Fulton Host To 3-State Golf Tourney; Adams, Rogers, Nall Tie For Top Honors

In the largest golf tournament ever held at the Fulton Country Club, 112 women golfers from eight clubs gathered here Tuesday as guests of the ladies of the local club. Top golfers from Missouri, Illinois and West Kentucky joined Fulton golfers in turning in good scores for tournament play.

Three golfers tied with scores of 45 to be named top for the day. Jane Ann Nall of Mayfield and Virginia Rogers and Lucille Adams of Fulton all turned in 45's. In the draw to determine the medalist for the day, Lucille Adams was judged the winner. Mrs. Adams turned in one of the best scores in her golfing career to match the play of veteran tournament winners, Jane Ann Nall and Virginia Rogers.

Spud Edwards was assisted by Bud White and Max McDade in conducting the tournament and while tee-off time was nine-thirty, the last foursome drove down the fairway on number one at 11:50 a. m.

Luncheon scheduled at noon was served when the golfers completed their first round of play. The early foursomes... the long drivers and the short scorers... were able to get in another round before some of the players completed their first round.

The rolling fairway clipped to the likeness of velvet, and the fast greens, proved a little too much for some of the out-of-town golfers, who had been piling up low scores on some of the less difficult courses around the area. One thing about the local (Continued on page 5)

Looking at their score cards, and smiling at the sizzling 45's all three of them turned in after nine holes of golf in the local eight-club tournament are left to right: Virginia Rogers, Fulton; Jane Ann Nall, Mayfield and Lucille Adams of Fulton who was judged medalist for the day after a three-way draw.

WFUL's Gene Gardner points to photo of Elvis Presley revealing to Brenda Carrington of Gleason that Elvis was one of the Mystery Stars on the station contest by that name. Brenda, identified all six of the stars and won herself an all-expense trip to see the Grand Ole Opry in Nashville. (See Notebook).

Jo's Note Book

With contestants from five states and a small mountain of mail Gene Gardner concluded his Mystery Star Contest at WFUL last month. It was the most successful undertaking even attempted at the local station and all of us out there got some real pleasure out of watching the daily mail to see where some of the contestants came from.

They came from everywhere and that made us all happy. You see, Gene was able to get top-ranking stars of radio and television to record their voices for him and each day broadcast them to the listening audience. To the first person who identified the six mystery voices the station awarded an all-expense trip for a full week-end in Nashville at the Grand Ole Opry. The winner, Brenda Carrington, a high school student from Gleason, Tennessee correctly identified them and for this she will take a guest with her and accompanied by Podner Gardner they will have a fine time in Nashville.

Woody Wilson, manager of the Maxwell House in Nashville says he has the red carpet out for the guests and with the stars of the Grand Ole Opry adding their part to the week-end it should be a good time for all.

Several contestants identified the mystery stars... and one of them was a personal message to WFUL from Elvis Presley himself... but the station had to determine the winner by the earliest postmark. So Brenda won. There was only an hour's difference in the postmark on Brenda's letter and that of Anna Lou Gibbons of Newbern, Tenn.

Entries came from as far away as Lepanto, Ark., Cape Girardeau, Mo., Cobden, Illinois, Humboldt, Tenn., Halls, Tenn. and many other distant points from Fulton. It was fun having the contest and I know the winner will have fun

Lions Radio Auction Starts 3-Day Run

Public Invited To Listen. Bids Proceeds Will Go For Park Equipment

The "Radio Auction" sponsored by the Fulton Lions Club begins today (Thursday) and will be heard each day over WFUL through Saturday.

On Thursday and Friday the auction will be aired from 2:00 to 3:00 p. m. and on Saturday from 1:00 to 2:00 p. m. Col. Charles W. Burrow, popular auctioneer, will conduct the auction at the KU auditorium in downtown Fulton, and it will be broadcast from that point by the station.

The public is cordially invited to attend and participate in the auction in person at the KU office, where items can be seen and examined prior to being auctioned off. Bids by phone, of course, are welcomed and urged by club members.

The auction telephone number is 195, which represents a change from the number previously assigned and listed last week.

Proceeds from the auction will be used by the Lions Club to add improvements to the City park.

Donations are still being solicited for the auction. Pies, cakes, candies, almost any kind of items are eagerly being sought. Anyone who can provide a contribution along these lines is asked to call Foad Homra at 237 or Robert Burrow at 56.

Mosquito Spray Paying Off, Say State Observers

Program Will Continue Through October; Still Finding "Trouble" Spots
With the rains having slackened off to some extent during the past two weeks, the mosquito-spraying program in and around Fulton has become very effective, area health authorities told THE NEWS Wednesday morning.

"We feel that we have the adult mosquito population well under control" stated Harry Barry. "We have now had three sprayings of the area by airplane, and the one last week used 2000 gallons of spray over the cities of Fulton and South Fulton. Our light-traps, which trap various types of mosquitoes in the area, indicate that the Encephalitis-type of mosquito has declined sharply since this spraying program started."

Barry and the group pointed out, however, that despite the fact that many ditches had been completely rid of mosquito larvae by foot spray and ground fogging machines, there was still (Continued on page 5)

ASC Voting Requirements Are Listed

"Who can vote in the election of community ASC committee-men?" This question becomes one of primary importance to farmers in every rural community about this time each year. A talk with Mr. C. C. Vaughn, who is chairman of the Fulton County ASC Committee, furnished the desired information.

The eligibility requirements for voting are clearly stated in regulations issued out of the office of the Secretary of Agriculture. These regulations are based in turn on the laws governing these elections.

To be eligible to vote a farmer must have done, or be, one of the following: (1) any person of legal voting age who has an interest in a farm in the community as owner, tenant, or sharecropper, or, any person not of legal voting age who is in charge of the supervision of the farming operations on the entire farm (any person whose name appears on a farm deed as an owner shall be considered as having an (Continued on Page Five)

Local Engineering Student Doing Guided Missile Work At Redstone

Redstone Arsenal, Huntsville, Ala. He is majoring in engineering at the University of Tennessee, Martin Branch, where he is a sophomore.

Billy's work at Redstone consists, for the present, in drawing carriage plans for guided missiles. He gets around the 40,000-acre arsenal by means of taxis that are furnished to workers.

