most of which is up for election this year, could hinge on what it perceives as public opinion. The Kentucky electorate presumably would look unfavorably on a runaway session in which nothing is accomplished while the state's two top leaders sit it out. On the other hand, it might respond selectively to certain forms of tax relief, mild though they may turn out for the individual taxpayer.

Given this background, the legislature might revert to a kind of government by committee.

This would involve decisionmaking on the level of affected committees, to be thrashed out among the leadership and polished finally by the few influencial lawmakers.

The only other alternative, assuming Carroll and Mrs. Stovall really mean to keep out of the line of fire, is for the assembly members to go in all directions, producing little and risking punishment at the polls.

I'll Run Penitentiary, Not Cons,' Sowders Says

EDDYVILLE, Ky. (AP) - The new superintendent of the Kentucky State Penitentiary is scheduled to assume his duties today and says he, not the prisoners, will "run" the maximum security institution.

Dewey Sowders, who had been superintendent of the Kentucky State Reformatory at LaGrange, was named by state Corrections Commissioner Dr. David Bland last week as the replacement for Donald Bordenkircher as prison warden. Bordenkircher had held the job since Aug. 24, 1976.

"I don't see any changes coming at the penitentiary," Sowders said in a weekend interview with The Paducah Sun. "It is a maximum security prison, and I think Bordenkircher has done a Sowders said he plans no changes in staff or programs, and he said he believes the Eddyville institution has a 'good staff."

"I'm going to get a briefing from Don for a couple of days after I arrive Wednesday," said Sowders. He said Bordenkircher plans to take

Relief from ringing in ear

DEAR DR. LAMB - Can you give me some information regarding ringing on buzzing in the right ear? It's not a continuous ringing. It is mostly present when I'm lying down. I had an annual physical and asked my doctor about it. He said that at my age of 59 it m' t be hardening of the arte. ies. He didn't seem concerned. My cholesterol, blood

In other instances, the cause of the buzzing is never known. It's in these instances that treatment is difficult and in the past it used to be impossible. Now there are devices that can be used that create a noise that masks the buzzing. The condition you are describing is called tinnitus. A tinnitus clinic has been established at the University of Oregon Medical School and others are developing elsewhere.

The Oregon group have reported good results by using a hearing aid in patients who have hearing loss associated with ringing in the ear. The improved hearing of normal sounds appears to mask the ringing sensation. In a high percentage of something patients, but not all, this will lot of them

Some of these patients get relief by using an FM radio and setting the dial so that it is not on any one station. The noise that is generated in between stations is then amplified by turning up the frostbite is simple — keep warm," Hernandez said. "However, you must protect yourself not only from the cold but also conditions that increase the loss of body heat: moisture and wind."

Because moisture conducts heat, it is very important to remain dry, said Hernandez. 'The dangers of exposure to wet ground, snow and rain are obvious, but the real danger comes from perspiration," he said. "When working outside, wetness can sneak up on you.'

Hazardous situations can occur if basic cold weather precautions are not observed. Following are 10 rules to follow to help prevent frost-

(1) Special care should be taken to open or remove articles of clothing as you grow warm. Add or button clothing as you grow cold.

(2) Take the wind into consideration when dressing for outside work. Wind has a definite effect on heat loss. If the thermometer reads 30 degrees F and the wind speed is 25 miles per hour, the wind chill factor makes exposure comparable to 0 degrees F.

(3) Rather than one bulky, heavy constricting garment, it best to wear several layers of light, loose clothing that will trap air. Air is a very good insulator and provides needed ventilation.

(4) For the best protection wear underclothing made or lined with cotton; it will absorb perspiration.

(5) Wool and polyester and down retain some protective value when wet; cotton and goose or duck down do not. (6) Layers of wool or synthetic down between underwear plus an outer layer of water-repellant and windproof covering are essential for outside work on cold days.

(7) While water-repellant clothing is necessary, waterproof clothing may be hazardous because it holds in the moisture produced by your gloves worn under mittens provide will adequate protection when mittens have to be taken off.

(10) It is very important that clothing is not tightfitting. Any tight-fitting clothing increases the risk of frostbite by hampering the flow of blood to the arms or legs. For the same reason, sitting or kneeling also can increase the risk of frostbite.

If you are caught outside without proper clothing, you may end up with frostbite, Hernandez said. "You can usually identify frostbite by the way it feels," he said. "It feels numb and sometimes it is painful at first. Never believe that you are not being injured because of the absence of pain."

If you do receive a frostbite injury, the first thing to do is to protect the frozen part and obtain medical attention, said Hernandez. Never try to rub the injured area, and especially do not try to rub it with snow. Rubbing the frostbitten area increases the injury to the frozen tissue, he said. If your foot is frostbitten, it would be better to walk on the foot in order to seek medical attention than to wait for someone who could carry

If you must thaw a frostbite yourself, only do so if there is no immediate chance of the frostbitten area becoming refrozen, he said. Areas that need to be thawed should be immersed in water that is heated to 100 to 110 degrees F. If no thermometer is available, the water should feel comfortably hot to skin that is not frostbitten. The warming in hot water should continue until the affected area becomes flush. Usually it takes 20 to 45 minutes to thaw a frozen foot. There will be some pain during the thawing process, said Hernandez. After thawing, frostbitten toes and fingers should be separated with wedges of cotton or small pieces of clean cloth. If blisters form after the thawing, do not try to break them. Bandage them or apply salves or ointments.

