KY. WINDAGE

By P. W.

Read a strong denunciation of Fulton's "listlessness" the other day and it reminded us of the old Army recipe, which is a good one: He who strongly criticizes the food, shall be made the mess officer.

Should we suggest such an antidote?

The first of the year usually brings with it a number of changes in Fulton business life, but this go-round seems to have more than the usual number, a quick survey reveals.

Mr. and Mrs. John Russell are leaving as managers of the Park Terrace restaurant this weekend and will go to Memphis to be associated in similar work with one of the Holiday Inns, Mr. Russell announced Thursday.

Virginia Perry, longtime, capable assistant at the Pure Milk Company office, has resigned to stay home and raise a family; her place will be filled by a capable gent now associated with a Lake Street address; change to be announced next week.

There is an opening for a young man who is stable, level-headed and sales-minded with a well-established Fulton firm. We'll arrange interview for anyone interested.

Taylor's Chevrolet agency will soon be moving to nice-looking new quarters on Fourth Street across the street from the Hickory Log.

Announcement was made in last week's issue that Glenn Bard was resigning from Southern States effective last Tuesday, Jan. 1; new man from Marion, Ky. is now manager.

Bennett Electric will open a used furniture store in the old McDowell Building on Walnut Street, adjoining present layout around February 1st.

Two split-ups in local partnerships will see one firm still doing business under the same roof, with separate departments, and the other making a physical division, with a partner announcing a competing business two doors away.

A local insurance firm is going into the real estate business, with announcement forthcoming next week.

And the grapevine has it that another auto dealer may soon leave his old stand for a brand-new building.

For the first time since World War II Lake Street has a vacant store building (old Warren Pool hall) and may have another when Chevrolet agency moves. Other downtown streets also have several; we counted 14 in all, with 9 empty and five being used for furniture or appliance storage. That doesn't include the new Sinclair station next to U-Tote-Em that awaits a lease by somebody.

The crack-pot mail seems to be running pretty heavy these days, such as the one we received from a Doctor in North Carolina urging us to reprint a long dissertation on why this country should return to free enterprise with freedom for all as in the good old days. That much of it was okay, but half-way thru his letter he does an about face and maintains that the government must regulate all labor unions and big businesses to provide equal rights for all, and then issues a dozen other regulations that should be adopted... thus removing the freedom that he argued for in the beginning.

However, here is a little piece received one morning recently from some unknown fellow that might be worthwhile contemplating. I believe it was enclosed along with some executive's announcement that he was retiring from business.

FOOD FOR THOUGHT
In 1923, a group of the world's most successful financiers met at the Edgewater Beach Hotel in Chicago. Present were:

The president of the largest independent steel company.
The president of the largest utility company.
The greatest wheat speculator.

The president of the New York Stock Exchange.
A member of the President's Cabinet.

The greatest "bear" in Wall Street.
The president of the Bank of International Settlements.
The head of the world's greatest monopoly.

Collectively, these tycoons controlled more wealth than

EFFORTS REDOUBLED HERE FOR PRISON

Following word received here last week that Fulton, Hickman, Paducah or Dawson Springs are the four communities in Kentucky receiving the most serious consideration as locations of the new federal prison, the Chamber of Commerce redoubled its efforts to make its bid known to the prison committee.

Telegrams were dispatched to various Washington offices on behalf of Fulton as a location.

The project is a maximum-security type prison, costing around ten million dollars and offering economic betterment to this community that would be equivalent to two factories, officials pointed out.

STATE COMMUNITIES IMPROVE FACILITIES

Kentucky Municipal bond issues slipped off to total of $43,959,000, of 91 sales during 1956, more than $20 millions under 1955's $67,875,000, according to P. M. Conway, Sr., chairman of Municipal Securities Committee of Ohio Valley Group of Investment Bankers Association of America.

Conway, also retiring pres. Bond Club of Louisville and executive vice-president, Bankers Bond Co., said money will continue "tight" during fore part of 1957 but will loosen up near end of year. Interest rates paid for Kentucky municipals during '56, Conway told KyR, ranged up to 5%, highest rates in 20 years, reflecting tightness of money.

Kentucky communities improving their local facilities issued $10,340,000 in bonds to finance local utilities: electric, water, gas and sewer systems. School financing totaled $13,796,000, of which Murray and Western State Colleges, and U. of K. accounted for around $900 each for dormitories. Housing commission bonds totaled $6,259,000. Louisville's $6 millions garbage and refuse bonds made up bulk of $6,627,000 in "miscellaneous" municipals. Kentucky, which accounted for $52 millions in record bond year of 1954, issued only $437,000 in fish and game revenue bonds during past year.

Radio Auction For Polio Begins Monday

FULTON LOSES IN TOURNEY FINALS

Fulton lost to a powerful South Marshall basketball team last Friday night at the Mayfield Christmas Invitational basketball tournament finals. Final score was Fulton 66, South Marshall 71.

South Marshall, a consolidated school that opened only last fall, hit the jackpot in its very first basketball tournament.

The Rebels, coached by the popular Jim Solomon, performed so much like champions that they also received the "Sportsmanship Trophy" offered by the local Junior Chamber of Commerce, which assisted Mayfield High School in conducting the annual affair.

South Marshall pulled away in the final period to beat a skyscraping Fulton team. The two clubs were tied at 55-all at the end of three periods, but the Rebels worked into a 58-57 lead and ran the count to 66-58 with four minutes left in the contest to wrap up the game.

Big Ron McAllister, who had been connecting from the side for Fulton, fouled out during this time, hurting the Bulldogs' hopes in the final minutes.

George Burnette was high scorer for Fulton with 30 points, trailing South Marshall's Wilkins, who racked up 33 points.

Consolation game between the two semi-final losers resulted in Mayfield defeating Hickman 68-55.

COUNTY WILL RECEIVE BIDS FOR NEW HIGH SCHOOL AT HICKMAN FEB. 3

Bids have been asked on the central high school planned for Fulton County and will be opened in the courtroom at Hickman February 5.

It will be a consolidation of all the high schools in Fulton County outside the independent district of Fulton.

