Note Book

This newspaper, we hope, will reach you on December 23, just in time for you to get a real merry and cherry greeting from many merchants and other individuals in the Fulton vicinity. As you will note in the first sentence I said... we hope... and I say that advisedly. Because if Paul and I live to see this paper get in the mail on Saturday afternoon, we stand a good chance of being alive on Christmas Day.

I don't suppose our Christmas activity is any more strenuous than anybody else's, its just that seems to be more of it. Actually I have a better chance of survival than Paul does. I try to end my day at somewhere around five-thirty and in the afternoon and unless there's something of tremendous importance, I'm a "shut-in" for the evening learning all the "big doings" of the day from the children. My day starts right early, but so does everybody else's, and that's as it should be.

But Paul... that pore critter is trying to put out four big issues of the News in three cramped weeks and after putting in a right hard day... he pounds on a piano almost on straight running nights during the holidays. But if he likes saving up for a tomb-stone that way, I don't think I should complain.

But you know what... as I get nearer to the actual observance of Christmas Day I somehow seem to forget all the hard work and problems connected with the preparations and my thoughts keep wondering whether everybody will have a happy and merry Christmas. And from what I am told by the members of the Junior Chamber of Commerce there are going to be lots of sad people on Christmas Day unless we stop our busy activity and give generous thoughts to persons less fortunate than we are.

Surely you want to make your own Christmas happy by helping the needy people at Christmas-time and you can do it the easy way. If you haven't already participated in the Jaycees Christmas basket fund, why not join with us a WFUL in some good-natured and worthwhile fun on Monday by participating in the air marathon to raise funds to buy those Christmas baskets the Jaycees will distribute on Christmas Day.

Beginning at 12:35 p. m. on Monday we will dispense with all regular broadcast activities and devote the better part of the afternoon to taking calls for orders to buy tickets on the cash awards that the Jaycees are giving away as an inducement for you to help the needy. For each purchase of a Jaycee ticket you will have an opportunity to win either a $100 bill or one of three $50 bills. All you have to do is call the station at 1270 or 1500 and we will take your order for tickets and deliver them and collect the money.

Surely you can save on somebody's present and give an gift just a little bit less expensive so you can share in a generous move to make everybody happy on Christmas Day.

I'll be expecting your call at the station on Monday and until then please accept the sincerest and most devoted Christmas greetings from me, Paul and the children. Not only do we send you Christmas cheer, but deep gratitude for all the nice things you have sent our way since we've had the happy privilege of knowing you.

I'll be waiting on your call Monday... don't disappoint me.

Rental Property Survey Underway As Major Industrial Prospect Develops

Rental property owners in the Fulton area are being given an unusual opportunity today to rent their property to skilled technicians and executives. The request for rental property came to the Fulton News and Radio Station WFUL today from Charles Tomerlin, executive secretary of the Union City Chamber of Commerce.

Mr. Tomerlin advised that a major American industry was seeking to locate in the Fulton-Union City vicinity and that housing was needed for 300 families who will live in the area. Mr. Tomerlin said that property-owners were requested to WRITE, not call, the Union City Chamber of Commerce and give that organization the type of rental property they have. The Chamber of Commerce secretary specifically requested that NO PHONE CALLS BE MADE TO THE UNION CITY CHAMBER OF COMMERCE, and that only letters defining the property will be given consideration.

In listing the rental property with the Union City Chamber of Commerce, Mr. Tomerlin requested that the location of the property, the expected rental, the number of rooms, the other facilities, such as piped for gas, number of baths, electrical wiring, etc. be listed. He also stated that the letter should state whether the rental property is a house or an apartment.

In discussing the rental property listing Mr. Tomerlin said: "The prospect of a high type renter should not be the green light to set rentals out of proportion to the area... every community in the immediate area has been alerted and sky-high rentals will be given no consideration."

Mr. Tomerlin also urged that only rental property be listed... property for sale will be given no consideration he said.

With rental property in Fulton easily available, the opportunity to get renters of the permanent and higher type should be a great advantage to property-owners in the Fulton area.

Early Bird!

THE NEW reaches you early this week, because of Christmas falling on Wednesday. Next week THE NEWS will arrive on schedule on Thursday morning, January 2.

Many Cities Adopt City Manager Plan

Fulton is one of 111 communities throughout the nation that adopted the City Manager form of government during 1957 a survey disclosed this week.

Now 1,415 communities and 15 countries are using the plan. Since first trying the system, 53 communities have dropped it, trials ranging from one to 31 years.

In the same period 200 communities abandoned the strong-administrative-commission plan and about 800 dropped the strong-mayor-and-council plan.

The City Manager form of government will go into effect in Fulton on January 1, 1962.

Fulton School System In Excellent Shape, Current Reports Indicates

FULTON'S OLDEST CITIZEN celebrated her 103rd birthday December 19th and waited until the News photographer arrived before she cut the cake; Mrs. Ethel Byrd, (above, center), still amazingly spry for her years, is flanked by her daughter and her son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. S. L. Craver as she wielded the knife on a huge birthday cake sent her with the compliments of a Union City bakery Thursday. Mrs. Byrd lives with the Cravers on College Street.

GIFT APRON: Among the numerous callers and well-wishers coming to see Mrs. Ethel Byrd Thursday were Mrs. R. W. (Dick) McAlister and Mrs. Shelby Kirby of Fulton (above) and also Mrs. J. H. Pond of Fulton, who was not in picture. Mrs. McAlister presented Mrs. Byrd with an apron over 100 years old, which belonged to Mrs. McAlister's mother. The ankle-length apron was a beautiful example of hand work.

