Two Announce, Another Expected

Fifth House Race Is Taking Shape

The filing deadline is almost two months away, but the race for a successor to State Rep. Kenny Imes in the 5th House District is beginning to take shape.

Imes announced last week that he won't run for re-election. Two men, Murray City Attorney J. William "Bill" Phillips, 44, and Calloway County schoolteacher Fred Curd, 45, have announced for the Democratic nomination to succeed Imes. Curd has filed his papers with Kentucky Board of Elections, officials there say.

A Kentucky governor, lieutenant governor, as well as "lesser" state officials, senators and representatives will be elected this year. Locally, all 12 seats on Murray Common Council and offices on the Hazel Board of Trustees are up for election and according to Marvin Harris, county court clerk, "no one has filed for any of those seats."

Imes threw the seat open early last week when he announced he won't seek re-election this year. Sources say the Murray Democrat will resign after the current Extraordinary Session of Kentucky General Assembly and will be named to a state post in the Carroll Administration.

The 5th House seat Imes represents takes in all of Calloway County and the western portion of Trigg County.

Traditionally, due to the heavy Democratic voter registration in the district, winning the Democratic nomination in May has assured the Primary winner will be elected in November.

In addition to Phillips and Curd, another local educator, Mary Jane Littleton, is expected to announce for the Democratic nomination this week.

Sources in Trigg County say that no names have surfaced at this time in that county as potential candidates for the seat.

Although no one has filed for the 1st Senate seat currently held by Mayfield attorney Richard Weisenberger, he is expected to seek re-election. Weisenberger represents Calloway, Graves, Fulton, Hickman, Carlisle and a small portion of Marshall counties.

Primary election day is May 29. Party candidates for state and local offices must file declarations for nomination with the Kentucky secretary of state or county court clerk 55 days before the Primary (not later than April 4), election officials say.

Prospective voters, who are not registered or need to change precincts or party affiliations for the Primary, have until April 30 to do so. Registration books will be closed for the Primary from April 30 through June 5.

According to election officials, persons 18-years-old, or those who will be 18 by the 1979 November election and who will possess the 30-day residential qualifications in a precinct, may register to vote, election officials say.

General Election Day this year is Nov. 6.

Imes, 31, would neither confirm nor deny rumors earlier this week that he is in line for appointment to a statewide post or that the prospect of such a post figured in his decision.

Imes said he will probably resign at the end of the current special session of Kentucky General Assembly.

The state representative said he does plan to seek public office again in the future, possibly in 1981. Local political observers have speculated he may enter the race for Calloway County judge-executive in the May, 1981, primary.

Curd, the only person to actually file papers with the state for the seat thus far, says his chief concerns in his bid for the office are "fighting tax increases for middle and low income families, agriculture, improving area roads and fighting government waste."

"Major campaign issues," Phillips says, "include fighting government waste and elimination of non-essential programs, preservation of the family farm, exclusion of foreign land ownership, elimination of the widow's inheritance tax, levy of a natural resources severance tax comparable to other mining and oil producing states, and obtaining a substantial increase for construction, maintenance and repair of county roads in the district."

TWO-VEHICLE COLLISION — Anthony Lee Coles, 20, of Route 4, Murray, was killed Monday night when his pickup truck, shown above, collided with a truck driven by William A. Talley, 19, of Princeton. The accident occurred at 8 p.m. on U.S. Highway 641 near the south city limits of Murray.

'Driven By Greed,' Bergland Says

D.C. Police Keep Tight Corral Around Militant Farmers

By MIKE FEINSILBER
Associated Press Writer

WASHINGTON (AP) — Police kept a tight corral around the tractors of thousands of militant farmers today as Agriculture Secretary Bob Bergland charged that some of the protesters were "driven by just old-fashioned greed."

Bergland declared that the disruptive tactics of the farmers were "an unmitigated disaster, from a public relations point of view." He added the display tended "to discredit all of agriculture and does not reflect the majority" of those who till the soil.

Despite isolated reports of rock-throwing and slashing of tires on police cars, authorities completely stymied the traffic-snarling tactics with which the farmers had tied the capital in knots a day earlier, when 19 protesters were arrested.

Police had answered the motorized protest Monday with their own vehicular show of force. They surrounded the main armada of tractors and trucks with squad cars and other government vehicles after the farm vehicles had been parked on the Mall, a grassy strip between the Capitol and the Lincoln Memorial.

Authorities and protest leaders met without success today in what police termed an effort to work out a compromise under which the farmers could resume their demonstrations without violence or major disruptions of traffic.

In the first of several public appearances in which he reiterated a tough Carter administration line, Bergland said many of the farmers who participated in the American Agriculture movement protest were "generally representing what we describe as local problems."

"There are others who have made bad business judgments, paid too much money for land ... others are seeking publicity and others are driven by old-fashioned greed," Bergland said on ABC-TV's "Good Morning America" program.

Later, in a separate interview before a speech to state agriculture officials, Bergland called the demonstration "an unmitigated disaster."

The police encircled the farm vehicles as they were parked during a rally at the Capitol Monday afternoon. The tactic guaranteed a smooth evening rush hour, and there was no letup today despite the farmers' intention to put the tractors back on the streets.

"We feel like we're in bondage. I don't trust anybody I see out there," said Jerry Hanning, a farmer from near Lansing, Mich.

While the movement tried to get its machines in motion again — claiming a constitutional right to petition the government from the seat of a tractor — the indications were that this time the farmers would find stiff resistance in the government.

While President Carter sympathized with the farmers' cost-price squeeze in a speech, his chief inflation fighter, Alfred Kahn, told reporters the protest did not "bode well" for food prices.

In Congress, Speaker Thomas P. O'Neill said he would listen to the farmers' pleas for government action to insure higher prices although, "I thought we passed a pretty good bill

General Assembly Pauses Today In Memorial To Sen. Tom Garrett

By HERBERT SPARROW
Associated Press Writer

FRANKFORT, Ky. (AP) — The special session of the General Assembly pauses today to remember Senate Majority Leader Tom Garrett, D-Paducah, whose sudden death late Sunday shocked the legislators.

A memorial service was scheduled at noon in the Capitol Rotunda for Garrett, a 17-year veteran of the Senate who was eulogized Monday as an unique and respected leader.

"I can think of the loss of no member which would leave a greater void," said Sen. Joe Prather, D-Vine Grove, the president pro tem of the Senate. "He had an uncanny ability to deal with complex issues in a very minimum of words and deal with them capably."

The House, meantime, is expected to vote today on an amended budget that will combine cuts in agency programs and surplus funds to finance tax cuts expected to be approved later in the week.

The Senate went ahead with its work Monday and passed the first two bills of the four-week-old special session.

The bills passed by the Senate and sent to the governor repeal the requirement that fiscal courts supply space to parole and probation officers and prohibit the state from deducting from net court revenues of local governments moneys received for keeping and dieting prisoners.

The Senate also approved and sent to the governor a House resolution urging the federal Environmental Protection Agency not to take threatened regulatory action that would ban Ohio utilities from buying low-sulphur Kentucky coal.

Passed and sent to the House was a bill to require the state to pay mileage and expenses for sheriffs for arrests and conveyance of misdemeanor offenders upon a warrant issued in another county if the offender is convicted.

The House Monday gave unanimous approval to a bill that would make it easier for the General Assembly to recess and reconvene if necessary to override a governor's veto.

The measure, sponsored by Rep. Joe Clarke, D-Danville, would eliminate pay and expenses when the Legislature is in recess for more than a day.

Clarke's bill — intended to give legislators more power over the fate of their bills — may not be needed, since there appear to be no great rifts developing between the Legislature and Gov. Julian Carroll.

Tax Assistance To Be Offered At Expo Center

Murray taxpayers who need help preparing income tax returns will find free assistance close to home, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Trained volunteers will be at the West Kentucky Livestock and Exposition Center on College Farm Road on Wednesdays from 2 to 5 p.m. to assist those needing help.

The IRS, in cooperation with retired, social and civic organizations, college groups and interested individuals, has established temporary tax assistance offices throughout Kentucky. Volunteers trained by the IRS staff these locations to assist low-income and older Americans with a step-by-step completion of their income tax forms.

Many taxpayers find this volunteer income tax assistance (VITA) preferable to regular IRS taxpayer service offices because VITA locations are more conveniently located and operate on more flexible schedules, an IRS spokesman indicated.

Individuals seeking tax assistance at a VITA location are reminded to bring with them their tax package and all pertinent documents such as W-2 forms and interest statements.

Spring Fashions—

Hot New Spring Designs Are Featured In Men's Designs

By LINDA DEUTSCH
Associated Press Writer
LOS ANGELES (AP) — The
stylemakers in men's fashion flew in from the frozen East this week with trunks full of hot new spring designs and a message for the modern male
— "Don't be a fashion clone."
The Men's Fashion Association,
a network of some 150 designers, unveiled an eclectic collection of business and sports outfits aimed at everyone from stockbrokers to rock stars.

For the conservative gent, there were alternatives to the dark blue business suit — pale "Spring tweeds" subtle enough to offer a change without going wild.

"You can climb up the ladder without looking duller than a financial report in a bad year," said MFA fashion director Chip Tolbert.

"American businessmen are in danger of being turned into an army of fashion clones," Tolbert said, "as if they were being Xeroxed into their clothes every morning."

The high fashion designers who showed business suits urged a little daring. Calvin Klein substituted T-shirts or crew neck sweaters under suits in place of the traditional shirt. Pierre Cardin joined other designers in advocating a new, narrow silhouette for men along with softer, more comfortable fabrics — silk, linen and cotton.

"The key factors to bear in mind this season are the narrowing of lapels and pocket flaps," Tolbert told fashion editors who gathered here for the spring shows. "There is also the minimization of shirt collars and the narrowing of ties."

Tolbert conceded in an interview that "not every man is going to be wearing a two-inch lapel or an inch-wide tie." But he added, "These designs are done as catalysts for the industry."

When it came to sportswear, the designers seemed certain that the American man is ready for a fling.

Whether it was a pink-and-beige jogging suit or a flowing silk shirt by Ursel of Italy, the look was the antithesis of dull.

"Mainstream manufacturers such as Robert Bruce, Don Robbie, and MALE brought on sometimes outrageous numbers such as satin jogging suits, unisex running shorts
and a "surgeon's shirt" modeled exactly like the ones worn in operating rooms with V-necks and short sleeves.

Yvonne Dihe, narrating the Don Robbie show, stunned the stylewatchers by putting white socks on his models.

"This is a very important new look," he insisted. The response, however, was a few muffled giggles.

The impact of athletics was evident in almost every line.
There were uniforms for tennis, running, boating, racquet ball and the new craze — rollerskating.

Al Braselton of MALE said
the new sportswear is aimed at young men whose only concern in life is having fun.

"The highest use of their time is fun," said Braselton.
"They want to be trendy and chic."

For this group, MALE offered a nostalgic line of 1950s-style Hawaiian shirts, embroidered jeans and "hot roller" disco T-shirts with black jeans.