Cayce High School and Hickman High School will be converted to grade centers. Western, the other Fulton County high school, was turned into a grade plant early in the central-school program.

The central school will be built to house about 350 students. Estimated cost is about $300,000.

The board also asked bids on construction of an agriculture building on the new school site and alterations and additions to Phillips School on Highway 94 and Riverview School here, said School Superintendent Beal Darnell.

1957 March of Dimes Drive Opens Here to Finish Polio Job

"Let's finish the job!"

This is the theme announced by March of Dimes headquarters here for the campaign that will be carried on through January.

The "job" is two-fold: to raise funds for repair of the damage that polio has done to thousands of Americans in the past and to prevent the disease from crippling more thousands in the future.

March of Dimes spokesmen explain that an estimated 80,000 persons have been left handicapped by polio, throughout the length and breadth of the United States; and they point out that the job of conquering the disease cannot be considered finished until these patients have been helped to regain normal and productive lives.

The second object of the campaign is to promote the widest possible use of the Salk vaccine, which was developed under March of Dimes sponsorship, and which has been proven safe and effective many millions of times over.

Commenting on the 16,000 cases of polio reported in 1956, Basil O'Connor, president of the March of Dimes organization, said:

"We of the March of Dimes are determined that 1957 shall not see a repetition of the polio record of 1956. Even so, we know there will be attacks of the disease, and we must provide for the care of all who need it."

"We must also remember," Mr. O'Connor added, "those persons for whom the vaccine came too late. When we give to the March of Dimes, we are helping those who need help and protecting those who don't."

By mid-October, 1956, fewer than half of the 97,000,000 Americans who should be protected against polio by the Salk vaccine had started the prescribed course of three inoculations. The vulnerable age group is from six months to 35 years.

TURNING BACK THE CLOCK —

January 1, 1937

Negotiations were completed here yesterday with the Henry I. Seigel Company, manufacturers of work clothing which is to locate in Fulton soon after the first of the year. Following several weeks of negotiations Mr. Seigel, President of the concern, Mr. Wyatt, Business Manager and Mrs. Newman, Plant Foreman, were in Fulton Tuesday night and met with a local committee to discuss final plans and signing of a contract. The Fulton Committee was composed of R. C. Peoples, I. W. Little, T. J. Kramer, R. H. Wade and Frank Carr. This committee and J. E. Fall, President of the Chamber of Commerce went to Dickson and Nashville Thursday to close a contract. The factory will employ about 600 persons.

Hawks to Mr. L. J. Morris. The ceremony was performed at six o'clock Sunday evening by the Rev. A. C. Moore at his home in Union City.

The annual election of officers for Roberts Lodge No. 172 was held Monday night with the following officers named: John T. Smoot, Master; Russell T. Rudd, Senior Warden; Guy T. Heithcott, Junior Warden; N. G. Cooke, Treasurer; W. R. Butt, Secretary; C. A. Stephens, Trustee and Tyler.

Christmas was made merry for many needy families when the local Elks and Lions Clubs gave baskets to nearly 200 families the day before Christmas. Besides the baskets of food, toys were reconitioned by the NYA under the supervision of Mrs. Nora Alexander and Miss Oleana French. Boy Scouts aided the program by gathering up old toys about town to be repaired.

Miss Helen Maxfield, who is attending the nurses school at St. Bernard Hospital in Chicago, spent the holiday in Fulton with parents on West Street.

Mr. and Mrs. Milton Counce announce the birth of a daughter, Thelma Carroll, born Christmas Day, December 25th at the Fulton Hospital.

Miss Mable Brown and Richard Johnston, both of Fulton, were united in marriage Thursday night, December 24th, at nine o'clock at the Methodist Parsonage on Walnut Street with the pastor, Rev. E. M. Mathis reading the single ring ceremony.

Fulton is steadily growing as a marketing center for grain, livestock, butterfat and poultry, with the year 1936 ranking well above 1935 in the value of farm products marketed here. Approximately $3,835,025.61 was paid out for grain, livestock, butterfat and poultry during the past year.

Since the opening of the Kenneth-Murray and Latta stock yards in Fulton three years ago, this community has shown a steady gain in shipment of livestock. Figures show that approximately $2,285,025.61 worth of livestock have been handled through local stock dealers.

A double wedding of much interest to their friends is that of Miss Madge Hawks to Mr. Harold Howard and Miss Mary

Rail Construction In Northern Quebec

To create a grade for the railroad on sidehill in the Cran River Valley of Northern Quebec, Canadian National Railways construction engineers set off a blast of seven and one-half tons of dynamite in 21-foot deep holes.

Just below the 50th parallel in Northern Quebec the woods echo the bark of the diesel-powered bulldozer and the clang of the railroad track layer. The Canadian National Railways' newest branch line, a 200-mile arc swinging from Beattyville through the Chibougamau mining camp to Lake St. John, is well underway. Steel has now reached a point 50 miles from Chibougamau.

Canadian National hasn't waited for the whole line to open before going into business. It is already serving a small plant near Beattyville and also handling pulpwood. It is not intended to let commercial operations interfere with the movement of construction men and material, however. The 155 miles of railroad into Chibougamau will be in operation next spring.

Work commenced on the eastern half of the line—St. Felicien to Chibougamau, 135 miles—last fall when a contract was let to clear the right-of-way from St. Felicien to Lake Chibougamau, roughly half way. While the clearing contract is completed, grading has proved a tougher problem. For a portion of the picturesque valley of the Cran River which the line follows for 20 miles, the grade takes to the sidehill. Considerable rock blasting is involved. The actual crossing of the Cran, 26 miles west of St. Felicien, is a major work involving a two-span bridge 50 feet above water.

Although the mining camp at Chibougamau has attracted the lion's share of attention in the area, there is a potential of more than 12 million cords of wood adjacent to the new line. At its St. Felicien end there is opportunity, too, for farming in the tributary valleys running north.