1958 Acreage Reserve Sign-Up Begins January 13, Closes March 7, ASC States

The sign-up for the 1958 Acreage Reserve program for spring-planted crops will start on January 13, C. C. Vaughn, Chairman, Obion County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, has announced. The closing date is March 7.

"Allotment" acres of corn, upland cotton, rice, and tobacco are eligible for the 1958 Acreage Reserve, the Chairman stated; these are the same crops which were eligible for the 1958 Acreage Reserve, the Chairman stated; there are the same crops which were eligible in 1957. The new program seeks to remove from 11.5 million to 14.5 million acres of these allotment crops from production during the coming season.

While there are still several weeks before the beginning of the sign-up under the program, Mr. Vaughn urges farmers to get in touch with their ASC office soon if they are interested in taking part in the 1958 Acreage Reserve program.

As was announced in the early fall in connection with the Acreage Reserve program for the 1958 winter wheat crop, each farm taking part in the program for spring-planted crops must have a "Soil Bank base" established for it, and this must be done before a program agreement may be signed by the farmer. The Soil Bank base will be the total crop acreage figure for the farm, based primarily on the farm's production history during 1956 and 1957. The total harvested acreage in 1958 must be reduced below this base by the number of acres placed in the Soil Bank.

Farmers who already have a Soil Bank base established for their farm under the Conservation Reserve or the 1958 winter wheat Acreage Reserve will use the same base in participating in the 1958 Acreage Reserve for spring-planted crops.

Per-acre payment rates for the 1958 program are somewhat higher for most crops than those which were in effect for 1957. Farmers who put land in the 1957 program will be paid a 10-percent premium above the 1958 compensation established for their farm if they put the identical land in the 1958 program.

IC Decorates Stations, Trains

Brightly decorated Christmas trees and music in passenger trains and depots will provide a holiday atmosphere for the Illinois Central Railroad's Yuletide travelers.

In Chicago's Central Station, a 44-foot tree illuminated with 720 lamps and gaily decorated with 216 boxes of tinsel, will provide a backdrop for music provided by the Illinois Central choral group.

Christmas trees and wreaths will lend a holiday air to many of the Illinois Central's passenger trains. Throughout the holiday season illuminated trees will be found on the City of New Orleans, Panama Limited, Green Diamond, City of Miami, and Daylight, while wreaths will decorate many other trains including the Land O' Corn and the Creole.

Zula (Wayne county) is in a bend on the northern bank of Otter Creek. A water-power grist and flour mill stood here for more than a century.

Superintendent W. L. Holland and The Fulton City Board of Education have made public the excellent financial condition of the City School System.

The annual payment on the bonded indebtedness was made in October, bringing that indebtedness down to $13,700.00. This entire debt will be wiped out in 1961.

The supplemental 50c tax issue passed 6 years ago has expired. This brings the school tax for 1958 back to the $1.50 rate that existed prior to the extra 50c levy.

This special 50c tax voted 6 years ago to supply money badly needed for repairing and remodeling buildings, was spent on a year to year basis. The board decided that it could make the money go much farther by spending it as it came in, instead of paying interest over a long period, so the one project per year plan was adopted. This plan saved about $30,000.00.

For those who have not visited the school buildings to see what splendid condition they are in, the following paragraph lists what was spent on each of the projects.

Milton School Projects, $25,287.75; Terry Norman Projects, $16,291.71; Carr Institute Projects, $23,917.46; High School Projects, $30,310.89; Science Hall Projects, $6,657.80; Projects covering all schools, $20,920.70. Total $123,386.31.

Review Soil Bank Benefits, ASC Urges

Obion County farmers who are thinking ahead on their 1958 plans should keep in mind the benefits they can receive from taking part in next year's Soil Bank programs, C. C. Vaughn, Chairman, Obion County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee, said today.

The Chairman pointed out that the sign-up period for the Conservation Reserve is now under way and will continue until April 15, the sign-up for the Acreage Reserve agreements covering 1958 spring plantings will soon be announced.

Both Soil Bank programs require the establishment of a Soil Bank "base", Mr. Vaughn explained, and it is important that farmers understand the meaning of the term as well as of several others. Another term which must be understood in order to meet requirements of Soil Bank programs is "permitted acreage."

PATRICIA LATANE

Dear Patricia Latane:
Read your letters in paper regularly. Enjoy them. Want to ask you some questions.

Week before last my wife laid down or lost her key to our lock box and can't find it. Please tell me what became of it.

Those people in Chicago haven't done anything yet. Tell me what is the hold up please? Why can't a settlement be made. What is my wife's trouble? Will she get better and when? Answer as soon as possible and thanks.

Yours truly,
Odd

Dear Odd:
The key is in a pocket book. The settlement has not been made as someone is fighting it. Yes, your wife's health will improve before long, it isn't anything to be alarmed over.

Dear Pat,
I read your answers in the News every week and would like for you to answer some questions for me.

Does any one love me and will I ever get married? If so, when?

Thanks,
L. C.

Dear L. C.
Yes, you are loved and will get married in May 1958.

Dear Pat,
I haven't written you before but read your column each week.

Please answer the following questions: A short time ago I put a small but valuable package away. Now I can't find it, have I forgotten where I put it or has some one else found it and took it? Please tell me where it is for I want to know very much, or give me the initials of who took it.

Will my husband buy some land that he wants to buy? If so when and will we move?

Please answer in next week's paper.

Thanks,
R.

Dear R.
Your package is in a closet where you placed it. No, your husband will not buy the land.

Dear Pat,
I have a few questions I sure would like for you to answer. Why doesn't my husband tell me things like what he is going to do or help other people? Seems as he likes to tell me untrue things when I ask him anything. I have asked him things, he tells me and I find out different later.