Braselton said he sensed that his fellow designers might not be taking the fashion business very seriously these days. But he offered them a new slogan, which he credited to Oscar Wilde.

"The superficial things," he said, "are the only things that last."

She's Losing Interest Because of His Saving

DEAR ABBY: I'm 33, divorced, and have been dating Gary for two years. He says he loves me and wants to marry me, but I'm not ready for another marriage just yet.
My problem is the way Gary holds on to his money. He's never offered to pay my baby-sitter. (I have two children.)
Twice I've had to ask Gary to lend me money for the sitter because I was short.

Now he wants me to go on an ski vacation with him and expects me to pay all my own expenses — plane fare, lodging, meals and even the ski-lift tickets!

My girlfriends tell me that when they go on trips with their boyfriends, the guys pay for everything. It's not that Gary can't afford to treat me. Far from it. He is very well-heeled.

This money problem is making me resent him. Am I expecting too much? What do you think?

DEAR TROUBLE: Generous he's not. But before you label him a well-heeled heel, consider this. Gary may need to prove to himself that he's not buying your companionship.
Rejoice. If you decide to say goodbye, you'll owe him nothing.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 23-year-old woman who gave birth to a fine, healthy baby boy three weeks ago.
What should I say to women who criticize me for not breast-feeding my baby?

My mother-in-law suggested I tell them I don't have enough milk to nurse my baby, but that isn't the case. My decision was a personal choice, and one I am happy with.

I talked it over with my doctor, and he assured me that a bottle-fed baby gets as much nourishment as a breast-fed baby, and as long as a close physical contact is maintained during feeding time my baby will not suffer feelings of neglect.

Please help me.

DEAR MOTHER: Your honest response: "My decision is a personal choice, and one I am happy with" is far better than the cop-out suggested by your mother-in-law. Use it.

DEAR ABBY: Now that so many couples are living together without marriage, how does one address letters, cards and invitations to both of them?

My wife says if HE is living in HER home, they are addressed Mary Jones and John Brown. But if SHE is living in HIS home, they are addressed John Brown and Mary Jones.
Who is right?

DEAR US: No matter whose home it is, they are addressed alphabetically — each name written on a separate line.
Example:

Mr. John Brown
Ms. Mary Jones

Local Agent Says—

Use Different Kinds Of Soup For Nourishing Meals During Winter

From The Desk of Jean W. Clow
Co. Extension Agent
For Home Economics

During the colder months, nothing can be as satisfying as a thick, steamy bowl of soup.
It's an economical meal because it's a way to plan to use "extra" or leftover foods.

It's not difficult to prepare soup. Use a blender to process vegetables for cream soups and a pressure cooker to speed up cooking fresh or leftover meats for hearty soups.

There is no limit to the number and variety of soups.
But most can be placed in one of three categories. There are thin, clear soups like broths, bouillions and consommés;
thin, light, delicate soups like bisques, thin cream soups and vegetable broths; and thick, hearty soups like chowders made from meat, poultry, fish and/or vegetables.

You may need to thicken
soup to give it more body.
Cereals or flour are good choices.

When using cereals, bring the soup to boil, and reduce the heat again to a simmer as soon as the addition has been made. Stir raw cereal into the soup during the last hour of cooking. For a lighter thickening, add to the original amount of water:

+1 teaspoon barley and 1 cup water.

+1 teaspoon rice and 1 cup water.

+1 teaspoon oatmeal and 1 cup water, or

+½ teaspoon quick-cooking
tapioca and 1 cup water

To thicken cooked soup with flour, add 1½ teaspoons flour for each cup of soup. Make a paste of the flour with twice as much cold stock, milk or water. For example, add 1½ teaspoons flour to 1 tablespoon liquid. Pour the past slowly into the boiling soup while stirring simmer and stir for 5 minutes.

Make your own cream soups
by adding 1 cup of cooked vegetables, meat or fish to 2 cups of thin white sauce. Just follow this recipe.

Thin White Sauce

1 cup milk

1 tablespoon flour

1 tablespoon fat

½ teaspoon salt

Melt shortening in double boiler, add flour and salt and stir until smooth. Add milk and cook until thick. Yield: 1 cup.

Cream Soup

Prepare white sauce using milk or a combination of milk and liquid in which the vegetable, meat or fish was cooked. If desired, dice or puree vegetable. Add vegetable, meat or fish and seasoning to hot white sauce and mix. If soup must stand before serving, cover and hold over hot water.

HEALTH

Second cousin

Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

DEAR DR. LAMB — I have been dating my second cousin and we were thinking of not seeing each other anymore. If we get serious, we would get married and we are concerned about whether our children would be normal. My mother said she has heard of other cases like this and the children were fine. Was this just luck? Please tell me the chances of our children being retarded or having other defects. My grandfather and his mother are brother and sister. This isn't a weird relationship either.

DEAR READER — I don't know whether you're a student of history or not, but in ancient Egypt brothers and sisters in a royal family married each other. Considering what happened to the Egyptian ruling dynasty, that may not be a recommendation for such a practice.

In the animal kingdom,
the way pure breeds are produced, literally, is by "inbreeding."

Children are always the combination of genes from both parents. These inherited characteristics determine whether a child is born with any inherited defects or not.

The positive side of that is that these same inherited characteristics determine how super the offspring may be, too. It follows that if both parents have exceptionally good genes and don't have any defective genes, the children should turn out remarkably well.

The problem is that no one can guarantee you that all of your genes will induce perfect characteristics. Both parents may have some recessive genes that don't affect their own individual characteristics. These recessive, or secondary, genes may by chance be matched in producing an offspring. At that time, the undesirable trait may surface.

The answer to your question really rests in genetic counseling. David Hendin and Joan Marks have a book called "The Genetic Connection: How To Protect Your Family Against Hereditary Disease" which can give you some useful information (William Morrow and Co.,
Inc., 105 Madison Avenue,
New York, NY 10016, $8.95).

This book also contains a list of the genetic counseling centers in the various states.
If you and your cousin have genetic counseling, one of the things the center will want to know is what diseases your families have had in the past.

Finally, if you marry a relative and have children, you could, of course, have tests done during your pregnancy to determine whether or not the baby was healthy or had a defect.

If you find out during the pregnancy that the developing baby has a genetic defect, then you're faced with a "second" decision:
whether or not you wish to continue the pregnancy.
"The Genetic Connection" will give you additional information on how these laboratory tests are done and the techniques available to help you reduce the risk of genetic disease in your children.

There are other things besides genes that affect the baby. The mother-to-be who uses alcohol may damage her baby, whether she drinks too much each day or goes on a couple of binges during pregnancy. Alcohol has other bad effects on your health.

THOSE WHO want to know what alcohol does to the body can send 50 cents with a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for The Health Letter number 1-4.

per, P.O. Box 1551, Radio
City Station, New York, NY

By MRS. W. P. WILLIAMS

Now since February has arrived, we can at least know that winter is passing on. We will have some bad weather in this month, but I can always take that with better grace than that which comes earlier.

Somehow, just knowing we are nearer to spring than we were helps a lot. Meanwhile we will just have to be thankful we do not live where the snow is piled up nearly three feet high, as it is in Chicago.

And really, there is a lot we can be doing during the next few weeks before the time to work outdoors.

Have you started any seedlings or cuttings indoors?
So many house plants need to be topped and the clippings can be rooted. Most of them will root in soil that is kept moist; some of them will root in water. It is an easy way to provide enough plants for a bed or for additional pots.

If you had put aside a box of soil last fall before the ground got cold and wet, it will indeed be an easy task. Small peat pots, already on the market, are perfect to set small seedlings in, as they won't have to be disturbed when they are set in the ground.

Check your tools and see if you need any new ones or any repairs to the old ones. Good tools make garden work so much easier. And don't forget garden gloves; they will save many a scratch or bruise on your hands.

Do spend some time planning. It can save time later and make your spring garden a real pleasure. Even a carelessly arranged garden needs planning. I am not thinking of a formal garden,
but the usual flower beds
around a home.

A formal garden would bore me to death. They are lovely to look at in the yard of a stately mansion or public building, but a garden should reflect its owner. We express ourselves in what we plant, how we plant it and how we care for it. Even the colors we choose show something of our personality. I love to see a garden that expresses the ideas of the owner.

So try it. Think just what sort of a flower you like, what sort of flower beds you would like to have. Pick your colors and make your yard your own. You don't have to please anyone else. Most people do this, and I think that is why our town is one of the prettiest anywhere.

If you have never planted anything before, start with something simple and hardy.
A good shrub or two added
and you can have a beautiful garden.

Happy planting.

Miss Rhonda Towery Is Married To Mr. Rogers

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Franklin Rogers

Miss Rhonda Cheryl Towery, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Richard Towery of Kirksey was married to Ralph Franklin Rogers, son of Mr. and Mrs. Kelton Rogers of Murray, on Friday, Dec. 29, at 1 p.m.

The double ring ceremony was solemnized at the home of the bride's parents in the presence of family members and invited friends and guests with Bro. Alfred Colley Jr.

officiating. A program of wedding music was presented by Miss Angela Manning, friend of the bride couple. An arrangement of yellow and blue daisies accented with lighted candles was placed on the piano.

The vows were exchanged as the wedding party assembled before the living room fireplace, which was decorated with baskets of yellow gladioli, blue daisies, and baby's breath. These were adorned with blue ribbons.

Bride's Dress
Escorted by her father and given in marriage by her parents, the bride was lovely in her floor length gown of dacron polyester organza over taffeta. The Victorian-styled gown featured a stand up collar, front and back lace yokes to which was attached a caplet ruffle edged in lace, and long bishop sleeves with ruffled cuffs. The skirt was fashioned with a flounce hemline circled with lace.

The headpiece designed with a shoulder length veil, was covered with lace medallions and seed pearls. She carried a nosegay of blue daisies, fern, and baby's breath with blue satin streamers tied in love knots.

Mrs. Richela Dawson, sister of the bride, served as matron of honor. She was attired in a floor length gown of baby blue quiana knit. The dress featured an empire waistline with short jacket trimmed in matching beaded lace. Mrs. Dawson carried a hand bouquet of yellow daisies and blue lilly of the valley tied with yellow ribbon.

Dwaine Rogers, brother of the groom, served as best man for the groom. Both the groom and the best man were attired in brown suits and wore carnation boutonnieres.

Mothers of the bride and groom wore corsages of blue carnations accented with yellow. Grandmothers were presented corsages of yellow carnations accented with blue.

Reception
Following the ceremony a reception was held in the dining room of the Towery home.

The serving table was covered with a yellow linen tablecloth edged in lace. An arrangement of blue and yellow daisies with lighted candles was used as a centerpiece. The tiered wedding cake was topped by a heart shaped arch entwined with net, lilly of the valley, and greenery. Centered beneath the arch were white doves and gold wedding rings. Punch, nuts, and mints, were also served.

Assisting with the serving were Lawren Woods, cousin of the bride, and Angela Manning.