Even if the frostbitte has been thawed, medical attention should be obtained. said Hernandez. When traveling to a medical facility, protect injured parts with towels or blankets to prevent

Now we are hearing people say "Christmas is over, it's time to get back to normal." But I do hope with all my heart that that is not true. The Christmas season is such a wonderful time of happiness of thoughtfulness and of love between folks, between families and friends, that I hope that part of the holidays will stay with us all the year. It can be if we just make a real effort. Then we would all

The Poinsettias have been especially lovely and they have come in a variety of colors. This year there are white ones, pink ones and even a variegated or striped one. They are all pretty, but nothing can equal the bright scarlet of the ones we are familiar with. I must confess, however, that I love to see a white one in with the red ones.

It's a sad day for most live Christmas decorations come Jan. 2, but with a little extra care, careful planning and a couple of crossed fingers one traditional ornament will live to see it all again. That exception is the flowering poinsettia plant.

"If you continue to take care of a poinsettia after Christmas the same as you did before, it will stay healthy and pretty through January and even into February," said Philip Norfleet, botanist for the Gold-smith Civic Garden Center. While the plant is blooming and in bloom it should be kept out of drafts and in

But there will always be that time of year when the plant starts losing leaves and looking a bit peaked. For anyone not familiar with poinsettias, it's not time to panic, because actually, the dying act is the way of things. It's what happens next that tells the tale.

Norfleet said one way is to sfore the plant from direct light as soon as the leaves start to fall. The temperature should be between 60 and 70 degrees and never below 50 degrees.

"Taper down the watering until it is just enough to keep the stem from shriveling," he said. The plant should not come out of the closet until April when it should be repotted in fresh soil. Start watering the plant again and keep the stem and any remaining leaves moist. Also add plant food. Cuttings can be made from the original plant for another method of keeping the poinsettia. After making the cutting, dip it in cold water for about five minutes to stop the 'bleeding.' The cuttings should then be placed in rooting material, and about two weeks later roots should begin appearing

Norfleet suggests that people experimenting with the plants make several cuttings in case some don't root and the mother plant never makes it out of the

Depending on the shape and size desired for the plant, the poinsettia can be pruned as many times as necessary after it starts growing again, but it has to be pruned at least once. The colored leaves and blossoms come from new growth.

Blooms can be regulated by the temperature. If the plant is placed in strong light and about 80 degrees during the day and 60 degrees at night, blooms can be expected in 65 to 70 days. A constant 60 degrees will produce blossoms in 80 to 90 days. If, starting in September, the plant is given strong light during the day and then kept in total darkness 12 hours each night, blossoms will begin to appear in 70 days. He warns that there are a lot of methods other than these, all of which have produced live, healthy plants as well as crisp, lifeless twigs. Success comes from experimentation.

Billion Dollar Congress

Leaders of both parties in the 96th Congress say they hope to spend more time cutting government waste and responding to the spirit of Proposition 13.

They will not have far to look. The budget for the legislative branch itself exceeded $1 billion this year for the first time. It is $1.12 billion for fiscal year 1979, up $128 million or 13 percent from last year.

Since 1958, the legislative branch budget has risen from $104.8 million to $1.12 billion an increase of more than 1,000 percent in 20 years.

In the last five years, the legislative branch budget has grown from $522 million to $1.12 billion - nearly double and far outstripping the rate of inflation.

Staffing has increased to astronomical numbers.

House Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill Jr. arranged three days of meetings recently for 400

Agree Or Not

Tax Transfer U.S. Tax Cuts?

FRANKFORT - The call for the special session of the General Assembly for January 8 is generally understood as a tax-cutting session.

One of the chief targets is removal of the five-percent sales tax on utilities. There are other subjects in the call, and the budget will be opened for adjustments to whatever cuts are to be

Some legislators view the session as a tax-transfer session instead of a tax cutting session. However, this subject is not mentioned in the call issued by Lt.

Gov. Thelma Stovall. Harry Caudill, author of "Night Comes to the Cumberlands" has suggested that a severance tax be levied on gas and oil produced in Kentucky. His argument sounds very valid to many legislators especially those from the coal producing areas.

Why not extend the severance tax to minerals, including clays limestone, sand and other minerals. Admittedly a tax on oil and gas will not produce much revenue, but most of Kentucky's production in this area is shipped out of state. Most of Kentucky's natural gas consumed comes from Texas and Louisana. Both states levy a tax against these products and we, the consumers in Kentucky pay it. Most of our gas is shipped to northern states and Kentucky does not derive any revenue from it.

Only a reasonable tax should be levied. A tax on all other minerals would not come close to producing the revenue that the coal severance tax produces for the general fund.

Taxing all other minerals would spread the tax burden and put some equality into our taxing system.

For the first 10 months of this year, January through October, the coal severance tax brought the general fund $10,581,715. Coal production for the same period was 110,937,000 tons, so the tax was almost one dollar per ton.

The coal industry pays, approximately $850 million in direct wages and salaries in a normal year, assuming there are no prolonged strikes or layoffs. When you consider that economists claim that every dollar turns over at least three times before it leaves the area, this is a tremendous amount of money in our economy.

A very conservative estimate is that from one-third to half of this money spent will be subject to the sales tax which is no small item in our economy and state government revenue.

The state also will collect personal income taxes on much of this money, gasoline and other excise taxes, such as tobacco, alcoholic beverages, etc.

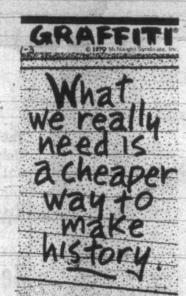

Mrs. Stovall also wants some reduction in the personal income tax field and a reduction or freezing of property taxes at the state level.