What is the matter with his health, as you told me some time ago there was something more than I ever knew. Why not tell me?

What is he planning on doing in '59?

How much longer will we live where we are now? What happened to the ring he had?

Hope you answer these questions as I have written several time and received no answer, you did answer one for me, thanks. Am looking for this soon.

Thank you,
Love Some One.

Dear Love Some One:
Your husband can't tell you anything because you get out and tell everything he tells you, you are a trouble maker and he knows it and as for him, he doesn't like to start trouble. I suggest you see a doctor in regards to his health. I'm sorry but I can't look at your plans for 1959 with your husband. You will only live where you are another year. The ring he had is with some of is things there at home.

Dear Pat,
I read your column every week and I find it most interesting. I have some questions I would like very much for you to answer for me.

Will V. V. and B. V. ever make up and go back together again? They have a little boy. I hope they can get their misunderstanding all cleared up and go back together for the sake of the child if nothing else, for he loves his mother and daddy both. Does B. V. love V. V.? If they will go back together how long will it be? Will be looking for my answer in the paper next week.

Thanks,
Anxious.

Dear Anxious:
Yes, your couple will go back together, but it will be several days yet and the child will bring them back together. They are both in love with each other, but they are both bull headed and hate to own up to the other that they were wrong.

Dear Pat,
I am worried over a few things, so I have some questions I'd like to ask you. Where was my husband on Saturday morning, Oct. 26, 1957? When I saw a certain woman driving his truck? Was he at her home then? Does he love this woman? Will he get a divorce from me and marry her? Will my oldest son and wife ever come back to my home and be as the other children are? Will my youngest son teach in his home town next winter? Will he marry the girl he is going with now? Will I live alone the rest of my life?

Thanks,
F. B.

Money, The Un-Spendable Kind, Gains More and More Devotees

Some persons work hard to collect money they don't need and, can't spend.

To them a Lincoln head penny can be worth $120. Confederate dollars more valuable than United States bills; an apparently plain old nickel worth $6,500.

Coins and bills take on this sort of value in the eyes of numismatists, collectors of money.

Throughout the United States, the National Geographic Society says, interest in the hobby is mounting. No one knows exactly how many collectors there are. But journals of coin collecting are growing in number and size; new clubs are being formed; more money dealers are opening shops.

The hobby is far from new. The first minted coins appeared, scholars believe in the Near East about 700 B. C. and about the same time in China. Collectors followed shortly after. Augustus Caesar had a collection, and the Chinese are believed to have collected in this period.

Later the Renaissance spurred the hobby in Europe. With a wakening interest in classic arts, the coins of Greece and Rome came to be in demand. In the United States, the Numismatic and Antiquarian Society of Philadelphia believed to be the first such group incorporated in the country, is 100 years old this year.

To fanciers the value of a coin depends on its scarcity condition, beauty, and historical interest rather than its intrinsic worth. Age is unimportant in determining value. A Roman copper may bring only a few cents, while a 1914 penny, with a mint mark "D" showing it was made in Denver Colorado, can be worth $120.

Sometimes the slightest difference in the piece will make a tremendous difference in its price. In 1841, for example, "quarter eagles" — gold coins worth $2.50 — were minted in Philadelphia; Charlotte, North Carolina; and Dahlonega Georgia, where gold was mined during the 19th century.

The Philadelphia coins bear no mint mark. They sell for $5,000. Identical pieces with the telltale "C" or "D" are valued at $17.50.

Some coins are unique and in sense, beyond price. The Smithsonian Institution in Washington has many such pieces in its world-famous collection. Its curator of numismatics, Dr. Vladimir Clain-Stefanelli, is planning modernized exhibits to display them.

Included are two 1933 "double eagles" — $20 gold pieces. The United States went off the gold standard while they were being made. The mint therefore had no authority to issue them although it gave a pair to the Smithsonian.

The rest were gathered into a batch, weighed to make sure none was missing and melted down. Presumably, every 1933 double eagle was accounted for. But soon the coins appeared on the collectors' market. Someone, knowing he was getting a rarity had substituted older double eagles for nine new ones before the weighing.

The Government, a court suit, was able to get back eight. The ninth turned up recently in the collection of Egypt's deposed King Farouk.

HELLO! ... AND THE MERRIEST CHRISTMAS TO YOU ... 'Twas the BUSIEST Diarist this week ... what with TWO papers published the SAME week ... but, you know ... we DON'T mind as our hearts are so FULL of thoughts of the GLORIOUS SEASON ... and we think of all the different FACES of Christmas! Have you ever thought how MANY there are? To list a FEW, we'd say that Christmas is for FAMILIES ... everyone sharing together the joy of being HOME for Christmas ... Christmas is for FRIENDS when we "Extend a hand to touch a hand, to share a laugh, to eat and drink together in good fellowship and cheer" ... the time for open house and open hearts, which is part of the joy of Christmas.

But MOST o' fall — Christmas is for CHILDREN! For them the dolls, the guns, trains, bikes, wagons, dresses and the glorious surprises to gaze upon with shining eyes and hearts — that must surely BURST with the WONDER of it all!

Yes, one-day our lives have a SAMENESS — day after day — our house is just a house with, winter at the window and we add a glitter here, a sparkle there — and ALL at once — it's CHRISTMAS!

The home-town is bubbling over with excitement — with all of the KIDS home from school. Everyone planning parties, going to parties — buying gifts, giving gifts and there's one group of college students who are having a very special celebration — the Fulton High graduating Class of 1954. The members of this class have come from colleges here, there, and EVERYWHERE and will have a class re-union at the Derby Cafe Monday evening. The occasion will be a lovely banquet and we know they'll have the most WONDERFUL time ever — just swapping stories — telling of their future plans — et al. Our congratulations go to ALL of them — and we hope you'll have a great reunion — and the HAPPIEST Christmas — ever!