After the reception the couple left for a weekend wedding trip. They are now residing in their new home on Murray Route One.

The president's wife was invited to attend the reception and graciously accepted the invitation. Mrs. Johnson was a delegate from the First District of Kentucky to the Democrat Mid-Term Conference. She said she was very grateful to have the opportunity to be a part of the making of the resolutions that will eventually go into the platform of the Democratic party in 1980. Mrs. Johnson said the people of Memphis were very warm and hospitable to the delegates of every state in the United States. Also attending the Memphis convention were Thelma Eckerdt and Billie Ray from Murray.

EDITORIAL

'The Lean Society'

President Carter has mapped out where he thinks he and the nation should go next year. They're headed to fight inflation by tightening the federal budget as well as by wage and price guidelines even though it means some government policies and programs get bumped.

Details of the administration's austerity budget won't be known until Congress gets Carter's message, probably on Jan. 11, but the President seems determined to hold fast to lowering the federal deficit from $39 billion to below $30 billion next year.

It would take $548 billion just to keep what is already in place, however, and with federal revenues projected — perhaps optimistically — at $503 billion in fiscal 1980, the government will face a budget ceiling of $533 billion to meet Carter's deficit pledge.

A $533-billion budget hardly sounds austere, but it takes only simple arithmetic to see that, when all the "givens" are figured in, the government will need to cut into programs once considered inviolate.

The Pentagon's is one budget Carter doesn't want pared back. The United States needs to maintain a strong defense, and besides, the President has vowed to our Western allies that he will increase defense spending. And he also knows a strong commitment to the military will help appease potential critics of a needed strategic arms treaty. That's why he wants 27 cents of every tax dollar, or $123 billion in all, to go for defense, an increase of 3 per cent even after a 7-per cent inflation rate is figured in.

The other big federal spender — the Department of Health, Education and Welfare — is supposed to grow 2.4 per cent after inflation to about $196 billion. Here, as elsewhere in government, increased costs come primarily from the uncontrollable which make up an estimated 75 per cent of all federal spending. As with Social Security and the veterans' program, HEW benefits such as Medicaid and food stamps are "indexed" by law to keep up with inflation and cannot be brought to heel unless Congress comes to its senses.

There should be plenty of butter to go along with the guns, but government hasn't much room to maneuver. The hefty defense and HEW requests are sure to be in for a trim under the old numbers game, even with a budget one administration official describes as turning the Great Society into the Lean Society. But even so, they add up to a squeeze on other federal programs.

And all sorts of special interests will press to make sure they aren't the ones who lose their slice of the federal pie. Already liberals, labor, blacks and local government leaders — key elements of the coalition that helped put Carter in office — have got him to restore $2 billion that was to be cut from jobs, education and health programs. But anyone who thinks these are the only people pleading a cause should take a recount.

Sen. Edward Kennedy (D-Mass.), a potential Carter rival in the 1980 presidential race, is trying to drive home his grand design for national health care, but many moderates also believe some modified plan is needed to blunt rising medical costs and the financial devastation of catastrophic illnesses. Middle-class advocates are expected to agitate again for tuition tax credits and for a broader student loan program while others push tax relief.

There are partisans for tax reform, for welfare reform, for energy programs, transportation, housing, agriculture and the like. And this administration, like others before it, isn't immune to trying to leave its mark by suggesting a few new programs, such as the one proposed to insure wage earners against inflation.

Hard choices must be made political as well as economic, and everyone won't be satisfied. Still, for all the dicker before Congress passes a final budget, federal austerity is the sound choice if this nation's No. 1 problem — inflation — is to be controlled.

Carter has been bucked repeatedly in his efforts at cost containment; government reorganization, to mention only one important area, seems all but moribund.

But this nation cannot afford to keep piling program on top of program and expect taxpayers to pay without question, so that leaves it to fiscal restraint to force constant and critical review of what government does. What works should be kept; what doesn't should be thrown out, which can also bring a savings for private firms burdened by excessive or unnecessary regulation and the paperwork that goes with it.

A tight budget can also help hold the lid on that 8 per cent of the budget going only to service the national debt. The smaller the deficit, the less pressure there is to print money to cover the debt, and the smaller the growth in the money supply, the less fuel there is for inflation.

A pause in the growth of government spending is hardly a symbolic gesture, even in a $2-trillion economy. Inflation hits hardest at those who have the least — the poor and people on fixed incomes — but it also hurts businesses and industries, coupon clippers, the middle class and government itself.

Everyone suffers, which is why the time has come for Washington to back-pedal on policies and programs that stoke the perpetual motion machine of inflation.

Woollie Worms And Ground Hog Aren't Due All The Credit

Even the most pessimistic weather watcher must admit that the severity of the present winter hardly compares with what we experienced in 1977 and 1978 — at least, not yet.

Now, you can give the woollie worms, the ground hog and even the moss on the trees all the credit for this if you want, but I feel I'm due a little of the credit. I have strongly suspected for some time now that we wouldn't have as severe a winter this year simply because I was prepared for the worse.

I'm the world's greatest anticipator of trouble, and this time I was ready for it — insulated boots, tire chains and insulated underwear. Thus far I've used them all to some extent, but, thankfully, not to the maximum.

Since the energy shortage scare a couple years ago, they've kept our offices in Sparks Hall at Murray State at a chilling low temperature much of the time to conserve energy. We are not to mess with the thermostats in any way. A student worker with a clipboard comes around regularly to see if yours is set on the specified 68 degrees.

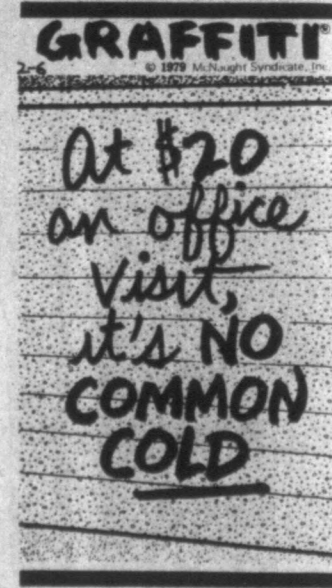

Now 68 degrees is great for golf, painting, laying brick, fishing, hunting, football or horse racing, but it seems about 20 degrees colder than that when you try to work at a desk or peck away at a typewriter in it.

On weekends, the heat in our building has been turned off altogether in even another energy-conserving move, and on some Monday mornings the temperature in my office has been as low as 54 degrees when I came in to work.

I would spend the day at my desk in my overcoat — as did almost everyone in the building. My feet, in a pair of those thin little slippers like men are so daintily wearing nowadays, would almost ache they would be so cold, and my knuckles would snap and crackle as I tried to use the typewriter.

By Tuesday morning, however, the building would have thawed out and would be warm enough for a normal day's work without the overcoats and the distraction to others of the crackling knuckles.

I was determined to be ready this winter for just such circumstances. I wrote Santa Claus for a pair of insulated boots. He didn't disappoint me. They fit beautifully, are toasty warm and I love them.

Thoughts In Season

By Ken Wolf

The next time we are inclined to complement ourselves on our bigheartedness, these words from the French maxim writer La Rochefoucauld (1613-1680) should give us pause:

We freely forgive in our friends those faults which do not affect us. And then this shrewd and slightly cynical nobleman also had a warning for those tempted to righteousness: The very pride that makes us condemn failings from which we think we are exempt leads us to despise good qualities we do not possess.

Next, Fred Workman fixed me up with the thermal underwear, even selling me the tops, and John Emerson ordered in a second set of chains, these to go on the old car as backups for the ones Grogan Roberts gave me last winter.

"Now, let'er blow!" I thought. I was ready for the elements.

Thus far, I've worn the insulated boots fairly regularly. It's still 68 or lower in the office, regardless of what it's like outside, and the feet are the first part of my body to get cold. They've kept them warm.

The underwear I've almost worn out putting it on and taking it off. It's great when I have to be outside, but you can wind up in heated places like church, restaurants and such places and feel like you're wearing an electric blanket set on high.

The chains I've used for three or four days on one car. The ones for the older car have never been on the tires, and let's hope they aren't ever.

Don't misunderstand. I'm not wishing for a more severe winter. Far be it from that. I could happily live the rest of my life and never see another snowflake or icicle. And, if I thought it would keep Old Man Winter away, I'd nail a pair of long johns over the front door.

There is just more to predicting a severe winter than crawling along with a woollie worm, sitting by a ground hog's hole or studying the moss on a tree.

Just get yourself some insulated boots, tire chains and insulated underwear. Then if everybody would put on their thermal underwear at the same time, we could generate enough heat to turn Murray into another Sun City.

Rex Thompson loves to tell about the fellow whose wife asked one day as he was leaving for work, "You know what day this is, don't you?" Rather than admitting he didn't, the fellow left, wondering all the way to the office what was about the day made it so special to his wife.

Deciding to take no chances, he called the florist when he reached his desk and had a dozen roses sent out to his wife. As he was going home in the evening, still puzzled by her parting remark that morning, he stopped and picked up a box of candy for her.

When he handed it to her, he had to give up. "Honey, I give up. I've tried all day to remember what was special about today. It's not our anniversary, and it's not your birthday. What is it?"

"Oh, nothing like that," she laughed, "but it has been the nicest Ground Hog Day of my life!"

General Assembly To Pass Major Legislation In Final Days

By RICHARD WEISENBERGER

As the special session of the General Assembly moves toward adjournment, it is apparent that a number of major pieces of legislation will be passed. Summarized briefly, they are:

— Removal of the 5 percent sales tax from residential utilities, representing an annual savings to taxpayers of some $50 million annually.

— A reduction of District Court fines and costs averaging about $15 per offense.

— Limitation of property tax growth to either four or five percent per year. The measure applies to state, local and school tax on real estate. It excludes "new growth" from the computation, meaning new subdivisions and new construction. Another feature of the bill provides that if a local government — such as a city council, fiscal court or school district — proposes to raise property-tax revenue from assessments on existing property by more than the maximum, voters can protest the action by petition and force it to a local election.

— A change in current law making welfare fraud a felony rather than a misdemeanor. This badly needed legislation is expected to curtail drastically a widespread practice which is estimated to be costing millions in state and federal money. The Human Resources Department began to crackdown last summer, only to find court decisions ruling that the crime was a mere misdemeanor.

— A measure to allow fiscal courts in small counties to petition the circuit court for an order closing the county jail where it is shown that it is economically unfeasible. In such cases, prisoners would be transferred to a jail in an adjoining county.

— A bill tightening up the capital construction fund by requiring specific allocations of funds to specific projects and prohibiting expenditure of such funds where the projected cost overrun the estimate by more than 10 percent. Senate hearings on the capital construction fund revealed that the legislature traditionally appropriates budget money far short of the cost of projects approved, meaning that the governor is left to decide which ones actually are built. The cost overrun provision is designed to prevent agencies from purposely underestimating the cost of projects on the theory that they stand a better chance of being approved, only to reveal later that the true cost will be substantially more.

There are a number of minor bills to be passed, and I will be happy to discuss any of them personally with you. You can phone me at our toll-free number (1-800-372-7196).