While this entire spectrum may not get a thorough study during this special session, it is bound to generate some thought and some proposed legislation for the regular session in 1980.

Inflation has been heavy on real estate, and escalating values just means higher tax bills for the property owners. The lieutenant governor wantssome brakes put on the escalation. She claims this escalating real estate values is hard on the elderly and persons living on fixed incomes. While the home-owners exemption is keyed to inflation, increasing as House staff members to learn how to recognize waste.

In all truth and fairness, they might have turned to each other and said in the words of Pogo, "We have met the enemy

The Kemp Slander

WASHINGTON - During the recent election campaign, two senior members of President Carter's political family purveyed malicious and untrue gossip to newsmen about a leading Republican - a despicable practice becoming commonplace in backstairs politics.

Inside Report

The slander was transmitted by one of Carter's hard-boiled aides (whose name cannot be revealed) and, more surprisingly, by gentlemanly John White, the Democratic national chairman. Both dredged up an old calumny that Rep. Jack Kemp of New York had engaged in homosexual ac-

Submerged in the political sewers since 1967, this bit of ugly gossip never had credibility. For many months, we have delayed disclosure of the whispering role played by Carter's operatives until we could report that there was no truth in what they whispered. Now, after tracking down beleaguered taxpayer, it can be the breeding ground for such legislation in

The Story Of Calloway County

1822-1976 By Dorothy and Kerby Jennings Gapyright, 1978

Not only are the ugly scars of a tobacco war to be left in the sides of our people to heal, but the anguish of the Civil War had never healed by the time of the "Night Riding." A definite relationship has existed, slight as it might appear, between the Civil War and Night Riding. Sons of Calloway County were divided in their loyalties with approximately 600 troops of Confederate soldiers mustered from the eastern, southern and central portions of Calloway and 200 troops of Union soldiers from the northern and northwestern sections of the county. Actually brother fought against brother in the fierce Battle of Shiloh, both members of the McCuiston family.

Overtones of the War Between the States and the tobacco struggle had a political significance, leading to a feud that surfaced in the shooting death of a prominent citizen on the streets of Murray. The bitterness of the tragedy continued until the coming of the Murray State Normal School. The duration of the division between the people in the Holland-Keys celebrated death was in a minor degree comparable to the Civil War aftermath and the Tobacco Planters Protective Association. The conflicts were painful for they had both a political and economic impact on the county; they were hindrances preventing a harmonious growth and development of the countryside. All of these dissentions have been fortunately buried in the dust of time and scarcely a handful of natives living this day has a knowledge of these sad occurrences, but a few still remain to tell the story.

Thanks to the mercies of a forgetting population, the conflicts are left only for the record books. But the real thanks, no doubt, belong on the credit side of education. True, it was the founding of Murray State Normal that erased the lasting tragic memories which divided this county since the Givil War, nonetheless it is not to overlook the common school education in the county for a major share of overcoming the earlier vicissitudes of Calloway County.

Free available public schools have been a reality in this part of the state, well underway the latter part of the previous century and the first part of this century. It is quite fair to state that a grammar school and high school education were available for those who had the means and transportation facilities as early as 1900 in Calloway County. A few rural schools of grade level were available in most neighborhoods of the rural areas since the Civil War, beginning in July and concluding before Christmas, depending upon weather conditions and ability to sludge through the mud in walking to a school house. Prior to the free public schools, a few subscription schools were available in payment of a fee or tuition to pay the schoolmaster. By an act of the state legislature, certain lands were set aside in each county, the proceeds of which were allocated for cost and maintenance of educational institutions, originally designated as seminaries.

The growth and full development of schools will be briefly reviewed along the way to 1976 with its three consolidated primary schools, consolidated county high school, the Middle School on the site of the original Male and Female Institute, two city elementary schools, vocational school, and the Murray High School. To Be Continued report exactly that. Since political slanders are often sources of impeccable veracity, we can

By Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

impossible to disprove, they are passed on verbally for years, though seldom printed. With the rise of the "gay" political movement and its antihomosexual reaction, unsubstantiated charges of homosexuality have multiplied. They played a subterranean part in a half dozen statewide races during the past campaign.

It was in this climate that national chairman White, normally a politican of civility and decency, was discussing the then-rampant Kemp-Roth taxreduction bill with a reporter. White told the surprised newsman the bill was burdened with political problems, one of them being Kemp's record of homosexuality.

At about the same time, the White House aide was informally Republican presidential prospects with another reporter when Kemp's name came up. The Carter man said there was no need to worry about him; Kemp is a 'queer." This reporter also was astounded.

When we checked the story with White, he seemed genuinely apologetic; he said he had had the rumor from another newsman and was merely passing on what he had heard. The White House aide, informed later by the reporter that there was apparently no substance to the story, asked the reporter to forget about it and to be certain not to disclose his identity

Although it was news to both reporters, this garbage dates all the way back to Ronald Reagan's first year as governor of California. When two of Reagan's aides suddenly resigned, published reports charged that they were involved in a homosexual ring with other politicians. Syndicated columnist Drew Pearson wrote that an athlete" was among them. Rumors spread that he was Jack Kemp, then a star quarterback for the Buffalo Bills serving as off-season aide to Reagan. Kemp considered bringing suit against Pearson but was advised not to, because his name had not been mentioned. Since then, the story has repeatedly surfaced, causing reporters to question Kemp. After his denials and the lack of any factual substantiation, the inquiring reporters ended up writing nothing. While lacking substantiation, newsmen also lacked evidence of disproof. Therefore, the story took on a life of its own in gutter communications, finally leading to involvement by Jimmy Carter's political agents. This was intolerable to writer Jude Wanniski, a close Kemp adviser who wants him to run for president. Against Kemp's wishes, Wanniski decided to expose the canard to full public view

HEARTLINE: I am now working in the railroad industry and I plan to retire within the next year. I have heard that to qualify for the supplemental annuity, a person must have a "current connection" with the railroad industry. How does a person establish this current connection?