The two pioneer areas of northern Quebec are Abitibi and Lake St. John. The new rail line is the connecting link that consolidates them and rolls back French Canada's northern frontier. FNS

Planting a Million Tulip Bulbs For Ottawa Festival

Some of the new colorful 120,000 Dutch tulip bulbs being planted under the shadow of the Peace Tower of the Canadian Parliament Buildings in Ottawa to provide an outstanding display of more than one million tulips at Annual Festival time next May.

Ottawa has been literally blooming as a tourist center the last few years and floral experts are working to make sure it continues to do so.

Canadian National Railways tourist officials say the annual Spring Tulip Festival which colors the borders of the Canadian capital's already picturesque 22-mile Federal District Commission Driveway, attracts thousands of visitors.

In fact, Ottawa sources say the breath-taking tulip display has helped Ottawa blossom forth to the second most popular tourist spot for American visitors to Ontario. Only Niagara Falls, the honeymoon mecca, leads Ottawa in the number of annual visitors.

One hundred and fifty gardeners have this fall planted more than 120,000 new tulip bulbs which next spring will give Ottawa a display of more than a million tulips. In addition, 270,000 crocuses and 2,000 daffodils have been planted.

Some 200 varieties are represented in the more than one million tulips in Ottawa's 29 main flower beds throughout the city and around the Parliament Buildings, which are adjacent to the world-famed Chateau Laurier.

To Ottawans, tulips were just another flower until Queen Juliana of Holland came to Ottawa during the second World War after the Netherlands was overrun. When the Queen returned to Holland she sent Ottawa 20,000 tulip bulbs and pledged another 16,000 each year of her reign.

Although tulips are the major attraction of the annual festival usually held in May, crocuses and daffodils abound. In Rockcliffe Park there is one bed where one million daffodils bloom. FNS

TESTING IS UNDERWAY TO DETERMINE IF SOYBEAN PEST IS PRESENT IN AREA

A team of state and federal scientists are checking to see if soybeans harvested in Lake County, Tenn., are infested with cyst nematode.

The nematode is a tiny, eel-like worm, that is the soybean's most serious pest.

Soil tests showed that the pest infests many of the soybean fields in this northwest Tennessee county. Whether the beans also were infested remains to be seen.

Richard Pearson, Obion county agent, said that no cases of soybean cyst nematode have been found in Obion county, but that he and other agricultural personnel in the county are watching closely developments and investigations presently being conducted in Lake county and in Pemiscot county, Mo.

About 20,000 bushels of seed soybean are involved in the check. State Entomologist H. L. Bruer of Nashville said the operation will probably be finished this week.

The soybean cyst nematode was also found in the soil of Pemiscot county, Mo., across the Mississippi river from here. Missouri scientists are working with the investigating team.

The Biggest Business In The Nation

We hear much about big business. We should hear more, and think more, about big government—which makes the biggest business seem pygmy.

Our federal government employs more than 5,000,000 people—while the largest private employer, the Bell System, employs less than 746,000. The government has annual revenues of about $30.8 billion—while the private enterprise with the largest sales, General Motors, has about $12.5

billion. The government has total assets of $165.7 billion in the last year for which such figures are available—while the private enterprise with the biggest assets, Metropolitan Life Insurance, had a little less than $14 billion.

These and other big private businesses, remember, are huge taxpayers—frequently, taxes account for a larger share of revenues than goes to the owners. Government, by contrast, pays no taxes and lives on our taxes.

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

Am I My Brother's Keeper

By Sir Arnold Lunn

THE EUROPEAN countries which Soviet Russia has annexed belong to Christendom. Hungary, to take one example, is mainly Catholic, but there is a strong Hungarian Protestant minority. Rumania and Bulgaria are mainly Greek Orthodox.

What did Christians do in the critical years of 1944-1946 to ensure that these Christian countries were not handed over to anti-Christ? And, believe me, it is not rhetoric to describe Stalin as anti-Christ.

WHAT DID WE DO? Virtually nothing. What could we have done? A great deal. Had one Christian in a hundred felt as passionately about religious freedom as ninety-nine Christians out of a hundred feel today about the importance of avoiding a world war which might kill them or their children, those countries would still be free.

What we should have done and did not do is organize all over the free world committees to arouse the Christian conscience and to maintain unresisting pressure on the leaders of the free world: The American President, the British Prime Minister, the French Premier. I do not believe that Yalta and Potsdam would have been possible but for the comparative inertness of Christians throughout the free world.

I AGREE with Mr. Charles Wilson who in the course of a letter to the London Times wrote: "An honorable few there are who can claim to have raised their voices consistently these past ten years on behalf of the persecuted people of Europe. The rest have deprived themselves of any right to use moral arguments. Poland, Hungary and the Baltic States were crushed ten years ago, not yesterday. Their fate has been forgotten or ignored by those—nations and politicians—who are most vocal in support of a less worthy cause."

The immense value of the Hungarian revolution is that it has reminded us of what too many have tried to forget, the brutality of the Russian Dictatorship. The danger is that we shall forget Hungary all too soon.

SURELY THE TIME is ripe for Christians to organize and to create committees to ensure that legislatures in democratic countries do NOT forget Hungary and the other tortured countries.

It would be premature in this article to suggest the kind of continuous pressure on Russia which, I firmly believe, would in due course produce liberation. Details of policy must be left to the committees, if and when founded. One thing is certain. It is our duty as Christians to repair our omissions in the past. To finish the things which in 1944-1946 we left undone.

Kentucky 4-H's Tops in Dairy, Soil

Hard work and high honors go hand-in-hand for Harold Smith, 17, of Bowling Green. As state winner in the 4-H Dairy program, he already has achieved a remarkable record in dairy production skills and practices.

In recognition of Harold's progress, Larro SureFeed Division of General Mills provided for his Chicago trip to the National 4-H Club Congress. In eight years of Club work he participated in numerous activities, including projects in beef, sheep and tractor. Starting with two Guernsey heifers he now has 21 registered animals. He has won honors in exhibiting, showmanship and judging, and appeared on many radio programs, one of which he produced.

He served on the county council, was a junior leader, and was five times president of his 4-H Club led by his father Leon Smith.