The Story Of

Calloway County

1822-1976 By Dorothy and Kirby Jennings

Copyright, 1978

John C. Waters' report titled "A Civil War General" in the brief "History of Calloway County-1931" reveals the particulars of Col. Thompson's death. It reads in part:

"Col. Thompson was struck by a cannonball fired from a gunboat while he was sitting on his horse near Trimble and Fifth streets, while he was talking with several fellow officers. The shot struck him about the pommel of the saddle and killed him instantly. The horse ran for half a block and fell dead. Thompson's body lay on Trimble Street where he was killed until the morning after the battle of Paducah. Late in the morning the body was found badly mangled and was removed and prepared for burial, which took place in Oak Grove Cemetery in Paducah. Thus a young man, seemingly just ready to begin his life's most successful career, was killed at the early age of 35 years and 22 days. . . . The Confederate Army suffered a loss of 37 men with 19 wounded."

Further Waters reports: "After the close of the war Thompson's body was removed from Oak Grove Cemetery and brought to Murray where it was given its final resting place in Bowman Cemetery on the Murray-Paducah highway. This burial plot is a rather neglected place, and is the burial place of some 25 or 30 members of the Thompson, Harding, and Bowman families."

The identification inscription on Col. Thompson's 10-foot high tombstone reads: "General A. P. Thompson, 3rd Ky. Brigade, Fell at Paducah, March 25, 1864, Age 35 Years, 22 Days."

In updating the foregoing data, the Bowman Cemetery is located on North 4th Street and no longer is it the Murray-Paducah Highway. In addition, the cemetery has been incorporated within the city limits of Murray and is maintained with the same care as that of the Murray Cemetery as provided by the city ordinance to maintain all cemeteries within the city limits. No evidence has been presented as of this date that indicates Col. Thompson's rank higher than that of colonel and it is assumed the elevation was more out of respect than an official act of the U. S. A.

The schools of Calloway County are not qualified to receive extra financial aid from the state, according to a report made by the Kentucky Tax Commissioner to Calloway County Judge Pink Curd. Property assessments in this county are too low, the commissioner stated, to justify an allocation of funds from the equalization system. The total assessment should be doubled, the report said.

Certain Tests Apply to Qualify as a Dependent

For a person to qualify as your dependent, the following five tests must be met:

- Support Test—you must furnish more than half the person's support during the calendar year.
- Gross Income Test—his or her gross income for the year must be under $750 (if he does not apply to your child who is under age 19 or is a full-time student).
- Member of Household or Relationship Test—if a person is a member of your household and lives with you for the entire year, the person need not be related to you for you to claim that individual's exemption.
- Citizenship Test—your dependent must be a U.S. citizen or resident, or a resident of Canada or Mexico for some part of the year you claim the exemption.
- Joint Return Test—you are not allowed an exemption for your dependent (such as your son or daughter) if he or she files a joint return unless the individual and his or her spouse are not required to file a return but do so only to claim a refund of tax withheld.

Students, Others May be Exempt from Tax Withholding, IRS Says

Employees, particularly students, who had no tax liability in 1978 and expect to have none this year can claim exemption from withholding of Federal income tax by making the proper notation on Form W-4, "Employee's Withholding Allowance Certificate." These employees will have no Federal income tax withheld on wages paid during the year, the Internal Revenue Service said.

The advantage to the individual, according to the IRS, is that he or she will not have to file a return solely to claim a refund. However, claiming exemption from withholding of Federal income tax has no effect on a taxpayer's liability for payment of social security (FICA) tax.

The exemption from withholding expires on April 30 of each year unless a new Form W-4 is filed before that date.

If an employee does not file Form W-4, the employer is required by law to withhold income tax without permitting any allowances.

Requirements for Filing 1978 Tax Return Set Forth

In addition, you will have to file an income tax return if any of the three following requirements apply:

- You received tips from which social security tax was not withheld, even if your gross income was less than $2,950;
- You were in business for yourself and had net earnings of $400 or more from that business. This is called "self-employment income"; or,
- You had unearned income of $750 or more, such as dividends or interest from savings accounts, and can be claimed as a dependent by your parents. This is particularly important to students.

The following chart, based on filing status, shows the minimum amount of gross income which must be received in 1978 before a return is required to be filed:

Single (age 65 or over).....	$2,950
Married filing a joint return.....	$3,700
Married filing a joint return (one spouse age 65 or over).....	$4,700
Married filing a joint return (both spouses age 65 or over).....	$5,450
Surviving spouse (Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child).....	$6,200
Surviving spouse (Qualifying widow(er) without dependent child).....	$750
Head of household (Qualifying widow(er) with dependent child).....	$3,950

Good Records Can Assist Homeowners at Tax Time

Records of transactions relating to residential property are important to establish a basis for the cost of the property. Records should be retained for as long as they provide evidence in determining the value basis of property owned by a taxpayer, the Internal Revenue Service advised.

For tax purposes, good records will assist taxpayers in adjusting the amount the original cost of the property has increased or reduced during their ownership. Adjustments to the original base cost of the property must have been made during the year the taxpayer owned the property. Records of these adjustments should include internal improvements such as an added bedroom or den, structural additions like aluminum siding, losses arising from fire or other casualty, and payments for any easements or entrance rights granted.

Property on which the home is located is considered the principal residence of the taxpayer. However, only that portion of the property used exclusively for residential purposes can be used for postponement of tax gains if a new principal residence is purchased.

Surviving Spouse

In many cases, when a spouse dies, the survivor may use the tax rates that apply to a joint return for two tax years following the year of death. But these rates may be used only if the survivor has not remarried and maintains in his or her home a son, daughter, stepson, or stepdaughter for whom he or she is entitled to a dependency exemption.

Use Label, Envelope Provided in Package

Taxpayers can speed the processing of their returns and receive their refunds more quickly by using the pre-addressed IRS envelope and peel-off label provided in the tax package mailed to them. Both envelope and label are specially coded to save the IRS extra steps in processing and get the refund to the taxpayer more quickly.

Taxpayers should make any corrections to a name, address, or social security number directly on the label. The IRS advises taxpayers to show their apartment number, if they have one, on the label.

If a husband and wife file a joint return and use different last names, they should separate the last names with an "and" — such as "Brown and Smith."

Tax Instructions Made Easier

The tax instructions that millions of Americans use this year to prepare their Federal tax return should be easier to understand, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Although the instructions have been rewritten the IRS says that Forms 1040 and 1040A are not much different from last year. Independent national surveys have shown overwhelming taxpayer opposition to repeated changes to the forms, the sentiment being Don't change them again. Just learned how to do it.

The instructions are complex because they reflect a complex tax law, the IRS says, but it is making a determined effort to eliminate as much of the confusion and technical jargon as possible.

This year, for example, the IRS hired a readability consultant to rewrite the instructions and recommended simplifying them wherever possible. This meant using simpler words and reducing the number of long, confusing sentences. In addition, information that the taxpayer needs first is presented first.

The result, which has been favorably received on taxpayers across the country, is a less cluttered appearance and subject matter set up in a line-by-line format. And the instructions are clearly numbered and correspond to line numbers on the tax forms. Also, there is less cross-indexing of subject matter, sparing most taxpayers from having to flip back and forth between pages within the instructions.

Instructions can also be invaluable, according to the IRS, because they can alert taxpayers to overlooked deductions, such as the transportation costs to and from a doctor's office or the rental of a safety deposit box if income-producing items, such as stocks or bonds, are stored in it.

Excess itemized deductions to arrive at their tax liability income. Excess itemized deductions are the amount by which total itemized deductions exceed the zero bracket amount. For example, a married couple filing jointly, with itemized deductions of $5,500, would subtract their zero bracket amount of $3,200 from the $5,500 in order to determine their excess itemized deductions of $2,300.

Although adjusted gross income is reduced by only the excess itemized deductions, all deductions are allowed. This is because the zero bracket amount is incorporated into the Tax Tables and the Tax Rate Schedules.

Itemized deductions are nonbusiness deductions. If you itemize your deductions, you must file Form 1040 and fill in Schedule A (Form 1040). Schedule A provides space for listing deductible medical and dental expenses, charitable contributions, taxes, interest paid, casualty or theft losses, and miscellaneous items such as union dues.

If you itemize, you must keep a record of your deductible items, including cancelled such as a car, truck, or boat, or materials purchased to build a new home, generally can be deducted in addition to the table amount. Personal property taxes assessed by some states, especially on cars, may be deductible if they are based on the value of the property and imposed annually.

The 1978 Optional Sales Tax Tables and State Gasoline Tax Tables are convenient for determining the amount you may be able to deduct for those taxes. No Federal taxes are deductible on your Federal income tax return.

In general, the IRS says that interest deductions must meet the following tests: the interest must result from an actual debt; the interest must be paid to a lender or creditor; the interest must be on a sum of money, and the debt must be one for which you are legally liable.

This includes such debts as a car loan, a bank loan, an educational loan, or a mortgage on your home. However, if in 1978 you prepaid interest allocable to any period after 1978, you can only deduct the amount of interest allocable to 1978 on your return.

If you buy such things as clothing, a radio or TV set, furniture, household appliances or an installment plan or a budget change account or credit card that lists a finance charge, you may treat the finance charge payment as interest.

Charitable Contributions

Generally, you may deduct contributions you paid to any qualified organization established and operated exclusively for charitable, religious, educational, scientific, or literary purposes, or for the prevention of cruelty to children or animals; to fraternal organizations if the contributions are used for charitable purposes; to veterans' organizations; or to governmental agencies that will use the gifts exclusively for public purposes.

This means that you may deduct your contributions to most religious organizations, a community fund, Boy Scouts, the YMCA, the Red Cross, the cancer association, CARE, Veterans of Foreign Wars, etc. You may not deduct contributions to civic leagues or chambers of commerce.

If you donate property other than money, the IRS expects you to base your deduction on the fair market value of the property; that is, the amount you could reasonably charge if you were selling the property.

Bear in mind that a contribution is only a contribution at the time of its delivery. Pledges are not contributions until you make payment. Also, if a contribution results in a personal benefit, all or part of it may not be deductible. For example, if you buy a $50 ticket for a church benefit and receive a meal at the function worth $15, you can only claim $35 as a charitable contribution.

Taxpayers Should Check Withholding Information

The Federal income tax system operates on the principle that an employer generally must withhold income tax from each employee's pay in each pay period. One factor used in determining the amount of tax to be withheld is the number of allowances claimed by the employee on Form W-4, Employer's Withholding Allowance Certificate.

In addition to one allowance for each personal exemption, you also may qualify for the special withholding allowance. This allowance may be claimed if you are a single person with only one employer or a married person with only one employer and whose spouse is not employed.

Withholding allowances also may be claimed on Form W-4 for certain deductions and credits.

Many employees have too much tax withheld, and, as a result, have unnecessary reductions in take-home pay by failing to use the allowances available to them such as the special withholding allowance, according to the Internal Revenue Service.

