The Largest Conservatory of Music in the World

20th Century Method of Teaching

A new, simplified, short and easy method of learning music on the piano, violin or any other instrument. The student is taught to play the grand and symphony pieces as they are written. No previous knowledge of music is necessary. Naturally learned.

Soldiers, attention!

A new method of teaching music is about to be introduced in this country. It is known as the "20th Century Method of Teaching." This method is designed to teach music to anyone, regardless of age or previous knowledge, in a short period of time.

The Conservatory of Music in the World

A new conservatory of music has opened its doors to students of all ages and backgrounds. The conservatory offers a wide range of courses, from beginner to advanced levels, to help students develop their musical talents.

CHAPTER VI

The audience was quite subdued, and it was evident that the performance was not going to appeal to the general public. The characters were well adapted, and the acting was good, but the play was obvious and flat. The dialogue was stiff and heavy, and the plot was too complicated. It was a poor imitation of a Shakespearean drama, and it was evident that the author had not thoroughly studied the works of the bard.

The stage was set in the style of the Elizabethan era. The costumes were rich and elaborate, and the lighting was done with a great deal of care. The actors were well chosen, and they possessed a good deal of stage experience. The performance was well paced, and it held the attention of the audience.

The story was about a young woman who was abandoned by her lover and left penniless. She was forced to work as a servant in a wealthy household, and she was treated with cruelty and neglect. Eventually, she was rescued by a kind-hearted man who took her under his wing and helped her to overcome her difficulties.

The play was well received by the critics, and it was praised for its acting and direction. However, it was not a commercial success, and it did not have a long run.

The author, Harold McGrath, was a popular playwright in the early 20th century. He wrote several successful plays, including "The Man on the Box," which was adapted into a film and a Broadway musical.

The play was performed at the Palace Theatre in New York City, and it opened on October 15, 1906. The cast included Millie Trench, John Barrymore, and Ethel Jackson.

Talmage Sermon

By Rev.

Talmage, Dr. Elbert Green, D.D.

Last Sunday, Col. Harvey in the Future Life, said something which will probably excite the amazement of some who are acquainted with the public awakening of the past year.

Mr. Talmage was speaking of the importance of the Christian life, and how much more important it is to live the Christian life than to preach about it.

He said, "The Christian life is not a matter of what we say, but of what we do. It is not a matter of what we believe, but of what we live.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for others, not what we say about other people.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for the poor, not what we say about the rich.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for the sick, not what we say about the healthy.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for the hungry, not what we say about the full.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for the oppressed, not what we say about the powerful.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for the downtrodden, not what we say about the exalted.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for the wronged, not what we say about the right.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for the suffering, not what we say about the happy.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for the forgotten, not what we say about the remembered.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for the lost, not what we say about the saved.

The Christian life is a matter of what we do for those who are not, not what we say about those who are.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say, but of what we do.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we believe, but of what we live.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say about other people, but of what we do for them.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say about the rich, but of what we do for the poor.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say about the healthy, but of what we do for the sick.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say about the full, but of what we do for the hungry.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say about the powerful, but of what we do for the oppressed.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say about the exalted, but of what we do for the downtrodden.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say about the right, but of what we do for the wronged.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say about the saved, but of what we do for the lost.

The Christian life is not a matter of what we say about the remembered, but of what we do for the forgotten.

Our Beauty Show

With 200 beautiful pattern hats—each one a charming style idea—brought out especially for us—in all their glorious loveliness; with ten pretty and wonderfully clever young ladies to help select and suggest becoming and wearable hats, our Millinery Opening; Wednesday and Thursday, March 20 and 21, can rightly be termed Hopkinsville’s Beauty Show. Many of these hats are the product of the swellest pattern parlors of Chicago and New York scores were created in our own work room—all are masterpieces of handsome designing. Our great buying advantages, coupled with the inspired genius of Miss Schroeder, make it possible for “fashion to meet economy” here and bring out hats of wonderful loveliness and place them on a price-level with commonplace hats. We intend that the interest in our millinery department will be so strengthened that the ladies will not be able to forget that the “center of style and the economy center” of Hopkinsville is right here in this store, Miss Cayce, whose skill and wonderful knack in suggesting becoming hats is known all over this county—with her assistants—will have charge of the salesroom. All the new spring things are here in Ladies Suits, Skirts, Dry Goods, Shoes and Clothing and you will do well to remember that Easter comes in March this year and you have no time to lose.

Come to the Opening—Come the First Day—Wednesday, March 20th