Harold Smith and Michael Shoults

The 4-H Soil and Water Conservation program means a lot to Michael Shoults, 15, and his family's farm in Paducah. As state winner he was honored by Firestone Tire & Rubber Co., donor of his trip to the National 4-H Club Congress held recently in Chicago.

During six years of Club work Michael's achievements included contour cultivation and terracing on a 122 acre farm. He won a purple ribbon at the district and state fairs on drainage, having spent four years on water management. He gave demonstrations to neighboring farmers on soil conservation methods.

STILBESTROL STIMULATES GAINS IN BEEF CATTLE, U-T EXPERIMENTS SHOW

(By: William Owens)

Results from recent experiments conducted at the University of Tennessee show a definite value of stilbestrol in stimulating gains and improving feed efficiency in fattening beef cattle.

Stilbestrol may be added to the daily cattle rations or stilbestrol pellets may be implanted under the skin of the animals. Both practices have been approved by the Federal Food and Drug Administration.

Feeding stilbestrol at the rate of 10 mg. of the hormone per head daily has definitely been shown to produce faster and more economical gains in steers under feedlot conditions. From this practice no serious effects have been observed and despite the faster gains no consistent efforts on carcass grades have been noted.

The implantation of stilbestrol pellets under the skin in the ears in fattening steers has resulted in faster gains. Some side effects have been noted in this practice however. Slightly elevated tailheads and a slight lowering of the carcass grades have been noted in some cases. These conditions become less noticeable as the animals take on finish.

In general best results at the U T experiment stations were obtained when stilbestrol was added to the cattle rations. The use of the pellets in steers on pasture have been satisfactory only if the animals were on good pasture. That is, the pasture must be of such quality and quantity that the animals would be expected to gain without the hormone treatment. Under such conditions, additional gains due to the use of the hormone may be expected.

The stilbestrol feeds cost from $.35 to $.75 more per cwt. than the same feeds without stilbestrol. The price varies with the different feed companies. Some companies add the hormone in such quantities so that 1 pound of feed contains the recommended daily allowance per head. Other companies add the hormone so that 2 pounds of feed contains the daily allowance. The stilbestrol pellets cost approximately three cents each. Additional expense is involved, however, for the implanter. Some companies produce a pellet containing 15 mg. of stilbestrol and others 12 mg. per pellet. Two of the 15

THIS WEEK —In Washington

Clinton Davidson

Wah!

The biggest question in Washington this week is: What will the new Congress do?

As the Senators and Representatives began to toss new bills into the legislative hopper this week, it became evident that although membership hasn't changed much from last year, the issues before Congress have.

The similarities between the 85th and 84th Congresses are mostly on the surface. Democrats continue to hold a majority in both houses, entitling them to name chairmen of the various committees. That gives them a big advantage.

The same "Balance of power" that existed in 1955 and 1956 will continue this year and next. That is a Republican President with power to name cabinet members and other administrative officials, but with a Congress controlled by Democrats.

President Eisenhower demonstrated during the past two years that he can work well with a Democratic-controlled Congress. His overwhelming popular vote in November should make it even easier to get along with the new Congress. And, unlike 1956, no general election is scheduled for 1957.

There will, of course, be no moratorium on politics. Both parties, naturally, will jockey for political advantages. They will keep in mind that there will be another congressional election in 1958 and a Presidential election again in 1960.

Chances are there will be few pitched battles between the White House and Congress. Most differences will be over details rather than on broad policy. On the big issue, that of strengthening the Free World,

The President wants, and Congress will grant, something like $5 billion in appropriations to help our allies and friends abroad. The big problem will be how to keep peace in the world, and neither Congress nor the President will quibble over the cost in dollars.

National prosperity is at an all-time high, and both Congress and the President will be anxious to keep incomes up, but to avoid any rapid rise in inflation. Two trouble spots that will get special attention are small business and farmers. New legislation will be aimed at strengthening curbs on big business mergers that would add to the problems of small business men. Credit curbs may be eased where necessary to help small businesses in serious trouble.

There will be scores of farm bills to be considered, but most of them will be intended to amend and strengthen existing legislation. The knock-down battle between 90% of parity and 75% to 90% flexible supports isn't likely to be repeated this year. Democrats, however, will keep the issue of high supports alive.

There will be both legislative and administrative tinkering with the soil bank. Neither Congress nor Secretary of Agriculture Benson is entirely satisfied with the soil bank law adopted last spring. There are indications that neither are most farmers happy with it.

Other issues on which Congress and the President are close to agreement include no general tax cuts, additional school construction aid, expanded peaceful use of atomic energy, increased funds for agricultural research, and expansion of soil and water conservation programs.

mg. pellets or three of the 12 mg. pellets are sufficient for each steer.

Many feed stores and poultry dealers carry the pellets and needles for implanting the pellets. Some dealers will even loan out needles when one buys the pellets. The side and shape of the pellets produced by different companies vary. This makes it necessary to obtain a needle for each particular brand.

Studies are being made at U T to determine the conditions under which stilbestrol can be most profitably used. Until more information is available stilbestrol should not be used in the feed of breeding animals or implanted in any breeding stock.

SIX NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS URGED FOR THOSE WITH HIGH BLOOD PRESSURE

The thousands of Kentuckians who suffer from high blood pressure are being urged by the Kentucky Heart Association to subscribe to six New Year's resolutions:

"Resolved, that in 1957, I will:

- "1. See my doctor regularly, and cooperate with him in carrying out his instructions.
- "2. Try not to worry (worry, nervous tension and emotional stress all help to push blood pressure up, the Association pointed out).
- "3. Get plenty of sleep, taking a short nap or two during the day if possible (blood pressure is lowest during sleep and rises during waking hours).
- "4. Rest before becoming tired (avoid the tensions and irritability that go with fatigue).
- "5. Engage in mild exercise (avoid competitive sports in which it is difficult to quit when tired).