Each time you begin work with a new employer, you should fill out and file with your employer a Form W-4. You should claim the number of allowances to which you are entitled. Your employer will use the number of allowances you claim on Form W-4 in using withholding tables prepared by the Federal Government. Based on your income, your employer will determine how much income tax is to be withheld from each paycheck. The total amount withheld during the year should approximate your Federal tax liability.

The IRS advises employers that they should contact their local IRS office in event an employee appears to have submitted a fraudulent W-4 form, such as the number of exemptions claimed appear to be far in excess of the actual exemptions.

For Taxpayers Who Itemize Deductions

Miscellaneous Deductions

These deductions include such items as union dues, the cost of safety equipment, tools, and supplies used in your job including professional and trade journals, and expenses incurred in seeking new employment in the same trade or business. Job hunting expenses are not deductible if you're seeking employment in a new field of work.

Under the category of miscellaneous deductions you can also deduct the rent on your safety deposit box if you keep income-producing items in it, such as stocks and bonds. Taxpayers who hire someone to prepare their tax return can also deduct the fee paid to the preparer.

While the IRS encourages as many taxpayers as possible to use the simpler 1040A form, there will be millions of taxpayers who will find it to their advantage to itemize deductions on the 1040 form.

Generally, you will benefit from itemizing deductions if you paid interest and taxes on a home you own, had unusually large uninsured medical and dental expenses during the year, made large contributions to qualified charitable organizations, or had major uninsured casualty losses. What this means is that you will probably have itemized deductions totaling more than the zero bracket amount appropriate to your filing status.

Taxpayers who itemize deductions must reduce their adjusted gross income by their

Employers Must Provide W-2 Forms for Wages Paid

Whether or not you are required to file an income tax return, your employer must provide you with a "Wage and Tax Statement," by January 31.

Taxpayers who have not received their Wage and Tax Statements by that date, or a reasonable time thereafter, should notify their local Internal Revenue Service office. The Wage and Tax Statement provides a record of the wages you were paid, wages that were subject to income tax withholding, and the amount of Federal income tax withheld. It also shows the amount of social security (FICA) tax that was withheld from your pay, and any uncollected employee tax on tips.

If you were employed for only part of the year, you should receive the statement from your employer within 30 days after you leave your job. If you work for more than one employer during the year, each should furnish you with a statement for the period you worked.

Taxpayers who have not received their statements by the January 31 deadline and who wish to file must attach an explanation on a separate sheet of paper. The statement should include your employer's name and address, the total wages you received, and the amount of income tax withheld from your pay. If you are not sure of these amounts you should estimate them to the best of your knowledge.

If you receive a Wage and Tax Statement on which any of the entries are incorrect, you should ask your employer to issue a new one that is clearly marked "Corrected by Employer." You should then file the proper copy of the corrected statement with your completed return, along with copies of any other statements you may have received.

Dependency Tax Regulations Differ for Separated, Divorced Parents

Separated and divorced parents are subject to certain tax regulations when claiming children as dependents, the Internal Revenue Service has advised.

Since each child can be claimed by only one parent, generally, the parent with custody of the child for the greater part of the year is entitled to the dependency deduction.

But there are two exceptions to the rule based upon terms of the divorce decree or other agreement and the amount contributed to the child's support by the parent without custody. Divorced or separated parents should check the details of these exceptions in their tax instructions before either parent claims the children as dependents.

Additional information is available free in IRS Publication 501, Your Exemptions and Exclusions for Dependents, and IRS Publication 504, Tax Information for Divorced or Separated Individuals, by filling out the order blank in the tax package.

Dividends Must be Reported on Tax Return, IRS Advises

A husband and wife each may exclude from income up to $100 of the dividends each of them received during the year. However, neither may use any part of the other's exclusion. If one of them has dividends of less than $100, the exclusion will be the actual amount of the dividends received, and the other's exclusion will be no more than $100.

The first $100 of total ordinary dividends received from qualifying corporations is excluded from taxable income. Qualifying corporations are taxable corporations created in the United States under the laws of the United States or of a state.

THIS IS A 'HOW TO' AD

How to increase your savings...

1. At the end of the day, set aside every dime or quarter in your pocket or purse to be added to savings.
2. Cut out one or more luxuries and put the money into savings instead.
3. When you get overtime pay, save it.
4. Put your income tax refund check, or other special income into savings. Or if you can't do that, save half of it.
5. Once in a while go on a "crash" savings program for a week or month.
6. Plan ahead for larger expenses so they won't put you "in the hole."
7. Decide to add a fixed amount to savings every payday, before you spend. In other words, pay yourself first.
8. Remember Home Federal, because we pay the HIGHEST interest rates with the LOWEST minimum deposits allowed by federal law on savings plans that are insured up to $40,000 by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation.

Political Contributions Can Reduce Taxes, IRS Says

Itemize deductions on Schedule A of Form 1040. If you take the credit, enter the lesser of the amount of your tax or your allowable credit on your return. Remember, the deduction and credit are mutually exclusive; only one can be chosen.

Exemptions Allowed

An exemption is a set amount which is deducted in figuring taxable income. The regular exemption is $750 and is allowed for the taxpayer, his or her spouse, and his or her dependents.

In addition, there are exemptions for age and blindness. The age and blindness exemptions may be claimed only for the taxpayer and his or her spouse, not for a dependent.

A citizen or resident of the United States who is 65 or older by the end of the year is allowed an additional exemption of $750. Taxpayers are considered 65 on the day before their 65th birthday.

Citizens or residents of the United States are allowed an additional exemption of $750 for blindness if they are blind at the close of the tax year. Persons losing their sight late in the year are entitled to the exemption for the entire year.

A person is considered blind, for tax purposes, if the central visual acuity does not exceed 20/200 in the better eye with corrective lenses, or the widest diameter of the visual field is no greater than 20 degrees.

Taxpayers who desire additional information on the subject of exemptions should use the mail-order form in their tax packages to request the free IRS Publication 501, "Your Exemptions and Exemptions for Dependents."

Educational Costs May Be Deductible

You may, under certain conditions, deduct the educational expenses you incur in your employment, trade, or business.

To qualify, these expenses must:

- Meet the express requirements of your employer or requirements of law or regulations, for keeping your salary, status, or employment, if the requirements imposed serve a bona fide business purpose of your employer; or

- Maintain or improve skills required in performing the duties of your present employment or other trade or business. You may not deduct expenses for education that:

- You need to meet the minimum educational requirements for qualification in your employment or other trade or business; or
- Are part of a program of study that will lead to qualifying you in a new trade or business, even though the education maintains or improves skills required in your employment or other trade or business, or meets the requirements of your employer or of applicable law or regulations.

Educational expenses include amounts spent for tuition, books, supplies, laboratory fees, and similar items, and certain travel and transportation costs. Educational expenses are an itemized deduction and are shown on Schedule A (Form 1040) as a miscellaneous deduction.

Additional information on educational expenses appears in IRS Publication 508, "Tax Information on Educational Expenses," available free from local IRS offices or by using the mail-order form in your tax package.

Tax Returns Must Show Correct Filing Status

Thus, if one spouse itemizes deductions, it isn't necessary for the other to itemize. Although married, you may file as a single person if all of the following tests are met:

- you file a separate return;
- you paid more than half the cost of maintaining your home for the tax year;
- your spouse did not live in your home at any time during the tax year;
- for more than six months of the tax year, your home was the principal residence of your child or stepchild whom you can claim as a dependent.

In another situation, you may file as head of household and, although married, check unmarried head of household as your filing status if your home was the principal residence for your child or stepchild for the entire tax year.

Although married, you and your spouse may elect to file jointly or separately. The tax may be lower if you file a joint return, because the tax computation for it splits the joint income reported and uses a lower tax rate. A joint return must include all income, exemptions and deductions of both spouses. Both must use the same accounting period but may use different accounting methods. The husband and wife must sign a joint return.

When each spouse had income, they may file separate returns instead of a joint return. Each should report only their own income, exemptions and deductions on the individual return. When each spouse files a separate return and one itemizes deductions, the other must also itemize.

If both spouses earned income during the tax year, compute the taxes on a joint return and on separate returns to determine which method produces the lower tax.

Head of Household. You can file in this status, and compute the tax using the special Tax Rate Schedule Z or Tax Table D, if you meet all of the following requirements:

- you were married on the last day of the year;
- you maintained a household and contributed over half the cost of maintaining it;
- your household was the principal residence for at least one relative for the entire year.

Qualifying Widows and Widowers. If either spouse died, the surviving spouse is entitled to file a joint return for the year of death and may be entitled to similar benefits for the two following years. For this special benefit, you must meet all of the following requirements:

- you were entitled to file a joint return with your spouse for the year of death;
- you did not remarry before the close of the tax year;
- you have a child or stepchild who qualifies as your dependent for the tax year;
- you furnished more than half the cost of maintaining the home, which was the principal residence of your dependent child or stepchild for the entire year.

If you file as a qualifying widow or widower with dependent child for 1978, you must use Form 1040. Include only your tax package.

Choosing a Preparer

The IRS tries to make the tax forms and instructions less complicated so that more taxpayers can prepare their own returns. However, some taxpayers may require a professional tax return preparer to do the work for them.

For these taxpayers the IRS offers guidance on selecting a reputable preparer, since the taxpayer is solely responsible for the accuracy and completeness of his or her tax return.

A taxpayer should be suspicious of a preparer who claims to have IRS connections or claims to use the same computer return from the preparer.

system as the IRS, possesses inside knowledge, or knows all the angles. The IRS also discourages taxpayers from using any preparer who guarantees refunds, or bases the preparation fee on a percentage of the expected refund. And of course, taxpayers should never sign a blank return or one prepared in pencil.

The law now requires preparers to sign returns they prepare and include their identification numbers. Taxpayers should double check their returns for these requirements and be sure to get a copy of the final return from the preparer.

Political Contributions Can Reduce Taxes, IRS Says

Taxpayers have the choice of claiming an itemized deduction or a tax credit, but can't claim both. For contributions to candidates for public office and political committees and to newsletter funds of candidates and elected public officials.

The Internal Revenue Service advises that the deduction is limited to $100 ($200 for a joint return). Half of the contribution may be taken as a tax credit limited to $25 ($50 for a joint return). The credit cannot exceed the amount of your tax.

To claim the deduction the taxpayer must

Some Must Pay Estimated Tax

The pay-as-you-go feature of the Federal income tax system requires employers to withhold income tax on salary and wages paid to their employees.

This same principle applies to employees and self-employed individuals who have income that is not subject to withholding or from which not enough tax is being withheld. These individuals must file the "Declaration of Estimated Tax," Form 1040-ES, and pay in four equal installments, or a lump sum, the income and self-employment tax estimated to be due. The first installment, however, must accompany the declaration.

The Internal Revenue Service provides Estimated Tax Declaration Vouchers for the taxpayer to use to make declarations of estimated tax and to pay the installments as they come due. The taxpayer mails the installment and a numbered declaration voucher in a pre-addressed envelope to the Internal Revenue Service Center by the due date for that installment.