Under the co-operative student training program, Billy will work at Redstone arsenal until September, when he will return to UTMB for studies. He will return to Redstone in December, back to UTMB in March, and back to Redstone in June. After his Sophomore year he plans to finish his schooling at the University of Tennessee in Knoxville.

Students studying under this program work directly with professional engineers and scientists in fields related to their major field of study.

They are on the payroll of the Army Ballistic Missile Agency or Redstone Arsenal during the quarter they work here.

Dreams, Hard Work Built Fulton's Woman's Club

(Ed's note: The following story appeared in last Sunday's Courier-Journal, and is herewith reprinted for the benefit of those who did not see it.)

In the southwestern tip of Kentucky in Fulton County there are 224 women who've got the word—the written word—in the more than 4,000 volumes that make up their Public Library.

And the women, members of the Fulton Woman's Club, are most happy when the townspeople of Fulton and South Fulton, Tenn., take advantage of this library in a clubhouse, their dream come true.

Interest is high in this pet project, but the members are only bookish in the best sense.

Led by Mrs. Lawson Roper, club president and charter member, the women keep busy seasonally.

At turkey time a Thanksgiving party helps raise funds for furnishing the clubhouse. Also in the fall, work's a song when the music department sponsors the Civic Chorus concert. About 30 men and women sing.

Mrs. M. W. Haws directs the chorus, which sings at Christmas and during National Music Week. They key to the club's musical success, the members say is two pianos—an upright and a grand.

The department also organized the Fulton Community Concert Association.

With the flowers of spring comes the club's annual garden show. One of the most interested gardeners is Mrs. Roper, who has been garden chairman twice.

"Even now I can't help checking the grounds at the clubhouse," the club president confided.

The grandmother of three says her family is her real hobby, though. Her granddaughters, Rebecca 4, Susan 2, and Nancy, 6 months visit occasionally. Her only child, Mrs. James Hart, and Mr. Hart live in Indianapolis, so seeing the family is something special.

Mrs. Roper and her husband have club activity in common. Assistant postmaster in Fulton, Mr. Roper is president of the state postal supervisors and is active in the Lions Club, Elks, American Legion, and Masons.

But there's always time for the Ropers to work for First Methodist Church groups in Fulton.

Along with Mrs. Roper there are 29 other charter members still busy with woman's club work—including the first president, Mrs. Harvey Caldwell.

These members recall the club's beginning. The club was (and is) like a well-spiced cake, a member remarked. The club was made up of Sans Souci, Twentieth Century Fortnightly, Shakespeare, and Art clubs and three other small clubs. Each had a slightly different purpose.

The club has departments to suit varied interests: art, drama and literature, music, garden, junior woman's, junior music, Beethoven and crafts.

The 159 charter members called the Chamber of Commerce's clubrooms their club home in the first years.

"From the beginning we had the idea that we wanted a clubhouse, but our real dream was having a public library," one of the members said.

Then the idea came that the two could be one. Money-making schemes began stirring in the heads of the members to build a clubhouse that would house a library, too.

The result: A country store became an annual project. The women hold rummage and bake sales and dreamed up other projects to raise money.

As it came in, the money was invested in Fulton business stock and in 1935 the woman's club-

Small Town Growth Seen

When a new cycle comes in the economic progress of the country it is observed by most of us only after it has passed. Not many individuals are able to see a movement in advance. This week, however, Prather Price of Auburn makes an observation that may prove him to be the exception.

In his business position "front and center", he has had numerous inquiries within the past year from farm families of retirement age, as to the advisability of housing in town. Farm couples, ready to retire under social security which was only recently made available to them, desire to dispose of their rural holdings and move to town. No longer able to handle the arduous duties of farm life, they seek the conveniences of modern homes, nearness to service centers, such as grocery stores, the postoffice, drug stores, doctors and hospitals. Many of them prefer the friendlier spirit of the small towns rather than the aloofness of big-city neighbors.

Mr. Price sees in this start of farmer-retirements the beginning of a movement that will bring substantial growth to the small towns of the land, offering an incentive for the construction of more new houses of the small type to be bought and occupied by retired couples who will bring to town with them their monthly retirement checks aggregating a sum equal to a good-sized factory payroll for communities that have the foresight to provide the housing.

Censorship Can't Change History

Censorship policies and practices of major radio and television networks can't change history.

Yet that seems to be what the networks are trying to do in banning "My Old Kentucky Home", and certain other songs written by Stephen Collins Foster, in their original versions. These songs portray a certain period in the nation's history — and if they are never sung as they were written over radio and TV networks, the mode of living of pre-Civil War days which they depict will be unchanged.

The networks are being forced by minority group pressure to set up an "authorized version of edited lyrics" on certain Stephen Foster songs, substituting words for these deemed objectionable to particular racial groups. They want banned such words as darkies, massa, mammy, colored man and Old Black Joe.

Many of the phrases came from the Negro himself, Stephen Foster was able to capture the plaintive notes of the Negro singing and incorporate them into his songs, which through the years have drawn international appeal as truly American. These songs are a monument to the Negro—his love, loyalty, wisdom and deep spiritual feeling characteristic of his race. They are not a discredit, but rather a contribution, symbolic of the period in which they were composed.

"My Old Kentucky Home" is known and sung through the world. It tells a story of days gone by, as do most of Foster's other songs. Is there any more reason to feel that it should be "modernized" than the books, "Gone With The Wind", or "Uncle Tom's Cabin"?

Destroy the words of Stephen Foster songs and you might as well change the mountain ballads, the folk music, the Negro minstrels, the blues, because they deal with particular people or eras.

History of all nations has been written into their songs—Francis Scott Key told of our nation's origin in The Star Spangled Banner.

Such TV-radio censorship seems utterly ridiculous—actually it is a slap at our constitutional rights of freedom of speech. And our Congressmen are certainly justified in demanding an investigation. The networks may find they're the loser in public good will if they start taking it on themselves to change the wording of any of these songs so loved by the great majority of American people.

SERMONETTE OF THE WEEK

The $164,000 Question

By Rev. James F. Finley, movie and TV critic for "The Catholic World"

WHAT DO YOU think of Jesus Christ?