Faithful, Intelligent Elephant Is Over-Rated As Mental Prodigy

Elephants are smart, but they are hardly the mental giants pictured by the tall-tale fraternity. One zoo director, after an exhaustive study of animal behavior, placed the Indian elephant third in a list of 10 most intelligent animals, the National Geographic Magazine says. It was outranked by chimpanzee and orangutan, but led horse, beaver, lion, grizzly bear, pack rat, mountain goat, and dog. Legends of the elephant's phenomenal memory and ability to even old scores often stem from the imagination of the mahouts who train and ride them. M. D. Chaturvedi, who spent 30 years as an officer in the Indian Forest Service, passes on the following anecdote with a grain of salt.

The elephant concerned had seen a keeper steal its bread ration and hide the food under his turban. At the first opportunity, the beast snatched turban and bread, and ate both.

As an example of his own credulity, Mr. Chaturvedi recalls an elephant roll call he witnessed when a young officer. As each name was sounded, the animal lifted its trunk, as if to say, "present, sir." He was much impressed—until he learned that mahouts guided the salutes.

On the other hand, Mr. Chaturvedi once knew an elephant that seemed to show power of reasoning and memory. He was riding it back to base when it suddenly stopped short and refused to go on. Deciding to humor it, Chaturvedi turned around and discovered his raincoat lying in the road where it had slipped from the elephant's back.

Whatever their intelligence quotient, many elephants labor prodigiously, faithfully, and skillfully under the direction of their mahouts.

The big tuskers that toil in the forests of India and other Asian lands not only move logs but help knot the dragropes too. When loading logs on a trolley, the animal must place them properly in pyramid form. Another then shunts the little wheeled cars into position, pulls the chains tight around the logs, and pushes the loaded train down the yard.

One blind elephant collected logs rolled downhill by other elephants, and stacked them in lots of 20. She separated each lot from the other by the same space, measured by the length of her own body.

One method used to round up work elephants calls for digging deep pits across the herds' known trails. The trapped animals are raised gradually by filling the holes with wood. They are then roped and led away by koomkies, or trained elephants.

More exciting is the keddah, or drive. With encircling fires and an unearthly din made by tom-toms, tin cans, and gunshots, beaters force a wild herd into a cul-de-sac. Individual members are separated from the group and noosed while tame elephants crowd about, holding the captives helpless.

Training techniques differ. In Mysore, chanting men march around a captured elephant tied to a tree. When the beast is giddy, a mahout jumps on and off its back. After several months, the elephant is ready for walks between two koomkies. Eventually, by force and example, it learns to follow orders given by its rider in the form of subtle pressure by knee, heel or toe on the animal's ears or shoulders.

Trainers say that elephant cows, especially young ones, are more alert and easier to teach than males. After 30 the beasts are considered too old to learn new tricks. But all work elephants

HODGENVILLE

Robert Hodgen erected a mill on his land in Larue county about 1789. In addition to operating the mill and farm, he ran a tavern or "ordinary," where many notables were entertained including the French botanist, Michaux, Louis Philippe and his brother in 1797. After Hodgen died in 1810, the settlement which had sprung up around his tavern was named "Hodgenville" in his honor.

Egg Nog In Holiday Mood!

GAY and festive, egg nog fits into all the parties of the holiday season. The traditional drink, available in the market ready to use from Thanksgiving through New Year's makes entertaining easy.
Serve it just as it comes from the carton in a bowl or pitcher, garnished with whipped cream or scoops of ice cream.

Egg nog is a luscious ingredient too for many unusual holiday desert dishes. Egg Nog Cheese Cake with Cranberry Topping is a delicious version of the classic cheese cake, created by Sealtest
Kitchens. Here's how to make it:
Egg Nog Cheese Cake
With Cranberry Topping
Crust:
1 cup zwieback
1 cup sugar
2 tsp. sugar
1/2 tsp. ground
nutmeg
2 tsp. melted
butter
Filling:
4 cups creamed
cottage cheese
Crust: Combine crumbs, 2 tsp.
of sugar, and 1/2 tsp. ground nutmeg with melted butter; press firmly onto the bottom of a 9" spring form pan. Bake in a moderate oven 325°, 10 min. Cool.

Filling: Beat cheese slightly — just enough to break curds. Blend in 1/2 cup of sugar, flour, and salt.
Add unbeaten egg yolks, 1/2 tsp.
nutmeg, vanilla and rum flavoring.
Stir in Egg Nog. Beat the mixture vigorously until quite smooth — about 10 min.
Beat egg whites until foamy. Add remaining 1/2 cup of sugar a tablespoon at a time, beating well after each addition. Continue beating until mixture forms moist, shiny peaks. Fold into cheese-nog mixture. Gently pour the mixture over the crumb crust. Bake in moderate oven, 325°, 1 hr. 20 min. Remove from oven and cool on rack. Cover top of cake with cooled Cranberry Glaze. Chill thoroughly in refrigerator One 9" cake. 12 servings.
CRANBERRY GLAZE: Mix together in heavy saucepan, 3/4 cup sugar and 4 tsp. cornstarch. Add 1/2 cup cold water. Cook, stirring constantly, until mixture boils and clears. Boil mixture 5 min. longer, stirring occasionally. Add 2 cups washed, drained, fresh whole cranberries. Cook 5 min. more, stirring occasionally. Cool. 2 cups glaze. FNS

Hunters: Observe These Safety Rules!