In general, a declaration is not required to be filed if you expect that your 1978 Form 1040 or Form 1040A will show (1) a tax refund, or (2) a tax balance due of less than $100.

Taxpayers May Request Filing Extension

The following has been prepared by the Internal Revenue Service to assist taxpayers who may have questions concerning extensions of time to file:

- Q: I have been travelling for my business and haven't been home to work on my tax forms. Can I get extra time to file my return?
- A: Yes, the IRS grants an automatic two-month extension of time to file a tax return. Just fill out, in duplicate, Form 4868, "Application for Automatic Extension of Time to File U.S. Individual Income Tax Return." On the form, make a tentative tax estimate for the year, pay the amount, and file the original of the application.

How a Federal Tax Return is Processed

Each year about 13 million returns are received in each of Internal Revenue's 10 Data Processing Service Centers. To process these returns, IRS uses a complex Automatic Data Processing (ADP) system. Tax returns are processed through Service Center Branches, each of which perform a different operation "on the tax return," much like a factory assembly line.

First, returns are sorted by envelope, then they are removed from the envelopes, any payments deposited, then sorted further. In another part of the Service Center, each tax return is given a Document Locator Number (DLN).

After the returns are sorted, numbered and manually checked by examiners for such errors as unallowable deductions, they are coded for conversion to magnetic tape. The computer checks returns for mathematical accuracy and prints out error messages for those returns which have been identified as possibly having errors.

The magnetic tapes containing records of taxpayer returns are sent to the National Computer Center in Martinsburg, WV for inclusion in the Master File and for preparation of magnetic tapes containing taxpayer refund data or bills and notices. Taxpayer refund tapes are forwarded to Treasury Regional Disbursing Offices, which send out refunds. The bills and notices tapes are returned to the Service Center for printing and mailing bills and notices to taxpayers.

Normally, if you overpaid your tax, you should expect a refund within 4 to 10 weeks after filing, depending upon the month in which you filed the return. The later you file the longer you wait for the refund.

However, if you made an error on the return, this period may be extended by several weeks. For example, if the signature or social security number is omitted from the return, the Service Center must write to you to get the missing information before the return can be processed. This requires not only time for mailing, but also time to get the return back into processing after the information is received. Such errors in the preparation of a tax return can delay a refund several additional weeks even if you promptly provide the requested information.

Late Filers Face Interest Penalties

This year taxpayers must file their returns on or before April 15, since April 15 falls on a Sunday. What happens if a taxpayer doesn't meet this deadline?

When a taxpayer does not file a return by the due date, the IRS can impose a penalty of five percent of tax due for each month, or part of a month, that the return remains unfilled, up to a maximum penalty of 25 percent.

Payments of taxes due should be made with the tax return when it is filed. The IRS can charge interest on taxes not paid on or before the due date, even if an extension of time for filing is granted.

In addition, the IRS can set a penalty of one-half of one percent of the unpaid taxes for each month, or part of a month, beyond the due date that the tax remains unpaid. The maximum penalty is 25 percent.

Additional information on filing deadlines appears in IRS Publication 509, Tax Calendar and Checklist for 1979, available free from local IRS offices or by using the mail-order form in your tax package.

Tax Tables Reflect Set Amounts

For about 96 percent of taxpayers, Congress has designated a minimum amount of income that is not subject to taxation. This amount is called the zero bracket amount. The zero bracket is automatically reflected in the Tax Tables.

Congress also has allowed $750 for each exemption. For taxpayers who can use the Tax Tables, the exemption allowance also is computed into the tables.

The zero bracket amount is based on a taxpayer's filing status as follows:

- Married filing joint return: $3,200
- Qualifying widow(er), with dependent child: $3,200
- Single: $2,200
- Unmarried head of household: $2,200
- Married filing separately: $1,600

If you are single, with no dependents, you automatically are allowed $750 for your exemption and $2,200 for your zero bracket amount for a total of $2,950, the minimum amount at which most single taxpayers are required to file a return.

In addition, there is a law that temporarily allows a general tax credit. This credit also is computed into the Tax Tables. Therefore, you will notice in the Tax Table for a single individual that a tax liability is not imposed until the individual's income is $3,200. However, you are still required to file a return if your income is at the minimum level for your filing status.

Taxpayers Can Again Contribute To Fund

You can tell the Internal Revenue Service to turn over $1 of your tax to the 1980 Presidential Election Campaign Fund by checking the appropriate box or boxes on your income tax return. On a joint return the election to make this designation is available to both spouses. Also on a joint return, one taxpayer can contribute the dollar while the other declines, or both may decline.

This election will not change any of the figures entered on your income tax return. For example, the tax you owe will not be reduced or increased nor will the refund, if applicable, be reduced or increased.

Social security benefits received, monthly or in a lump sum, from the Federal Government or from a State under the Federal social security program, are not taxable income. This applies whether you receive the benefits because you are of qualified age, are disabled, or are the dependent of a qualified worker.

Interest Considered Taxable Income

Interest you receive must be included in your income, the Internal Revenue Service said. This is true of interest on your savings account in a bank, a credit union, or a savings and loan association (even though the association refers to the payment as a "dividend"), and interest from any other source unless it is expressly exempt from tax by law.

Interest on U.S. Savings Bonds is taxable income. You can elect, however, to report the interest each year as it is earned, or the year you cash the bonds.

You pay tax on interest in the year it is received or available for payment to you. For example, you are taxed on year-end bank interest when it is credited to your savings account, even though you do not present your passbook to have it entered.

Retired Taxpayers Can Avoid Estimated Tax Payments

Estimated tax payments are no longer necessary if a retired taxpayer files a Form W-4P to have Federal income tax withheld on each pension and annuity payment, the Internal Revenue Service advised.

The taxpayer will not have to file a declaration of estimated tax, nor will he or she have to pay a large sum of money at one time, if he or she files a Form W-4P, Annuity's Request for Federal Income Tax Withholding, and has the proper amount of income tax withheld.

The only requirement for filing a W-4P form is that at least $5 per month be withheld and the net annuity be more than $10. Then, the taxpayer must only file an annual tax return on or before April 15, in 1979 according to the IRS.

If a retiree does not file a W-4P, and receives pension payments or other incomes which are subject to tax, he or she must file a declaration of estimated income tax, Form 1040-ES, when the estimated tax is $100 or more and estimated gross income includes more than $500 on which no tax has been withheld.

Payment is then made either in full when the Form 1040-ES is filed or in equal installments beginning with filing the form, the IRS said.

Form 1040-A

You may use Form 1040-A if all your income was from wages, salaries, tips, and other employee compensation, and not more than $400 in dividends or $400 in interest and you do not have itemized deductions in excess of your zero bracket amount.

Tech Earns A Portion Of OVC Lead As Racers Dropped 81-69

By TONY WILSON
Sports Editor
COOKEVILLE, Tenn. — Cliff Malpass seemed to relish what he was saying. "One, I'm proud that we were able to do it after being picked so low; and two, we won without playing one of our better ballgames."

What his team — Tennessee Tech — did was defeat Murray State 81-69 in Eblen Center

last night to edge into a tie for first place in the Ohio Valley Conference.

Both Tech and Eastern Kentucky, which fell to Western Kentucky in Richmond 78-77 last night, own 6-2 conference marks with four games left to play.

For Murray, though, it meant a fifth consecutive loss, its 11th straight defeat on the road this season and its 18th loss against three victories. The latter, eclipses the previous Racers record of 17 losses in a single season, accomplished by both the 1975-76 and last year's team.

Tennessee Tech was picked to finish last in the conference in a preseason poll of OVC coaches. But, thanks largely to the play of its sophomores and freshmen, the Golden Eagles have been the surprise of the league.

Last night, it was Abuls who did the most damage to the Racers' hopes for their first triumph away from home. He hit 8-of-14 shots from the field and all eight of his free throws for a game-high 24 points.

Greene, though, had some choice words for the officials, especially Robert Bell. "I walked in and saw him (Bell)," said Greene, "and I said 'Oh, no, not again.' I couldn't believe we got him again."

It was Bell who whistled Greene with a technical foul midway through the second half, enabling Abuls to hit to sink four straight free throws — off John Randall's fourth foul and the technical — and give Tech a 55-42 edge.

John McNish' charity toss nine seconds later gave the Eagles their 12th straight point after owning just a 44-42 edge. The Racers were never any closer than nine points thereafter.

Though Malpass felt the technical and subsequent free throws were important, he pointed to an announcement that came over the public address system as a real turning point.

With 9:46 remaining and Tech holding a 56-46 edge, Eastern's loss to Western was announced, and the crowd of 3,000 responded with its biggest outburst of sound of the night.

"I think after that was as close as we came to playing fired-up basketball all night," said Malpass.

Freshman Kenney Hammonds scored 22 points to lead Murray, and it was his free throw that gave the Racers an early 7-0 edge. Tech was scoreless for nearly six minutes before Abuls hit a jumper from the left corner.

The Eagles went on to outscore Murray 10-2 over the next three minutes for their first advantage at 10-9. The lead changed hands twice before Terrence Roberts, who finished with 12 points, hit two free throws to give Tech the lead for good, 14-13 with 8:25 left.

The Racers managed to pull within a basket twice in the second half, the last time at 44-42 on Keith Oglesby's layup. But that marked the end of Murray's scoring for three minutes and the beginning of the Eagles' 12-0 spree.

"We're playing as hard as we have all season," said Greene. "But the balls just continue to roll off the rim for us. It's frustrating."

"I know what he's going through," Malpass said in reference to Greene. "He's having to endure the same thing that I did my first year here. In 1976-77, Malpass' first season, Tech finished 7-19 overall and 1-13 in conference play.

"But I've also known Ron a long time," he said. "And I know he will get the job done. Some things just take time."

Tech, 9-11 overall, still has three difficult road games ahead in Middle Tennessee Saturday, Western Kentucky Feb. 12 and Morehead Feb. 17. The Eagles close their conference schedule at home against Eastern Kentucky Feb. 19.

Murray, 1-6 in the OVC, hosts the first of three straight conference games Saturday against Morehead in the Sports Arena.

Tiger Girls Jump Ahead Early, But Marshals Triumph 53-45

Murray High had scored 26 points by halftime against Marshall County last night, and center Tonya Alexander was credited with 17.

The Tigers scored 19 in the second half, and Alexander owned none.

That, in part, was a big reason for Marshall County's 53-45 triumph over district foe Murray last night that dropped the Tigers to 7-5 and handed them their second straight loss.

Guard Jaina Washer pumped in eight of her 10 points in the second half to help keep Murray close, but the Marshals jumped to leads as large as 12-50-38 with 3:40 left — before running their season mark to 12-2.

"Whenever we were close enough to tie or go ahead," said Murray coach

Rick Fisher, "we would give them the ball on a turnover. We weren't mentally sharp."

The Tigers led by seven points twice in the first quarter, the last time at 11-4 with four minutes remaining. After the Marshals scored repeatedly to pull with 13-12, Candy Jackson sank a basket to push Murray back out by three to end the first period.