This question cannot be dodged, avoided, blinked at, winked at, parried or pushed aside. Many men and women attempted those devices during Christ's own lifetime. But Christ would not accept the evasions. He allowed no in-betweenness. Christ said flatly, "He who is not with me is against me."

This question demands an answer because it is the most urgent and important question ever addressed to man and it deserves your utmost thought and deliberation before you reply.

WHAT ARE THE FACTS involved in the life of Christ? While on earth, He spent only the last three years of His life in preaching and healing. Yet during this short period He reiterated one claim which stands out above all His other teachings. This one claim is so fantastic that many people pass over it lightly without understanding its full significance. "I and the Father are one!" Think of it! By His own words Christ claimed to be God, equal to His Father Who is in Heaven!

This theme repeats itself again and again throughout the New Testament. Nowhere does it exert itself more forcibly than when Jesus was on trial before the High Priest. Caiaphas questioned Christ: "Tell us if Thou be the Christ, the Son of God." "THOU HAST SAID IT," was His simple reply.

Thus Christ died under the charge that he made Himself equal to God. He did not explain that there must have been some misunderstanding about His preaching. He accepted the question of the High Priest without qualification.

NOW ANYONE can claim to be God, even our next door neighbor. But if the latter made such a statement, we'd say he was either insane or lying. Then what proof did Christ offer to justify His assertions? His numerous miracles prove His divinity. The instantaneous cure of the blind, the crippled, the lepers, and the greatest miracle of all, His own resurrection from the dead!

CHRIST, then, stands alone in history. He alone claimed divinity and went on to demonstrate the truth of His assertion. If Christ be not God, then Christianity is one of the most stupendous and monstrous lies of all times.

Kentucky Windage

By F. W.

For the past several months now we have wondered at the purpose of the blinking green light on the top of the old coal chute on the main line of the IC just north of Fulton. The darned thing's so high up it didn't look like a signal.

A reporter's curiosity got the best of him over the weekend, so we asked several railroaders that we thought ought to know. We won't identify them by name, but they ought to know.

One said that when it flashes green, the fish are biting; when it flashes red, stay home.

Another said it never flashes red at all, since that would confuse signals on the main line; that the green flash was to warn low-flying aircraft.

We thought it might be some kind of clearance signal for the nearby yards.

Sooooooo, Monday we called the Fulton Trainmaster's office, and here's the dope:

The light is a "no-injury indicator for the Mississippi Division, installed to remind railroad personnel to be continually safety-conscious. It flashes green as long as there have been no division injuries (Memphis to Paducah, Cairo to Birmingham).

Whenever there has been an injury on the Division, the light will go red for 48 hours.

The idea is reported to have been borrowed from a Steel Company around Birmingham, which dramatizes the same thought to its personnel by means of a figure holding a lighted torch.

So now you know.

The emphasis on accidents has been dramatized in many ways, and the State of Mississippi once had a very startling method of warning highway drivers to be careful: at the scene of every fatal accident the Highway department erected a skull and crossbones on the highway right-of-way, with the words "DEATH HERE" and a large figure under the symbol indicating the number killed. After several fatal accidents at the same intersection, with the number posted a "7" or "10", it was honestly a chilling experience to approach the place.

We wondered once about suggesting that our own highways post such signs up and down US 51 and US 45, but the totals would soon mount to such chilling figures that tourists might elect to quit coming through west Kentucky and Tennessee.

How would you feel, approaching the overhead bridge north of Fulton on US 51, upon seeing a sign "Slow down, 15 killed here."

We submit that it might be a good idea for the Congress to pass a law, effective for one year, obliging every State highway department to mark the scene of every death a-la-Mississippi. Then if one weren't convinced that driving is hazardous and intersections dangerous, just read the "record" as you drive. Chilling thought, but realistic.

I'm off for two weeks come Saturday for the annual Summer Camp with the U. S. Army at Ft. Meade, Maryland. That ought to signal the start of the hurricane season for the east coast. We hit 'em almost every year.

Our thanks to Royce Jolley, who brought in a generous basket of delicious peaches to the office last weekend. Royce, as you know, operates a sizeable fruit business down on the Martin highway, growing peaches, apples and other produce in his own orchards.

An old Fulton landmark is about to come down, we hear this week: the three story building over Fulton Paint and Glass Company, Scates Goodrich Store, on Church Street will be reduced to one story. The two upstairs floors, generally vacant during the past few years, were a constant fire hazard to the area.

draw, or depression that must carry the excess water from your land. After corn harvest, disc lightly sow in fescue and fertilize well. Once you get it, keep it by lifting equipment over it. If you are the fellow that caught that big rain, (the one that lasted all spring) you better go in that corn field and disc in those gullies and sow the sudan even if you should destroy a little corn, because that will be cheaper than the front end of a tractor, or repairs for corn picker elevators. Don't forget the Soil Conservation technicians are at your service to help you design proper widths and depths of your permanent sodwaterways. Let us remember—Soll in the Creek grows no corn, but grass in the waterways will produce hay.

Go To Church Sunday

CONSERVATION NOTES

By Scott DeMyer

After the battle is over there is always a clean up, fix up job or two to do. Its true that spring has sprung and jumped to the end of July, the first battle with the elements are over. November is the time to repair or perhaps prepare for the first time a ditch wide enough, flat enough, grass enough in it to call the ditch a SODWATERWAY. If you haven't cultivated for the last time, sow sudan grass at the rate of 30 lbs. per acre in that ditch, UNFORTUNATELY, too many people pay scant attention to these considerations. They fail to see that their own happiness and the chaos in the world rests in their tragic neglect of Christ — His grace and His teaching.

Yet each and every one of us must consider for himself what his answer will be. Think, read, study, pray . . . before you make a decision. Remember, your answer has your destiny bound up in it. "What do you think of Jesus Christ?"

Excavation For Oil Wells Begins In Calloway County

MURRAY, KY.—The leasing of 102 mineral and oil rights in Calloway County and the preliminary excavation for drilling an oil well has citizens here in an uproar over the possibility of an oil boom.

The excavation work for the well started last week on the farm of Mrs. Pearl Jones, 2.8 miles west of Murray on the Mayfield Highway.

The drilling of the well will be handled by the H. L. Rowley company of Shreveport, La. Stephen Rowley, vice-president of the company, indicated that his company was working for the South Central Petroleum Company.