RABBIT ICE

On the first cold morning of this winter one of my friends asked me whether I had seen any "rabbit ice" yet. That term at once reawakened many a memory, for that is what we called it more than a half century ago. Rabbit ice, for the benefit of late-comers who have just tuned in, is and was the ice that spews out around certain weeds on very cold nights while there is still some sap in the stalks. It is dainty and flower-like, looking almost too delicate to be true. The water content is very slight, so that it is almost as dainty as snow flakes. We children, on our way to school, with our spindle shanks covered with home-knit stockings to keep us warm, used together—handfuls of this stuff and eat it or what ever you might call—transferring a few drops of icy water to our always-hungry mouths. I am sure that we did not regard it as ice but as some dainty confection that Jack Frost had made just for us. Whether any of the sap of the weeds might not have tasted bad I do not know; it would have spoiled our Eden to have found within it some such snake as suspicion of delicate things that cold nights provide.

Rabbit ice reminds me of many another name for objects in nature associated with animals. Some of these have become standard; rat's-bane, flea bane, catnip, dog fennel. But there were others that somehow elude the dictionary makers. We had "goose grass" all over the place, a low-growing member of the smartweed-buckwheat family. It, like some of the grasses, liked to grow along the edges of hard tramped ground, like a path. Whether geese ate it in preference to other greenery I cannot remember. We also had "pepper grass," which many people

"6. Keep my weight normal (overweight overworks the heart)."

The Association reported that an estimated 5,000,000 Americans suffer from what doctors call hypertension, and that most of them can be helped by proper medical care.

High blood pressure, or hypertension, is a leading cause of heart and blood vessel disease. However, the cause of hypertension is in most cases unknown. The KHA points out that research scientists throughout the country are working constantly to find these still-unknown causes. Much of this research is made possible by public contributions to the Heart Fund campaign, which is conducted throughout the country each February.

Emphasizing the importance of periodic examinations, the Association states:

"It takes two to treat your hypertension—your doctor and you."

"Sometimes a good doctor-patient talk and a change of living habits is the only 'treatment' required for mild hypertension. This is where the co-operation of other family members is often important.

"For those who need more help, physicians can choose from among drugs, diets, operations and ways of dealing with emotional problems.

"In any case, the decision as to treatment is up to your doctor, and you should be under his care if you have hypertension."

called "hen or chicken pepper." It was also exceedingly common around yards and barnyards. It is a small plant of the mustard family, known to scientists as "shepherd's purse." I used to enjoy eating its biting, pepper-like leaves; again I do not know whether chickens liked it or not.

One of the oddities of language is that no one can prophesy which words will remain, which will become standard, which will never rise above folk usage. Names of plants and animals are among these words that may or may not remain in good usage. And yet nearly all of them are picturesque, whether accepted or not. Snakeroot sounds like some back-country name for a fake remedy for snake bites, and it was just that. But it has become the standard name for a whole family of plants and is as valid a name as dog fennel. Goat-sucker, as a name for a bird sounds ridiculous, for it records a superstition that our ancestors brought from Europe, where birds of that family are accused of milking goats. That name has been accepted, however, and is borne by the family to which our Nighthawk, Whip-poor-will, and Chuck-will's-bird belong. Scientists have even taken the meaning and coined a learned word to mean this: "Caprimulgidae," literally, "goat-milkers." dogwood, dog fennel, dog bane, catnip, catclaw, cattail, horse mint, horse radish, horse chestnut — and so on and on, of standard words. Why not rabbit ice and hen pepper and the rest of those folk names that we used to know but which failed to get classy enough to have their places in a dictionary?

A white Christmas always makes the season more delightful and for the owners of this home the snow is something right out of Santa's bag. The beauty of the whitened landscape viewed through the wide sweep of windows provides a perfect backdrop for the festivities of the season. Walls of windows such as these casement styles in ponderosa pine make a home more enjoyable at any time of the year by bringing the beauty of nature inside. Windows of pine come in many shapes, sizes and styles, ideal for a wall on the scenic side of a house.

SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

by Marie Holland

Home Demonstrator Kentucky Utilities

Sewing under poor light is just as wasteful and full of chances for making errors as sewing without a pattern. Even more important, it is wasteful of precious energy and valuable time. On the other hand good lighting can do much to give your sewing a professional look, and provide protection for your eyes as well.

Homemakers frequently ask for information on light for sewing, how much is really needed, and where it should be placed. In replying, lighting specialists quickly point out that it's not only the amount and glare-free quality of the light that's important, but that different sewing jobs require different lighting conditions.

For example, short sewing jobs such as sewing on a single button call for less light than you need for a long evening of mending, darning or fancy work.

It's nice to know that there are "patterns" for home lighting which are as easy to follow as the new simplified dress patterns. You will need your tape measure for these just as you do on your dress patterns.

Here's the lighting pattern for machine sewing. If your light is to come from ceiling fixture, be sure that you have a 150-watt glareless bulb. Then place your machine so that the light is 13 inches to the left of the machine needle and 7 inches in towards you as you sew. If you do not use a ceiling fixture, you can hang a pin-up lamp on the wall back of the machine and get good amounts of light. It should be hung so that the lower edge of the shade is 14 inches above your machine's sewing surface, and 12 inches to the left of the needle. If the machine is placed close to the wall, the lamp will be close enough for safe seeing. A good pin-up will have an 8 inch diffusing bowl as a part of it, and should have preferably a 150 watt bulb in it. Pin-up lamps, are especially useful if the sewing machine is used in several locations in the house.

Diary of Doin's

By Mary Nelle Wright

Hear Mary-Nelle's program, "My Fair Lady" every day on WFUL at 9:30 a.m., Monday through Friday.

"Ring out the OLD — ring in the NEW" — is in the thoughts and on the lips of everyone at this time each year. We resolve to improve our lives — our thoughts — and to turn another page and greet the year 1957.

But — somehow — this year I am inclined to turn my thoughts — my pages in the BOOK — backward and reflect upon ALL of the GOOD things that have come my way during 1956. And there is a feeling of humility when I remember ALL of these GOOD things I have been blessed with. And so — I find myself thinking — "Just let this new year be as FULL — and as happy as 1956 — and I'll not ask for MORE."