A chronic hunter gets a certain urge and probably a license late every summer or early in the fall to tote a gun through the woods and pastures and prove what a good shot he is.

Wives do not always greet these seasons with as much enthusiasm as do the men folks, for they may be asked to prepare some unfamiliar and doubtful meat dishes. Of even greater concern to them is the question of whether or not they are to be wives or widows by the time hunting season is over.

Far too many hunters in their eagerness to bag the limit forget the safety rules and bag other hunters or themselves. Some over-anxious and under-intelligent ones take aim at anything that moves in the brush without waiting to see if it's wearing feathers, fur, or a sport jacket.

If there were a Society for the Prevention of Widows and Orphans of Careless Hunters, it would undoubtedly adopt as by-laws the ten commandments of firearm safety set forth by the National Rifle Association. These ten safety rules should be memorized by all hunters.

1. Treat every gun with the respect due a loaded gun. This is the cardinal rule of gun safety.

2. Carry only empty guns which are broken down or have the action open into your automobile, camp, and home.
3. Always be sure that the barrel and action are clear of obstructions.
4. Always carry your gun so that you can control the direction of the muzzle, even if you stumble.
5. Be sure of your target before you pull the trigger.

6. Never point a gun at anyone you do not want to shoot.
7. Never leave your gun unattended unless you unload it first.

8. Never climb a tree or a fence with a loaded gun.
9. Never shoot at a flat, hard surface or the surface of water.

Southern Bell Prepares For Rush

Because it's a great American tradition to spend Christmas Day at home, traffic slows down almost everywhere. That is, everywhere except at the Telephone Company, which naturally becomes a beehive of activity as people exchange greetings with friends and relatives wherever they may be.

What to expect in long distance telephone service here was explained yesterday by Harold Wiley, Manager of Southern Bell here. He thinks all records may be broken for Christmas traffic.

Every long distance operator in Kentucky—1,750 of them—will be on the job Christmas Eve and Christmas Day to handle holiday calls.

The Fulton Telephone office alone will have around 36 operators on duty. These operators are expected to complete 1,000 long distance calls for the people of Fulton in the 24 hour period.

PAINTED TREES

Paintsville, in Johnson county, was named for Paint Creek which early settlers found many large trees stripped of their bark and embellished with drawings of birds and animals, painted in red and black on the smooth under-trunk of the trees.

PIGS LIKE IT

Researchers in Iowa found that baby pigs definitely preferred saccharin (a sweet substance without sugar's food value) to sugar itself. In one test baby pigs made their best gains on starter containing a pound of saccharin per ton of ration and no sugar.

FOSTERIA

In 1825, a few months before Christy's Minstrels first sang, "My Old Kentucky Home," Stephen Collins Foster and his wife came down the river from Pittsburgh on their way to New Orleans. It is locally affirmed that on this trip Foster visited his cousin, John Rowan Jr. at Federal Hill near Bardstown and wrote the popular song.

Per-acre payment rates will be determined by County ASC committees. The rates will be based on the county "average" rate for all crops except tobacco, but they will vary among farms primarily according to the land's relative productivity. Mr. Vaughn urges Obion County farmers who intend to put land in either the Acreage Reserve or the Conservation Reserve to get their Soil Bank bases established as soon as possible. Contracts and agreements cannot be signed until after the base has been determined by the ASC office. The Chairman advises farmers to call at the County ASC office for answers to any questions they may have on the application of Soil Bank regulations to their individual farms.

VISITORS to Bermuda on Christmas Eve have an opportunity to witness a traditional Bermuda custom of the lighting of the Yule Log. Shown above acting out the ancient English ceremony are gaily costumed staff members of a Bermuda hotel. The log is placed in a fireplace and set aflame. Then guests toss sprigs of green, symbolizing the year's woes, into the fire to banish forever such bad luck.

Christ Is Making A Comeback

By Antoinette Bosco, contributor to Information and other magazines

PRE-CHRISTMAS 1956 was an encouraging season for those who would like to see Christ remembered on His birthday.

For instance, last year's greeting cards showing Madonnas, Wise Men, Nativity scenes and church designs were good sellers. More heartening signs came from Dayton, Ohio, where the Chamber of Commerce sponsored "Christ in Christmas" projects, including radio and television programs, restaurant prayer cards, and posters.

IN MANY PLACES church groups successfully urged leading stores to feature religious tableaux, such as the Manger scene, in Christmas windows which formerly were given over to Santa Claus and red-nosed Rudolph. Many communities featured outdoor Christmas pageants.

Even in Communist countries the Red chiefs found it necessary to make concessions to the religious feelings of the people. In spite of the Communist claim that the "Christmas Crib is disappearing", cribs with figures of the Holy Family were made, sold, and even exported. Familiar Christmas carols were sung everywhere, and the people flocked to churches for Christmas services.

THESE SIGNS of Christ's comeback contrast sharply with the action which goes on in many department store basements during the weeks before Christmas, in Santa-Claus-land. I took three of my children to see Santa Claus two years ago. After waiting forty-five minutes in a line, we reached a booth where a voice cried out, "Twenty-five cents per child! Have your money ready!" Fifty minutes later we were let through the rope to the inner sanctum where a skinny Santa with a scraggly cotton beard was sitting. My three-year-old refused to go near him.

"That's not Santa Claus," he said. "I don't like him." At that point, Santa waved his arm to the exit rope and said to me, "Here are the presents. We've got to hurry along." The department store Santa didn't make a very good impression on either myself or my children.