The Rowley Company started preliminary work on the project last Wednesday and plans to start drilling operations as soon as a two-inch water line can be completed from Murray.

Workmen are about three-fourths through with the laying of the water line, which started at North 18th St. here and extends along the highway to the site of the drilling.

Rowley indicated that his company plans to drill 6,500 feet, which will take approximately 130 days with a round-the-clock schedule. The first 900 feet of the well will be an 11 inch hole and the remainder of the distance will be with a 5 1/2 inch rotary drill.

The company already has equipment on the job ready to start drilling operations as soon as the water line is completed.

A total of 102 leases of mineral and oil rights on farms in Calloway County has been recorded at the Circuit Court clerk's office here. J. C. Bat of Jackson, Miss., was the man who obtained the leases.

At least two other people were reported buying up leases in the county at the rate of $1 per acre. Ross Rutter of Paducah was reportedly one of the persons buying leases in the area.

Bat obtained the lease on the Jones farm where the drilling will be started at $1 per acre. Mrs. Jones, the owner of the farm, lives in Detroit. A relative of Mrs. Jones indicated that she was contacted by letter about leasing the mineral and oil rights.

Most of the land has been leased in the Penny community. The site of the drilling is approximately halfway between Murray and Stella on Highway 121.

The last oil well drilling in this vicinity was at Farmington in 1936. This venture was started by several Murray businessmen, but failed to find oil after going 2,400 feet.

Dear Pat,

You seem to be such a help to others, I'd appreciate your help. I am undecided about my job and wonder if I should quit? Could you tell me why I am under such a strain while on the job as the job is a very easy one?

Why did these friends of ours quit coming to see us so suddenly? Did we offend or hurt their feelings in some way?

Will my health improve after I have surgery that is advised? Please answer my questions, to me they are very important. Will my husband always remain as devoted to me and the family as he is now?

Thank You,
A Weekly Reader.

Dear Weekly Reader:

No, I wouldn't quit my job, your health is causing you to feel as if you are under a strain. You will have an operation and this will take care of this condition and you will be alright. No, you did not hurt the feelings of your friends but his wife is very jealous, and she hurt her own feelings, no one offended her. Don't worry about it; they will start again in the very near future. Yes, your husband will continue to be just as devoted as ever.

Dear Pat,

While changing the attachments on my sewing machine, I have misplaced the pressure foot. Can you tell me where I can find it?

Where will our child go to school next year?
Thank you,
E. D.

Dear E. D.

The pressure foot is in some material you have been using for patching. Your child will go to Hickman to school.

Dear Pat,

Hope you can help me with these questions. Pat, my husband has often told me he didn't love me. Just what do you think would be best for me to do? Would you leave? Would I be happy away from him? I love him but so many times his telling me this has made me do and say things I wouldn't have done

Dear C. D.

I suggest you take a trip somewhere, where you can't see your husband for 30 to 60 days and see if things aren't better. I think you would both feel better, and during this time try to change your appearance to make you more attractive. So when you come back he will find that he has missed something. Girls can get nagging and they don't realize they are nagging, then they get careless with their appearance which is a very bad thing to do. You should at all times see how attractive you can be and more so after marriage than before, and I have known a 30 or 60 days separation to bring couples back together when they were on a fence not knowing if the board was going to divorce or make up. So why not try this and save your marriage because you both love each other, but when you get mad you say things that you don't mean. Another thing is when he is mad don't you get mad, and if you're mad, for him not to get mad, and when one of you are mad if the other will walk away and stay until the other is over it, these hard things won't be said.

Dear Patricia Latane,
This is the first time I have ever written to you. I would like some advice. I am awful nervous, and my husband acts so different with me lately. If it is me, I will try to do better. If it's him, I would like to know, and if he loves someone else besides me. What must I do to find out?
Yours truly,
O. M. J. H.

Dear O. M. J. H.
As for your husband loving you, you have nothing to worry about, as he is very much in love with you, there isn't anything wrong with your husband, but I do suggest you see a doctor about your nervous condition and when you get it corrected you will see that everything is alright.

Dear Miss Latane,
Will you answer a few questions for me?
Where is my sister? I haven't heard from her in about 12 years. Is she married and is she living a clean life? Will she ever come back to see me again?
I would also like to know if I will buy a farm soon, and will I find better work, or keep my present job? If I do will I get a raise and when?
Thank you,
J. W. O.

Dear J. W. O.
Yes, your sister is married and living in Kansas. They will have to do better than they have been doing for her to get money enough to come. As to her living a clean life I cannot answer. Yes, you will buy a farm out it will be 60 to 90 days before you do anything concerning a farm. You will keep your present job. Yes you will get a raise, either the 1st of September or October.

Dear Patricia Latane,
This is my first time to write. Would you please answer some questions for me?
I am a widower and have had a very hard life. Will things ever change for me? I am sick all the time and I can hardly hold a job. Will I ever have some work or will I have to break up house keeping? My son lives with me, will he ever be any better? Would you tell me who called the police here at my house one night about three or four weeks ago? Will I get the check I have been trying to get? Will we stay at this place this year, or not?
Will my daughter and her two children be happy when they get back here from work? Thanks a million.
Your friend,
E. M. C.
Dear E. M. C.

No, you don't want things to change, you are the type person that craves pity. No, you won't break up housekeeping, you will find a job you like and will hold it. Yes, your son will get better, a neighbor called the law, you all were making so much noise and cursing so loud that they couldn't rest. Yes, you will stay on where you are and you will get the check. Your daughter and her children will be happy for awhile but not for long.

Dear Pat,

I read your column every week. This is my first time to write. Please answer these questions.

My husband is planning on going away for a job soon. Should I go with him or not?
Do you think the plans he has for a future business will work out?

Does my husband really love me like he says? Does he drink? Will he ever accept my son as his own?

Where is my child's father at the present time? Will my health ever be any better?

Will my husband and I ever have a child? Where is my brother?

Thanks very much.
C. T. K.

P. S. Answer in next weeks column.

Dear C. T. K.
Yes, if you want to live with him by all means go, if you're ready to call it quits stay here. Yes, your husband loves you, he will accept your child as his own if you will let him, but as of now you have never allowed him to accept the boy as his own, you don't want him to correct the child, etc. If he accepts this boy as his own, and you want it that way, then stop correcting the husband when he corrects your son. The child's real father is up North. Your health is alright. Yes, you and your present husband will have a child. Your brother is in Chicago.