Marshall County took the lead for good on 6-2 center Barbara Faughn's short jumper, giving the visitors an 18-17 advantage with 6:27 left in the half. They led 29-26 at the half.

Rhysa Griffith chipped in nine points for the Tigers and trailed only Alexander (14) in rebounds with nine.

Murray even outscored the Marshals by two points

UK Rallies Past Ole Miss

By the Associated Press
OXFORD, Miss. — Freshman Chuck Verderber didn't accomplish much in the first half against Mississippi, but the 6-foot-6 freshman proved to be the difference in the second half.

Trailing by 11 points early in the second half, Kentucky rallied behind Verderber's 13 second-half points to take an 87-82 Southeastern Conference basketball victory over Mississippi.

"Our comeback is like coming back from the dead," said Kentucky Coach Joe Hall. "I credit Chuck Verderber for waking us up."

"He gave us the spark in the second half," Hall added. "He woke us up with his aggressiveness. Someone had to, and he led by example."

Trailing 50-39, Kentucky outscored the Rebels 29-11 over the next nine minutes for a 68-61 lead midway through the final half. Verderber, who finished with 16 points, scored all of his second half points during that run.

Ole Miss, 9-11 overall and 4-8 in SEC play, rallied within one point on three occasions in the late going, but baskets by Kyle Macy and Jay Shidler and a free throw by Dwight Anderson kept the Rebs at bay.

Macy had 20 points, LaVon Williams 16, Anderson 14 and Shidler 10 as Kentucky evened its SEC record at 6-6 and lifted its season record to 11-8.

Mississippi's John Stroud scored 35 points and Elston

Turner scored a career-high 26. The pair combined for 40 points in the first half as Mississippi built a 46-39 halftime edge. But Stroud was limited to four points in the last 13 minutes of play after the lightning-quick 6-3 Anderson took over that defensive assignment.

"We had a couple of shots that were in and out," said Ole Miss Coach Bob Weltlich. "They really hurt us in the second half."

Cutchin Scholarship Fund To Be Completed

Former Murray State athletes who played football, basketball or baseball for the late Carlisle Cutchin will gather on the campus for a reunion Saturday in an effort to complete a perpetual scholarship program in their coach's memory.

Cutchin, who died in 1953, coached one or more of the three sports from 1925 until 1951. His football teams compiled a 36-11-4 mark and two of them went undefeated. His basketball teams won three championships while running up a 253-91 record. About $7,000 has already been contributed to the Alumni Association at Murray State for scholarship in memory of Cutchin, who also served as athletic director from 1925 until 1940. Heading the scholarship drive are James E. (Buck) Hurley, Benton; James H. Phillips, Clinton; and Floyd B. (Red) Burdette, Martin, Tenn.

The reception is scheduled to begin at 5:30 p.m. in the Racer Room of Roy Stewart Stadium. Those who attend will be the guests of Murray State that evening at the basketball game between the Racers and Morehead State University.

Banking On Parker

Complacency Won't Set In On Pirates' Star, Says Lawyer

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK — The man who negotiated Dave Parker's $6.7 million contract, making the hulking Pittsburgh outfielder the highest paid player in baseball, recognizes the intrinsic hazards in such a cushion of long-range security.

The biggest danger: Complacency and self-satisfaction. Why go out and break your neck now that you've got it on paper and in the bank?

"It might happen to some people but not to Dave," promised Tom Reich, a youngish, curly-haired Pittsburgh lawyer and ardent Pirates' fan who handles the business affairs of some 60 professional baseball and football athletes.

"If Dave made $2 million a year, he would tear through the wall at Three Rivers Stadium if he had to. He is that devoted to the game."

Parker, the National League's Most Valuable Player Award winner last season, and Ron Guidry, the New York Yankees' Cy Young Award winner, were in New York Monday to collect some additional ancillary loot. Each received tape machines as Baseball Magazine's Player of the Year in his respective league.

They are the two hottest commodities in the sport at the moment and, while strikingly different in size and personality, they share the same attitude toward the sport that has made them men not only of national renown but also great wealth.

Guidry, for instance, is in a position to ask for renegotiation or extension of his contract, which expires after the 1981 season, but he is not rocking any boats.

"I figure I am pretty lucky," said the wiry, 151-pound lefthander who blew down the opposition while compiling a 25-3 regular season record and pitched his team to victory in the league playoffs and the World Series.

"I am not looking for any get-rich-quick or long-range contracts. I am 28 and have been in the major leagues only three years. In 10 years, I will be 38. I have talked with Mr. Steinbrenner (George Steinbrenner, the Yankees' owner). When the time comes I think there will be no trouble signing again. But I don't expect the kind of salaries you are seeing these other guys get," Guidry added.

The other guys are Pete Rose ($3.2 million for four years) and Jim Rice ($5.4 million for seven years) and Parker.

John Schneider, Guidry's lowkey attorney from Lafayette, La., also said no undue pressure was being applied to the Yankees to bring his client into the superstar financial stratosphere.

"There probably will be an extension, for three or maybe five years," the young lawyer said. "You can assume that it will be in line with other top players on the team."

Women Racers' Rally Falls Short; Tech Ends OVC Season Unbeaten

By TONY WILSON
Sports Editor

COOKEVILLE, Tenn. — "We almost did it," said Jean Smith. "And that may be just as good for us as doing it."

To have defeated Tennessee Tech last night would have been a first for a fellow Ohio Valley Conference team this season. And the Murray State women came closer than anyone else has this season.

But Smith, the Murray State coach, hopes the Racers' narrow 65-63 loss to Tech will give her team confidence against it again, should Murray get by Western Kentucky.

The Racers face the Hilltoppers in a 4 p.m. game Thursday at Richmond in the first round of the OVC Tournament. By virtue of its winning the regular-season title, Tech drew a bye and will play the winner of the Murray-Western game Friday.

"We were tired," said Smith. "But it was hard to believe that we were ahead

after being so far down."

In fact, the Racers owned a 61-57 lead over the defending OVC champions with 2:54 left to play. That advantage capped an amazing comeback which saw Murray rally after trailing by as many as 19 points in the second half.

Specifically, that point was with 15:26 left. Tech owned a 47-28 advantage and seemed well on its way to any easy end to an untarnished 7-0 conference mark.

Over the next 11 minutes, however, the Racers outscored the Eaglettes 31-10 for their four-point lead.

That advantage was short-lived. Pam Kilday tossed in a 20-footer and Pam Chambers hit a jumper from the right side to knot the score.

Laura Lynn's desperation 30-footer a split-second before the horn sounded bounded off the back of the rim, and Murray suffered its fourth straight loss to fall to 9-12 and 3-4 in the OVC. Tech upped its overall mark to 16-6.

"There wasn't even a resemblance of team play out there tonight," Tech coach Marynell Meadows said. "We just stood around and were content to shoot outside all night."

Murray's Cindy Barrix was, too, but she hit 9-of-17 bombs for 18 points to lead all Racers scorers. Marla Kelsch and Laura Lynn added 14 and 13 points, respectively, and Jackie Mounts chipped in 10. Chambers poured in 20 points to pace Tech, followed by Dam with 18 and Carmen Dowdell with eight.

"I'm hoping my players will take this loss in a good way rather than a bad way. It can be judged as either a disappointing loss or an almost-win," said Smith.

Following the OVC tourney, the first ever for the women, the Racers resume regular season action Monday by hosting Eastern Kentucky.

Cards Sweep North

Keith Lovett pumped in 25 points but it wasn't enough as Mayfield Middle swept a doubleheader from North Calloway in junior-high basketball action last night.

Mayfield overcame Lovett's effort to stop the Lakers 46-39. In the girls game, Mayfield topped Calloway 24-15.

Lovett also grabbed 16 rebounds, and Brian Tebbetts pulled down 14. Tebbetts scored six points, followed by Steve Young with four and Rob Anderson and Bruce Lamb with two each.

Carol Garner scored five points to lead the North girls, followed by Cindy Bazzell with four, and Lisa Hopper, Gena Coy and Vona Darnell, all with two each.

At East Calloway, South Marshall topped the Lakers 38-26 despite 23 points from Jeff Garrison.

Mark Williams supported Garrison's scoring effort with 12 points, followed by Terry Stubblefield with four, Mike Wicker with three and Tim Cook and Rick Wagoner with two each.

In the girls game, South Marshall rallied past East 30-25.

Vickie Houghton paced the East girls with 12 points, followed by Noreen Herndon from the field but sank just 5-of-11 free throws, compared to 15 of 30 for Marshall County.

"We're getting more games under our belts now," said Fisher. "And we're gaining the experience we're going to need by tournament time. I only hope that we are learning with these losses."

The Tiger girls will play the first half of a doubleheader with Fulton County in the Murray High gymnasium Thursday. The girls game will begin at 6:30 p.m. before the boys contest at 8.

LSU 'Overpowers' Commodores For SEC Top Spot

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Louisiana State basketball team showed Vanderbilt all the moves — and as a result, moved into first place in the Southeastern Conference race.

"We were just physically overpowered," said Vanderbilt Coach Wayne Dobbs after a 92-71 loss to eighth-ranked LSU in an SEC showdown game Monday night. "Tonight LSU was about as good as any team in the country and could go to the (NCAA's) final four if they play this well every night. They pulled every card out of the hat and couldn't do anything wrong."

DeWayne Scales and Lionel Green took the inside game away from the 17th-ranked Commodores, teaming for 41 points and 31 rebounds.

"I wouldn't know how to guard him," Dobbs said of Scales, who had 24 points and 10 rebounds. "You have to keep him away from the ball and we couldn't do that."

Elsewhere, top-ranked Notre Dame blasted Loyola of Chicago 84-66; fifth-ranked Louisville defeated Memphis State 103-82 and No. 16 Alabama stopped Georgia 67-59.

Vanderbilt led briefly in the early stages of the game with LSU, but the Tigers then outscored their SEC foes 12-2 to take an advantage they never relinquished. The Tigers built their lead to 20 points early in the second half, virtually locking up the contest.

Tracy Jackson came off the bench to score 18 points and lead Notre Dame past Loyola. The Irish never trailed in the game at South Bend, going ahead for good with 9:42 left in the first half.

Bobby Turner scored 23 points and Larry Williams added 16 as Louisville defeated Memphis State in a Metro Conference game. The victory was the Cardinals' 12th straight and 20th in 23 games.

Freshman Ken Johnson poured in 20 points and Reggie King contributed 18 as Alabama whipped Georgia.

The Crimson Tide led by as many as 16 points in the game.

In other games, Steve Johnson's 33 points sparked Oregon State over Southern Cal 70-67; Wiley Peck scored 25 points as Mississippi State defeated Tennessee 90-84 in double overtime; John Johnson's 24 points powered Creighton to a 74-68 decision over Southern Illinois; Kyle Macy's 20 points led Kentucky over Mississippi 87-82; Pat Cummings poured in 23 points as Cincinnati whipped Georgia Tech 55-51 and North Texas State trounced Portland State 102-78 behind Jon Manning's 34 points.