In general terms; an employee has a current connection if he has at least 12 months of ratiroad employment during the last 21/2 working years before retirement. If an employee does not qualify on this basis, an earlier 21/2 year period with 12 months of railroad service may be used, but only if the employee did not have a regular nonrailroad job following the earlier period, as such non-railroad earnings would break the earlier current connection.

However, self-employment (working in an individual's own unincorporated business) or working for certain U.S. government agencies (Department of Transportation, Interstate Commerce Commission, National Mediation Board, Railroad Retirement Board) does not break a current connection. HEARTLINE: I am going to be retiring in March. I recently started reading the Heartline column and recently saw a question and answer having to do with the allowable earnings limit. I have talked with several persons who are already drawing Social Security benefits, and after reading your column, I am very confused. My friends say that you are wrong about there being a monthly earnings limit. They say that this was changed in the 1977 amendments and it no longer exists. Can you explain, as I will need to know what to do after I retire. - J.C.

The 1977 amendments did do away with the monthly earnings limit for persons already drawing Social security. The only exception is during the calendar year in which you retire. If you are retiring this year, you will have to stay within the monthly earnings allowed by Social Security until the end of 1979. After the beginning of 1980, you will then only be concerned with the yearly earnings limit. A person starting to draw Social Security in 1979 will receive a full Social Security benefit for any month in which their income is less than $290 per month if under age 65, and less than $375 per month if over age 65.

For people who are on Social Security or for those who are going to be drawing theirs shortly, Heartline has written a book especially to help all people understand what benefit they might be eligible to receive. This book covers regular retirement, disability, wife's and widow's benefits, allowed earnings, and many more important facts on Social Security. This book also goes into detail on some of the problem areas of Social Security. You may obtain this book by sending $2 to Heartline's Guide to Social Security, P. O. Box 11934, Chicago, Ill. 60611. This book is completely guaranteed and if you are not satisfied, your money will be refunded. Please allow six weeks for delivery.

But a union vice president says the women faced a potential pay cut or possible loss of their jobs.

'Any company that says it is your job or your life, or as in this case, your job or your offspring...that is a Draconian choice," said Anthony Mazzocchi, vice president of the Oil, Chemical and Atomic Workers union.

The women were told they could no longer work in the pigment department at the plant because they would be exposed to trace quantities of lead dust that might injure any unborn children.

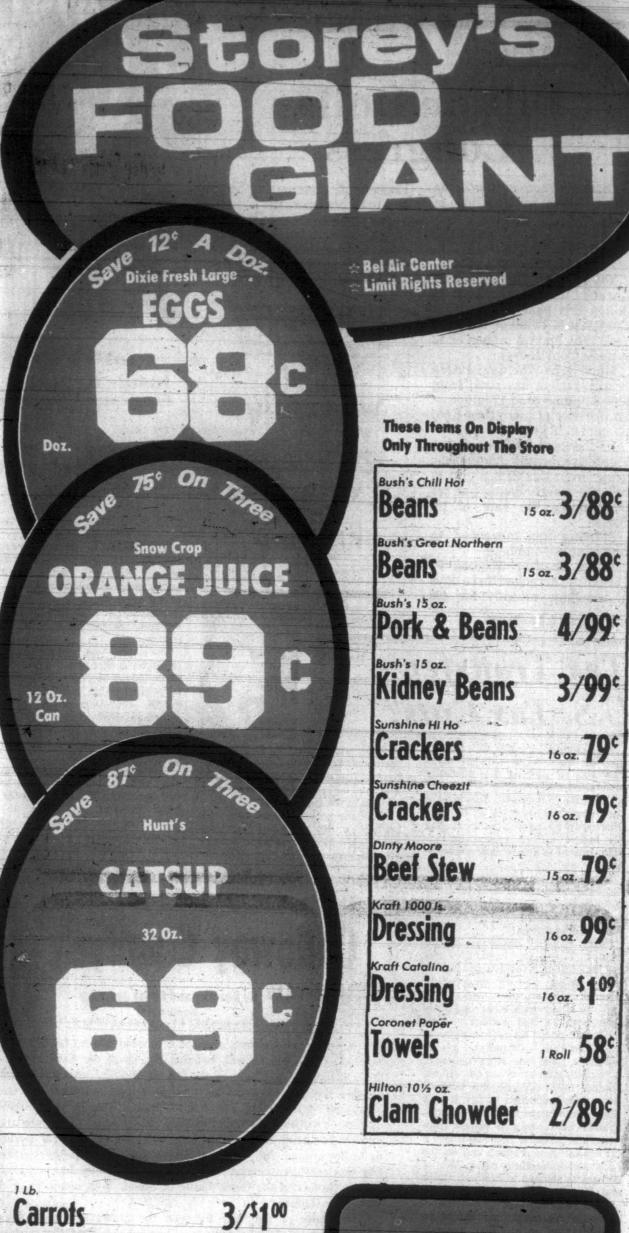

Five of the eight women in the department, ranging in age from 26 to 43, then had themselves surgically sterilized.