IT HAPPENED IN KENTUCKY

1787—KENTUCKY'S FIRST STATE PRINTER
John Bradford, Kentucky's first State printer, also made a name for himself in many other ways. He was the editor of Kentucky's first newspaper, the "Kentucky Gazette", and also published the first pamphlet west of the Alleghenies, the "Kentucky Almanac". As State printer, he was paid by the State government 100 Pounds Sterling. Bradford also was chosen to make the welcoming address to Governor Isaac Shelby when he arrived to take up duties as first Governor in 1792.

In Kentucky's historic past, just as today, many of our citizens have always enjoyed a glass of beer. The brewing industry makes jobs for thousands of our residents. Fort Campbell's 101st Is A New Pentomic Division

One of the best examples of the U. S. Army's "new look" is training in Kentucky—the 101st Airborne Division, which calls Fort Campbell home.

This outfit is a "pentomic" or five-aided division which is advancing the army into the age of nuclear weapons and airlift.

Let the world's precarious balance of power shift suddenly against the U. S., the 101st is being readied to take off for the other side of the globe at a moment's notice, drop upon a trouble spot by parachute with heavy weapons and transport and wage a police action.

The army believes the 101st and divisions like it may act as forces to deter smaller wars. If a possible aggressor knows the U. S. can fly highly mobile troops across the world at short notice, another Korea might be averted. A pentomic division comprises five 1,500-man combat groups, instead of regiments. Each group can operate independently of the others, thus creating dispersion and mobility, indispensable under nuclear attack.

Dispersed in five independent units, the 101st would present smaller nuclear targets. With transport highly mobile and airlifted, the 101st could group quickly for attack and disperse under nuclear threat.

Diary of Doin's

There's one unhappy aspect of having visitors in the home . . . sooner than you can believe they have to wend their way back to their respective homes. Nothing compares to the happiness one feels at having house-guests . . . and nothing compares to the emptiness that comes when they pack their bags and return to be away for maybe another year.

Such is the feeling witnessed this week by the friends and family of Dr. Thomas Callahan, because come this Friday, Thomas, Wilda and the children, Carol, Skipper and Bill will be returning to their home in Washington, D. C. after a delightful two weeks spent in Fulton with his mother Mrs. L. H. Howard and his sisters Mrs. Ward Bushart and Mrs. Lois Haws and all the other friends and relatives.

But while here this interesting family had themselves a whale of a time visiting, and being feted at many social gatherings in their honor.

On their first weekend here, Sara and Ward Bushart entertained for them at a delightful buffet supper at the Fulton Country Club. The guests gathered around seven o'clock and had a wonderful time just visiting and talking over old times. At a beautifully appointed table in the club-rooms a buffet dinner of ham, turkey and "trimmings" was served to the guests.

From the time of their arrival, two weeks ago, the Callahans have been on the go . . . as honorees at many get-togethers, and while they "were resting" Thomas and Wilda spent a great deal of their time on the golf course.

Their busy vacation included a dinner party at Bob and Louise Binford's at the lovely Binford home on Third Street, when the spacious front porch was a wonderful place to share the hospitality of the evening when Louise "cooked up" a delicious meal of chicken chow mein . . . Maree Bushart entertained Wilda at a very happy and somewhat novel party when a group of gals enjoyed luncheon at the Park Terrace then dashed out to the golf course for an afternoon of hitting the little white ball around . . . Lois Haws gathered the family around for a real treat of a dinner at Lois's hospitable home in the Highlands . . . what fun that group must have had enjoying good old-fashioned family visiting that Thomas and his family just love . . . Last Saturday Irene and Bob White had an enjoyable dinner party for the Callahans at the White's lovely "home on the hill" on the Mayfield highway . . . then on Sunday the Callahans were busier than usual because Ruby and Maxwell McDade entertained at a big family dinner when all the kith and kin got together to enjoy one of Ruby's incomparable meals . . . Sunday night Elva and Ernest Fall got their lovely back yard in readiness for some out-door enjoyment when Thomas and Wilda were again the honorees . . . on Tuesday night Lois Jean and Rodney Miller were host and hostess to good food and good talk when they entertained at their lovely, new home in the Country Club Courts . . . on Wednesday at noon Margaret Hall and Jane Edwards entertained at a luncheon at Smith's Rose Room and then the party of fifteen joined other golfers at the Country Club for an afternoon of that famous sport . . . golf.

On Wednesday night another branch of the family entertained the Callahans when Dudley and Maxie Meacham and Thomas' mother, Mrs. L. H. Howard spread the festive board for the popular guests from the Nation's Capitol. Before Thomas and Wilda joined the other guests for dinner they dropped in at the home of Mary-Nelle and Doc Wright where they visited with Midshipman Don Wright who arrived Monday from Rio de Janeiro after a two-month's cruise on the USS Northampton.

And lovely Miss Carol Callahan has come in for her share of honors when many of the young ladies around town enjoyed visiting and meeting her at several nice parties . . . Mary-Nelle Wright was hostess at an afternoon tea last week honoring Carol when about forty friends gathered at the Wright home in the Highlands to share the afternoon with Carol . . . Mary-Nelle was assisted in serving and receiving her guests by Mary Jo Westpheling . . . Carol's aunt, Lois Haws was the hostess at a luncheon for Carol and Anne Fall and Marianne Bennett entertained this charming young visitor with a "coke party" . . . and Judy Browning was hostess to a small group at dinner for Carol . . . on Thursday morning . . . as something of a farewell party for their cousin, Susan and Lynn Bushart were hostesses to a coke party.

While the local social calendar has been filled with events for visitors, so too has it been filled with parties for Frederica Gibson who will be married on August 25 to J. Wayne White. Elizabeth Caldwell and Irene White, were hostesses at a most happy dessert bridge at the White home on the Mayfield Highway last Wednesday. Elizabeth and Irene are past masters at dispensing with charming hospitality and the party for Frederica was one of their loveliest affairs. Three tables of bridge players enjoyed the afternoon. The bride's table held a bud vase with a tube rose, and the other tables were decorated with a single rose. Garden flowers were used profusely throughout the house. The hostesses served an ice course, with individual corsages of tube roses on each plate as favors. Miss Gibson won the high score prize, which was costume jewelry. Mrs. Louis Weeks won second high, a satin earring case and Mrs. Joe Bennett, bridge-bingo.