Our thoughts today are with some VERY dear friends, United States Representative Noble J. Gregory and his lovely wife of Washington and Mayfield, Ky. who have announced the engagement of their daughter, Marion Hale, to Harrison Foster Pettit of Lexington. We know what a devoted "trio" the Gregorys have been through the years and perhaps we are a little saddened at the thought that "Shug" Gregory (who is an only child) will be leaving her mother and dad — to make a home of her own. But — there is a HAPPY thought, too, that the Gregorys won't actually LOSE a daughter — but they will GAIN a SON. Our sincere wishes to you, "Shug" for the happiest of years to come!

And — another friend, Elizabeth Ethridge Given of Circleville, Ohio, — who has been a DEAR friend, through these many years is also announcing the engagement of her daughter, Linda, to Lieut. John Albert Stevenson of Circleville. Linda who has a twin sister, Lissa is the first of the twins to leave the "family fold" but 'tis such a nice thought that John Albert and his family have been friends of the Givens — lo — these many years. The Givens and Stevenson farms are within one mile of each other. So — come Christmas, and all of the other vacations Lissa and John will always be "Homing" up Circleville way. (Need we remind you that Elizabeth is a former Fultonian.)

How sorry we are to have missed seeing our good friends, Margaret and Ike Reed of Tuckahoe, New York. They were here to see his mother, Mrs. L. H. Reed and sisters, Ann Holland and Lois Hornbeak. Their visit was such a fleeting one — they actually didn't give any of us much time to be with them. Now, hear this — Margaret and Ike — next time — come earlier and STAY LONGER.

Tommy and Mae Nall are two of our VERY favorite people. Those two fine boys are just about two of the most entertaining youngsters we've ever known — in fact, they're a welcome addition to any group — ANYWHERE.

And speaking of nice people and nice things — how surprised and HAPPY we were Sunday when Elizabeth Caldwell drove up our driveway — and with her were WADE and CLAUDIA ASKEW of Whittier, California. It has been several years since we have seen Wade — and our FIRST time to see his lovely wife, Claudia, and we decided immediately — that Wade selected a wife who "fits in" PERFECTLY with all of our wonderful Wade family. His mother, you will remember is the former RUTH WADE. She and hubby, Len Askew, their daughter, Barbara and Wade moved to Whittier several years ago — but we still call them OURS. Wade and Claudia are enroute to Augusta, Georgia where he will be stationed with the Army. We're glad they'll be nearer Fulton for a while but our thoughts are with Ruth and Len — because Georgia is a "LONG Way" — from California.

Interesting visitors at the Ted Clarks' last week and over the weekend were Dr. and Mrs. Art Larson (Art and Mary Leone) of Chicago, who were enroute home from a DELIGHTFUL vacation in Florida. Art and Mary Leone are just two of the most delightful people — EVER — and do you know the FIRST thing they did when they arrived at the Clarks? And it was a very TIMELY thing — because their hospitality mat has been tread upon — yea — MANY times by the dozens of friends who have passed through Fulton and stopped over to be with Ted and Linnie. So — those ORIGINAL Larsons CHRISTENED the Clark home, "DRIFT-INN" — we like it, don't you? Flo and Charlie Babb of Chicago were enroute to Florida, Nassau and other places of interest so, — they, too, took advantage of the Clark hospitality for the weekend. Art and Mary Leone entertained the group with movies taken during an ever so wonderful South American cruise they made last year. Many Fulton friends "dropped by" to see the movies — as well as to enjoy the attractive visitors. (Apologies from Your Diarist — Mary Leone, will SURELY find a time to see you — come your next visit!)

Our dear friend, Mrs. Walter Hill (Birdie) to all of us who know her is singing a happy song these days — and the reason — Dick Hill, her son, who lives in Sydney Australia called her on Christmas day. And of course, Birdie talked to Dick's whole family, Pat, his wife and two darling granddaughters, Ann (who, incidentally, was named for Ann Latta) and Susan. And we can well imagine that the new boy in the Hill family "gurgled" a word or two to his grandmother, too. Dick is always the thoughtful one — to his family because we remember the ever so beautiful flowers he sent to sister "Muh" (Mary Latta) when she moved into her new home.

Mrs. Roy McClelland has been enjoying a Christmas visit from her "children", Patsy Ruth and Ralph Winstead and their two little girls from Memphis. The Winsteads moved from Fulton to Memphis not so many months ago — but Fulton is HOME to them — always — we just know.

Kay Cherry of U. K. and Don Wright, U. S. N. A. of Annapolis, Md. entertained

GREGORY-PETTIT

United States Representative Noble Jones Gregory and Mrs. Gregory of Mayfield, announce the engagement of their daughter, Miss Marion Hale Gregory, to Mr. Harrison Foster Pettit, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Pettit of Lexington. Miss Gregory is a graduate of Holton Arms School and the University of Kentucky. She attended Sweet Briar College and did graduate work at Columbia University. Mr. Pettit was graduated from Woodberry Forest School and the University of Virginia, where he attends the Law School. He served four years in the Air Force in Germany and Turkey.

with Open House Saturday evening at the Hendon Wright home on West State Line Road. The guest list included "the College Crowd" and their visitors. 'Twas a nice evening — what with everyone gay — and conversation FLOWING — and groups gathered 'round the organ — playing, singing — and just having FUN. About 60 guests from colleges here — there — and everywhere — called between the hours of 7 and 9.

Congrats — and Congratulations to Mary Ann Hill who was recently selected as a candidate from her sorority, Sigma Kappa, for "Miss Fabulous" for the Sophomore Class down at Memphis State. There's NO doubt about it — these Fulton boys and gals are some of the best "Material" any college can find.

there was in the United States Treasury, and for years newspapers and magazines had been printing their success stories and urging the youth of the nation to follow their examples. Twenty-five years later, let's see what happened to these men.

The president of the largest independent steel company—Charles Schwab—lived on borrowed money the last five years of his life, and died broke.

The greatest wheat speculator—Arthur Cutten—died abroad, insolvent.

The president of the New York Stock Exchange—Richard Whitney—was recently released from Sing Sing.

The member of the President's Cabinet—Albert Fall—was pardoned from prison so he could die at home.

The greatest "bear" in Wall Street—Jesse Livermore—committed suicide.

The president of the Bank of International Settlement—Leon Fraser—committed suicide.