"That is something of a mystery to us why they would choose such drastic measures to avoid a transfer," said Jack White, manager of the Cyanamid plant.

White said the women were told they would receive their present salaries for 90 days. During that time, he said, they would be able to take jobs in other areas of the plant.

"We fully believe, based on rates of attrition...that they would be back up to their previous rates of pay," White

But Mazzocchi says the plant should clean up the working environment instead of moving people around or threatening them.

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON AP Sports Writer

The Crimson Tide of Alabama, conquerors of previously unbeaten Penn State in the Sugar Bowl, last season's avenged. disappointing runnerup finish and was named college football's national champion for 1978 today by The Associated Press.

In a tight three-way race with Southern California and Oklahoma, Alabama received 38 first-place votes and 1,317 of a possible 1,360 points from a nationwide panel of 68 sports writers and broadcasters.

Alabama defeated Penn State 14-7 Monday and thereby captured the national championship it thought it should have won a year ago when the Crimson Tide wound up behind Notre Dame in a controversial finish.

which Southern Cal, defeated Michigan 17-10 in the Rose Bowl, received 19 firstplace votes and 1,285 points. Oklahoma received the remaining II first-place votes and 1,251 points following a 31-24 triumph over Nebraska in the Orange Bowl.

Alabama, Southern Cal and Oklahoma all trailed top-rated Penn State in the final regularseason poll. But the Nittany Lions slipped from first place to fourth with 1,168 points after Alabama ended their 19-game winning streak.

Michigan held onto fifth place with 989 points despite its loss in the Rose Bowl. Clemson moved up from seventh to sixth with 950 points for a 17-15 decision over Ohio State in the Gator Bowl. Notre Dame's defending national champions finished seventh this time with 914 points. The Fighting Irish jumped from 10th place by edging Houston 35-34 in the Cotton Bowl.

Nebraska, the only team to beat Oklahoma this season, dropped from sixth to eighth after bowing to the Sooners in the Orange Bowl rematch. The Cornhuskers received 865

The Texas Longhorns, who lost out on the national championship a year ago when they lost to Notre Dame in the Cotton Bowl, climbed from 14th to ninth place with 706 points following a 42-0 rout of Maryland in the Sun Bowl.

Houston, ninth in the final regular-season poll, rounded out the Top Ten with 698 points.

The Second Ten consisted of Arkansas, Michigan State,-UCLA, Missouri, Purdue, Georgia, Stanford, North Carolina State, Texas A&M and Maryland.

The final regular-season Second Ten was Georgia, Michigan State, Maryland, Texas, UCLA, Pittsburgh, Purdue, Missouri, Iowa State and Ohio State.

Stanford, which was ranked three times early in the season, reappeared in the Top Twenty by defeating Georgia 25-22 in the Bluebonnet Bowl. North Carolina State, which was ranked 20th for one week early in the campaign, made it back in with a 30-17 triumph over Pitt in the Tangerine Bowl. And Texas A&M, which was as high as No. 6 in October but had not been ranked for the final seven weeks of the season, got back in with a 28-12 triumph over Iowa State in the Hall of Fame Bowl. Pitt, Ohio State and Iowa State all dropped out of the rankings.

Alabama, Southern Cal, Oklahoma, Penn State and Clemson all finished with one setback as no team made it through the bowls with a perfect record.

The national championship capped a lengthy comeback for Alabama, which was ranked No. 1 in the preseason poll and also for the first two weeks of the season, but lost its third game 24-14 to Southern Cal and eventually percent (32 of 67) of their fieldgoal attempts, while the Lakers hit just 33 (25 of 75).

"He's my only four-year starter," Wingo Coach Wayne Wadlington said of Tucker, "so that tells you how important he is to this team."

The Indians started the season by winning two of their first four games, but forward Mitchell Glisson was lost for the year in the next game due to a knee injury. That left a heavy burden on Tucker and his 21.2-point scoring average.

A member of the Murray American Legion baseball team this summer, Tucker scored his previous season high at Fancy Farm with a 31point outburst.

Barrow nearly matched Tucker's first-half performance last night. The scrappy 5-8 senior owned 16 points after two quarters. But he didn't sink another field gcal for nearly 15 minutes, or until only 1:06 remained in the game, and finished with 23 points. Stan Rushing led Laker rebounders with 14, followed by Kenny Erwin and Ricky Garland with 10 each. As a team, Calloway . was outrebounded 50-48.

The box-and-one Hargrove spoke of consisted of a 2-2 zone defense, and a "chaser" (Craig Rogers) to try and

The Lakers owned just one lead in the contest — at 26-25 in the second quarter on Rushing's layup. After Wingo's 20-point spreak in the third quater, the closest Calloway could get thereafter was 75-61 with three minutes left on consecutive layups by Rogers.

"I can't be displeased with our effort, though," said Hagrove. "There's just not much we can do when we can't shoot well. We spend a lot of time on it in practice, but it doesn't seem to help."

Before last night, Wingo's last win over the Lakers came in 1976.

Wayne Gacy's home, where the remains of 27 young males have been uncovered.

Sgt. Howard Anderson, supervisor of the Cook County sheriff's northern investigations unit, said snow removal and cleanup work occupied much of the day Tuesday. Crews working at Gacy's home contended with subzero temperatures and about nine inches of snow.

"I don't-think they expect to find anything more," said Anderson. "They will go back over ground that hasn't been dug up yet, the less promising areas. They just want to doublecheck.'