THERE IS a place for Santa Claus at Christmas time, though. The smiling little man adds to the happiness and festivity which mark the birthday of Christ. But we must keep him in his proper place, as a symbol of the generosity and goodness of God, a go-between for the Infant and His little children. Santa Claus without Christ is merely a paid delivery boy, as a Christmas tree without the Manger degenerates into a "pagan symbol."

IN CHARLESTON, S. C. last November, a child's letter addressed to Santa Claus had the following anxious message written on the envelope: "Mailman, if this doesn't get there in thirty days, please walk faster."

Last year we made good progress in the direction of the Christ child. Let's walk faster this year, as the child in his simplicity suggests, so that we'll all be on time for a loud, loving "Happy Birthday, dear Infant," on Christmas Day, 1957.

FROM THE FILES:-

TURNING BACK THE CLOCK -

December 24, 1937

Mr. and Mrs. John W. Reaves of Bristol, Oklahoma announce the birth of a daughter, born Saturday, December 18, in Bristol. Mrs. Reaves is the former Miss Rudelle Grissom of Fulton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carlos Grissom.

Mrs. Marguerite Cochran and little son will spend Friday night and Saturday in Covington, Tenn. with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. F. SaCoste.

Mrs. Leon Browder was hostess to her bridge club Tuesday at her home in East Fulton. Two tables of players included six regular club members and two visitors, Mrs. Leslie Weeks and Mrs. Harvey Boaz.

Miss Mayme Bennett delightfully entertained her weekly bridge club Thursday afternoon at her home on Carr Street. The home was beautifully decorated and the Christmas motif was cleverly carried out with attractive tallies and refreshments. The three tables of players included nine club members and three visitors: Mrs. Box Cox of Union City, Mrs. T. G. Lewis of Old Fork, N. C., and Miss Florence Martin, Bradford.

Mr. and Mrs. T. E. Norris, Misses Betty and Anna Jean Norris and Mrs. Mark Davidson will leave Friday night for Centralia, Ill. where they will spend Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Baker at their home there and Mr. Davidson of Sandoval, Ill.

Miss Agatha Gaylo, Mrs. James Robertson, Miss Martha Sue Robertson and Walter Voelpel spent Friday and Saturday in Nashville, Tenn., where they attended the graduation exercises of the Gup-ton-Jones Emblaming School. Mr. James Robertson is a member of the graduating class.

Mr. and Mrs. Presley Campbell announce the birth of an eight pound son, born Tuesday, Dec. 21, at the Fulton Hospital.

not to allow any Agricultural production, except for home use only, on his entire farm. This means, Chairman Vaughn said, that even land on the farm such as permanent pasture, which is in eligible for the program, can be used only by the farm operator for production of poultry or livestock for his own home use. The same applies to the use of any building on the farm. A farm garden for home use only also will be permitted.

Under regular Conservation Reserve procedure—which farmers may still use if they are not interested in the "bid" program—farmers are offered specific per-acre payments for all or any part of the eligible cropland on their farms put in the Conservation Reserve. These rates are established by their county and State ASC Committees.

All farmers are eligible to enter the Conservation Reserve, whether or not they have an acreage allotment for "basic" crops on their farms. To participate, they sign contracts with their county ASC committees to divert a certain acreage of cropland to conservation uses for periods of 3, 5, or 10 years. Under

5 and 10 year contracts they receive cost-sharing payments the year they put their land to a conservation use. Cost-share payments are not made under 3 year contracts. Under all contracts, annual per-acre rental payments are made each year the contracts are in force and complied with.

Under the trial "bid" program, the same cost-sharing payments will be made for putting Conservation Reserve land into soil, water, forestry, or wildlife conservation uses. However, the annual payments would be made at the rate "bid" by the farmer, provided the offer is accepted by USDA.

Chairman Vaughn emphasized that "bids" would be considered only on all eligible cropland on a farm, put into the Conservation Reserve for from 5 to 10 years. He said that maximum annual payments, limited to $5,000 under the regular Conservation Reserve program, will be increased to $10,000 under the "bid" procedure to enable larger farms to participate. If any of the eligible land on a farm put in the program under "bid" is to be planted to forest trees, the contract must be for a 10 year period.

Farmers who already have part of their farm in the Conservation Reserve may "bid" to put the remainder of eligible cropland in the program. If farmers already have land in the 1958 Acreage Reserve, the land will remain in that program until the end of the calendar year (1958) and then will become part of the Conservation Reserve if they put all of their eligible land under that program through the "bid" procedure.

Because they will be putting all eligible cropland on their farms in the Conservation Reserve, farmers who use the "bid" program will not have to wait for a Soil Bank base to be set for their farms. For this reason, Chairman Vaughn urged all interested farmers to submit their "bids" early, about the first of the year, when the county office will be ready to receive them and will have details of the program and procedure.

The CATHOLIC Woman Is Never In Doubt!

The Catholic woman, of course, has the same problems of living that other women have.

But she is never in doubt as to how to solve them. In every decision she makes... large and small... whether they occur in her adolescence or later on as a wife and mother... she can use the clearly defined principles of her Catholic Faith. Some will say that this is a form of "thought control" to which they would not submit. By the same reasoning, the Bible with its strict commandments guiding human behavior might also be called a form of thought control.

Women generally, of course, are opposed to divorce. Many of them regard it as a grave social evil. Catholic women not only share this view, but know that according to God's law, divorce with remarriage is a serious sin.

Catholic women may be tempted, at times, unlawfully to limit the number of their children to fit the family income. But the Church reminds them this is a violation of God's law. Likewise, the obligation to provide religious training for their children is not a matter of choice. It is a clear duty.

