DIRECTGO
Will Make the SEASON OF 1907 and 1908 at VAN CLEVE'S FARM

You have a chance to breed to a horse that is a natural fast horse and is closer kin to more fast horses than any other person's horse; a real race and road horse. His colts are sure enough good ones; they have that bold easy way of going that causes so many of the family to trot and pace in 2:03 and 2:05. Look at your book and you can see how many have been 2:10. Direcgo is the only son of the Director that is standing for less than $50 a season. He is just as good and his colts will be heard from later. I also have

Chapter VI.

The next day was Monday. Miss Hawkin's large house was closed, and the maid was at work, and the maids were at work. The maids had all been dressed in a workman-like manner, and the maids were at work. The maids were all young girls, and they were all at work.

It was a rainy day, and the rain fell in great sheets. The rain fell on the roof of the house, and it fell on the windows. The rain fell on the trees, and it fell on the grass. The rain fell on everything.

It was a cold day, and the cold air was bitter. The cold air was sharp and keen. The cold air was like a knife. The cold air was like a sword.

The cold air was like a knife, and it cut the flesh. The cold air was like a sword, and it pierced the body. The cold air was like a knife, and it cut the skin. The cold air was like a sword, and it pierced the flesh.

The cold air was like a knife, and it cut the bones. The cold air was like a sword, and it pierced the bones. The cold air was like a knife, and it cut the bones. The cold air was like a sword, and it pierced the bones.

It was a day of sadness, and it was a day of sorrow. It was a day of tears, and it was a day of wailing. It was a day of mourning, and it was a day of grief.

It was a day of sadness, and it was a day of sorrow. It was a day of tears, and it was a day of wailing. It was a day of mourning, and it was a day of grief.

It was a day of sadness, and it was a day of sorrow. It was a day of tears, and it was a day of wailing. It was a day of mourning, and it was a day of grief.

It was a day of sadness, and it was a day of sorrow. It was a day of tears, and it was a day of wailing. It was a day of mourning, and it was a day of grief.
Get Ready For Easter NOW!

The splendid success of our Millinery Opening yesterday is a source of great gratification to us. And encouraged by the flood of compliments given this department of our great store yesterday, we are determined to make our Millinery department the pleasure resort of the shopping center of Hopkinsville. It could not be otherwise with this tremendous stock of millinery bought direct from the importers and the American factories--thus saving all middle men's profits; with a frummer whose natural genius is a marvel and whose experience and opportunities have been the best America could offer—and with a salesforce enthusiastically in love with millinery and splendidly equipped by a long and conscientious study of the wants of the Hopkinsville trade. The orders already placed indicate a tremendous rush just before Easter, and we make a special request that you place your order as early as possible to insure prompt delivery. If you have in mind any special design or color, we are prepared to fill your order, it matters not how "freakish" or uncommon it may appear.

The Life of the Redeemer.

POMPEII.—(Continued.)

The centurion of my text was not a man of high birth. He had risen by his own efforts from the lower ranks of the Roman army and that he was a centurion of some importance is shown by his being able to purchase a large house in the center of Rome. The centurion was a man of good character, and his wife was a virtuous woman. The centurion was so impressed with the preaching of the Redeemer that he became a Christian and sent his son to be brought up in the faith of the new religion. The centurion was later martyred for his faith.

The centurion's wife was also a Christian, and she was able to give her son a good education in the religion of Jesus. The centurion's son was one of the first converts to Christianity in Rome, and he became a prominent leader in the early Christian church.

The centurion's son was later taken prisoner by the Roman army and was brought before the centurion. The centurion was not able to recognize his son, but the son was able to recognize his father. The centurion was so moved by his son's presence that he was able to forgive him and to turn him over to the Roman authorities for punishment.

The centurion's wife was also able to recognize her son, and she was able to comfort him. The centurion's son was later released from captivity and was able to return to Rome, where he continued to serve the Redeemer and to witness to others about his faith.

The centurion's son was later martyred for his faith, but his faith and testimony were an inspiration to many others. The centurion's wife was later widowed, but she continued to serve the Redeemer and to witness to others about his faith.