Meanwhile, a source close to the investigation, who asked not to be identified, said police don't plan to check out a report by a carpenter of a foul smell coming from the found in Yuba City, Calif. basement of an ice cream parlor and bakery he and Gacy remodeled two years

The source said police learned the smell came not cracked sewer tile that was later replaced.

The bodies found at Gacy's and his garage. The bodies of evaluation two other young men, which authorities say are linked to Gacy, were found in the Des Plaines River. Only six of the victims had been identified by Tuesday, according to Dr. Robert Stein, the county medical examiner.

The 36-year-old contractor and convicted sex offender has been charged with murder in the death of Robert Piest, of Des Plaines. Piest's body has not been found.

According to published reports, police have said Gacy acknowledged killing up to 32 boys and young men after he had sex with them.

The body total linked to the Gacy investigation has surpassed the 26 bodies found in a Houston homosexual-torture ring in 1973, and the bodies of 25 mutilated fruit pickers

Dedication Ceremonies At New Frankfort Chapel Are Postponed

Frankfort Cemetery's newly restored chapel is ready for use but dedication services originally set Dec. 10 have been postponed until spring due to recent flooding in the capital.

Gov. Julian Carroll had been scheduled to speak during the dedication.

The Romanesque-style chapel, built in 1890, is listed in the National Registry of Historical Places. In the past, the chapel was used for funeral services but since 1938 it had been utilized as a storage building.

Restoration of the structure was financed with $45,000 from the governor's contingency fund and coordinated by the Garden Club of Frankfort.

Work on the project began two years ago but was slowed when the chapel's stained glass windows were stolen in 1977 shortly after the panes were releaded and put back in

Rather than spend $10,000 to replace the stolen stained glass, the chapel now has amethyst artglass windows, said Mrs. William K. Bodell. chairman of the Garden Club project

Restoration also included installing new pews and a new floor, refurbishing the portico with cement and pebble stone, and repair of the slate roof. General contractor for the work was White and Congleton of Lexington.

The Frankfort Cemetery chapel, which seats 75-100 people, will again be used for funeral services and for small club meetings, said Mrs. Bodell. Anyone wishing to use the building can contact caretaker James Cozine. The cemetery contains the graves of pioneers Daniel and Rebecca Boone, who were reinterred there on Sept. 13, 1845, from gravesites in Missouri.

Several former state and national office holders are buried there including Vice President Richard Mentor Johnson, who served under Martin Van Buren, 13 U.S. Senators, 10 chief justices of the Kentucky court of appeals, eight ministers to foreign countries, nine state attorneys general, and 12 Kentucky secretaries of state.

Bread For The World To Meet This Thursday

The Bread for the World, Calloway County Chapter, will have Frank Roberts and the Rev. Frank Bratt as leaders for the regular monthly meeting set for Thursday, Jan. 4, at 7:30 p.m. in the library of the First Christian Church.

Roberts will discuss Chapters 3 and 4 of the book, Rich Christians In An Age o Hunger by Ronald J. Sider, and the Rev. Bratt will lead the group in more Biblical studies on the world hunger issues and Christian lifestyle.

Mrs. Margaret Porter serves as the Ad Hoc chairman of the local chapter.

"Bread for the World is a Christian citizens' movement seeking ogvernmental policies that address the basic causes of hunger world-wide. The major effort for 1979 is to revise foreign aid legislation so that the United States food and development aid enables the poor to become more selfreliant in producing their own food, and more able to worktheir own way out of hunger, poverty, and dependency," a chapter spokesman said.

Chapter officials said "Bread for the World through its research and action will also focus on other hunger related issues such as trade agreements, land use, investment, and unemployment both here and abroad."

"Bread for the World does not distribute food; but for direct aid the chapter recommends your church or church related agency. On public policy efforts Bread for the World works cooperatively with all church denominations as well as other groups with concern about hunger," the chapter officials said.

Kenton Predicts Session Will Be 'Extremely Tough On Taxes'

Associated Press Writer

LEXINGTON, Ky. (AP) House Speaker -William Kenton has predicted that the special session of the General Assembly will be "extremely tough on taxes," but that it won't last more than a month.

Kenton said in a telephone interview Tuesday that he has been working with other legislative leaders on a program of tax relief, highlighted by lowered state property taxes.

Kenton said he expects their proposals to be submitted to the House Democratic caucus for approval sometime after the General Assembly convenes Monday. If a majority of Democrats concur in the program, the legislation could presumably be enacted more quickly than if several different proposals were

Kenton also said that despite Carroll's addition of 14 new issues to the call, the Legislature proably would be able to conclude its business in four weeks:

"Fulfilling the obligation is not difficult. Any Post Office Immigration office provides the appropriate form. Simply fill it out and return it personally to any Service office or place a stamp on it and drop it in a

That package spent almost half a year in the mail and went on a 7,000 mile detour to boot - all the way to England

"That package was in rough condition when we received it. It had all kinds of marking on it," Mrs. Poole said.

Mrs. Poole said the foulup may have happened when her sister addressed the package in care of her mother "Mrs. Gracie England" who lives in Murray.

Mrs. Poole said her sister mailed the package last March, about the time everyone was digging out from record snowfalls here and mail delivery in the county was often erratic due to bad driving conditions for mail carriers.