Sincere people of all faiths, it is true, are regular in their church attendance and conscious of their need to worship God. But for all Catholics, including women, these are regular obligations which they can never shirk. Attendance at Mass on Sundays and Holy Days, Confession and Communion at least once a year, and fasting and abstinence, are not merely religious exercises which a Catholic may observe or ignore. They constitute elements in the required Catholic "way of life." Catholics gladly choose this way because they believe that the Church... from Peter to the present day... speaks with the voice and authority of Christ. And believing this, they are never in doubt concerning moral and spiritual values... never at a loss for guidance and consolation.

Whether you are a woman or a man... married or single... it will be an interesting and moving experience for you to read our specially-prepared pamphlet describing the powerful impact of the Catholic Faith upon the life of a woman. It's yours for the asking—will be sent to you in a plain wrapper—and nobody will call on you. Write today for Pamphlet KC-44.

Entire Tennessee Farms Can Be Put In Soil Bank, ASC Announces

FOR USE IN TENNESSEE

Farmers in all Tennessee counties will have an opportunity to submit "bids" stating the amount of annual per-acre rental payments they are willing to accept for putting all eligible cropland on their farms in the Conservation Reserve of the Soil Bank. C. C. Vaughn, chairman of the county Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation committee announced today. Such bids, of course, would be subject to acceptance offers, the chairman explained.

While the county ASC committee does not yet have full instructions as to regulations and procedure, Tennessee is one of four States in the Nation selected to try the experimental "bid" procedure for land put in the Conservation Reserve. (The other States are Maine, Illinois, and Nebraska.) Mr. Vaughn said that he expects to have full details of the new procedure by the first of the year and will be prepared to receive bids at that time. The "bid" program will be available only from January 2 until January 1, 1958, although the sign-up under the regular Conservation Reserve program, which is still in effect, runs until April 15, 1958.

In general, Chairman Vaughn said, the experimental "bid" program would operate as follows: Farmers will make offers, on a dollars-and-cents basis, of the rate of annual payment per acre they would be willing to accept to put their eligible cropland in the Conservation Reserve. The "bid" must cover all eligible cropland in the Conservation Reserve. The "bid" must cover all eligible cropland on their farms and must be for a 5 to 10 year period. The decision whether to accept a "bid" will be made by the U. S. Department of Agriculture through the county ASC committee. The government reserves the right to reject any or all "bids." Purpose of the program is to determine whether the "bid" procedure will help more farmers to shift cropland from production to conservation uses.

If a farmer's bid is accepted and his farm goes in the Conservation Reserve, he must agree not to allow any Agricultural production, except for home use only, on his entire farm. This means, Chairman Vaughn said, that even land on the farm such as permanent pasture, which is in eligible for the program, can be used only by the farm operator for production of poultry or livestock for his own home use. The same applies to the use of any building on the farm. A farm garden for home use only also will be permitted.

Under regular Conservation Reserve procedure—which farmers may still use if they are not interested in the "bid" program—farmers are offered specific per-acre payments for all or any part of the eligible cropland on their farms put in the Conservation Reserve. These rates are established by their county and State ASC Committees.

All farmers are eligible to enter the Conservation Reserve, whether or not they have an acreage allotment for "basic" crops on their farms. To participate, they sign contracts with their county ASC committees to divert a certain acreage of cropland to conservation uses for periods of 3, 5, or 10 years. Under

1795—ELIHU BARKER'S MAP OF KENTUCKY

The first edition of this early map was published in Philadelphia under the title, "A Map of Kentucky from an Actual Survey," by Elihu Barker. Several years earlier, the original unpublished Barker map was advertised for sale in a pioneer newspaper as, "A large and elegant engraved map of the State of Kentucky." Though Barker's map was preceded by several others (including Filson's), it was the first really accurate map of our State of Kentucky.

In Kentucky's historic past, just as today, many of our citizens have always enjoyed a glass of beer. The brewing industry makes jobs for thousands of our residents. The sale of this light, bright beverage of moderation under orderly conditions is an important objective of the United States Brewers Foundation. Our continuing educational program helps beer retailers maintain their high standards.

Cheetah Holds The Record As Nature's Speed King

Ever since the dawn of the human race, men and animals have been running from and after each other.

The odds haven't improved. One of man's finest achievements on foot is running the mile in less than four minutes, an average speed of about 15 miles an hour. Compared to the grand champions of track and field, Homo sapiens hardly gets away from the starting line.

The cheetah, or hunting leopard, accelerates to a speed of 45 miles in two seconds — a feat that man can scarcely match in his fastest racing car. And when the cheetah really goes into high gear, it proceeds at some 70 mph — a speed that would interest all but the most lenient patrolmen on modern expressways.

It is small wonder that Indians tame the amiable cheetah as a hunting companion. The long-legged cat tires in 400 or 500 yards, however, and depends upon out-pacing its quarry in the first lightning thru., the National Geographic Society says.

Such sprinters as the Mongolian gazelle combine extreme speed with endurance. Explorer Roy Chapman Andrews reported clocking these gazelles at 60 miles an hour in the Gobi. One was tallied by car for 20 minutes at an average pace of 40 mph.

"Then he quit because he was so darned surprised that anything on earth could keep up with him," Dr. Andrews said. "When we reached him he was squatting flat on the sand waiting, not winded a particle."

Numerous speedsters have been similarly clocked. Among the top runners are pronghorn antelope (American champion), the black-buck, springbok, lion, wildebeest, Thomson's gazelle, race horse,

FACTS ABOUT DANIEL BOONE ARE UNKNOWN TO MOST CITIZENS TODAY

Daniel Boone is a name recognized by all Kentuckians but it is a safe guess that few could recount much of the history of this man so important to the Commonwealth.