Guard Greg Webb grabbed a game-high 12 rebounds and scored 16 points, leading New Mexico State past Tulsa 85-78; Colgate upset Army 77-75 in overtime.

Workman Paces Frosh

Tommy Workman poured in 13 points and Ricky Houston added 10 to pace Calloway County to a 47-35 victory over Benton Junior High in a freshmen boys basketball game last night.

Brad Miller added nine points, and Dan Key chipped in eight points and a game-high seven rebounds as the Lakers improved their record to 9-3.

Hardness Wastes Water, Causes Other Problems

If your water is hard, you use more of it whenever you do the dishes, scrub your kitchen floor or perform some other household task. You also use more soap or detergent in your effort to get enough suds. There are no statistics available but there's no doubt about it: Hard-water wastes water. It wastes soap or detergent. In other words it costs you money. It also causes you such problems as the following:

1. Water spots form on your dishes when you leave them on the counter to dry.
2. Your laundry comes out looking dingy instead of bright.
3. You have trouble getting your hair shiny and manageable after a shampoo.
4. The taste of coffee, tea, vegetables and other food is affected.
5. You feel as though a residue were left on your skin after a bath.
6. The life of your pipe, water heater and other water-using equipment may be shortened due to mineral scale buildup.

In this water-conservation-conscious age, you don't have to waste water due to hardness; nor do you have to put up with these other problems.

The solution, according to the Plumbing & Heating-Cooling Information Bureau, is an automatic softener that treats the water before it enters the piping system. The modern softener is easily installed and is almost maintenance-free. For information on how to solve hardness and other water problems, such as objectionable tastes or odors, write to PHCIB at 35 E. Wacker Dr., Chicago, Ill. 60601.

'Gold Rush' Seen For Furnishings

By ELAINE Q. BARROW
AP Newsfeatures

A "gold rush" at the New York Merchandise Mart is expected to pan out for home decorators across the country.

In home furnishings, lighting and accessories, the "prospector" needn't look any further than Lenny Lubell at Raymor Richards, Morgenthau, Inc.

"There's been a big resurgence in brass in every home-furnishing area," Lubell says. "It has been a trend that started slowly a few years ago. People are getting tired of chrome. Brass is softer and it fits in with both contemporary and traditional styles — which chrome does not do."

His showroom featured brass end-tables and magazine racks, panel screens, kinetic brass sculptures and brass trunks, and mirrors with gold borders.

Echoing the enthusiasm for brass, Wendy Fenton of Nora Fenton, Inc., says, "Brass is up, brass is big. We've made a lovely success story with it."

She pointed to a copy of an antique serpent vase, candlesticks and a new line of fireplace accessories. Among the novelties was a pinch scotch bottle, held by a brass frame with a brass cover that inverted to serve as a jigger.

With two hands, Wendy hefted a bookend structured with an owl figure.

"Brass is sold by the weight," she says. "There's so much brass in this that it retails for $400. But we're using this pair only for display. We'll have it knocked off with another factory which will reduce its weight and price."

Her company, she says, does not carry coated brass.

"The patina finish is not offensive to us and it can be polished with just regular brass polish," she says. "Sometimes firms that carry coated brass find that it peels and is ruined."

"However, brass ages beautifully and doesn't get dirty like silver."

She acknowledges that although "it's not for Mrs. America to do, some large department stores polish brass with newspapers. They can't find people to do the time-consuming job of hand polishing."

In other displays at the Mart were brass pyramids, brass trim on wood accessories, and lamps with butterfly decorations fashioned in brass color. There were also reading lamps standing on brass bases, 5 inches tall; a glass apple with a brass stem; and even an antelope with gold antlers.

One showroom featured the robot C3PO from Star Wars, represented as a novelty overlaid with 22-karat gold. It can be used as a bank or cookie jar.

"I think brass is the whole boom," says Ruth Siegel at Decorative Crafts. "But Oriental, too, is coming in so strong you can't get the stuff."

On hand, however, were minutely detailed Oriental chests which she said had come from the Republic of China.

Gold-leaf paint added sparkle to Far Eastern tapestries in another showroom. There were also porcelain lamps from Paris, crystal accessories, stoneware and porcelains from the Far East, and composition materials formed to resemble "naturals."

Another firm presented a wealth of Oriental paintings and Oriental-mode furniture. Here again were bronzed mirror panels, one with brass-colored diagonal strips that obviously offered more to look at than into.

Opulence was carried still further by a 55-by-50-inch chromograph of a gold Rolls Royce.

In dinnerware, too, the gold theme was evident. At Rosenthal, white porcelain was highlighted with 24-karat gold in a burnished matte finish on the borders and on the tops of serving dishes.

The gold fever apparently hasn't affected the Syroco showroom, specializing in plastic KD or "lifestyle" furniture that the customer takes home and assembles.

"Although our biggest seller is wicker-appearing furniture," said Dan Sullivan, "we are still selling a lot of chrome, because we sell to the less sophisticated and those who are not as wealthy as those who are turning to brass."

An overall view is expressed by Roger Schumacher, executive director of the NYMM, which is a member of the New York Home Furnishings Council, sponsor of the winter market.

"We have returned to elegance and luxury in our homes and daily life," he said. "Here at NYMM, brass and gold-toned pieces, over the past few markets, have significantly risen in popularity."

To promote the theme, the Mart held daily drawings for $20 gift pieces.

Just Hanging Around
ROCKPORT, Maine (AP) — Officials of the tiny Rockport Library, which has an annual budget of $9,000, decided they couldn't afford to have the painting "Sugaring Off at the Camp" hanging around.

Library official Paul Charbonneau said the Eastman Johnson painting, donated to the library in 1953, was appraised last summer and, "We removed it from the library. We couldn't afford to insure it or protect it from theft."

It's been sold through a New York firm to an unidentified buyer for $320,000.

The proceeds of the sale — $240,000 after payment of commission — will go into a trust fund for the library.

"It's a windfall for the library — a classic story of a valuable painting that's just been hanging around," said Charbonneau.

AP Newsfeatures

When windows, walls, pipes and other surfaces begin to sweat, it means there is excessive moisture in your home. That's a problem.

When there is static electricity in carpets and clothing, nasal passages dry out and wooden objects shrink, it means there isn't enough moisture in your home. That's also a problem.

Today, the problem of too much moisture. Next week, the problem of too little moisture.

Sweating is the result of condensation, which is the change in moisture from a vapor to a liquid. Condensation takes place when moist air — usually warm, because warm air holds more moisture than cold air — touches a cool surface.

When cold air touches a cold surface or warm, moist air touches a warm surface, condensation will not occur. So, when water forms on a window, you know there is too much moist air in the house and that the window (either the pane or the frame) is cold. It's a bit more complex than that, involving relative humidity and other factors, but if you will just remember the four preceding sentences, you will have a very good idea of why condensation forms on certain materials in your house.

To prevent condensation, therefore, you must reduce the amount of moisture in your home and warm those cool surfaces. The moisture is produced by many ordinary household functions, such as cooking, dishwashing, bathing, showering, washing clothes, and so on. Some of it also comes from such things as human respiration, and evaporation from plants. We can't stop breathing, we want to keep our plants and we must cook and bathe and wash clothes. But we can take steps to minimize the output of moisture and to get rid of some of it via exhaust fans and dehumidifiers.

Year after year, the most frequently asked questions involve sweating windows. What causes it? Why is it that, occasionally, after installing storm windows, the condensation still takes place, sometimes on the storm windows themselves, sometimes on the inside windows?

You now have a fairly good idea of what causes it, although necessarily in abbreviated form because of space limitations. As to the situation with storm windows, remember the principle that the condensation forms on the cool surfaces. Therefore, if sweating still takes place on the inside windows after the installation of storm windows, it must mean that the inside windows are continuing to get cold. And it must further mean that the storm windows are not airtight. Now, if the sweating stops on the inside windows, but takes place on the storm windows, we know that the warm, moist air in the house is getting past the inside windows. In this case, then, it is the inside windows that are not airtight.

As I said, we are only skimming the surface of a complicated subject — which also takes in attic areas, crawl spaces, furnace humidifiers, concrete slabs, paint peeling and many other things — but common sense will lead us to a solution in most cases if we remember that excessive moisture in the air condenses when it settles on cool surfaces.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 4 p.m. on Wednesday.

Microwave Inspection Conducted By Officials

Barry Grogan and James Warren Erwin of the Calloway county Health Department have released the information from the results of the microwave oven inspections held during the week of Jan. 22.

A total of 110 requests for this service were taken with a total of 94 ovens being tested including 66 in private homes, four in restaurants, and four in places other than homes or restaurants.

Grogan and Erwin said each microwave oven underwent two tests. The first, door closed, measured leakage under normal operating conditions with the oven door closed. The second, door open, determined if door interlocks functioned properly to stop microwave production when the operator opened the oven door.

Results of the testing revealed that all 94 ovens were well below the 5mW/cm² federal standard for microwave emission during the door closed test. During the door open test one oven emitted 40mW/cm² exceeding federal standards, but the excessive emission in this oven appeared to be due to a faulty door interlock switch, Grogan and Erwin said.

The Health Department officials said results from this program suggest that there is little cause for concern about excessive microwave emission. Many microwave oven users expressed fear of harmful leakage from using their ovens; and testing the ovens and educating users about the nature of microwaves and oven operation relieved many unnecessary fears, the officials said.

WKMS-FM Awarded $150,000 Grant

WKMS-FM, Murray State University's public radio station, has been awarded a $150,000 grant by the Department of Health, Education and Welfare, according to Sara Craig, principal regional official for HEW.

Also awarded grants, administered through HEW's Office of Education, were two other educational broadcasters in the state — the Kentucky Authority for Educational Television, Lexington, $91,470, and Eastern Kentucky University's WEKU-FM, Richmond, $48,894.

Bruce Smith, WKMS station manager, said that most of the grant money will be used for the station's power increase from 13,000 to 100,000 watts.

The increase, set for May 1, will triple the number of people with access to public radio. The station transmitter will be moved from Farmington to the Land Between the Lakes.

The station manager indicated that any funds in excess of those needed for the power increase will be utilized for upgrading studio equipment.

Special Programs Are Available, Greenhouse

Programs for the Senior Citizens Greenhouse opened this morning with a special program and filmstrip on picking vegetables conducted by Ren Leys and Jane Bailey at the Calloway County Public Library.

Additional comments were made by Michael Oleksy, graduate student in horticulture at Murray State University.

Ogie Greenfield will conduct informal sessions on home gardening at the greenhouse at Main and Broach Streets, Murray, from 10 to 11:30 a.m. on Fridays, Feb. 9, 16, and 23.

Greenfield has had a lot of experience as a farmer and should be a lot of help to those interested in starting their own gardens, said Tripp Thurman, executive director of the Murray-Calloway County Senior Citizens program. Tomato and pepper plants will be started in the greenhouse during one of the sessions.