The hostesses' gift to the bride-elect was a piece of linen. Guests attending were Miss Gibson, the honoree, Mrs. George Truitt, Jr., Mrs. Jack Snow, Mrs. Louis Weeks, Mrs. Charles Hornra, Mrs. Jerry Hawks, Mrs. Joe Bennett, Mrs. Don Hill, Miss Mary Ann Hill, Miss Norma Owen, Miss Betty Gregory and Miss Ann Latta.

And hostesses away from Fulton are also honoring popular Frederica. At the Andrew Johnson Restaurant in Camden, Tenn. a group of ladies entertained at luncheon for this lovely bride-elect.

Hostesses were Mrs. Emory Florence, Mrs. John Wylly Lashlee, Mrs. W. L. Hall, Jr., Mrs. Phil Carmen and daughter, Phyllis. Miss Gibson was lovely in a light blue cotton satin frock with blue accessories. She wore a white gift corsage. The honoree was presented a milk glass bowl as a gift from her hostesses.

A delicious three-course luncheon was served. Guests were Miss Gibson, her mother, Mrs. Fred Gibson, Mrs. Hildred Fry, Mrs. W. L. Hall, Sr., Mrs. W. T. Gibson, Mrs. Hubert Teaster, Miss Laura Melton, Mrs. Joe Butterworth, Mrs. Leburn Jones, Mrs. Kate Brown of Paris, and Mrs. Horace Lashlee.

Here and There: Elizabeth McDade of Mayfield and formerly of Fulton visited in the home of William and Exie Hill for a brief stay this week . . . Mrs. Alton Butler of Ponca City, Oklahoma is visiting with the Bob Whites . . . Mrs. Butler is Bob's sister . . . Elsie and Louis Weeks left last Friday for an extended western trip with their destination California to visit with Mary Davis and John Dicken . . . en route the Weeks' joined Wilma and Ben Berger of Oklahoma City for the trek to the West Coast . . . Marilee and George Truitt of Lakeland, Florida are visiting with Florence and Frank Beadles . . . Miss Sue Wade of Louisville is visiting with Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Caldwell . . . Margaret Whitnel and children, Charles and Linda, are visiting her aunt in North Carolina . . . Mr. and Mrs. Chester Simon and sons of Jackson, Michigan are visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Barney Yates and with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jack Madding.

A year later the twin cities (population 7,000 now) gathered to watch the clubwomen "burn the note," signaling that the club was free of debt.

The shelves of the new Library—the only library in Fulton—were filled with only a few gift books at first. Now there are 4,086 volumes, with a circulation average of 250 a month. Mrs. John Daniel is librarian.

Junior women have become an important force in keeping the Fulton club going. Each year they donate a $100 scholarship to an outstanding girl in the Fulton schools. A kindergarten in Carr Elementary School is another junior-department project. Mrs. Nathan Wade is president of the junior club.

Mrs. Durbin Re-Elected Cancer Society Head

Mrs. W. L. Durbin has been re-elected president of the Fulton County Chapter of the American Cancer society. Other officers are Mrs. Tom French of Hickman, vice-president; Mrs. Richard White of Hickman, secretary; and Mrs. Gilson Latta of Fulton, treasurer.

Named as a new one-year director was Mrs. Martha Hornsby of Hickman. The two new three-year board members are Mrs. Fred Stokes, Jr., and Mrs. Ruth Johnson, both of Hickman.

Mrs. Arthur Roman was named city chairman for Fulton, assisted by Miss Winnie Bowlin.

Sandra Bowen Enters Prep Queen Contest

Miss Sandra Bowen, 17, senior at Fulton, Ky., High School, is the first Mid-South entry in the Prep All-American Beauty Queen contest at Memphis.

The queen and her maids will be selected at Hotel Peabody Aug. 29 and honored next day at the Prep All-American football game.

Miss Bowen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Bowen, is a majorette with the Fulton High band.

Local Officers Leaving For Summer Camp

Captain Paul Westpheling, Jr., Captain Felix Gossum, Jr., Captain Jack Snow, and Lt. Gene Hatfield, all of Fulton, and Major Joe Johnson of Clinton will be among the 125 officers and enlisted men of the 439th Military Government Company departing for Ft. George Meade, Maryland on August 10th.

The 439th, the oldest organized Army reserve unit in West Kentucky, is the largest Company of its type in the nation. It is located in Paducah, and annually spends two weeks active duty summer training at Ft. Meade, which is headquarters for the Second Army.

happy hickman happenings

by joye stokes

A column devoted to the social events of our friends around Hickman. Call Joye at Hickman 2059 for your social news.

Everyone of you have been so sweet to call or say something to me about my writing — I don't know why — but we can't seem to keep a straight face when talking about it. You know that is the way I want to stay — STAY HAPPY! I sure wanted to tell everyone last week. It was so hard to keep from telling it, but you know I like to surprise my friends every now and then — Don't You?

Now Ya'll pitch right in and help me — call me when you have a party, house guest, if you are going out of town and when you return home. Say this is more fun — I'll know what all of you are doing.

European Trappers

Judge and Mrs. C. P. Mabry and daughter, Joyce, are spending the summer seeing all the towns and countries of the Continent. They have just finished a tour of Italy and Switzerland and are now on a northern trip to the Scandinavian countries.

Before Mrs. Mabry left she told me she and Joyce were looking forward to seeing Copenhagen, as most Americans love it. The Danes are most gracious and friendly.

The Mabrys are visiting their parents, Lt. and Mrs. David Holland. Claire and David are stationed out of Frankfurt, Germany.

Gulf Coast

Sandra Stokes has returned from a two weeks visit in Long Beach, Miss. She spent many happy hours with Mr. and Mrs. Charles Mauldin in their home on the beach.

The high light of Sandra's trip was a day in New Orleans. Some of the out-standing sights enjoyed by Sandra were, Orleans Alley, better known as "Pirate's Alley"; this is very colorful with all the artists and their exhibits. The Court of Two Sisters Restaurant, (where upon Sandra told us not to eat there — the food was bad and the restaurant was no longer owned by the original family — they had lost it in a lawsuit a couple of months ago.) Needless to say with everyone glaring we ushered Sandra out, but fast!