The head of the world's greatest monopoly—Ivar Krueger—committed suicide.

All of these men had learned how to make money, but not one of them had learned how to live.

If you want to know how much longer you will live, some life insurance agents use this formula: subtract your present age from 80, multiply the result by 7, then divide the whole by 10. Of course, if past 80 it won't work.

The road ahead for Mid-America shines as brightly as the Illinois Central rails that carried more freight for more people last year than ever before.

Doing its share toward keeping this future shining, the Illinois Central has held down the cost of its services. It has speeded up freight trains, added new equipment, extended piggy-back routes and given passengers finer service.

To make these improvements, despite rising wage and material costs, the Illinois Central has spent $265 million since the last war. It has bought diesel locomotives by the hundreds and added more than 22,000 new cars. It has laid heavier rail and, in some places, put down continuous welded rail. It has built electronic yards and installed new signal and communications systems.

Better planning, better machines and better-trained personnel all contribute to the bright look ahead. It will become even brighter when more reliance on competition and less on regulation permits our rates to reflect the full economy of modern rail transport.

Meanwhile, the Illinois Central continues determined to look ahead always for new ways to provide the low-cost, modern transport its friends and neighbors deserve.

E. W. James Does $275,000 Fur Business In Hickman

(From The Union City Messenger)

From the semi-finished second floor of the E. W. James grocery building at Hickman, Ky., 53-year-old E. W. James carries on a $200,000 to $300,000 fur business each year. And when visited last week, he stood waist deep in mink pelts which he was grading, while co-workers were at the task of counting a mountain of 4,989 muskrat, 1,000 raccoon and 1,900 mink furs.

All these furs made up just one of seven shipments, he makes during the trapping season. This year, Mr. James expects to sell furs valued at about $275,000. In 1955 he sold only $125,000, as the trappers failed to make big catches.

Mr. James said he has had several trappers this year to bring in as many as 50 to 60 mink from around the Reelfoot lake area and from around Moscow, Ky. He said the furs are "awfully good." "We have an excellent mink and an extra good rat," he remarked.

This season he has been paying $18 for large mink and about $9 for the small ones with good coons bringing about $1.25 and the rats $1.15.

Mr. James, who is one of the biggest fur dealers in Kentucky, buys his furs in a radius of 100 miles from about 300 trappers and 12 dealers. Most of this fur comes from Kentucky, Tennessee and Missouri. Mr. James, who during the trapping season hires three men to help him grade, ship and finish cleaning the furs, has been selling his furs in New York for the past several years. However, this year his New York standby bought only $6.50 for the mink and he was left without an outlet. He now has contacts in Europe and his entire stock will be sold there this year.

Mr. James started in the fur and grocery business in 1919 when he went to work for Joe Rogers, who he says taught him both businesses. In 1934, Mr. James bought the Rogers grocery and fur business and in that year he bought about $12,000 worth of furs. Since that time he has established another grocery in Union City and the fur business has doubled and redoubled until now it is the largest in Kentucky. In all seven sales, Mr. James expects to ship about 22,000 muskrats, 5,200 mink and about 5,000 coons by February. The first shipment this year was made Nov. 30.

Aside from the mink, coon and rats, Mr. James sometimes deals in other furs. Last year, he got 800 to 900 beaver from Mississippi which were valued at $6.50 to $7 each and 35 to 40 otter skins which sell for $16 to $17 each. He said these also came from dealers in Mississippi and came in after Christmas. "And then we always get a few skunks, but pole cats ain't worth anything."

THIS WEEK -In Washington

With
Clinton Davidson

The new Congress assembled in Washington this week with world problems overshadowing everything else. We are nearer the brink of World War III than at any time in the past 13 years.

The Russian "peace offensive" of 1955 and 1956 has become a policy of murder and aggression as ruthless and threatening as any the world has ever seen. The cold war has ended and one wrong step can plunge the world into a horrible catastrophe.

If this sounds unduly alarming to you, I hasten to add that it is not alone my opinion but that of military men, diplomats, administration officials and congressmen with whom we have talked. Almost everyone used the word "critical" to describe the situation.

Most of those with whom we have talked asked not to be quoted by name, for obvious reasons. Sen. Styles Bridges of New Hampshire is an exception. He is the ranking minority member of the Senate Armed Services Committee and a veteran of many years in Congress.

Bridges pulls no punches in his condemnation of the Communists. "Russian policy," he said, "has not changed one iota, and the policy still continues to be one which would seem to have been conceived by brute beasts rather than civilized human beings."

The New Hampshire Senator believes that we and the United Nations must share some of the blame for what has happened in the mutilation of Hungary. Our fervent desire for peace has led Russia to believe we are willing to pay any price to avoid going to war.

The Senator emphasized that "we need a foreign policy first that the American people can understand; second, that our friends can understand; but, third, and more important than anything else, a foreign policy which our enemies can understand."

"We cannot allow a situation to exist where there is any doubt as to our position. The surest way to bring about a third world war is to follow the line of indecision."

Bridges was critical of the U.N. handling of the Suez and Hungarian situations. "How does it happen," he asked, "that the U.N. can be so firm about demanding that the British and French withdraw from Egypt and, at the same time, so weak and vacillating about the brutal crushing of freedom in Hungary?"

"How long are we going to allow a threat by the minority in the U.N.? How long are we going to allow the Soviets, supported by the so-called neutralists, to use the United Nations for the purpose of dividing the Free World and, at the same time, not allow the U.N. to take action which is in conflict with the totalitarian self-interest?"

The time has come, Bridges said, for a "very precise re-examination of our foreign policy." We cannot, he said, "allow a situation to exist where there is any doubt as to our position. The surest way to bring about a third world war is to follow a line of indecision."

"It seems imperative to me that our position be known to all. For example, there should be no question about how we stand or what we will do if South Korea, if Formosa, the Philippines and Japan are threatened or attacked—or whether we will permit aggression in the Middle East."

The time has come, Bridges said, when we must not only say what we mean, but we must mean what we say.