The package Carol Gibson mailed contained a handmade Easter dress for little Kimberly. It cost $1.94 to mail. 'I'd never had any trouble with mailing things before," Mrs. Gibson said in an earlier interview with the Greenville

The sisters checked periodically on the package. 'They said at the Bremen Post Office the problem was probably at the office at St. Louis," Mrs. Gibson said. She called and wrote to post offices at St. Louis and Memphis, seeking information on the package, but to no avail. "I knew that somewhere, someone was wearing the little outfit that I made for my niece. I was sick. We had checked in so many places,"

Mrs. Gibson said. Fall came and the sisters had all but forgotten the package when Mrs. Poole's mother called and said the package had arrived. It was almost November by then the package had traveled the mails a full seven months, Birmingham, England.

English postal workers added some helpful hints to the package wrappings;

Tenn-Tom Construction Moves Rapidly Toward Completion

Construction of the Tennessee - Tombigbee Waterway continues to move rapidly toward completion, with approximately one-third of the total estimated cost of the project now under contract.

The past year has also seen the 232-mile waterway gain distinction as a national model project according to Kentucky Governor Julian Carroll, outgoing chairman of the Tennessee - Tombigbee Waterway Authority. The Tennessee-Tombigbee is a national showcase of how public works investments can achieve social and economic goals, Carroll said.

America's newest navigable river, the Tennessee-Tombigbee will connect the Tennessee River with the Tombigbee-Black Warrior system, which is already navigable to the Gulf of Mexico via the Port of Mobile. waterway, paralleling the borders of Mississippi and Alabama, will provide the connecting link to over 16,000 miles of inland waterways in middle America.

"By about this time next year, the lower 100 miles of the Tennessee - Tombigbee Waterway will be open to limited navigation," ac-cording to Carroll. "This means the Tennessee-Tombigbee will then be navigable from just south of Columbus, Mississippi to Demopolis, Alabama.

The Tennessee-Tombigbee Authority. headquartered in Columbus, Mississippi, is a five-state compact composed of the states of Alabama, Florida, Kentucky, Mississippi and Tennessee, formed to promote development of the Tennessee-Tombigbee Waterway. Congress continued its support for Tennessee-Tombigbee by approving $156 million for work in fiscal year 1979, making the total Congressional appropriation for construction to date $603,950,000

As 1978 draws to a close, the amount of work under contract or completed on the waterway totals over $488 million, of which approximately $84 million is completed. By next summer, work on the waterway is expected to approach the $1 billion mark, with eight of the ten locks and dams under construction or completed.

A strong, workable affirmative action program instituted on the Tennessee-Tombigbee has resulted in meaningful employment for many minorities and other disadvantaged persons. Unprecedented policies and procedures have been implemented to promote local employment, minority hiring and utilization of small businesses, include minorities, in construction of the waterway, Additionally, some construction work is being set aside for small businesses, with all major contracts including provisions that certain percentages of the work be subcontracted to

The demonstrators carried placards calling for the death of Shah Mohammad Reza Pahlavi and an end to U.S. support of his reign.

Several policemen were injured in the melee, none seriously.

At one point, dozens of screaming demonstrators surged past a large gate and battled with helmeted officers in the driveway of the home before retreating amid clouds of tear gas, leaving behind a burning police car. The protesters started at least a dozen other fires on the

"It was like a combat zone," said Beverly Hills Police Capt. Lee Tracy. "Once they got to the front of the residence, they began throwing rocks and sticks at officers behind the gates. They stormed the gate and broke the lock and continued throwing missiles at the officers. They turned over a car in the driveway and set it afire and became more and more violent."

Some police officers drew their pistols during the disturbance, but no shots were fired. About 100 sheriff's deputies were called to aid Beverly Hills police.

But in some sections of Appalachia there are two Christmases.

One, on Dec. 25, is for people. The other, on Jan. 6, is for animals.

The second event is known as "Old Christmas," and legend has it that strange things happen the night before. Elder bushes and Christmas thorns are said to burst into bloom. Animals of all kinds get down on their knees and pray. The origin of the second Christmas is in doubt, but some folklore specialists think it may have originated with early Teutonic people who regarded the season as a fearful time to travel

ADVANCE PUBLIC NOTIFICATION OF INTENT BY THE COUNTY OF CALLOWAY TO FILE A COM MUNITY DEVELOPMENT BLOCK GRANT SMALL CITIES PREAPPLICATION UNDER PROVISIONS OF TITLE I OF THE HOUSING & COMMUNITY DEVELOPMENT ACT OF 1974, AS AMENDED.

The primary goal of the Community Development Block Grant (CDBG) program is the development of viable communities through the provision of decent housing, economic opportunities and a suitable living environment principally for persons of low and moderate incomes. In order to achieve this goal, the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) makes available 100% grants on a competitive basis to cities of under 50,000 population and rural counties throughout Kentucky

Pursuant to 24CFR 570,431 and the County of Calloway's desire to inform all interested citizens of the opportunity which exists for participation in the formulation and subsequent finalization of a preapplication request to HUD, public hearings are scheduled for 7:30 p.m., Jan. 3, 1979, Dexter community center and 7:30 p.m., Jan. 17, 1979, Dexter com-

Activities which may be undertaken with CDBG financial support are wide ranging in nature but must be consistent with one or more of the following program objectives: (1) support realistic and attainable strategies for expanding low and moderate income housing opportunities; (2) promote deconcentration of lower-income housing; (3) promote more rational land use; (4) provide increased economic op-portunities for low and moderate income persons; (5) correct deficiencies in public facilities which affect the public health or safety, especially of low and moderate income persons. Further details concerning specific eligible activities will be discussed upon request at the forthcoming public hearings. There are two separate grant programs provided by CDBG Small Cities Federal regulations - Single Purpose and Comprehensive. A Single Purpose program will provide funds for one or more projects designed to meet a specific community development need in the areas of housing, deficiencies in public facilities which affect the public health and safety, or economic conditions. A Comprehensive program must meet all of the following criteria: (1) address a substantial portion of the identifiable community development needs within a defined concentrated area; (2) involve two or more activities that bear a relationship to each other and which either in terms of support or necessity are carried out in a coordinated manner; (3) have beneficial impact within a reasonable period of time; (4) be developed through assessment of the applicant's community development, housing, and economic

The Area Office of HUD has established for Fiscal Year 1979 maximum grant amount of $500,000.00 for Single Purpose programs and $1,000,000.00 for Comensive programs.