I'm just going to list a few of the outstanding places we visited — but understand I could write page after page about New Orleans, if I thought anyone wanted to read about My Child In New Orleans! The St. Louis Cathedral, one of the most famous churches in North America, Casa Hove, one of the most perfect examples of early Spanish architecture, also the "Heine House", a typical example of French colonial architecture. The Famous French Market, the wharves and harbor, Old St. Louis Cemetery — oh! there was more to see than we had time for. We plan to go back when Cubb gets old enough to tell a drive-in-movie from outside television.

Bear Creek Camp

I talked with Jessie Lou Goadler Tuesday morning. She and Duck had been to see Alice, their daughter who is in her second week of girl scout camp. All mothers and fathers are just a like. They were overjoyed with seeing Alice Sunday for the first time in a long week — Alice looked up at her mother and asked "Why didn't you and Daddy bring my kitten?" We parents have a lot to learn! Alice is looking forward to a week filled with swimming and canoeing — Jessie Lou and Duck are looking into the face of another lonesome week, and Dick, their son, is just taking life as it comes, shall we say?

Summer Tea

Among the Hickman party hostesses this week were Mrs. Thomas French and Mrs. Charles Travis (better known to all of her friends, young and old as Miss Mabel).

Mrs. French and Miss Mabel entertained with a delightful summer tea Thursday afternoon honoring Mrs. Mason Travis.

Extending warm welcomes to the guests as they gathered at the Parish House were the two hostesses, Mrs. French and Miss Mabel and the honoree, Mrs. Mason Travis.

The tea table was centered with an arrangement of pink Magic Lillies. Outstanding designs of lillies were placed at focal points throughout the Parish House.

Alternating at the tea table were Mrs. Mozelle Travis, Mrs. W. C. Hale, Miss Shirley French and Miss Helen French. Many friends called between the hours of 4:30 and 6:30.

Mrs. Mason Travis and her two sons, Tom and Richard, of Cleveland, Ohio are house guests of Mrs. Charles Travis on Troy Road.

Bride-elect

The glowingest girl I've seen all week was Paula June Hornsby Monday night as she greeted her friends in a lovely white cotton sissy dress. Mrs. Lee Kearby and Mrs. Ray French Kemp of Lexington, Ky. entertained with a miscellaneous shower at the R. E. A. building Monday night at seven thirty, honoring Miss Hornsby, bride-elect of Harold Garrison.

Yellow and white daisy mums filled the party rooms. The brides table was centered with golden glows and a replica of miniature members of the bridal party. About 35 guests enjoyed the evening party.

Summer time is play time — Winter time is work time for Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Middleton of Madisonville, Ky. who are visiting in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Don Henry. Mrs. Middleton was before her marriage Sara Don Henry.

Mr. and Mrs. Middleton entertained with a Bar-B-Q supper on Saturday evening at Mr. and Mrs. Henry's home.

Miss Vivian Wilson of Louisville, Ky. was the honor guest. About 20 friends enjoyed meeting and being with Mr. Huddelton's cousin, Miss Wilson.

Mr. and Mrs. James Browning and daughter, Anne, of Nashville, Tenn. were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Rupert Hornsby and Miss Frances Amberg during the first of the week. Everyone is always happy to see the Browning family when they come to Hickman. Mrs. Henry, we all missed seeing you!

"trouble" to be found in artificial containers in and around homes, cemeteries and vacant lots. Tin cans, glass vases, anything that will hold water is a breeding ground for the "wrigglers" and must be emptied or sprayed.

The spraying program will continue here through the month of October, with air and ground spraying at regular intervals.

The encephalitis germ, the group stated, is normally carried by wild birds, and transmitted to humans by mosquitoes. Mosquitoes have occasionally found to be germ-carriers, but cattle have yet to be found carrying the germ, despite a reported nearby diagnosis of a cow in the area, reported last month.

The method of voting by ballot assures each farmer an opportunity to vote without traveling to a central polling place. Ballots have been, or will be soon, mailed to eligible farmers in every community in Obion County. The ballots must be returned in person or postmarked not later than September 5 in order to be counted.

SUCCESSFUL HOMEMAKING

By Marie Holland
Home Demonstrator, Kentucky Utilities

Freezing is a safe, easy way to preserve fruit and vegetables, meat, fish, poultry, game and baked or other pre-cooked foods. Freezing does not improve food, but it will retain the original flavor, color and nutritive value if the food is properly wrapped in moisture-vapor-proof material.

Frozen vegetables are recommended for use only as cooked vegetables. It is important to blanch (scald) all vegetables and chill them thoroughly before freezing, to maintain a top quality product. Salad greens, celery, radishes, lettuce, cucumbers, should not be frozen because they lose their crispness after thawing.

All vegetables should be blanched or scalded before freezing. Use young barely matured vegetables. Older ones do not freeze well. Prepare as for the table. Freeze as soon as possible. Wash in cool water. Cut and sort according to size. Blanch or scald in boiling water.

Use enough water to cover the vegetables completely. For non-leafy vegetables, use about 2 quarts of water per pound. For leafy vegetables, use about 3 quarts of water per pound. Do not blanch more than one pound of vegetables at a time. Put them into a wire basket, colander, cheesecloth bag, or any other container that allows free movement of the vegetables, and immerse them in briskly boiling water. Start counting blanching time when vegetables are immersed in boiling water. If the water takes more than a minute or two to return to the boil, blanch a smaller quantity of vegetables at one time. The water may be used several times for blanching the same kind of vegetables.

Chill the vegetables. Do not pack vegetables while hot. Lift from the boiling water and put at once into ice water. Add more ice as needed. Vegetables should be chilled to the center. Remove from water, drain and package. Label them, freeze at once.

Clinton, Bardwell, Wickliffe, LaCenter Win Fight For Natural Gas With F. P. C.

A Federal Power Commission examiner has ordered the Trunkline Gas Company, Houston, Texas, to provide natural gas service to Clinton, Bardwell, Wickliffe and LaCenter.