TENSION IS NORMAL

"Happiness has to be earned," writes Arthur Gordon in a January Reader's Digest article. "It doesn't come in pills." The writer reports a certain amount of tension is an unavoidable part of living. "Parents who insulate their children from any sort of discomfort," he says, "are cheating them of the chance to acquire the flexibility and toughness they are going to need."

"Hot Flashes Stopped"

or strikingly relieved
in 63-80% of cases in doctors' tests

If you're miserable from the "hot flashes," and accompanying irritable, restless feelings of "change of life"—you may be suffering unnecessarily!

For... in tests by doctors... Lydia Pinkham's Compound and Tablets brought relief from such functionally caused suffering to 63% and 80% (respectively) of the women tested! Complete or striking relief!

Yes! Research has proved these medicines thoroughly modern in action... has shown you where to look for relief from those distressing, nervous "out of sorts" feelings of mid-life "change!"

So... get Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound—or new, improved Tablets with added iron! (Wonderful, too, for the functional pains of menstrual periods.)

It acts through a woman's sympathetic nervous system to relieve distress of those so-called "hot flashes!"

For Plum Pudding A' Plenty...

Take 475 pounds of raisins, 475 pounds of sultanas and 570 pounds of currants. Soak all night in 14 gallons of rum, 162 quarts of stout and 76 ounces of vanilla.

Then make up the dry ingredients which include 380 pounds of flour, 30 pounds bread crumbs, 35 pounds sugar, 12 pounds each of almonds and walnuts, 30 pounds beef kidney suet, 76 ounces of cinnamon, five pounds of all-spice and two and a half pounds each of salt, baking soda and nutmeg. Add six and a quarter pounds of ginger and mix all together thoroughly.

This is just the beginning for making some three tons of plum pudding—24,000 individual servings—as prepared by Joseph Nellis, supervising chef of the Canadian National Railways' sleeping and dining car department.

Working in a specially built commissary car, Mr. Nellis and three assistants carried out the task quickly and efficiently by reducing the fantastic amounts of food required to ten percent. They planned a 10-day work schedule and prepared 400 cans of pudding a day.

Rainfall Welcome By All

The fine rains that we have enjoyed recently are most welcomed by all farmers in this area. In fact all parts of the country are dry like we are and are far beyond average rainfall. Many have said that any one of the recent rains have been "the best rain received in 3 years." They have all fallen slowly and have soaked in, causing winter plants to grow at a much more rapid rate than under past conditions.

I have visited a number of farms since December 1st and farmers throughout the territory tell me that we need lots more rain before we get ready to plant our crops this year. It is now getting so you can dig a post hole without too much difficulty and this is a good sign that the rains have soaked in.

I am urging farmers to take samples off fields to be tested in January and February. This is one job that we can get out of the way and at the same time be of some help to the laboratory that does the work for us. Take samples from all fields and specify just what these fields will be growing in 1956. Follow recommendations given you and with an ample supply of moisture, our of the currants, raisins, sultanas, rum, stout and vanilla, 30 pounds of mixed peel, 25 pounds of diced apple, 25 diced oranges and juice, and 25 diced lemons and juice were added to the wet mixture. Then 24 dozen eggs were poured over this mixture and the whole was stirred thoroughly.

Half the dry ingredients which were prepared on a specially built tray, measuring four feet by eight feet, was added to the wet mixture. Then the contents of the kettle were put back on the table and mixed with the other half of the dry ingredients.

From here the pudding was put into 20-net ounce cans and placed in trays holding 26 cans each. A six tier steam oven was filled with the trays and the contents were cooked for two, and a half hours. The cans were immediately sealed while the pudding was steaming hot; then marked, packed away in boxes and shipped to all parts of the Canadian National Railways system from Newfoundland to British Columbia, in readiness for the demand that will be made for them over the holiday period. Built by the British as a stronghold to repel Indian raids in the early 18th century, this blockhouse at Erie, Pa., is preserved in honor of an American Revolutionary War hero, General Anthony Wayne. A new fire-resistant asphalt roof now protects the historic treasure from fire.

Century-old house, left, becomes modern home for about $3,500 in remodeling costs. New wing replaces old wood shed for more space inside, longer, lower look outside. Low-slope roof of wing was covered with asphalt shingles. Pre-fitted windows of ponderosa pine saved money by reducing installation time.

UK EXTENDS TEACHING SERVICES TO FAR-OFF JAVA UNDER 3-YEAR CONTRACT

With one stroke the University of Kentucky has extended its teaching services more than 10,000 miles from the campus in Lexington to the South Pacific island of Java in Indonesia. The University's most spectacular venture in off-campus "extension" activities began last July with the acceptance of a million-dollar contract from the International Co-operation Administration.

Under the contract, U K agreed to provide educational and scientific services to the University of Indonesia, located at the city of Bandung, for a period of three years. Exact valuation of the contract was $1,235,000, to be supplemented by funds in local currency by the Indonesian Government to erect needed buildings, and defray other local costs of the expanding technical program.

STATE HIGH SCHOOL BASKETBALL TOURNAMENT WILL BE HELD IN MARCH

The 1957 State High School Basketball Tournament will be held in the Kentucky Fairgrounds Coliseum, Louisville, on March 13-16. The first tournament session will be on Wednesday evening; and there will be three sessions on Thursday, two on Friday, and two on Saturday. The Friday and Saturday sessions will be held in the afternoon and evenings.

On or after January 15, 1957, State Tournament Ticket Sales, Box 1173, Lexington, Kentucky, will begin to accept mail orders for complete sets of tournament tickets. Orders with earlier postmarks will receive a lower priority rating than those mailed on January 15. These orders will be filled at some time in February, after the schools have received the tickets allotted to them under the plan of distribution set up by the K. H. S. A. A. Board of Control. The school orders will take all the arena and box seats located on the sides of the playing floor. These types of seats will be available in the end sections. Stadium

Read Holland is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Holland of Fulton, and an honor graduate of Fulton high school.

The contract negotiation marked the first major foreign operations project undertaken by the University of Kentucky.

The invitation to render the assistance to the University of Indonesia came last spring after the president of the Indonesian institution, Dr. Baudar Djohan, visited UK and several other American universities.