Boone, (minus a coonskin cap — historians agree he shunned it for a black felt type) personifies the frontiersman the fearless hunter and explorer who created the mold into which Davy Crockett, Kit Carson, Paul Bryan and many other real and imaginary heroes were poured.

The Boone saga as studied by every school child is basically true in its broad outline and even without embellishment, it has a storybook ring.

Boone was one of 11 children born to Squire and Sarah Morgan Boone, English Quakers who lived in Pennsylvania. Daniel attended only briefly a school taught by his uncle where he acquired the bare fundamentals of an education. From boyhood Boone acquired the ability to "think Indian" an asset he put to good use later. In 1750, the Boones moved to Virginia and then to North Carolina and in a short time Daniel was exploring the forests which spread out across the mountains to the West.

As early as 1753, Boone had explored along the river between Kentucky and Virginia and there are indications that in 1767, he entered Kentucky down the headwaters of the Levisa Fork of the Big Sandy River.

After being turned back in his first effort to move his and five other families to Kentucky, Boone met with the Cherokee Indians, in 1773, and bought land on the Kentucky River. He then undertook to carve a road from the settlements in the Yadkin River Valley, in North Carolina, through the Wilderness to the Kentucky River, where he and his party erected Fort Boonesboro.

As life became more settled along the frontier, Boone was elected to represent Kentucky's

Fayette County in the Virginia Legislature, in 1781. After his term expired, Boone moved to Missouri, where he died in 1818 at the age of 86. The explorer and his wife are buried in a single grave in Frankfort Cemetery, on the banks of his beloved Kentucky River.

Northern Fur Seals Flourish Under Renewed Guardianship

Fur seals of the North Pacific always winter in the south and go home for the summer. Therein lies a story of near-tragedy. This homing instinct makes things so easy for fur-hunters that the seals would be as dead as dodos were it not for a historic pact that has been newly revised.

Top-hatted diplomats of the United States, Russia, Japan, and Great Britain (representing Canada) took the seals' plight to heart in 1911, and four-power guardianship stopped their relentless slaughter. Now the four protective powers have signed a new agreement. It reapportions each nation's share of the limited annual harvest and provides for a broad new study of seal life financed from revenue.

Northern fur seals are known to science as Callorhinus ursinus, the National Geographic Society says. These warm-blooded creatures have milk glands and lungs, but they are champion swimmers capable of staying at sea all winter and migrating 5,000 miles.

Since time unknown, the seals have flocked back to the isles of their birth to breed. Most converge on the Pribilofs (U. S.) in the Bering Sea. Smaller populations summer on the Commander Islands (Russia) and Robben Island, Japanese-held until the end of World War II.

Dark bulls come first to stake out homesteads on the rocky beaches and hillsides. They fight, feud, and fuss to hold their claims.

Then, as spring turns to summer, each day brings waves of silver-brown cows, heavy with young conceived the previous year. Each waiting bull rounds up the largest possible harem; the biggest and bravest may win a hundred "wives". Weak males and those too young to mate gather in forlorn bands.

The age-old rhythm of herd life begins. On arrival each gravid cow gives birth to a roly-poly, sleek black pup. Mating takes place anew. The mothers alternately feed their babies and put out to sea for week-long fishing trips. Gorged with creamy milk, the pups sleep and learn to swim.

The bulls? Harassed beyond all reason. The job of guarding a huge harem from poachers keeps the "beachmasters" so busy that they have time neither to feed nor

DEATHS

Mrs. Clara Christia

Mrs. Clara Russell Christia of Long Beach, Calif., died at her home suddenly at 6 p. m. Tuesday, Dec. 17. She was 73.

Mrs. Christia was born May 10, 1884 in Graves County, Ky., and had been native of California for the past 52 years. She was a very active member of the Unity Church in Long Beach, and also belonged to the Eastern Star.

Mrs. Christia leaves her husband, Rupert Christia; her mother, Mrs. Alice Farmer of Fulton; two sisters, Mrs. Bernice Walker of Akron, Ohio and Mrs. Reed McAlister of Fulton; six nieces, Mrs. Carl Weeks of Mayfield, Mrs. Carmi Page of Fulton, Mrs. Wayne Campbell of Detroit, Mrs. Leonard Hankins of Detroit, Mrs. Thurmon McNeill of Whittier, Calif., and Mrs. Mary Jane Cone of Akron, Ohio; and four nephews, Curtis McAlister of Fulton, Thomas Jackson of Mayfield, Russell Walker and Neil Jr., Walker, both of Akron.

A brother, Chester B. Russell

sleep. At summer's end, they are nervous wrecks, rib-lean and combat-scarred.

Winter gales drive the seals from the islands. Cows and young males fan out as far south as Mexican waters. Pups cope for themselves; many are eaten by killer whales or die in storms. Bulls tend to stay in Alaska waters, no doubt to get a good start on the islands in spring.

The bulls' prodigious role in herd life makes possible the harvesting of seals. From 60,000 to 70,000 Pribilof bachelor-males can be taken for their plush undercoats each year without affecting the herd's size. Average gross value: $5,000,000.

Pribilof seals probably numbered 4,000,000 when the United States bought the islands — and Alaska — from Russia in 1867. But schooner after schooner prowled the northern waters, killing the animals at sea as well as in rookeries. The ruthless, get-rich-quick business resulted in the murder of sealers as well as seals. By 1911 the total herd had declined to 150,000 and faced extinction. Now it is stabilized at 1,500,000.

When Christmas is over . . . may the blessings of the season linger long . . . yes, linger with you until another Holiday rolls 'round once more.

This is the wish of all of us for all of you.