Clinton's application for an allotment of gas has been pending before the commission for approximately two years. On previous occasions the commission had turned thumbs down on the application, along with the applications of Bardwell, Wickliffe and LaCenter.

Applications of the three other towns were approved along with Clinton's.

In approving the applications of the four cities, the examiner, Howell Purdue, ordered Trunkline to deliver a maximum of 573,000 cubic feet of gas daily to Clinton, 554,000 cubic feet to Bardwell, 644,000 cubic feet to Wickliffe, and 515,000 cubic feet to LaCenter.

Earlier this year the commission approved the application of the city of Hickman, but at that time refused to grant approval to Clinton's application, as well as the applications of the other three cities.

Requests of the four cities were denied by the commission on grounds they had not demonstrated the adequacy and feasibility of their individual projects.

On the basis of revised showings, however, Purdue said it is probably that each of the four projects would be economically successful—at least, on the basis of Trunkline's present wholesale gas rates.

Purdue's initial decision, subject to commission review, was conditioned upon the four communities obtaining new approval from the Kentucky public service commission of their revised projects.

TALK ABOUT ECONOMY... FORDS COST LESS PER MILE!

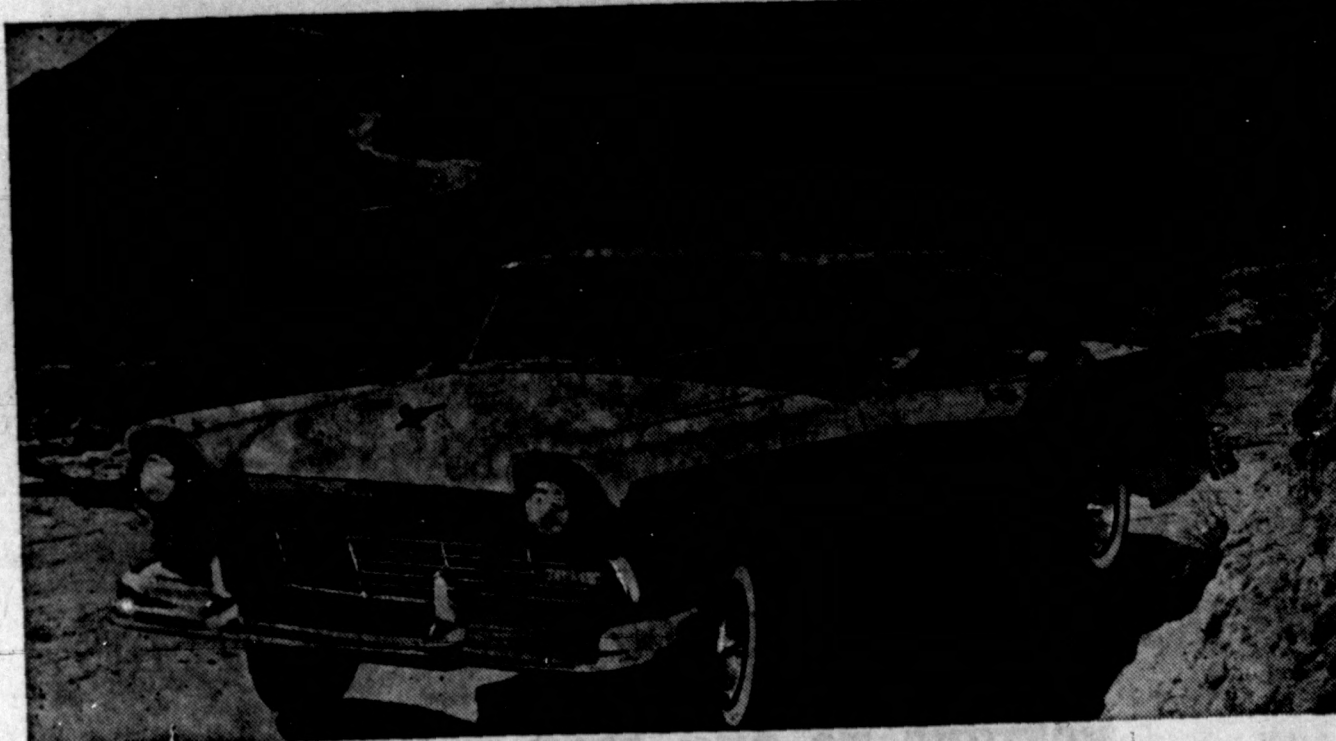

Fords cost less to buy!

No doubt about it! Model for model, Ford cars are the lowest priced* of the low-price three. And don't be fooled by those "low prices" now being quoted for some "stripped down" models in the medium-price field. Remember, a '57 Ford equipped the way most people want a car today—with automatic transmission, heater and radio—costs hundreds of dollars less than these medium-priced cars, similarly equipped.*

*Based on comparison of manufacturers' suggested retail delivered prices

Fords cost less to run!

In the only nationally recognized test of gasoline economy, the 1957 Mobilgas Economy Run, a Ford Six delivered more miles per gallon than any other car entered! This, remember, was no "private test" conducted for the benefit of a single manufacturer. This was grueling competition between 12 different makes of cars... supervised by the United States Auto Club. And when the test was over, Ford led all other cars in the thing you want most—actual miles per gallon!

Fords cost less to trade!

Latest official auction sale figures on used cars show clearly that the new kind of Ford commands a higher price than either of its two low-priced competitors. The men who bid at these auctions are professional buyers—men whose very livelihood depends upon their expert knowledge of cars. They pay more for used Fords because they know that Fords hold up in value. Like thousands of Ford owners from coast to coast, they have discovered that Ford is worth more when you buy it... worth more when you sell it, too!

On the Illinois Central

Push-button-guided freight cars!

Just the touch of a finger on a button.

That's how we point a freight car toward New Orleans, Memphis or Omaha, or anywhere.

Electronic gadgets do the rest. Yard switches flip into position, and the freight car is guided to the right spot in the right train for the destination the push-button called for.

It happens many hundreds of times a day at our Markham Yard south of Chicago as cars move toward every corner of America.

Push-button freight car handling is one of many innovations that keep the Illinois Central new. Improvements cost us a lot of money—last year we spent $35 million. This year we plan to spend even more.

We believe this money is well spent—for us and for you. Because it enables us constantly to better our service to you and all of our friends and neighbors in Mid-America.