Citizens are encouraged to offer suggestions and proposals concerning potential CDBG activities and projects for Dexter/Almo, Written proposals will be accepted before Jan. 24, 1979. Please forward to: Gale Readel, Calloway County Judge Ex. Office, P. O. Box 350, Murray, Ky. 42071, 753-0799. Proposals will be responded to within 15 working days of receipt by the

Additional program information, including a summary of the CDBG Small Cities Program, March 1, 1978 CDBG Small Cities Program Federal regulations, and a citizen participation plan are available for public inspection during the hours of 8:00 a.m. to 5:00 p.m. at: Calloway County Judge Ex. office, P. Least Known Of Peanuts 'Characters' Is Its Creator Schulz

By BARRY RENFREW Associated Press Writer

NEW YORK (AP) - When in 1969 the United States sent a manned spacecraft to within 10 miles of the moon, the Apollo 10 mother ship was named after a comic-strip character named Charlie Gogh in his palatial dog house Brown and its lunar module with an Andrew Wyeth. after Charlie's dog Snoopy.

Nobody raised objections. Charlie Brown and Snoopy, the winsome heros of Peanuts, were an American institution. And this week they celebrate the beginning of their comic strip's 30th year with a GBS special anniversary show.

There has never been quite so extraordinary a group as the cast of Peanuts - Charlie blanket; Lucy, Linus' crabby sister whom one reviewer enthusiastically described as a- "bitch goddess;" and the most sophisticated of hounds, who recently replaced the Van

But perhaps the most interesting and least known of the Peanuts characters is its creator Charles Schulz, whose views on life are often bleak and who bases Peanuts on the premise that failure is funnier than success.

Schulz's earliest memories are of the great comic strips of his childhood, and of his ambition to become a cartoonist. His only formal Brown, the eternal loser; training was a correspon-Linus, who spouts theology dence course through a local while cuddling his security drawing school, supplemented by years of practice and experimentation.

> The result is Peanuts, which in its every detail reflects some facet of Schulz's own personality and life. Like Charlie Brown's, his father was a barber and Schulz once owned a rather eccentric dog.

And when you talk to Schulz it doesn't take long to realize that he is Charlie Brown, older and grayer of course, but still the bemused, worried kid on

Like his little hero, Schulz is a rather shy, thoughtful man who has obviously spent much of his life thinking, thinking about life and its problems. "I know what it is to have to spend days, evenings and weekends by myself," he realities and values of says, "and I also know how American life, changing as we uncomfortable anxiety can be. have; but like most of us never I worry about almost all there is in life to worry about, and because I worry, Charlie Brown has to worry.

The Peanuts are far more than a collection of precocious kids and fantastic animals. They are ourselves, grappling with the daily complexities of life in a world that is never quite reliable and where triumph, as the Peanuts would say, is as elusive as catching snowflakes on your tongue.

Over the past 30 years - in which the strip has grown from a circulation of eight American newspapers to one of 1,750 worldwide, with a daily following of 90 million readers - the Peanuts have struggled with the changing quite sure of what it is all about. The comic strip is spublished in The Murray Ledger & Times.

"Charlie Brown suffers, because he is a caricature of the ordinary person." Schulz explains. "Most of us are much more acquainted with losing than we are with winning. Winning is great but it isn't funny. While one person is a happy winner, there may be a hundred losers using funny stories to console themselves." At the heart of Schulz's art is his ability to gently catch our charms and follies so aptly that we can only laugh at ourselves.

Peanuts, is above all an American creation - and one reason it is now published in 24 the subject of an exhibition at the Louvre is that it is read as an expression of the American character.

The cast's self-conscious preoccupations and doubt, their values and attitudes are those of the modern American. But much of their appeal rests on a deeply sentimental attachment to the idyllic childhood of the small American town and the values of a seemingly happier past.

For 30 years Schulz has lived daily with the strip, which he admits rarely leaves his mind. Some of his ideas are flashes of inspiration, others are years in the making. "It's rather a mystery to me where some of the little phrases come from," he admits, "and why it is one day and not be able to think of a single one the next." Schulz has enjoyed the long years he has spent with Peanuts but wonders sometimes if he shouldn't try something new. "I never feel like I've made it. I still have to draw something funny tomorrow. It's the same burden you had when you were in school, and it's Sunday night and you have an English theme due in the morning," he says.

Schulz has one particular joy, attending performances of the much-produced musical named director, of the new 'You're At Good Man Charlie opera-musical theater Brown." Sitting unrecognized in the audience he savors what the cartoonist's art is all about laughter.

The delighted woman asked Schulz to draw her a picture of Snoopy, which she excitedly displayed to everyone in the store. Beaming, she then turned back to Schulz and said, "Oh, yes, Mr. Schulz, do you have any proof of iden-
